No. 1. Retail Dealers must not (the owner or self or offer for sale, either directly or indirectly, Edison Phonographs or parts thereof, Records or Blanks at a discount, or at less than current list prices, nor to Dealers who have not an established store and stock. Phonographs at list price can extra material or supplies not listed to go with same as a regular outfit. When other goods are included with an Edison Phonograph or Records and are advertised or sold as an outfit at a special or fixed price, the price of the Phonograph or Records must be not less than the regular list price in the outfit, not listed as part of the regular Phonograph outfit, must be given and must be the same whether included in an outfit or sold separately. Edison Phonographs or parts thereof, Records or Blanks must not be disposed of as premiums, nor by lottery, raffle or game of chance, or in other ways or by means whereby any person or persons may acquire such goods for less than the full current list prices.

No. 2. Gluing away or selling other goods at less than regular prices forbidden. The trading stamp, coupon or other similar plan in order to induce the sale of Edison Phonographs or parts thereof, Records or Blanks, will be a violation of the conditions hereof.

No. 3. All Edison Phonographs leave a or (if sealed), all Edison Records are boxed and inclosed with copyright and registered tickets and labels, and any Retail Dealer, selling or offering for sale an Edison Phonograph the serial number upon which has been removed or changed, or Records which have had the copyright and registered label and ticket, throughout the patents under which Phonographs and Records are sold, and will be considered as having violated the AGREEMENT.

No. 4. Exchanges Edison Phonographs or parts thereof, Records or Blanks in whole or part payment for advertising privileges, or for goods of some other make or nature; or the acceptance of goods or merchandise of other make or nature in whole or part payment for Edison Phonographs or parts thereof, Records or Blanks is contrary to the conditions hereof. Dealers are prohibited the acceptance of a talking machine at full list price, if good as new, for less cost of necessary repairs to make good as new) in exchange for an Edison Phonograph sold at full retail list price; it is further prohibited the acceptance of Records of any kind, at any price, in exchange for Edison Phonographs Records or Blanks.

No. 5. The selling or offering for sale of Edison Phonographs, or parts thereof, Records or Blanks that have become shop-worn or in any way damaged, or have been taken in exchange for second-hand Phonographs, or parts thereof, Records or Blanks, at reduced prices, will be considered a cutting of prices and will not be allowed.

No. 6. Exchanges between Dealers. Authorized Dealers in the 10th Congress, may be allowed to borrow from any other authorized Dealer, provided the goods so borrowed are actually replaced with goods of the same style and make. In case a sale takes place between two Dealers, it must be at full list prices.

No. 7. Sales for export. Edison Phonographs, Records and Blanks are sold to Jobbers and Dealers in the United States with the express reservation that such goods shall not be sold to Jobbers and Dealers outside of the United States, nor for export from the United States except at full list prices.

No. 8. Failure to observe any of the above conditions, or failing to pay accounts due the National Phonograph Company, may be at once cut off from any further supply of goods and placed on the suspended list.

No. 9. ALL EDISON Phonographs, Records and Blanks are sold to Jobbers and Dealers upon the express condition that the license to use said royal them, implied from such sale, is dependent on the observance by the vendee of all the foregoing conditions; upon the breach of any of said conditions the license to use or vend said Phonographs, Records and Blanks automatically ceases and terminates, and the further use, handling or vending of said goods, and any is prevented against by suit for injunction or damages, or both.

No. 10. No variation of these terms and conditions, and no representations or agreements made by any employee of the National Phonograph Company, will be valid unless ratified in writing by its President or Secretary.

The foregoing matter refers only to goods sold in the United States. In Canadian territory Records will be sold at 40 cents each and all other goods will be subject to an additional charge for duty.

GREATEST NIGHT OF FUN.

We gave a concert on an Edison Home machine to a prominent young man's club, known as the Y. M. L. A., last Wednesday evening, July 13, 1904. We played the complete July list for them. They went wild over it, for when we played No. 8742, "A Bit o' Blarney," they marched all over the parlors and threw their hats into the air. They say it was the greatest night of fun they ever had, and want us to give them another one when the August Records arrive.

HOW TO DETERMINE IMITATION AIR HOLES IN RECORDS.

The information given below has been prepared by experts at our factory and is offered as a guide to Jobbers and Dealers in determining to their own satisfaction whether or not Records returned by their customers as defective on account of air holes (heretofore commonly termed pin holes) appearing on the surface, are caused in the process of manufacture or are the result of intentional injury with a sharp pointed instrument, such as a pin, needle or lead pencil.

A genuine blow or air hole which appears on the surface before the Record has been played appears under a glass to have regular edges and is of an oval or elliptical form, and invariably appears lengthwise of the Record, the cavity beneath the surface being larger than the opening at the surface and the bottom of the cavity is not discernible.

After the reproducer button has passed over this opening a number of times the edges become ragged and irregular in form and the sapphire carries the minute particles of wax which have become detached from the edges over the track of the Record, causing a scar which can be plainly seen.

The hole that has been made in imitation of an air hole does not show any of the above characteristics; on the contrary the edges have a burred appearance, the wax being forced above the surface of the Record, the cavity appears in circular form, the walls of the hole present a shiny appearance and converge to a point at the bottom of the cavity, which can be easily seen. In a great many instances the hole shows the marks of the instrument with which the injury was made and a number of cases show that the insertion of the instrument has raised and slivered or chipped the wax.

In the examination of these Records where the use of a microscope is not available we suggest the use of a jeweler's glass, and feel assured that when the trade becomes familiar with the characteristics of the genuine and imitation air holes further impositions of this nature will cease.

COMPOSERS' NAMES ADDED.

A new feature of the forthcoming Domestic Record Catalogue will be the addition of the composers' names to the various titles. These have been inserted without making it necessary to omit any of the matter heretofore contained in the Record Catalogue. The composers' names have been added wherever it has been possible to get them, and efforts will be made to supply the missing ones from time to time in the future. The present Record Catalogue Form No. 545 contains the titles of the Records that have been cut out, and Jobbers and Dealers will find it advantageous to continue their use for the sale of these Records as long as their present supply lasts. The new catalogue will contain all titles listed to and including August. The omission of five months' titles does not materially affect the value of the present catalogue, especially when the new titles can be supplied by Supplements. We must cut down orders for Record Catalogues as they come in until the middle of August in order that the trade may not have on hand many of the present edition when the new one appears. Jobbers may send in orders at any time for the new catalogue, but it will not be possible to send large quantities to them at one time, and we must reserve the right to make partial shipments on such orders.

THE WHOLE TRADE AWAKE AND HUSTLING.

Most gratifying was the up-to-date and progressive manner in which the Jobbers and Dealers in Edison goods throughout the country appeared before the public with advertisements of the reduced price of Edison Records as soon as they were advised of the fact. The notice of the change was sent out on July 16th and the following day the papers in all the large cities in which the Jobbers are located contained striking advertisements announcing the reduction. The papers in other cities continued the announcement on the following Monday and they have since been appearing with surprising regularity in most of the daily papers. It is doubtful if to-day many users of the Phonograph are not aware of the reduced price of Edison Records. Many Dealers have gotten out printed matter in various styles. Cards, folders, blotters, circular letters and many other forms have been employed to advise the public of the new price. It is apparent that Jobbers and Dealers are determined to do a largely increased business under the new conditions. We should like to acknowledge individually the receipt of the papers and literature that have been sent to us by Dealers advertising the new price, but the list is too large; it includes the names of nearly every progressive Edison Dealer throughout the country.

NEW CARTON AND NEW STYLE MARKING.

The samples of the August Records sent to all Jobbers early in July were packed in the new style Record carton. They were also lettered on the end with the new style marking. The entire outfit has been warmly commended by Edison Jobbers everywhere. One or two imperfections in the making of the box have been pointed out and will be remedied. The entire list of the August selections will be shipped out in the new boxes and with the new style marking. The new box is slightly over 9¾ inches in diameter and is 4¾ inches long. The cover and bottom are countersunk so as to hold the Record firmly in place when placed over the spindle inside. The new box bears a handsome new style label printed in black, red and gold and has a small circular label on the lid upon which is placed the number of the Record. The number is also shown on the side label.

As announced last month, selections already listed will be changed over to conform with the new improvements as rapidly as is possible, but it will take several months to complete the changes on the entire list. It will be impossible to inform the trade what particular selections will be changed over from time to time and we will be compelled, therefore, to reserve the right to fill any and all orders received in the meantime with Records both of the old and new styles of marking and boxed in the old and new style cartons.

DEALERS SHOULD SIGN PROMPTLY.

The supply of the new Retail Dealers Agreements, Form No. 590, sent to all Jobbers is sufficient to permit them to re-sign all of their present Dealers and have a quantity on hand for new business. A further supply may be had for the asking. No index cards are being sent with the Agreements and Jobbers will not be required to fill out and return one except in the case of a new Dealer or an old one signing under new conditions, such as new address, etc. Dealers will keep themselves on our mailing list and will accommodate their Jobbers and ourselves by signing the new Agreement as soon as they receive it and returning the proper copies without delay. Before doing so carefully read the Agreement and the notice attached to it. Make sure that every clause is fully understood. After sufficient time has elapsed the name of every present Dealer who has not signed the new Agreement will be removed from our files and mailing list. To get names restored after this has been done will cause extra trouble to every one. Jobbers are urged to see that all of their Dealers are able to meet the conditions requiring them to have an established store and to carry a stock of Edison goods sufficient for exhibition and sale purposes. Without a proper store and a suitable supply of Phonographs and Records a satisfactory and profitable business cannot be done, and in making this clause even stronger than it was in the present Agreement, we are seeking to advance the interest of all concerned, the Dealer himself most of all. Dealers who sign with us direct are asked to sign and mail the proper copies of the Agreement sent them, addressing it to New York or Chicago according to the territory in which they are located. Business in Edison goods in the next six months is going to break all records and Dealers should leave nothing undone to get their share. So sign the new Agreement at once.

Owing to the duty, a special Agreement is necessary for Canadian Dealers, and it will be a little later in reaching the trade there than the United States Agreement reaches Dealers here. Until Dealers have had an opportunity to sign the new Agreement the old Agreement remains in force except in the matter of prices.

HOW TO HANDLE NEW AGREEMENT.

Dealers: When the new agreement reaches you, read it carefully, date and sign each copy and have your signature WITNESSED. If you deal through a Jobber, return to him the copies marked "Original" and "Duplicate." Retain the copy marked "Triplicate" for your future reference. If you deal direct with this Company send the copy marked "Original" to office from which it was mailed, and return "Duplicate."

Jobbers: When dealers return Original and Duplicate copies to you, send us the Original and retain the Duplicate for your files. Be sure that they are properly dated and witnessed before returning Original to us.

WHERE TO SEND ORDERS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

All Dealers in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma Territory, New Mexico and Indian Territory who are buying goods direct from this company are asked to send all orders and address all correspondence to our Chicago office. All of the direct business in these States is handled at Chicago, and to send orders or address correspondence to any other place involves a loss of time, for all papers if received at New York are returned to Chicago. Time will be saved by sending them direct to Chicago.

Dealers in Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, California, Utah and Arizona should send orders and address correspondence to Peter Bacigalupi, 786-788 Mission street, San Francisco. Orders can be filled from there with great saving in freight charges, and correspondence will have better attention.

Direct Dealers in all other States of the Union should send orders and correspondence to the New York office. Jobbers should also send orders to New York office. It is a mistake to think that orders will receive better attention if sent to the factory at Orange, N. J. Every order sent there is returned to the New York office and causes a loss of time rather than a saving. Orders sent to the New York office get the best possible attention. We have an open telephone wire between the factory and the New York office four times daily, and send a messenger from New York to the factory at noon and night, every day. No matter how urgent an order may be, it will have immediate attention. Our system requires that all orders shall pass through the New York office, and the trade will get better service if they bear this fact in mind.

PRINTED MATTER.

We have just mailed to the entire trade a hanger announcing the reduced price of Records and a number of circulars of the same purport. The hanger is for temporary use by Dealers. We have also sent to every Jobber throughout the country a large supply of these circulars and a show card printed on cardboard, both of which we are asking them to distribute to their Dealers. Being printed on cardboard the show cards cannot be mailed.

The circulars are of an inexpensive character and were intentionally printed in this way in order that they might be used in liberal quantities by all Dealers. The number of these sent to each Jobber is sufficient to allow him to distribute them freely. Dealers are urged to get a supply of these circulars and at least one of the show cards and see that every one in their territory knows that the price of Edison Gold Moulded Records has been reduced to 35 cents. Now that the price has been reduced we want the fullest possible publicity concerning it. Along with the above circulars and hangers we have mailed a new lithographed hanger, Form 573. It is not a work of art, but is designed to catch the eye of the public and call their attention in another way to the Edison Phonograph. A reasonable additional number of these copies will be supplied to Jobbers upon request. They should know, however, that a copy has been mailed to every Dealer and they will only need a supply for such of their Dealers as need an extra copy or two and for new Dealers.

A WORD TO CANADIAN AND FOREIGN DEALERS.

Matter published in the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY is prepared for the trade in the United States. Canadian Dealers should always bear in mind that an amount equal to the duty into their country should be added to any prices that may appear in these columns. Dealers in foreign countries, who may receive or see copies of this publication, should also remember that unless otherwise written it treats only of trade conditions here.

COMMENTS ON SEPTEMBER RECORDS.

In the advance list of Edison Gold Moulded Records for September, published in full on page two and referred to in detail below, there are many interesting and attractive selections, notwithstanding that July (the month in which the list was made up), is the mid-season month in the matter of musical attractions. The light opera and musical comedy companies have not yet begun their fall season and the music publishers are not yet ready to put their new compositions before the public. Consequently there is not the same amount of material to select from that there will be two months hence. Advantage has been taken of this fact to put out a few selections for which our patrons and the trade have been asking for some time. Among these are "Old Folks at Home," "Dixie," "In the Gloaming," and "The Maple Leaf Forever." To thousands of Phonograph owners these selections will appeal more strongly than most songs of the present day. They belong to the class of music that never loses its hold upon the public, no matter how old the songs may be. At the same time our Recording Department has listed a varied lot of new music. The entire list is made in the best style of this department, which never stands still but ever improves.

No. 8721, "Algonquin March," is a composition written by Frank R. Seltzer, leader of the Edison Military Band, by whom the Record is made. The selection includes a bell solo and is notable for the tuba and trombone execution. It is a bright clear Record. It gets its name from the Algonquin Club of New York City.

No. 8775, "Tipperaroe," is a comic song in which William Gould has made a great success in "The Southerners." It is sung for our Record by Bob Roberts, and has an orchestra accompaniment. This song and Record are destined to have wide popularity. Harry H. Williams is the writer of the words and Egbert Van Alstyne is the composer of the music.

No. 8776, "How Can I Leave Thee?" is a charming contralto and basso duet of Cramer's well known ballad by Miss Morgan and Mr. Stanley. An orchestra accompanies the singers. The duet Records of these artists are greatly admired.

No. 8777, "The Russian Story," is a unique composition that will meet the approval of lovers of fine music. It is played by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. This selection was written before the present war was begun and therefore has no connection with it; in fact, the music is quite different from anything of a warlike character. A 'cello solo is a feature. The composer is George H. Wilder.

No. 8778, "Please Come and Play in My Yard," is a descriptive sentimental song, with orchestra accompaniment, by Byron G. Harlan. It tells how two little girls, one rich and the other poor, who lived in adjoining houses, became acquainted and invited each other to play. Mr. Harlan sings it splendidly. The words of this song are by Edward Madden and the music by Theodore Morse.

No. 8779, "A Bit o' Blarney," was given in the July list as a selection by the Edison Concert Band, being played as a two-step. This number is a vocal selection by Edward M. Favor and has an orchestra accompaniment. No more charming selection in Irish dialect has ever been made for the Phonograph. "A Bit o' Blarney" is a delightful composition. It is written in an artistic manner, and the words are as satisfactory as the music. The words and music of this song were written by Steelen and Helf. It is now being sung with marked success in "A Little of Everything," a New York City success.

No. 8780, "Karama," is a selection by Vivian Grey (Miss Mabel McKinley), who calls it a Jap-rhapsody. Miss McKinley is well known as the composer of "Amona," and "Little Dolly Dridtwood." "Karama" is played as a banjo solo by Vess L. Ossmann, who is without a peer on this instrument. It has an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8781, "Old Folks at Home," is remarkable for the unusual volume of tone. It is sung by W. H. Thompson, and is accompanied by the Edison Military Band. The introduction is played with full band volume and the band is unusually strong through the entire Record. It is not loud enough, however, to affect the fine quality of Mr. Thompson's singing. This old Southern song was written by Stephen Collins Foster. It is put in the catalogue in response to many requests. These old songs are renewing their popularity and we predict that the demand for this number will be unusually large.

No. 8782, "Why, Hello, Bill, Who's Your Friend?" is a coon song with orchestra accompaniment. It is sung by Arthur Collins in his inimitable manner. It tells how one coon "busts in" on his friend and asks to be introduced to his girl. Harry Brown is the composer of this song. It makes an excellent Record.

No. 8783, "On Tiptoe," by L. Hosmer, is what may be properly styled a "swell" Record. As its name indicates, the music is light, airy and graceful and is notable for the flute and clarinet work. It is made by the Edison Concert Band.

No. 8784, "Dixie," is the late Dan Emmett's ever popular Southern air. It is sung as a male duet by Harlan and Stanley, with orchestra accompaniment. This is another Record for which there has been great demand. Mr. Emmett, the composer, died recently.

No. 8785, "Old Mother Goose," is a characteristic song from the comic opera "The Royal Chef." It is sung by Billy Murray, with orchestra accompaniment. It is styled a "scare" song. Ben M. Jerome is the composer. In the opera the singer gathers around him a lot of little colored children and tells them that old Mother Goose is around. He tells them to > Run to your little bed,

> Cover up your kinky head,
> Don't you let her in the room,
> Or you'll take a ride on the broom.
> She will leave her cave away,
> Up in the clouds she'll stay.
> Sh! Sh! Do you hear that sound?
> She's a comin' round,
> She'll steal you by the light of de moon.

No. 8786, "Forsaken" (Verlassen) is a folksong of the part of Germany, but the air is so well known that most hearers will think it of American origin. The Record is made by the Edison Brass Quartette, composed of two cornets and two trombones. This music is written in slow time and because of this fact is most suitable for brass quartette work. "Forsaken" was composed by F. Koschat.

No. 8787, "Back Among the Clover and the Corn," is another fine baritone Record by James F. Harrison. It is a descriptive selection by H. W. Petrie, and has the usual good orchestra accompaniment. This song will be one of the features of the first part in Dockstader's Minstrels in the coming season. The air somewhat resembles "Love's Old Sweet Song."

No. 8788 "Down in the Vale of Shoneydoah," is a well executed Record by Harry MacDonough, of Charles K. Harris' latest descriptive song. Mr. MacDonough is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8789, "Bluette," is a piccolo solo by Frank S. Mazziota, with orchestra accompaniment, that cannot fail to delight every one. The music is pretty and it repeatedly catchy and sweet. The melody air runs through the composition. "Bluette" was written by L. La Rose.

No. 8790, "In the Gloaming," is an artistic rendition by the Edison Male Quartette of A. F. Harrison's old time ballad. It is sung by the quartette without accompaniment, in deference to the taste of a large number of people who claim that male quartettes are better when sung without accompaniment.

No. 8791, "Louisa Schmidt," is a comic song given as a male duet by Collins and Harlan, with an orchestra accompaniment. In spite of the dialect, the words are unusually distinct and can be easily understood. Andrew B. Sterling wrote the words of the song and Harry Von Tilzer the music. The Record is unusually well rendered.

No. 8792, "Varney's Ideal," is listed as a negro sketch and is played as a xylophone solo, with orchestra accompaniment, by Albert Benzler. A very clear and well played Record. This composition is the work of P. W. Stimson.

No. 8793, "The Bloom is on the Rye," an old Scotch ballad by Henry R. Bishop, is a tenor solo by George Seymour Lenox. Mr. Lenox sings it in an artistic manner and is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8794, "Scissors to Grind," is a character song by Thomas S. Allen, who wrote "Any Rags." It is sung by Arthur Collins, who made such a success of "Any Rags." His work in this Record is equally good. The Record can hardly fail to be a great seller. Between the verses are given some funny remarks. When solicited for scissors to grind the old lady says, "The last pair you ground for me were very dull." The grinder's reply is simply "So's business." It is not so much the remarks themselves as the way in which Mr. Collins says them that makes them so funny.

No. 8795, "Yale College Life March," is a composition written by F. Herbert Reed and played by the Edison Military Band. The music is of a rollicking character, typical of college life, and has a good rhythm. The air is carried by the tubas, the treble instruments playing the accompaniment.

No. 8796, "Stories Adam Told to Eve," is a song that made a big hit in "Mother Goose." It is sung by the Edison Male Quartette, with solo, chorus and orchestra accompaniment. It is an excellent Record. William Jerome wrote the words of this song and Jean Schwartz the music.

No. 8797, "A Rheumatism Cure in Jayville Center," is a still further addition to Harlan and Stanley's Rube sketches. Ezra (Stanley) is confined at home with rheumatism. Zeb (Harlan) calls upon him with Jim Martin's boy. In the conversation that follows Ezra asks which of the medical schools Zeb thinks is the best, allopath, homeopath or osteopath. Zeb, in his characteristic manner, replies, "All paths lead to the grave." Among the bits of news that Zeb discusses is one about Taylor, whom he says is getting so high-toned that he goes after the cows in a carriage. Jim Martin's boy then plays "Pop, Goes the Weasel" on the violin and Ezra gets so excited that he forgets his rheumatism and dances with his wife instead. The violin quality in the Record is unusually loud and clear.

No. 8798, "I Want to be a Soldier Medley," introduces that song together with "Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye," and "Mississippi Mamie." The Record is made by the Edison Military Band and in arranging the music it has been given a military character, the drums and fifes being heard at each change in the melody. The cornet is prominent throughout the Record.

No. 8799, "The Maple Leaf Forever," is a Record of the national song of Canada, sung by W. H. Thompson in his usual fine voice, accompanied by the orchestra. This composition was written by Alexander Muir in 1867, and is too well known in the upper part of the United States and Canada to need any comment. It will unquestionably find a large sale in those sections.

NEW MOTOR SUSPENSION SPRINGS ARE FINE.

I want to congratulate you over the success of the motor frame springs, for I got some yesterday and put them on a Triumph Phonograph and the result was way beyond my expectations. I think they are just fine. So, wishing you success over all rivals, I remain,

COIN SLOT PHONOGRAPHS.

With the withdrawal of the Edison Imperial, Regal, Climax, Ajax and Vulcan Coin-Slot Phonographs and the introduction of the Windsor and the Majestic, the National Phonograph Company has decided to adopt an entirely new plan in selling these types of coin-slot machines. It has been found that to instal coin-slot Phonographs and keep them in satisfactory operation requires more attention than the average Dealer can afford to give to them. It was therefore decided that the proper exploitation of coin-slot machines could only be secured by having them handled by the company direct and a special department has been organized for that purpose. The company will solicit this class of business direct, will instal machines with its own men and will see that they are started in a proper manner. While it will not be formally responsible for the machines after they have been thus installed, and proper instructions given concerning their care and operation, it will always stand ready to remedy any serious trouble that may arise. Briefly, it is intended that Edison Coin-Slot Phonographs shall have the attention that their merit warrants and the growing demand for them demands.

At the same time it was decided not to take the matter out of the hands of the trade entirely, but to allow discounts that would enable the larger Dealers to still handle them. The Windsor type is operated by battery current and will be sold at $80.00. The Majestic type is equipped for 110 volt direct current and will be sold at $90.000. These prices will be subject to discounts as follows:

Less than 25 machines	no discount
25 machines	10 per cent. off List
50 "	25 per cent. off List
60 "	30 per cent. off List
100 or more machines	35 per cent. off List

Discounts on Windsor and Majestic types are not confined to Jobbers or Dealers, but are open to any purchaser. They are not cumulative nor does one purchase establish a discount on future orders. In each and every case orders must be placed for quantities above specified or discount quoted cannot be allowed.

Bijou and Excelsior Coin-Slot Phonographs, both of which are spring-motor types, will be sold at the same prices and same discounts as before.

In Canada an amount equal to the duty must be added to the selling prices of Coin-Slot Phonographs as well as to those of all other goods.

THE PHONOGRAM.

The re-issue of THE PHONOGRAM seems to have met the approval of the trade and the public. It was found necessary to increase the first edition to 100,000 copies. We have printed 110,000 copies of the second edition and the orders already on file will take the entire lot. Time is the real test of the merit of a publication of this character, but we hope that with a little assistance from the trade and the public we shall be able to make THE PHONOGRAM an interesting little pamphlet and one that will be looked for each month. We would again point out to Jobbers that we cannot imprint THE PHONOGRAM in smaller lots than 500 copies and multiples of that number, and to do this we must have an order at least one month in advance and be continued for at least several months. Unless Dealers will pay express charges, it will be necessary for them to get a supply of Phonograms through their Jobbers. They are too heavy to send in quantities by mail. THE PHONOGRAM will be shipped to the trade with the new Records each month. This will make its date of publication each month somewhat uncertain, and Dealers should explain to their patrons why the time of publication varies.

NEW RECORD CATALOGUE.

The new Domestic Record Catalogue will be ready for the use of the trade about the middle of August. It will probably be sent out with the August Records to such Jobbers as find it necessary to have a supply about that time. It will be Form No. 600, and will succeed the present Form No. 545. It will have the same purple cover as No. 545, but the phrase "Domestic Selections" will be changed to read "American Selections." This phrase has been changed because we find it necessary to use many of these catalogues in foreign countries and to them the term "domestic selections" does not have the proper meaning. The new catalogue will contain only American selections. The British selections have been cut out entirely and will appear only in the foreign catalogue. When it is found necessary to print a new edition of the Foreign Record Catalogue the phrase "Foreign Selections" will be changed to read "British, European, French-Canadian, Asiatic." This change will make it possible to use the present Foreign Catalogue either in this country or any other country and have the title comprehensive in each. This Foreign Catalogue will include all Records except American selections.

CHANGE CATALOGUES TO NEW PRICES

Jobbers and Dealers are asked to correct with a pen the Machine and Record Catalogues they are now using so that they will contain the proper prices. The following table shows the changes that have been made under the new Agreement. Jobbers cannot be expected to make these changes in catalogues that they furnish to Dealers, and the latter, therefore, should give the matter their own attention.

NEW PRICES IN EFFECT JULY 18, 1904.

Change in prices of Edison Phonographs.
Edison Victor Phonograph, new price, $65.00
Edison Conqueror Phonograph, new price, $80.00.

GET READY FOR FAIRS.

It is about time to consider the matter of getting literature for use in connection with exhibits at county fairs. The fair season opens in September and there is no better way to advertise Edison Phonographs and Records than exhibits at these fairs. We have several forms of printed matter suitable for this purpose.

These are No. 291, one of the Jingle Book series; No. 409, the lithographed card in colors showing boy with hatchet looking for the band; No. 467, the four-page folder on the merits of the Phonograph; No. 535, a four-page folder showing four different styles of the Phonograph on the inside pages; No. 540, a four-page folder. Dealers contemplating making exhibits at county fairs should place an order with their Jobbers for any printed matter they require and have it forwarded, provided the latter cannot supply it out of their own stock. This literature cannot be imprinted with the Dealer's name and address. It will be necessary for a Dealer to imprint it himself or do the printing with a rubber stamp.

BETTER THAN ANTICIPATED.

The Pardee-Ellenberger Co., of New Haven, Conn., send the following letter from one of their customers:

I have put the suspension springs I obtained from you in my Triumph phonograph and the results were even better than I anticipated. All noise is now eliminated and I am sure no Phonograph owner would be without them were he to ever see the difference demonstrated. The "Triumphs" is triumphant now in every respect. My neighbors count it a pleasure living in close proximity to the best talking machine in the world.

S. N. WING,
Shelburne Falls, Mass.

ROVE AWAY THE BLUES.

Our Foreign Department recently sold a Concert Phonograph and a supply of Concert Records to a customer in Mexico. In acknowledging their arrival, he wrote:

I received the Concert Phonograph and Records in good shape. I am very highly pleased with the Phonograph. It is perfect. I had the "blues" at my mines when the Phonograph arrived. I immediately set it up and played several Records on it, when the "blues" were forgotten. It simply saved my life. Wishing you unbounded success, I am.

ITS TONE THE MOST NATURAL.

I played before a party of expert musicians lately and they were all agreed that the Edison machine brought out the natural tone more fully than any other they had ever heard. I have noticed several articles in the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY on determining the speed of a machine. Here is my method: I do not use a speed indicator, nor make a scratch on the Record and count the revolutions from the clicks. I put on a Record and change the speed until I get the correct tone. That I am successful is proved by the fact that one of the musicians mentioned above declared that I was one of the few whom he had ever seen operating a machine, who regulated the speed in a manner which brought out the exact natural tone of the instrument or voice. But I wish to state right here that I have tried the same thing on other machines and failed every time.

A STRIKING SIGN.

Eugene Zimmerman, manager of the Peoria Phonograph Co., Peoria, Ill., sends a photograph of what he calls "the livest sign in town." It is a circular sign over five feet in diameter and is so arranged that it is attractive at all times. At night it is illuminated on the inside so that the white letters stand out strong on the dark background. Red, white and blue incandescent lights are placed on the outer edge of the drum. The bell of a brass horn appears in the center and from it Phonograph music is issuing during all business hours. In the center of the bell is a green light. Lettered on the sign are the words, "Edison Phonographs, $10 up. Simple, Durable. Peoria Phonograph Co., E. Zimmerman, manager." Mr. Zimmerman writes: "The effect is great. It is the best single advertisement we have. Frequently we have a hundred or more persons in the audience, for the sign is visible to thousands who pass on three lines of street cars crossing within one hundred feet of our place."

OUR ST. LOUIS BOOKLET.

We are giving out to the public at our exhibition at the St. Louis Fair an attractive little sixteen-page booklet printed in two colors and entitled "Just Airs." On the first page is an airy young lady dressed in the top of the fashion and having a prize bull-dog by a chain. Inside on the right hand pages are a series of illustrations showing six beautiful girls each typical of as many different countries. The countries portrayed are America, France, England, Spain, Germany, Italy. Above the girl in each picture appears the coat of arms of the country and below is a bar of music of the national hymn of each country. The quantity that we have had printed of this booklet will probably make it possible to allow a number of them to be distributed by Jobbers and Dealers to their customers in the fall. If this is done, the trade will be advised in the usual channels. Six of the pages in the booklet bear a series of arguments on the advantages of owning a Phonograph. These are so good that we have considered it worth while to reproduce them here. They are as follows:

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH.

Its Satisfying Quality.

"Let me make the music of a country and I care not who makes its laws." Music moves man; and thousands of dollars are paid to hear music once. How the longing to hear the same sweet strains again has gone unanswered in every heart. Who is satisfied with one hearing of music he likes?

When Mr. Edison invented the Phonograph, he provided the first fulfilment of this desire. The Phonograph plays each piece till you are satisfied—till you have learned the strains and made them your own. The scratching and the shrill notes of the old-time Records and machines have been done away with by the Gold Mould Process by which all Edison Records are now made. A Reproducer has been invented that is exactly adapted to these marvelous Records, and that fits every Phonograph however old.

You may sit in your home and hear the thrilling tones that appeal to the hidden chord within,—full, rich, and pure—not the "imitation of sound" of the past, but a real reproduction.

The Phonograph requires no skill—in five minutes you can master it. The Phonograph takes up no room—it stands on the table when playing, and rests under it when idle.

The Phonograph and a supply of Records cost half the price of a mechanical piano player and a decimal of the price of a piano. Yet the Phonograph sings as sweetly and as clearly as the singer, and renders perfectly the voices of the various instruments of the orchestra or band, with their indescribable beauties of combination, of contrast, and of harmony.

A Welcome Diversion.

Who has not felt the need of some unfailing diversion for entertaining company? Some visitors are always hard to amuse. Some gatherings, however carefully planned, will not "mix,"and things go wrong. Every caller is a new problem.

The Phonograph is the perfect solution of every such difficulty in every home. The loud, clear, rich-toned instrument of to-day is a welcome diversion to every guest. Classical music or rag-time, songs or marches, minstrels or orchestras, and funny stories, are sure to divert and entertain those who cross your threshold, and few companies fail to "get together" in delightful unity at the first hearty laugh, or, the first thrill of pleasure shared together.

Then think of the fun when you are alone—the long evenings when there is no company, and perhaps those at home are on the verge of getting tired of one another. It is an inexhaustible amusement. There are always new ones—twenty-five every month, embracing the latest popular music, with additions to the classical, the grave, the gay, and every time a novelty of some kind.

Few can resist the charm of that monthly list of new Records. It's like the monthly magazine, except that you "read the stories" over and over, finding each time some new delight—adding each month some permanent pleasure—teaching the youngsters a new appreciation of the greatest art in the world—the art of music.

In the Country.

You who live away from the towns—do you ever envy the townsmen the countless diversions of concert, theatre and lecture—the educating influence of hearing something new each day? The invention is here that takes these pleasures and advantages to you in your home however isolated. No other instrument is so inexpensive; no other joy so endless in variety; no other servant so tireless.

Do you like a piece of music? It will play and play until you are satisfied—till you have learned words and tune, should you desire—and always just as clearly and sweetly as the very first time. Have you heard a song till you tire of it? You can get another. Do you want to know the latest popular hit? It will play it with the lilt and swing that made it popular, while your neighbor's daughter is thumping it on her piano minus its good points. Without a Phonograph none except trained musicians can hear the music they like, played as they like it, as often as they like it.

Would you hear a funny story? It knows hundreds. Would you learn a foreign tongue? Languages are taught by the I. C. S. System on the Phonograph.

You will never be lonesome with it. You will never grow tired of it, for new Records are added monthly—twenty-five at a time. You will never fail to entertain a friend or a houseful of visitors. Your children will like to stay at home. Your whole family will grow closer together in their mutual enjoyment.

Do you want to know more about it? Hear it. Buy it.

In Town.

And you, Mr. City-man, have you learned how tiresome it is to sit through a long evening of old jokes, painted faces, and gaudy costumes, just to hear a song or two that you really like? Have you ever struggled to remember that catchy tune of which a phrase or two haunts you? Have you ever missed your cigar, your smoking jacket, and your slippers on these occasions.

Then consider the Phonograph, on which you can play that haunting tune till you know it—words and music. Remember the Phonograph which alone plays like the orchestra itself.

Perhaps you have heard a "talking machine" in a ferryhouse waiting room, or possibly your neighbor rouses the whole vicinity on summer evenings with a screaming noise, and you think you don't want one. Think again. These are imitations, and old—obsolete—styles. Any "talking-machine" will reproduce the notes and the noise; but the sweetness and expression for which you prize music are reproduced only by the modern Edison Phonograph with Edison Gold Moulded Records. Dealers everywhere will assure you that this is true, and prove it on the spot.

The greatest home entertainer the world has ever seen is waiting for a trial which will prove to you that you cannot do without it; that rainy evenings need not be lonesome evenings; that home has some attraction for your children; that your wife can have happy diversion if she does stay home with the baby so much; that she needs the Phonograph, and that you want it.

Be fair; go and hear it.

For Dancing.

Did you ever dance to the Phonograph? NO? Then you have no idea what perfect time it keeps, how smoothly it swings you over the floor, fairly carrying you along with the rhythm of its clear, vibrant tones. And oh, the fun of having a rich band or sweet orchestra to dance to at home, instead of hopping around to an amateur pianist's efforts, while you regret the necessity that keeps the prettiest girl in the room tied to the piano stool, or prevents your hostess from sharing your pleasure. How many times have you had a little company who would have liked so much to dance but for these things.

Perhaps you have no piano. Perhaps the cost looms up alongside the grocer's bill or the doctor's fees that put it out of the question. The first instalment on that piano will buy you the sweetest Phonograph that ever played, with dozens of Records, and it will let you dance, take you to the theatre, instruct you in a foreign language, transport you to the minstrels, carry you back to the Wagnerian opera, play "rag-time," sing songs that touch the heart, and play marches that rouse the soul—all between dinner and bed-time.

No other instrument will do this with charm and sweetness, for these qualities distinguish the Edison Phonograph from its imitations. See that you get the genuine Edison Gold Moulded Records, and don't forget that every month there are twenty-five new Records, to take the place of the ones you are tired of.

Making Records.

Did you ever make a Record of your voice on the Phonograph? If-not, you have a new experience before you. Perhaps your friends may some day place a value on that Record that you little dream of when in the fulness of strength you amuse yourself in the making.

But it is not a sad process. Some of the heartiest laughs ever heard have resulted from hearing ourselves as others hear us, and often the results obtained would not be parted with for gold. Your friend who sings that song which no one else can sing to suit you, will rarely refuse your request to "put it on record."

And then the children: some of their pretty sayings—most of them—are lost forever unless you have a Phonograph. But if you have it, you are ready at a moment's notice to have them "say it again" while it is fresh in the memory: and then you have not only the quaint expression, but the childish voice as well, safely stored away. There is always the chance that some day that will be all you will have. Then how much would that Record be worth?

FROM THE STRAITS OF MAGELLAN.

Following is an extract from a letter received by our Foreign Department from one of its customers in Punta Arenas, Straits of Magellan:

I am glad to say that your machines and Records continue to give great satisfaction. The manager of the bank at Tarapaca was here recently, going all around the sheep farms, and heard the Edison Phonograph. He says he has traveled a great deal but never heard a better or more clear machine in any part of the world.

With 25 Standard English Records in the

New I. C. S. Series

The "stranger in a strange land" will now, more than ever, bless the Edison phonograph. His entertainer at once becomes his teacher in the English language, which he must know if he is to live and prosper in America.

It is so easy to learn by the I. C. S. Method. The familiar language of the foreigner is printed side by side with the English translation, and these he follows with the eye while he hears the pronunciation on the phonograph. The English expressions he learns in private today, he uses at his work tomorrow, and so progress is rapid and his pronunciation correct.

English people may also learn French, German, and Spanish through complete sets of I. C. S. Records and Textbooks.

DEALERS MUST DEMONSTRATE

We send samples of I. C. S. Moulded Records and Textbooks in French, German, Spanish, and English to Edison Dealers in the United States or Canada, express prepaid, $2.00 net; or one English Record with assortment of foreign textbooks, express prepaid, 75 cents net.

PHENOMENAL BUSINESS.

The reduction in price of Edison Gold Moulded Records and Edison Concert Records has brought an increase in business beyond our most sanguine expectations. The new conditions were decided upon because largely increased facilities made it possible to manufacture a much greater number of Records than ever before, and it was believed that the lower prices would soon make it necessary to run the plant to its fullest capacity. That the limit would be reached at once was scarcely thought of. Since July 18, however, the orders have been coming in at a most astounding rate and at this writing they have not only reached the capacity of our Record plant, but they are compelling us to operate it nights as well as days. Even at this, the orders accumulate faster than Records are being turned out. Consequently we have fallen somewhat behind with Record shipments. We desire to assure the trade, however, that nothing is being left undone to overcome this. We hope in a short time to have the situation well in hand and to be able to fill orders promptly.

No more popular move was ever made by the National Phonograph Company than the reduction in price of Edison Gold Moulded Records to 35 cents each in the United States and 40 cents in Canada. It has now become widely known in both countries and in spite of the midsummer season, a presidential campaign and other conditions usually considered unfavorable to business, the public are buying Edison Records as they never before bought them or any other kind. They have developed a hunger for Edison Records that has made inroads upon the stock carried by Dealers, and that has compelled the latter to send rush orders to their Jobbers for a replenishing stock. The Jobbers were unprepared for such a flood of business as the Dealers have sent them and their stocks have been inadequate. They in turn are "putting it up" to us. Like the Dealers and Jobbers, we hardly expected so much and so soon, and as we get the accumulated force of the demand throughout the United States and Canada, we are for a short time unable to "make good." As already stated, we feel sure that by running our Record plant to its fullest capacity day and night we will soon handle orders to the entire satisfaction of the trade.

The demand for Records already listed, or "stock" Records as they are better known, has not only been extremely heavy, but the orders for the September list exceed by many thousands the highest number ever before received for any month's list in the history of this company. This is partly due to the forethought of Jobbers in placing orders, and partly because the September list is one of unusual merit.

Another feature of interest is the fact that nearly a dozen large firms have become Jobbers in Edison goods since the new conditions went into effect. Most of these have done so almost without solicitation, and because their business judgment told them that a great future lies before the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records.

Then, too, hundreds of firms have taken up the line during the past month; firms who have never handled Phonographs before. At the same time reports come to us from all parts of the country of Dealers who have dropped other makes of cylindrical records entirely or are seeking to get rid of their stocks as fast as possible. They state that their patrons will have nothing but Edison Gold Moulded Records and that no demand exists for any other.

THE PHONOGRAM.

The Phonogram for September will contain half-tones of Bohumir Kryl, cornetist, and Frank S. Mazziotta, piccolo player, both well known for their clever work in making Edison Records. The September edition will be 135,000 copies, a fairly convincing evidence of the popularity of the little publication. This popularity is largely due to the great curiosity of Phonograph owners to see the pictures of the men and women whose voices they know so well. The trade should know that the forms of the Phonogram close five weeks in advance of its time of shipment, which will explain to all why any matter cannot be published in its columns for so long a time after its receipt. This time is required to get the publication printed, bound and packed for shipment.

In spite of the information printed in the Edison Phonograph Monthly for July, giving the cost of the Phonogram to the trade, we still get frequent letters from Dealers asking for prices on it. The cost is as follows: In quantities from Jobbers, 25 cents per 100. Single copies by mail, 20 cents a year. Five copies by mail to one address, 40 cents a year. Twenty-five copies by mail to one address, $1.80 per year.

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

"THREE TALKERS."

An amusing mailing card comes to us from "The Little Repair Shop" at Keene, N. H. Mr. Little has succeeded in getting out a card that cannot fail to attract attention and provoke a smile. It is headed "Three Talkers." At the left and right, near the top, Mr. Little has printed pictures of his two children. Under one is the inscription "Earl Wildridge Little. This one talks well but 'breaks occasionally, and can talk cross.'" Under the other are the words "Albert Isham Little. This one is indistinct, 'breaks' with sometimes a little cross talk." Farther down on the card is a picture of an Edison Standard Phonograph and inscribed "This one is distinct with an even tone and without cross talk." Between the three pictures is the following "All well made and growing in popularity (two wound up all the time and never run down—I would not sell either of these for a million dollars). If you have neither of them buy yourself an Edison Talking Machine. Hear all the popular music and songs of the day in your own home."

HAD ENOUGH.

"Some disc records and machines less than cost, to clean them out. Will trade for bicycles or Edison machines." This is an extract from the advertisement of one of our Dealers. And there are others.

OUR "FOLLOW UP" SYSTEM.

Almost daily the mails bring letters from Edison Dealers in various parts of the country referring with pleasure to the benefit derived from our system of "following up" inquiries for catalogues of Edison Phonographs and Records. Many of these letters tell of satisfactory sales of our goods—sales that would not have been possible had we not referred the inquirer's names to the Dealers. Frequently we get inquiries from small towns where we have no Dealers and where we might be justified in endeavoring to make a sale direct. By referring the matter to a Dealer in nearby towns, however, we are able to put the business into the hands of a regular Dealer. Our advertising endeavors to induce the public to first go to the stores of Dealers for catalogues and information, but if this is not feasible then we want them to write to us direct. Our "follow up" system then puts the inquirer and Dealer in touch with each other.

In order to make it more certain that we were getting the best results from catalogue inquiries, we recently enlarged our "follow up" system in a manner that requires more co-operation on the part of Dealers. Upon receipt of an inquiry for catalogues we send those registered and accompany them with a typewritten letter, referring to the merits of our goods and stating that we have asked a nearby Dealer to give him such further attention as he may desire. We enclose a return mailing card upon which we ask him to advise us if he has heard from the Dealer to his satisfaction. A similar course is pursued with one or more Dealers in the vicinity in which the prospective customer lives. They are asked to give him all the attention possible and to advise us on return mailing cards whether or not a sale has been made. If satisfactory replies from the first series of letters sent out are not received within one month another series is sent out, which in nearly all cases completes the transaction.

The maintenance of this department is somewhat expensive and we feel that the least that Dealers can do is to give the inquiries their careful attention and supply the information we ask for. We notice that some Dealers return the mailing cards at once, and before they have been able to see or hear from the inquirer. These should not be filled out and returned until enough time has elapsed to know whether or not a sale has been or can be made. When a sale has been effected, Dealers should fill in and return the cards at once. If none takes place in three weeks that fact should be noted on the cards and the latter mailed to us. This gives us another opportunity to write the inquirer. We continue to refer inquirers to Dealers as long as they do their part, both in "following up" and advising us. When they persistently neglect both, we stop referring to them and find some one else who will co-operate better. Such cases, however, are few in number.

We so thoroughly have the good will of the entire trade that it is almost like carrying coals to Newcastle to refer to this "follow up" system as one of the numerous things being done by this company to get business for Dealers. We have abundant evidence that our efforts on their behalf are thoroughly appreciated. In few lines of business are the relations between manufacturer and the trade more cordial, a fact that gives us much satisfaction.

NEW RECORD CARTON AND MARKING.

By this time the new box and new style of marking Edison Gold Moulded Records have become known to owners of Edison Phonographs everywhere in the United States and Canada. Many Records were bought just to see the new conditions, both of which have been warmly commended. The work of making over the moulds of selections previously listed is going on as rapidly as possible, considering the phenomenal demand for Records, and in a few months all Records made at our factory will go out in the new box and marked on the end. Each new monthly list hereafter will be so marked and packed.

MAIL SUPPLEMENT TO MACHINE OWNERS.

Nothing that a Dealer can do will bring better results than the mailing each month of a supplement of new Records to owners of Phonographs. Hundreds of Dealers are doing it now and the number is rapidly growing. We are printing and sending out 500,000 of these supplements each month, but will gladly print double the quantity if the trade will use them properly. Jobbers should encourage Dealers to get up mailing lists and call upon us for larger quantities of supplements if they need them.

The great Edison family will not be complete without you, Mr. Dealer. Sign new Agreement and stay in the fold.

MACHINE IMPROVEMENTS.

We continue to receive many complimentary letters in reference to the new suspension springs that are being placed in the Triumph and Home machines and which may be attached to any of these machines now in use. Everyone who has attached them has expressed the greatest delight at the results secured. The speed indicator with which the Triumph and Home are also equipped is another improvement that is being favorably commented upon. This speed indicator has been carefully tested and will meet all the requirements of those who do not find it easy to keep their machine running at the proper speed.

A BUSINESS CARD.

Following is a reprint of a neat little card gotten out by an Ohio Dealer:

CHARLES MILLER,
Agent for
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS,
Records Etc.
MUNGEN, OHIO.

Our Leaders.
Edison Gem, $50; Standard, $80; Home, $90; Triumph, $90.
Terms: One-half down, balance $5 per month. Records 35c. each, bills for Records must be paid every 30 days.

A young man loved a young lady,
That's his business.
A young man loved a young man,
That's her business.
Soon they'll be married,
That's their business.
If the young man wishes to buy
AN EDISON PHONOGRAPH,
That's his business.
Then he'll buy of this card,
That's our business.

STOCK UP.

At no time in the history of the business will the trade find it more important to carry a full stock of Edison Phonographs and Edison Records than in the coming four months. Those who do so are going to do a most gratifying business. Those who neglect it or think that there is still plenty of time will regret their procrastination. Many things are combining to make a great business in Edison goods and wise Dealers will climb into the wagon and go along with the crowd.

Sign new Agreement, Mr. Dealer, and keep in good standing. We want your signature, your good will and your business.

A NOVEL RECORD CABINET.

A Phonograph owner at Narragansett Pier, Rhode Island, sends a photograph of a Record cabinet that he has made for his own use. It is made in the form of a table, with a drawer in the base, which is enclosed on all sides. Above this base are four curved legs. These support the upper leaf upon which the Phonograph rests. Between the four posts is a circular enclosure. In the latter is a revolving drum with spindles for Records projecting at intervals all around and from top to bottom. The circular enclosure has an opening at one side through which the Records are reached. The cabinet is at once novel, useful and attractive.

PRINTED MATTER.

The new Record catalogues, Form No. 600, is now being sent to the trade as fast as the printer can supply them. It includes August Records. With the exception of changing the phrase on the outside from "Domestic Selections" to "American Selections," the cover is the same as on Form No. 545. This cover was so satisfactory that it was decided to continue its use on the new edition.

At the first opportunity we shall mail to the entire trade a copy of our St. Louis booklet and when received Jobbers will know that if they desire a limited quantity for careful circulation we will take pleasure in filling their orders. We want every Jobber to see a copy before ordering, for a page of the booklet is given up to a list of Jobbers (without street addresses) who were in business when it was printed, and some Jobbers might object to distributing anything containing the names of his competitors. It was originally intended to distribute this booklet only at the St. Louis Fair, and for that reason the names of all Jobbers were included in it. We think the arguments in the booklet sufficiently convincing to make it a good medium for advertising.

PRISONERS AND THE PHONOGRAPH.

"I had the pleasure recently of entertaining the prisoners at the Albany Penitentiary with an Edison Phonograph," writes Charles Van Epps, of Albany, N. Y., under date of August 6. "There were about 1,100 in all. The expressions on the faces of some of them was well worth seeing, for a great many had never heard a Phonograph before."

White, 41; Len Spencer, 19; Harry Spencer, 1; Cal Stewart (talking), 26.

PLAY OVER THE OLDER TITLES.

A mistake too frequently made by some Dealers is to play only Records from the latest supplements and pay no attention to those in the regular catalogues. It is a mistake to think that the newer selections are the most desirable. There are hundreds of titles in the regular catalogue that are most desirable, but many Phonograph owners know little about them because Dealers have fallen into a habit of showing the latest titles first. Dealers should remember that many of the old and familiar airs are in the main catalogue. These are the songs that really never grow old but have as strong a foothold upon the public as they did years ago. The playing of these old songs will ofttimes awaken pleasant memories of the past in the minds of hearers and make sales that would not otherwise have been possible. The wise Dealer is he who is keen enough to size up his prospective customers and who puts on Records that seem most likely to please him. A careful study of the whole catalogue will benefit many Dealers.

ADVERTISING NEW PRICES.

Some notable advertising of the reduced prices of Edison Gold Moulded Records was done by the National Phonograph Company in the latter part of July and early part of August. This included half pages in the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's and proportionate space in a score or more of other publications of national circulation. This advertising, supplemented by that of the trade, made the new prices known throughout the entire United States and Canada in a surprisingly short time.

Dealers who desire to continue the sale of Edison goods must sign new Agreement without delay.

MADE OVER WITH DIFFERENT TALENT

The march of progress in the manufacture of Edison Gold Moulded Records renders it necessary from time to time to make over certain selections listed in the catalogues. When this is done, as much or even more care is taken by our Recording plant to make them up-to-date as is exercised with any monthly list of Records. The talent is sometimes changed and all hands strive to see how much better they can make the new Record over the old. Below we give a list of Records which have been made over since Catalogue No. 545 was issued in March. The trade will find them as good as any we have ever made.

Formerly by Edison Band; now by Edison Military Band:

8235 Rajah March (Lowbe).
8107 Semper Fidelis March (Sousa).
93 Stars and Stripes Forever March (Sousa).
7722 Dancing with Ma Baby (Anthony).
8261 Don't be Cross Waltz (Zeller).
8376 Symphin Waltzes (Holzmann).
8128 Wedding of the Winds Waltz (Hall).
8213 In the Good Old Summer Time (Evans).
8317 I've Got My Eyes on You (with bells).
8049 Lizard and the Frog (Morse).

Formerly by Edison Orchestra; now by Edison Military Band:

7787 Intermezzo from Naila (Delibes).
664 At the Circus.
523 Down on the Suwanee River (Foster-Banta).

Banjo solos now made with orchestra accompaniment:

2607 Darkies Awakening.
2625 Nigger in a Fit.
7666 Sun Toy Selections (Meacham).

Clarinet solos now made with orchestra accompaniment:

3668 L'Estudiantina Waltz (Waldteufel).
8769 Minstrel Boy (air and variations).
3615 Nellie Gray (with variations).
8021 Robert C. Dibble (Meyerbeer).

Piccolo solos now made with orchestra accompaniment:

7168 Blue Bird Polka (Manziotta).
2803 Gem Polka (Carr).
2806 Irish Reel (Mazziotta).

Violin solo now made with orchestra accompaniment:

8099 Mocking Bird (Winner).

Changes in singers:

8340 While the Convent Bells Were Ringing (Weid) now made by W. H. Thompson instead of Fischer.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

SIGN AND RETURN AT ONCE.

We desire to again call the attention of Jobbers and Dealers to the matter of signing and returning the new Agreement. We want to receive this month the signed Agreement of every Dealer who desires to continue the sale of our goods. On October 1st we shall remove from our files and mailing list the names of all who have not signed. The following paragraph is reprinted from the August issue of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY:

DEALERS: When the new agreement reaches you, read it carefully, date and sign each copy and have your signature WITNESSED. If you deal through a Jobber, return to him the copies marked "Original" and "Duplicate." Retain the copy marked "Triplicate" for your future reference. If you deal direct with this Company send the copy marked "Original" to office from which it was mailed, and return "Duplicate."

JOBBERS: When Dealers return "Original" and "Duplicate" copies to you, send us the "Original" and retain the "Duplicate" for your files. Be sure that they are properly dated and witnessed before returning "Original" to us.

DEALERS' ADVERTISING.

Hayward & Garratt, of Dunedin, New Zealand, send a copy of their house catalogue, in which they devote three pages to illustrations and descriptions of Edison Phonographs.

Most of the advertising done by William H. Kellar, of Easton, Pa., outside of newspapers, is in the form of an owl. The latest form taken by the bird is an aluminum bookmark, one of which has been received. Mr. Kellar's slogan is "Wise people buy at Kellar's."

Albert A. Magwire, of the Springfield Music Rooms, Springfield, Vt., sends a series of circulars showing that twice each week during August he gave outdoor evening concerts with an Edison Phonograph, and he expects to continue it during September.

A GOOD RECORD RECORD.

I have been handling Edison goods for about one year after trying to sell all other makes of talking machines without much success. I think I have made a record, selling thirty machines and a Record for every person in the town. Edison goods were never sold here before and we have but 2,000 population.

GEORGE A. LEWIS,
Ridgefield, Conn.

CANNOT SELL ANY OTHERS.

Since the cut in your Records we cannot sell any others. We are glad of it, too.

DEAN & HINMAN,
Manchester, N. H.

COMMENTS ON OCTOBER RECORDS.

Twenty-six new titles were included in the September list of Edison Gold Moulded Records and a like number are issued for October. This has been done to make the numbers end more even. For some time past the monthly list has ended with 23, 48, 73 and 98. Putting in two extra selections has brought up the list so that it now ends with 25, 50, 75 and no. This will make it easier to keep the numbers in mind as long as twenty-five new titles are issued each month.

The October list is replete with interesting things and fully up to the Edison standard in quality and variety. The entire twenty-six will make an excellent assortment for he who is just buying a Phonograph and even the old time enthusiasts can hardly fail to commend all of them.

No. 8800, "Ballet Music from Coppelia," by the Edison Concert Band is a selection from the ballet "Coppelia," composed by Delibes. It introduces the Allegretto movement in two-four time in which the clarinet section's work appeals to the listener at once. A crescendo working up to double forte with a sudden pause concludes the movement, giving a very pleasing effect to the moderato movement of six measures that follow. The climax is the Allegro-Vivace movement at the finale of the selection. Beginning piano, but spiritedly, honors are even between the brass and reed sections. The different parts of the musicianly arrangement at all times reproduce clearly and well defined as the sprightly theme goes forward, now soft, now swelling out loudly in its clever and interesting modulations.

No. 8801, "Con Clancey's Before Election Speech," by Len Spencer, is an excellent Record, describing in a most humorous manner a ward political meeting and introducing a drum corps, a brass band, cheering and other pre-election effects. Mr. Clancey makes himself solid with the boys by promising to give all of them offices or five dollars a day or free beer or other things dear to the heart of the average voter.

No. 8802, "Star of My Life" (written by Corliss), is a fine baritone solo by W. H. Thompson. It is a sentimental song and has an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8803, "One Heart One Mind," is a bell solo by Albert Benzler, with orchestra accompaniment, of Strauss' well known composition. The saying "clear as a bell" is at once suggested by the remarkable quality of this Record.

No. 8804, "Teasing," is a new coon song by Albert Von Tilzer. It is sung by Bob Roberts with orchestra accompaniment. In it a coon tells of the troubles he has with his girl who is always teasing him. It is a well-made Record, clearly spoken and will be a big seller.

No. 8805, "The Battle Cry of Freedom," is a Record that will arouse the patriotism of all Americans, especially the old ones who have served in the Civil War. It is made in a manner similar to the Record, No. 8666, "Marching Through Georgia," and it was because of the success of the latter Record that this was made. It includes a tenor and baritone duet with orchestra accompaniment and introduces cheers, bugles and drum corps effects. It is made by Harlan and Stanley, who made such a success of No. 8666.

No. 8806, "In the Valley of the Sunny San Joaquin," sung by Harry MacDonough, is a pleasing new song written by James G. Denny (music) and J. Gordon Temple (words). The words are very appropriate and the music quite captivating. Mr. MacDonough was accompanied by the orchestra when he made this Record.

No. 8807, "Dreaming on the Ohio," (written by Edwin S. Brill) is a descriptive song and quartette chorus by the Edison Male Quartette, and is sung with orchestra accompaniment. It is an excellent Record of a charming selection.

No. 8808, "Seminole," is a new Indian ballad written by the composers of "Navajo," and the music is of the same attractive character. The Record is made by Harry Tally with orchestra accompaniment. The words of this song were written by Harry H. Williams and the music by Egbert Van Alstyne.

No. 8809, "Wilhelmina," (composed by John T. Hall) is a Record made at slow tempo for dancing. It was made by the Edison Military Band. The music is attractive and has a good swing for waltzing.

No. 8810, "Down Where the Sweet Potatoes Grow," is a coon duet by Collins and Harlan with orchestra accompaniment. The artists do the song full justice and the Record will be a popular one. Andrew B. Sterling wrote the words of this song and Harry Von Tilzer the music.

No. 8811, "Sweet Sixteen Waltz," is another of Bohumir Kryl's fine cornet solos with orchestra accompaniment. Few cornet soloists can compare with Mr. Kryl in excellence.

No. 8812, "Cupid's Arrow," is a banjo solo with orchestra accompaniment by Fred Van Epps, which shows clearly that Mr. Van Epps constantly improves as a soloist on this instrument. The accompaniment of the orchestra is more subdued than in many other banjo selections, a feature that will meet the approval of those who feel that banjo Records for the most part should have no accompaniment. "Cupid's Arrow" was listed in the catalogue of wax Records and is made by the moulded process in response to many calls for it.

No. 8813, "Sylvia," is an unusually charming sentimental song, written by Laurence B. O'Connor (music) and C. E. Billings (words). It is sung by Byron G. Harlan and has an orchestra accompaniment. This song is very popular in the New England States and our well-made Record of it will do much to increase its popularity in all parts of the country.

No. 8814, "What Colored Eyes Do You Love," is a contralto and baritone duet of one of the most popular hits in "The Royal Chef," which opened in New York City on September 1st. It is made by Miss Nelson and Mr. Stanley. Miss Nelson is a new singer for Edison Records, but we feel that this introductory song will gain for her voice the approval of all Edison admirers. The music of this selection was written by Ben M. Jerome.

No. 8815, "Selection from The Royal Chef," played by the Edison Concert Band, introduces "Let Me Go Back," "It's a Way They Have in Chicago" and "Old Mother Goose." This Record takes the place of the usual monthly medley and we hope that it will be quite as popular.

No. 8816, "It's Great to be Crazy," is a Record of one of the most unique songs that we have put out in some time. It is sung by Arthur Collins and is bound to be a big success. This song is from "The Maid and the Mummy," and its words, its music and the orchestra accompaniment are as crazy as its name. Every collection of Phonograph Records should include this one. The words of the song were written by Richard Carle and the music by Robert Hood Bowers.

No. 8817, "Bye and Bye You Will Forget Me," is a sentimental duet by MacDonough and Hichling, and is sung with orchestra accompaniment. These artists sing well together and, combined with the music of the song, make a very desirable Record. Arthur W. French is the writer of the words and William A. Huntley the music.

No. 8818, "Way Old Kentucky Home, Fantasia," is an adaptation of Stephen Collins Foster's ever popular Southern air by Otto Langey. It is made by the Edison Concert Band with special work by the brass quartette, flutes and clarinets.

No. 8819, "Does You Love Me as You Used To, Miss Jane," is one of Collins and Harlan's characteristic coon duets, with orchestra accompaniment, in which Mr. Collins sings the solo parts and Mr. Harlan makes the responses of Miss Jane, and joins in the chorus. It is a very clear Record. Avery and Hart wrote the words of this song and Chris Smith the music.

No. 8820, "I Fell in Love with Polly," is a serio-comic song from "The Maid and the Mummy," and is sung by Harry MacDonough with orchestra accompaniment. The violin work of this Record is attractive, and after the song is completed the latter part of the Record is taken up with a charming little dance music, making an unusually good finish to the Record. The writer of this song is Richard Carle.

No. 8821, "She Was a Good Old Soul," is a descriptive song written by Raymond A. Brown and Theodore Morse, the composers of "Dear Old Girl." The Record is made by Frank C. Stanley, and is the first one of this kind that we have listed. Mr. Stanley has not heretofore made sentimental Records, but after hearing this one all will admit that he can make them as well as anything else that he does. This Record is made with the usual orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8822, "The Bridal Tour Overture," is played by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a sort of companion piece to "The Bridal Rose," although not written by the same composer. Characteristic features of the selection are the music by the bassoons and the cornets. It is a Record that cannot fail to please. The composer is August Enhes.

No. 8823, "Old Black Joe," Stephen Collins Foster's well known song, is another unaccompanied Record by the Edison Male Quartette. This selection will be a favorite as long as the Phonograph is known.

No. 8824, "Here's My Friend," is a coon song Record made by Bob Roberts, with orchestra accompaniment. In the song a coon declares that his best friend is his pocket-book. The words are by Ed Rose and the music by Ted Snyder.

No. 8825, "The Royal Italian March," by the Edison Military Band, is an air that will at once be recognized everywhere as the principal band selection at all Italian celebrations. We expect this Record will find a large sale among the Italians, but its attractiveness will cause it to find many purchasers among lovers of band music.

SAND DANCE AND SONG.

One of our largest dealers in Melbourne recently advised us that on account of the demand for disc machines, he very reluctantly placed a number in his stock. We quote as follows from a letter just received, giving his experience with them:

"I would like to mention that I imported some disc ——, and I have decided to place them with any house in Melbourne who will take over the stock. I am quite satisfied with my experience so far. Some of the records are very good, others are damnable, and one gets a sand dance and song all at once. I feel sure that if the Japanese had a few of these machines and some of the records, no shot nor shell would be required, for the Russians would depart rather than remain and hear the tortuous sounds rendered by these scratchophones."

BURIED.

Trade very good. Everybody satisfied. Cheap records buried with no hope of resurrection. Many holding their orders till the new boxes come.

PHONOGRAPH AN AID IN TEACHING THE DEAF.

Superintendent E. W. Walker, of the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, has made a series of successful experiments showing by a powerful Phonograph just how much improvement in articulation a deaf pupil is making from time to time.

He is making tests of a child's voice on the same cylinder, allowing a given time to elapse between the tests. Several tests having been made, the cylinder is placed on the Phonograph, which will ring out the same sentence uttered by the pupil at different stages of his education. The picture shows a primary pupil seven years old talking into the Phonograph. [Picture not reproduced here.] He is speaking the words that are written on the blackboard, his teacher standing beside him. Professor Walker explains the object of his plan as follows:

"It sometimes happens that in working out things of this nature one does accidentally discover something of real value, and it is not unlikely that when I have upon the same cylinder records of the speech of the same child taken at different periods of his school career some helpful suggestions as to the training of the deaf children may develop.

"There is a second purpose. I am convinced that the education of the deaf, as it is carried on in this country, is based quite as much on sentiment as on judgment. This is due probably, first, to a feeling of keen sympathy which every one entertains for the afflicted, and, second, to the failure to appreciate that there are three distinct types of the so-called deaf persons:

"The totally and congenitally deaf. Included in this class are those who have suffered entire loss of hearing during years of infancy.

"Those who are congenitally and partially deaf. In this class are those who have suffered a partial loss of hearing during years of infancy.

"Those who lost their hearing after learning speech and receiving something of an education. It is difficult to draw an age line marking off this third class, but eight years will suggest where the line should be drawn as near as it can be settled upon.

"It is customary to speak of all of these classes as deaf people. This leaves the public to class them all together for the purpose of instruction, and, indeed, leads the parents of deaf children to do likewise. I wish we might call persons who belong to class one, deaf people; to class two, hard of hearing; to class three, lost hearing. The possibilities for the education of these three classes are markedly different. Within the last few weeks I have witnessed a public exercise of deaf children and sat beside the mother of a totally deaf child. There was on the programme a young woman of eighteen who lost her hearing at fifteen. Of course she talked in a normal voice and with a distinctness approximate to that of a hearing person. The good mother who sat beside me felt confident that her daughter, who was attending the same school, would be able to talk as this young woman did. All who are acquainted with the teaching of the deaf know this to be absolutely impossible.

"Briefly, as I see it, the fundamental thing with all of these classes is to give each as much mind development as possible. The purpose of education here does not differ from that of an ordinary school. The means used, methods of approach, etc., only are different. While giving this general education it is to be borne in mind that for members of class one to be taught speech and lip reading (and many of them may be so taught) is a valuable thing indeed. Speech, however, for this class should not be sought at the expense of an education. In most cases their articulation will be metallic and unnatural.

"Pupils belonging to the second class, that is, with defective hearing, should not be treated as though they were deaf. If they are taught as deaf are taught—that is, without the use of what little hearing they have—they will lose that little. To strengthen rather than to weaken the defective faculty should be the purpose of the school, and this class should have different treatment from that of class one.

"Persons belonging to class three form another distinct class. Their speech will be good and great emphasis in their education should be placed upon lip reading, and of course to build upon the education they have already obtained by means of their former state."—Chicago Tribune.

A QUICK SALE.

"Thinking that you would like to hear from us in regard to our Phonograph business, we send a short story telling about a quick sale we made recently," writes Fred Pfau, manager of Christy's Music Store, San Jose, Cal., under date of July 28. "We have been kept very busy selling Edison Phonographs and Records and we already see a bright future for them.

"A few days ago a man was passing our store, and being attracted by our fine display of Edison goods in the window, stopped to take a hurried glance. He passed a long while, looking at the various styles of talking machines and finally he turned around and entered the store. He asked if he could hear some of them, but at the same time saying he had not much intention of buying one then. I began by playing a disc machine, but he did not seem a bit satisfied with the results. I then placed an Edison Gold Moulded Record on the Home Phonograph and started playing it. When the music ceased, he became so enthused that he wanted me to play some more. I finally put on a medley march by the Edison Military Band, and this piece alone proved that the Edison machine was superior to all others. He listened attentively all through the record and he was so satisfied that he said he'd take the Phonograph. He afterwards remarked, 'It ought to be a rare treat to any person to have an opportunity of hearing such beautiful music. I am proud of my new Phonograph.' I selected two dozen of our choicest Records for him, and altogether the sale was made in twenty minutes. I will say this is but one of the few incidents that happen constantly. Our Edison Record trade has built up immensely since the new changes have taken place. We have increased our stock of Records and ordered more Phonographs and supplies, as we found that we could not meet the demands of the people unless we did so."

PHONOGRAPH MUSIC ON DONKEY BACK.

Our Mexican representative sends the following paragraph concerning a recent experience:

"While wandering around the public square, or "plaza," of a nearby Indian village, where a fair was being held, I noticed upon approaching the outskirts of the grounds at several places, the familiar strains of American band pieces played by a Phonograph, and as it seemed rather too small an assembly of people to warrant so large a number of exhibitors (although one, or even two are not uncommon on such occasions), I was rather curious to see whether they were all doing a profitable business, not having gotten a glimpse of any of the machines, owing to the thickly packed "puestos" or booths, gambling tents, etc., which formed a barrier around the fair grounds proper.

"The sight that met my eyes when I had worked my way to the edge of the crowd, made me wish I were a camera crank, with the ever ready kodak. Perched upon the back of a little Mexican donkey or "burro" was an Edison Home Phonograph, equipped with one of the high way-rails used by exhibitors in this country, elaborately festooned and otherwise ornamented with paper flags, spangles, etc., while beside this stood the exhibitor in the full "charro" costume of the lower classes. Sticking straight out behind the donkey was a 22-inch brass horn, through which the immediate crowd was enjoying a Spanish comic duet, while the burro tranquilly moved his ears to and fro, but otherwise didn't move a muscle. Evidently the audience didn't seem productive of cash, for the exhibitor then started the "American Standard March," and the outfit moved away, followed by a rather motley crowd; the slow, even gait of the donkey not interfering in the least with the reproduction.

"This fully explained the seeming large number of Phonographs, and was certainly a very unique method of 'going after trade.'"

Keep in the Edison ranks, Mr. Dealer, by signing new Agreement. Do it now.

CABINET FOR STORING PHONOGRAPH RECORDS.

Phonograph Records being ordinarily made of wax, are very fragile and must be preserved with considerable care, and when many are to be provided for it becomes a matter of difficulty to do this and at the same time have them accessible for ready selection. A cabinet has been invented by Mr. Edgar Krom, of 538 West 159th street, New York City, which provides for the safe keeping of a large number of records. The cabinet is formed with two swinging doors pivoted centrally at the top and bottom. The inner face of each door is provided with a number of pins upwardly inclined, on which the Records are supported. On the upper end of each pin is printed or written the name of the particular Record thereon supported. The cabinet is preferably of such height as to furnish a convenient support for the Phonograph. In use the cabinet will be preferably placed at sufficient distance from the walls of the room to permit swinging of either door upon its central pivots. When the doors are thus opened all the pins and supported Records may be seen, and any of the latter desired may be removed without disturbing the others. It will be seen that this cabinet provides for the storing of a great number of Records in a comparatively small space, renders each freely accessible, and does away with any danger of injuring the one removed or those about it. At the same time it is comparatively inexpensive to construct, and furnishes an ornamental and convenient support for the instrument in connection with which the Record is to be used.—Scientific American.

Get ready for the fall and the holidays. Stock up.

AN UP-TO-DATE CANADIAN.

S. M. Brown, a Dealer at Picton, Ont., sends a photograph of his new Phonograph showroom. It is nicely carpeted and furnished with chairs for his patrons. The shelves show that he carries a large stock of Edison goods and two Phonographs, each with a large bell, are used to play Records. Mr. Brown occasionally gives concerts from the windows of his store. Of one of these concerts a local paper said:

Last evening about 9 o'clock the stillness of the business portion of Main street was interrupted by a Phonograph concert from the studio windows of S. M. Brown. The machine used was the celebrated Edison, producing clear, sweet tones, and perfect pronunciation. The June Records comprise all that is new and up-to-date in vocal and instrumental music and were much enjoyed by the large audience in listening upon the street, as their hearty applause attested.

DEALERS AND ADVERTISING LITERATURE.

We again want to point out to Dealers buying through Jobbers that we would much prefer that they shall get printed matter from their Jobbers and not write direct to us for it. We occasionally get letters from sub-Dealers simply asking for a supply of printed matter. Nothing is said about method of shipping and what quantity is wanted. Such requests are hard to comply with for two reasons. In the first place we do not know anything about the amount of business a sub-Dealer is doing and cannot tell whether to send him much or little. Then the quantity we might send would not make a freight shipment and we cannot send by express at our own expense, for it is too costly. We are afraid to send by express collect without the authorization of the Dealer, for past experience has shown that this sometimes meets with a refusal to receive the goods and we have express charges to pay two ways to get them back. All of this makes it necessary to write a letter to the Dealer and explain the situation, causing a loss of time quite annoying to a progressive Dealer.

Dealers should ask their Jobbers to send them what they want. If the latter cannot supply, get them to endorse and forward the order to us, specifying how shipment shall be made so that we are not compelled to pay express charges. Our system of doing business makes it desirable to have Dealers look to Jobbers for everything they need in the way of advertising literature, as well as goods, and we prefer to remedy any shortcoming that may exist in the system than to change it. Jobbers who find that Dealers need more printed matter than they can supply should write to us and ask for an increased quantity. We may not be able to meet a largely increased demand all at one time, but we will arrange to order larger quantities until we can do so. At the present time, except when the edition of one catalogue is running out and another is about due, we are filling all orders for printed matter, and few Jobbers can say that they do not get all they ask for.

We expect to get out catalogues, etc., to meet every reasonable demand. It makes the business go and grow, and we believe in it. We don't want it wasted, however. We don't think that a machine catalogue, costing $10 a thousand, should be used for street or house to house distribution, and it hardly pays to send out Record catalogues to people who don't own a Phonograph and who cannot tell one type of machine from another. In rare cases it might arouse an interest and cause a man to become a machine purchaser, but a well written letter or folder would be much more effective. Few Dealers would use catalogues in this way if they paid the printer and we feel that they should be equally careful when furnished by us. We get out a line of cards, folders, etc., that should be useful for preliminary work, and these are printed in quantities which permit their liberal use.

While on the subject of printing and distributing, we want to state that in our opinion the most effective work is that done through the mails. Phonographs cannot be sold like groceries by means of circulars thrown around the street or on the stoops of city houses, or in the yards of suburban country homes. A neatly printed circular letter, accompanied by a folder giving information about the goods and mailed to a carefully selected list of names, will do more to get business than any method of advertising. This should also be supplemented by an advertisement in the local papers. The letter should be written so as to get a reply asking for catalogues. Then, if followed up with tact, sales will be made.

EXPECTS TO DOUBLE HIS BUSINESS.

It is with great pleasure that I write to inform you that my sales this year to date (seven months) in Edison Phonographs and Records have exceeded my sales of the preceding twelve months. In view of the fact, that since March 1 have had as a competitor a branch of the ——— Company, I think this record is worth recording. It shows the Edison Dealer, if he will stand up to his guns properly, that a certain kind of competition will help him along. I expect to materially double my business this year. Great is the National Phonograph Company.

THOMAS WARDELL.

EDISON—A SYNONYM FOR BUSINESS.

G. L. Ackerman, of Ackerman & Company, Jobbers, at Scranton, Pa., recently went on a trip through the State for his house and on July 29 he wrote to us as follows:

"We are pleased to note that the ——— record is being entirely weeded out by all dealers we have so far met on this trip, and considering the time of year, general business conditions, etc, writer finds very much gratification with the results of our first trip to this section. The old adage "A new broom sweeps clean" does not apply at this time. The success lays in the fact that the people want the best goods obtainable, and now that the price is a popular one, in each of all, there is only one way to explain matters fully—in short, in one simple word—"Edison."

ONE OF MANY.

I have much pleasure to inform you that since the reduction in price of the Edison Records my sales have increased 150 per cent. The Records need no recommending, as they speak for themselves. My Saturday's sale was 84 Edisons and four ——'s, which jump is a phenomenon in Record selling this time of the year.

WORLD'S GREATEST ENTERTAINER.

H. Schmidt & Son Co., of Muscatine, Iowa, always get out some original literature when they go after business. This is the way they informed their patrons about the new price of Edison Gold Moulded Records:

We beg to announce that the National Phonograph Co., of New York, have reduced the price of the "Edison Gold Moulded Records" from 50 cents to 35 cents each, or $4.20 per dozen. This news will be as welcome as "food is to the beggar," for hundreds of people have been without this wonderful entertainer, "The Phonograph," owing to the price of Records. But now since the price of 35 cents has been established no one need be without a Phonograph in their home.

The "Edison Gold Moulded Record" is admitted to be the finest and most durable Record on earth. Other Records in three months will show signs of wear-out—Edison Records won't in three years. Every Record is guaranteed to be free from any blemishes or defects.

The "Edison Phonograph, with the Gold Moulded Records," make the greatest team for entertainment that money can buy. The Edison Phonograph will improve any record, the Edison Records will improve any machine, but in using Edison Records on the Edison Phonograph you have the best.

We cordially invite you to our store at any time to hear Edits, the "World's Greatest Entertainer," as we have just received a large shipment of Records, so that we can play almost any piece you might call for from the catalogue.

Hoping to see you soon, we remain ever ready to answer any inquiries. Respectfully yours,

H. SCHMIDT & SON CO.

IN THE BERKSHIRE HILLS.

One of our advertising friends spent part of his vacation at Garfield, in Rensselaer County, New York, and this is the report of Phonographic conditions as he found them there:

In this village of twelve dwellings there are four Edison Phonographs and one ——— in constant use. In the evenings if you stand in the village street it reminds you of Douglas' selling booths or a block of Harlem flats. The new lists are looked for each month, yet they have to drive twelve miles and cross a mountain 2,240 feet (that means 1,440 foot climb) to buy Records. Talk about enthusiasm."

EDISON RECORDS ARE SUPREME.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 15, 1904.

Accept my thanks for latest literature sent me. Edison Records speak for themselves. Let them be heard and the cheaper record is crushed. Edison Records are supreme.

H. W. MOSHER.

ONE DEALER'S REGRET.

Have sold several Phonographs, but at present I haven't an Edison in stock. I have five ——— and one ——— in stock and I am trying hard to get rid of them. I do not want to handle anything but the Edison Phonograph, for I consider it the only talking machine and musical instrument in existence. There is no use to think of selling the machines I have in stock as long as the Edison is kept along with them, for the Edison will sell itself, but the others are stayers, or stickers, or scratchers and are not to be compared with the Edison when it comes to smoothness and sweetness of tone. I am sorry I ever took up anything but Edison goods, and just as soon as I can get rid of these other machines I intend to stock up again with the Edison.

I wish you would propose some kind of a plan so I can dispose of them in short order. Any information you can give me on the subject will be thankfully received. I want you to understand that I am for the Edison every time, for I think it is the only talking machine made; others are the poorest kind of imitations.

A LETTER FROM WALES.

I never before knew how superior the Edison Machines, etc., are over all others until this month. As you know I deal a little with the ———. About a month ago I asked that firm (by letter) if they thought the ———phone was better than the Standard (Edison) allowing for the difference in price, 2 gns. They answered: Yes, decidedly. I ordered one and have returned it to-day because I am certain I could never sell it. My opinion, and my customers', is that it cannot be in the same street as the Standard if it was the same price. I give you my word, I will never sell another Phonograph or anything else except the Edison manufacture. I never was more convinced of the superiority in my life.

F. E. HUGHES,
Oswestry, Wales.

[The above letter was written to our London office.]

A COINCIDENCE.

We have been greatly interested in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, as are all Edison people, and a story in this month's issue brings to mind an incident which happened in our store last winter. This is absolutely true.

We were playing the Record "Firemen's Duty" for a customer, and just as the fireman says "Box 32, let her go, Bill," the fire-gong on the tower at the central station struck 32. As this box is located near the Adventist Sanitarium it created some excitement, but the customer stayed right by the Edison till the Record was played through.

We have a good business on Edison lines.

Language Lessons for Pan-Americans

SPANISH-ENGLISH
ENGLISH-SPANISH

How Dealers Unite Two Continents

THE Spanish-American war has made the Spanish language the most useful to Americans, and the reverse is true for South Americans, who are waking up to the necessity of learning English. The Edison dealers, through the sale of the I. C. S. Courses, will be the principal agency for this exchange of languages so essential to the expansion of trade and commerce.

Mr. L. L. Lewis, Superintendent, Sun Life Insurance Company, of Canada, writes us from Monterey, Mexico, as follows :—" Since coming here I have opened a new branch, have perfected myself in Spanish by your method, and in June, stood second in new business for the whole western foreign field of my Company."

I. C. S. Records and Textbooks are arranged to teach French, German, and Spanish to English people, and English to nine foreign nations.

SAMPLE LESSONS FURNISHED AT COST

We send samples of I. C. S. Moulded Records and Textbooks in French, German, Spanish, and English to Edison Dealers in the United States or Canada, express prepaid, $2.00 net; or one English Record with assortment of foreign textbooks, express prepaid, 75 cents net.

THE DEMAND FOR EDISON GOODS BEYOND ALL EXPECTATIONS.

It is with a combined feeling of pride and regret that we address Jobbers and Dealers in Edison goods this month. We justly feel proud in being able to say that no such demand for Edison Phonographs and Records has existed since Mr. Edison gave the Phonograph to the world. We regret that our facilities, unequalled as they are by any other similar plant in the world, are not adequate to enable us to properly and promptly fill the orders sent us by the trade; we feel the situation more keenly than the public would credit. When a large manufacturing company sends out salesmen, advertises extensively and puts forth every effort to sell its goods, those who place orders with it have every reason to expect that they will be filled completely and within a reasonable time. Not to be able to do so is a great disappointment to us.

A year ago a somewhat similar situation prevailed at our factory in Orange. The demand for Phonographs and Records for many weeks exceeded the output, although we put forth unusual efforts to keep ahead of orders. With a determination that such a state of affairs should not occur again, we began to increase our manufacturing facilities in every department and on July 1st had a capacity, as we thought, ample for a long time to come. Then came the decision to increase the Record business by reducing the price to 35 cents each. That this action would bring more orders than could be easily taken care of was not considered possible. Such has been the result, however, and there is no apparent let up in the situation.

We naturally expected the flood of orders that came in immediately after the new prices were announced. We knew, that the entire

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS.
COMBINED ADVANCE LIST FOR NOVEMBER-DECEMBER, 1904.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near November 20th as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if placed prior to October 20th, will be shipped. November-December Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock order for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

trade had held back orders for several weeks in anticipation of the new conditions, and it was a moral certainty that they would want to replenish their stock. These orders at once made deep inroads on our reserve facilities. Then came a record-breaking demand for the August Records. The list was excellent, they were to be packed in the new boxes and have the titles engraved on the end, and Phonograph owners everywhere wanted some of them. Still the stock orders continued to come, and Jobbers who had already had stock orders filled began to come back for a further supply. Next came a series of orders for the fine September list that overtopped the aggregate for August. And with every order for the new list came orders for selections already listed. All this time our Record plant was running to its limit and night work, with different crews and full hours, had been resorted to.

When it was decided to make 35 cents the selling price of Edison Gold Moulded Records, it was believed that the lower price would greatly increase the demand for Phonographs. The reduction in price of another make of cylindrical record had caused a larger demand for Edison Phonographs and we felt sure that a 35 cents price for our own superior Record would make a still greater demand for them. During the summer, when, by our advice, the trade was keeping stocks low and placing few orders, we kept right on making thousands of machines ahead and holding them in stock. This course was most fortunate. No sooner were the new conditions made known than heavy machine orders began to flow in and they have continued to come at a rate that has fully kept pace with Record orders.

Up to this time this prosperous state of affairs had no other effect upon the officials of the company than a glowing feeling of self complacency. It was coming our way to even a greater extent than we had anticipated and we were in for the business of our lives as a company.

The advance list for October was sent out. It was declared by the trade to be the best yet, and they backed the declaration with phenomenal orders. Stock orders for Records and orders for machines showed no signs of decreasing and early in September all hands suddenly realized that we were face to face with a situation that would require heroic treatment. A meeting of the officers of the company and all department heads was called to discuss the subject. A rounding up of reports showed that the facilities we thought equal for immediate contingencies must be further enlarged at once and added to constantly. The stock of machines that we had accumulated during the summer had melted away and orders on hand for machines were as much behind as orders for Records. Fortunately we were so situated that increased facilities could be had in a short time and steps were at once taken to secure them the utmost despatch. Orders were issued to continue to run the entire plant day and night; directions were given to buy machinery in every department in which the daily output did not equal the maximum; men were sent in every direction to expedite the shipment of raw materials and machinery already on order, and general instructions were given to spare neither time nor money to increase the product.

To further relieve the situation it was decided to combine the November and December advance lists of twenty-five titles each and get out but one list of thirty titles, this combined list to be ready for shipment so as to reach the trade prior to December 1st. A more detailed announcement concerning this list is printed elsewhere.

We now ask the trade to be as patient as possible until the full effect of our efforts to increase our output can be realized. It does not seem possible that we shall not then be able to catch up and keep ahead. As before stated, we are to-day making more Phonographs and more Records than ever before, and we will, by making partial shipments, do all we can to keep the trade supplied until all orders can be filled complete.

UNSIGNED DEALERS TO BE REMOVED.

This copy of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY will be the last printed matter or advertising literature we shall mail to Dealers who have not signed the new Agreement, Form No. 890. During the next two weeks we will remove from our mailing list all but such Dealers as have complied with the requirements of our system. There is nothing in the new Agreement that is not calculated to benefit the trade and there is no reason why it should not be signed by every Dealer who desires to continue the sale of our goods. We will therefore assume that those who have not signed are no longer interested.

Edison goods were never in greater demand. Don't drop the line now. Sign the new Agreement at once.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER LISTS TO BE COMBINED.

Owing to the large and unprecedented orders received to date, and with a conservative estimate of orders that will be received up to December 1st, we find that it will be impossible to issue lists of 28 new selections each for both November and December, and furnish the December list in time for the holiday trade. For this reason we have decided to combine November and December lists into one, and instead of 28 the list will contain 30 selections.

The selections will be shipped to Jobbers on or about November 20th so as to be in the hands of Dealers about December 1st.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.
C. H. WILSON, Manager of Sales.

October 1st, 1904.

Below is given a copy of a letter mailed to every Jobber on October 1. It is published in full in order that Dealers may see how important it is that Jobbers have their cooperation in making up their orders and getting them in early. The demand for these thirty selections is going to be unusually heavy and those Jobbers who fail to get their orders in on time will probably be delayed in getting their supply. Dealers will, therefore, assist the Jobbers by placing orders in good season. The letter to Jobbers follows:

NOTICE TO JOBBERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1, 1904.

Dear Sirs:—

Owing to the large and unprecedented orders received to date, and with a very conservative estimate of orders that will be received up to December 1st, we find it will be impossible to issue lists of twenty-five new selections each for both November and December, and furnish the December list in time for the holiday trade. For this reason we have decided to combine November and December lists into one, and instead of twenty-five the list will contain thirty selections.

If you have a standing order with us for the sample Records, samples of this combined November and December list will be sent you on October 10th. Stock orders for such quantity of them as you desire must be mailed us not later than October 20th. We will then exert every effort to make shipment of such stock orders on or about November 20th. This will place in your possession a stock of November and December Records December 1st, or about the time you would receive the November Records, if list was issued separately. We trust this arrangement will meet with your approval.

Please do not forget that in order to make shipment of stock orders about November 20th, your order must be mailed us not later than October 20th. Any orders sent us after that date will have to follow shipment of those sent us by that time.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.,
C. H. WILSON,
Manager of Sales.

A PROFITABLE SECOND HAND STOCK.

One of our Western Jobbers who does a large retail business was recently asked if he did not find it somewhat of a handicap to sell only Edison goods. He replied:

"It is hardly fair to say that I sell only Edison goods. It is true that I am not the authorized agent for any other line, but I have in my store every type and style of every talking machine made in this country. They are machines that I have taken in exchange for Edison Phonographs, from people who have tired of them and wanted an Edison. Odd as it may seem, having all styles aids in selling Edison outfits. When a customer enters my store we first ascertain what style of machine he wants, provided he has decided upon a choice. If he wants a machine other than an Edison we explain that we haven't a new machine of that style, but have one that we have taken in exchange for a Phonograph. We assure him that it will play as well as a new machine; that we guarantee to keep it in good order for several months, and that we will be glad to play records on it for him. If he calls what he thinks is a bluff on our part, we make good and show just what the machine will do. We then get him to listen to an Edison Phonograph. The contrast is so great and so pleasing to him that we seldom fail to sell him an Edison machine. My stock of second-hand machines represent quite some money, but they pay a handsome interest as object lessons."

CHANGE IN WESTERN MANAGER.

George M. Nisbett has succeeded J. E. Garvin as manager of the Chicago office of the National Phonograph Company. Mr. Nisbett has been connected with the Chicago office since it was first established.

WHY JOBBERS CANNOT FILL ORDERS.

Dealers who buy Edison goods through Jobbers and who find that the latter are not filling their orders completely and promptly are asked to give the article on trade conditions printed on the first page of this issue their careful consideration. The facts there set forth are the simple truth. No effort has been made to exaggerate. It is not necessary. Owing to the unparalleled demand for our goods we are unable to make complete shipments, except for the monthly supplement, to any Jobber. If the latter does not get the goods he can only partially fill the orders of his Dealers. Therefore if your Jobber tells you that he is doing the best he can he probably is.

We must ask the forbearance of both Jobbers and Dealers for a short time. We are working our factory to its absolute limit night and day; we are constantly adding new machinery and putting on more help, and although the new orders still exceed the output we fully believe that we shall soon have facilities that will enable us to catch up and keep ahead of all demands.

No Phonogram for November.

Owing to the combining of the November and December Lists of Edison Gold Moulded the Records in to one list, no separate issue of Phonogram will be published for November. That month and December will be combined into one number, and will be shipped with the November-December Records. Those who have paid for subscriptions to the Phonogram, will have the date of expiration extended one month.

LEARN TO MAKE RECORDS.

We doubt if many Dealers appreciate the selling value of the fact that Records can be so successfully made with the Edison Phonograph, for we know that many of them pay no attention to this feature. Others have taken the pains to learn how to get good results and they report that it pays them handsomely right along. An illustration of this was given us recently by a Jobber in one of the large Pennsylvania cities. This Jobber enjoys the acquaintance of many of the prominent officials and politicians of his State. One day, a few weeks ago, one of the most prominent Democratic United States Senators in the country came into his place with some political friends. Our Jobber asked him to make a Record. The Senator consented, but instead of speaking into the horn he sang a song, to the great delight of all present. The Senator was so pleased with the reproduction of his vocal efforts that he ordered a Triumph machine and a complete outfit sent to his home, although he had no thought of making a purchase when he entered the place. Incidentally it might be said that the Senator's Record is much prized by our Jobber friend.

Other cases might be cited where this ability to make a Record has so pleased the maker that he has ordered an outfit at once. Dealers who have given this feature of the business little attention should spend some time in getting posted.

THOSE CUT OUTS.

The fact that we do not purpose taking back from the trade any of the 227 selections omitted from the present Record catalogue has caused a little comment from a few Jobbers, who have some on hand. Under all the circumstances we do not think that we should be expected to take them back. The selections in question were dropped at the solicitation of the Jobbers, the claim being made that something should be done to keep down the list on account of the large stock that it compelled them to carry. A letter was sent to many Jobbers, asking their opinions as to the least popular selections. These opinions and our own books were used as the basis for deciding upon the cut-out list. The omitted selections, therefore, were those of which the Jobbers had the smallest number on hand. So far as possible our action had the endorsement of the Jobbers. Then the cut-out list was issued in April and they were included in the Record catalogue until August, allowing Jobbers over four months in which to work off their stocks. And most of them did so to a large extent.

If Jobbers and Dealers still have some on hand they should not consider them as dead stock. Most of them are still desirable selections and many of them would please some people better than the later selections. A little judgment in playing them for customers will assist materially in disposing of most of the stock.

PIKE INJUNCTION.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TO WILLIAM A. PIKE, and every person connected directly or in-[L. S.] directly with you, and your associates, attorneys, servants, clerks, agents and workmen, GREETING:

WHEREAS, It has been represented to us in our Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts, in a certain case therein depending, wherein Edison Phonograph Company, and National Phonograph Company (Complainants), and you, the said William A. Pike, are defendant, that Letters Patent of the United States Nos. 287,418 and 386,974 were issued in due form of law and that you, the said William A. Pike have infringed claims 9, 11, 13, 14, 16, 24, 27, 28 of said Letters Patent No. 386,974, and claims 1 and 2 of said Letters Patent No. 287,418.

NOW THEREFORE, we strictly command and enjoin you, the said William A. Pike and your associates, attorneys, servants, clerks, agents and workmen from directly or indirectly using or causing to be used, selling or causing to be sold, or advertising for sale any machines, articles or devices not licensed by complainants, and embodying or constructed or operating in accordance with the inventions and improvements set forth in the said claims or either of them, and particularly from directly or indirectly selling or causing to be sold or advertising for sale any Phonograph Records, Cylinders or blanks at less than the prices at which they are licensed by complainants to be sold.

GREATER DEMAND FOR BETTER STYLES.

One of the agreeable surprises of the early fall has been the great increase in the sale of Triumph machines. The sale at present is double what it was a year ago and is growing steadily and rapidly. This increased demand is not to be wondered at, for with its suspension springs and speed indicator it is certainly an ideal Phonograph. It is quite evident that the trade is talking up the better grades of Phonograph, for the increase in the sale of the Standard, Home and Triumph types is very much greater than the Gem. It is a benefit to a prospective purchaser to get him to take as good a machine as he can afford, for it will give him greater satisfaction in the end. Incidentally it pays the Dealer a better profit.

USE ORDER SHEETS FOR RECORDS AND ORDER BOOKS FOR MACHINES.

Jobbers and others ordering goods direct from this company are again urged to make out all orders for Records on the special sheets furnished by us for the purpose. These sheets contain numbers corresponding with the numbers in the catalogues, and they render it an easy and simple matter to make up an order for Records. They also reduce to a minimum the liability to error in getting orders filled at our factory. Those who have been sending orders to this office on plain sheets and without making an effort to have the numbers come in sequence are asked to use the printed order sheets if they have them, or send to us for a supply if they have none on hand. Orders for machines should be made out on the order books, also furnished by us.

TO CHANGE OVER CONCERT MACHINES.

Dealers should bear in mind that we furnish a device at $7.95 list by which Concert Phonographs may be made to play the small Record. If you know of any one who now has a Concert machine that he is not using much, get him to change it over to play the standard size Record. You will not only make a profit on the device itself, but every Concert changed over in this way means the sale of more Records. If you don't know about this device write our Sales Department.

APPRECIATIVE ENGLISH FACTORS.

The National Phonograph Company, Ltd., has taken up in England the plan pursued by the parent company in this country of sending to its Jobbers (they are called Factors in England) samples of each monthly list of new Records. The plan has been found to work as successfully as in "the States." At the same time the London company is getting out some remarkably fine British selections. Below are given copies of three telegrams recently received at London from leading Factors of Great Britain. They refer to List No. 10, British selections, just issued: •

Shore Rd., Douglas, Manchester.
Congratulate you on the 10th List. Every one a success. CHRISTIAN DUWE.

Thomas St., Manchester.
Tried No. 10, British List, last night. Congratulate you upon the excellency of Records and choice of selections. RICHARSSON'S.

Clerkenwell Green, London.
Have tested samples of No. 10, British supplement. Consider them the best British issued by you. Ordering largely to-day.
MURDOCH & Co.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

PRINTED MATTER.

Orders for Record order sheet, Form No. 425, have been cut down for some weeks past, but we are now in better shape to fill moderate orders.

New Discount sheets are being prepared for the use of the trade. As soon as ready copies will be mailed to all Jobbers and Dealers. These sheets have been held back awaiting decisions on certain small matters. They will not contain any new discounts or make any changes in existing ones.

With the present demand for Edison Records it is not surprising that there should be a heavy demand for Record catalogues. While we expected a great business this fall, we were hardly prepared to have it begin so soon or to be so heavy. The demand for Record catalogues began before the new edition was ready, and even by making partial shipments we have not been able to get catalogues from the printer fast enough to keep the trade satisfied. By continuing the plan of making partial shipments we hope to make the present edition last until another can be got ready. The new edition will include September and October and possibly the combined November and December list.

Jobbers and Dealers are urged to use their present supply of Phonograph catalogue No. 500 for regular purposes only and not send them out for circularizing. We have but a few on hand and will only be able to fill small orders until the new edition is ready. We shall begin to get copies of the new edition in about two weeks. In the new catalogue the story feature will be eliminated, the various goods listed being treated in much the same style as Catalogue No. 375, which preceded No. 500. The interior view of several styles of Phonographs will be omitted as tending to confuse the uninitiated, and the machines will be shown a little larger. The catalogue will be printed in two colors. The illustrations and type work will be in black, and each page will be surrounded by an artistic border of gray. It will be a creditable piece of work.

JULY AND AUGUST PHONOGRAMS.

We are anxious to get back some copies of the Phonogram for July and August. Any Jobber having a few left over will confer a favor by advising the Advertising Department of the fact.

Sign new Agreement at once and keep in good standing.

NO LET UP IN EFFORT.

A Dealer recently wrote that he found the August list of Edison Gold Moulded Records even better than when they were sold at 50 cents each. He seemed surprised that such should be the case. We should regret very much to find that any one had looked for a deterioration in quality because our Records had been reduced to 35 cents, for the contrary will be the case. Not only will there be no let up, but increased efforts will be put forth and more money expended to make each new list better than the month before. We realize that with their present high quality this is cutting out a considerable task for our Recording Department, but we know that they will "make good."

PARDON US.

The Advertising Department, which is responsible for the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY and the New Phonogram, has again made trouble for the trade by publishing incorrect information. On page 5 in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY for September we said that Home Phonographs are now being equipped with speed indicators. Such is not the case. We are experimenting with such a device, but it is not likely that it will be put on the Home for some time. Proper notice will be given when it is done.

On page 16 of the New Phonogram for September we said that the Standard Phonograph is equipped with an Edison Recorder, when every one in the trade knows that it is not.

DEALERS PRINTED MATTER.

G. C. Aschbach, Jobber at Allentown, Pa., sends a copy of his fall booklet called "A Leader of Music." It is neatly printed in red and black. It treats on the various musical instruments carried by Mr. Aschbach, including the Edison Phonograph.

A neatly printed folder in three colors comes from L. C. Miller, a Dealer at Waverly, N. Y. The first page announces Mr. Miller's monthly concert of Edison Records. The second page shows a list of the September Records; the third page invites the recipient to attend the concert, and on the fourth page is an enumeration of the goods carried by Mr. Miller.

It will be easier to keep on our mailing list by signing new Agreement now than to get your name restored after it has been removed.

COMMENTS ON NOVEMBER-DECEMBER RECORDS.

In the opinion of the officials of the National Phonograph Company, who have heard them played over, the combined list of thirty selections gotten out for November-December is decidedly the best ever produced by our Recording Department. As usual, the list is sufficiently diversified to suit all tastes. For the holiday season there are two distinctively Christmas hymns and five others of a religious character. There are three selections that will appeal strongly to the patriotic and lovers of martial music. Those partial to instrumental Records will find in the list four by the bands, three by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, and two fine novelties, one a bells and xylophone duet and the other a banjo trio. Among the vocal selections are six of popular songs and several ballads of an attractive character. Several Records include new features in the art of recording and all are made in a manner that shows even a greater percentage of advance than ever before attained in one month. The following brief comments do not do justice to the list:

No. 8826, "The Chirpers," is a characteristic selection written by Charles Frank and played by the Edison Military Band. A novel feature of this Record is the whistling done by a number of artists to represent the chirping of birds. Other features are excellent work by the clarinets and bells. The entire selection is very pretty and the Record will be much in demand.

No. 8827, "Shine On, Oh Stars," is a ballad of the higher order in which Irving Gillette makes his bow to the Phonograph public. Mr. Gillette has a cultivated voice of a fine tenor quality as all who hear this Record will admit. This composition is called a "Song-Romance" and was written by Frank E. Sawyer. The Record has an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8828, "My Heart's Desire," is another charming ballad of a sentimental character and it is sung with orchestra accompaniment by W. H. Thompson. The accompaniment is very pretty. "My Heart's Desire" was written by Harry Rowe Shelley, whose symphonies, string quartettes, organ music and church anthems have made him prominent in the entire music world. He is organist and choirmaster of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York city, and is one of those who were invited to play the great organ at the St. Louis Fair.

No. 8829, "Blue Bell," is something new in the way of a Phonograph Record. It is a bells and xylophone duet by Albert Benzler and Frederick W. Hager, with orchestra accompaniment. This is a most excellent Record of one of the most popular airs published in some time. The tune is carried by the bells, the xylophone plays a variation of the air and back of this is a fine orchestra accompaniment. We predict that this Record will sell as well as the vocal Record of the same selection, the demand for which has exhausted our capacity to manufacture it ever since it was listed. The composer of "Blue Bell" is Theodore F. Morse.

No. 8830, "Save It For Me," is Billy Murray's comic song for the month. This is a song of a topical character and treats of several subjects in a witty manner. It has an orchestra accompaniment. The words are by James W. Johnson and the music by Bob Cole.

No. 8831, "Has Your Mother any More Like You," is a charming selection written by Robert A. Keiser. It has an air that is especially suited to a duet for contralto and baritone voices. This Record is nicely sung by Miss Nelson and Mr. Stanley, with orchestra accompaniment, the voices of the singers blending well together.

No. 8832, "The Feast of Lanterns Overture," written by C. W. Bennett, is perhaps the most artistic Record in the list. It is made by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. Little effort has been made to get volume, this feature being subordinated to make the selection sweet and delicate. Very pretty effects are obtained by a number of crescendos throughout the composition. Those of advanced musical taste will find this Record extremely pleasing.

No. 8833, "Make a Fuss Over Me," is Arthur Collins' coon song for the month and is sung in his usual clever manner. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The words of this song were written by Edward Madden and the music by Theodore F. Morse.

No. 8834, "What Shall the Harvest Be," the music for which was written by P. P. Bliss and the words by Mrs. Emily S. Oakey, is a nicely rendered selection by the Mendelssohn Mixed Quartette. It is listed in response to many inquiries that we have received ever since Edison Records were made by the moulded process. It cannot fail to please those who desire Records of sacred music.

No. 8835, "Imagination," is an unusually well rendered Record of this well known and popular topical song. It is sung by Arthur Collins with orchestra accompaniment. The Record has the musical feature of giving four different verses and four choruses. These refer to various timely topics. "Imagination" was written by Bryan and Mullen.

No. 8836, "Pepita Maguire," is a comic song written by J. B. Mullen and sung by Edward M. Favor with orchestra accompaniment. The air is an amusing combination of Mexican and Irish music. Maguire has married a pretty Mexican girl and he sings in sorrowful tones of her cigarette smoking proclivities, as well as the other habits of her native country. The selection has an attractive air and Mr. Favor sings it in good style.

No. 8837, "O Come, All Ye Faithful" (Adeste Fidelis), by the Edison Male Quartette, is an excellent unaccompanied Record of this well known hymn. This is another Record for which there have been many requests.

No. 8838, "Jovial Joe," is a composition written by Justus Ringleben and is played by the Edison Concert Band. It is a slow drag cakewalk and is written in the general style of "Southern Smiles" and "Peaceful Henry," both of which achieved great popularity. Considerable public favor is expected of "Jovial Joe."

No. 8839, "Rack of Ages," is sung as a tenor and baritone duet, with orchestra accompaniment, by Campbell and Harrison. Ever since these artists made the Record "Old Jim's Christmas Hymn" we have had many requests from Dealers and Phonograph owners asking to have these artists make a complete Record of "Rock of Ages," a part of which is given in "Old Jim's Christmas Hymn." We feel sure that this Record will satisfy not only those who have wanted the selections, but all who desire music of this character. The music was specially arranged for this Record, the second verse being differently sung than the first, although Dr. Hastings' old familiar tune is retained throughout. This is one of the best religious Records that we have ever put out.

No. 8840, "The Wedding of Barney and Bedelia," is a clever sky sung Irish male duet by Collins and Harlan and it has the usual orchestra accompaniment. This song was written by Ed Rogers, and has the attractive swing characteristic of the two songs "Barney" and "Bedelia," although the air is unlike either.

No. 8841, "I've Got a Feelin' For You," is another special feature of the November-December list. It is played as a banjo trio by the Ossman Banjo Trio, composed of Messrs. Ossman, Hunter and Farmer. Beyond question this is one of the best banjo Records ever made. Even those who do not ordinarily care for the music of this instrument cannot fail to like this Record. The air of the selection is very attractive and one especially adapted to the banjo.

No. 8842, "Hail! Smiling Morn," is a Christmas carol by Reginald Spofforth and is sung by the Edison Male Quartette without accompaniment. It is an artistic presentation of a timely composition.

No. 8843, "There's Nothing New to Say," is a sentimental song, the theme of which is "I love you; there's nothing new to say." It is sung in a delightful manner and with clear enunciation by Harry MacDonough and has an excellent orchestra accompaniment. The words of this song were written by Harry H. Luther and the music by Alfred G. Robyn.

No. 8844, "Down Tennessee Barn Dance," by Dan Crager, is a very ambitious Record. It is played by the Edison Symphony Orchestra and introduces choruses of male voices with banjo accompaniment. The Record opens with the playing of orchestra music and then the male voices join in singing an original plantation melody. At the same time the orchestra music gradually dies away and the banjos take up the accompaniment. The Record closes with singing, darkies shouting and orchestra and banjo music. Mr. Hunter plays the banjo.

No. 8845, "Down at the Baby Store," tells a pretty story of a little lad whose baby sister has been taken away and who seeks to find another sister. Seeing some children playing at an orphan home, he enters, picks out a little golden-hair lassie and takes her home to his mother, telling her he found her "Down at the Baby Store." It goes almost without telling that the Record is made by Byron G. Harlan, and he sings it most satisfactorily. Harry Von Tilzer wrote the music and Alfred Bryan the words of this song.

No. 8846, "A Little Boy Called Taps," is a new song by Theodore F. Morse, who wrote "A Little Boy in Blue," which achieved such wide popularity. Byron G. Harlan's well rendered Record of this composition will do much to make it equally popular. The Record is sung with orchestra accompaniment. The song is of a patriotic nature and the music includes bugle calls, etc. A novel effect is introduced at the end by the bugles sounding taps, accompanied by violin music. This is a new feature and one that will be found most pleasing.

No. 8847, "I May Be Crazy, but I Ain't No Fool," is Bob Roberts' contribution to the list. As usual with him, his enunciation is so clear that every word of the song can be understood the first time. This selection was written by Alexander Rogers and was sung by Williams and Walker in "In Dahomey." The singer is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8848, "The Village Maid," tells the story of Dolly Dimple as sung by the Rogers Brothers in their last concert, "The Rogers Brothers in Paris." Dolly Dimple was a simple village maid, but she soon acquired city ways when she came to town. The Record is made by Collins and Harlan and they have seldom sung better selections. "The Village Maid" was written by Max Hoffmann.

No. 8849, "Our National Airs," is another novel Record by Len Spencer, with incidental music by the band and orchestra. It is a patriotic poem in which a verse is devoted to "Marching Through Georgia," "Dixie," "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Mr. Spencer recites a verse and at its close the band and orchestra play the airs referred to. This Record cannot fail to appeal strongly to all who are fond of patriotic music.

No. 8850, "Medley of War Songs," is a splendidly executed Record by the Edison Military Band. It introduces "Marching Through Georgia," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Glory Hallelujah," "The Battle Cry of Freedom" and "Kingdom Coming." The finale is especially good.

No. 8851, "My Little Canoe," is a selection from "The School Girl," played by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. This song was sung by Edna May and was one of the most delightful features of the opera. It is the kind of song in which the verses are sung as a solo and responses are made by the chorus. The music is unusually sweet and attractive in character. The composer is Leslie Stuart, who wrote the music for "Florodora."

No. 8852, "The Birthday of a King," is a fine baritone solo with orchestra accompaniment of W. H. Neidlinger's Christmas song, the soloist being Frank C. Stanley. This is another Record especially suited to the holiday season.

No. 8853. "The Star of Bethlehem," is a composition written by Stephen Adams, the composer of "The Holy City." It is sung by Irving Gillette, referred to above as a new tenor singer, who is accompanied by the orchestra. Mr. Gillette makes a fine Record of this selection.

No. 8854. "Ring the Bells of Heaven," is the first Record that we have made with the Chimes in some time. It is one of the best of its kind that we have put out.

No. 8855. "A Deed of the Pen March," is a selection that typifies the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Intermingled with the music are phrases from various patriotic songs. This composition was written by Neil Moret, widely known as the composer of "Hiawatha." The Record is made by the Edison Concert Band in a manner that does the composition full justice.

MODEL D REPEATING ATTACHMENT.

We have just perfected a new style repeating attachment, which will be known as Model D. This attachment is designed primarily for coin-slot Phonographs, but it can be readily attached to the inch, rachet shaped, and is driven by means of a spur gear which engages a similar gear on the main shaft pulley, thus dispensing with a belt or chain. An adjustment is provided at each end of the bracket to suit the beginning and the end of the Record. The adjustment for the end of the Record is accomplished by rotating the disk which is carried on the return screw. This disk also carries the pin which acts on the lift lever block to raise the diaphragm arm and engage the block with the threads of the return screw. This lifting action also disengages the feed nut from the thread of the main shaft and the return screw of the attachment takes the reproducer arm back to the starting point. The return movement takes about 1-25th of the time to play the Record. All parts of the return device subject to wear are hardened.

How to Attach Model D Repeating Attachment to the Home Phonograph.

The following directions and illustrations apply to the Home Phonograph only. The directions for attaching the device to other types differs principally in the method of fastening the attachment arm to the back rod.

to the Home, Triumph, Concert, Victor and Conqueror Phonographs. It is remarkable for its simplicity and effectiveness. Its principal features are the return screw and lifting lever block. The screw is mounted on a cast bracket which is fastened with two screws to the Phonograph body in front of the cylinder shaft. These two holes for fastening bracket are the only holes to be drilled and tapped to fasten attachment. The lifting lever block is carried by an arm which is clamped to the back rod sleeve. The return screw has four threads

Drill and tap the body for the two 8-32 screws (R-R) ½ inch and 35/64 inches respectively from the end of the body (Y) and parallel with and 2.54 inches from the center of the back rod (Z) (Fig. 1).

Remove the back rod (Z) and the speaker arm (W) from the machine and place the repeating attachment arm (D) over the speaker arm (W). Then replace the speaker arm and back rod on the machine having the arm (D) next to the feed nut spring (S). The clamp (P) should be placed in the arm

(D) with the bent end at the front or back of the speaker arm (W), either side that will allow the block (V) to hang in a vertical position when just touching the return screw (C) (Fig. 2).

Adjust the arm (D) for height by means of the adjusting screw (F) and set screws (E-E) so that the lifting pin (A) clears the projector (B) by 1-64 inches (Fig. 2) when the feed nut (X) engages with the main shaft thread (T).

The lifting disc (G) may be moved in either direction by rotating on the return screw (C) after loosening the set screw (H) and the trip rod (M) by the thumb screw (N).

PRESIDENT DIAZ'S BIRTHDAY GIFT.

President Diaz, of Mexico, celebrated the seventy-fourth anniversary of his birth on September 15. In honor of the event Thomas A. Edison presented him with a handsome gold mounted Phonograph and a choice selection of Mexican Records just made in Mexico City by the National Phonograph Company. The Phonograph bore the following inscription:

"Fonógrafo Especial Presentado por Thomas Alva Edison á su Excelencia el Señor General Porfirio Diaz, Presidente de los Estados Unidos Mexicanos, Septiembre Quince, de mil novecientos cuatro."

("Special Phonograph presented by Thomas Alva Edison to his Excellency Señor General Porfirio Diaz, President of the United States of Mexico, September fifteenth, nineteen hundred and four.")

The present was accompanied by a personally signed letter from Mr. Edison, as follows:

September 2, 1904.

His Excellency General Porfirio Diaz,
President of the United States of Mexico.

Dear Sir:—On this, the fifteenth day of September, when all your countrymen are participating in the celebration of your birthday, I likewise wish to commemorate same, in presenting to you, through my representative, one of my latest model Phonographs, together with an assortment of Vocal and Instrumental Gold Moulded Records, recently made by prominent artists in Mexico City, and it is my desire that you should receive the first copies.

I beg you to accept this gift as a token of my esteem for Mexico's most honored man and trust that this instrument will afford you many moments of pleasure.

That many returns of this happy day be granted you, is the sincere wish of

Very truly yours,
Thomas A. Edison.

President Diaz has replied to Mr. Edison, as follows:

Mexico, September 19, 1904.

Señor Thomas A. Edison,
Llewellyn Park, N. J., U. S. A.

My Esteemed Sir:—Señor Don Rafael Cabañas handed to me the elegant Phonograph, together with a select and a beautiful assortment of Gold Moulded Records, you had the kindness to send me, making your delicate gallantry and your gift coincide with the date of my birth. I received it with great pleasure, not only on account of the moments, that, as you very well say, I will enjoy, but mainly coming as it does from one of the most notable inventors of the nineteenth century, whom I admire, and whose phrases of friendship and benevolence bestowed upon me, do me a great deal of honor.

Your servant and friend,
Porfirio Diaz.

The presentation to President Diaz was made by Rafael Cabañas, representing Mr. Edison and the National Phonograph Company in Mexico. Mr. Cabañas was introduced to President Diaz by General Powell Clayton, United States Ambassador.

The Records presented to President Diaz are part of a series of about 300, the masters for which were made under the direction of George J. Werner, one of the experts from our Recording Department, who spent four months in Mexico carrying on this work.

On the day before the presentation the representatives of the Mexican city newspapers were invited to inspect it and also to hear some of the new Mexican selections. All of the papers represented, next day contained long accounts of this affair, one of these, from the El Correo Español is reprinted below:

THE MARVELS OF THE PHONOGRAPH.

A Present to Senor General Diaz.

Kindly invited by Sr. Rafael Cabañas, General Representative at this Republic of that notable inventor Edison and his National Phonograph Company, and Edison Manufacturing Company, we visited yesterday afternoon the salons of the enterprise, situated on Colon First Street, which is intended for the recording of the Phonograph books, to be present at the proof of many of these, made with a magnificent apparatus installed there.

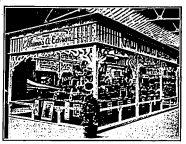
The visit was a most enjoyable one. The apparatus, manipulated by Mr. George J. Werner, one of the most skilful experts of the Edison Laboratory, made us hear, reproduced with the amazing naturalness of tone, and without the slightest hint of mechanical noise, recitations in verse and prose by eminent orators and poets of this country, pieces of Mexican and Spanish music, etc., all performed with the inflections and peculiarities of each instrument, (when it referred to instrumental music,) and a surprise volume that filled the vast hall.

The voice of the singers kept all its natural sound and clear entonation; and thus we admire Camele Coyncta as if we were before the stage listening directly to the songstress, and applauded Juan de Dios Peza reciting admirably his verses and a speech made in praise of Edison.

Our astonishment reached the utmost when we heard from the Phonograph, as if we were at the Bull Fight arena, all that confused noise made by the crowd during the most interesting period of the fight.

Acceding to kind invitations, some of those in the audience placed themselves before the talking machine, whereupon we recorded several Records moulded in wax, and immediately tried same on the Phonograph, repeated our own voices and expressions with incomparable genuineness. It is impossible to ask more from this apparatus, a model of absolute perfection.

Messrs. Cabañas and Werner have recorded in this country about three hundred Records, repeating the proofs whenever it was necessary so as to obtain an absolute preciseness. These Wax Cylinders, recorded with small sapphires which we examined with a microscope, are the Masters to be used in the manufacture of Gold Moulded Records.



The above gentlemen received a splendid Phonograph purposely made for Señor General Diaz to be presented to him to-day in honor of his birthday. It is a very handsome instrument, entirely gold plated, and placed in a beautiful golden box.

BETTER THAN WHEN SOLD AT 50c.

We are pleased to inform you that we found the August list of Records even better than when the price was fifty cents, and we enjoyed a very excellent trade in consequence. We are perfectly satisfied with Edison goods, and as long as they give such good satisfaction we will handle no others.

Howard George,
Frankford, Phila.

TWO FROM GREAT BRITAIN.

Edison Phonograph Exhibit, Nottingham, England.

The above half tone is from a photograph of an exhibit of Edison Phonographs and Records made by the National Phonograph Company, Ltd., at the Midlands' Exhibition, Nottingham, England, from May 14 to October 8. The exhibit was thirty feet long by fifteen feet wide, and it was conceded to be the finest show of talking machines ever seen in England. Nottingham has a population of 250,000, and is one of the largest cities in the Midlands' counties of England.

A Camp Scene in England.

The above photograph shows an Edison Home Phonograph in operation at the annual camp of the Yorkshire Artillery at Scarborough, England. The instrument was the property of one of our English factors, who is a lieutenant in the regiment named.

IT AIDS THE BUSINESS.

Permit me to express my appreciation of Form No. 573. It catches the eye, and elicits much praise. Your method of sending the latest literature to Dealers is just the thing to build up a business.

Stockton, Cal.

NEW RECORD NUMBERS.

It is against our rule to publish anything that will appear like advertising, but we feel that it would be withholding from the trade a bit of useful information if we did not refer to the new set of Record numbers that Victor H. Rapke, of 1661 Second avenue, New York, is getting out for trade use. These numbers are printed on white ground paper, 2x2¾ in size. The following is an exact reproduction of one of them:

E. C. BAND.

Ballet Music from Coppelia

Mr. Rapke expects to get out these numbers for all Edison Records issued to date and then to get them out each month as we issue a new list. He intends to sell these numbers to Jobbers and allow them a discount on those sold to Dealers. Mr. Rapke states that he will send a set of the October numbers to all Dealers who write him concerning them during October.

AN ADVERTISING RECORD.

A Connecticut Dealer recently wrote: "While exhibiting at the ——— county fair two weeks ago I felt the need of a good talking record that would dilate upon the merits of your Phonographs and Records. While a crowd would soon disperse if I talked to them personally, it seemed as though a good loud argumentive Record would hold their attention because of the very novelty of being addressed in this manner. Why do you not get out something of this kind?"

The suggestion is by no means a new one. It has not had serious attention for two reasons: The demand for goods has held up this, as well as other new matters; and there has been a wide difference of opinion among Dealers as to what matter should be given on a Record of this kind. As a basis for reaching a decision in the near future, we shall be glad to receive from the trade suggestions as to what such a Record should say to a crowd of listeners.

BRITISH BAND RECORDS.

I have found your British band Records net a neat little profit when handled in the right way. For instance, a plan which is worked in my store is to play Record No. 12915, "Here, There and Everywhere," for every person who calls for Records, after they have selected what domestic Records they wish to buy. This invariably results in their purchasing this British Record in addition to those they already selected. We do not put the Record on until they have purchased all the domestic Records they want, so you can see it does not interfere with the sale of our regular stock. I have sold about 400 of Record No. 12915, and it has netted me quite a profit, not to speak of the new customers it has sent my way from people hearing the Record on my customer's machines. If the customer takes to the British Records I then run in the entire list, which I keep in stock constantly, in addition to every Record on your domestic catalogue. Douglas & Co., J. A. Rickard & Co. and W. D. Andrews, Jobbers, can testify to the way I have called for this Record, and, indeed, I have had to get about a hundred direct from you. I keep twenty-five of it in stock at all times.

"ONE THAT IS IN A CLASS BY ITSELF."

A little over two years ago Lawrence E. McGreal and his brother, Hugh J. McGreal, engaged in the talking machine business at 173 Third street, Milwaukee. They seemed exactly fitted for the business and the success was almost instantaneous and has increased with every year. Its extent may best be understood when it is considered that at the time for fifty instruments and 1,800 Records to be delivered in one consignment, whereas but a few days ago, without any second thought, they placed an order for 2,000 instruments and 30,000 Records.

"The talking machine is no longer a fad," said Lawrence E. McGreal, the other day. "It has passed the experimental stage and has become almost a necessity. It will be used more and more in business and probably the time is coming when we shall write our letters on records and transmit these through the mails.

"Our success is due principally to the fact that we handle a high grade article—one that is in a class by itself. Almost as important a factor has been our publicity campaign. We have been the first dealers in talking machines to use large space in the newspapers. Many of our ads. have been copied throughout the country."—Music Trade Review.

We might complete the above article by saying that the "high grade article—one that is in a class by itself," referred to by Mr. McGreal, is the Edison Phonograph.

The Problem of the Christmas Gift

Solved by the Edison Trade Who Demonstrate

"DOUBLE SERVICE" to Old and Young

Mr. Dealer, the illustration on this page must appeal to you as an attractive way to present the Edison Phonograph. Then why not advertise and demonstrate "Double Service"—Amusement and Language Study—remembering that it's the women, by a large majority, who direct the Christmas purchases.

"Double Service" attracts and proves. The Christmas buyer is attracted by this unique combination of fun and seriousness. The dealer proves the superiority of the Edison product by an I. C. S. Language Demonstration, calling for the highest type of talking machine.

Be wise and enterprising, and offer "Double Service" Christmas bargains in Edison Phonographs this year. We will help you with advice, price, and literature.

$2.00 Holiday Demonstrating Outfit $2.00

We supply a Holiday Demonstrating Outfit at cost to the trade, including Moulded Records and Special Text-books in French, German, Spanish, and English. Price, $2.00 net, express prepaid in the United States or Canada. Address

TRADE FACTS.

The steps taken by the National Phonograph Company early in September to increase the output of its factory at Orange, N. J., are bearing excellent fruit. An increase of fully thirty-five per cent. has already been secured, and it is expected that by December we shall be able to manufacture at least fifty per cent. more Phonographs and Records than were made in September under what we considered very favorable conditions for turning out large quantities of both. Orders continue to be as numerous and for even larger quantities than ever before, but we are steadily gaining on them, and expect by December 1st to have the situation well in hand.

The decision to drop one month's list and get out a combined list of thirty selections for November-December has been cordially approved by the trade. We are gratified to find that such was the case, for we had some misgivings as to how it would be received and would not have decided upon such a course had it not seemed impossible to do otherwise.

The judgment of the officials of this company, in believing that the combined November-December list is the best ever issued by the National Phonograph Company, has been most emphatically approved by the trade. The number of titles is only twenty per cent. larger than the usual list of twenty-five, but the advance orders were nearly fifty per cent. greater than the October advance orders, which exceeded any previous month in the history of the company. Two months ago it would have been impossible, with other work, to get these ready in one month, but our present facilities will enable us to have the entire list of advance orders in the hands of the trade before December 1st. The trade may rely upon this and make arrangements for holiday business accordingly. At the same time stock orders

COMBINED ADVANCE LIST FOR NOVEMBER-DECEMBER, 1904.

Dealers who have not yet placed their orders for these Records should do so at once. The demand for them is already phenomenal, and it will be greater as the holiday season draws nearer. They will be ready for shipment to Jobbers about November 20th.

for Phonographs and Records will have their full share of attention. Dealers who are delaying placing stock orders with their Jobbers should get busy, for with the passing of Election Day trade is going to be even better than it is now. The demand for Edison Phonographs and Records continues to grow by leaps and bounds, and the Dealers who do not keep up their stocks will have much to regret.

The reduction in the price of Edison Gold Moulded Records to thirty-five cents cannot alone account for the remarkable demand for Edison goods, for the sale of machines is fully as great as that of Records and no change has been made in the price of machines. It shows beyond cavil that the public are more and more recognizing the superiority of the Edison Phonograph and with the fullest opportunity of trying all others are choosing Mr. Edison's invention. It must be admitted, however, that the high standard of quality of Edison Gold Moulded Records has much to do with the popularity of the Phonograph.

DON'T INSIST UPON THE NEW STYLE.

Occasionally an order is received from a Jobber for stock Records with the direction that it be filled only with the new style cartons and the new style stamping on the end. The Jobber has probably been induced to make out his order in this way because his Dealers have made a similar stipulation. Since it is impossible, at present, to fill such an order in its entirety, part of it is returned to the Jobber, with a letter explaining the situation. The Jobber in turn passes the information on to his Dealers. In this way much time is lost in getting goods.

A word of explanation will aid the trade in understanding why we cannot as yet fill all orders for the new style box and marking. When these changes were decided upon we at once began to make over all the moulds of the titles already listed. There were over 1,100 of these in the domestic catalogue alone. This work has progressed steadily and is constantly going on, notwithstanding the great demand for Records. As fast as moulds are changed over all orders for such titles are filled with Records marked on the end and put up in the new box, and this will be continued whether so stipulated in the orders or not. It will, however, be two or three months more before the work of changing the moulds will be completed, at which time we will advise the trade of the fact. Until then it will be useless to direct that orders must be filled under new conditions. Such insistence will only cause correspondence and delay. There is no objection to a preference being expressed and it will be followed as far as possible.

Whether marked on the end in the new style or not, we are packing as many Records in the new boxes as we can get boxes for, the demand for boxes exceeding the capacity of the manufacturer to turn them out. We have had some inquiries from the trade to know whether a quantity of the new boxes could be purchased. This will not be possible until the manufacturer can make a greater number daily than at present.

MODEL D REPEATING ATTACHMENT, $7.50.

The retail price of the new Model D Repeating Attachment, fully described in the October issue of the Edison Phonograph Monthly, has been fixed at $7.50, subject to the same trade discounts as repeating attachments previously listed. Considering the great superiority of the Model D over anything else of the kind on the market, this price is unusually low, and it should be followed by a large and widespread sale. Every progressive Jobber and Dealer should get at least one, and learn how to attach it to either the Home, Triumph, Concert, Victor and Conqueror Phonographs, or have it attached to a machine coming from the factory, and use it to exhibit the peculiar effectiveness of the device. It is fascinating to watch it in operation and it is hard to realize that it is not guided by human hands. Almost any ingenious Dealer can attach the device from the directions furnished. In ordering, state what type of Phonograph the device is wanted for. Hundreds of Phonograph owners would be glad to get a repeating attachment, if they knew how little it costs and how cleverly it works. Properly attached it will not fail to operate and give satisfaction at all times.

NO RECORDS OF OTHER TONGUES JUST NOW.

We have had inquiries from Dealers and correspondents for Swedish, Slavish, Portugese and other foreign Records, and the hope expressed that we might soon make Gold Moulded Records in those languages. Inability at present to meet the demand for Records in the languages spoken by the greater number of persons is the only reason why every language is not represented in the catalogue of Edison Gold Moulded Records. We expect some day to make our Records in every tongue spoken by a large number of persons, but at present we cannot do so.

HANDLE ONLY EDISON GOODS NOW.

The mails daily bring letters from Dealers stating that they are now handling only Edison goods, and similar reports are made by our salesmen from all parts of the country. Since July hundreds of Dealers have disposed of their stock of other goods, and increased their supply of Edison Phonographs and Records and declared their purpose of handling only the Edison line hereafter. Others state that they will do the same thing as soon as they can get rid of other goods they have on hand. Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records meet every demand for quality and price and a Dealer makes no mistake when he handles them alone and bends all his energies to pushing their sale. Once in a while a customer may ask for another style machine and for other records, but when the merit of the Edison product has been pointed out to him, it is seldom that he is not willing to buy an Edison Phonograph. Once an owner of an Edison outfit he is glad that the difference was made clear to him. He then becomes an enthusiast and not only thinks that the Edison Phonograph is far ahead of other types, but he freely asserts that his particular machine is the best one ever made.

ONE SELLING METHOD.

One of our Jobbers, who requested that his name should not be published, recently gave us an interesting account of one of the methods used by his firm to sell Edison Phonographs. His house carries several other lines and has a number of men on the road all the time. These men get into sections where a traveling salesman is almost unknown. "One of our men will go into a country store," said he, "and get permission to play a few Records. It is only too willingly granted, for the proprietor has his own curiosity and then he knows that it will bring the neighbors into his store. The word that 'one of Edison's talking machines' is down at Brown's is quickly passed around and in a surprisingly short time our man has a good sized crowd listening to the music and his comments on the merits of the machine. Finding that he is going to remain some time, the women and children are sent for and they too listen with every sign of pleasure. It is seldom that one of these scances does not result in the sale of one or more machines, paying a handsome profit over all the expenses of our man, who has also sold the proprietor a nice line of goods."

PHONOGRAMS TO THE TRADE.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 1000 copies	1.00
Imprinted, per 100 copies	1.10

No orders filled for less than 200 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .50
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.50
Fifty copies to one address, per year	2.50

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

Orders requiring imprinting or changes in imprint must be placed four weeks in advance of the month desired. We do not aim to carry a stock of blank copies and cannot promise to fill orders unless placed in advance. The July, August and September editions were sold out before the printer had completed deliveries.

FOR THE EQUAL BENEFIT OF ALL.

"After reading your article, 'Our Follow Up System,' in the September PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, I am prompted to write and ask why I have received none. I am the only dealer in ——— which is surrounded by large towns, that should send you many inquiries. I do not buy goods direct, but suppose that makes no difference"

Thus wrote a Connecticut Dealer on September 13th. We replied that the reason why no inquiries had been referred to him was because none had happened to come from his vicinity. We assured him that the system was operated for the benefit of all Dealers, whether buying direct or through Jobbers, and so long as Dealers coöperated with us in following up no one would be overlooked. No sale is ever made by us direct in territory where our goods are sold by Dealers, except where customers insist upon our filling their orders. This seldom occurs where Dealers carry a proper stock of our goods. The trade has our first consideration at all times, but if Dealers cannot supply our goods they should not find fault with customers who send their orders to us, or write us for filling them.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

PRINTED MATTER.

We have on hand a quantity of Form No. 516, the folder gotten out in December of last year, and will fill reasonable orders for it as long as the supply lasts. It is just as useful for interesting prospective customers as it was a year ago, and can be used to advantage by progressive Jobbers and Dealers. We will mail a copy to any Jobber not familiar with the form.

Owing to the failure of the printer of the cover of Record Catalogue No. 600 to make deliveries as promised, we have been compelled to reprint part of the August edition of this catalogue with a less attractive cover. We deemed it better to do this than to ask Jobbers to wait till the regular covers could be obtained. The catalogues now going out bear this special cover. Jobbers who receive them will understand that except for the covers they are the same as all Record catalogues issued since August 1st.

We shall have ready for the trade about November 20th an attractive four-page folder in two colors for use in connection with holiday season. It will be Form No. 611. It will have special reference to Christmas and if put into circulation at once should favorably affect holiday trade. The edition being printed will permit us to fill orders for liberal quantities. We should like to have Jobbers place orders at once and arrange to pass some of them along to their Dealers. As far as possible Jobbers' orders will be shipped with the November-December Records. Sample copies will be mailed early in November.

Occasionally a Dealer suggests that we get out the monthly list of new Records in the form of a post card instead of the present form. Superficially the idea seems good. The trade would simply have to address them, put on a one cent stamp and mail them. From our side the plan has too many objections to be feasible. In the first place the present form is satisfactory to ninety per cent. of the trade and fully one half would prefer it to a post card. To meet the views of all it would be necessary to get out two styles, with the almost endless trouble of finding out which wanted which and the heavy waste consequent upon doing so, to say nothing of the duplication of quantities with two kinds, where one style now suffices. Allowing for the sake of argument that all would use a post card, the increased cost of using card board instead of paper must be considered. At a low estimate this difference would be $1,500 a year. Then the list each month would crowd an ordinary size post card so that there would be no room for the incidental advertising possible with the present style and no room for Dealers' names and addresses. If the card was made large enough to permit this, it would cost at least another $1,000 a year for the extra stock. There is no likelihood, therefore, of anything being done with the post card suggestion for some time.

Following is a list of the notice printed matter forms of the National Phonograph Co.:

400. Chinese Record Supplement.
409. Card showing boy and hatchet.
425. Record Order Blanks (Sheets A to D for American selections; sheets E to G for Foreign selections).
427. Pamphlet on Art of Making Phonograph Records.
461. Japanese Record Supplement.
482. Accessories Catalogue.
508. British Record Supplement.
515. Paris Catalogue.
516. Four-page Holiday Folder (only a limited number on hand).
535. Four-page Machine Folder.
550. St. Louis Souvenir Booklet.
555. Foreign Record Catalogue.
570. British Record Supplement.
581. September Record Supplement.
582. October Record Supplement.
583. November-December Record Supplement (Cannot be furnished till November-December Records are out.)
600. Domestic Record Catalogue.
611. Four-page Christmas Folder. (Ready November 20.)
625. New Machine Catalogue.

Forms previously listed and not given here are either out of print or the quantities on hand will only permit the filling of small orders. Jobbers who find that their orders for these forms are not filled will understand that it is because none are in stock.

ONE MORE CHANCE.

In beginning to remove from our files and mailing list the names of Dealers who had not signed the new agreement we found that the agreements of several of our good friends had not reached us, owing to some error or oversight. Fearing that there might be others in the same way, we mailed on October 31st a special letter to every old Dealer who had not re-signed, calling his attention to the fact and giving him until November 7th in which to return his agreement through his Jobber or direct to us. After that date we will consider that those who do not sign are no longer interested in the business and will remove their names. To again become a Dealer after this is done it will be necessary to purchase the initial quantity over again.

Jobbers will please check up the names of their Dealers and follow up those whom they know are still in business and intend continuing in it. At this time now will save much trouble and correspondence later.

PHONOGRAPH CLUBS.

One of the most comprehensive pieces of Phonograph literature that we have received in some time is a large four-page circular sent us by Alfred K. Hobbs, a Dealer at Manchester, N. H. It is headed "How to Obtain a Phonograph for Your Home," and explains in detail how to purchase an Edison Phonograph by joining one of his Phonograph Clubs. Because of the admirable arguments presented by Mr. Hobbs, we take pleasure in reprinting part of the circular, as follows:

OUR CLUB PLAN.

That everybody may enjoy the Phonograph is the aim of the Edison Phonograph Club. Probably you have given the matter of its purchase some consideration, and possibly decided that while you would like the Phonograph you do not feel like paying the cash outlay necessary for it. I propose to relieve you also of this problem for you. By joining one of my clubs you have the use of the outfit while paying for it in small weekly sums which you will not feel. There, five or ten dollar membership fees are amounts within everybody's reach, and the weekly or monthly payments seem to three dollars will not be missed from your income. We deliver the club outfit to you at once upon payment of membership fee. One week from the day you receive your outfit the first weekly dues are payable and each week after until the specified number of payments are made, when the club outfit becomes yours in full and you are the owner of your outfit.

There are four popular styles of the Phonograph, and each style is handled by a separate club, explanation of which you will find in detail on pages following. Each club includes a Phonograph complete with Records and every equipment for immediate use and your entertainment.

HOW TO BECOME A MEMBER.

Mail to me the amount of membership fee corresponding to the special club which you wish to join and I will deliver to you the outfit F. O. B. Manchester. Or if convenient, call at the Phonograph Parlors, Elm street, Manchester, and make your membership there. One of our club representatives will call at your home if you so request by mail or telephone. Telephone number 242.

You may feel certain of liberal and courteous treatment and reasonable leniency in case of unavoidable inability to meet your dues for any special reason.

WHAT THE PHONOGRAPH IS.

Almost everybody has heard the Phonograph, but few have heard it at its best, and few appreciate its true value as an entertainer. It gives you at your pleasure, the singing and speaking voice, instrumental solos or full band, dance music as sweet as the original issue, and all without the presence of artists. It makes possible for you to hear in your own parlor the finest talent in any line which is at the service of the public at concert or theatre. It is superior to all other instruments because of its entertaining variety, for the home it stands absolutely alone as the best investment.

ENTERTAINMENT.

To be able to have at your command and pleasure, in your own home, the best music, instrumental, vocal or band. is the privilege of the Phonograph owner. You have the choice of any style of instrument and the newest and best things produced for the public's pleasure are yours as soon as they are issued. While they are new. When the first cold winter evening makes home staying dull, the Phonograph holds in agreeably mass the hours. It entertains your friends as well as yourself, and keeps the family circle coquists by adding an interest to the home. You can have a waltz in your home as easily as to the theatre. Through the Phonograph or give a Phonograph party and have your friends make records which can be reproduced while they wait.

A RECORD.

Brand waxes molded at little wax cylinders for your pleasure as well as what a Phonograph record means. Not the least of all pleasure will be found in making records—You can record any instrument as well as the voice. Blank cylinders sell for 35 cents each.

A LAST WORD.

If there is any other information which you would like, write me or call at my sales room, and I will give it. In ordering by mail be careful to write name plainly, and give your street and number and town in which you live. The time to join a club is now, and so have the full benefit of the club at once.

Then follows a detailed reference to each club. The Gem Club, including a Gem outfit and five Records, costs $15, with membership fee of $3 and 75 cents weekly dues for sixteen weeks. The Standard Club, including a Standard outfit and five Records, costs $25, with a membership fee of $5 and $1 weekly dues for twenty weeks. The Home Club, including a Home outfit and six Records, costs $36, with a membership fee of $10 and $1.50 weekly dues for eighteen weeks. The Triumph Club, including a Triumph outfit and twelve Records, costs 65, with a membership fee of $25 and $3 weekly dues for fourteen weeks.

TRIED IT AND BOUGHT.

W. Hobson, an Edison Dealer at Vincentown, N. J., writes about an interesting experience in selling an Edison Phonograph recently. One of his customers had another style machine but was buying Edison Records. One day Mr. Hobson took a Standard Phonograph to his customer's house and asked if he could not leave it there till he returned, consenting to having it used in the meantime. A few days later the man brought the Standard back himself. Mr. Hobson hoped that he had had a pleasant time with it, but did not urge him to buy it. "In less than a week," wrote Mr. Hobson, "he came back for it. I have since sold him ten dozen Records, besides a large horn and a Recorder. Now he says that his machine is the best in the world and Edison Gold Moulded Records are his choice."

ENTERTAINMENT AND BUSINESS.

The New York, October 17, 1904.

It is with pleasure that we write these few lines and relate our experience with Edison goods. A certain political club asked us to give an entertainment at one of their meetings. We picked out six dozen Records and a Home. We started with "Stars and Stripes Forever," and wound up with "Home, Sweet Home," and the sensation was a grand surprise. The audience was spellbound. We had to play several pieces over and over. And the best success of all was that we sold four Home machines and nine dozen Records the same evening. Keep it up.

WHEN AMERICAN TITLES OF EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS WERE LISTED.

The manufacture of Edison Records by the wax process was discontinued in 1902, being superseded at that time by the Gold Mould process now used. In the early part of the year catalogue No. 350 was issued, giving 678 selections made by the new process. In June, 1902, the first regular monthly list of Gold Moulded Records was issued. It began with 8004 and ended with 8033. In the same month announcement was made that five wax selections had been made over by the new process. In July, 1902, another regular list was issued, beginning at 8034 and ending at 8063. At the same time it was announced that a number of old style selections had been made over by the Gold Mould process and given new numbers. These ran from 8064 to 8096. Announcement was also made seven old style selections had been made over with no change in their numbers. The regular August list ran from 8097 to 8098; old style selections were made by the new process and given numbers from 8099 to 8109; and two old styles were made over with no change in numbers. The regular September list included numbers 8110 to 8125; new numbers running from 8126 to 8138 were given to thirteen old styles made over; and announcement was made of fifty-two selections made over with no change in numbers.

In October, 1902, only the regular list was issued, and this has continued in unbroken order up to the present, only regular lists being issued each month. The following table shows the numbers gotten out since the beginning of this regular system and the months in which they were listed:

NOS.	MONTHS ISSUED.
8159 to 8207 inclusive (49)	October, 1902.
8208 to 8245 inclusive (38)	November, 1902.

VALUE OF THREE ORIGINAL RECORDS.

The question of what value can be placed upon a Phonographic record of a dead sister's voice will be the question to be decided by the Cherry Sisters, whose notoriously rank show has made a success solely for the reason that it is the most ludicrous attempt at acting ever put before the American people in sincerity.

Manager Higley, of the Grand Theatre, received a communication from the Cherry Sisters, now at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, inquiring as to the identity of the party here who took the record of their little sister Jessie's voice. Manager Higley has learned that the party is a former attache of the Grand and now in the newspaper work here.

The holder of the three records has opened negotiations with the sisters and has asked them to place a figure on the three records. He will hold them at $100, although advised to make the price $500, one man agreeing to take up the negotiations on a commission of all over $100.

The records of little Jessie's voice are probably worthless to the present holder as far as their use is concerned, but to the Cherry sisters, who desire to hear once more the voice now stilled in death, they would be invaluable, hence the feeling on the part of the owner that they are worth at least $100.

If the Cherry sisters have laid aside any of the good coin handed ever by those who have laughed themselves sore at a performance intended to be serious, they may be in a position to meet the demands of the individual monopoly.

While the mere mention of the name of the Cherry sisters and "Little Jessie" brings a smile to regular patrons of the theatre, there is an element of pathos in the desire to hear a dead sister's voice that cannot be ignored, and it is to be hoped that the milk of human kindness will not be soured in the progress of negotiations for the Phonographic records.

The holder of these records says he has no desire to gouge the sisters, even though they have been doing that for the public for a number of years, and under such circumstances could not be expected to resort to poetic justice.—Portsmouth (Ohio) Daily Blade.

WESTERN AGGRESSIVENESS.

Some especially fine advertising of Edison goods is being done by McGreal Brothers, Jobbers at Milwaukee, Wis. It is being done in the daily papers of that city, moderate space being used on week-days and large space on Sundays. Most of this advertising is in the form of specially illustrated plates. One of these announcements occupied a space of five columns wide and a half column deep. It showed a circular panel in the center and square panels in each of the four corners. In the upper left-hand panel was a fac-simile of the first order placed by the firm on August 12th, 1902. This was for 75 Standards, 15 Homes, 10 Gems and 5,000 Records. The upper right-hand panel showed a fac-simile of the acceptance of C. H. Wilson, manager of sales of the National Phonograph Co. In the lower left-hand panel was a reproduction of the order placed by the firm August 31st, 1904, for 1,000 Standards, 600 Homes, 200 Gems and 27,000 Records. Opposite to this was a fac-simile of Mr. Wilson's acceptance of the order. In the center panel was the following:

DRAW YOUR OWN CONCLUSION.

Compare our first order of August, 1902, with the one of August 31, 1904. Why have we sold nearly 8,000 Edison Phonographs and over 200,000 Edison Gold Moulded Records within this short time? We think we can tell you.

Because the Edison Phonograph is a machine of merit and every time we sell one we make a friend.

Any person who will look into the matter of talking machines carefully when ready to buy will select the Edison. It is the machine.

Our policy of extending credit has also helped our business. We are proud of our record. We are thankful to our friends and customers.

McGREAL BROS.,
173 Third St.

Another striking advertisement of McGreal Brothers showed an Edison Phonograph standing in a niche in a wall, illustrating the phrase "In a Niche by Itself."

ABOUT AN ADVERTISING RECORD.

WAUSEON, O., Oct. 14, 1904.

I notice in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY for October, page 13, under caption "An Advertising Record," something which reminds me of my experience at our county fair, where we gave an exhibition, and where, as stated in this article, I, too, felt the need of a talking record for advertising purposes. In fact, I felt the need before I went out, and therefore, as Mrs. Partington says, "I took time by the forelock," and provided myself with a good recorder and several blanks, and said the things to the machine which I wished to say to the people, and let it repeat it to them, and I did not fail to have a large crowd about me at all times. I even heard some of them say: "Oh, that was already made on the record," but I took that idea out of their heads by inviting them to tell me what to say. I think this method better than to use a regular stock Record for the purpose, as you will be able to secure more interest in that way and incidentally do a little private advertising that would be impossible with a stock Record. Of course a person should not attempt such a thing unless he knows that everything is O. K. and he is sure of good results.

EUGENE ALDRICH,
Of Aldrich & Richmond.

Mr. Aldrich's letter points out one of the chief difficulties in the way of getting out a stock advertising Record. In the past several suggestions have been made to us as to what would be suitable for a Record of this kind, but no two have been alike. On the contrary, they have shown the widest variance. After all, any Dealer who finds the need of an advertising Record can easily make one himself and have it make an announcement unlike that of any one else.

A GOOD RECORD A STIMULUS TO TRADE.

I think from all indications here that the trade will be very heavy during the next four or five months. Am now selling many of your Records, considering the size of the place, and some machines. Have some cylinder records of another make which I handled before your reduction in prices to meet the demand for cheap records, but since your reduction to 35 cents I have not sold as many as a dozen, and guess I am "stuck." However, I am glad you have reduced your price, as it is more satisfactory to sell a good record than a poor one. A good record acts as a stimulus to trade, while a poor one has a depressing effect. Almost invariably when a party has been using records of an inferior kind and buys a few of the Edison he comes back in a few days for more Edisons.

E. T. GASSETT,
Cerro Gordo, Ill.

NONE ON EARTH BUT THE EDISON.

BOWLING GREEN, O., Oct. 15, 1904.

I am greatly interested in the Edison goods and am trying hard to coöperate and conform to all your rules and methods. I made an exhibit of the Edison at our fair here last month, and am surprised and delighted with the business I am doing in these goods. In my estimation of merit there is no talking machine on earth but the Edison.

R. V. SLAUSON.

GOOD ENOUGH.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., Sept. 26, 1904.

Edison Records and machines take the prize here. Can't sell any other and don't care to try, as they are good enough for me. Yours for more business.

LEOPOLD J. SCHREIBER.

WINDOW DISPLAY OF THE OUTLET COMPANY, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The above half-tone shows a fine window exhibition of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records made by the Outlet Company, of Weybosset street, Providence, R. I., conducted by J. Samuels & Bro. The exhibit is marked by unusual taste and ingenuity. This enterprising department store has been handling Edison goods only a year, but it has been most successful in building up a large business on the cash and easy-payment plan. It has a separate room for its jobbing business. The firm has a force of salesmen who travel all over New England.

POLICE SUPERINTENDENT AND PHONOGRAPH.

At a garden party at the house of the German Chancellor of the Exchequer, Count von Buelow, the Superintendent of Police in Berlin, Herr von Borris, spoke the following characteristic sentences into an Edison Phonograph which had been prepared for it:

"The principal duty of a police constable is to act in accordance with his calling; that is to say, he should work for the protection and safety of the public. This he will find an easier task when the public recognizes his office and ceases to regard him as a public enemy. His duty will be easily performed when he is sure of public support, and it is to be hoped that he will be able to reckon on this more and more in the future."

"It would be a good plan," remarks the Berliner Tageblatt, "to make many duplications of this record and to have same played in every police station. The public would thus be made acquainted with the wish of the Superintendent."—Berlin Phonogramm.

TWO PHONOGRAPH DON'TS FOR DEALERS.

Don't hold back your orders for Phonographs and Records. No matter from whom you buy, get your orders in early. Anticipate your wants and have the goods on hand when your trade wants them.

Don't fail to make up mailing lists of probable customers and send some printed matter to them regularly. Have one list of individuals who do not own Phonographs and make a regular effort to interest them. Have another list of Phonograph owners in your territory and send them a list of new Records each month.

It is probably not a mere coincidence that the demand for Record Supplements has been quite as heavy as the demand for Records in the past three months. Dealers are making up lists of Phonograph owners and sending them a Supplement each month. They are finding it an excellent way to get business.

TO DEBATE BY PHONOGRAPH.

To have debates with clubs in distant cities without visiting them, John F. Macklin has organized the Wachusett Debating Club, and will negotiate with societies in Boston, Springfield, Hartford, Providence and other New England towns to arrange debates by means of Phonograph records.

It is Macklin's intention to have a certain subject chosen, then picked debaters are to speak into receivers and the records will be exchanged. Upon a given night each club is to meet in their respective cities and turn on the flood of oratory. Judges at each end will give decisions and by letters the winners are to be made known.

After explaining how it was intended to carry on the debates, Mr. Macklin said:

"One advantage of giving a debate with Phonographs, is that it gives the timid orator a chance. After he has his speech prepared he can give it in seclusion. He will not be troubled with stage fright. He can face the record and put in his speech all the fervor and enthusiasm he is capable of. He can listen to it and if not satisfied with it, reel off another one.

"Another advantage is that it limits the speaker. He has a certain time in which to talk, and knows he must advance his best points. He realizes this, and the listeners are not forced to hear a lot of meaningless rhetoric. It will be a great help to those who wish to learn how to condense arguments. It will urge them to practice, and that makes perfect.

"The average debater will not find it as easy as it looks to debate by Phonograph. The old way is simpler. By that method he can say what he pleases, and his time is not limited. He can talk all night to explain his meaning, if he wishes.

"This cannot be done by the Phonograph system. Brevity counts. A verbose speech will lose the debate. Every unnecessary word, no matter how fine it may sound, must be eliminated. Facts have to be boiled down."—Wachusett (Mass.) Telegram.

THE PHONOGRAM IN GERMAN.

The Edison Gesellschaft, M. B. H., which is the name of the Berlin, Germany, branch of the National Phonograph Co., began on September 15th the publication of The Phonogramm in German. It is in no particular, however, a reprint of the New Phonogram, but is original throughout. The Preface to the first issue was as follows:

The genuine Edison Phonograph is not a toy, neither does it serve only as a pastime, nor simply for an interesting amusement. It is rather the means for the greatest enjoyment of art.

Music of the first order, in order to hear which it has hitherto been necessary to visit the opera or the concert room at great expense, has now by means of the Edison Phonograph been brought into the home and the family circle. The most celebrated singers, whose ringing notes are paid by untold gold; the most wonderful orchestras, to whose concerts enraptured crowds are ever thronging, are ready to let their glorious tones ring through our home.

The most costly musical treasures of which all mankind is proud unite with perfect harmony and clearest purity from the horn of this wonderful machine.

Each possessor of a genuine Edison Phonograph has secured Terpsichore for his personal friend. Nevertheless in the end one would be sure to tire of even this if it were necessary to listen again and again to the same works.

For this reason the Edison Gesellschaft is working untiringly to separate the best from all good works and to include the most costly pearls of music in the wonderful collection of Edison Records.

The object of this Journal is to keep possessors of Edison Phonographs always au courant as regards this continual addition of obtaining the very latest works of art. We are not an advertising journal, and these pages will therefore not be distributed among the general public, but only to the friends of ours, who have given proof of this denomination by their possession of a genuine Edison Phonograph. To such this page is intended to give in the fullest and clearest manner information about all the novelties on the Phonograph line. But this is not all. The "Phonogram" will give the most exhaustive instructions for making of records, in this manner appreciably increasing the pleasure obtainable from the genuine Edison Phonograph. In conclusion the Phonogram is intended for the making known of many points of interest to the Phonographic trade in general. Every possessor of an Edison Phonograph has a certain pride—which is fully justified—namely, the pride of possession. It is not every one who is the possessor of a machine capable of giving noblest form of amusement, for it is not to be wondered at that everything connected with the realm of the Phonograph, serious or light, good or bad, great or small, awakes interest and it is for this interest that it is our intention to cater. It is, then, the object of this, our Phonogram, to keep awake in every render the interest and appreciation for his Edison machine. We wish to increase and magnify it, and in this manner to form a friendly circle in connection with the Edison Gesellschaft and its clientele.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Oct. 13, 1904.

We wish to congratulate you most sincerely on the samples for the November-December list, recently received. The character of the selections is far above the average, and the manner in which they are rendered will commend the entire list to all Phonograph owners, besides contributing as a great help in selling machines. Wishing you every success, we are,

C. J. Heppe & Son,
Philadelphia, Pa.

DEALERS' DOINGS.

Among copies of newspaper advertisements of Edison goods, received from Dealers during the month, was one from H. Schmidt & Son Co., of Muscatine, Iowa, which occupied a third of a page in the Muscatine Journal.

F. N. Green, an Edison Dealer at Williamantic, Conn., has again received a special award at his county fair for the superiority of his exhibit of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records over all others.

Albert A. Magwire, Dealer at Springfield Vt., sends a programme of a Phonograph concert that he gave in Ludlow Town Hall on the night of October 25th. An admission fee was charged. A selected list of Edison Gold Moulded Records was played and the Phonograph was assisted by two young lady pianists.

The Outlet Company, of Providence, R. I., gave a most thorough demonstration of the satisfactory manner in which records may be made with an Edison Phonograph, at their store, on October 7th and 8th, when they had Arthur Collins and Byron G. Harlan make special amber records for the patrons of the Phonograph Department.

A REDUCTION NOT NECESSARY.

The organization of the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., in England and the prosecution of an adequate campaign for the sale of Edison goods had the same effect upon competition in Great Britain that the demand for Edison Phonographs and Records had in "the States"—it compelled competing manufacturers to reduce the prices of their records to lower prices than Edison Records, as the only alternative to being driven out of the field. The reductions led to rumors that the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., contemplated a similar reduction in the price of Edison Gold Moulded Records, and made it necessary to get out a circular letter on the subject and send it to the trade. It was as follows:

TO DEALERS IN GENUINE EDISON PHONOGRAPHS AND GOLD MOULDED RECORDS.

Having received a number of inquiries of late as to whether or not we intend reducing the price of genuine Edison Gold Moulded Records during the present or coming season, we beg herewith to notify all our trade that we have no intention whatever of reducing the retail price of our product.

We wish, furthermore, to state that in our opinion nothing which has occurred of late makes it in any way necessary for us to reduce the price at which the Genuine Edison Record will be sold to the public.

The superiority of the Edison Record is an acknowledged fact, and our bookings for delivery up to January 1st, 1905, are already almost 100 per cent. heavier than at this time last year, so that at the present time the indications are that we shall have more orders than we can fill.

We wish to impress upon Dealers the necessity of placing their orders for their season's supply with our factors at the earliest possible date, as we fully believe the demand for our Records will greatly exceed the supply during the two months before Christmas.

Very truly yours,

National Phonograph Company, Ltd.

This announcement was received with expressions of approval by the entire trade. Among the many letters received was the following from a Dealer at Lincoln, England:

September 28, 1904.

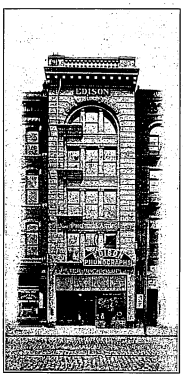
We thank you for circulars to hand re price reduction. We are quite convinced there is absolutely no necessity to reduce the price of your Records. Since other companies have reduced their prices we have found the sale of your Records have doubled. People will have them and no other. We intend shortly opening a wholesale warehouse. Can you please quote us factor's prices for your Records and machines?

Lincoln Talking Machine Co.

THE OPINION OF A CONNOISSEUR.

The following letter was recently received at our Berlin branch:

"I have for a short time been in possession of an Edison Standard with about three dozen Edison Gold Moulded Records and a large quantity of ——— and ——— records, besides the ——— with seventy of the best disks. The reason I bought an Edison Phonograph was because I wish to make records myself of a musical and rhetorical nature, which I have succeeded in doing with the aid of various horns and discussions. My efforts have been crowned with no small measure of success. By chance I tried several Gold Moulded Records and was astonished to find that this small article used with the concert horn gave results which were in every way equal in purity and clearness of reproduction to those of the ——— with best disks. Selected Edison Records appear to me indeed to be superior to selected ——— disks, inasmuch as the reproduction is in no way interfered with by disagreeable sounds, and is at the same time more agreeable, more natural and more melodious.



"The final victory of the Edison Phonograph with its solid construction and perfect reproducing apparatus, together with the practical shaving attached over the scratching needle-grinding disk machines should come as a matter of course."

HAS HAD WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

Turner's Falls, Minn., Oct. 17, 1904.

I would like to say that I think your policy is the right one. I have found wonderful success in your line. Since I took it on my sales have amounted to about ——— per month, while the past year on other makes I failed to make even a start.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CLAIMS AND FACTS.

This is the first time I've had an opportunity to write to you concerning my sales of your Phonographs and Records. It is about eighteen months that I've handled your goods exclusively. The first few months I had only three machines and about 200 Records, and had met with quite some disappointments. So I then thought it would be wise to put in a complete stock. I now have a complete stock of your Gold Moulded Records and a few machines of each type except the Triumph and the higher priced machines of which I have one of each.

I had some calls for disk machines and Records, so I just put in a line of disk machines and records. But I find that it increases the sales of Edison Phonographs and Records fifty per cent., for no one can tell me that a disk machine is better than an Edison. The moment a customer says so, I immediately put up a disk record and then an Edison Gold Moulded Record. When he hears the difference between the disk machine which he said was best and the Edison which is the best that settles all arguments.

EDISON PHONOGRAPH

A Most Acceptable Holiday Gift.

It is the most useful instrument in any home. Its power to amuse makes entertaining easy. It plays for dancing. It keeps the young folks home at night. It brings the hits of all the shows to you in town or country.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, price 35 cents each, contribute largely to its marvelous results by their unapproached perfection. Dealers everywhere will be glad to prove this wonderful superiority. If there is no dealer near you, send to us for catalogue.

What "Double Service" Means to the Edison Christmas Trade

"Double Service" means amusement and language study—recreation and education—fun and seriousness—combined to make the Edison Phonograph the most attractive holiday gift that an exacting public could wish.

I. C. S. Language textbooks represent an expenditure of $50,000 to standardize the languages in Edison Gold Moulds or in other words to "print" pronunciation and revolutionize language teaching.

There is nothing deep or impracticable about the I. C. S. language method. Any dealer can demonstrate it as easily as he plays an amusement record. One prominent merchant had a salesman give trial lessons in his Edison Phonograph Department and sold over one hundred I. C. S. Outfits during the holidays.

Let us equip you for "Double Service." Send $2.00 for dealers' demonstrating outfit (expressage prepaid); includes four sample moulded records in French, German, Spanish, and English with corresponding I. C. S. textbooks for instructing Americans and Foreigners. Special holiday circulars and catalogues are now ready for the trade to push "Double Service."

GET READY FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

The closing month of the year offers little new to say with regard to the business in Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. The demand for them continues unchanged. It is as great now as at any time in the past and shows no signs of abatement. In spite of the greatly increased factory output the new orders still keep ahead of those being filled. It would surprise even those familiar with the business of this company to know how many Phonographs and Records are being made at our Orange, N. J., factory each week. Nothing like it has ever been reached by any other company. What is still more gratifying is the fact that this entire output is sold absolutely; not a dollar's worth can be returned or exchanged for other goods and not a single machine or Record is put out on consignment. The demand for Edison goods is not only phenomenal among Jobbers and Dealers who have been handling them for years, but nearly a score of firms have been made Jobbers and hundreds of others have become Dealers in the past five months.

Now that the election and Thanksgiving have passed, the eyes of the retail trade are turned toward the Christmas season and all are anticipating a splendid business. From the manufacturing standpoint it cannot be said that the Presidential campaign and election had any effect upon business. We could not have turned out any more goods under any circumstances. It is possible, however, that it had some effect upon the retail trade. If so, it has passed away with the announcement of the result, and all Dealers have been hard at work preparing for the holiday season. The trade should not be carried away with the belief that the popularity of the Edison product will alone bring them customers who will forthwith buy their entire stock. It is quite the duty of Dealers to let the public know that they carry the goods. The appropriation of this company for Christmas advertising is the largest in its history; it includes adequate space in more than a score of the most widely circulated publications in this country and the advertising appeals to the public to go to the Dealers to hear and buy.

But of what avail will it be if Dealers simply put in a stock and wait with folded hands? The public cannot be expected to go around with a searchlight trying to find Dealers. It will, however, go to the man who makes himself known and it will buy his goods. This admits of no contradiction; it has been clearly proven too many times. The men to-day who are making the greatest successes of the Phonograph business are those who advertise; who take advantage of the general publicity given Edison goods and who say to the public, "We keep them; they're the best; come hear them." Then they carry the stock and make good to the public and their own pockets.

MORE BRITISH SELECTIONS.

The British selections made at our London recording plant and already listed for use in this country have found many admirers among Phonograph owners. More of them would have been put out before this had it not been for the great demand of the past four months for domestic selections. Now that our Record making facilities have been increased we take pleasure in advising the trade that we are ready to receive orders for thirty-two new titles as given below. These Records are made by British talent and under the direction of experts familiar with all the up-to-date methods of the Edison Laboratory. These titles will be included in the next edition of the Foreign Record Catalogue. The last British selections were issued in May.

12989	Banks of Allan Water, Thomas Reid
13047	Dormas March, British Military Band
13048	I Love You Still, Hamilton Hill
13049	Selection from Pinafore, British Military Band

USE RECORD ORDER BLANKS.

It will greatly facilitate the work of handling Record orders if Jobbers will always make them out on the regular order blanks furnished by us. If you haven't a supply or don't know what they are, send to us for some. The form is No. 425. Sheets A to D include all domestic numbers and sheets E to G cover the foreign numbers.

DEALERS NAMES REMOVED.

On November 7th the names were removed from our files and mailing list of all Dealers who did not sign the new Agreement. Such Dealers were regarded as being no longer interested. This statement will only interest Jobbers who may receive complaints from some of their Dealers that they no longer receive mail matter.

SPEECHES BY PHONOGRAPH.

Making speeches by means of Phonograph Records is becoming quite popular. Some months ago we noted how the Secretary of the National Association of Credit Men sent a speech to a Western Association. On October 27th the Dallas, Texas, branch of the Commercial Telegraphers Association held a meeting and smoker, and among its features were addresses by Phonograph from the President and Secretary of the National Association, both of whom live in Chicago.

THE DANCE SUPPLEMENT.

On page 3 we present for the consideration of the trade a special list of dance Records, which we confidently expect will be one of the most popular features ever put out by the National Phonograph Company. The matter of issuing this dance supplement has been under consideration for several months, and it would have been out early in the fall had not the demand for other Records been greater than we could supply. Even now, with a greater increased capacity it will not be easy to fill orders, but it was decided that if a dance supplement was to be put out at all this winter it could not be longer deferred.

This dance supplement was made under the direction of William Pitt Rivers, of the Knapp Mansion, Brooklyn's most fashionable dancing academy, and one of the foremost instructors of dancing in this country. When Mr. Rivers entered upon his task he would accept only five Records from our regular catalogue as being suitable for dancing. These were No. 8623, Daughter of Love Waltz; No. 8740, American Students' Waltz; No. 8809, Wilhelmina Waltz; No. 8128, Wedding of the Winds Waltz, and No. 8540, Southern Smiles, a two-step. These were declared by him to have been made at the proper tempo. The other twenty-seven were made anew. The United States Lancers, Nos. 8227 to 8251 inclusive, listed in the regular catalogue and made by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, were made over by the Edison Military Band. This set of Records is made with calls. As the lancers is more frequently danced without being called off, another set, the Hedge Roses Lancers, Nos. 8881 to 8885 inclusive, was made without calls. The entire supplement is made in perfect dancing time and according to the most approved terpsichorean methods.

From a recording standpoint, they are equal to any selections ever put out by this company. Aside from their merits for dancing, every one is a gem. The waltzes, two-steps and other dances will be found to be most delightful and entitled to places in every collection. Nothing better has ever been issued in a regular supplement. The truth of this will be apparent to every Jobber who hears the samples.

A HIGH WATER MARK.

The advance orders for the November-December Records reached the high-water mark for one month's supplement. The total was not only the greatest for a single month but the average number of each selection ordered has never been equaled.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Price Phonograph Co., of 1258 Broadway, Brooklyn, has opened a jobbing and retail branch store in Poughkeepsie. This company now has five stores.

Harry Jackson, of 219 Bowery, New York, has opened another branch store in Hartford, Conn. He now has five Phonograph stores.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., of 803 Vine street, Cincinnati, were burned out on November 20th. Its loss was given at $250,000.

Among those who have become Jobbers in Edison goods in the past few months are the Talking Machine Company, Birmingham, Ala.; W. H. Reynolds, Mobile, Ala.; E. F. Droop & Sons Co., and S. Kann Sons & Co., Washington, D. C.; Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., Cincinnati and Chicago; Craig-Jay Co., Indianapolis; Hopkins Bros. Co., Des Moines, Ia.; Early Music House, Fort Dodge, Ia.; Knoxville Typewriter and Phonograph Exchange, Knoxville, Tenn.; Nashville Talking Machine Co., Nashville, Tenn.; W. J. Dyer & Bro., St. Paul, Minn.; Giles B. Miller, Rochester, N. Y.; A. F. Ferriss, William Harrison and Utica Cycle Co., Utica, N. Y.; S. K. Hamburger, Harrisburg, Pa.; William Bailey, New Orleans, La.; H. M. Holleman Co., Houston, Texas; O. K. Houck Piano Co., Memphis and St. Louis.

The firm of Douglas & Co., of New York, has been incorporated, and will hereafter be known as the Douglas Phonograph Co.

FROM THE FROZEN NORTH.

"I am using an Edison Phonograph in my place of business," writes G. D. Hitchcock, of Sunrise, Alaska, "and no one can appreciate more fully the great enjoyment we derive from it. We are shut in about six months in the year here in the frozen North, but the machine and Records greatly help to relieve the monotony in delivering the latest songs and pieces of music, which are so loud, clear and of good tone. I have used a much-advertised, lower-priced record, but find it a very inferior quality to the Edison."

A GOOD UNDERSTUDY.

A well known actor recently promised to give a speech at a dramatic club on a New Jersey tour, but found at the last hour that he had a prior engagement of urgent importance in Boston. He went to a friend who possessed a Phonograph, delivered his address into the machine, and was sixty miles away when the Phonograph reproduced his characteristic effort to a delighted audience at the seaside club that night.

CLEVER ADVERTISMENTS.

E. F. Droop & Sons Company, Jobbers in Edison Phonographs and Records, at Washington, D. C., send us copies of some advertisements that they have been running recently. Two of these were cleverly written and illustrated so as to get some publicity out of the recent Presidential election. One was headed "The People's Choice," and the illustration showed Uncle Sam, a large elephant, and a small bear dancing to the music from a huge Edison Home Phonograph placed on the porch of the White House. Below the cut were the words:

"And you never will want to 'lose me' if you once place me in your home! I'm there to stay! Not for one or two short terms, but 'for ever and a day!' You'll never tire of my administration! I bring joy, music, and genuine entertainment into the home. I'm the Edison Phonograph and have been accorded first place by unanimous vote of the people!"

The second one was headed "Strenuous Music," and showed Uncle Sam and the bear being entertained by the music of two Edison Home Phonographs. Explanation of the illustrations were these words:

"Notice the joy depicted on our old Uncle Sam's face! And the Bear! He's having every kind of a good time! There's a lot of 'Hot Air'—music from the 'band' wagons—issuing from each of these Edison machines! Musical selections are interspersed with inspiring oratorical efforts! (Lots of that going on just now!)

"The Voice of the Land Proclaims the Edison Phonograph the Choice of the People."

In view of the fact that this company sell all makes of talking machines, the following extracts from one of their advertisements are quite gratifying:

"Edison Phonographs—Absolutely the most perfect machine on the market. No raping—no harsh sounds! The Edison Phonograph makes music and affords constant and genuine pleasure."

More developments of the "language student's companion" side of the talker! Some missionaries who went to Tripoli to learn the language took a machine with them. They succeeded in speaking the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Ten Commandments and certain other sentences in Hausaa into the Phonograph. The cylinders were sent home, and intending missionaries will now be able to learn the native pronunciation before leaving America.—Exchange.

It is good policy to advertise at all times, but it is especially profitable to advertise at the holiday season. Try it.

THE PHONOGRAM.

The November-December number of the Phonogram contains half-tones of Len Spencer and Edward M. Favor. The edition of this little publication holds its own nicely, and as every copy ordered by the trade is partially paid for, it would appear as if it was regarded as an excellent medium for selling Edison goods. A copy is being mailed to every Jobber and Dealer on our lists in addition to the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. The November-December issue went out November 21, with the shipment of December Records, and it is expected to send out the January issue about December 20th. Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

MANY THANKS.

Speaking of the National Phonograph Co., popularly known as the Edison people, a rival concern had this generous comment to make: "We find it the hardest work to capture an Edison dealer. They stick like wax, and for the reason that the company take mighty good care of their trade. They are a fine house to have connection with."

This paragraph appeared in a recent issue of the Music Trade Review. We do not know the name of our generous competitor, but we feel glad to know that our efforts are so regarded by the trade. Our aim first and last is to improve the business of our Jobbers and Dealers and if we fail at any time it is not because of desire on our part.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

FOR MORE PROMPT SHIPMENTS.

The coöperation of Jobbers and Dealers is asked in an effort to make more prompt shipment of new Records each month. Too many times in the past, owing to a number of causes, it has been six weeks after the new list was sent out to the trade before the Records were in the hands of Dealers. It is now proposed to cut this time down to less than a month. The last orders for the November-December list were shipped from the factory on November 21st. On November 23d copies of the January advance list were mailed to all Jobbers, with a statement that samples would be shipped November 29th; that Jobbers' orders must be received on or before December 8th; that shipments would be made before the holidays, and that orders received after December 8th would be considered as second orders. It will be seen that this is a comparatively close schedule and if it is to be carried out it needs coöperation all along the line. Dealers should place their orders at once so that Jobbers may be able to get a line on the situation and get their orders to us before December 8th. The factory has already begun to manufacture January Records, but it cannot do more than hold them until Jobbers' orders come in. As soon as these orders arrive the Records can be packed for shipment.

This plan of making more prompt shipments has involved a considerable rearrangement of our manufacturing schedule, and we feel that the trade will sufficiently appreciate its benefits to do all it can to assist in successfully carrying it out by ordering more quickly than before.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new discount sheet, Form No. 609, has just been mailed to every Dealer who has signed the new Agreement. Jobbers will need only a few additional copies for new Dealers and these will be supplied upon request.

A quantity of the four-page Christmas folder was shipped to every Jobber in the latter part of November. This folder showed Santa Claus with an Edison Home Phonograph in his arms which he is about to present as a Christmas gift to the family, saying: "Here's one for the whole family. I could think of nothing that will give such pleasure." Suitable argument is made on the other pages. The printing is in green and red ink on purple paper, a typical Christmas combination. Additional orders will be filled as long as the supply lasts.

Beginning with January we will mail two Record bulletins (large lists) to every Dealer on our lists. This will be done to enable each Dealer to hang one in his show window and have a second copy for use inside. Jobbers who find an occasional Dealer asking for still another copy may have a small supply shipped with their orders for new Records each month by advising the Advertising Department in advance. Dealers will confer a favor by displaying one of these bulletins prominently in the show windows of their stores. Incidentally they will find this an excellent means of selling Records.

A copy of the new machine catalogue, Form 625, has just been mailed to each Jobber and Dealer. The supply of the previous catalogue, Form 500, is now exhausted and all orders for this form will be filled with Form 625. In addition to the matter included in Form 500, this new catalogue contains illustrations and descriptions of the Model B Reproducer, the new Model D Repeating Attachment and of the Gold Moulded Record.

A new Foreign Record catalogue will be issued within a month and in the meantime we will take the liberty of editing any large orders sent in for the present edition. The only change in the new catalogue will be the listing of a lot of Mexican Records and a few more British Records. The cover will be the same design as before but printed in different colors.

TOOK THE PLACE OF "SUPERS."

The latest recruit to stage mechanics is the Phonograph, which has recently been introduced in Berlin. It proved a grand success, the first attempt being made in Shakespeare's "King Henry V.," a drama in which the din of battle is especially prominent. One who was present declares that not a soul noticed that in place of human voices a piece of pure mechanism was at work. Instead of thirty "supers" crowded together and blocking up each other's way behind the wings there was a little table with an apparatus which could be shifted from one place to another at a moment's notice. And how faithful to his task was this new colleague! No disturbance now would arise owing to awkwardness or to the fault of some malevolent super or untimely wag. The innovation is likely to spread, and will surely prove a considerable economy for the smaller theatre, where the outlay on stage noises of the human and musical sort is no trifle.—Strand.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR JANUARY, 1910.

The list of Edison Gold Moulded Records for the opening month of the new year comprises twenty-five delightful selections, made in the unequaled style of the Recording Department of the National Phonograph Company. They are so attractive that more than the usual amount of spot is herewith given in commenting upon them.

No. 8856, "The Auto Race," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition by Jean M. Missud, the well known director of the famous Salem Cadet Band, of Salem, Mass. An auto race is well described in the music, but in addition our Recording Department has introduced a scene at the beginning and end of the Record that makes it very realistic. The occasional toot-toot of auto horns helps out the scene.

No. 8857, "There's a Dark Man Comin' with a Bundle," is a typical coon song by Bob Roberts. The success that Lew Dockstader and other prominent comedians are meeting with in singing this song leads us to predict that Phonograph owners will welcome this Record as one of the best in the January Supplement. A laughable situation is when the colored woman sees her "old man" staggering home full of gin and understands it to be the "comin' true" of the "fortune tellin' man's" prophecy of "There's a Dark Man Comin' with a Bundle." The gin is the "bundle."

No. 8858, "My Little Canoe," is a contralto solo by Miss Corinne Nelson. "My Little Canoe," by Leslie Stuart, was listed last month as an orchestra selection. Owing to the growing popularity of the canoe song—the most talked about musical number in "The School Girl," in which it was sung by Edna May—we have selected it to introduce Miss Nelson as a soloist to the Edison family of Phonograph lovers. Miss Nelson has a very pleasing contralto voice, combined with an exceptionally clear articulation. Her style of delivery is well fitted to this particular kind of song. We give the words of the chorus:

Mamie, I've a little canoe,
I'll paddle along and you.
I'll paddle along and rock you in my cradle—In my little canoe.
Mamie you'll have nothing to do,
And when I've told my worries to you,
Then, Mamie we might "smooch" we two
In my little canoe.

No. 8859, "Make a Fuss Over Me," is another fine selection by the Ossman Banjo Trio. It is a coon song written by Theodore F. Morse, who wrote "I've Got a Feelin' for You," which was listed last month as a banjo trio. The three banjos are plainly heard. The Record is well played, as is to be expected from such well known artists as Messrs. Ossman, Hunter and Farmer.

No. 8860, "Back, Back, Back to Baltimore," is a coon song duet by Collins and Harlan. Not always does the so-called "coon" song have in it a situation so genuinely comic. The colored troupe has "busted," and two of its stranded entwhile stars are lamenting their fate while awaiting a "freight" back to Baltimore—many miles back. Their idea of the cause of their troubles is best told on the Record. Collins and Harlan sing the song and handle the coon parts well. Harry Williams and Egbert Van Alstyne are the writers of the song. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8861, "Sing Me to Sleep," by Irving Gillette, is a ballad by Clifton Bingham (words) and Edwin Greene (music). Mr. Gillette was introduced to the Phonograph public in the last Supplement with two selections, "Shine On, Oh Stars," and "The Star of Bethlehem." This month's offering is of the same high order but of a different character. The accompaniment is orchestral. All three will grow in favor the more they are heard.

No. 8862, "Laces and Graces," played by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a composition by Bratton that has been very much in evidence in orchestral performances during the last year, fully equaling in popularity his well known "Cosey Corner Girl." It adapts itself readily to Record making requirements, and will doubtless be much appreciated by those who enjoy orchestra selections.

No. 8863, "Why Don't They Play with Me?" sung by Byron G. Harlan, is a descriptive song by Charles K. Harris, and it is sung with orchestra accompaniment. "Papa," said the child, "you're mamma to come back so that they will play with me." This is the theme upon which Mr. Harris has built his new song. It is as full of human interest as "Always in the Way." The melody is both tuneful and appropriate, and admits of a fine orchestra accompaniment. Mr. Harlan is particularly fitted to render this kind of song, and in this one it will be admitted that he excels himself.

No. 8864, "Mr. Wilson, That's All," is a Record by Billy Murray, just which is the most comic or interesting point brought out in this really comic coon song had best be left to the listener's own impression. Suffice it to say that Mr. Wilson has plenty of trouble, but sometimes has the "best of it." Harry Williams and Egbert Van Alstyne, the writers, have ejected lots of comedy in the verses and plenty of spirit in the melody with which Billy Murray finds himself perfectly at home. He is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8865, "Royal Trumpeter's March," played by the Edison Military Band, is a composition by Frank R. Seltzer, conductor of this band. As its title implies, it introduces trumpets. All the different actions of the band are kept busy, with a result fully up to the standard of any of Mr. Seltzer's fine military band marches. As Mr. Seltzer personally conducted the band for this piece it is unnecessary to say that it was played to his satisfaction.

No. 8866, "Little Tommy Went a-Fishing," is sung by the Criterion Quartette. We take pleasure in calling attention to this quartette of male voices, and we feel assured that their work in this Record will gain for them many friends. The selection is one well adapted to show their voices, organization and school. The story is no doubt familiar to many of how little Tommy, who while fishing on Sunday without any luck, was told by the minister, who came along, how wicked it was to catch fish on Sunday. Little Tommy replied, "Who's catching any fish? Haven't had a bite all day." The musical setting is by J. C. Macy, and is fitted effectively to the story.

No. 8867, "The Girl Who Cares for Me," by Harry MacDonough, is a serio-comic sentimental waltz song, sung with orchestra accompaniment. It was written by the well known song writers, Cobb and Edwards. It is original in words and melody and makes a splendid Record in the hands of Mr. MacDonough. One of the verses follows:

There's a girl who cares for me,
Every cent she earns for me.
Every smile she smiles for me,
Every kiss she kisses
She's my sweet forever.
I'm her johnny on the spot,
And I'll tell you what,
If she'll share my lot,
For the rest I care me not.

No. 8868, "Yankee Girl," is Albert Benzler's best xylophone solo. The character of the piece is such as to admit of this result. The drum solo introduced into the orchestra accompaniment is something new. J. Bodewalt Lampe, the composer, is also the composer of "Creole Belles" and many other popular selections. The "Yankee Girl" is his latest and one of his best works.

No. 8869, "The Countess of Ahgazam," sung by Bob Roberts, is a comic song of one verse and five different choruses set to a rollicking air and sung with orchestra accompaniment. Written by Jack Drislane. In each chorus the Countess has the last syllable of her name changed in a most amusing way. Requires a hearing to appreciate it. In the fourth chorus she is the "Countess of Alagnar" and the words chronicle her and finish as follows:

The Countess of Alagnar, The maid with the dreamy eye,
One day when the circus was passing by,
She happened to get too dangerously nigh;
With the elephant she got fly, and he hoisted her to the sky;
And the choir it sang, "In the sweet bye and bye,"
O'er the Countess of Alagnar.

No. 8870, "I'm Trying so Hard to Forget You," is a duet sung by Harlan and Stanley, of Charles K. Harris' latest sentimental ballad. They thoroughly interpret Mr. Harris' meaning of the song. It is said that Mr. Harris had a romance in his early life. Be this as it may, considerable color is given to the suggestion by the beautiful ballads, "I've a Longing in My Heart for You, Louise," and "I'm Wearing My Heart Away for You," followed by this last song, for which the same popular welcome is predicted.

No. 8871, "Loving Hearts," by the Edison Instrumental Quintette a new organization designed to perform selections of the violin and flute order. Its initial performances is Theo. Moses-Tobani's charming composition. It is presented with confidence that both selection and the new organization will find many admirers.

No. 8872, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," is a fine duet by MacDonough and Biehling, of George F. Root's famous old-time war ballad. It is now listed on account of repeated requests from many Phonograph enthusiasts, and also because it makes an unusually good Record. Mr. Root wrote a great number of popular songs during the civil war times.

No. 8873, "Abraham," is Arthur Collins' coon song contribution for the month. This song is on the order of "Alexander." Andrew B. Sterling and Harry Von Tilzer wrote them both. Mr. Collins introduces a little character acting between the verses in his inimitable style. As with all of our new vocal selections, "Abraham" is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8874, "Come Take a Trip in My Air-Ship," by Billy Murray, is a serio-comic song that has recently become very popular. The theme is a new one as will be seen from the chorus:

Come, take a trip in my air ship,
Come, take a sail 'mong the stars,
Come, have a ride around Venus,
We can have a night around Mars
We can leave the earth bowling,
No one to see while we spoon,
Come, take a trip in my air-ship
And we'll visit the man in the moon.

George Evans, composer of "In the Good Old Summer Time," wrote the melody and to its catchy swing may be attributed its quick jump into popular favor. The story and words are Ben Shields' inspiration. Billy Murray does both writers full justice with his fine phrasing and distinct articulation.

No. 8875, "Sweet Thoughts of Home," is a splendid solo Record by W. H. Thompson. This song was written by Stanislaus Stange and Julian Edwards and introduced by Madame Schumann-Heink in "Love's Lottery." This is perhaps the most enjoyed musical number sung by the Madame in this successful comic opera. Mr. Thompson who sings it for our Record is a member of the "Love's Lottery" company, playing one of the principal parts. Listening to this song nightly Mr. Thompson has caught the secret of Madame Schumann-Heink's irresistible rendition and has placed it upon our Record in a manner second only to that of the great singer herself.

No. 8876, "By the Old Oak Tree," by Miss Morgan and Mr. Stanley," is an exceptionally good contralto and baritone duet of this popular song from "The Rogers Brothers in Paris." It is one of the most pleasing selections in the programme. It has a very catchy melody written along new lines. The following words of the chorus give an idea of the somewhat humorous story:

The dove said "Coo! Coo! won't you come along and woo, woo."
The crow said "Caw! Caw! you're the worst I ever saw, saw."
But the owl lovers smiled with glee,
For she loved he and he loved she,
And they kept on a-loving just as happy as could be,
By the old oak tree.

No. 8877, "Tales from the Vienna Woods," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is Johann Strauss' well known composition. It is played as a concert waltz. A flute cadenza and a violin and flute duet precede the waltz, giving a variety of movement and tone color. The whole is an artistic rendering of a beautiful and standard composition and should be an immense favorite.

No. 8878, "The Darkies' Dream," by the Edison Military Band, is a selection formerly made on the old style Record and played by the orchestra. It is re-listed because of numerous requests. It is now made by the Military Band and is a much finer Record. The dialogue at the beginning has been added to and the Record is thereby made much more realistic and entertaining. "The Darkies' Dream" is of the "never die out" kind, or as one of our clear-sighted dealers puts it, "As staple as flour, salt and sugar in a grocery store."

No. 8879, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," is a unique Record by Len Spencer. In this Record the transformation scene of the play is given true to life and with care to details, of which there are many. The orchestra, organ and chimes in the distance, the discovery of Mr. Hyde after breaking in the door to Dr. Jekyll's laboratory give great realism to the scene. For years the play was the strongest attraction in Richard Mansfield's repertoire.

No. 8880, "Tessing Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces "Tessing," "Save It for Me," "Remember," and "I've Got a Feelin' for You." The Military Band medleys that we have listed from time to time have been exceedingly popular throughout the country. The one listed this month will be found to equal any of them in attractiveness. It consists of four big favorites, while the song for which the medley is named is especially popular at the present time.

BERLIN BRANCH ADVERTISEMENT.

Following is a translation of an advertisement of our Berlin branch, published in a trade paper:

THOMAS A. EDISON,

To whose genius the world owes the wonderful invention of the reproduction of sound, made in the beginning of the year 1900 two important improvements to the Phonograph, which make it superior to all other talking machines. To-day the Edison Phonograph is therefore the most perfect talking machine. These improvements were the new Edison Gold Moulded Records and a new reproducing device.

Edison Phonographs are constructed on scientific principles. Edison Phonographs are not only reproducing apparatus, but they can always be adapted for recording purposes. Half the pleasure in the possession of the Phonograph is the making of one's own records.

Edison Gold Moulded Records are the result of many years' inventive work and lavish expenditure. They are of astonishing tone and purity, exempt from all disturbing sounds, and they wear to a very small extent. They furnish real music for the connoisseur.

The Edison Gesellschaft protects its dealers against price cutting, and insures them a stipulated high profit on their Phonographs and Records, owing to its sales system.

The Edison Gesellschaft only supplies Dealers, and does not enter into competition with the latter, either openly or secretly by means of retail shops. The Edison Gesellschaft is in a position to deliver promptly, considering the splendidly organized factories established in three European capitals—Berlin, Paris, and Brussels—and Orange, America. Three necessary features for a pleasant and profitable business relationship with dealers.

Genuine Edison Phonographs and Gold Moulded Records bear the registered trademark.

MODEL "COPY".

For the benefit of Dealers who may want some good "copy" for an advertisement, we take pleasure in reproducing the following argument from a large advertisement published by the American Phonograph Company in the Detroit daily papers:

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS.

There is no doubt, no question of the vast superiority of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. They are the very finest in the world. Edison, that wonderful wizard in invention, perfected the Phonograph, until the tones of the human voice in all the various modulations are reproduced so naturally that you recognize at once who is speaking or who is singing. Edison Gold Moulded Records stand alone in the perfect reproduction of sound. Be it a band of sixty-two pieces; be it a comic minstrel with his banjo; be it a recitation, humorous or tragical; be it the finest singer in the world—the Edison Gold Moulded Record reproduces, by the aid of the Edison Phonograph, absolutely, naturally.

Now, then, why be tortured or annoyed with rank imitations? Why submit to imperfect reproduction? Why take a "bundle of noise" and discord, when you can enjoy a perfect reproduction without any extra expense?

Nothing gives such conclusive evidence as your own personal comparison and experience. Therefore, we invite you, we urge you, to visit our store and let us give you a practical demonstration of the beauty and perfection of the Edison Gold Moulded Records with the Edison Phonograph.

Why buy from the followers, when you can enjoy the efforts of the originators without extra expense.

We have for years been the State headquarters for Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. They are simply perfect. No hiss, no scratch, no discord, but perfection in the reproduction of sound. Edison Phonographs cost no more than the commonplace sorts, and we make very easy terms—$1.00 a week if you like.

Edison Gold Moulded Records are the only perfect Records, and we are now selling the regular 50c. qualities for 35c.

Just think of the coming holidays and how charming a Christmas offering to your family or friends a good Edison Phonograph will be.

Anyway, drop in and be entertained for a while.

TESTIMONY AND PROPHECY FROM AUSTRALIA.

The following interesting article on the present and future of the Edison Phonograph appeared in the Times of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, on October 9th:

Only those who have chanced to hear them can commence to realize the revolution that has taken place in talking machines within this last two years. Most persons have heard the old Edison Phonograph with its voice talking, or singing, down a chimney. It was wonderful, startling, but on the whole more curious than practical. Very few were anxious to have more than a small instalment of its performances. But quite lately nearly all the old defects have been swept away. It is an actual fact that on a good machine you can now hear the human voice in song or speech as exactly reproduced that the absence of the living mouth can be detected by the eye alone. Together with this increase in quality, the price of machines and Records has so fallen as to be within the reach of every purse. The great fillip to the trade was the invention of the Moulded Record. That is, once you get a good master Record and make a mould, it is possible to reproduce duplicates at a nominal cost of material by the hundred thousand. Already it is a distinct and lucrative branch of the musical profession to perform exclusively for the record-maker.

It is now only a question of time, and a short time, too, when a talking machine will be indispensable to every household; and that not only as a source of amusement, but as a help in numberless other directions. On the cheap and perfect record now in sight the politician will speak his condensed speech, and post a copy to every constituent; the preacher will post his sermon after preaching it in his study. The shopkeeper will post that enticing speech by which you are induced to buy the latest thing in boxware, hatware, or hardware, as the case may be. No one will write letters to anybody; it will be so much easier "to graph." The school teacher can so model his system that nearly all can be done by record instruction. Newspapers will give as supplements records in the voice of the famous persons of the day. And it takes no great stretch of fancy to imagine the newspaper itself superseded by the daily record. Certainly as a means of correspondence even the typewriter will be obsolete when record making is further simplified and cheapened. What lover would not rather talk to the loved one and hear her voice than see her pen marks? What friend will not rather hear the friend's voice than read a lifeless note on paper? The prospect of development is boundless. For teaching purposes universities may be abolished; a trained body of professors can send their lectures to students at the end of the world, and by the same means the student may send replies and questions. The wholesale house of the future will find in the morning's mail not a stack of letters, but records. It will be the duty of clerks to hear these records and dictate an answer on another record. It will thus arise that the future gold medal clerk will not be he who writes a good hand or is swift with the typewriter, but the one with a clear, distinct voice, competent to make a good record. The customer going into a large store will not need to find a shopman at each counter to describe the merits of a line of goods. He will touch a button near at hand, and a mechanical talker will tell him all he wants to know.

The Governor of a State, already largely a figurehead, will be quite unnecessary; his speeches of congratulation on opening a public building or laying a foundation stone are of necessity of such a soneness that one of a baker's dozen of original speeches from King Edward himself, properly recorded, would be a grateful substitute. Better the voice than the shadow of royalty. In law courts the evidence of witnesses and parties in the case will be taken on records with a great saving of time. In the railway carriage every stoppage will announce the name of the station and duration of stop. The business man will not personally interview ordinary callers, who now fritter away his time. In an ante-room a small boy with a stock of appropriate records, made by the principal, will have a reply for everybody.

One great blessing of the new era that many of us may shortly see is the tendency it will have to compress speech; the windy person will be a waste to so much valuable record tone. Our politicians, parsons, and public men will have to learn to bite pencil their remarks.

Already the talking machine is the greatest blessing that ever came to the bushman or the dweller in lonely places. By the simple winding of a key he is put in touch with the world's best in the way of music or song. And no one now should learn to play or sing unless possessed of great natural aptitude, for at their best they will always be so inferior to the machine.

THE RIGHT TO REGULATE PRICES.

Regulating the selling price of a patented article as an inherent right of the inventor has been firmly established in connection with talking machines, said the Music Trade Review in a recent issue. As to the trend of recent or modern decisions on the question of the power and right of patentees to regulate the prices and terms of sale of their patented articles, through and by their licensees, the Federal courts have recently, in several judicial pronouncements, found and held that patentees have such right; that they may prescribe the price and lay down the terms of sale which their licensees shall charge and impose in selling to the general trade the patented articles covered by the patents under which the license is granted.

This was determined by the Supreme Court of the United States in May, 1902, in the case of Bement against the National Harrow Company and in several other instances enumerated below. In this case the court, after analyzing the conditions of the license, said in referring to the rule of the laws on this subject: "The very object of these laws is monopoly, and the rule is with few exceptions that any conditions which are not in their very nature illegal with regard to this kind of property, imposed by the patentee and agreed to by the licensee for the right to manufacture or use or sell the article will be upheld by the courts. The fact that the conditions in the contracts keep up the monopoly or fix prices does not render them illegal."

In June, 1902, in the District of Massachusetts, Judge Lovell decided the case of the Edison Phonograph Company against Pike, reported in Volume 116 Federal Reporter, at page 1863, in which he sustained the validity of a similar contract. The contract before him was one by which the owner of certain patents granted licenses to use and vend the patented articles, the licensees agreeing not to sell such articles for less than the price fixed by the licensor, and not to sell to any one who did not sign a similar agreement. The contract contained a further condition that as to any of the patented articles sold in violation of its terms, the license should be void, and that any vendor or user of such articles thereafter should be an infringer of the patents. The court held that such condition was valid and that the sale or use of the patented articles by one who purchased them from the licensee, with knowledge of the terms of the contract, and without signing the agreement required by the contract, constituted an infringement. Thus the court, recognized the right of the patentees to impose the price at which the licensees shall sell the licensed articles, and the further right of the patentees to require the licensee not to sell to any one as his customer who will not sign a similar agreement. The point in the case was whether one who had purchased the patented article of the licensee and had sold them in disregard of the terms of the license to the licensee, was an infringer. The court held that such customer so ignoring the terms of the license under which the licensee sold the goods to him, was an infringer.

In April, 1903, the Circuit Court of Appeals for the seventh district, which sits in Chicago, decided the case of the Victor Talking Machine Company against The Fair, which case is reported in Volume 123 Federal Reporter, at page 424. In this case the court laid down the right of the patentee to fix the selling price of the licensed article in broad terms. The court decided that the "owner of a patent who manufactures and sells the patented article may reserve to himself, as an ungranted part of his monopoly, the right to fix and control the prices at which jobbers or dealers buying from him may sell to the public, and a dealer who buys from a jobber with knowledge of such reservation, and resells in violation of it, is an infringer of the patent." The court also added: "Within his domain the patentee is a czar. The people must take the invention on the terms of his dictates or let it alone for seventeen years." Judges on other circuits have since reaffirmed this decision, so that it is now enforced in all parts of the country.

Thus it may be affirmed that the time has been reached and passed in the progress of judicial pronouncement when a patentee or owner of a patent may lawfully regulate the price and terms of sale, both as between himself and a jobber or dealer, and between the latter and the public to whom they sell.

A PATRIOTIC RECORD.

Record No. 8856, "Our National Airs," by Len Spencer, listed in December, will appeal so strongly to every patriotic American that space is here given to a more detailed description of it than was possible last month. The words were written by Howard Taylor Middleton, of Philadelphia. As Mr. Spencer recites them soft music is played by the orchestra. At the close of the third verse the band plays "Marching Thro' Georgia"; after the fourth verse, "Dixie"; after the fifth verse, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," and at the end "Star Spangled Banner." The words:

OUR NATIONAL AIRS.

When journeying through some foreign clime,
Away from home and friends,
If we hear an air from our native land,
We bathe in the peace it sends.

All of our homesickness is gone
And in its place there comes
A thrill of pride, a sense of joy,
For we're America's sons.

The air that marked the time so oft'
When marched the boys in blue
Down through Georgia's sunny fields;
It thrills us through and through.
Band: "Marching Thro' Georgia."

The southern anthem, too, we love
That led the boys in gray;
Those gallant sons of Dixie land.
May Dixie live alway.
Band: "Dixie."

Then comes that lively ringing strain
That always comes so handy
To stir the blood, to clear the head,
Old "Yankee Doodle Dandy."
Band: "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

But best of all we love the one
That lauds our flag so brave:
The flag that has never known defeat.
So may she always wave.

Hurrah! for the flag. Hurrah! for the air
Heard through battle clamor.
The greatest flag, the grandest air,
Our own Star-Spangled Banner.
Band: "Star-Spangled Banner."

Well, a Phonograph may not sing as well as a girl, but the crowd doesn't have to coax and flatter the Phonograph two hours to make it sing five minutes.

If you have the stock for a holiday business advertise the fact. It will pay.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

In an advertisement in the Bangor, Maine, papers of November 19th the S. L. Crosby Co., Jobbers in Edison goods in that city, printed a copy of the following letter from C. H. Wilson, manager of sales of the National Phonograph Company:

New York, Nov. 15, 1904.

The S. L. Crosby Company, 186 Exchange Street, Bangor, Maine.

Dear Sirs:—We beg to acknowledge receipt of your orders of November 14th, 1904, calling for 200 Standard, 15 Gem and 35 Home Phonographs, to be shipped December 1st; 20,000 Records to be shipped immediately, and advertising matter as per specifications given, all of which will have our prompt and careful attention, and for which kindly accept our thanks.

Since October 1st, 1903 we have shipped you 35 Gem, 170 Standard, 35 Home and 5 Triumph Phonographs. To-day's order in addition thereto, makes a total of 70 Gem, 370 Standard, 70 Home and 5 Triumph Phonographs ordered by you since October 1st.

We congratulate you upon your success as Jobbers in Edison Phonographs and Records.

C. H. WILSON,
Manager of Sales.

This letter speaks for itself. The advertisement also contained the following paragraphs:

Talk about your home entertainers! There isn't anything on the market to-day that is half so versatile, half such "good fun" for all ages and at all times, as the Phonograph. You may have been thinking of buying one; no it now while the winter evenings have but just begun, and make home merry not only for yourself but for the whole family and all your friends.

Since the recent important improvements have been introduced in Phonographs, the makers have not been able to keep up with orders, even though they have greatly increased their factory force, and doubled their output. DOES THIS LOOK AS THOUGH THE PHONOGRAPH WAS LOSING POPULARITY? Par from it!

TALKING MACHINE DEVELOPMENT.

When the talking machine first appeared it was looked upon as a novelty, the demand for which would be fleeting, and to have proclaimed that its stay would be permanent and have an ever-widening demand, would have seemed preposterous.

In the light of later development it must be conceded that the talking machine has not only lived down its early detractors, but it has advanced to such a position that it cuts no small part in the music field of to-day.

There has been remarkable developments in the perfection of the talking machine, with the result that to-day it is conceded to be an educational force with ever growing possibilities. Well equipped music stores throughout the land feature their departments with talking machines and many have fitted up special rooms in which great varieties of machines are exhibited. Attendants are always in evidence to test records and otherwise entertain shoppers.

The demand for these special products is world-wide, and in recording the steadily growing foreign demand for talking machines we may say that the value of talking machines sent abroad during 1904 in dollars exceeds that of pianos and other musical instruments.

It is an industry to-day of no mean proportions, and there are new specialty factors springing up which will undoubtedly form a greater impelling power.

The talking machine has come to stay, and exercise a growing influence in not only the life of America, but it will assist greatly in the business offices as well.—Music Trade Review.

NEW STYLE RECORD SHELVING.

A new method of constructing shelving for carrying stocks of Edison Records comes from Victor H. Rapke, a New York city Jobber, who is constantly devising new plans for conducting his business. Mr. Rapke suggests that Record shelves be built with a pitch of about twenty degrees, so that when Record boxes are placed on their sides they will always roll to the front. The advantages of this plan are obvious. As long as there is a single Record on the shelf it is always at the front and its absence tells the Dealer that the stock of that selection is depleted. From the middle of the floor the Dealer can tell just what numbers are missing, and, as the boxes lie a little above each other, he can see by a glance in each compartment just how many of each number he has in stock. This style of shelves need only be built for enough apart to permit the boxes being placed in the compartments easily. In fact, each box can be placed in front and used to press back any others that may be in the compartment. A strip across the face of the shelves acts as a stop to keep the boxes from rolling out and affords a suitable place to display the number and even the name of the selection. The depth of the shelves may vary according to the number of each selection that it is desired to carry in stock.

Mr Dealer:* Take a last look over your stock and make sure that you are fully prepared for the holiday trade.

TRADE NOTES.

In the October issue of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY reference was made to a meeting held in September of the officials of this company and department heads, at which the unusual trade conditions were discussed and means considered whereby the factory output might be increased. Those in charge of the mechanical department made what they deemed was a careful canvass of the situation and declared their ability within a few weeks to increase the output sixty per cent. This increase was not only equalled on time, but, owing to the remarkably increased demand for goods, it was exceeded week after week until in the week ending December 17th the output was more than one hundred per cent. greater than that of any week in September. To reach the output referred to it was necessary to run our factory night and day. This fact is cited as showing the state of business in Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records at the present time. It is not expected that this great demand will continue indefinitely, but at the present writing there is no sign of a let up in orders, either for Phonographs or Records. The demand will probably be unchanged for some time because there will be a general re-stocking among the Dealers on account of their holiday sales.

The advance orders received from the special supplement of Dance Records are even greater than we anticipated when the list was sent out. The total sales of these Records, however, will be very much greater in the next few months than these advance orders, for as soon as the public realize how good they are, they are going to buy them largely. Aside from their merit for dancing purposes, they are a splendid lot of Records and they are going to find more favor among people who have no interest in dancing than any other Records that we have issued. Even the Records for the square dances are fine band selections, fully equal to any similar Records gotten out by this company. Jobbers and Dealers who have not provided themselves with an adequate stock of these Records will certainly disappoint their customers.

PLEASE FILL OUT CARDS.

Jobbers and Dealers who receive letters from us asking them to follow up retail inquirers will confer a favor if they will fill out the cards which accompany the letter. Where it is necessary to write letters about these inquiries, please refer to the name of the inquirer or to the number on the card that accompanies our letter. The principal object of these cards is to determine whether it is advantageous to follow up inquirers to any further extent. If they have made purchases, we do not want to send them any more letters. We desire Dealers to make such effort as will tell them whether or not the parties are interested in our goods and then return the post cards to us with the blanks filled out. We should like, however, to get these back in about three weeks after their receipt by the Dealer.

NOT GUILTY.

Wholesale musical merchandise houses—not the little concerns, but the "big toads in the puddle"—are complaining bitterly of the alleged unfair manner in which they are being treated by the talking machine companies. They are all on the jobbing list of the manufacturer whose line they "plug," and their business is supposed to be supplying the regular music trade, but their complaint is that they often find the Dealer is on the same buying footing as themselves. A Jobber is classed as one who stipulates to buy at least $5,000 stock of goods annually; but the small goods gentlemen aver they are often put up against a Dealer who does not pretend to handle a third or less quantity, but are getting the Jobber's discount just the same. Therefore they declare the talking machine proposition to them is "stuffed with sawdust," hence unsatisfactory. These houses are good people and as distributors of musical goods of all kinds are important factors in the trade.—Music Trade Review.

The one don't fit and we don't put it in in referring here to the above paragraph. Fact, however, some one might think it refers to this company, we want to say that Jobbers' discounts are allowed no one who does not purchase Jobber's quantities and do a certain amount of business each year to entitle him to a continuance of the discounts. The system of this company provides a protection for Dealers not installed by any other business in this country.

SELLING SUGGESTIONS.

From observation we are led to believe that many Dealers neglect to make proper use of their window space and are losing the benefit of their best and cheapest advertising medium. Merchandise well displayed is half sold. First of all, have your windows absolutely clean outside and inside; then make your display so attractive that people will stop to admire it and you will have the first evidence of a successful merchant. Nothing succeeds like success, and an attractive window display indicates success. The outside appearance of your store may be made a great factor toward inducing prospective customers to step inside where they should find at least samples of all the best selling types of machines, and any Record at any time listed in the catalogue. This means a large stock of goods, or what appears a large stock to Dealers in small towns; but we are strong advocates of and firm believers in the advisability of all Dealers carrying a complete stock of all domestic selections catalogued. You may be successful without all of them, but you are certain to be more successful if you have them.

Edison Records are as staple as any article of merchandise. Don't be afraid to invest the few dollars necessary to complete the list.

Next in importance to a large stock of goods neatly arranged and properly displayed is the necessity of intelligent demonstration to prospective customers. Allow us to offer a few suggestions along this line. Don't forget that the Edison Phonograph is a recording as well as a reproducing machine. We believe Dealers are neglecting to make use of one of the strongest features of the machine when they fail to show how easily Records can be made by users. You should learn how to make Records yourself so you can use the recorder with confidence. Memorize a few lines that call attention to the fact that the owner has an instrument that will record his voice and reproduce it again at any future date and as many times as desired. Make this the feature of your demonstration and play a few Records afterwards. Always show the higher priced machines first, but do not name the prices until your customer asks for them. Most salesmen begin by saying: "This machine is $10; this one, $20; that one, $30; the other, $50," and so on. This method is machine-like and radically wrong. Defer quoting the price until you have shown the superiority of the Edison over all other types and convince your customer that this is an article that will afford diversified and unlimited entertainment to himself and friends.

SEVENTY-ONE MEXICAN RECORDS.

We list herewith 71 Mexican Records, 37 of which are included in the new Catalogue of Foreign Records, Form No. 640, now ready for the use of the trade. These Records were made in Mexico City under the direction of experts sent from the Recording Department of the National Phonograph Co. They are, therefore, made according to the most approved methods of this company. Large numbers of them have been sold in Mexico and have been pronounced by natives of that country as being remarkable for their quality, naturalness, volume and clearness. The vocal Records are made in Spanish and by famous Mexican singers. The instrumental Records are made by the leading Mexican bands and orchestras. A number of the titles are accompanied by the guitar.

PRINTED MATTER.

In placing orders for Records, Jobbers are again requested to list them out on Record Order Sheets, Form 425. Sheets A to D cover Domestic Records and E to G, Foreign Records. It is also advisable to furnish them to Dealers who are ordering Records in any considerable quantity. Jobbers who do not have a supply are asked to have some sent with their next goods.

We still have on hand quite a supply of our St. Louis Booklet, Form 350, and will be glad to furnish them to Jobbers who can use them to advantage for their own trade, or who can furnish them to Dealers where they will be circulated with good results.

The demand for Form 611, Christmas Folder, was so great that the edition was entirely exhausted early in December, making it necessary to disappoint a number of Jobbers who wanted a further supply.

With the January Records we mailed two of the large Bulletins to each Dealer in addition to the usual number sent to each Jobber. Dealers are asked to place one of these in their show windows and to use the other inside their stores for the sale of Records.

A new Record Catalogue, Form 630, containing all Records to and including December, has just been mailed to the entire trade and has been used to fill all orders for the past month. This catalogue only differs from the previous edition in having four months' Supplements added to it, and we would like Jobbers who have on hand a supply of the August edition to use them up before sending for the latter issue.

A new Numerical Catalogue, Form 640, has just been sent out to the entire trade, five copies having been mailed to all Jobbers and one to each Dealer. This contains all Records to and including December. In printing this two errors crept in. No. 8274 on Page 22 has been printed as No. 8287, and on the same page No. 8281 has been printed as No. 7981.

Dealers are again urged to adopt the plan of mailing a Record Supplement each month to such owners of Phonographs or other cylinder machines as they can get the names of. Hundreds of Dealers are already doing this and we believe that this plan has had much to do with increasing the demand for Records. Other Dealers are mailing copies of the Phonogram, finding that the more detailed references to new Records contained in it had induced many persons to buy Records who would not be interested in titles alone. It is certainly not a mere coincidence that the increase in the use of Record Supplements and the issue of the Phonogram have been followed by a large increase in the sale of Records.

We continue to get letters from Dealers who buy through Jobbers, asking to have a supply of printed matter sent to them direct. Even if Dealers are willing to pay express charges on catalogues, etc., we still prefer that they shall get it from their Jobbers. The latter should be able to supply it without incurring express charges, and they also know what quantities can be used advantageously. If Jobbers are not getting large enough quantities to enable them to take care of their Dealers, we want them to write us. If the editions now being printed are not large enough to do this properly we will increase them. Catalogues, etc., are a most potent factor in selling goods and we want every Dealer to have at least a small supply on hand at all times.

NEW DUTY ON TALKING MACHINES.

In the new tariff which is now being prepared by the Philippine authorities, there will be a change on the rate of duty on talking machines which, imported into the Philippines at the present time, have to pay a duty of $2 each. Under the revised Philippine tariff act the rates on Phonographs and similar machines, including detached parts and Records therefor, will be changed to thirty per cent. ad valorem.—Music Trade Review.

THE REASON WHY.

For the benefit of Edison Jobbers and Dealers who may wonder why Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records did not receive the highest award at St. Louis, we print on the opposite page a reduced facsimile of a letter written by William E. Gilmore, President of the National Phonograph Company, declining an award on behalf of our exhibit at the Fair. For the purpose of showing that we did not take the position because the first prize was not awarded to us, we desire to refer to some incidents that occurred long before any decision had been reached by the jury.

Our exhibit at the Fair was in charge of Frank E. Madison. On August 18th at the request of the Department officials, he forwarded to Mr. Gilmore blank forms to be filled out for submission to the Jury of Awards. To this Mr. Gilmore replied under date of August 26th:

"Referring to your favor of the 18th, to which you enclose forms to be submitted to the Jury of Awards, I desire to say that it is not our intention to enter into competition in any way, shape or form. If you are approached by any of the St. Louis people, simply tell them that it is not the intention of this company to exhibit our apparatus for the purpose of obtaining any award."

On August 31st Mr. Gilmore telegraphed to William Pelzer, a representative of the company, who was then in St. Louis, as follows:

"See Madison and arrange we do not enter competition for award. Never intended to do so. He tells us that rules compel us to enter."

Under the same date Mr. Gilmore telegraphed to Mr. Madison:

"See Pelzer about entering competition. There is no reason for us to do so. Do not consider any demonstration necessary."

On September and Mr. Gilmore received a copy of the rules and regulations governing the system of awards and again telegraphed Mr. Pelzer as follows:

"If possible want to avoid competing. You are authorized to fill out form if imperative. We care nothing about medals or prizes."

In spite, however, of the protests of Mr. Madison and Mr. Pelzer, the department officials insisted upon our exhibiting our apparatus. This was done in a perfunctory manner by Mr. Pelzer and Mr. Madison before the group jury, less than a half hour being occupied in doing so. Notwithstanding this fact, we were awarded a gold medal for our exhibit. The awards were made by a system of points, grand prizes being given to those who achieved from 95 to 100 points and gold medals being given to those receiving 85 to 94 points. It was evident, therefore, that to have received a gold medal our exhibit must have been given more than 85 points. Not having our exhibit ready on the opening day caused a loss of 10 points which, added to the number given us, would have entitled us to a grand prize. This, too, notwithstanding the fact that no effort was made on our part to get any prize.

In view of all that is being said concerning the awards of the St. Louis Fair, we are more than gratified at our course in not only putting forth no effort to gain prizes, but in protesting against rules which compelled us to compete.

The following matter is reprinted from the official rules for the purpose of informing the trade how the awards were decided upon:—

a—Value of the product, process, machine or device, as measured by its usefulness, its beneficent influence on mankind in its physical, mental, moral and educational aspects.
Counting not to exceed 25.

b—Skill and ingenuity displayed in the invention, construction and application.
Counting not to exceed 25.

c—Merits of the installation as to the ingenuity and taste displayed, the cost and value as an exposition attraction.
Counting not to exceed 10.

d—Magnitude of the business represented, as measured by the gross sales during the calendar year preceding the opening of the Exposition.
Counting not to exceed 10.

e—Quality or cheapness, with reference to the possession by the exhibit of the highest possible quality, or the fact that the article is sold at so low a price with reference to its quality as to make it a valuable acquisition to the purchaser.
Counting not to exceed 10.

f—For completion of installation within required time and for excellence of maintenance.
Counting not to exceed 10.

g—Length of time the exhibitor has been in business as showing whether exhibit is a development of original invention or is an improvement on the work of some prior inventor.
Counting not to exceed 5.

h—Number and character of awards received from former expositions.
Counting not to exceed 5.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cen ts each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

CABLE ADDRESS "EPHOTIC-NEW YORK"

Orange, N.J. Oct. 11, 1904.

Hon. David R. Francis,
President Superior Jury, Universal Exposition,
St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir:

We are in receipt of a notification stating that we have been awarded a Gold Medal in Group 21 on our exhibition of Phonographs.

At the time we made out our application for space it was our intention not to enter any competition and our application was signed with this idea. When we received notice that the Jury would examine our apparatus, our representative called the attention of Col. Ockerson to our position, stating that we had no intention of entering any competition and giving our reasons therefor. Col. Ockerson stated that under the rules it was compulsory upon us to exhibit our apparatus to the Jury, and we therefore permitted our representative to exhibit our apparatus. He was instructed to inform the Jury, and did inform the Jury, that we had no intention of competing and had no desire at that time to do so, but that inasmuch as the rules compelled us to do so our apparatus was there for that purpose.

It is our policy not to enter any competitions and not try for awards of any character. In view of the position that we took, and in view of our policy, we therefore must decline, with all due respect to the Jury, any award that has been granted to us.

Yours respectfully,
W. E. Gilmore
President.

REDUCED FAC-SIMILE OF LETTER DECLINING AWARD AT ST. LOUIS FAIR.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR FEBRUARY, 1905.

This list of February Records comprises nine instrumental and sixteen vocal selections. In the former are four bands, one orchestra, three instrumental duets and one instrumental solo. The vocal part includes ten solos, three duets, two quartettes and one minstrel. This is sufficient variety for all tastes. The two features are an euphonium solo by Simone Mantia, a solo by Fred G. Rover, a new singer with a fine tenor voice; a chimes and bells duet by Messrs. Bensler and Nesbit, a duet by Messrs. Murray and Roberts, and a clarinet and cornet duet by Messrs. Hazel and Tuson.

No. 8903, "A Hunting Scene," by the Edison Military Band, is a composition by P. Bucalossi that was formerly listed in the old style Records and is now made over in response to many requests. It is descriptive of a hunting scene, with hounds and chorus of male voices. Those familiar with the selection made on a wax Record will appreciate the wonderful advances made in recording after hearing this Record by the gold mould process.

No. 8904, "My Dreams," sung by Irving Gillette, is one of the standard sentimental ballads, being sung by the best singers throughout the country. The music was written by P. Paulo Tosti and the words by Frederic W. Weatherly. It is charmingly sung by Mr. Gillette with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8905, "By the Watermelon Vine (Lindy Loo)," made by the Edison Male Quartette, is a coon love song by Theodus S. Allen. It was published in Boston and has had considerable popularity throughout New England. The air is tuneful and catchy. Excellent work was done by the Edison Quartette in making this Record and its attractiveness is enhanced by a delightful orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8906, "Dreamy Moments," by Jaudas and Rose, is another sweet violin and flute duet, similar to those previously listed, but even more tuneful. The Record shows that Messrs. Jaudas and Rose are artists of the first rank.

No. 8907, "Coax Me," is a male duet by Collins and Harlan, with orchestra accompaniment, of another popular coon song by Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew B. Sterling. All who are familiar with the singing of Messrs. Collins and Harlan will realize what an attractive Record they can make of a song, in the chorus of which the dusky maiden says to her lover:

"Coax me, go on and coax me,
If you love me madly, want me badly,
Coax me; go on and coax me.
I'll be your foot-sie woot-sie,
If you coax me."

No. 8908, "Good Bye, Sis," sung by Harry MacDonough, is a brand new sentimental song by Theodore Morse and Will D. Cobb, and just published by the F. B. Haviland Publishing Company, New York. It is catching on in public favor very fast, and seems destined to be one of the hits of the day. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. The melody is built on more original lines than most of the ballads of the day. Mr. Cobb is well known as the author of "Good Bye, Little Girl, Good Bye" and "I've Got a Feeling for You." The chorus of this song follows:

"I've come to say good bye, Sis,' before I sail away,
Your two eyes said you loved me, but your eyes have told me 'No.'
On deck a sailor murmurs, 'It was the only way,'
On shore there stands a maiden as she cries across the bay,
'Come back, my fellow lover,' but the fellow answers, 'Sis,' I am going to sail away, sail away."

No. 8909, "Original Fantasia," is an euphonium solo by Simone Mantia, accompanied by the Edison Concert Band. This is something entirely new. Mr. Mantia's execution of this difficult selection on this most difficult of instruments is marvelous. He has the reputation of being able to execute clearly passages of such rapidity as to tax the capabilities of the finest cornet soloists. Mr. Mantia will be remembered as the soloist of the band which played on the beach at Asbury Park in the past summer.

No. 8910, "The Yankee Doodle Boy," Billy Murray's solo for this month, was written by George M. Cohan and is being sung in Mr. Cohan's latest play, "Little Johnny Jones." It is a comic song of the spirited march order. It introduces suggestions of "Yankee Doodle," "Dixie" and "Star Spangled Banner," into an original and tuneful melody. The chorus:

"I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy,
A Yankee Doodle, do or die;
A real live nephew of my Uncle Sam's.
Born on the Fourth of July.
I've got a Yankee Doodle sweetheart,
She's my Yankee Doodle joy.
Yankee Doodle came to London
Just to ride the Ponies;
I'm the Yankee Doodle Boy."

No. 8911, "Those Songs My Mother Used to Sing," serves as an introduction to the Phonograph public of Fred. G. Rover, who has a cultivated tenor voice particularly suited to the rendition of descriptive songs. The song refers to and introduces "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "The Last Rose of Summer." The music is of a pathetic character and in keeping with the subject. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8912, "Monastery Bells" is a chimes and bells duet by Bensler and Nesbit, and rendered with accompaniment by the Edison Military Band. This selection cannot fail to please those fond of Records made by bells and similar instruments, and even those not ordinarily partial to them will pronounce it attractive. The chimes are of an extra fine quality of tone. The band accompaniment is especially good for this combination. This is the first Record ever made by chimes and bells. "Monastery Bells" was written by L. Wely.

No. 8913, "Dan, Dan, Dan-u-el" is a fine Record by Murray and Roberts. The success achieved by Messrs. Murray and Roberts in this their first duet will be a source of pleasure to the friends of both of these popular singers. The song is a typical "coon" selection and on the order of "Alexander." It is cleverly illustrates a dialogue between a dusky belle and her lover. Mr. Roberts representing the latter and Mr. Murray making the responses for the girl. The voices of both singers are admirably adapted to selections of this kind, and we know that this Record will be a big seller. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra. This song was written by Ed. Rogers.

No. 8914, "Mamma's Boy," by Byron G. Harlan, is another of those popular march songs so well suited to Mr. Harlan's voice, and splendidly sung by him, with orchestra accompaniment. Written by J. Fred Helf and Harry Sinclair. A wee little lad comes home to his mother crying because the older boys don't allow him to play soldier, calling him "Mamma's Boy." To which his mother replies in the chorus:

"Don't you mind what they call you, darling,
And don't let your heart grow sad,
Some day you may be a soldier,
A hero like your dear old dad.
Then perhaps in some famous battle,
You'll be fighting for the right,
Then those who scoff will be the first to cheer,
They'll be proud of "Mamma's Boy."

No. 8915, "Hear Me, Norma," is a clarinet and cornet duet by Hazel and Tuson, of this selection from Bellini's opera, "Norma." Played with orchestra accompaniment. The clarinet and cornet make fine solo Records, but played as a duet they are even more pleasing. In the hands of such artists as John Hazel and William Tuson they are made to blend perfectly, and with the orchestra accompaniment as a background, they make a Record of more than usual merit. The air of the selection is very pretty and familiar to thousands who do not know the opera in which it is sung.

No. 8916, "Juanita" is another charming contralto and basso duet by Miss Morgan and Mr. Stanley, the selection being Caroline Norton's old Spanish melody. The work of these singers is too favorably known from the Atlantic to the Pacific to need further commendation.

No. 8917, "Gimme de Leavins," by Arthur Collins, is a new but popular coon song and rendered up to the usual clever standard of Mr. Collins' work. Written by Bob Cole and J. W. Johnson and sung with orchestra accompaniment. This song is part of the repertoire of Cole & Johnson, and Lew Dockstader.

No. 8918, "Skeleton Dance," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition by Charles Lefraige. It is not at all like Record No. 8890, "Dance of the Skeletons," but written on equally unique lines. This is a new composition and difficult to play.

No. 8919, "I've Got My Fingers Crossed, You Can't Touch Me," is a unique Record by Byron G. Harlan. It is a descriptive song by Joe Maxwell and most attractively sung by Mr. Harlan, with orchestra accompaniment. The idea is presented in this song by introducing children's voices singing "London Bridge Is Falling Down," "Water Water Wild Flower," "Miss Jinny Ann Jones," "Ring a Ring a Rosey" and "Lazy Mary." The chorus is as follows:

"Don't you wish you could join the fun,
As you watch the youngsters play?
Don't you wish you could still be one of that Jolly little throng?
Take your cue from the youngsters too,
And at trouble shout with glee,
I've got my fingers crossed, you can't touch me."

No. 8920, "Louisiana Minstrels" is a new Record by the Edison Minstrels. Minstrel Records always find favor with Phonograph owners because of their variety, including as they do orchestra music, jokes and singing, the latter usually by a soloist and quartette. This one is even better than usual. It opens with an orchestra selection. Len Spencer at one end of the semi-circle tells Billy Murray at the other how he got two glasses of beer without buying them. He went into a saloon, ordered three glasses, drank two and left the third to "settle." Mr. Spencer then sings the darkey song "Keep a Climbin," the Edison Male Quartette singing the chorus.

No. 8921, "Glowworm—Idyl" is made by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. It is Paul Lincke's pretty composition engraved on wax in a manner that makes its reproduction fully as entertaining as if heard from an orchestra direct. In fact it is doubtful if for home entertainment the selection played direct would be as good as this reproduction, for the recording has softened the music without losing any of its beauty. The flute and clarinet effects are fine.

No. 8922, "Let's All Go Up to Maud's" sung by Harry MacDonough, is a popular serio-comic, descriptive waltz song being sung on the vaudeville stage. It was written by Berry Mills and Joseph C. Farrell. Sung by Mr. MacDonough, with orchestra accompaniment. It has this chorus:

"Let's all go up to Maud's,
We'll have a jubilee;
Make love to all her sisters, boys,
But please leave Maud to me;
Her Ma don't mind the noise,
Her Pa's one of the boys.
You'll be welcome,
You'll be all the rage,
Let's go up to Maud's.

No. 8923, "Daddy Dear," by Harry Anthony, is a descriptive song written by Lail Cliff and Nat Clifford. Sung by Mr. Anthony in an artistic manner and with orchestra accompaniment. The theme is a child's prayer to her dead father, as follows:

Daddy dear, can you hear
The voice of your baby boy?
Come back to Mamma, her heart is sad,
We feel so lonely without you, Dad;
And if you can't come down
Tell me, dear Daddy, do."

No. 8924, "Diplomat March," by the Edison Concert Band, is a "swell" Record of Sousa's latest composition When we made this Record the composition had been heard in New York only ten days, but it had already "caught on" and has since been rapidly climbing into popularity. Everything put out by Sousa is a success and "The Diplomat March" will prove no exception.

No. 8925, "A Rare Old Bird," by Bob Roberts, includes two verses and two choruses of this extremely funny song, rendered in Mr. Roberts' clear and distinct voice. As a singer of topical and comic songs Mr. Roberts has no superior. One verse of "A Rare Old Bird" tells of the bridegroom's dismay at finding that false limbs, false hair, etc., constituted a large part of the make-up of his bride. The other describes the stunts that Aunty did when the automobile stopped suddenly. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. Theodore Morse wrote the music and Edward Madden the words of this song.

No. 8926, "When the Bees Are in the Hive," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a sentimental song by Kerry Mills and Alfred Bryan and given with orchestra accompaniment. A very desirable quartette Record, the work of the singers being effectively done. This song is one of the hits of Lew Dockstader's Minstrels this season.

No. 8927, "Port Arthur March," by the Edison Military Band, is a composition suggestive of gunpowder and battle, but cannot be termed descriptive. It is, however, well written and is artistically played by the Military Band. Its composer is Roland F. Seitz.

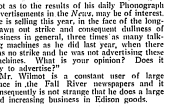
AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, of Cincinnati, "Phoenix" like, arose from the ashes of its fire in November and at once secured new quarters at 10 and 12 West Fourth Street. So quickly was this done that their Phonograph business was scarcely interrupted. They at once drew upon their Chicago branch for a supply of goods, immediately placed orders with the manufacturers, and with Phonographs and Records already on their way they were able within three days after the fire to ship goods to Dealers as though nothing had occurred. They are now well stocked with Edison Phonographs and Records and their Dealers are getting the usual good service of this firm.

TRADE DEVICES.

Every Dealer in Phonographs who has a repair shop has often been troubled to devise a method of keeping a supply of small parts in a way easily accessible when wanted. The popular method has been to put them in envelopes. To meet this want L. Kaiser, who is connected with S. B. Davega, 32 East 14th Street, New York, has devised what he terms the "Kaiser Handy Pack." It consists of thirty small vials with corks and labels. These vials are made in three different sizes and stand up in a flat oak board 10x14, in which holes of proper size have been bored about two-thirds the way through. The price of $1 for the outfit will be appreciated quite as much as the latter's advantages.

IT DOES PAY.



In an editorial on the value of newspaper advertising the Daily Evening News of Fall River, Mass., on November 29, said:

"Incidentally, the testimony of W. D. Wilmot as to the results of his daily Phonograph advertisements in the News, may be of interest. He is selling this year, in the face of the long-drawn out strike and consequent dullness of business in general, three times as many talking machines as he did last year, when there was no strike and he was not advertising these machines. What is your opinion? Does it pay to advertise?"

Mr. Wilmot is a constant user of large space in the Fall River newspapers and it consequently is not strange that he does a large and increasing business in Edison goods.

MODEL D RETURN ATTACHMENT.

The Return Attachment now being sold for use on Edison Phonographs is remarkable for its simplicity and effectiveness. Its principal features are the return screw and lifting lever block. The screw is mounted on a cast bracket which is fastened with two screws to the Phonograph body in front of the cylinder shaft. These two holes for fastening bracket are the only holes to be drilled and tapped to fasten attachment. The lifting lever block is carried by an arm which is clamped to the back rod sleeve. The return screw has four threads to the inch, ratchet shaped, and is driven by means of a spur gear which engages a similar gear on the main shaft pulley, thus dispensing with a belt or chain.

An adjustment is provided at each end of the bracket to suit the beginning and end of the Record. The adjustment for the end of the Record is accomplished by rotating the disk which is carried on the return screw. This disk also carries the pin which acts on the lift lever block to raise the diaphram arm and engage the block with the threads of the return screw. This lifting action also disengages the feed nut from the thread of the main shaft and the return screw of the attachment takes the reproducer arm back to the starting point. The return movement takes about one-twenty-fifth of the time to play the Record. All parts of the return device subject to wear are hardened.

The list price of Model D Return Attachment is $7.50. It may be attached to the Home, Triumph, Victor, Conqueror, Concert, Opera and Orators' Phonographs. In ordering state style of Phonograph.

TRADE HOLIDAY ADVERTISING.

The advertising in newspapers and other mediums done by Jobbers and Dealers in Edison goods in the past six weeks is most convincing evidence of their faith in the present and future of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. A notable feature of this advertising was the size of the space used, indicating that the pulling power of large space is being more and more recognized as time passes. Firms doing adequate advertising of this character are those doing the largest business in their respective cities. Their belief in the efficacy of local advertising as an adjunct to the general publicity concerning Edison Phonographs has enabled them to build up a large business, and as nothing succeeds like success they are keeping it up. We know that hundreds of Dealers in Edison goods are regular advertisers and that they used newspapers liberally during the holiday season, but their modesty prevented them from sending us copies of their announcements. Consequently we are unable to mention many of them.

Perhaps the most notable of all the advertisements came from McGreal Brothers, of Milwaukee. It occupied six full columns of the Milwaukee Sentinel, December 11th. In the center of the space was a half-tone illustration showing a boy pointing at an Edison Home Phonograph and saying, "Oh, Papa, that's what I want for Christmas." Surrounding this illustration was a half-column talk on the merits of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records, a list of 200 titles of late Edison Records and a list of the Dealers of McGreal Bros. throughout Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. Another attractive advertisement of the same firm appeared in the Milwaukee Sentinel December 2d. It was printed in black and red and showed Santa Claus carrying an Edison Home Phonograph in his arms and saying: "Here is something for all the family." This advertisement included a coupon worded:

If any little boy or girl will fill out this coupon and send or bring it to our store, we will do our best to induce Santa Claus to leave an Edison Phonograph at their home Christmas.

MCGREAL BROS., 171 THIRD STREET, CITY.

My Name is .....
My Papa's Name is .....
I Love ss .....

A large number of these coupons were returned and in each case McGreal Bros. at once "got next," to papa with a special letter. Still another striking advertisement of McGreal Bros., appeared in the Milwaukee Sentinel December 18. Six half columns were filled with a fac-simile reproduction of handwriting and made to look as if it had been written across the face of the paper with a broad pencil.

The most noticeable series of Dealers' advertisements came from the C. M. Cochran Company, Erie, Pa. These were half page advertisements and they were run in four different papers. If these did not bring business to the Cochran Company advertising is not the lever we consider it.

Well arranged and convincing was the half page advertisement of the Eastern Talking Machine Co., in the Boston daillés on December 18th.

The Werner Music House, Easton, Pa., ran some full pages during December along with smaller spaces.

The H. M. Hellesman Company, new Jobbers at Houston, Texas, send a series of large advertisements showing that they mean to get a good slice of Edison business in the Lone Star State. A feature of this advertisement was their offer to call with a Phonograph upon any lady who could visit their store and give a demonstration of its merits. The "copy" presented forcible arguments.

Advertisements were also received from the C. C. Mellor Co., Pittsburg; E. T. Gossett, Cerro Gerdo, Ill.; Bump Bros., Binghamton, N. Y.; L. R. Porter, Brockton, Mass.; Wilmot Sport and Toy Store, Fall River, Mass.; Finch & Hahn, Schenectady and Albany, N. Y.; Penn Phonograph Co., Philadelphia; Pardee-Ellenberger Co., New Haven, Conn.; A. G. Petit, Newark, N. J.; E. S. Oliver, Newark, N. J.; American Phonograph Co., Detroit, Mich.; American Phonograph Co., Cloverville, N. Y.; Peoria Phonograph Co., Peoria, Ill.; Thomas Wardell, Lovell, Mass.; Peter Bacigalupi, San Francisco; Alfred K. Hobbs, Manchester, N. H.; Farmer & Kenneriell, Kittanning, Pa.; C. A. Freeman, Bloomington, Ill.; Wells Phonograph Co., Philadelphia; Blackmon Talking Machine Co., New York City; Douglas Phonograph Co., New York City; S. L. Crosby Co., Bangor, Me.; C. C. Thompson & Son, Barbadoo, Wis.

FROM AUSTRALIA.

Avoca, Victoria, Australia,
Oct. 14, 1904.

I beg to enclose postal order for subscription to Phonogram which you are kindly sending. The photos of the "talent" are very interesting. A friend of mine here, through an advertisement, sent all the way to England for a——talking machine. He was at my place some time ago and heard my Edison Standard. Since then he has put away his and purchased an Edison Standard. This friend has also a magic lantern and I lent him my first Phonogram with the photos of Arthur Collins and Byron Harlan. Being a good amateur photographer, he has taken copies of these two gentlemen and fixed them on his lantern slides. He now shows the pictures on his lantern and then announces that Mr. Collins or Harlan, as case may be, will give a song on the Phonograph. He is going to fix up Mr. Stanley and Miss Morgan. He also shows a picture of King Edward and then announces that Mr. Stanley will sing "God Save the King."

My friend is a great church man and does all this for sake of the Church. He makes a small coin admission and then hands over proceeds to Church people. I have written this fully thinking it might interest you. It's a good advertisement for the Edison Company, and the Edison deserves it. Wishing you every success,

JOHN RESUGGAN.

I. C. S. LANGUAGE OUTFITS.

The International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., sent out a four page folder, printed in green and red ink on green paper, as a Christmas greeting to Edison Dealers, as follows:—

To the Edison Trade:

The Dealer who knows "Double Service"—Amusement and Language Study—for the Edison Phonograph strengthens his arguments and increases his Holiday business.

The latest development, a set of twenty-five English Records, with different textbooks for the use of students of foreigners the English language. Twenty ($20.00) Dollars is the very small price for one language, and thousands of Phonograph owners will avail themselves of this practical instruction.

Our Introductory Offer, $2.00 net to represent "Double Service," is to send prepaid four Edison moulded Records in French, German, Spanish and English with large printed posters and Textbooks, arranged in a very unique demonstrating outfit. Our literature in the finest, as you will note from the accompanying specimen booklet, folders and cards supplied to I. C. S. Dealers for the purpose of extending their business in language study outfits.

Trusting that we may be allowed to add to your prosperous Holiday trade, and with best wishes, we remain,

Very truly yours,
NELSON CHESNEY,
Mgr. Language Department.

P. S.—We sell to the Edison trade under National Phonograph Company Agreements, covering I. C. S. Language Outfits, excluding all other merchants and guaranteeing standard prices. Retail Dealers should purchase through Edison wholesale jobbers.

Accompanying the folder was a series of booklets, folders and cards supplied to I. C. S. Dealers for the purpose of extending their business in language study outfits.

A COLD WEATHER IDEA.

Most of the musical stores which make a specialty of Phonographs kept their doors open and one of the instruments going in the summer to attract the public. When the cold weather set in, however, most of them found it too cold to leave the doors open and stopped the practice. A dealer upown devised a scheme to keep his machine going on the passerby can hear it and the doors be shut at the same time. He bored in the frame of the door a hole large enough for the neck of the horn of the Phonograph to slip through and with the horn outside and the instrument on the inside he still draws the crowds to his window.—New York Sun.

This idea did not originate with the New York Dealer, for it has been used by Edison Dealers in various parts of the country for the past two or three winters.

BEST FOR DANCING.

Henry G. Hines, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., sends his business card, on which he announces that he will furnish dance music and other entertainment for dancing and parties by means of the Edison Phonograph and the latest Gold Moulded Records. On the Reverse side he says: "Have you heard the Phonograph lately? If you haven't you should do so, for this most marvelous invention has been brought to such a height of perfection that it is truly wonderful. It furnishes the best kind of music for dancing at parties and other private gatherings."

THE PHONOGRAM.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

Delivered With Goods.

Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50

Smaller quantities pro rata.

Imprinted, per 500 copies	$1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies	$2.75

No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

By Mail.

Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

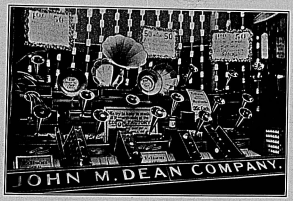
KIND WORDS FROM THE CITY OF PRUNES.

San Jose, Cal., December 6th, 1904.



Your Phonograph Monthly and Suspended List reaches us regularly and you may be sure we find it a great source of satisfaction, not alone in the feeling of security and content in handling a one-price article and the "cleanness" consequent thereunto, but also that a retailer's efforts are appreciated and will be supported at every turn. It makes one feel like getting out and expending every effort, and, like the skirmisher in battle feeling that the artillery is supporting him, so very retailers feel that the head office will support our every move in the right direction. May your business continue to grow in the future as it has in the past, for along with it grows ours, and rest assured that in one store in this city of "Prunes," the Edison goods have warm friends and supporters.

G. R. Bent & Son.

EDISON GOOD FAR AHEAD.

"A firm made me an offer a few days ago on ——— ———. Said he had the best machines made and wanted me to handle his machines. I wrote him that I handled the best, the Edison, and that the only way he could convince me of the superiority of his machine over the Edison was to send me one on approval; one that he considered the best, let me examine it and play it beside the Edison, and if it proved to be better I would handle them. He sent me one of the $40 machines with all the latest attachments. I gave it a fair trial. Well I returned it. This is enough said. My $30 Standard was far ahead of his $40. Well there is just about as much difference—as there is in the Gem and Standard. Edison can't be beat."

E. P. Dillon.

WINDOW DISPLAY OF THE JOHN M. DEAN COMPANY, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

In sending the above photograph this firm wrote:

"We are, as you know, a strictly Edison store in the talking machine line. Have repeatedly tried other makes, but had no success whatever with them. We are looking forward to a very large Christmas trade on Edison machines and records. They are perfection." We have since learned that their Christmas trade was all they expected.

TRADE STATUS.

The expected did not materialize. Owing to the custom of many firms of taking account of stock after the holidays, and the general need of "straightening out" store affairs, we rather looked for a falling off in the demand for goods in the early part of January, but the falling off did not come. On the contrary, the January orders have exceeded those for December, and they have increased each week as the month progressed. The advance orders for February Records were decidedly larger than those for January Records, the average for each selection almost equalling the phenomenal sale of the combined November-December list. It is evident that Edison goods are keeping farther to the front than ever; that in spite of the extravagant claims of others, the merits of the Edison Phonograph and its wonderful Gold Moulded Record are universally recognized wherever they have an opportunity of proving their qualities. The Edison Phonograph asks for nothing more than an opportunity of being played against any similar device now made, and we hope that all Dealers who handle any other line will at least play both, and let their patrons choose for themselves.

One of the most gratifying things in connection with the business of the National Phonograph Company is the number of firms who are taking up the sale of Edison goods. Since the new conditions went into effect last July, more than a score of firms have become Jobbers and an average of more than fifty firms each week have become Dealers. This has been done without granting special favors to any one. In each and in every case the goods have been bought outright and in accordance with our agreement. Every one that has become a Dealer in Edison goods has been treated the same as all others, and no better.

☞ SPECIAL ATTENTION IS CALLED TO REMOVAL NOTICES ON PAGES FOUR AND FIVE.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR MARCH, 1905.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near February 25th as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if received prior to February 10th, will be shipped. March Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock order for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

REMOVAL OF NEW YORK OFFICE.

The New York office of this Company will on February 1 be removed from 83 Chambers Street to 31 Union Square, corner Broadway and 16th Street, (fourth floor, Bank of the Metropolis Building.) This change to larger quarters has been made necessary by the growth of our business. All orders and correspondence intended for our New York office should hereafter be sent to the new address.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.

CO-OPERATION SPELLS SUCCESS.

The year 1904 was the most prosperous in the history of the National Phonograph Company. It was a great year for the sale of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. Not only was the foreign business greatly extended and increased, but the domestic business made greater strides than in any other twelve months of the company's career. The result is a source of much satisfaction to every officer and employee of the company whose work assisted in making it possible. The ever increasing strength of the Edison product upon the public has had much to do with this success, but we do not forget that no small part of it has also been due to the Jobbers and Dealers. Without the good will and cordial co-operation of the trade the same success could not have been possible. It will not do to say that Jobbers and Dealers only sell what the public demands and that the manufacturer has but to popularize his product to make the trade sell it, for this is not entirely so. Take away the element of good-will and the volume of business would suffer. We, therefore, desire at this time to express to all Jobbers and Dealers our appreciation of their efforts in 1904, and give voice to the hope that we shall have their co-operation to even a greater extent in 1905. Everything points to a most prosperous year and it only requires working together all along the line to make the promise of to-day a reality in December next. So let us all touch glasses to the toast "Edison and the Phonograph."

ADVERTISING THE THING.

The magazine advertising that we have been doing in the past year has been more extended and more adequate than ever before. In spite of its cost, it has been most profitable, for it has played no small part in the great increase of our business. If we did not believe that every Edison Dealer in the country has seen this advertising in some form, we would reprint some of the advertisements. It has occupied full pages in a score or more magazines, and all dealers must have seen it. In every advertisement the public has been asked to call at Dealers' stores and hear the Edison Phonograph and Edison Gold Moulded Records. Dealers can get much benefit from this advertising by using space in their local papers to tell the public that they carry the goods. Every Dealer who has made a success in selling the Edison product has been a liberal user of advertising space, and the business of all would be increased by advertising in one or more of its various forms.

LEARN TO REGULATE SPEED.

Our salesmen report that one of the commonest things in their daily experiences is to find Dealers exhibiting Records on a Phonograph running either too fast or too slow, thereby causing customers to have unfavorable impressions when a contrary effect is desired. Every Dealer should make it his first duty to learn how to properly regulate the speed of all styles of Phonographs. It is really the most important factor in the sale of machines. The direction sheet packed with each Phonograph, except the Gem, gives careful instructions for determining a speed of 160 revolutions a minute, and by giving them a little study every Dealer may know when his machines are running at the right speed. On the Gem machine the Dealer may make a chalk mark on the rim of the pulley or some other mark of that nature that can be seen, and count the revolutions of the mandrel in ten or fifteen seconds. In ten seconds it should be from twenty-six to twenty-seven, and in fifteen seconds it should be forty.

SCHEDULE FOR RECORD SHIPMENTS.

Because of the ample facilities that we now have at Orange, N. J., for the manufacture of Edison Gold Moulded Records, it has become possible to announce a definite and fixed schedule in connection with the shipment of new Records each month. Unless otherwise advised, samples will be shipped on the 1st to each Jobber ordering them. Advance orders must be received by the 10th. Shipment of orders received at that time will be made about the 25th, the date not varying two days one way or the other. Those received after the 10th will be regarded as second orders. Shipments by the 25th will make it possible to have the new Records in the hands of all Dealers by the first of the month given on the supplement. It is only within the past three months that it has been possible to carry out a fixed schedule of this kind, and it only needs the co-operation of the Jobbers to make it a standard feature of the business.

THE DANCE RECORDS.

The reports being sent in covering the instant success of the dance Records shipped early in January, are no surprise to the experts who supervised their recording, or to those whose duty it is each month to hear or approve all Records before they are placed before the public. The splendid tonal qualities and full volume were known to them, and they would have been grievously disappointed had these dance Records been anything but a success. Before they passed inspection they were compared with similar Records of other companies and found to surpass them on every point. The advance orders were more than half those for the monthly supplement, and many Jobbers have already placed second orders. They are going to be steady sellers for months, or until something better is made, and no Dealer's stock will be complete without most of them. Every Dealer should have them, for few Phonograph owners will be without a representative selection.

When the five Records, Nos. 8247 to 8251, "U. S. Army Lancers," were made over by the Edison Military Band, "Mr. Nightingale's" whistling specialty was omitted from No. 8248; "Squire Hawkins'" Rube monologue was omitted from No. 8249, and the singing and whistling duet by "Mr. Nightingale" and "Mr. Hightone" was omitted from No. 8250. All orders for this set of Records are now being filled with the new series. These Records still include the calls.

REMOVAL OF ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT.

On February 1 the Advertising Department of the National Phonograph Company will be moved to the main office and factory of the Company at Orange, N. J.

Ever since the Company has been in business its Advertising Department has had its headquarters at the New York office. There all the work of planning, ordering and checking was carried on, and all mailing to the trade was done. The bulk of the catalogues and printed matter has, however, been carried at the factory in Orange, from whence shipments were made to the trade.

It has been decided that more efficient service can be rendered the trade by having the department and its stock under one roof. Therefore its removal to Orange.

The department will occupy a one-story brick building, 25x100 feet in size and 20 feet in height. The building is one formerly occupied by Mr. Edison for experimental purposes, and its walls have witnessed the working out of many parts of his inventions. Had the building been constructed especially for the department it could not have been better adapted for the work. Although located in the middle of the factory grounds, and surrounded by the buildings in which Edison Phonographs and Records are made, and by Mr. Edison's Laboratory and experimental buildings, it stands apart from them all, free from the turmoil and confusion incident to a large manufacturing plant.

Correspondence intended for the Advertising Department only should hereafter be addressed to Orange, although it will reach it without material loss of time if sent to the New York office.

In its new quarters, the aim of the department will be to study more closely than ever the needs of Jobbers and Dealers in the matter of catalogues and other advertising literature. Being in close touch with the Shipping Department will make it possible to send out printed matter without delay, when not necessary to hold for shipment with merchandize. On the whole we believe that the removal will be a benefit to the trade and ourselves.

I wish to say a few words in praise of the Edison Phonograph. Have one here which has been in constant use for three years selling Records. There has never been anything wrong with it, and I have only had to put on one new belt.—From a Dealer at Sydney, New South Wales, Australia.

IT HELPS BUSINESS.

"Don't the sale of cheap premium talking machines make inroads on the demand for Edison Phonographs and Records," we were recently asked, and the inquirer was quite surprised when we informed him that the contrary was the case; that they have been a benefit to the Edison Dealers in every city where the premium plan has been carried on. These Dealers report that they have at once increased the demand for Edison Records, and have served to whet the appetite of the owner for a better machine. The premium machines are so imperfect and so unsatisfactory that few people use them long without getting disgusted. This feeling extends in a large degree to all machines of the same name and having a stock of cylinder Records, they look around for a better machine to play them. Then the Edison Dealer has an inning and scores right along. Dealers whose cities have not yet been struck by the premium scheme need not fear its coming, but rather welcome it, for with a little judicious advertising of their own it will bring them much business.

HEBREW RECORDS.

The twenty-four Hebrew selections listed on page 2 of this issue were made at our New York Recording plant, under the direction of the experts who have made the fame of the Edison Gold Moulded Record, and they are up-to-date in every respect. The selections are all of a popular character. It is certain that every Hebrew owner of an Edison Phonograph will want the entire list. A limited edition of supplements for these Records is being printed. It will be Form No. 630, and Jobbers placing orders for the Records are asked to order a few supplements shipped with them. Mailing these supplements to a selected list of names will not only sell Records, but induce many non-owners to purchase Phonographs.

THE TASK NOT YET FINISHED.

Orders for Records are occasionally received directing us to fill them only with the Records of the new style marking, and packed in the new style carton. The trade should know that it is still not possible to comply with these requests with all selections. Although we have been steadily at work making over the Records to conform to new conditions, the task will not be completed for some months to come. Until that time we shall be compelled to supply a certain number of titles in the old style. The number of these selections will steadily decrease, and eventually disappear.

PRINTED MATTER.

Form No. 618, a hanger showing the prices and discounts under which Edison Phonographs are sold, was recently mailed to the entire trade. We trust that all Dealers will hang this form in a conspicuous place so that they will be able to explain to their customers why they are compelled to sell Edison goods at uniform prices. In printing this form an error was made in giving the price of the Victor Phonograph as $60, when it should have been $65. We will thank Dealers to make this correction on their copies.

We still have on hand a quantity of our St. Louis Booklet, Form 550, and will be glad to fill orders for it from Jobbers who can use it to advantage.

All orders from the trade for price cards are now being filled with a new style card, Form 621. This card is 7 1-3 x 9 inches in size, and a different color is being used for each of the four machines. The colors are bright and will enhance the appearance of any window display in which they are used.

A copy of Form 619, Accessories Catalogue, was recently mailed to the entire trade. This catalogue is intended only for trade distribution, and cannot be supplied to anyone in large quantities.

Beginning with this issue, we shall mail with each copy of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY an order blank to be used by Dealers in ordering new Records each month. This will make it unnecessary to use the second page of this MONTHLY, or write a lot of numbers. Spaces will be left for the names of Jobbers and the signatures of Dealers. Only enough will be printed each month to mail one to each Dealer. It will not be supplied in quantities.

DEATH OF CHARLES MOLÉ.

Charles Molé, who made Edison Record No. 8513, "Le Tremolo," died in New York City on January 8. For two years he had been connected with Damrosch's orchestra as first flute player. Previous to that he was flute soloist for the Boston Symphony. For many years he was an instructor in the Paris Conservatory of Music.

APPRECIATED.

Dealers all over the country should thank you for your efforts in their behalf. It is good to know that a company like yours stands by its Dealers. Accept my best wishes for further success and a prosperous 1905.

LESTER CHARLES RIEMER.

HELPS TO SELL SHEET MUSIC.

A Dealer who has been handling talking machines exclusively states that he recently put in as a side line a stock of sheet music. In selecting same, care was taken to buy such as were popular in Records. The idea of hearing a song sung, instead of being played on a piano, as is usually done, appealed to purchasers of sheet music, and he now has the best trade in his city in this line. Naturally his complete stock brought in many who were prejudiced against a Phonograph, and were surprised at the wonderful improvement in Record making.

We found that the latter statement was especially true. Many piano players are prejudiced against a Phonograph by dealers who handle pianos exclusively, and, too, by the belief that the Phonograph is machine-made music like the piano players.—Chandler Phonograph Company, Chillicothe, O.

A GREAT BUSINESS.

The following letter was written from Boston to the editor of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY by our New England salesman:

In calling on the Boston Cycle and Sundry Co. yesterday, they requested me to point out to you the wonderful business that they are doing in Edison goods. For your information they placed orders with me on the 7th inst. for nearly 19,000 Stock Records and over 17,000 from the February list. I also received their regular weekly order for 100 Phonographs. They will receive over 12,000 Dance Records during the coming week. It is now up to our company to give them a good send off in the MONTHLY.

Mr. Scott has stated the situation so nicely that we felt that we can not do better than print his letter in full. It is needless to say that we take great pride in the conditions which make it possible to print such a letter.

PHONOGRAPH PUBLICATION IN MEXICO.

Our Foreign Department is in receipt of the first issue of El Boletin Fonografico, a monthly published in Mexico City, Mexico, in the interests of the Phonograph. Following the publishers presentation of the magazine is a short biographical sketch of Mr. Edison and a well-written article setting forth very strongly the leading position occupied by the Phonograph among the inventions of the nineteenth century. The publishers of El Boletin Fonografico promise to keep the Mexican public closely in touch with all improvements in connection with the Phonograph, as well as to furnish other information of interest to Phonograph enthusiasts; and it is to be hoped that their efforts will be rewarded with unqualified success.

PATENT INFRINGEMENT IN LONDON.

The following is a report of proceedings against Messrs. A. W. Gamage, Ltd., heard before Justice Kekewich at the Royal Courts of Justice, London, on Friday, December 2nd, 1904, when A. J. Walter appeared for the Plaintiffs; M. D. Warmington and J. C. Graham appeared for the Defendants.

Mr. Walter, on behalf of the Plaintiffs, The National Phonograph Co., Ltd., stated that the action was brought to restrain infringement of Edison's Letters Patent. The articles were sold by the plaintiff company under what is known as a Limited License, under which they could only be resold under certain conditions. They were resold by the defendants contrary to the conditions, and an action for infringement had been brought. A defense had been put in denying infringement, and denying the validity of the patents but the defendants now through their Counsel sought leave to withdraw their defence and an injunction was therefore sought to restrain the defendants, their servants and agents during the life of the Letters Patent from infringing the said or either of the said Letter Patent. The injunction as asked for was granted.

SEND ORDERS TO NEW YORK.

The attention of the trade is again called to the desirability of sending all orders for Phonographs, Records and supplies direct to our New York office. All orders must pass through the Sales Department, which has its headquarters in New York, and although the orders will reach this department no matter how addressed, they will get attention quicker by sending them direct to New York.

A FINE LOT.

Your January Records are a particularly fine lot and we trust you will continue to supply songs, etc., of the same good quality. Wishing you a successful New Year.

THE TORONTO MUTOSCOPE CO., LTD.

NOT IN THE SAME CLASS.

Don't conflict the Edison Phonograph with the "Scratchophone" machines on this market whose only virtue is that they make a lot of noise. The Edison Phonographs are free from that scratching sound and don't require needles after each record is played, but the music is reproduced by the aid of a sapphire point that lasts a life time.—Extract from advertisement Danforth & Carter, Augusta, Ga.

I have a Triumph Phonograph which I purchased from you, and of all the machines I have tried, there is none that can compare with yours, as the workmanship is all that is desired. —From a correspondent at Christchurch, Canterbury, N. Z.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR MARCH, 1905.

The March list of Edison Gold Moulded Records is essentially one of popular airs and up-to-date music; just the kind of selections that are wanted by ninety-nine persons out of a hundred. Records of grand opera music by high class talent appeal to one man and afford good talking points for the manufacturer, but the Records that reach the heart of the other ninety-nine and put the business are those of the high, catchy, rhythmic songs of the day. On this basis the demand for the March list will be phenomenal. The following references to each will afford some information about these Records, but every Phonograph owner should hear them played at a Dealer's store:

No. 8928. "A Sprig o' Shillalah," by the Edison Concert Band, is a timely selection, listed in the month of St. Patrick's Day. "A Sprig o' Shillalah" is styled by its composer, J. Fred Helf, as an Irish intermezzo. Mr. Helf is the composer of "A Bit o' Blarney," and while his newer selection does not resemble it, the style of the composer will be readily recognized as being similar. "A Sprig o' Shillalah" is in every respect as fine a selection as "A Bit o' Blarney." Our Record of it is made in a musicianly manner by the Edison Concert Band.

No. 8929. "O Promise Me," sung by Irving Gillette, is one of the best ballads of later days that was not made over when the gold mould process of making Records was introduced by Mr. Edison. The demand for it, however, has been so constant that it has been decided to list it as part of our March Supplement. This song is, beyond question, the most popular thing that Mr. De Koven ever wrote and our Record of it by Mr. Gillette is the best that the latter has yet made for Phonograph use. The singer is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8930. "Never," is another topical song by Bob Roberts, without which the Monthly Supplement of Edison would not be complete. Each one that he sings always seems to be better than the one previously listed. This is true of "Never," the words and music of which were written by Alexander Rogers. The Record includes three verses, each one of which leads up to an amusing situation cleverly brought out by the chorus. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8931, "Come Take a Trip in My Airship Medley," played by Albert Benzler, is an unusually fine xylophone solo with orchestra accompaniment, introducing the songs "Come Take a Trip in My Airship," "Please Come and Play in My Yard," "Let's All Go Up to Mandy's" and "I've Got My Fingers Crossed, You Can't Touch Me." The correct variation on the theme for which the medley is named is a very effective part of the Record. In this medley of popular waltz songs there is "something doing" throughout the entire selection.

No. 8932. "It Makes Me Think of Home, Sweet Home," is a new descriptive song, sung by Byron G. Harlan, written by Frank D. Bryan and one that is destined to be very popular. In it the singer refers to the "Star Spangled Banner" as the song that stirs up his American blood and makes him think of "Home, Sweet Home." Mr. Harlan, as usual, sings the song finely and in his work has the assistance of the orchestra.

No. 8933. "The Troubadour," played by the Edison Concert Band, is an intermezzo by W. C. Powell, composer of "The Gondolier," the $5,000 instrumental hit, published by the popularizers of "Hiawatha." "The Troubadour" was the instrumental number selected by these people to feature during the present season, and the success it has met with in the past few months justifies the wisdom of their choice. Our Record does the composition full justice.

No. 8934. "The White Swan," is a selection by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, written in schottische tempo. It is of the same character and by the same composer,—E. M. Soltz, —as "Birds and the Brook," our Record, No. 7865, one of our most popular orchestra Records. "The White Swan" has the same elements of success.

No. 8935. "Oh, Oh, Sallie," is another fine duet by Collins and Harlan. This selection has a sub-title "I'll Love You Till I Die" and is worthy of such an this line. The music is tuneful and full of character, and offers excellent opportunities for the duet by Collins and Harlan, to entertain their many friends. The words of this song were written by Rogers and Frantzen and the music by Eddie Leonard. The Record has an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8936. "Mandy," sung by Harry MacDonough, is Miss Maud Lillian Berri's great hit in Klaw & Erlanger's New York production of the Drury Lane spectacle, "Humpty Dumpty." This song is the most talked-of number in the show and is rapidly climbing to a high point of popularity. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. Its composers are Cole and Johnson. In the song the Mexican lover sings:

> Mexico! My dark-eyed Mexico!
> Though years may come and go, you'll constant be,
> And I'll be waiting, waiting for you,
> And I would like to know if you love me.

No. 8937. "Darkie Tickle," made by the Edison Military Band, is a characteristic dance composition by E. B. Hunt strongly listed in our catalogue as a banjo solo by Vess L. Ossmans. In its new form it will doubtless be more popular than ever. This selection introduces a humorous coon dialect, dancing and other incidental effects.

No. 8938. "Marguerite," sung by MacDonough and Biebling, is a fine Record of C. A. White's old song, which is popular everywhere. Very few melodies equal it and none surpass it. It was especially arranged for MacDonough and Biebling as a duet and has never before been heard in the form now offered to Edison Phonograph owners. The orchestra accompaniment provides an attractive embellishment.

No. 8939. "The Bingville Band," by Arthur Collins, is a distinctly comic song descriptive of the Band of Bingville in which some amusing effects are introduced. The music has a characteristic swing and is full of action from beginning to end. Mr. Collins is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this song was written by C. F. Billings and the words by F. M. Dean. It is a Record that cannot fail to please Mr. Collins' many admirers.

No. 8940. "Evening Star," is the first violoncello solo that we have listed. It is played by Hans Kronold, who is one of the best violoncello players of the present day. Being able to have him make a Record of this beautiful selection from Wagner's "Tannhauser" is a bit of enterprise in which we take much pride. It is one of the most artistic Records from a musical standpoint that it has been our good fortune to issue. In order to detract as little as possible from the 'cello, Mr. Kronold was accompanied by the piano instead of the orchestra. Particular attention is invited to the steady, sustained bowing of Mr. Kronold, which is perfectly recorded. At the time this Record was made Mr. Kronold expressed himself as delighted with the results of his work.

No. 8941, "Hans Krausmeyer and His Dog Schneider," is a unique talking Record by Len Spencer and Ada Holt. So cleverly do Mr. Spencer and Mr. Holt make this Record that one can all but see Krausmeyer carrying on the soliloquy with his dog and the latter wagging its tail and barking in reply. Krausmeyer's "talk" is very funny.

No. 8942. "Can't You See My Heart Beats All for You?" by Murray and Roberts, is a coon love song now being sung in the best vaudeville performances of the country. The first duet Records of these artists and listed in February made an instant hit and caused an immediate demand for other Records by the same people. The following dialogue is appropriately introduced:

> ROBERTS—What's the matter with, girl? Haven't I treated you all right? Didn't I take you to the ice cream festival?
> MURRAY—Yes, but you only had car fare one way and I had to walk back home.

The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music is by Theodore Morse and the words by Bert Fitzgibbon.

No. 8943. "The Wren Polka," is a piccolo solo played by Frank S. Mazziotta, with orchestra accompaniment. The tonal quality of this selection is superior to any previous Records made by this instrument. The composition is replete with brilliant and difficult execution, yet withal, tuneful and capable of ready appreciation. This selection was composed by E. Demare.

No. 8944. "Won't You Fondle Me?" is a serio-comic love song by Arthur Collins, which is very popular among vaudeville singers generally. It has somewhat of the rag-time rhythm, and Mr. Collins' work in making a Record of it is up to his usual high standard. The orchestra accompanies the singer. This song was written by Kendis and Paley. Its chorus:

> Won't you fondle me, won't you fondle me,
> Throw your loving arms around me in that loving way,
> I'll sing darling coo, coo, and we're going to stay,
> I'll sing darling coo, coo, since it's hurting you,
> Keep my heart's affection burning all for you,
> If you only fondle me.

No. 8945. "Tell Me With Your Eyes," is another fine Record by the Edison Male Quartette. This selection was specially arranged, introducing in the verse part a solo by the second tenor, a duet by the two tenors, a trio by the tenors and baritone, and finishing with a quartette chorus, or refrain. The entire Record is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this selection was written by Albert Von Tilzer and the words by Arthur J. Lamb. Its refrain follows:

> Tell me with your eyes
> All I want to know,
> Tell me with your eyes, my dear,
> That you love me so;
> For your lips have never confessed
> To your heart's secret rights,
> More than all the sweetest words
> Tell me with your eyes.

No. 8946. "Ye Ancients March," played by the Edison Concert Band, is another popular Record made by the wax process, but not until now made by the gold moulded process. It introduces a number of old time melodies, characteristic of the title. The reed section plays an important part in the fife and drum effects, introducing in it this march by the composer. This selection was dedicated to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston by its composer, the late D. W. Reeves, bandmaster of the American Band of Providence, R. I., who succeeded to the directorship of Gilmore's Band at the death of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore.

No. 8947, "Tommy (Tell Me True)," made by Harlan and Stanley, is a sentimental song written by Don Ramsay and Tell Taylor, and cleverly sung by these two well known artists. The music is written in schottische tempo, which is kept up throughout the Record, giving a fine swing to the selection, which is very pleasant to hear. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8948, "My Carolina Lady," served as an introduction to the Phonograph public of another new singer in Miss Ada Jones, who has a charming contralto voice. Miss Jones sings this selection in a style all her own, with a dainty coon dialect and expression, that claim your interested attention at once. The music of this song was written by George Hamilton and the words by Andrew B. Sterling. A part of one verse follows:

> Whilst I'd throw 'em back in Carolina,
> My lovin' Southern girl I dearly love,
> At night I jump on board a train to charm her,
> That angels will wait to o'er her form stand.

No. 8949. "Mildred," is a bells solo by Albert Benzler, written in the song and dance or schottische tempo, with a melody fully as catching as any of Mr. Benzler's entertaining bell numbers. It is played with orchestra accompaniment. The composer of this selection is Len O. De Witt.

No. 8950. "When the Harvest Moon is Shining on the River," sung by Harry Anthony, is a new ballad by S. R. Henry and Arthur J.

Lamb, the music of which forms a very pretty setting to the story as told in the words. It attracts the first time it is heard, which accounts for the rapid growth in popularity that it has met with since its first publication a short time ago. Mr. Anthony sings it in a remarkably fine manner. It has the usual orchestra accompaniment. The theme is the old love story about—

The nightingales are chanting in the valley,
As soft winds whisper through the rock he skies,
As still beside the garden gate they linger,
And whisper of a love that never dies.

No. 8951, "Tennessee Minstrels," by the Edison Minstrels, is another excellent addition to our list of Minstrel Records. It begins with the regular minstrel scene and the opening overture is "Maud S." Then are introduced the end men, Billy Murray and Len Spencer, and the interlocutor in a bright and funny "gag." Harry MacDonough sings the minstrel ballad "My Love Remains the Same," with chorus by the Edison Male Quartette. All are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8952, "There's a Dark Man Coming With a Bundle Medley," played by Edison Military Band, includes "There's a Dark Man Coming With a Bundle," "Mamma's Boy," "I'm Trying So Hard to Forget You," and "The Yankee Doodle Boy," four of the very latest popular successes.

EDISON LINE ALL HE WANTED.

"Attached you will find a letter from——," wrote George E. Mickel, manager of the Nebraska Cycle Co., Omaha, Neb., on December 21st. "This is the party we had sign a Retail Dealer's Agreement about six weeks ago. Before he went into the talking machine business, the writer tried to induce him to take up the Edison line, and finally called on him and found he had taken up a line of ——. In November I had him put in a line of Edison goods, and this letter explains the result:

Nebraska Cycle Co.

"I must say I am highly pleased with the Phonograph, so much so I would like to dispose of my stock of ——, consisting of three instruments, and handle your goods exclusively. Could you not take them off my hands? I presume you could dispose of them better than I can. Let me know what you think of such a thing."

The Douglas Phonograph Co. have established a branch of their business at 1525 First Avenue, New York City, in charge of Alfred Weiss. This will place at the disposal of the uptown dealers a large stock of Edison Phonographs and Records, etc. The uptown branch will be open every day and evenings, which will enable dealers to obtain goods of them at all times.

IN THE PHONOGRAPH PALACE.

It says "Admission Free" over the door of the penny in the slot Phonograph palace, and apparently there are now who think that that applied to the machines as well.

A woman came in, carrying an armful of bundles, which she deposited on top of a Phonograph case, picking up, then, the tubes and applying them to her ears, clearly expecting to hear, right off, the music. But it didn't come.

She shook the tubes, and looked at them, and juggled the music box itself, and then put the earpieces up to her ears again, and listened hard, but still no music. And then:

"Madam," said a man standing at the next Phonograph, listening to its music, a man who couldn't help witnessing her efforts, and who now ventured to address her respectfully, "madam, I think if you would drop a penny in the slot you would find it will work better."

But instead of doing this she dropped the earpieces and gathered up her bundles and departed. Didn't it say "Admission Free" over the door?

But if it seemed strange that anybody should think the machines were free, it seemed stranger still to encounter somebody that didn't know how the machines worked. But there are such.

Up to a man who had a pair of tubes glued to his ears walked a woman who, as a matter of simple fact, was at once handsome, graceful in bearing and elegantly attired, a woman of evident cultivation and refinement, and who was accompanied by her daughter, a young woman handsomer still than herself. But neither knew how the penny in the slot Phonographs were operated, and when the man when they had approached had dropped the earpieces up spoke the elder of the two visitors, with:

"Will you please tell me how they work?"

Which the gentleman was indeed pleased to do; and straightway the mother and daughter, from a house in some fine old town that might be one of wealth and of great natural beauty, but one evidently not yet boasting of a Phonograph parlor, began putting cents in the hopper.

All sorts of people visit the Phonograph palace, including men as well as women and children; and grown up men appear to enjoy the music as much as anybody does. Two men may be seen, or two young women, or a young man and a young woman, or two children often are listening to the same Phonograph, each holding a single earpiece; and sometimes one man may be seen, listening with a single earpiece, not using the other at all. Perhaps he is deaf in the other ear, but anyway he uses only one earpiece.

Mothers hold little children up in their arms and themselves listen with one earpiece and place the other at the ear of the child. They do this sometimes with infants so young that it would seem impossible for the little ones to realize that what they were hearing was a concord of sweet sounds, but the mothers seem to enjoy giving the infants a chance to hear; they like to divide the music with them.

Of all those who drop a penny in the slot and put up the earpieces some listen gayly, while some plant their elbows on the box over the machine, and hold the earpiece to their ears lightly, and listen in an attitude of rapt enjoyment; and some people hum the tune as they listen to it. Many of the listeners seem to have made strange selections. For instance:

You may see gray haired but alert men, with earpieces up, listening to the stirring strains of "Marching Through Georgia" or of "Dixie," and it is easy to imagine as to them that they are veterans to whom these songs bring back vividly recollections of the days when, on one or the other side, they performed the man's part. It is easy to account for their selections. And there is the swarthy man with the pointed beard drinking in his selection from the opera —it seems natural that he should have made this selection; and the same is true of the young people to be seen listening to love songs, or perhaps to rollicking comic ditties.

But how shall we account for the people who are drawn to the Phonograph that plays "Down Where the Sweet Potatoes Grow," people who may have about them nothing whatever bucolic in appearance? It may be simply idle curiosity, but it seems strange.

And why should people put up the earpieces of "Dear Sing Sing," people of wholly innocent appearance, people who from their looks would seem never to have had any further acquaintance with Sing Sing than that to be gained by riding past it on the railroad. Why should they be interested in "Dear Sing Sing?" And you may see people whom you would never pick out as being of a deeply devotional nature listening with manifest interest to "The Holy City" or to the notes of "Onward, Christian Soldier."

And so on all along the line, so that one is inclined to repeat to himself as he looks at the listeners, "You can't always judge a man by his looks." Curious and interesting and peculiarly modern is the penny in the slot Phonograph palace, and of interest, as well, are the people to be met in it.—New York Sun.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.

Rudolph, O., Jan. 9, 1905.

I wish to relate an incident which occurred in our store this evening, which I considered the highest compliment that has ever been paid to a talking machine. I was exhibiting a Home, with a 24-inch silk horn. Among other Records, I put on No. 8616, The Flogging Scene from "Uncle Tom's Cabin." When the Record was ended, a man sprang out of his chair, wiped the tears from his eyes, and said, "I'd give ten dollars for the privilege of hitting that damned slave driver just once." Has any other talking machine ever been complimented any higher? The Edison is taking our community by storm.

PHONOGRAPH MUSIC BY TELEPHONE.

Sleighing parties from New Rochelle and the Bronx had an impromptu dance at a City Island Bridge hotel Christmas eve, to which two mice and a Phonograph twelve miles away played most important parts. Thomas Jordan, proprietor of the hotel, which is in Pelham Bay Park, found his house full of gay young people Saturday evening, and when they suggested a dance he had his dining room cleared, a big fire started and all was in readiness. Miss Clara Forsyth, of New Rochelle, sat down to the piano to furnish music for the dancers, but her first notes were discords, and were accompanied by a piercing squealing and scratching from the interior of the piano.

"Rats!" somebody shrieked, and Miss Forsyth climbed on top of the piano stool, while the other young women mounted chairs and window sills. Mr. Jordan opened the lock of the piano to investigate, and a little mouse leaped out and scurried around the floor to a chorus of shrieks. There was another mouse still in the piano, and after cautiously poking around with a stick among the wires, Mr. Jordan decided not to endanger the instrument by such proceedings, and went to the telephone to call up a musician in Fordham, not far away, intending to order two or three musicians sent to the hotel.

He got a crossed wire and listened to a brass band concert reproduced from a Phonograph in the house of Albert E. Lauten, a musical instrument dealer at No. 1934 Amsterdam avenue, Manhattan, about a mile and a half from City Island. Mr. Jordan broke in at the end of the march and talked to Mr. Lauten. As a result he made a megaphone of cardboard and his patrons danced to the telephone music of the Phonograph for two hours.—New York Herald.

ASSIST HER, OF COURSE.

Mr. ——— writes us saying "he has just received one dozen Records and finds 'The Girl I Love in Sunny Tennessee' is broke, what shall I do?" We replied, "If you love her, send some money." What would you do?—Thomas C. Hough, Edison Jobber at Minneapolis, Minn.

DANCE RECORDS FINE.

I received the Dance Records to-day, and they are fine. Any one who could not dance to such music will not try any other kind. I have a 7292R brass horn and a Concert Phonograph changed to play the Standard Records. I have never heard its equal, not excepting the ———, of which I also have one.

We have a local band here and I am going to take some Records in some future time. Last winter I got some chimes on the Concert Phonograph that were fine, also some violin solos. They were my first attempt to make Records.

Z. J. LE FEVRE.

A REMARKABLE OCCURRENCE.

Mansfield, Ohio, Dec. 21, 1904.

Herewith we enclose a copy of an "ad" which we had in our leading daily paper, the News, in the issue of December 19th and 21st. The occurrence there portrayed actually took place in our store last week. The name of the man is properly given and the story is not in the least over-drawn. He actually wept, prayed and swore.

W. T. GEITZ.

THE PSYCHIC POWER OF THE PHONOGRAPH.

Reader, what would you give to again live over, in all its realism, the most momentous period of your life, especially if that time had been a great history making epoch?

Uncle Dan Frankhouser, who served over four years in the Great American Conflict, can tell you what it means. He can tell you what it is to again march to the strains of martial music and that wonderful necromancy which can call sleeping battalions from the silence of the grave, to hurl themselves into the awful vortex of war's fire and blood—the clash of contending armies. Ask Uncle Dan of the marvelous mesmeric potency of the old war song, "Marching Through Georgia," as sung by Harlan & Stanley:

"Bring the good old bugle, boys, we'll sing another song,
Sing it with a spirit that will start the world along,
Sing it as we used to sing it, fifty thousand strong,
While we were marching through Georgia."

Ah! you should see the old warrior's nostrils dilate and his eye take on the fire of battle. The veterans is again back on the famous march from Atlanta to the sea. His arms swing and his feet beat time to the inspiring rhythm of the song while his entire being is suniver with the thrill which soldiers alone can feel. Then play for him "The Battle Cry of Freedom," by the same duo:

"We are springing to the call of our brothers gone before,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom!
And we'll fill the vacant ranks with a million freemen more,
Shouting the battle cry of freedom!"

Strange anomaly! Inexplicable paradox of the human soul; he weeps and great hot tears roll down the furrows which the years have laid into his cheeks. The heart of the rough old fighter is as tender as a maiden's. His lips again move with the prayers that were murmured before the charge, and then, obvious to all present surroundings, carried forward in the irresistible current of the strife, he swears terrible oaths invoking the war god's vengence upon the heads of his country's enemies. Was it real? Ask him.

In the brief period of ten or fifteen minutes the panorama of "The Great Rebellion," with all its sounds and sights; its comedies and tragedies has passed before his eyes and filled his ears. Nay! More: He has been taken into it and lived it all over again as he did in all its ghastly reality more than forty years ago.

The Edison Phonograph was the magic medium that marshaled the spirits of a dead past to re-enact the drama of war.

The Edison Phonograph, Mysterious of Sound, capable of portraying every passion of the human heart and every mood which can be made manifest to the ear. Yet there are people who affect a dislike for this child of the brain of the "Wizard of Menlo Park." For them there can be but one verdict: A necrosed mentality, an atrophied soul; a being wholely animal in its selfishness and dead to every attribute that is noble.

However, we may be unjust in our judgment. Perhaps those people who have a dislike for what are commonly called "Talking Machines" have never heard a genuine Edison Phonograph. If you have not, or, even if you have, come to our store this week and hear the Wonderful New "Home Phonographs" we have just put on exhibition. They will indeed be a revelation to your ears and hearts as well. The most acceptable Christmas gift you can possibly make to any one, except a deaf person. Every machine which comes into our house is thoroughly tested and warranted in every way.

GELTZ'S CASH STORE.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

	Delivered With Goods.
Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies	$1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies	$2.75

No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

	By Mail.
Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

REPRODUCER EXCHANGE.

That there are still many of the old style Edison Reproducers in use is shown by the number that find their way back to our factory for repairs. For the benefit of those who have become Dealers in Edison goods in the past two years we would point out that the exchange proposition in connection with reproducers is still in force. This proposition permits Dealers to allow $2 on an old reproducer when a new style one is bought at full list price. A similar allowance, less usual discounts, is made to Dealers when they return old style reproducers and order new ones.

A RECORD MADE BY AUSTRALIAN ABORIGINES.

Edward C. Watts, of Albany, West Australia, under date of November 3, 1904, wrote to our Foreign Department as follows:

"Accompanying this note I am sending a somewhat unique Record made by the telegraph operators at the Eucla transmitting station. Eucla is situated on the border line of West and South Australia. Record was made on an Edison Gem which I sent to the boys. Eucla is about 300 miles from anywhere and the machine is a great source of amusement to the operators and helps to beguile many hours which would otherwise be weary. I have myself a Standard which is the clearest and best I have up to date heard. Record is an imitation of Australian Aborigines' Corroboree, made by three natives. The second part is a Corroboree solo. The Corroboree, I should, I suppose, explain, is a sort of war dance, or rejoicing amongst the blacks to celebrate a big day's hunting or any occasion. The mule blacks paint themselves as many different colors as possible with clay, or mud or anything they can get hold of. The more hideous they can appear the better they are pleased (although they are ugly enough at any time.) They light a big fire around which the Lubras (females) sit and crone and hit two sticks together, the males dance and jump about and carry on a lot of gibberish which no one seems to understand and I am doubtful if they understand it themselves. This record is not an extra good one, as the man who made it had some difficulty in getting the blacks close to the trumpet. They were not too pleased with the looks of the machine and kept jumping back as you will notice at intervals the sounds get very faint. Of course the man could not get the Lubras and sticks in, but did the best he could under the circumstances. I should think this is the first of its kind made. You are at liberty to make what use you like of the Record. I thought, perhaps, you would like to hear it; it will run fairly on a Standard machine. The Record is an old one shaved down, the only one the boys could get where they were."

Unfortunately the Record was broken in transmission.

NEW ZEALAND CONGRATULATIONS.

Following are extracts from a letter addressed to Mr. Edison and written by S. F. Boler, Tauhoa, Auckland, N. Z., under date of November 15th:

"Permit me on behalf of many friends here to offer my hearty congratulations on the perfection to which your marvelous invention, the Phonograph, has attained. The pleasure it gives to thousands in this colony alone bears testimony to its excellence.

"Personally, I have exhibited all through the Island as a hobby and the result has been most gratifying. * * * I am still as deeply interested as when I listened to the first little machine brought here, although quantities have passed my hands since then."

PERSONAL.

Among the out-of-town Jobbers attracted to New York by the automobile show January 16-21 were H. E. Fredrickson, of Omaha, Neb.; W. D. Andrews, Syracuse, N. Y.; N. D. Griffin, of the American Phonograph Co., Gloversville, N. Y.; P. A. Powers, Buffalo, N. Y.; S. K. Hamburger, Harrisburg, Pa.; J. M. Linscott, of the Boston Cycle and Sundry Co., Boston; William Werner, Easton, Pa.; Louis Buehm, of the Wells Phonograph Co., Philadelphia; C. A. Ray, Louisville, Ky.; H. L. Ellenberger, New Haven, Conn.; John N. Willys, of the Elmira Arms Co.

WINS CASE BY PHONOGRAPH.

London, Jan. 21.—The Phonograph has appeared as a witness in a case tried in the Berlin Second Civil Court. Herr Jakobsen claimed a debt from Herr Gerson on the strength of a verbal agreement which the defendant denied on oath. Thereupon Herr Jakobsen produced a Phonograph and set it in motion. It repeated the conversation between the two men, their voices being clearly recognized. Judgment was immediately given for Jakobsen.—New York Sun.

WANTS DIVORCE OR SOMENEW MUSIC.

One of the acts of cruelty assigned by a Portland, Oregon, woman in her suit against her husband for a divorce is that "defendant some time ago purchased a Phonograph and will not buy new music, but sits by the hour and plays the same pieces over and over again, late into the night, so plaintiff cannot sleep."

The Reading Phonograph Co., Reading, Pa., in one of their recent newspaper advertisements printed cuts of the Gem, Standard and Home Phonographs, and under them ran these neat captions:

A Real "Gem,"
$10.00.

The "Standard"

ANOTHER GREAT MONTH.

The advance orders for March Records again exceeded the orders for any similar month in the history of the company. So heavy were these orders that, in spite of our splendid facilities for making Records, and the fact that the plant was running day and night, we were not able to ship the March Records until a week later than the time set down in our regular schedule, and even then we were compelled to make short shipments on a number of titles for which the demand was heavier than for the average of the selections. No other evidence than this demand can be needed to show the tremendous and ever-increasing popularity of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. The orders for Phonographs, too, have kept pace with the demand for Records. All of this is shown in the orders now on file. Then reports from Jobbers and Dealers in all parts of the country tell the same story of the great increase in popularity of Edison goods. Stocks that a year or more ago were large enough to last for a period of time, are now hardly received before they are disposed of. This is causing a readjustment of the plans of Jobbers and Dealers. It has been found in the past few months that larger and more complete stocks must be carried to hold patronage and supply the demand for Edison goods. Everyone is recognizing that the larger business has come to stay, and all are planning to take care of it. All this is true of those now in the business. At the same time our correspondence is very heavy with firms writing for Jobbers and Dealers' discounts, terms and conditions. These firms have found that their competitors having the Edison line have an advantage over them, and they are anxious to handle Edison Phonographs and Records in order to get a share of the business.

THE ADVANCE LIST OF APRIL RECORDS APPEARS ON PAGE 2. ORDER FROM IT. NO OTHER ADVANCE LIST WILL BE ISSUED.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS.
ADVANCE LIST FOR APRIL, 1905.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near March 25th as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if received prior to March 10th, will be shipped. April Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock order for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

CONCERNING SPECIAL OUTFITS.

Our present Agreement provides that where other goods, such as horns, horn-stands, carrying-cases, etc., are included with a regular Phonograph outfit, the price of the additional articles must be advertised separately and must be the same whether included with the regular outfit or sold separately. This provision was made necessary in view of the fact that in some instances special outfits were advertised at prices only very little in excess of the list prices of the regular outfits, and a suspicion was created that in such cases the prices of the regular outfits were cut. To remedy this, it was provided that in every case the prices of the additional goods should be advertised separately. Recently a number of cases have arisen where Jobbers and Dealers have advertised special outfits in which the additional sundries have been listed far below cost, and in some instances at only a few cents. In these cases obviously there must be a considerable loss on the additional sundries. In any event, such a practice violates the Agreement in the respect that other goods are sold at less than current prices in order to induce the sale of Edison Phonographs or Records, and for this reason Jobbers and Dealers who had offended in this respect were suspended. We take this opportunity, therefore, of notifying all Jobbers and Dealers that in the event of any special outfits where it appears that the prices for the additional goods are below what would be a fair cost for the same, to thereby create a suspicion that special prices were being made to induce the sale of Edison Phonographs or Records, the Jobber or Dealer in question will be immediately suspended, pending an investigation in the matter. Where Jobbers or Dealers have any doubt as to the proper interpretation of our Agreement, or as to any question arising thereunder, we suggest that the matter be referred to us, rather than run the risk of temporary or permanent suspension. Such communications can be addressed either to the National Phonograph Company, or to our General Counsel, Mr. Frank L. Dyer, Orange, N. J.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

Nos. 7298 & 7333 also "Cut Out."

The list of Records to be dropped from the catalogue, and whose manufacture is to be discontinued, as printed on pages 6 and 7, contains two more titles than given on the list mailed to the trade on February 17th. After the list had been sent out, it was found necessary to cut out No. 7298, "Daily Paper at Pumpkin Centre," and No. 7333, "The Lightning Rod Agent," by Cal Stewart. Jobbers and Dealers will note this addition to the "cut-out" list, and be governed accordingly.

SAMPLE RECORDS MUST NOT BE SOLD.

Jobbers are cautioned against allowing their sample Records each month to permanently leave their possession, or to be sold either to Dealers or to the public ahead of the receipt of their stock orders. The object in sending these samples to the trade was primarily to permit Jobbers to play them over and determine their possible selling qualities before placing their orders. Many Jobbers have, in turn, passed them from one Dealer to another for the same purpose. Although this was not part of the original plan, no objection has been made to it by us as long as the Records were only used by Jobbers and Dealers. Our attention has been called to a few cases, however, in which Jobbers have allowed the last Dealer hearing the Records to retain them and have them charged to his account. This is a distinct violation of the understanding under which the sample Records are being shipped, and any further violation of the same character will compel us to refuse to ship samples to the offending Jobber. We have no desire to be harsh in a matter of this kind, but it seems only fair to ask Jobbers to keep faith in a plan that was promulgated and is being carried out for their benefit.

OUR NEW OFFICES IN NEW YORK.

None of our Jobbers or Dealers visiting New York should fail to call at our new offices in the Metropolis Bank building at 31 Union Square, corner Broadway and 16th street. We moved into these new quarters on February 1st and are now fully settled. These new offices are more like those that we formerly occupied at Broadway and 26th street and 135 Fifth avenue. They are a great improvement over those just vacated at 83 Chambers street. The Metropolis Bank building is one of the most modern in the city and contains the finest equipments. Our offices are on the fourth floor. The fittings, furnishings and decorations are of an attractive and substantial character, the woodwork and furniture, in antique oak finish, harmonizing with the warm, rich color scheme and luxurious rugs. The rooms of the executive offices are light and pleasantly located, while the staff have ample accommodations. The city and foreign departments have also facilities denied them from lack of space in the old place on Chambers street. We are now in better shape than ever to handle the rapidly increasing demands of Edison Jobbers and Dealers.

COIN-SLOT CATALOGUE.

Copies of our new Coin-Slot Catalogue have just been mailed to all Jobbers, and copies will be mailed to Dealers in a few days. Under the new discounts on Coin-Slot Phonographs only Jobbers and Dealers who can buy in quantities can handle them to advantage. The trade has already been advised that the National Phonograph Company has decided to adopt an entirely new plan in selling the new Windsor and Majestic types of Coin-Slot Phonographs. It has been found that to instal Coin-Slot Phonographs and keep them in satisfactory operation requires more attention than the average Dealer can afford to give them. It was therefore decided that the proper exploitation of coin-slot machines could only be secured by having them handled by the company direct and a special department has been organized for that purpose. The company will solicit this class of business direct, will instal machines with its own men and will see that they are started in a proper manner. While it will not be formally responsible for the machines after they have been thus installed, and proper instructions given concerning their care and operation, it will always stand ready to remedy any serious trouble that may arise. It is intended that Edison Coin-Slot Phonographs shall have the attention that their merit warrants and the growing demand for them demands.

At the same time it was decided not to take the matter out of the hands of the trade entirely, but to offer discounts that would enable the larger Dealers to still handle them.

The Windsor type is operated by battery current and will be sold at $80. The Majestic type is equipped for 110 volt direct current and will be sold at $90. These prices will be subject to discounts as follows:

Less than 10 machines	no discount
10 machines	10 per cent. off List
25 "	15 per cent. off List
50 "	20 per cent. off List
100 or more machines	25 per cent. off List

Discounts on Windsor and Majestic types are not confined to Jobbers or Dealers, but are open to any purchaser. They are not cumulative nor does one purchase establish a discount on future orders. In each and every case orders must be placed for quantities above specified or discount quoted cannot be allowed.

Bijou and Excelsior Coin-Slot Phonographs, both of which are spring-motor types, will be sold at the same prices and same discounts as before.

In Canada an amount equal to the duty must be added to the selling prices of Coin-Slot Phonographs, as well as to those of all other goods.

Since but few Jobbers and Dealers can handle Coin-Slot Phonographs to advantage, only a small edition of catalogues has been printed, and only a limited number of extra copies can be supplied.

SIGN YOUR ORDERS!

The Sales Department complains that it has recently received several orders for Records from Jobbers that were not signed and the only identifying mark has been the envelope containing the order. When the envelope has been lost before the omission was discovered it has been necessary to call in the Sherlock Holmes of the department. Even he found one order too much for him last month. This order called for 2,525 Records and for the want of a clue the Sales Department was unable to acknowledge or execute it. The Jobber sending it is asked to "prove his property." Others are asked to see that their signatures are affixed to all orders before mailing them.

LET THE PUBLIC KNOW THAT YOU CARRY EDISON GOODS.

The advertising of the National Phonograph Company is now occupying full pages in most of the prominent magazines and proportionate space in a number of other publications of wide circulation. It is the most expensive and at the same time the most profitable advertising that we have ever done. We fully believe that it has had much to do with the great growth of the business in Edison Phonographs and Records in the past six months. Since the object of this advertising is to direct the attention of the public to the stores of our Dealers the latter will find it profitable and good business judgment to do such local advertising as will tell the people of their cities or towns that they are "the Dealers" and have the goods. This is now being done by many Dealers and they report that it is constantly increasing their business; others should lose no time in following their example.

In most places, space in local papers is not expensive. It is not always necessary to advertise in newspapers. Many Dealers get excellent results from mailing lists, sending out regular copies of the Record Supplement or the Phonogram. Others make up a list of prospective customers and mail them letters and printed matter until they get them interested. All of these methods are profitable advertising and all will be found profitable. No one nowadays disputes the statement that advertising pays.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new colored hanger, "A Message from the Absent Lover," and a pretty little bookmark have just been mailed to the entire trade, together with the usual Record Bulletins, Record Supplements, and the Phonogram. Neither of these forms bear a form number, although the book-mark may be ordered as No. 205. A supply of both forms will be sent upon request to Jobbers and direct Dealers. Dealers buying through Jobbers should ask for a supply from the latter.

The spring edition of the catalogue of domestic Records will be ready for the use of the trade as soon after the shipment of April Records as circumstances will permit. It will be Form No. 670. As usual, we will edit orders for the present edition so as to make our supply last out and also so that Jobbers will not have a large number on hand when the new issue appears. The 221 titles just "cut out" will be omitted from this new catalogue.

With the appearance of the next Record catalogue, we will have ready for the trade a new supply of Record Order Blanks. These are being reprinted so as to omit all the "cut out" numbers. Sheets A to D will be condensed into three sheets, A, B and C, and sheet S will be added so as to include the Mexican and Hebrew Records. The plan of assembling the sheets in sets will be abandoned, and will ask the trade, when placing orders, to state the number of each sheet required. We have found that the demand for each sheet varies considerably and causes waste.

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT NOW AT ORANGE.

The Advertising Department is now settled in its new quarters at Orange, N. J., and rapidly recovering from the disturbing effects of tearing up at one place and locating at another thirteen miles away. As soon as plans can be perfected we expect to be able to give the trade a much more effective service in furnishing printed matter and in advertising the business. Correspondence pertaining only to advertising should be addressed direct to the department at Orange.

JULY AND AUGUST PHONOGRAMS WANTED.

Jobbers having on hand any copies of the Phonogram for July and August, 1904, without imprint, will confer a favor by advising the Advertising Department of the fact. We should like to buy back all the copies that can be had.

EXCHANGE PROPOSITION EXTENDED TO MARCH 15.

On page 6 is given a list of 222 Record titles that will be omitted from all future editions of the Record catalogues. The moulds of these Records are not in condition for good work, and as the demand for these selections is not sufficient to warrant the expense of making new masters and moulds, it has been decided to discontinue their manufacture.

Jobbers and Dealers having a quantity of these Records in stock may return them under the exchange proposition as contained in our letter, Form 646, to the trade, dated January 16, 1905.

Owing to additional Records which they may desire to return on account of this "cut out list," we will extend the time limit of exchange proposition, referred to in Form 646, from February 28 to March 15.

We especially desire the trade to understand that the time limit on the exchange proposition will positively close on March 15. Credit will be allowed on all return Records shipped by Jobbers or Dealers direct to us, and on all Records shipped by Dealers to Jobbers on or before March 15, provided that in all cases we are furnished with bills of lading showing that shipments were actually made on or before that date. This arrangement gives Dealers up to the last day in which to make shipments to Jobbers. It is advisable, however, to make shipments as much earlier as possible.

We also want to make it clear to the trade that this exchange proposition does not extend to consumers. Dealers taking back Records on this or any other basis will be considered as violating their agreement, and will be subject to suspension.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Omaha Bicycle Co., of 16th and Chicago streets, Omaha, Neb., have succeeded H. E. Fredrickson as Edison Jobbers in that city. The Troy Automobile Exchange has succeeded James Lucey as Edison Jobbers, at 329 Fulton street, Troy, N. Y. Cummings, Shepherd & Co., Fort Worth, Texas, have become Edison Jobbers during the past month. James K. O'Dea, Jobber at Paterson, has opened a branch store at Passaic, N. J. Theodore F. Bentel Co., of Pittsburg, have removed from 433 Wood street to 632 Liberty street.

W. W. Warner, a Dealer at Madison, Wis., recently sold an Edison Phonograph to the Hon. Robert M. LaFollette, three times Governor of Wisconsin, and at present United States Senator-elect of Wisconsin.

OUR BERLIN OFFICE.

The Edison Gesellschaft G. m. b. H. of Berlin, the company who are controlling the Edison products in Germany, are making great headway. They have been established only twelve months, yet during that short time have made such excellent progress as to warrant the expectation that they will soon be rivalling the enormous output of the British company. We learn that the Berlin company recently received a visit from sixty of the most influential members of the German press, who have given testimony in the leading German papers as to the magnificent plant that has been installed.—Phono Trader, London.

CUT ON FREIGHT RATES.

The railroads on the Pacific coast have made a cut on transcontinental freight rates on talking machines of from $4.50 to $2.25 per 100 pounds, on carload lots of 20,000 pounds, and $3.24 on carload lots open freight.

If any Record were as good as the Edison Gold Moulded Record or if any other Record were so good as to be almost as good, we would sell that other Record, but as yet we are unable to find that other Record. Until we do we will sell Edison's Gold Moulded Records exclusively. To get the best results the Edison Phonograph must be used with the Edison Record.—Extract from Advertisement of Griggs' Music House, Des Moines, Ia.

CAUTION NOTICE.

Here is a paragraph that should be carefully read by every Jobber and Dealer. When Standard Phonographs are packed for shipment at the Edison factories, a strip of wood is fastened to the lower part of the cabinet, under the spring barrel, for the purpose of protecting the latter from injury. This strip of wood takes the place of the paper and excelsior packing formerly used and must be removed when the machine is unpacked. Otherwise the machine will not operate properly. It would seem as if all Dealers should know that this strip was to be removed, and yet several cases have been reported where it was not taken out, causing purchasers much trouble.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR APRIL.

The twenty-five Edison Gold Moulded Records included in the April list issued by the National Phonograph Company will provide a most enjoyable evening's entertainment to those who purchase the entire list. It is splendidly balanced in instrumental and vocal selections, and both departments include something to suit all tastes.

No. 8933, "Al Fresco" (Intermezzo), by the Edison Concert Band, is one of Victor Herbert's compositions and more on the popular order than Mr. Herbert usually writes. A sprightly, tuneful selection and one being played by the best instrumental organizations everywhere.

No. 8954, "If Mr. Boston Lawson Has His Way," sung by Billy Murray, is George M. Cohan's latest composition and recently introduced in his musical play, "Little Johnny Jones." It deals facetiously with Thomas A. Lawson's ideas on frenzied finance. It is a topical song of decided merit in both words and music. Mr. Cohan, the composer, is also responsible for the cyclonic hit, "Yankee Doodle Boy," our Record No. 8910, which was also sung by Billy Murphy. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8955, "Jasper, Don't You Hear Me Calling You," by Collins & Harlan, tells of Jasper Johnson, who was a sleepy coon, and his wife's troubles in getting him up in the morning. Sung in an excellent manner by these well-known dentists and accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this song was written by Henry Frantzen and the words by Bert Fitzgibbon.

No. 8956, "A Summer Dream," a bells and chimes duet, by Bentzler & Nesbit, accompanied by the Edison Military Band. This composition is appropriately styled by its composer a "morceau characteristic." A high standard was set by our chimes and bells Record "Monastery Bells," No. 8912, and one difficult to equal. "A Summer Dream," however, will prove equally popular. Both are fine Records and it will only be a matter of individual taste between them. P. Hans Flath is the composer of this selection.

No. 8957, "He's Me Pal," sung by Miss Ada Jones, is a characteristic song having a tuneful waltz chorus. Made with orchestra accompaniment. This is very different in character from Miss Jones' offering last month. The selection shows her versatility in essaying character roles. "He's Me Pal" is of the Bowery and is typical of that famous locality. Miss Jones brings out the meaning finely—in dialect and style. The music of this song was written by Gus Edwards and the words by Vincent Bryan.

No. 8958, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," by Irving Gillette, is a composition of more polar character than Mr. Gillette's former selections, and shows that he can make as much of this class of music as that of the higher order. The music of this song is by Egbert Van Alstyne and the words by Harry H. Williams. The chorus:

"In the shade of the old apple tree,
When the love in your eyes I could see;
When the voice that I heard, like the song of the bird,
Seemed to whisper sweet music to me;
I could hear the dull buzz of the bee,
In the blossoms as you said to me,
I'll be waiting for you
In the shade of the old apple tree."

No. 8959, "Panama Rag," is a fine Record by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. Not in a long time has our Symphony Orchestra made a selection of this character. Numbers of a heavier nature have seemed to be more appropriate for an organization of its excellence. We think, however, that the bright catchiness of this selection will appeal to all, including those who prefer music of a higher order. "Panama Rag" is of a ragtime character and introduces castanets and orchestra bells.

No. 8960, "Birds of a Feather Flock Together," by Bob Roberts, is a study in coon philosophy, ranging from the assertion "When you've got money your friends will flock to you" to "eagles can't be dollah bill is goine to chum with me." It follows that Mr. Roberts make an excellent Record of the selection. The music of this composition was written by Jean Schwartz and the words by Harry Williams.

No. 8961, "Longing for You," sung by Byron G. Harlan, is a new and pretty composition, the music for which was written by Theodore F. Morse and the words by Jack Drislane. Mr. Harlan was never in better voice than when he made the Record of this sentimental song. It is accompanied by the orchestra. To an unusually pretty melody the following words of the chorus are set:

"Longing for you, yes, only you,
My heart is aching if you but knew.
Those eyes of blue have pierced me through
That's why I'm longing, longing for you."

No. 8962, "Magnet March," played by Edison Military Band, is an exceptionally effective band arrangement of a very tuneful melody, the steady swing of which is admirably adapted to the uniform tempo characteristic of our Military Band. The attractive music of this march makes its title particularly appropriate. The composer of "The Magnet March" is F. H. Losey, who also wrote "The Waldmere March," our Record No. 8518.

No. 8963, "Farewell, Mr. Abner Hemingway," by Murray K. Roberts, is a coon song with orchestra accompaniment. Written by Jean Schwartz (music), and William Jerome (words). "Missus" Hemingway explains to her negligent better half the necessity for saying farewell to him. She says "Just cut out 'bube' and 'turtle dove.' I can't exist on bankrupt love. I've read that book on 'Simple Life,' and from this time on I'm going to pass you by like as though you was a dose of poison."

No. 8964, "Billy," sung by Harry MacDonough, is something on the order of "Sammy," our Record No. 8865, and destined to become just as popular. The music of "Billy" was written by Edgar Malone and the words by Ted. S. Barron. Mr. MacDonough makes the Record with his usual clear enunciation and has the assistance of the orchestra.

No. 8965, "Schubert's Serenade" is another remarkably fine 'cello Record by Hans Kronold, and a fitting companion to Mr. Kronold's Record of "Evening Star," from Tannhauser, listed last month and pronounced by musicians one of the most artistic pieces of recording ever made. Mr. Kronold's skill as a 'cello player of the first rank is again shown in this Record of "Schubert's Serenade." No lover of string music can afford to be without this Record.

No. 8966, "Bunker Hill," is a descriptive and patriotic Record by Harlan and Stanley, telling of the Battle of Bunker Hill. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. It introduces a very realistic battle scene, with bugle, fife and drum effects, boom of cannon and rattle of musketry. It pictures vividly the memorable assault and repulse of the English in this early battle of the Revolutionary War. Albert Von Tilzer wrote the music and Sam Ehrlich the words.

No. 8967, "Grandfather's Clock," by the Edison Male Quartette, is the old and well-known song, and is put out in response to repeated demands from all over the country. It makes a splendid Record in quartette form, a form in which it has never before been listed. Particularly realistic is the ticking of the old clock. We predict great popularity for this Record, not only with those whose earliest recollections are associated with it, but also with those of the younger generation who will perhaps now hear it for the first time. Henry C. Work wrote the music and words of this old-time song.

No. 8968, "How Can I Leave Thee," is an unaccompanied mandolin solo played very artistically by Samuel Siegel. The theme is played in duet effect, giving the impression of more than one mandolin. This form is a specialty of Mr. Siegel's. This composition is by C. Cramer.

No. 8969, "My Little Dinah Lee," sung by Bob Roberts, is a coon serenade written by James J. Burris (music) and Tom Lemonier (words). For a change, and on account of appropriateness, a banjo accompaniment has been provided for this song, played by Vess L. Ossman. The words follow:

"'Mong the pines of Tennessee I've a coon girl dear to me,
Every night it's my delight to call on Dinah,
With my banjo on my arm, do I creep up by de barn
In a voice so sweet and low I sing dis song to please my—
Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, my Dinah Lee
Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, Oh, please listen to me;
Dinah Lee, come out with me
Who's singing this song to you."

No. 8970, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," by MacDonough & Biehling, is a well-made Record of this song which is too well known to need description. It is one of Franz Abt's most popular ballads and has never before been listed as a duet. Very popular with German people and well known by its German title "Wenn die Schwalben heimwarts ziehn." The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 8971, "Yankee Patrol," by the Edison Concert Band, is performed in the exact manner of a patrol. The instruments that are first heard in the band approaching from a distance are also heard first in the Record, the music swelling until the whole band is heard in one volume. It then gradually diminishes in volume, the reverse of the beginning, until the music dies away in the distance. F. W. Meacham wrote this composition. He is also the composer of "The American Patrol," in our Record No. 8424.

No. 8972, "Love's Sorrow," sung by Harry Anthony, is one of the best known compositions by Harry Rowe Shelly and is popular with everybody. In the hands of Mr. Anthony full justice is done to it. We think it is one of the best Records yet made by Mr. Anthony. The orchestra accompanies the singer.

No. 8973, "Ramblin' Sam," sung by Arthur Collins, tells of a coon who has been rambling in and out of difficulties all his life. Two of Sam's rambles are made clear in this Record, one where he was mixed up with the explosion of a barrel of nitro-glycerine and another where a quickly speeding auto overtakes him. Both of these situations are added to with humorous dialogue and realistic effects by Mr. Collins. It is quite different from any coon song we have heretofore listed. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music of this song was written by Jean Schwartz and the words by Harry Williams.

No. 8974, "Moonlight" (a serenade), is an excellent Record by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. Like "Hiawatha," the popularity of this composition has begun in the West. The music has a Spanish or Mexican flavor about it, added to by the effect of castanets in one of the strains. It shows up all the instruments of the orchestra to good advantage, with a pizzicato effect for the strings in the beginning, the cornets in a pretty duet passage, followed by a G string strain for the violins. The coda introduces a recurrence of the prominent theme in the selection played by the wood wind, bringing the Record to a very effective close. The music was written by Neil Moret, who also composed "Hiawatha."

No. 8975, "Parson Spencer's Discourse on Adam and Eve," by Len Spencer, is a colored preacher's sermon to his flock, with characteristic responses by enthusiastic members and singing by the choir "De Gospel Train Am a-Coming."

No. 8976, "Where the Southern Roses Grow," sung by the Edison Male Quartette, is a descriptive selection by Theodore F. Morse, composer of "Blue Bell" and numerous other successes. The words are by Richard H. Buck. Made with orchestra accompaniment. Part of the words follow:

"Where the Suwanee River's twining,
I can see the home lights shining,
Like stars of hope they glimmer
Through the dusky gloom,
And as twilight time comes stealing,
I can see my sweetheart kneeling,
And I know she's praying for me,
Where the Southern Roses grow."

No. 8977, "Coax Me Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces five popular songs previously listed by us, as follows: No. 8907, "Coax Me;" No. 8944 "Won't You Fondle Me?" No. 8950, "When the Harvest Moon is Shining on the River;" No. 8943, "Can't You See My Heart Beats All For You," and No. 8936, "Mexico."

SEVENTY-TWO MORE MEXICAN RECORDS.

Listed below are 72 additional Mexican selections, making 143 issued to the present time. A supplement has been printed, including the entire list, and small quantities will be furnished to jobbers. Except in the States close to Mexico, we do not anticipate any large demand for these selections. Consequently we have made no provision for supplying large quantities of these supplements. These Records are made in the same splendid manner as the first 71 issued, and cannot fail to be popular among Spanish speaking people. In Mexico they have achieved a tremendous popularity, and have reached a widespread interest in the Edison Phonograph. The list is printed in a combined English and Spanish arrangement in order to afford non-Spanish speaking dealers an opportunity of knowing something about them.

THE PHONOGRAPH—HOW IT MAY HELP MUSIC TEACHERS.

(BY NIMMO CHESTER.)

The Phonograph of to-day is a very different thing from the Phonograph of a few years back. Vast improvements have been made. What was formerly a pain to listen to has now become a source of almost artistic pleasure. Of this probably most people are aware. The purpose of the present remarks is to indicate one or two ways in which the instrument, or machine, may be useful to the musician, especially to the teacher of vocal music.

The most obvious way is by reproducing the voices of singers of reputation—singers who may be regarded as models. An Andrew Black, a Ben Davies, a Kirkby Lunn cannot be heard every day. Students who are tied to country places may never be able to hear them at all. But the possessor of a Phonograph, and the proper "Record" may enjoy, appreciate or criticise, a wonderfully accurate Phonograph of either singer's voice at any time. It may be too much to say that a voice is reproduced in all its beauty. Professor McKendrick when lecturing to the I. S. M., at Glasgow University, pointed out that the material composing the Phonographic recorder and "reproducer" had tendencies of its own which no doubt modified the pure effects of the vocal sounds. But there is quite enough of a singer's voice registered to serve purposes both of pleasure and art. When we hear a singer in a concert-room there is after all but a brief opportunity for studying his style and method—even with encores thrown in. Let us possess that singer's "record," however, and we can have him at our leisure for as long or as short a time as we may desire. We can note his reading of a song, his phrasing, his crescendos and diminuendos, his variations in speed, the quality of his voice, and the manner in which high and low notes are produced, the pronunciation of vowels and consonants, and other points of importance. Sometimes we may learn what to avoid. For instance, the melodramatic emphasis of a certain eminent "record" in "Alilde-a with-a me;" and the peculiar guttural "r" of another. Example is better than precept; a Phonograph may sometimes save a teacher's tired throat, and much tedious verbal instruction.

There is another way in which the machine may aid a teacher.

"O wad some power the giftie gie us,
To see ourself's as ithers see us."

sings the poet. Is anything more difficult? All of us cherish such fond illusions concerning our personal qualities. We may even be too modest about them. Let the teacher sing into his Phonograph, and then listen to the result —preferably at a future time. He may feel surprise. Dispassionately he will be able to regard himself from the outside—as others see him, or hear him, rather. All his own perfections and imperfections he will be in a position to set in a note-book, can, and learn by rote. And all the while his conscience will not permit him to deny the identity of what he hears with the tones and accents of his own voice. This is no slight service. So distinguished a man as Saint Saens admits that by means of the Phonograph he made the discovery that he was in the habit of playing incorrectly a passage in his Valse Canariote. In consequence he advises musicians to make use of it.

If the Phonograph reveals the teacher to himself, it is obvious it may be used in a similar manner for the pupil's benefit. Professor McKendrick showed by means of magnified photographs of air-wave forms how accurately vowel sounds are recorded. Pure vowels are often a difficulty with pupils. Custom has so dulled their senses to their own deficiencies. A student listening to his own voice as if it were the voice of some one else can hardly fail to perceive its defects when the teacher draws attention to them. Similarly other errors may be pointed out, and thus language and argument (to which some pupils are prone) may be avoided.

Further, the gradual progress of a pupil from his first feeble efforts to his final state of perfection may be recorded with precision, for the pupil's own gratification and for the encouragement of his successors in their moments of despondency.

One word more. There are Phonographs and Phonographs. Only the best makes and finest "records" are here written of.—Musical Herald, London.

A BELLAMY DREAM REALIZED.

Edward Bellamy, in his story "Looking Backward," which created a sensation nearly twenty years ago, outlined an apparatus which furnished music to suit the desires of a patron in response to a touch upon an electric button. Opera and concert, vocal and instrumental, could be enjoyed by one sitting at his fireside. No standing in line to procure tickets; no cab-hire in stormy nights; no getting home fagged out in the wee small hours. Just draw up your comfortable chair in your favorite library corner, touch a button and drink in the sweet sounds. If the selection is displeasing to you, just turn it off—no waiting till the curtain goes down for fear of a complainous departure from the theatre.—New York Evening Journal.

An up-to-date Edison Phonograph comes very close to fulfilling Mr. Bellamy's dream.

ABOUT RECORD CARTONS.

We are still unable to fill orders from Jobbers and Dealers for Record cartons for the reason that the manufacturer has been unable at any time since the new box was adopted to make more cartons than were required to fill orders for Records. It will still be some time before we can consider the matter, unless the manufacturer in the meantime should be able to increase his output. When feasible to fill orders the trade will be advised of the fact.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Orders for the Phonogram, either blank or imprinted, must be filed in advance, five weeks ahead for imprinted lots and four weeks ahead for blanks. We cannot agree to fill orders unless this is done.

The success of the Phonogram has been phenomenal. The March edition was 190,000 copies, an increase of 110,000 over that of the first issue last July. Dealers are crediting it with being an effective medium for increasing business, chiefly on account of the matter describing the new Records each month.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies	1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies	2.75

No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Most Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

TWO YEARS OLD.

With this issue the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY begins its third year. It has served in the past two years to keep the trade informed concerning various matters of interest and profit and it has aided in knitting the Edison organization more closely together than before. We hope to make it even more useful along these lines.

SOLD FIVE PHONOGRAPHS TO ONE CUSTOMER.

An Australian Dealer recently wrote to our Foreign Department as follows:

"As a cheering sign of the times, we take pleasure in telling you that in the past three weeks we have sold no less than five Standard Phonographs and outfits, with two gross of Records, to a leading gentleman here. Two he has retained for his own use, one for his town house and one for his country home, and the other three he has presented to friends. This sale of five machines retail to one client is, we think, a record for this state, and speaks volumes for the superiority of Edison goods over all others."

PUT HIS DISC BUSINESS "TO THE BAD"

The H. M. Holleman Co., Edison Jobbers at Houston, Texas, recently sent us the following letter from one of their Dealers:

"Please send me by return mail one Standard Phonograph, with 36-inch horn and stand; one Home Phonograph, with 36-inch horn and stand, and list of Gold Moulded Records enclosed. The Phonograph (Standard) is gone and has put our disc business to the bad. Am going to push the Edison."

"When our Mr. Lewis visited Mr. H——, who is the disc dealer of ——," continued Holleman & Co., "he induced him to listen to the Edison, in competition to his machines, resulting in an initial order, but being temporarily out of Triumphs and Homes, we were unable to send him anything except a Standard, but had our man to go there and properly adjust it for them. Result is that Mr. H—— is going to close out his disc business, and push the Edison. Mr. H—— is mayor of ——, and a very influential man."

CANNOT GET RID OF THEM.

I notice in the Monthly of a Dealer wanting his Jobber to sell his machines of another make. I have two—— machines listing at $20.00 and I cannot sell them, placing them beside the Edison. I have offered them at about one half price to close out, and one of my customers said to me: "Do you think I would even pay you that much when I can get that Edison Standard at $20? Not much." Regarding premium machines. We have just had a run of them here and we find that the people who wish a good thing, come in and trade their scratchy machine in and buy an Edison.—J. H. Lepper, Mason City, Ia.

A DEALER'S CIRCULAR LETTER.

Have you heard the Phonograph as it is today?

Almost everyone has heard some sort of a machine, but few have heard the latest improved one at its best, and comparatively few appreciate its value as an entertainer.

With a Phonograph in the home you have the singing or speaking voice, instrumental solos, or full brass band, just as sweet, just as clear, as the original tones and of just the sufficient volume.

It makes it possible for you to hear the finest talent in the land, and is superior to all other instruments because of its endless variety, and stands absolutely alone as an entertainer.

You have the choice of all the latest and best music, (and it can be obtained while it is new,) as well as all the old favorites.

When the long winter evenings make homestaying dull the Phonograph helps to pleasantly pass the hours. Your family and friends are entertained, and the fireside has an added interest.

There are four popular styles of the Phonograph, and the enclosed catalogue gives description and prices.

The Phonograph now has a Moulded Record, much harder than the old-fashioned one; does not wear out, and can be handled without fear of scratching or finger-marks. The price is only 35 cents each.

Make the whole family a present of a Phonograph. As a pleasure-giving gift you could make no wiser choice.

For any further information write me, or better still, call at the store, see the assortment of latest models, and hear a few Records.

We sell on easy terms if you wish.

GEORGE A. LEWIS,
Ridgewood, Conn.

BEST STEP THEY EVER TOOK.

Herewith is an extract from letter received at our Chicago office from the Ainsworth Music Co., Watertown, S. D., bearing date of January 18th, 1905:

"Our business in your line has been good of late. We have sold since the first of December thirteen machines, and two or three hundred Records. This is about three times as much as this firm has sold in any six months of its history in talking machines. The Edison is a winner, and people are coming to see it. We advertise persistently, and it is telling. They often come in to trade scratchophones—which, by the way, is becoming quite a designation of the disc type of machine in this town through our use of it—but no, we cannot handle them. They are even raffling them off, and we hope they will then come in here and buy a real talking machine. We hear nothing but compliments of your goods, and do not regret the step we took in selling out our line of other goods and handling yours straight. Best step we ever took."

IT PLEASES ALL.

About a week before Christmas, early one cold December morning, I started out to show the Edison Phonograph to some prospective buyers in a small near-by town. My first call was at the home of an old violinist, whose "fiddle and bow" had become covered with dust but whose ear was as keen as ever for sweet strains. I set up the machine, put on "Pop Goes the Weasel Medley" (violin Record) and at once "old times" were recalled. Next I played a song which captivated the household: Bentley, the three-year-old baby, who had been left "tucked under the covers," suddenly called "Mamma, take me down, I want to hear man sing." He was brought down in his nightclothes, and it would have done anyone good to see how he enjoyed it. The father immediately became interested and soon decided to purchase one. After leaving a good selection of Records with it, I left. Bentley was so taken up with it that he would not let them stop playing; that night he begged to hear "just one more" until at 1 o'clock he fell asleep.

About a week afterward I called to play a few new Records. The baby immediately began to cry and could not be comforted. I asked what was wrong? His mother informed me that he remembered I had left the machine there and was afraid I had come to take it away. I learned also that every member of the family was "carried away" with the harmonious strains. Relatives and neighbors dropped in to hear it, and as a result have sold four machines within a stone's throw of the house.

PHONOGRAPH AMONG RUSSIAN PRISONERS.

Following is an extract from a letter recently received from the Rev. James H. Pettes, a missionary in Japan:

"It occurred to me that you may be interested to learn that last month I spent a few days at Hiroshima and Matsuyama, two of the great military centres of Japan.

"I carried my Phonograph, and used it for the benefit of wounded Japanese soldiers and Russian prisoners. When at the Matsuyama Barracks, in the presence of a large group of Russian officers and men, I let the "Edison Grand Concert Band" strike up unannounced, the Russian Hymn; it was a moving sight. Every man was on his feet in an instant, and tears as well as smiles bespoke the deep emotion felt by these men from Russia.

"After an hour's entertainment, during which I heard many such expressions as: 'It was very kind of you to bring your Phonograph so far for our benefit;' 'That was the best treat we have had since we left Russia;' 'I could shut my eyes and think I was in Moscow or St. Petersburg at the opera,' etc., etc.

"I came away thankful for the Edison invention, which could give such solid comfort to these homesick captives in a distant land."

WHY THE EDISON BUSINESS GROWS.

"To what do you attribute the unusual growth of your Edison business in the past year," was a question that we put to one of our large Jobbers when visiting in the East recently. This Jobber also handles other makes of talking machines. "Has it been due to the lower price of Edison Records, a greater amount of advertising, the prosperity of the country, or what?" we continued.

"All of these have had an effect, of course," was the reply, "but I think the real reason is the fact that the public are realizing to a greater degree than before the marked superiority of the Edison Phonograph over all other kinds of talking machines. This is not new. The superiority has always existed and this fact has been known to thousands. People, however, are becoming better posted on the talking machine question, and this knowledge is helping Edison goods more and more all the time."

These remarks probably represent the real reason for the phenomenal growth of Edison business in the past year. The efforts of all manufacturers of talking machines to sell goods is causing people to buy, and once the owner of any kind of a machine, no matter how cheap or poor, it becomes a simple matter to discover which are good and which are indifferent. Like the toy camera, the possession of one soon causes a desire for something better. The owner of a cheap talking machine is ready to discard it after a few days and he then begins to look around for another. Before he buys, however, he gathers in all the information he can, and this leads him straight to the Edison Phonograph. So, too, with even the expensive machines of other makes. If he gets one, it is because he has not had an opportunity to hear the Phonograph, and before long he realizes that his machine does several things besides reproduce music. He becomes dissatisfied, and even if he cannot afford to discard his machine and buy a Phonograph he is free to advise his friends on the subject. In this way the whole people are becoming better informed on the talking machine question, and thus the demand for Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records grows greater day by day.

Every resource was used at the factory of the National Phonograph Co., Orange, N. J., in the past month to meet the demand for Edison goods, but it was not successful. We turned out more Phonographs and more Records than in any previous month and yet we failed to make much of a gain on orders, the number on file at the close of the month being practically as large as at the beginning. The demand for Edison Phonographs and Records would make it appear as if the whole country had been seized with determination to have a Phonograph, or, having one, to buy a large stock of new Records. The advance orders for April Records again exceeded the advance orders for any month since the organization of the company, being nearly fifty per cent. greater than the combination list for November-December. Nor is there any apparent diminution in the situation, each day bringing its full quota of new orders.

CANNOT MAKE SPECIAL RECORDS.

Requests are occasionally made by Dealers to have special Records made of subjects or songs selected by them. They do not seem to be aware that the moulded process of making records is a much more expensive one than when soft wax originals were made and sold. Under present conditions, it is practically impossible to consider making Records of special subjects. Our Recording Department is always glad to know the opinions of Dealers as to what class of Records are salable in their locality, and will do whatever it can to meet this demand. At the same time the trade does not want to have us make a large number of new selections each month, twenty-five a month, or three hundred a year, with special supplements, being about as many as they care to have added to the Catalogue. With this limitation we are practically compelled to put out only such selections as will be in general demand throughout the entire country. Every Jobber and every Dealer carrying a full stock of our Records would be put to an inconvenience, if not loss, if we listed titles not salable in his territory. Records, for instance, that glorify one city or one small section of the country may seem desirable in those places, but they could not be sold to any extent elsewhere. For this reason, we frequently feel compelled to refuse to list what may seem to the senders as desirable and good selling subjects. Still the business cannot fail to be benefited by an exchange of opinions and we welcome any suggestions from Dealers as to desirable subjects for Records that they may desire to offer.

Judging from the little attention that some Jobbers pay to the jobbing end of their end of their business it would seem as if they did not regard it as profitable. This is possibly because they think the profits small. The difference between Jobbers' and Dealers' discounts may not seem large, and yet they yield an excellent profit upon the capital invested. Any Jobber who has not thought the Jobbing end worth pushing will be surprised if he figures out the average jobbing profits on the entire Edison line. The cost, too, of handling goods on a jobbing basis is much less proportionately than a retail business.

FOR FUTURE GROWTH.

Deeds were recorded in March for a large plot of ground, nearly equal in size to a city block, which has been purchased by the National Phonograph Co., at Orange, N. J. The present factory occupies an entire block bounded by Valley Road, Lakeside Avenue, Alden Street and Watchung Avenue. The new plot is on the opposite side of Alden Street from the present factory and runs from Valley Road nearly to Watchung Avenue. This new plot of ground will be used by the company for future extensions of its business. Its plans in this respect are not ready for publication.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents each in both countries.

NO LONGER A SIDE LINE ONLY.

In the early days of the Phonograph business, few Dealers did more than carry Phonographs as a side line. They bought a few machines, a few Records and made it an incidental part of their business. It was regarded as a filler for dull seasons. Bicycle men took up the line to tide them over the winter months. Musical merchandise firms carried a small stock to help out the volume of their general business for the year and others handled the goods on much the same principles. Within the past year or two, this plan of selling Phonographs has given way to an entirely different method of handling them. Hundreds of Dealers have now made it the most important part of their business, some of them handling nothing else but talking machine goods, and even where other goods are also sold, the Phonograph end is the largest, most profitable and most important. Hundreds of others are finding out that it will pay them to give more attention to pushing the sale of Edison Phonographs, and are rapidly reaching a point where they will follow in the footsteps of their most progressive competitors, and devote most of their time and attention to the Phonograph end of their business. In small towns where the opportunities for sales are limited, it is not, of course, possible for Dealers to devote much of their time to the sale of Phonographs. The opportunities are probably too limited to make it worth while. At the same time there is not a Dealer in Edison Phonographs to-day who could not with advantage give more attention to the sale of these goods. A little more advertising, a little more personal solicitation, and the sending out of a little more printed matter to people likely to be interested, would have an effect that would surprise him at the end of the year. While the sale of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records is little short of phenomenal at the present time, it is still far from what it will be when the public fully realizes the opportunities for amusement and entertainment afforded by a Phonograph, and when it realizes the difference in quality between the Edison Phonograph and other music reproducing devices. Any Dealer, no matter where located, can go over the names of people in his locality who are in a position to own a Phonograph and he will find that practically only a small proportion of them have a Phonograph. Those who can afford to buy one need only to be convinced of the delightfully entertaining powers of the Phonograph to have one of them in their homes. What proportion of the homes in any locality, whether in city or country, have music of any kind in their homes? A comparatively small percentage may have pianos, but in many cases these instruments are only pieces of furniture, because no one can play them. In such homes and in all others where there are no other musical instruments, the Phonograph would fill every want. In fact, in many ways, it is superior to the piano because of the almost infinite variety of amusement afforded by it. The object of this article is to suggest to Dealers the advisability of giving more attention to pushing Edison goods in their localities, and those who give attention to the subject will thank us for the suggestion within a few months.

APRIL ADVERTISING.

On page 13 of this issue we reprint our full page magazine advertisement for April. This appears in about twenty of the leading publications of the country, publications with an aggregate circulation of several million copies. The feature of this advertisement is the use for the first time of the list of new Records. Since the April publications begin to appear as early as March 15, the March list was incorporated in the advertisement instead of the April. It was considered more advisable to advertise a list of Records that could be had when the publication appeared, rather than to print a list and tell the public that they could be had at some future time.

The special proposition referred to in this advertisement is to suggest to owners of old style Standard, Home and Triumph Phonographs that they get their Dealer to exchange a Model C Reproducer for their Model B on the usual exchange basis for reproducers. This, in most cases, will make their machines work as good as an up-to-date Phonograph.

The present advertising of the National Phonograph Co. is the most adequate we have ever done and shrewd Dealers are supplementing it with advertisements in their local papers and thereby getting a direct return from this magazine advertising. An advertisement in a local paper, a neatly worded circular letter, or one of the folders or cards issued by this company, reaching a man when his interest has been secured by reading our magazine advertising, is very apt to cause him to drop in at a Dealers' store and at least give the Phonograph a trial. The list of new Records will probably be made a feature of our magazine advertising if we find that it has an effect upon the sale of Records.

PRINTED MATTER.

The first copies of the Record Catalogue for April, Form 670, will be sent out bound with the present cover. Having a limited number of these on hand, and the new cover not being quite ready, we have decided to put out the new Catalogue in this way rather than ask the trade to wait for the new cover. Form 670 will not contain any of the titles cut out by the circular letter of February 18, and it will contain all new titles to and including April. The orders already received from Jobbers for this Catalogue will be filled as rapidly as possible, partial shipments being made in most cases in order that no one will be compelled to wait for a supply. We trust, however, that Jobbers will use up their supply of the present edition before sending out the new one.

The little bookmark mailed a month ago has proved to be so popular a Form that the edition is already nearly exhausted. We regret that we did not order a much larger quantity of these.

The omission of two hundred and twenty-one titles from the Catalogue has, naturally, created a demand for a new Numerical Catalogue. The work of getting one out has been begun, but it will probably be several weeks before it is ready for trade use. When ready a copy will be mailed to every one in the trade.

The demand for Record Supplements continues to grow with the increased demand for Records, showing quite clearly that this form is being advantageously used by Jobbers and Dealers in getting business. The plan of getting up mailing lists is being more and more adopted by Dealers, who report that they find it well worth the trouble and expense. Every Dealer should make such a list of people in his locality who own Phonographs or any other style of machine upon which Edison Records can be played, and see that such owners get a list of the new Edison Records each month.

PERSONAL.

J. R. Schermerhorn, Assistant General Manager of the National Phonograph Co., returned on March 20 from a six weeks' tour of the branch offices of the company at London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels.

Edgar W. Dennison, of Orange, has been elected Secretary of the National Phonograph Co.

The National Phonograph Co. will have an exhibit for advertising purposes only at the Lewis & Clark Exposition to be held at Portland, Oregon, June to November. It will be in charge of Peter Bacigalupi, our San Francisco Jobber.

MUST PLACE INITIAL ORDER.

The attention of Jobbers is especially called to the following paragraph printed at the foot of the first page of the Retail Dealers Agreement Form, No. 890.

"Any Dealer desiring to handle our apparatus must place an initial order for at least three machines, each of a different style, and one hundred and fifty (150) Records. In addition, he must have an established store suitable to display and handle our goods, and at all times carry a sufficient stock for exhibition and sale purposes."

This means that before anyone can become a Dealer in Edison goods he must place an initial order for three machines and 150 Records. It does not mean that because he sells other talking machine goods he can get Dealers' discounts on Phonographs and Records. The latter was allowed under the previous Agreement, Form No. 440, but it was changed to the above, when No. 890 went into effect.

DON'T HIDE YOUR LIGHT.

Dealers should understand that the talking machine light should not be hidden under the bushel of indifference. They must advertise so that their wares are intelligently presented to the people in their vicinity. A house that advertises itself persistently is bound to win, and advertising when well constructed and well placed is the best investment that can be made by a live talking machine dealer. It should be particularly emphasized that the new things of to-day will be the old things of to-morrow, for the onward march of progress never halts. There is no business in which all that can be done has been done. When we study the development of this industry, it furnishes evidence of a progressive spirit behind the manufacturing department. The makers of talking machines are marching to the quick-step of progress. They go on from one victory to another; they never step backward.—Talking Machine World.

DANCED TO PHONOGRAPH RECORDS.

Wanatah, Ind., Feb. 20, 1904.

I wish to kindly inform you that I tried a Standard Phonograph and some of your Dance Records for dancing in a hall 28x52 feet in size last evening, and it proved a decided success. In fact the dancers, of whom there were twelve couples, were perfectly delighted with the results, saying it was the best music that they ever danced to. This is a place of about 700 population, and it has always been a hard matter to secure good music, as we have not efficient talent in town for such purposes. The Edison Phonograph will hereafter fill the bill. I used only a 36-inch horn and secured excellent results, but will hereafter use a 56-inch horn, which I think will prove even more satisfactory.

WILLIAM F. HUNT.

A GOOD CIRCULAR.

One of the notable bits of advertising literature of the past few months was sent in by the American Phonograph Co., Gloversville, N. Y. It was a four-page folder of large size and was an excellent medium for the sale of Eidson goods. For the benefit of Dealers who may desire material for a similar advertisement we print the following:

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS.

Every lover of music should own a Phonograph. Nearly every one has heard these wonderful sound producing machines, but very few have heard them at their best.

To be able to have in your own home, at your command, the best music, whether it be instrumental, vocal or band, is the pleasure and privilege of a Phonograph owner.

A child can operate the machine as well as a grown person. It does not require an expert; in five minutes you can master it. The Phonograph takes up no room—it stands on the table when playing, and under it when idle.

Many new and distinguishing improvements have appeared on the Edison machines and Records during the past year and a half, which, without a doubt, places them nearer to perfection than any other talking machine or Record made.

The scratching and the shrill notes of the old-time Records and machines have been done away with by the Gold Moulded process by which all Edison Records are now made. A reproducer has been invented that is exactly adapted to these marvelous Records and with which every Edison Standard and Home Phonograph is equipped. This improvement can be fitted to any Phonograph however old, and on which we offer an exchange proposition.

The Phonograph is superior to all other instruments because of its endless variety. It is a tireless entertainer which brings the greatest of all pleasures to the home. It takes the place of a piano where there is none, or no one to play it. Beside, what would be a first installment on a piano will buy the sweetest Phonograph that ever played, with dozens of Records. It will let you dance in your own home, take you to the theatre or the minstrels, play rag-time, sing songs that will touch the heart and play marches that rouse the soul—all between supper and bed time.

One of the greatest pleasures and by far the most entertaining feature of the Phonograph is the making of Records yourself. That song your friend sings so well or the quartette of jolly fellows, or your musical friends with the banjo, violin or other musical instrument. The Phonograph stops at nothing, all are safely stowed away to be played over thousands of times. There is always a chance that some day this will be all you have. Then, how much would that Record be worth?

The Edison Phonograph is the only machine that you can make Records with.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. We ran out of April Phonograms before they were shipped to the trade, although the edition was 200,000, and were unable to fill several orders received after March 20. We plan to print about 10,000 more than we have orders for when we go to press, five weeks in advance of the month of issue, but frequently these are soon used up with extra orders. Such was the case with the April issue.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies	1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies	2.75

No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Most Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

LEW FIELDS' FIRST SPEECH MADE WITH THE AID OF A PHONOGRAPH.

Lew Fields made the first speech of his life at the professional matinees given at the Lew Fields Theatre yesterday afternoon. Mr. Fields has been on the stage for twenty-seven years, but never in all that period has he dared address to an audience other than the lines written for him by the librettist. Yesterday, however, when the curtain fell on the first act of "It Happened in Nordland," he apologized for his inability to talk and then said, "My friend on the right will talk for me." Immediately a powerful Phonograph proclaimed to the audience the pleasure which Mr. Fields and his company experienced in playing this special engagement. The Phonograph ended the speech, as do all speakers, by saying, "I thank you, I thank you, I thank you."—New York Sun, March 24, 1905.

CIRCULATE PRINTED MATTER.

The ambition of every Jobber in Edison goods should be to sell $2 worth of Phonographs where last year he sold but $1 worth. One of the easiest and yet most effective ways of doing this is to see that Dealers are kept supplied with every new catalogue or other form gotten out by this company. It is not necessary to send large quantities of these and thereby waste them, but every Dealer should be kept up-to-date in this respect. We get letters from Dealers complaining that their latest Record Catalogue is a year old, and that they cannot get printed matter from their Jobbers. If we look into the matter we find that the Jobber who has signed the Dealer is one who does not make a systematic effort to send printed matter to his Dealers, and we also find that he makes no effort to keep up his own stock of advertising literature. We also find under scrutiny that the Jobber is one who is doing a limited business. We find that the largest users of printed matter per Dealer are those who are doing the largest business per Dealer. These Jobbers are careful to see that their Dealers get a share of all new forms. They find that this not only increases the business of these Dealers, but it brings other Dealers whose Jobbers have not taken proper care of them in this respect. That the careful distribution of printed matter brings business to everyone is a matter of history. We know that it does. The quantity of catalogues and other forms printed by this company in the past year far exceeded that of any previous year, and the business increased in the same proportion. Any Jobber who will give this part of his business proper attention will find it profitable beyond his expectation.

THE EXCHANGE PROPOSITION.

The three for one exchange Record proposition terminated on March 15. All Records shipped by Dealers to Jobbers on that day, or by Jobbers to us were accepted for credit. This return proposition was the cause of considerable trouble to Dealers, Jobbers and ourselves, especially ourselves; but it has been voted by the entire trade a most excellent thing for clearing out the stocks of least salable Records. Every Dealer or Jobber who has fully availed himself of the proposition has been able to get rid of his surplus stock and replace it with better selling and more up-to-date selections. In this way it has enabled every one to practically begin his spring business with a brand new stock of Records. The effect of this clearing out of surplus stock will benefit the entire trade. It has been a popular move on the part of this company and has furnished an additional evidence that the trade may always rely upon our taking care of them in the best possible manner.

NEW YEAR'S IN JAMAICA.

[The article printed below was published in "The Message," issued by the First Universalist Church, Worcester, Mass.]

The following is an extract from a recent letter received from Charles M. Harrington, who has been for nearly a year past following his profession of architect in Jamaica. His many friends in our church will be glad to hear again his breezy words:

"Eight hands around—forward and back—right and left,' these are the sounds to-night, for one of the painters who arrived to-day brought a large Phonograph with him, and the men are all gathered in Mr. Mitchell's room, directly over me, to enjoy it. A Record has just been started playing 'Miss McLeod's Reel,' and instantly they formed a set. One is calling off. It is a rollicking dance, I can tell you, and the shuffling of feet on the tile floor, the shouts of laughter, the shrill sound of the piccolo playing the air, form a care-free combination I am glad to hear. Tired muscles, lazy negroes, longings for home are forgotten by the men. They are happy to-night.

"Now it is 'Good Old Summer Time,' and they are simply with the Phonograph. Some of them have very good voices. Every one knows that old melody and sings it with a will.

"Ah! here is one that brings me to my feet, I can hear them rising, too; 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' God bless it. Who says we are 1,500 miles from home? Not while that air is ringing in our ears. There it comes, I expected it. Bert Ray, one of our carpenters, has a beautiful high tenor; he is singing clear and sweet; his voice rings out; now every one is singing with him; and as the last note dies away, Murphy calls for 'three cheers for it, boys, it's ours.' Do they give them? Well!

"And now, is it accident or fate that selects the next tune, 'Lead, Kindly Light.' Twice it is played and then they sing it, softly and reverently.

"The night is dark and I am far from home, Lead Thou me on."

"Rough, profane, coarse—men may be all of these, but that old hymn, the comfort of so many, will touch a tender responsive chord. No laughter nor jest in this. And then as though to relieve the serious side—a bit away—they all join in 'Bill Bailey.' There goes a rattling Sousa two-step, and again the tiles echo dancing feet. Bless the fellow who brought that Phonograph.

"Oh, Edison, in your wildest dreams you never imagined the pleasure your toy would give. And of the thousands who listen to the Records of voice and instrument, none is enjoying to the full extent like the little group gathered around the one upstairs, with the tropical night around us all and the murmur of the surf sounding from the rocks of coral. And I guess I am enjoying it too."

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR MAY.

Up to the usual high standard and full of variety is the list of Edison Gold Moulded Records for May. Phonograph owners could buy the entire list with advantage and have at their disposal the means of entertaining a company of guests no matter how varied their tastes might be.

No. 8978, "Always Forward March," by the Edison Military Band, is a good, snappy, bright march composed by Jean M. Missud, Director of the Salem Cadet Band of Salem, Mass., several of whose compositions have already been listed in our Record catalogue.

No. 8979, "Tammany," by Collins and Harlan, is a topical song that deals humorously with New York's famous political organization in a way interesting to the whole country. The waywinops of the "braves" add quite a striking bit of realism to the performance. The music of this composition is full of ginger and in keeping with the character of the words and meaning of the song. The composer is Gus Edwards and the words are by Vincent Bryan. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 8980, "Just Like the Ivy, I'll Cling to You," by Harry MacDonough, is a pretty descriptive composition by A. J. Mills and Harry Castling. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. "Some day you'll be leaving me for a sweetheart,' said Grandad to the young maiden nestling beside him near the ivy-covered old garden wall. "Some day you'll be forgetting me." But with a smile the maid replied, in the chorus:

"Just watch the ivy on the old garden wall,
Clingin' so tightly whate'er may befall;
As you grow older I'll be constant and true;
And just like the Ivy, I'll cling to you."

No. 8981, "Selection from 'Woodland'," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a selection from the musical fantasy "Woodland," introducing "If You Love Me, Lindy," "Dainty Lisle Ingenue" and "The Tale of a Turtle Dove." These compositions are written by Gustav Luders and are among the most popular airs in this operetta. Companies are now playing "Woodland" in New York and throughout the country.

No. 8982, "Heinie," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a Dutch vaudeville specialty introducing the song "Heinie." The scene is in the theatre with orchestra, and all the incidental effects are introduced realistically. The music of this song was written by Ted Snyder and the words by Edward Rose. The Record is cleverly made by Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer and cannot fail to achieve wide popularity.

No. 8983, "Taint de Kind o' Grub I've Been Gettin' Down Home," by Bob Roberts, is a coon song that tells about Sam Green, who just came up from the South and stepped in a small cafe to get a bite to eat. The dainties set before him did not appeal to his appetite. He said: "When I am hungry I likes to get something; dat ain't de kind o' grub I've been gettin' down home. I likes my ham wid de marrow bone; kidney stew or possum sweet. I heard a heap of talk about 'Champion' wine. Fancy food I lets alone, 'cause 'taint de kind o' drub I been gettin' down home.'"

No. 8984, "Professor and the Musical Tramp," by Spencer and Hunter, is a vaudeville musical specialty of a unique character. It introduces an ocarina duet, a mandolin and banjo duet and concludes with a cornet and trombone duet, all accompanied by the orchestra. The scene is laid in a vaudeville theatre. The orchestra plays the opening to the act. The professor's partner has disappointed him. A musical tramp arrives on the scene and helps out the professor in the duets as above. A humorous dialogue between the professor and the tramp adds to the attractiveness of the Record.

No. 8985, "Excelsior," by Anthony and Harrison, is the famous musical setting by M. W. Balfe of Longfellow's poem. It introduces a new team of duetists in Anthony and Harrison, who sing tenor and baritone respectively. This is a remarkably fine Record of "Excelsior," known to the entire world by the refrain:

"The shades of night were falling fast,
As thro' an Alpine village passed," etc.

The singers are accompanied by the orchestra. The Record is one that will be wanted by every lover of high class music.

No. 8986, "I've Set My Heart on You," another delightful Record by Mr. Harlan. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. The music of this song was written by Albert Von Tilzer, composer of "Tell Me With Your Eyes," (our Record No. 8915), "Teasing," (our Record No. 8881), and numerous other hits of the past season. The words are by Maurice Stonefield.

No. 8987, "Belle of the Philippines March," by the Edison Concert Band, is a characteristic selection with a catchy and tuneful melody. Written by Fred J. S. Stone and played with splendid expression and fine execution.

No. 8988, "Two Rubes and the Tramp Fiddler," by Harlan and Stanley, is described by our Recording Department as "ruralistic pastoralistinos." The two Rubes are discussing topics in their usual way when along comes a tramp fiddler. An amusing controversy takes place between the three. The tramp plays on the fiddle for them and accompanies the two Rubes while they sing "Handsome Eyes." An excellent addition to our series of Rube Records.

No. 8989, "You Ain't the Man I Thought You Was," by Ada Jones, tells of the domestic troubles of a "ruffled" lady whose better half has not provided for her wants to her satisfaction. The verse enumerates her numerous causes for complaint, climaxing in the chorus when she declares, "You ain't the man I thought you was," and "for me soon you won't do." Miss Jones' coon dialect will be found very entertaining, equalled only by her conception of this class of songs. The rendition throughout shows the trained artist. The orchestra accompanies the singer. A coon dialect by the female voice is something new in our recent supplements. This coon song was written by Fred Helf and Lou Sally.

No. 8990, "He's Me Pal Medley," by Albert Benzler, is a xylophone solo with orchestra accompaniment, introducing "He's Me Pal" (our Record No. 8957), "Down at the Baby Store" (our Record No. 8845), "Daddy Dear" (our Record No. 8923), and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" (our Record No. 8968). The orchestration is very effective in this Record, particularly the variation for cornet in the last song. This same effect was appreciated greatly in our last xylophone solo, Record No. 8931.

No. 8991, "I've Got a Little Money and I've Saved it All for You," by Murray and Roberts, is a coon song by Max Silver (music) and Edward Farrell (words), and sung with orchestra accompaniment. When he came to tell her that "all of his affection goes in her direction," he told her also that he's saved a little money all for her, and how he'd got a job as chambermaid in a livery stable at a salary of four dollars a week. He was very much disconcerted when she replied: "Four dollars a week! Why, ma, that wouldn't pay for the cheese to feed the rat in my pompadour."

No. 8992, "Murphy," by Edward M. Favor, is an Irish sentimental love song, with a very clever and catchy melody and an Irish flavor which comes upon the hearer each time the Record is played. Mr. Favor's special forte is Records of this character, and "Murphy" is up to his usual standard. He is accompanied by the orchestra. Albert Von Tilzer wrote the music of this song and Sam Ehrlich the words. The chorus tells how Mrs. Murphy replied when he asked her to be his:

"Murphy, now I can't resist your eyes,
Murphy, you have got me hypnotized,
Murphy, I'm as proud as I can be,
Mrs. Murphy is the name for me."

No. 8993, "Garry Owen Medley," by Eugene A. Jaudas, is a violin solo with orchestra accompaniment, introducing a medley of Irish jigs and reels. These include "Garry Owen" Jig, "17th of March" reel, "Haste to the Wedding" country dance, "Reilly's Own" reel, "Champion" jig and "Killarney." The popularity of our Record No. 8878, "Pop Goes the Weasel" Medley, violin solo with orchestra accompaniment), prompts us to offer another made on somewhat similar lines. Each Record is made by a different artist, Mr. D'Almaine having played the first, and Mr. Jaudas the present one.

No. 8994, "Leaf by Leaf the Roses Fall," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a very popular old song by T. B. Bishop (music) and Carolina Dana Howe (words). The verse alternates in the arrangement between a duet for first and second tenor and baritone and bass, followed by the chorus with all four voices. The chorus:

"Leaf by leaf the roses fall,
Drop by drop the spring runs dry,
One by one beyond recall,
Summer roses droop and die."

No. 8995, "Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night," by Irving Gillette, is a song of the better grade, being unusually well written both in words and music. Its composer is J. C. Macy. Mr. Gillette's fine tenor voice renders the song in a thoroughly satisfying manner.

"May all the world's gladness be yours, dear,
And ev'ry day glorious and bright;
In the wish that I'm always making,
When I say 'Little girl, good night.'"

No. 8996, "Religioso March," by the Edison Concert Band, introduces "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and "Adeste Fidelis," two favorite religious hymns. The composition as played in this Record is admirably adapted to show off the different instruments in the band. The arrangement of the music is by W. Paris Chambers. This will be found a splendid band Record by those partial to music of a religious character.

No. 8997, "Just My Style," by Miss Morgan and Mr. Stanley, is a contralto and baritone duet with orchestra accompaniment, of this popular song from "Fantana," now being presented by the Jefferson De Angelis Co. This musical comedy had an extensive run in New York city, and is now being presented in the principal cities. Raymond Hubbell wrote the music of this song and Robert B. Smith the words. The characters in the song are Fantana and Sinclair.

SINCLAIR—
"Bless the your radiant eyes met mine,
And passed into their depths so blue,
I could plainly see you were meant for me,
And I was meant for you."

FANTANA—
"I knew at that time by right divine,
As well as I know it now;
That do what I might, I was yours all right,
Yes I can't explain just how."

No. 8998, "When Father Laid the Carpet on the Stairs," by Billy Murray, is an exceedingly ludicrous story of father's difficulties when attempting to lay the stair carpet. It also tells of the amusement of mother and the little ones as father's troubles grew. When father struck his thumb instead of the tack and said frightful things, why "Mother laid the carpet on the stairs." The fun in this Record and Mr. Murray's popularity will make it one of the big sellers of the month.

No. 8999, "Across Land Marsh," by Vess L. Ossman, is an artistic banjo Record, with orchestra accompaniment, of this selection from "The Rogers Brothers in Paris," now on tour throughout the country. Mr. Ossman is to well known as a banjo player of the first rank that his Records are in great demand.

No. 9000, "Preacher and the Bear," by Arthur Collins, is a coon song written by Joe Arzoma and sung with orchestra accompaniment. A colored preacher went hunting on Sunday. Returning he met a grizzly bear. The preacher climbed a persimmon tree and the bear took up a position underneath. The bear seemed in no hurry to depart so the preacher resorted to prayer, concluding with "Good Lord, if you can't help me, for goodness sake don't help that bear."

No. 9003, "Oh, Oh, Sallie Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces "Oh, Oh, Sallie" (our Record No. 8935), "Farewell, Mr. Abner Hemingway" (our Record No. 8963), "When the Bees are in the Hive" (our Record No. 8926), "Jasper, Don't You Hear Me Calling You" (our Record No. 8955), and "Billy" (our Record No. 8964).

RECOGNIZED AS A MUSICAL INDUSTRY.

The Phonograph and talking machine industry has now been regarded by the Music Trade Review, of New York City, as of sufficient importance to warrant the publication of a paper entirely devoted to this rapidly growing business. This new publication is called the Talking Machine World. It made its first appearance in January and its third issue was published on March 15. It includes twenty-four large pages, full of interesting trade notes, and its modest subscription price of fifty cents a year makes it possible for every dealer to become a subscriber. Its publication office is 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

The Music Trades, one of the most important trade papers of the country, has also deemed the Phonograph business as worth a place in its pages, and has created a new department called "Talking Machine News." Music Trades treats of nothing else but musical instruments and musical merchandise.

DOINGS OF THE JOBBERS.

Among the visitors at our New York office during March were: G. L. Ackerman, of Ackerman & Co., Scranton, Pa.; E. J. Heffelman, of Klein & Heffelman, Canton, Ohio.; N. D. Griffin, of the American Phonograph Co., Gloversville, N. Y.; J. A. Rickard, Schenectady, N. Y.; C. J. Andrews, Boston Cycle & Sundry Co., Boston, Mass.; E. F. Taft, Eastern Talking Machine Co., Boston, Mass.; William Werner, Easton, Pa.; W. D. Andrews, Syracuse, N. Y.; John Rogers, Knoxville Typewriter & Phonograph Co., Knoxville, Tenn.; J. N. Willys, Elmira Arms Co., Elmira, N. Y.; Mr. Pardee and Mr. Ellenberger, of the Pardee-Ellenberger Co., New Haven, Conn.; L. E. McGreal, of M. Greal Bros., Milwaukee, Wis.

New Edison Jobbers for March are the C. E. Osgood Co., Boston; Frank E. Bolway, Oswego, N. Y.; R. L. Penick, Montgomery, Ala., and the Household Furnishing Co., New Bedford, Mass.

The Talking Machine Co., Rochester, N. Y., will remove April 1 from 29 Clinton Avenue S. to 97 Main Street E.

TRADE ADVERTISEMENTS.

Acknowledgment is made of the receipt during March of advertisements from the trade as follows: Judd R. Miller, East Springfield, Pa.; M. B. Willis, Jr., Auburn, Ind.; J. E. Jerd, Randolph, Vt.; Mailloux & Guillot, Thibodaux, La.; A. L. Thompson, Mayville, N. D.; Hartford Phonograph Co., Hartford, Conn.; Harry Jackson, Hartford, Conn.; John P. Dougherty, Chester, Pa.; J. H. Legger; Spratt & Corcoran, Watertown, N. Y.; Texas Phonograph Co., Houston, Texas; J. W. Jenkins Sons Music Co., Kansas City, Mo.; Alonzo Wilkes, Amsterdam, N. Y.; Marlboro Rubber Co., Marlboro, Mass.

A WESTERN DEALER'S ADVERTISEMENT.

SAID MR. A TO MR. B AND B SAID SOMETHING TO MR. A:

Mr. B lives in the country and while in town the other day was urged by Mr. A to come in and hear the band concert and bring his family. "What's the use?" said Mr. B, "I have at home a Standard Edison Phonograph, and every evening Mrs. B and I and the children enjoy a band concert that is far ahead of anything you will hear in an opera house, and we don't have to drive several miles to hear it. When we get tired of band music we can have songs, trios, quartets and everything else that's good."

A PHONOGRAPH AT A FUNERAL.

A well-known merchant belonging to the city of Cork is probably the first man to sing at his own funeral. A Phonograph was placed on the lid of the coffin. When the religious ceremonies were over the Phonograph was turned on, and the mourners in the church listened to the dead man singing the final Requiem of the Absolution. The Record is to be preserved, and it is intended to commemorate each anniversary of his death in a similar manner. The dead man had a fine baritone voice, and gave his services at many a public entertainment in the south of Ireland.—London daily.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.'S NEW OFFICES.

The National Phonograph Co., who manufacture the Edison Phonographs and Records, have moved their sales department to the new building of the Bank of the Metropolis at No. 31 Union Square, where they occupy the entire fourth floor.

The new offices, besides being very much more advantageous, from a business standpoint, and more convenient to the trade that go there to order goods, are a great relief to those who have to use them. They are modern in every particular and are handsomely furnished. The private offices of the manager and his assistants are in the front, and back of these are the railed, partitioned compartments of the clerical force. The number of employees in this department is larger than it has ever been before, and the amount of business that is transacted there is very great.

"The Edison Phonograph business is at its height," said C. H. Wilson, who is in charge of the Sales Department and head of the new offices that overlook Union Square. "It is simply that we have never since this corporation has been established had so many and such large orders to fill. It would seem that no matter how frequently we enlarge our plant and increase our facilities we cannot keep up with the public demand for Edison Phonographs and Records. We are behind now, and the greatest effort that we can make is not enough to keep up with our orders.

"We find the offices up town to be in every way superior to the old quarters. The light was deficient in our old establishment, and here it is all we could wish. Besides this, the advantage to those who have business with us is very great, and they seem to appreciate it. We are seeing more of our friends, and we are glad of it. Altogether we can say the change has been a success."—Music Trades.

A "FOLLOW-UP" LETTER.

The following letter was sent by a Harrisburg Dealer to the address of an inquirer mailed by this company. It is reprinted for the benefit of those who may want to write a letter of the same kind:

We received a letter this morning from the National Phonograph Co., advising us of your inquiry in reference to a Phonograph or Gold Moulded Records. They appreciate the courtesy of your communication and advised us to treat you in a way that would add another happy customer to their long list of patrons throughout the United States and the world. Our store is at 28 South Fourth Street, Harrisburg, Pa., very close to the Pennsylvania depot, also the Chestnut Street Market, so that it is very convenient, should you make a call to our city. Or we shall take great pleasure in sending you an Edison Phonograph and a two or three dozen record case, filled or partly so, with any of the famous Edison Records that may please you, you to send us a list either by name of piece or by number. If you choose to state your preference as to song, spoken pieces or band music, we will be pleased to pick you out a small collection, which we know will give you entire satisfaction. We will send these to the nearest express or railroad depot, not asking you for any money until the goods reach you, so that you may not be deprived of the pleasure which the great singers and bright lights of our country afford you, which is practically an up-to-date theatre at your own home. We don't think anything better could be invested which would afford you and your numerous friends as much pleasure as an Edison outfit, to which you can add the best Records produced by this great company, monthly, as they come out. This you can accomplish by placing an order with us to send you each month a certain number of Records that are in line with your own good taste.

Thanking you for your order in advance, and trusting to be favored with your valued patronage, and a call at our establishment when in our city, we beg to remain.

BROUGHT BACK SAD MEMORIES.

"Last Friday evening we gave a concert with a Triumph Phonograph at the Grand Lodge of Grangers, P. of H., and something remarkable happened during the entertainment," wrote Dean & Hebert, of Manchester, Vt., under date of March 3. "When we played No. 8872, 'Just Before the Battle, Mother,' a man rose from his seat with tears in his eyes. He said that his father was buried down South on the battlefield and that the song was so realistic it brought back sad memories of the past. It all goes to show that the Edison machine is the best on the market, and with us is increasing our sales right along."

BOTH EQUALLY GOOD.

The following letter was received by Thomas C. Hough, Edison Jobber at Minneapolis, Minn., who sent it to us with the following comment: "Inclosed you will find a letter from the North Star Lodge, I. O. O. F., which explains itself. As I am not a member of the lodge and the letter was unsolicited, it certainly speaks very highly for your machines. However, as they have no equal it would be difficult with any fair minded persons to decide otherwise."

Mr. Thomas C. Hough, Minneapolis:—

As you are the agent for the Edison Phonograph for this city and St. Paul, I thought you would be interested in a contest that was held in our lodge last evening.

Brothers Meyer and Wolcott, both being owners of Edison Home Phonographs and a number of Edison Gold Moulded Records, entered into a contest as to which of the machines was the best. The N. G. appointed two judges and each contestant was to play six Records, Brothers Crist and Roerkey acting as the judges of the contest. About 100 members of the lodge and a large number of visitors from different parts of the United States were in attendance. After playing the six Records each, the judges were unable to decide, as both machines worked to perfection, and the selections were well chosen by Brothers Meyer and Wolcott. The judges then asked that each play three Records. After the playing of these the judges were still unable to render a decision, and required two more to be played. The judges pronounced both machines perfect in every way, and as they were still unable to render a decision, they declared the contest a draw. This announcement was received with long and loud applause. Every member present voted the Edison machines the best on the market, and every one expressed the wish that the contest would be repeated at some future date. Our lodge room is 40x60 feet, with a ceiling 20 feet high, and the machines could be distinctly heard in all parts of the hall.

A WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZE FOR
I.C.S. LANGUAGE SYSTEM
Awarded to
Thomas A. Edison
PHONOGRAPH

Undoubtedly the highest compliment ever paid to a talking machine was given to the Edison Phonograph when the Grand Prize for a language method was awarded to the I. C. S. Language System at St. Louis. No effort was made with the judges to obtain this recognition; but seven months of language demonstrations to thousands of visitors at the I. C. S. BUILDING brought the success of the method to the attention of Dr. Guido Biagi, of the Educational Committee. It was a surprise to know that Dr. Biagi had examined the Edison Phonograph unannounced, and was prepared to award the Grand Prize, as he afterwards did, to the I. C. S. method.

Every dealer in the Edison trade should have an I. C. S. lesson at hand to prove these qualities of sound reproduction that won the Grand Prize at St. Louis. "Double Service"—Amusement and Language Study—is the latest and best argument for the perfect talking machine in the Edison Phonograph.

QUIT TRYING TO SELL OTHERS.

Edison goods are more in demand every day in this locality. The coming of spring does not seem to lessen the interest, and the tendency is to the larger sized machines, Homes and Triumphs, with some sales of special finish machines. Have sold one Triumph machine with mahogany case and nickled top. Have quit trying to sell anything but Edison goods.

Cerro Gordo, Ill. E. T. GOSSETT.

MOULDED RECORDS.

Another advantage that the moulded, high-speed Records undoubtedly possess over their predecessors is their long wearing qualities. It seems quite impossible to wear them out by ordinary usage. This is because the wax composition contains ingredients that make it very hard. That the high-speed Records are louder than the old style is conceded by everyone. They have driven the large concert Records out of the market. The expectations raised by the invention of the machines with large cylinders, that they would revolutionize the entire talking machine industry, though perhaps in course of partial realization, were shattered completely when the principle of increased surface velocity, which they taught, was applied to record-making on the small stand and cylinders. Thereupon the small cylinder Record jumped further to the front than ever, and, notwithstanding the increasing competition of the disc variety, it remains even yet the leading factor in the consideration of those most familiar with the industry. —Talking Machine News, London.

BUSINESS FINE.

Frederick, Md., Feb. 27, 1905.

I sold four Home Phonographs and one Triumph last week, with 150 Records. I thought I would write and let you know that the business is getting fine. I am certainly pleased with the outlook for spring. The Records are all fine, and no end to magnificent comments. People are pleased beyond description with the monthly Records. W. H. DYER.

COME AND SEE US.

We are so proud of our new offices at 31 Union Square, New York, that we hope no Jobber or Dealer visiting New York from a distance will fail to call and inspect them. It matters not if you don't know any of us personally. Just say that you are an Edison Dealer and someone will always find time to show you around and talk shop for a while.

OTHERS NOTHING IN COMPARISON.

Mexico, Feb. 13, 1905.

I am in receipt of the Phonograph, Records, etc., which were ordered a couple of weeks ago. I am glad to make use of this opportunity to show my satisfaction with the Edison Phonograph. I have heard many other talking machines * * * but all those machines are nothing when compared with the Edison Phonograph. The Edison Records have been improved greatly; they are loud enough, and free from that disagreeable noise which is the characteristic of the other machines. EUG. M. OLAGUIBEL.

What Would Make You Want A Phonograph?

DID you ever leave the theatre possessed by a charming air you could not recall? Did the concert ever leave a haunting memory of delight gone forever? Did you ever hear an orchestra play a beautiful melody, that you would like to hear again and again? Did you ever hear a passing band play a striking march, and regret that you could not master it and be able to whistle it at will?

Perhaps you "Don't know music"—"Don't play," and lacking these talents you abandon the gratification of these desires.

Don't give up.

Own an EDISON PHONOGRAPH.

Possessing one, you can have a Record of the lost music, and in the quietness of your home, play it over and over until you have mastered both music and words. The fleeting pleasure is made permanent.

AN EDISON PHONOGRAPH and EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS give this music with all the naturalness and pleasing quality of the original. Thomas A. Edison's many improvements now in his PHONOGRAPH have made it a delightfully entertaining instrument—a treat that asks only trial.

Here are the 25 EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS for March. Edison Dealers throughout the country have them. Whatever your taste you will find some pleasing selections.

Make a choice, go to an Edison Dealer and ask him to play them for you on an EDISON PHONOGRAPH.

If you cannot reach a dealer, fill in the coupon below the list and mail to us, checking the catalogue you want.

If you have an old Phonograph not in use, send us its number. We have a special proposition for you.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING.

When the Dealers' three-for-one proposition terminated on March 15th, we thought that it would be followed by a falling off in the volume of orders for Phonographs and Records. Although this proposition did not bear in any way upon the sale of Phonographs, we still felt that in some unexplained manner it might have been a factor in the increase of orders for Phonographs. It seemed quite reasonable to suppose that the volume of the Record orders was to a more considerable extent due to this special proposition. Somewhat to our surprise, however, the number of orders received after March 15th were fully as large as at any previous time and the number of advance orders for May Records even exceeded the number for April Records, the advance orders for which were the largest for any single month in the history of the Company. The May list now leads for the greatest total number in one month. This splendid business shows that if the three-for-one proposition had any effect upon the general situation, it was to re-awaken interest throughout the entire trade. We are more inclined to think, however, that the volume of business is due to normal conditions, and these normal conditions are caused by the increasing belief of the American people that Mr. Edison's great invention is still the leader among sound producing machines.

At our factory in Orange, we are turning out as many Records to-day as it is possible to do even with our greatly increased facilities. At no time except Sunday does the Record making force stop work. From Monday morning until Saturday night, one force of hands follows another and the output is continuous. In spite of these efforts we have been unable to make much headway toward catching up with orders on hand. So regularly does the number of new orders continue to equal the output, and at times to exceed it, that we have already taken steps toward erecting another Record moulding building. It will, of course, be some months before this can be ready for occupancy and use, and in the meantime we desire the trade to rest assured that nothing will be left undone to meet the demand for Records. At times the demand for Phonographs is heavier than we can keep up with when working our factory regular hours, but by working overtime we can make better headway when necessary. Since the Record Department already works night and day, we do not have such an opportunity to catch up with orders, and, therefore, must get a new building before we can successfully do so.

In planning for a further extension of our factory facilities, we are encouraged by the reports that come to us from Jobbers and Dealers in all parts of the country, to the effect that the demand for Edison Phonographs and Records is constantly on the increase. In fact, they report that it has increased so fast within the past year as to make it impossible to tell how to order or what stock to carry. They, too, are planning to extend their selling facilities, feeling sure that the demand for Phonographs and Records will not only continue as great as at present, but will even increase as the months go by. There can be no better test of the selling powers of Edison Phonographs and Records than the fact that many Jobbers and Dealers who have been handling other lines exclusively are now adding the Edison line, and in some cases they are dropping all others and will hereafter sell Edison goods only.

ABUSE OF SAMPLE RECORD PRIVILEGE.

Due to the abuse of sample Record privilege, we have been reluctantly compelled to refuse to furnish one Jobber with these samples in the future. The cause in this particular instance was that the Jobber in question allowed the sample Records to remain in the possession of one of his Dealers for a period of several days, thereby giving such Dealer an undue advantage over other Dealers in the same city.

Sample Records are furnished with the understanding and for the purpose of enabling Jobbers to determine such quantity as they desire to order for stock. They can also be exhibited by the Jobbers to their Dealers, in order that Dealers may diagram the quantity they desire to order. They must not, however, be disposed of, either directly or indirectly, by the Jobber until his stock order has been received. Neither can they be left with any one Dealer to be exhibited to his customers.

We trust the action we have been compelled to take in the case referred to will be a warning to other Jobbers, and that they will make sure that sample Records will only be handled in the way which we designate.

HOW TO PUT GRAPHITE IN PHONOGRAPH SPRINGS.

Since many Dealers sell Phonographs as a side line, they do not become familiar with the mechanical construction of the machines, and cannot furnish information frequently asked by their customers. One of the things not understood by such Dealers is the method of putting graphite in the springs, and yet it is one that many Phonograph owners want to know about. The proper way to put graphite in the springs of the Phonograph is to allow the machine to run down, remove it from the cabinet, stand it on end and sift dry powdered graphite into the spring barrel through the holes in the end of the same. About two teaspoonfuls will be enough. Then pat plenty of oil on the spring, wind the machine up and allow it to run down two or three times so as to distribute the graphite through all the leaves of the spring. This applies to the Standard, Home and Triumph. The Gem has no spring barrel, and to graphite this spring it is only necessary to remove the base board by taking out the four screws at the bottom, turn the machine upside down and sift graphite directly on the leaves of the spring and then put in oil.

VISITORS AT NEW YORK OFFICE.

Edison Jobbers were too busy in April to visit New York City, and but few called at our offices. Among those who did call were S. K. Hamburger, of Harrisburg, Pa.; William Werner, of Easten, Pa.; Adolph Weiss, of Philadelphia; Charles Schmelzer, of Kansas City, and Mr. Pardee and Ellenberger, of New Haven, Conn.

Dealers who are doing the best business in Edison Gold Moulded Records are those who have made up a list of all Phonograph owners in their territory and are sending them every month a Record Supplement or a copy of the Phonogram. They are also getting people who have not used their Phonographs in the past three years to hear the Edison Gold Moulded Records of today.

NO LOCAL ADVERTISING.

Occasionally a Dealer makes a request to have some special local advertising done for his particular benefit, pointing out that the retail store of some other company is doing business in the same field and is advertising considerably. They seem to feel that we should make an appropriation for their special benefit. They sometimes also get the publisher of a local paper to solicit us to give him a contract for advertising. To all of these requests we have but one reply; namely, that such advertising is too expensive to consider. If we did it for a few we must do it for every Dealer and this means about 5,500 different appropriations. Then, too, local advertising is expensive because the rates are much higher in proportion to circulation than the magazines and other publications of general circulation, in which we are liberal advertisers. If it would pay us to advertise our goods in a town for the benefit of a Dealer in that town, it would pay the Dealer himself equally well. In fact, this is one of the reasons why many Dealers do not make a real success of selling Edison goods. If, in addition to putting in an adequate stock of goods, they would advertise in their local papers, they would find that advertising paid handsomely.

WINDOW DISPLAY PICTURES WANTED.

We would like to publish in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY each month, one or two pictures of window displays made by Edison Dealers. Will not some of our enterprising Dealers send us photographs of such window exhibits? To be used in the MONTHLY they must, of course, be exhibits of Edison goods only. In every case that we use such photographs, we will give full credit to the Jobber or Dealer sending them. The publication of such photographs will, we believe, be valuable to other Dealers as furnishing ideas for window displays. The more unique the displays are made, the more valuable will be the photographs. Who will be the first Dealer to see his store in print?

AS GOOD AS A 50 CENT SHOW.

One of our Western salesmen called upon a merchant in Ponca City, Okla., on April 13th and gave a demonstration of the Phonograph. This is the way the local paper commented upon the incident:

"A representative of the Edison Phonograph Co. entertained a crowd this rainy afternoon in Koller's hardware store. He had the finest instrument we ever saw or heard, and his entertainment was better than most fifty cent shows."

FAKE SAPPHIRES.

We take this opportunity of warning Jobbers and Dealers and the public generally, from using imitation sapphires which have recently been surreptitiously put upon the market. These imitations are made by at least two concerns against whom we have complete evidence on which to base actions for infringement of the Edison patents. We have also the names of Jobbers who have dealt extensively in these imitation goods, and propose to proceed against them. The imitation sapphires in question are rough, unpolished, irregular in shape and size, and their use would result in the quick destruction of any Record. In fact, under the microscope, the bearing surface of these sapphires which engages the wax Record has the appearance of emery or sand stone, instead of being perfectly polished, as with a genuine Edison stylus. In one case, we find that sapphire reproducer balls were made of ordinary soft glass, having no durability whatever, and in use quickly wearing out and cutting the Records. Our friends will, of course, realize that the use of these imitation sapphires can only harm the Phonograph business. Genuine Edison sapphires are manufactured for and sold by the National Phonograph Company, and the prices therefor are fixed and definite. Should any sapphires be offered to Jobbers or Dealers at materially lower prices than those quoted by us, they may be reasonably sure that the sapphires in question are fraudulent, and to acquire them would subject the purchaser to the liability of an infringement suit. Should any sapphires be offered to Jobbers or Dealers at special prices, we would be glad to be notified of the fact, in order that the matter can be promptly investigated, as we consider that the continued success of the Phonograph business depends largely upon the presentation to the public of genuine goods, honestly made and of the highest possible standard of excellence.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH COMPANY.

"DANCE OF THE HOURS."

One of the features of the new Hippodrome, New York City, is the "Dance of the Hours," an elaborate ballet which is danced to the ballet music from "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli. This music is given on our Record No. 8749. It is remarkable for its sweetness and delightful rhythm. The popularity of this feature of the Hippodrome performance has caused an increased demand in New York and vicinity for our Record of this music.

NEW RECORD SHIPMENTS ABOUT THE FIRST.

In the February issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY we printed a paragraph to the effect that our manufacturing facilities had made it possible to establish a fixed schedule for Record shipments each month. It was stated that if orders were received by the 10th of the month, we would be able to make shipment about the 25th. This seemed quite possible at that time, but the tremendous increase in business in the past three months has made it practically impossible to live up to such a schedule. The best that we have been able to do is to ship the Records about the 1st of the month. Since the business shows no signs whatever of letting up in volume, it has been decided to advise the trade that shipment of the new Records for the month will not be promised before between the 25th and the 1st of each month hereafter. Fixing the time for shipment at the 25th and not being able to ship until about the 1st has caused have been led to believe that the Records would be shipped from Orange about the 25th of the month and have kept asking why their orders were not filled until the 1st of the month, or later. The trade will, therefore, understand that until there is a decided falling off in business, the Records of the month will not be shipped until as near the 1st of the month as circumstances will permit. This will probably make it nearly the 5th of the month before the Records will be in the hands of the Jobbers and ready for re-shipment to Dealers.

DON'T SEND ORDERS TO FACTORY.

Notwithstanding what has been printed and written from time to time many Jobbers and Dealers still occasionally send orders direct to the factory at Orange. Instead of facilitating the filling of such orders, this causes a delay. Orders sent to Orange and belonging to the New York territory are sent to New York without receiving any attention whatever. In the same way orders received from Chicago territory are sent to the Chicago office. To get the best attention, Jobbers and Dealers should send all orders to the sales offices in the territory in which they are located, that is, either New York, Chicago or San Francisco, and not send direct to the factory. This refers to telegraphic orders as well as mail orders.

The National Phonograph Co. has leased a store at 251 and 253 West Broadway, New York, which will be utilized as a warehouse and shipping depot for its export department. The new premises, ready for occupancy May 1, will greatly facilitate this rapidly-expanding branch of the company's business.

A GOOD TALKING POINT.

The Record-making possibilities of the Edison Phonograph are not given the proper attention by many Dealers. As a result, they often fail to make sales when an explanation of this feature would induce many doubtful persons to become owners of machines. Every Dealer who desires to make a success of the Edison line should study up the matter of making Records in order to be able to demonstrate it to his customers, and he should never lose an opportunity of presenting it as a selling argument. The average owners of Phonographs cannot make Records with the volume and tone of those turned out by this company, for the latter have been the result of years of work and experimentation, but they can make them so successfully as to furnish them with lots of amusement in the making and give them a series of Records that will be fully as interesting to his friends as any that he can buy. Dealers should learn how to make Records, not only to sell the Phonograph itself, but because when used for Record making a sale also includes a recording horn, shaved blanks and other accessories. Then, too, the Dealer who can give his customers points on making Records is going to have more people come to him for information and their coming will be followed by sales. Many Dealers may think that it is a troublesome matter to learn to make Records, but they will be surprised to find how little trouble it really is if they go about it in the right manner.

NO "TRADE" CONTRACTS.

Newspaper publishers frequently ask us to give them a contract for advertising and pay for the same with Edison Phonograph and Records. Our reply is to point to the clause in our Dealers' contract in which we prohibit the trade from making contracts of this character. We state that to be consistent we cannot do it ourselves, and have therefore made it a rule to make no contracts of this character. With all the advertising that we are doing, we have not a single contract on any other than a cash basis.

TRAFFIC MANAGER.

F. A. Voullaire was on April 17th appointed Traffic Manager of the National Phonograph Co. It will be Mr. Voullaire's duty to look after routing, freight rates and freight claims. He has had a long experience in this line of work with other large manufacturing companies and his knowledge of transportation matters will enable us to give the trade much better service in the matter of shipments.

CARRY EVERY EDISON RECORD.

For the benefit of new Dealers and for those who have not been sufficiently impressed by what has already been said on the subject, we would like to again refer to the advisability of Dealers carrying at least one of each domestic Record made by this company. It is the constant effort of our Sales Department to induce Dealers in towns and cities of sufficient size to increase their stock to a point where they can announce to the public that they carry every Edison Record in stock. Where there are two or more Dealers in a town, the one who can honestly make this announcement will in a very short time be the leading Dealer in the place, and will continue to do by far the largest business, unless his competitors do likewise. Our salesmen have induced many Dealers to carry a full stock of Edison Records, instead of a limited number of selections, and they all report that without exception every Dealer who has done this has made a great success in selling Edison goods. If you are a Dealer carrying limited stock, give this matter your careful consideration. To carry every Edison Record does not mean a very large outlay of capital, but it does mean a great deal larger business, and a greatly increased profit.

PRINTED MATTER.

Dealers continue to complain that they do not get printed matter from their Jobbers. Since it is practically impossible to supply them from Orange, N. J., we can only urge them to continue to ask their Jobbers for it. We would also urge Jobbers, so far as possible, to see that their Dealers have at all times a small supply of catalogues, etc. Many Jobbers take great pains in supplying Dealers with literature and we find that they are regarded by their Dealers as Jobbers who give them the best service. When a Dealer finds a Jobber solicitous concerning the increase of his business, he is naturally favorably impressed, and orders follow his impressions.

We have under way several folders and cards for use in liberal quantities by the trade. The first of these will be a four-page folder to take the place of No. 535, which is now out of print.

The edition of the little bookmarks is now entirely exhausted and no further orders can be filled.

Copies of the new Record catalogue, Form No. 670, will be mailed to the entire trade in a few days, although we have been shipping limited quantities of them to such Jobbers as were out of Record catalogues. We are still sending these out as fast as they come from the printer and will continue to do so until all orders have been filled. This catalogue has a new lithographed cover and includes the April Records.

A POSSIBLE NEW DEPARTMENT.

One of the most interesting features of the Phonogram is its "Questions and Answers" column, in which we undertake to reply to such questions as owners of Phonographs may desire to ask concerning our goods or ourselves. We believe that such a department, conducted from a trade standpoint, would be a valuable and interesting feature of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. There must be many points about which Dealers are in doubt, and replying to questions furnished by them would furnish useful information to other Dealers throughout the country. We should be glad to hear from Dealers on the subject and to reply to such questions along these lines as they may desire to ask.

TWO IMPORTANT ESSENTIALS.

Our salesmen report that they frequently find Dealers exhibiting machines not run at the correct speed and with the horn suspended improperly. A Phonograph running either too fast or too slow causes an unnatural reproduction of the Record, and is more apt to make an unfavorable impression on the purchaser than it is to induce him to buy. Care should be taken to see that a horn is suspended from the crane or horn support so as to be as nearly balanced as possible. In other words, the little chain connecting the two should hang perpendicularly, otherwise it is apt to cause the reproducer arm to be lifted or crowd so hard against the machine as to interfere with its easy operation.

ALBERT G. WILLIAMS.

Albert G. Williams, Manager of the Phonograph Department of the Stoll Blank Book and Stationery Company, Trenton, N. J., died at his home in Trenton on March 21st. Mr. Williams was formerly connected with the Edison Phonograph Works at Orange, N. J., and left there six years ago to take charge of the Phonograph Department of the above named company. He was thirty-one years of age and left a wife and one child. His death was much regretted by his employees and many friends in the Phonograph trade.

Don't think because summer is coming that trade is going to fall off. The Edison Phonograph sells as well in summer as in winter.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The J. F. Schmelzer & Sons Arms Co., of 708-710 Main street, Kansas City, Mo., have become Edison Jobbers during the past month. They intend making an aggressive campaign among the Dealers of the southwest. This company have been handling talking machines, but up to the present time have not handled the Edison line. They are among the latest converts to the general belief that no talking machine business is complete without including Edison Phonographs and Records.

Removals are in order among the New York city Jobbers. The Blackman Talking Machine Co., which has been located at 19 Beekman street for several years, removed on May 1st to 97 Chambers street, where they will have larger quarters and much better facilities for handling their rapidly growing business. The Bettini Phonograph Co., now at 80 Chambers street, will remove soon after May 1st to 156 W. 23d street. This company has recently been re-organized and is planning to do a much larger business than ever before. John F. Blackman & Son removed on May 1st from 2654 Third avenue, New York, to 2737 Third avenue.

George R. Youmans, Waycross, Ga., has become a Jobber for Edison Phonographs and Records. Waycross is one of the railroad centres of the South, and Mr. Youmans expects to do a thriving business in consequence of the excellent shipping facilities afforded him by the railroads.

Our list of New England Jobbers has been increased by the addition of the Flint & Brickett Co., 430 Main street, Springfield, Mass.

Alfred Weiss, who has been one of the largest Edison Dealers in New York city for some time, has now become a Jobber, with headquarters at 1525 First avenue.

The Quincy Phonograph Co., 808 Hampshire street, Quincy, Ill., have signed a Jobber's Agreement to sell Edison goods, and since there is only one other Jobber in Illinois outside of Chicago, they expect to build up an extensive business.

F. M. Atwood, of Memphis, Tenn., who has been a Dealer in Edison goods for some time, became an Edison Jobber in April.

The Talking Machine Co., Rochester, N. Y., have removed from 29 Clinton avenue to 97 Main street, E., where larger and more suitable quarters are secured. The store has been elegantly equipped as to furnishings and attractive stock.

McGreal Brothers, of Milwaukee, are giving an elaborate exhibition of Edison goods in connection with the Merchants' Exposition now being held in that city. A feature of the exhibit is the making of Records on the Phonograph by Arthur Collins and Byron G. Harlan, under the direction of an expert from the recording department of the National Phonograph Company.

E. F. Taft, the manager of the Eastern Talking Machine Co.'s store, at No. 177 Tremont street, says that trade is good for this time of the year, and that it has held up remarkably well. He says that the month of March this year was larger than for any corresponding month in the eleven years of the history of the business. Additional booths are being put in place for the playing of Edison machines, and a balcony will be constructed for the storing of a distinctly retail stock of Edison Records. This will mean an increase of 10,000 Edison Records to the stock carried. Mr. Taft says that he does a large business in packing and shipping machines for his customers, to their summer homes in the mountains and at the beach resorts. They prefer to have the machines packed properly than to take chances of damages from careless packing—Boston Correspondence to the Music Trades.

USE ORDER BLANKS.

Dealers will facilitate the work of their Jobbers in handling orders if they will use the Order Blank now being mailed with the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY for placing their monthly orders for new Records. Write in the quantity you want before each number, fill in the Jobber's name and your own name and mail the blank. Jobbers in turn will make it easier to handle their orders at the Factory by also using the Order Blank in ordering new Records. Only advance Records should be ordered on these blanks.

ONE OF THE BEST EVER

"The writer sent the enclosed letter to over 500 people along with April Supplements, and April Phonogram," wrote Thomas Worrell, Edison Jobber at Lowell, Mass., on April 8th. "I have sold over 300 of these Records (No. 8038) to-day. I think it is one of the best Records your company have ever put out, and it shows that a great part of the success of the business is in the hands of the recording department."

Lowell, Mass., April 1st, 1905.

Dear Sir,—Enclosed please find list of Edison Gold Moulded Records for April. I believe that No. 8038 will prove to be one of the best selling Records ever put on the market. I have bought 1,000 Records of this number alone. Call and let us play it over for you.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR JUNE.

Many of the titles of the twenty-four Edison Gold Moulded Records for June are suggestive of the coming summer season. At least two of the selections, "Down in the Blossom Row" and "On a Summer Night," are expected by their publishers to be very popular summer songs. The novelty for this month is a mandolin and guitar duet, this being the first Record ever made by these instruments together. The band and orchestra records are unusually well played, and Ada Jones and Len Spencer have another clever vaudeville duet.

No. 9001, "Rienzi Overture," by the Edison Concert Band, is a high class Record of this operatic composition by Richard Wagner. It is a most ambitious bit of recording and thoroughly illustrates the progress made in recent years in the art of producing Phonograph Records. This selection was previously listed in the old wax Records. In making it over it has been rendered in an entirely different manner and much improved.

No. 9002, "Rose-Marie," by Harry Anthony, is a sentimental song by F. E. Weatherly, and very popular among finished artists. Mr. Anthony's rendition of the song cannot fail to please critical Phonograph owners. Particular attention is called to the fine orchestration in the accompaniment to this Record.

No. 9004, "Down in Blossom Row," by Byron G. Harlan, is a new descriptive summer song, the music of which was written by Percy Wenrich and the words by F. J. Hamill. It is written in waltz time and its publishers predict for it wide popularity in the coming season. The song introduces a chorus of boys and girls, giving a fine coloring to as pretty and catchy a little song as has been turned out in recent years. Mr. Harlan is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9005, "Oh, Promise Me," is a cornet solo by Benjamin Kyrl, with orchestral accompaniment, that will doubtless be in great demand, because it is played along simple lines and with none of the pyrotechnic playing that artists of Mr. Kyrl's ability are wont to indulge in. "Oh, Promise Me," was written by Reginald De Koven, and it has attained a place in musical ballads that will live for many years. The selection is listed in response to the popular demand that Mr. Kyrl should play something in the melody line. The pure tone with which he plays this beautiful song will find many enthusiastic admirers.

No. 9006, "Her Boy in Blue," by Harry MacDonough, is a descriptive march song written by Chas. W. Doty, and sung by Mr. MacDonough with orchestra accompaniment. A maiden sings of her soldier boy called to duty. She waits for him but he does not return. The song has a tuneful marching melody that has already attained considerable popularity. A feature of the orchestra accompaniment is the pretty effects by the bugle and flutes.

No. 9007, "Hey! Mister Joshua," by Collins and Harlan, is a comic male duet dealing with the adventures of two Rubes in the city. The song is written in a tempo that starts the feet a-going at once with no let up until the finish. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. The music of this composition was written by Lester W. Keith and the words by John Kemble.

No. 9008, "First Heart Throbs," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a well-known concert number written by R. Eilenberg. It is a gavotte and admirably adapted to bring out various orchestral effects.

No. 9009, "Paddy's Day," by Billy Murray, refers incidentally to St. Patrick's Day, but it is chiefly made up of bits of different Irish melodies, all worked out very cleverly. The words also are written up with reference to a score or more of well-known Irish songs. The music is of a brilliant character, full of jingle and swing, in keeping with the idea of the lyrics. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music of this song was written by B. Mullen and the words by F. Fogarty.

No. 9010, "O Morning Land," by Anthony and Harrison, is a splendid Record of this well-known sacred composition by Edward H. Phelps. The music is melodious and of a good quality. Messrs. Anthony and Harrison render the song in an artistic manner, the orchestra accompaniment adding much to the attractiveness of the Record.

No. 9011, "Black Diamond Express March," by the Edison Military Band, is a composition by H. A. Lyon that was named for the far-famed railroad express and the character of the music is thoroughly descriptive of the title.

No. 9012, "Susan Van Doozen," by Bob Roberts, refers in a humorous vein to the methods of song writers in getting up their compositions, with plays on words. The story is given in a conversational manner and is novel in form and conception. The waltz time melody gives the Record an attractive musical setting. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. Henry Shepherd wrote the music of this composition and Joe Lincoln, the words.

No. 9013, "You're My Heart's Desire, I Love You, Nellie Dean," by Harlan and Stanley, is a new sentimental song, fully described in its title. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. This song was written by Harry Armstrong, and is quite as pretty a ballad as "You're the Flower of My Heart, Sweet Adeline," by the same composer, and listed on our records as No. 8677.

No. 9014, "An Autumn Evening," is a mandolin and guitar duet by Samuel Siegel (who is also the composer of the music) and M. Lamb Webb. This is the first Record ever made by this combination of instruments. It is one that, we think, will please all admirers of both instruments. The music is of a serenade character.

No. 9015, "What's the Matter With the Mail?" by Arthur Collins, is a coon song by Percy Wenrich (music) and Fred J. Hamill (words). Sung with orchestra accompaniment. Long after Liza's salary day, Mr. William Jackson Tagg is anxiously waiting the mail that should bring him part of her salary.

Bill spies the postman coming. Stocks are now up with Bill.

"Are you Mr. William Jackson Tagg?"

"Yes, sah."

"Well, Mr. Tagg, will you kindly deliver this letter to the family on the top floor?"

No. 9016, "Ev'ry Little Bit Helps," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a realistic portrayal of a vaudeville act, introducing theatre surroundings, audience, orchestra and everything incidental to as bright and amusing little act with a story to it as one would see or hear in a first-class vaudeville house. The Record is the May list made by these artists broke all records for the sale of a single selection, and this one will probably be quite as popular. Fred Fischer wrote the music of this composition and George Whiting, the words.

No. 9017, "La Cascade," by the Edison Concert Band, is a brilliant concert number, marked by unusually clear orchestration and delightful phrases by the clarinets. Written in the caprice movement. Its composer is Donald Garcia. It is a fine Record and will be appreciated by all.

No. 9018, "Sweet Maid Divine," by Miss Morgan and Mr. Stanley, is a sentimental serio-comic song by Charles K. Harris. It is written somewhat on the order of the "Floro-dora Sextette" song. It is just as pretty and full of character, and has a sprightly dance played by the orchestra at the finish of the Record.

He—"Come out, my love, in the moonlight,
And take a little stroll with me,
There's something I want to tell you,
For I love you tenderly."

She—"Suppose I were to listen, dare to listen,
Would your heart for me then pine?
And would you buy me diamond rings,
If I'd be thine?"

No 9019, "Good-night, Beloved, Good-night," is another fine Record by the Edison Male Quartette. Records by this Quartette have achieved a new popularity within the last few months, because of the unusually fine character of the songs rendered by them and the artistic manner in which the Records have been made. This song was recently cut from our Catalogue, and is now re-listed as a quartette Record on account of its growing popularity. It is a song of the better grade, and doubtless will be a standard one for a long time to come. James Oliver wrote the music of this song, and Jack Everett Fay, the words. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9020, "Tell Me With Your Eyes Medley," by Arthur Bentzler, is a bell solo with orchestra accompaniment. Medleys by the bells have become very popular. This one introduces "Tell Me With Your Eyes" (our Record No. 8941), "Heinie" (our Record No. 8902) and "If I Were Only You" (our Record No. 8629). These popular songs are given with elaborate orchestration.

No. 9021, "On a Summer Night," by MacDonough and Belding, is a new summer waltz song by Egbert Van Alstyne and Harry Williams, writers of "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" (our Record No. 8958) and other hits. The words refer in a pleasant manner to numerous summer songs of the past. The orchestral accompaniment is a feature of the Record.

No. 9022, "Beautiful Birds, Sing On," by Harlan and Belmont, is a whistling and singing male duet with orchestra accompaniment. This beautiful selection, was previously listed by us, but when we desired to make it over with the new style Record, putting the title on the end of the Record, Mr. Belmont was too far away to join with Mr. Harlan in making the Record, and we were compelled to drop it from the catalogue. Mr. Belmont has since returned to New York and has made it possible to re-list the Record. It is made better than before, and will certainly be a greater seller than ever.

No. 9023, "She Waits by the Deep Blue Sea," by Irving Gillette, is a new descriptive ballad by Theodore Morse (music) and Edward Madden (words). Mr. Morse is also well-known as the composer of "Blue Bell," "I've Got a Feeling for You" and several other of the past season's successes. For her sailor sweetheart,' "she waits by the deep blue sea." There's a sob and a tear for each dreary year, As "she waits by the deep blue sea."

No. 9024, "South Carolina Minstrels," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces a comic talk between the end men, Len Spencer and Billy Murray, and also the song "It's Allus de Same in Dixie," by Billy Murray and the Edison Male Quartette. The opening overture by the orchestra is "Beneath the Starry Flag."

No. 9025, "Bunker Hill Medley," by the Edison Military Band, is arranged in march time and introduces five popular songs previously listed as follows: Band No. 8966 (our Record No. 8966). "I've Got a Little Money and I Saved It All for You" (our Record No. 8991), "Tammany" (our Record No. 8979), "My Carolina Lady" (our Record No. 8958) and "The Preacher and the Bear" (our Record No. 9000).

HEARD IT PLAYED AND WAS CONVINCED.

"The other day a man stepped into my store to get a cigar and saw a Phonograph setting on the shelf," wrote Henry Halloway, an Edison Dealer, at Pinconia, Wis. "He asked me to play a piece for him, saying that he had never seen a machine like that. He said he had heard lots of grindstones or discs but wouldn't have one in his house. He said he would like to see if these machines were any better. So I played Record No. 8859. 'If I Were Only You' and No. 10, 'Bells of New York March.' He said, 'Don't play any more, but just pack up that machine and a 48-inch horn and pick out two dozen good Records, your own choice, so I can take them right along with me.' It was only ten minutes before that time. When I told him that the price of the machine was only $30 and the Records fifty-five cents each, he said 'I don't care if the price is twice that; I would have one anyway.' This man is a good musician. He was once the leader of the Darlington band and has a piano and other instruments in his home."

EDISON EULOGIES IN SONG.

Thomas A. Edison was the guest of honor at the Magnetic Club's dinner last night at the Hotel Astor. No amount of persuasion could induce Mr. Edison to make a speech, but he enjoyed himself hugely.

The Magnetic Club is made up of the officers and employees of the telegraph, telephone, electric light and electric manufacturing companies of the city. Mr. Edison's presence nearly swamped the dinner. Covers were laid originally for 200, but when people found that the Wizard was to be there everybody wanted to have a place at table. Considerably more than 300 were present.

Col. A. B. Chandler, formerly president of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, president of the club, was toastmaster. His speech was punctuated curiously, in a way that made Mr. Edison blush like a girl and raise his hands deprecatingly.

"I desire," said Col. Chandler, "to call attention to the most noteworthy achievements of this great old telegrapher. First, I shall mention the quadruplex transmitter."

Suddenly a busy instrument in the corner of the room set up a clicking and ticking and gave the orchestra and a strong lunged baritone their cue. To the tune of "Grandfather's Clock" everybody sang:

When they tell their stories now of the way they used to do,
And the exciting work we used to do;
And the way, every day, they would roost the other men—
We are sorry that those happy days are through.

Mr. Edison was plainly delighted at the novelty of the idea, but he was a bit overcome by modesty. Col. Chandler went on: "I think that the telephone should be mentioned next."

There was a furious ringing of 'phone bells and a chorus of hellos. The members sang with much enthusiasm a stirring stanza of "Hello, My Baby."

Col. Chandler mentioned the invention of the Phonograph, and from the cavernous mouth of a megaphone came the roar of a brass band going full power. The biggest bit of the dinner was made a moment later, just after the toastmaster got through saying, "but the greatest of all, perhaps, was electric lighting."

Somebody pressed a button. Every light in the room winked out, leaving the room dimly lit by the pink petticoated candles on the tables. Then this very appropriate parody on the "Yankee Consul" song, "The Olden Days," was sung:

It was just like this in the olden days,
Which have passed beyond recall;
In the rays of, of golden rays
Of the electric light's pale pall.
Then we studied hard by the candle light,
With our visions of future gold,
And some have realized all right
Since the days of old.

Col. Chandler finished his speech by complimenting Mr. Edison upon his recovery from a recent serious illness. The members arose at that point and started to drink a very quiet toast to the guest of honor but their enthusiasm got away with them and cheers broke out and rolled to the ceiling for a few minutes, bringing Mr. Edison to his feet to bow thanks.

Frederick P. Fish, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, had this to say:

"Mr. Edison's greatest invention was never patented. I doubt if there are half a dozen people who know what it is. The fact that Mr. Edison is the inventor has never been disclosed to the world, even. You see, years ago, when the telephone first came into use, people used to ring a bell and then say ponderously over the wire: 'Are you there?' Are you ready to talk?' Well Mr. Edison did away with that awkward, un-American way of doing things. He caught up a receiver one day and yelled into the transmitter one word, a most satisfactory, capable, soul satisfying word, 'Hello!' It has gone clear around the world. The Japs use it. It is heard in Turkey. Russia couldn't do without it. Neither could Patagonia."

Mr. Edison, leaning forward with a hand to his ear, laughed heartily.—New York Sun, April 14, 1905.

AN ENGLISH VIEW.

Now it can be said that the voice of the talking machine is heard in the land. The Phonograph, gramophone, or whatever name the marvelous invention of Edison and his imitators may be given, is a product of the age which fulfils many useful purposes. The talking machine does not only talk, it sings, it records, it is a witness. It may be laid under contribution for all sorts of business or private uses. It is a force, and being so, commands the attention of our readers. The recent law case in Paris will be read with interest, but the judgment, though it may for a time disturb the Phonograph trade in France, is scarcely likely to be confirmed by a higher court, although sympathy may be felt with composers and publishers whose works are reproduced without a "by your leave!" or any payment whatsoever.

So far as Great Britain is concerned, any complaint on this score must be ineffectual, the publishers having agreed to the abolition of fees for performing rights. It is a moot point whether the talking machine vulgarizes or helps to popularize a song or piece. It is probably due to the apparatus when a good singer's voice is reproduced gracefully, and due to a bad machine when the singer's voice is unsatisfactory. Our own opinion is that the talking machine is a distinctly valuable invention with infinite potentialities. We have heard the rendering of certain songs by certain singers, by means of a reproducing instrument which opportunities have not been afforded us to hear at first hand.—Music.

PRICES OF EDISON RECORDS.

Edison Gold Moulded Records, standard size, are sold in the United States at 35 cents each, and in Canada at 40 cents each. The Canadian price is higher because of the duty. Edison Concert Records are sold at 75 cents in both countries.

AN INTERESTING ARTICLE.

The May issue of Strand contained an illustrated article on Mr. Edison, written by Francis Arthur Jones. The article treated of the life of Mr. Edison and his many inventions, and referred to Mr. Edison's work in connection with the Phonograph, as follows:

Perhaps the room having the greatest amount of interest for the general public is that presided over by A. T. E. Wangemann, and known as Room No. 13, or the Phonograph Experimental Department. Everything connected with the "talking machine" is shown here—hundreds of Records, forests of horns, ranging in length from a few inches to eighteen feet, Phonographs of all sizes and shapes, Records, etc. In this room efforts are being constantly made to obtain better all-round results and superior Records.

"All the work done in this room," Mr. Wangemann said, "is of an experimental nature, and all our efforts are centered on obtaining better apparatus for recording and reproducing, better raw materials for cylinders, and better Records, both blank and moulded, etc. In fact it is here that every effort at improving and advancing the present way of Phonograph productions and reproductions is made. We are constantly experimenting with new Records, new moulders, new compositions for blank Records, new horns or funnels, and, in fact, there is nothing we do not try in order to obtain absolute perfection of sound reproduction."

Mr. Edison has spent many weeks and months in this room, often working until two and three o'clock in the morning. He has a small room partitioned off from the experimental department, and here he sits and listens to Records for many hours at a time, scribbling on scraps of paper his opinion of the various Records. No one is allowed in this room under any consideration. Last year Mr. Edison spent the best part of seven months in this room, endeavoring to render the Phonograph more perfect. He spends much of his time finding out the reasons for poor work, for he believes that more can be learned from things going wrong than from things which go well. As readers may be aware there is no substance known which is proof against influence by sound vibrations, or which will not transmit sound at some velocity. If it were possible to find a substance which would be absolutely dead to sound, and yet solid enough to be used in mechanical construction, then one could obtain for superior reproductions of sound-waves, both vocal and instrumental.

The story of how Mr. Edison came to invent the Phonograph has been told many times and with many variations, and it may not, therefore, be without interest to relate exactly how the wonderful "talking machine" came into existence. Briefly, then, the invention of the Phonograph was the result of pure reason based upon very happy inspiration. In his early work with automatic telegraphs operating at high speeds Mr. Edison had occasion to experiment with embossed strips impressed with dashes and dots thereon which were moved rapidly beneath a stylus to vibrate it. It was observed that this stylus in vibrating produced audible sounds. A small thing such as this would pass unnoticed by the ordinary observer as of no interest, but to a mind that is not only intensely alert but highly analytical it was regarded as a curious phenomenon. At this time Mr. Edison was actively working on his telephone experiments, so that his attention was largely absorbed by matters connected with acoustics. Simply as a matter of supposition the idea of a talking machine occurred to Mr. Edison, and, remembering his experiences with the automatic telegraph transmitter, he concluded that, if the undulations on the strip could give the proper form and arrangement, a diaphragm could be vibrated so as to reproduce any desired sounds.

The next step was to form the proper undulations in the strip, and the idea was then suggested to Mr. Edison's mind that these undulations could be produced by sounds themselves, which could be then reproduced. When this complete conception was reached the Phonograph was produced. Obviously, the change from a strip of material capable of being impressed by sound-waves to a cylinder of such material on which the sound-waves could be impressed in a spiral line was a refinement of the original conception which simply involved mechanical considerations. It is, therefore, rather an interesting fact that in the development of the Phonograph the reproduction of the sounds preceded the original production of the Record.

Readers may also be interested to learn that the first patent on the Phonograph was filed in the United States on December 24th, 1877, and was granted February 19th, 1878, No. 200,521, in this patent is disclosed the now historic instrument in which the sounds are recorded on a sheet of tinfoil applied to a spiral grooved cylinder. Prior to this, however, in an application filed in Great Britain on July 30th, 1877, No. 2,909, Mr. Edison disclosed not only a cylinder Phonograph, but also an apparatus embodying his original conception of an embossed strip. * * *

There seems to be a generally expressed belief that Mr. Edison dislikes the Phonograph, and some papers have gone so far as to affirm that he will not allow one in his house. Again I asked Mr. Edison to corroborate this, but he could not do so. "I am very fond of the Phonograph," he said, "and can listen to good Records by the hour. I do not, perhaps, like the records that are most popular with the public, for I am not particularly fond of sconic songs or "rag-time" music. My favorite composer is Beethoven, and I never tire of listening to his symphonies."

Mr. Edison has never spoken into a Phonograph for the purpose of making a selling Record, and seemed surprised when I suggested that if he did so it would certainly have an enormous sale. But he shook his head and modestly declared that he did not think so. He might some day speak into the Phonograph the story of how he invented the talking machine, but he did not consider it very likely.

PREACHED HIS OWN FUNERAL SERMON BY PHONOGRAPH.

Probably the strangest funeral ceremony ever witnessed was performed at Ridetost, Ky., on March 9th, when Rev. Henry C. Slade's voice delivered his own funeral sermon, said the Sunday Press, of Schenectady, N. Y., on April 23d.

The Baptist Church was thronged with members of the Rev. Mr. Slade's congregation and with the mountaineers of the Jellico district, who came for miles around to hear the minister preach his own funeral service, direct hymns, and call for prayers from certain members of the congregation.

A Phonograph with a large horn attachment stood upon the platform where for eleven years Rev. Mr. Slade stood preaching the gospel of everlasting life to the congregation of mountaineers and miners of the Cumberland Falls district. And where the men and women in homespun and butternut, in the rough attire of miners, bowed their heads, the voice of the dead pastor spoke to them from the machine. The persons who attended the strange funeral ceremony declare it was one of the most solemn and impressive services they ever attended; and even those who came from curiosity remained, awed by the strangeness of the situation and bowed with the members of the congregation.

* * * * * * *

Last September the "missioner" fell sick. His trouble was Bright's disease. He made a trip to Louisville, consulted with eminent physicians, and realized that there was no hope.

When he returned from Louisville he took with him a Phonograph and a lot of Records, which he intended using in church entertainments. The Phonograph brought to that remote spot of the mountains the latest music, the best of oratory, humorous selections, the greatest songs, the greatest music, and the church was crowded when, instead of the regular Wednesday prayer meetings, Rev. Mr. Slade announced a Phonograph entertainment.

His health failed steadily, and he realized that the end was near, and, by the middle of February, he knew that death was a matter of only a few weeks. Already two acute attacks prostrated him.

On the second Sunday in February he announced to his congregation that he had but a few weeks to live. He was unable to enter his pulpit the next Sunday, and, while prostrate in bed, he conceived the idea of preaching his own funeral oration—a sermon which should climax his life's work.

Drawing the Phonograph close to his bed and inserting a blank Record, he began, and during that quiet afternoon, while his lare cabin in the Kentucky hills was silent and the snow lay deep over the mountains after a storm, he raised up his voice and poured into the Phonograph the story of his life and his plea for the mountaineers.

Mr. Slade died on March 7th, and the funeral services were held in the church on Round Knob on March 9th. To his deacons the minister confided his plans, and they sent out the word that Rev. Mr. Slade would preach his own funeral sermon. The superstitious, all too ignorant members of his congregation spread the word, and it became a thing of wonder in the mountains. The church was crowded.

The body of the minister was borne into the church and the coffin laid upon the trestles in front of the altar. Then Deacon Kerens carried the Phonograph to the platform and started it.

The voice of the dead minister spoke, saying:

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away."

The voice of him who lay dead in the coffin gave out the hymn, and, half frightened, the mountaineers arose and sang.

Then the funeral sermon opened.

Plainly, without effort, the voice told of the early struggles of the dead man, of his hopes, his fears, his troubles, his prayers. It told of his coming to the Fine mountains, of his reception, his striving against great odds.

And, as the climax of the sermon, the voice adjured them to be constant in well doing.

Then, suddenly the voice commanded the congregation to rise and sing, and they sang, "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

THE EXPERIENCE OF A "GEM."

"I believe it may interest you to know of the extraordinary experience of one of your Gem Phonographs," wrote William Rost, of Balham, S. W., on April 5th. "I recently had a fire at my private residence, 18 Ryde Vale road, Balham, S. W., almost everything being burnt out. The Gem machine was right in the middle of it, although the cover was badly scorched, I was surprised to find that the machine played as well as ever. I have been thinking that this might be a useful advertisement for you, and you are at liberty to use this letter as you think fit."

AN ODD ERROR.

An error was made in printing the advance list and bulletin of May Records that illustrates how easy it is to overlook mistakes in proof-reading. When the May list was first typewritten, Nos. 9000 and 9001 were printed as Nos. 6900 and 6901. This was given to the printer as copy, and although proofs were read by several different persons, the error was not discovered till after part of the May printing had been done. It is probable, too, that few readers of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY detected the error.

FURNISHED MUSIC FOR A DANCE.

Following is a copy of a poster received last month from an Edison Dealer at Covington, Ky.:

SOCIAL DANCE!
To be given by the Young Men of Fort Covington,
IN FOERSTER'S HALL, ON FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1905.
MUSIC FURNISHED BY FARQUHAR'S EDISON PHONOGRAPH.

Come and bring your ladies and enjoy a grand old time. The music alone is worth the price of admission. A choice selection of New Records just out.
PRICE 50 CENTS A COUPLE.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. We again ran out of May Phonograms before they were shipped to the trade, although the edition was over 200,000, and were compelled to print an additional supply. We plan to print about 10,000 more than we have orders for when we go to press, five weeks in advance of the month of issue, but frequently these are soon used up with extra orders.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITHIN GOODS.

Blank, per 1000 copies	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies	1.50
Imprinted, per 100 copies	0.75

No orders filed for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.
Most Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

THE PRICE AGREEMENT.

A correspondent in the Talking Machine News of London writes as follows:

A large percentage of people do not thoroughly understand the price agreement. Many look upon it as being somewhat dictatorial or as a scheme of the strong manufacturer to coerce the shopkeeper into doing something for the sole gain of the former. I am glad to firely disappeared and the reputable Dealer now sees the price agreement in an entirely different light and knows by practical demonstration that it is an instrument designed primarily for the good of the Dealer and that he is the greater gainer by its protection. As a matter of fact the manufacturer gets comparatively little benefit, except in so far as it prevents the wholesale cutting of prices which ultimately would destroy the reputation of his product that would otherwise be maintained. Where is there a person who doubts that a manufacturer now selling his wares under price agreement principles could sell more goods (and get just as much for them when sold) if he should lay aside the price agreement? And who is the real beneficiary under such a scheme? It must necessarily be the one who sells the article to the retail customer and gets the fair profit that the price agreement guarantees. Where there is no price maintaining agreement covering an article it is most often, if not always, sold by the stores at a reduction in price that the shopkeeper cannot meet and still pay rent. I claim, and history proves, that the price agreement has done more good for the legitimate Dealer than anything else that has ever been discovered since price cutting became popular. Of course the benefit derived from such a measure depends largely, if not wholly, on its rigid maintenance and it is the wise dealer who sticks to the manufacturer whose agreement affords him the greatest protection.

A DEALER'S SOLICITING LETTER.

Yale, Iowa, April 13, 1905.

Dear Friends,—I have secured the agency for the justly celebrated Edison Phonograph. This is certainly the King of all machines of its kind and one that will be an ornament and a source of endless pleasure in any home.

With one of these machines you can not only reproduce selections played by the best artists in the world but you can make records that will reproduce the exact voice of any one in the home and as they last indefinitely you may some day place a value on these records that you little dreamed of when in the fullness of strength you amuse yourself in the making of them.

If you are a lover of good music, come to the store and let us play you a few Records and show you the workings of a perfect machine; one that fills a long-felt want in the home. I shall be glad to play for you any time except Saturday. I have in stock all the latest and most popular Records. Come in and see us. You are always welcome.

W. A. SHEETS.

HEARD HIMSELF AS OTHERS HEAR HIM

An amateur flutist once stopped in at a fair where a talking machine company had an elaborate exhibit, and showed such an interest in the talking machines that the attendant thought a sale was imminent, and worked very hard to effect it.

"I see you have your flute with you," he said, finally. "Suppose you play a brief selection, and I will make a record of it, and you will then be able to hear the machine reproduce it exactly."

The suggestion pleased the amateur musician, and the idea was carried out.

"Is that an exact reproduction of my music?" he asked, when the tune was finished.

"It is," replied the attendant. "Do you wish to buy the talking machine?"

"No," said the other, sadly, as he slowly moved away. "But I'll sell the flute."—Popular Magazine.

WILLY NILLY.

"My daughter wants a talking machine," said the man.

"Ah!" said the Dealer, "you want to buy one."—

"No, I don't," interrupted the man hastily, "but it looks as if I'd have to."—Exchange.

A PROSPEROUS SUMMER ASSURED.

The first of the summer months opens with the National Phonograph Company enjoying a volume of business greatly in excess of any similar time in the history of the company. Despite the near approach of hot weather, when the demand for all goods of an indoor amusement character falls off, there is as yet little indication of a considerable reduction in the talking machine line as represented by Edison Phonographs and Records. The May orders for both were nearly as great as in any of the three previous record-breaking months and the orders for June Records were only ten per cent. less than for May, when they reached the high-water mark for one month's list. Since the June Records will not be fairly on sale until the first week in June this great business shows that Dealers are of the opinion that trade is going to be much better this summer than in any previous year. As a rule they are shrewd buyers and they do not buy what they do not expect to sell. No one expects to sell as many Phonographs and Records in July and August as in the colder months, but every one seems to be counting on a splendid summer business, and when most men count upon doing a thing they generally come close to doing it. Enthusiasm is an important factor in business and Edison Dealers have it to a marked degree this year. An unusually fine list of Edison Records is being put out for July. Its merit will do much to keep up the volume of the business in July and should make many persons want a Phonograph in order that they may have the means of hearing these fine reproductions of instrumental and vocal music. In no previous list has the superior work of our Recording Department been more noticeable, and it is doubtful if twenty-four Records of equal merit have ever been put out in one month. The trade will not agree upon the character of the selections, but there can be no division on the question of quality of recording.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR JULY, 1905.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near July 1st as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if received prior to June 10th, will be shipped. July Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock order for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

Edison Gold Moulded Records are made only in Standard Size. Both Standard and Concert Records may be ordered from this list. Order by number, not title. If Concert Records are wanted, give the number and letter C.

NEW EXCHANGE PROPOSITIONS.

On other pages in this issue we print in full copies of the letters that have just been mailed to Jobbers and Dealers with reference to returning cracked, broken and defective Records for credit. These letters have been specially mailed, under sealed cover, to all Jobbers and Dealers. They should be carefully read by their recipients. These exchange propositions have been carefully considered and we believe that their provisions are fair and just to the trade and ourselves. This plan will be operative until further notice.

A LARGE PORTRAIT OF MR. EDISON FOR EVERY DEALER.

We have just had made a quantity of what we consider the most attractive show card ever issued by the National Phonograph Co. It is really a steel sign, for it is made of thirty-two-gauge sheet steel. It is 13x19 inches in size and is lithographed in a handsome manner. In the center is a large and lifelike portrait of Thomas A. Edison with his characteristic signature below the portrait. The background surrounding the portrait is lithographed to imitate mahogany and is so well done as to look like the real article. At the top, above the portrait, are the words "Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records" in red and gold. A quantity of these signs has been shipped to all Jobbers, the number being in proportion to their Dealers. An order has been mailed to every Dealer entitling him to one of these signs upon presentation to his Jobber. We were compelled to again resort to this plan of distribution to prevent extensive duplication owing to the fact that many Dealers sign agreements with several Jobbers. No Dealer should fail to present his order and get one of these signs. They are a work of art and a credit to the Charles W. Shonk Co., of Chicago, who made them.

A PLEASED ENGLISH DEALER.

Following is a letter received by the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., London, from one of its Dealers:

LINCOLN, April 27, 1905.

Your advertisement in the Daily Mail is already a success and is increasing our sales of Phonographs and Records. Once we have supplied a customer with your Records he will not have any other make. Last year we stocked 400 of your Records; this year we stock 5,000, and we are contemplating still further increasing our stock. We can say that every customer is a satisfied customer. No one could wish for greater satisfaction than this.

A. C. SMITH.

1804 NEW DEALERS IN SIX MONTHS.

On July 16, 1904, new conditions concerning Edison goods went into effect and all Dealers were required to sign a new agreement. On November 1 the names of those who had not signed were removed from our files. All those who desired to become Edison Dealers after that date were required to sign the new agreement and purchase the initial quantity. Between November 1 and May 1 of this year 1804 firms in the United States and Canada became Dealers in this manner, an average of nearly seventy a week. This is a record to be proud of. We doubt if the history of the talking machine industry has ever seen its equal. And yet the same average continues practically unchanged. To have 1804 different firms take up the Edison line in a period of six months speaks volumes for the merit and popularity of Edison Phonographs and Records. It is a further evidence of the hold that Edison goods have upon the buying public, for most of these firms went into the business because they knew that the demand existed for the Edison product and they wanted to get a share of the profits.

REPRODUCER EXCHANGE PROPOSITION.

Many Jobbers and Dealers seem to have forgotten the exchange proposition with reference to old style Reproducers. When the Model C was put out an exchange proposition was put into effect by which any owner of an old style Reproducer could return it and secure a Model C by the payment of $3. This proposition was accepted by many owners, but for some time past the matter seems to have been overlooked by the trade generally, although old style Reproducers are still occasionally being returned for credit. Jobbers are allowed to return any old style Edison Reproducer to us at $2 each, less usual Jobbers' discounts, and Dealers may return them to Jobbers on the same basis, less Dealers' discounts. The trade should encourage Phonograph owners to make this exchange of Reproducers, for it makes Phonographs more up-to-date and is calculated to increase the purchase of additional Records. It should be borne in mind, however, that the Model C Reproducer cannot be used on the Concert machine.

A BREEZE FROM A BREEZY COUNTRY.

CODY, Wyo., April 27, 1905.

I wish to buy an Edison Phonograph and no other. Have written several letters to various firms, all of whom recommend some of those dog-voiced, pie-plate machines, which I d'n't want at any price.

D. F. P.

THE IDEAL JOBBER.

The ideal Jobber in Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records possesses the following good points:

He has a store sufficiently large to carry an ample stock of machines and Records.

He studies the most advantageous and most economical methods of handling his stock so as to know where to find everything with the least loss of time and trouble, and in a way to make it possible to determine in a few minutes just what titles need replenishing.

He carries a large enough stock of every Record in the Edison catalogues and supplements to make him independent of the delays of the factory and the railroads. With such a stock he is always in a position to give his Dealers perfect service.

He makes every effort to look after the requirements of his Dealers. He gets them to carry as complete a stock as possible, and assists them in making proper selections where they cannot carry the complete line. To enable them to order intelligently he invites them to visit his store each month and hear the sample Records, or he ships them from place to place for the same purpose. He fills their orders completely, without substitutions, and as quickly as shipping facilities will permit.

He watches the literature sent him by the National Phonograph Co. and immediately orders such quantities of the various forms as will supply his Dealers. Upon its receipt he sees that some of each are sent to Dealers with their goods.

He makes up a mailing list of owners of cylinder machines and sees that a list of new Records each month and other printed matter are sent them regularly. He encourages his Dealers to do likewise.

He pays the same attention to the Jobbing end of his business as he does to selling at retail, realizing that the greater volume of jobbing orders makes up for the difference in selling profits.

Lastly, or really firstly, he keeps on such good terms with the credit manager as to make the latter look with joy upon his constantly increasing statement.

THEY KNOW A GOOD THING.

CRESCENT CITY, CAL., May 10, 1905.

I have a small stock of several other makes of talking machines, but very seldom sell any of them, because the majority of the people here know a good thing when they see and hear it, and thereby stick to the original—the Edison.

PETER DUFFY.

FOREIGN SELECTIONS DROPPED FROM CATALOGUES.

When Foreign Record Catalogue, Form 555, was superseded by Form 640, sixty-seven titles were cut out. This was done because the moulds were no longer in proper condition for this work, or to other causes which made it impossible to fill orders for these particular selections. No notice of these cut-outs was given the trade, for the reason that it was thought to be not important enough to warrant the issuance of such a notice. Some Jobbers, however, have desired to rearrange their stocks, and for the benefit of them and such Dealers as may carry a complete stock of foreign selections, the list is published as follows:

SPANISH—12562, 12563, 12564, 12565, 12566, 12569, 12570, 12573, 12574, 12577, 12578, 12579, 12581, 12582, 12583, 12585, 12586, 12587, 12588, 12589, 12590, 12591, 12592, 12593, 12594, 12595, 12596, 12597, 12598, 12658, 12659, 12660, 12661, 12663, 12689, 12690.

In addition to the above, and for the same reasons, it has been decided to drop from the next edition of the Foreign Record Catalogue, the following titles:

FRENCH.

12289	Romance de l'Etoile	Marechal
12293	Chanson Espagnole	Marechal
12310	La voix des Chênes	Bartel
12324	Tambour! en garde	Bartel

GERMAN.

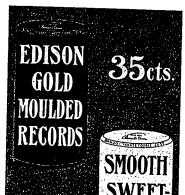
12202	Olé Jota Expañola	Vargas



AND ANOTHER

FLAGSTAFF, Me., April 14, 1905.

Here is what a disc machine man recently said to me. He lately bought a disc machine. He came into my store to hear some of the Edison Gold Moulded Records and after hearing two or three said to the people assisting: "That machine is plainer than mine." He wanted to trade his for an Edison, even if he could only get half the price of his own, but I told him that I could not trade. I know I can sell him one as soon as he can dispose of his scratching machine.

JAMES PACKARD.

PRINTED MATTER.

Most Jobbers have ordered a supply of the above placard and will be glad to furnish one to their active Dealers. This placard is 14x22 inches in size and printed in blue ink on cardboard. It has been printed because of a demand for a plain show card giving the price of Edison Records. The card is Form No. 687. Dealers buying direct can have one sent with their next order by asking for it. It cannot be mailed.

With this issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY we are mailing a copy of a four-page folder, Form No. 675, printed to succeed Form No. 535, the edition of which is exhausted. This folder also shows the Gem, Standard, Home and Triumph machines and should be a useful bit of literature to mail to prospective customers. Dealers interested in using the folder may get a supply from their Jobbers, most of whom have already had a quantity shipped to them.

The phrase "Now Ready" has been added to the heading of the Record Bulletin for June with the idea of having it act as a notification to the public that the Records of the month are on sale.

Another of the colored hangers has just been mailed to the entire trade. It is Form No. 658, and shows a typical American boy playing a Home Phonograph. The caption "Never so Happy" is almost superfluous, for the boy's face fully expresses his pleasure. Jobbers may have an additional quantity sent with goods, although the edition makes it necessary to limit the size of orders.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

P. A. Powers, Edison Jobber at Buffalo, has moved from 643 Main street to larger and much finer equipped quarters at 613 and 615 Main street.

The new Edison Jobbers for the month of May are W. C. De Forest & Son, of Newcastle and Sharon, Pa.; John Sykes, 105 N. Broad street, Trenton, N. J., and the Western Talking Machine Co., 938 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. The latter concern has succeeded to the business formerly conducted by the Ray Company as a branch store.

George R. Youmans, Jobber at Waycross, Ga., occupies the unique position of being the only exclusively wholesale Jobber in the country. He does not sell at retail. There are, however, two good retail Dealers in Waycross, a town of 5,000 inhabitants, and they are doing an excellent business.

McGreal Bros., Jobbers at Milwaukee, have opened a retail branch store at 430 National avenue, South Milwaukee.

James K. O'Dea, Jobber at Paterson, N. J., has two unique signs as part of his window display. One is a picture of a Japanese girl, lettered as follows: "Useeda a Phonograph; Weneeda a customer." The other sign shows a goat running an automobile, and is lettered as follows: "You 'auto' have a Phonograph; we 'auto' sell you one." These signs have attracted much attention.

The Eclipse Musical Co. have succeeded W. J. Roberts, Jr., as Edison Jobbers at Erie and Huron streets, Cleveland, Ohio.

R. S. Williams & Son's Co., Ltd., Edison Jobbers at Toronto, have opened a branch Jobbing house at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

"DADDY DEAR."

We take this opportunity of complimenting the National Phonograph Co. on the magnificent Record they made of our song, "Daddy Dear." It is fully admitted by all our customers and the trade, that this is one of the best Records ever shown to an appreciative public.—Extract from a letter received from W. J. Deane & Son, Sydney, Australia, April 7, 1905.

POINTS FOR THE TRADE.

The following excellent letter was written by F. L. Fritchey, one of our Western salesmen, in response to a request from the editor of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY for some selling suggestions:

The arrangement of stock in a convenient manner, making the best possible display, is I find, the best trade-getter of all—not excepting advertising. However, it certainly pays to advertise also. The Record shelving, or racks, that I have been introducing through my territory have brought lots of business to the dealers who have them. I built two of them to-day, one in Vincennes, Ind., and one in Princeton, Ind. [These racks will be made the subject of an article in the July issue.—Editor.]

In talking to a lukewarm Dealer, or a new Dealer, I show them where the retail customer can have nine and a half dozen of the Edison Records for the same price that he would have to pay for four dozen of the ten-inch disc records, and also where one Edison 35 cent Record will outwear five of the dollar disc records, or of the cheap cylinder record. No needles to change every reproduction, thus avoiding continual trouble and expense.

Retail buyers have found the Edison Phonograph to be the most economical, as well as the only pure musical tone talking machine. It permits him to have a wider variety, twice over and more, of Records for the amount invested. A Dealer's first sale to a customer is only a beginning of the profits—the following six or nine months bring a big future business, both from the purchaser and from his friends who hear his outfit and see the enthusiasm and pride with which he exhibits it to them. A great many of them in torn purchase outfits, that starting an endless chain of profitable business.

An Edison outfit demonstrated in the home parlor, in contest with any other line, invariably ends in a sale of the Edison goods. This is owing to the agreeable, soft, lifelike tone of the Edison Records when reproduced by the Edison Reproducer. No other line has this tone.

The constant improvement in the Edison apparatus and in the purity of the tone in the Records; the up-to-date monthly lists of Records; the protection of prices afforded by the agreement; the exchange proposition policy which will be repeated at intervals; the elaborate display which can so cheaply be made of both Records and machines, with small stocks as well as large; the fact that Edison goods are the only line not found on bargain counters at cut prices and are not offered as prizes to induce the sale of other merchandise, or of newspapers; these facts all go toward making it the most desirable and sought-for line of talking machines.

Better workmanship, material, record quality, etc., because we have but one factory price and one retail price. Other concerns when they manufacture their lines of goods make them cheaply as possible because they don't know what their factory prices are to be on the goods when sold (or consigned). An Edison Dealer who buys $35 worth per month gets the same discounts and is accorded the same treatment as one whose account is $350 per month. A new Dealer cannot do himself, or us, justice with less than the initial order as prescribed in agreement—cannot begin to make a creditable "trade-getter" display. The fact that a Dealer must buy full initial order, have a store and make suitable display of the goods at all times is a protection to him against the "peddler" who has no expense of store, etc., etc. The fact that we are making more Records each week than all other companies combined is pretty good evidence as to which line is the one in demand by the public.

MAKING RECORDS MAKES SALES.

"The hanger 'A Message From the Absent Lover' is quite a hit," writes H. W. Mosier, a Dealer at Stockton, Cal. "Being in a conspicuous place it never fails to attract, and we always make it our business to tell the story and then record the party's voice on the Phonographs. What is the result? The party is highly elated and brings his friends in to hear his voice and in turn we record his friends' voices. It does not take long in making a sale. Always depend upon me for hearty cooperation."

UNITED STATES LAW UPHELD.

On appeal to the High Court of Great Britain, the tribunal of last resort, the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States relative to the sale of talking machines under restrictive conditions imposed by virtue of the patent was upheld. The decree was handed down about six weeks ago, the case involving the sale of Edison goods. The English court ruled that patentees may prescribe the price and lay down the terms of sale which their licensees shall charge and impose in selling to the general trade and patented articles covered by the patents under which the license is granted.

ELECTROS OF THE MONTHLY LIST.

J. H. Lepper, an Edison Dealer at Mason City, Ia., thinks that Dealers would appreciate it if we would furnish electrotypes of the monthly lists of new Records, for use in newspaper columns, at their cost, about 30 cents each. The list would have to be condensed to get it into a single column. If even a dozen Dealers wanted these we would have them made and mail them at 30 cents each. How many Dealers are interested?

NOTICE TO JOBBERS.

From letters received from various Jobbers, it is quite evident it was not thoroughly understood, that with the expiration of our exchange proposition, which terminated March 16, 1905, we discontinued allowing credit for or taking back in exchange, Records received in a broken or cracked condition. This is made plain by the fact that some Jobbers have returned such Records to us, all of which are being held subject to their order. It has, therefore, been decided that until further notified, this matter will be handled as follows:

BROKEN OR CRACKED RECORDS.—STANDARD SIZE ONLY.

Broken or cracked Records may be returned for credit by Jobbers to us, under the following conditions:

1st.—They must be absolutely new Records that were either broken or cracked when first unpacked, and must be returned in original cartons.

2d.—Return shipments must be made as follows:

a.—If you are dealing through a Jobber they must be returned to such Jobber.

b.—If you are dealing through our Chicago office they must be returned to National Phonograph Company, 31 Union Square, Chicago.

c.—If you are dealing with our New York office they must be returned to National Phonograph Company, Orange, N. J.

In every instance transportation charges must be prepaid.

3d.—Jobbers receiving broken or cracked Records must at the same time forward new order for four (4) times the quantity to whoever the Records are returned, viz, the Jobber, our Chicago office, or our New York office.

4th.—Orders sent prior or subsequent to the return of Records cannot be granted, and unless new order is sent with the notice of return shipment of Records, same will be returned will POSITIVELY not be credited.

5th.—When return shipment is made, notice advising date and quantity returned, also bill-of-lading covering shipment, must be sent in the National Phonograph Company at Union Square, New York City, and new order for four (4) times the quantity must also be enclosed.

6th.—The packing cases containing Records returned must be plainly marked with the name and address of the party returning them; and, as a further identification, each case must contain a packing slip showing by whom shipped and the number of Records packed in that particular case. This is imperative in order to determine where the Records are from and to whom credit should be rendered.

DEFECTIVE RECORDS.—STANDARD SIZE ONLY.

Defective Records, such as develop air holes, or some other defect which beyond question arises in manufacture are returnable for credit, provided an order for an equal number of new Records is sent us at the same time shipment is made.

Notice of return shipment and new order should be sent us in the same manner as with broken Records.

When defective Records are returned, they must be shipped in packages separate from broken or cracked Records, and the case containing same must be plainly marked with the name of the party returning them.

Broken, or cracked and defective Records must not be included in same package. We, of course, we reserve the right to refuse to credit either one.

These propositions do not include surplus stock of Records, nor such Records as have been used or taken in exchange from consumers. If Records of this description are returned, credit for them will not be allowed. Concert Records cannot be returned under this proposition.

Jobbers may accept broken, cracked or defective Records from Dealers on the basis of the enclosed letter to Dealer, a copy of which is being mailed to every Dealer.

In offering these propositions, it is with the distinct understanding that they are subject to withdrawal or change at any time on five days written notice.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR JULY, 1905.

Dealers in Edison Phonographs who pass by the twenty-four selections described in this issue, because summer is at hand and they think that trade is going to fall off in consequence, will regret it when they learn later of the unusually fine quality of the list. Seldom has one month's selections so strongly emphasized the almost phenomenal success of our recording department in making Records of a character vastly superior to anything of the kind on the market. The novelties of the month are Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, by the Edison Concert Band; Suppe's "Summer Night's Dream Overture" by the Edison Symphony Orchestra; a Rube sketch by "Cyrus Pippins;" a duet by Anthony and Harrison of Charles M. Alexander's famous "Glory Song;" a clarinet duet by Rubel and Tuson; and a Record by Tascott, the widely known vaudeville artist.

No. 9026, "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," by the Edison Concert Band, is one of the most ambitious pieces of recording that we have done in some time. This most popular of Liszt's well-known rhapsodies is a feature of the programmes of the finest musical organizations in the world. Our Record of it shows up the excellent balance of the Edison Concert Band. This Record will be a delight to those who are constantly seeking high-class music.

No. 9027, "To My First Love," by Irving Gillette, is one of Mr. Gillette's most careful renditions. This song was written by Hermann Löhr (music) and Edwin Hamilton (words). It is an encore number very popular with fine artists and their audiences.

No. 9028, "Come Along, Little Girl, Come Along," by Collins and Harlan, is another new summer waltz song that will be much sung and whistled between now and fall. It has a catchy air and is sung in a spirited manner. The music of the song was written by J. R. Mullen and the words by Alfred Bryan. The following chorus is an indication of the character of the song:

Come along, little girl, come along,
Get you Sunday-go-to-meeting-clothes on,
Come along, little girl, let us get in the whirl,
They may all think they're it, but there's none like you, Pearl,
Waist's tied, baby mine, don't decline,
If you think you look nice, you look good and fine,
If you think you look right, why nothing suit,
Come along, little girl, come along.

No. 9029, "Summer Night's Dream Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a beautiful and perfectly recorded selection of Suppe's delightful composition. No collection of Records of high-class music will be complete without this one.

No. 9030, "Courting Malinda," by "Cyrus Pippins," is a Rube dialect talking Record that is full of fun. It is made in genuine "Down East" dialect, accompanied by a laugh that is alone a feature of the Record. No better description of this selection can be given than to quote part of the Record as follows:

"I always love to laugh when I think of how I courted Malinda. I used to call around every evening and help her learn her father's catechism. Her folks used to come as soon as I liked; there was nothing to hinder me. So one night

"Malinda and me went out to a soda fountain place. I called for egg phosphate, she said she would take hers scrambled. Then we went to a theatre. We were sitting up in the gallery, when a fellow came out on the stage and called up a parrot. The boys hollered out 'Swipe,' Malinda said, 'They mean you.' I said, 'Yes, I know they do.' But the secret was so blamed put out in my life. The head man put us both out just as soon as she said it. I took her home as quick as I could.

"I sailed right into the parlor and anchored right onto the sofa. The springs were all busted. The turnstiles all creak was leaky. All of a sudden the old man hollered out upstairs, 'All right, Cyrus.' On the way down I met a pin sticking up. Just then Malinda came in. She said, 'Cyrus, did you find a pin?' I said, 'Yes.' She said, 'Where have you got it?' I said, 'By Gosh, I won't tell you.' She said, 'I want it back.' I said, 'I'll not do it, for that's where I got it.' She said, 'That don't been in your way.' I said, 'Yes, it has been in my way.' She said, 'Well, it has just gotten into our family and it suits me to keep it.' Would you believe it when I got up all that ache I had a new form of 'appendecita.'"

No. 9031, "The Glory Song," by Anthony and Harrison, is at the present time the best known song in Great Britain. For several months past, Charles M. Alexander, of the Torrey-Alexander Mission, has been singing it at religious services throughout England. These services have been of the most popular character and have been largely attended. One of their features has been the singing of "The Glory Song" by Mr. Alexander. The popularity of the song in England has been so great that its fame has reached this country, and promises to be equally popular here. Messrs. Anthony and Harrison have made a splendid Record of the song and the great sale that it will have will do much to make the song well known here. Those who buy the Record because of the fame of the song will be delighted with the song itself and with the manner in which Anthony and Harrison have sung it. The Record is made with an orchestra accompaniment in keeping with the character of the song.

No. 9032, "Flag of Victory March," by the Edison Military Band, is a composition by F. von Blon, and better known to musicians by its German title, "Treue dem Siegbahnner." As a composer Mr. von Blon has a style entirely his own. This is one of his best compositions. It is both musical and stirring.

No. 9033, "Shame on You!" by Tascott, introduces a new artist to Phonograph owners, although one widely known as a vaudeville artist. Mr. Tascott is featured in vaudeville programmes as "Tascott, the shame on you." He is the originator of the "coon shout," and is inimitable in this particular line of work.

"Shame on You" was written by Chris Smith and John Larkins and has this chorus:

"Jawn Johnson! Shame on you!
You can't preach and rob a safe!
You might fool me now and then,
But you don't buy fowl at two a. m.
I know what I'm talking about
And I wants the people here to find you out
So they can all stand up and shout 'Shame on you!'"

No. 9034, "Good Bye, Sweet Marie," by Harry MacDonough, is a new composition by Will D. Cobb, who also wrote "Good-Bye, Dolly Gray," and "Good-Bye, Little Girl, Good-Bye." The music is by Kerry Mills, composer of "Georgia Camp Meeting", and "Fare Thee Well, Molly Darling." It follows that the collaboration of two such well-known men has brought forth a sentimental ballad of unusual merit. This song has been called by many the greatest soldier song ever written. It is finely sung by Mr. MacDonough, and has an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9035, "Two Little Bullfinches Polka," is a clarinet duet by Rubel and Tuson, and the first one ever made for the Edison Catalogue. The selection is of an entertaining character and exceptionally well rendered. Our orchestra furnishes a fine background to the soloists. This composition was written by H. Kling.

No. 9036 "Antony and Cleopatra," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a talking and singing selection with orchestral incidental music and other descriptive effects. "Antony and Cleopatra" is a Shakespearian travesty. This style of humorous entertainment has been made popular by Ross and Fenton, the well-known vaudeville artists. Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer give a decidedly amusing rendition of the subject. It is entirely different from either of the two previously listed selections by these artists, and no collection of Records will be complete without it.

No. 9037, "Me an' de Minstrel Ban'," by Billy Murray, is a coon song by James Vaughan and Alexander Rogers. It sings of the darkey boy's ambitions for the minstrel band and parade. A novel effect is the introduction of a regular minstrel band and parade of the minstrel troupe. Taken as a whole, the Record is quite different from other Records made by Mr. Murray.

No. 9038, "Alpine Violets," by Jaudas and Rose, with piano accompaniment, is a violin and flute duet. Something similar in character to previously listed duets by these artists and just as sweet and pretty. The steady progress of our Recording Department is evidenced in the tone and quality attained in this selection. Ludwig André is the composer.

No. 9039, "He Looks Just Like His Mother," by Byron G. Harlan, is a song by James Thornton that is full of human interest and written in the vein which Mr. Harlan has been so successful in interpreting. Mr. Thornton has written numerous successes, "When You Were Sweet Sixteen" being among the most noted. The song has this chorus:

"He looks just like his mother,
The same soft silky hair,
And when I look into his eyes,
I see her image there.
It seems as if she's watching,
The touch comes me a tear,
He looks just like his mother dear
When she was living here."

No. 9040, "I Need Thee Every Hour," by MacDonough and Belding, is a fine Record of this standard sacred selection and one that will always be in demand. The music of this hymn was written by Robert Lowry and the words by Anne S. Hawkes. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment and is an excellent addition to the Records previously made by these artists.

No. 9041, "American Fantasie," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition by Victor Herbert that is too well known among those familiar with band music to need description. It is one of Mr. Herbert's best appreciated compositions. The music is patriotic in character.

No. 9042, "The Goose-Bone Man," by Arthur Collins, has been styled "a coon white." The goose-bone man is a prophet. In this Record he prophesies everything down to when to lay in your winter's coal" Mr. Collins makes much of the subject and introduces a stormy scene prepositioned by the goose-bone, which for fury gives the real thing cards and spades. Thomas S. Allen, who wrote this song, will be remembered as the writer of "Any Rags," and other hits.

No. 9043, "Sambo and Dinah," by Miss Nelson and Mr. Stanley, is a contralto and baritone duet with orchestra accompaniment of very catchy and tuneful duet. Miss Nelson and Mr. Stanley give a finished rendition to the song, the orchestra contributing its full share. It is something on the order of "Deed I Do" (our Record No. 8133) and ought to be equally popular.

No. 9044, "Down in Blossom Row Medley," by Albert Benzler, is a xylophone solo, with orchestra accompaniment, introducing "Down in Blossom Row" (our Record No. 9001), "Susan Van Dozen" (our Record No. 9012) and "On a Summer Night" (our Record No. 9021). Particular attention is called to the orchestral accompaniment, which is embellished to a high degree.

No. 9045, "Song of the Turnkey," by Frank C. Stanley, is a very fine Record of the well-known hasso song from the comic opera "Rob Roy," written by Reginald De Koven. This is the first hasso solo by Mr. Stanley in some time,—a line of work for which he is well fitted in both voice and style.

No. 9046, "Now What Do You Think of That?" by Bob Roberts, is a rollicking comic song written in six-eight tempo, particularly appropriate to the jingly lyrics. It has a catchy swinging tune. J. R. Mullen and Frank Fogerty are responsible for the music and words. The Record gives four verses and four choruses, the tropical character of which are shown by the first verse and chorus as follows:

"A fellow sat upon a bench, his sweetheart by his side,
He asked her if she wouldn't like to be his little bride,

"Oh, don't get snarky," she replied, "it grates upon my ear,
Be nice, and I will always be a sister to you, dear."
Cho.—Now what d'ye think of that?
What d'ye think of that?
"I'll have myself," he said, "if you refuse."
She said, "Don't do it on our ground."
For ya don't want you hanging round."
So he went down a block.
Now what d'ye think of that?

No. 9047, "Songs My Mammy Sang to Me," by Ada Jones, is a song that has been considerably used by Andrew Mack and J. W. Kelly, and is always very popular with their audiences. It has a charming, pathetic air. Miss Jones sings it in perhaps the most artistic manner of any Record that she has made for the Edison Phonograph. It is a Record that must be heard to be fully appreciated. It is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9048, "I Wonder if You Miss Me," is another fine Record by the Edison Male Quartette. The Records by these artists increase in popularity every month. This new one will be quite as popular as those previously made. The first and second tenor sing the verse as a duet and then the quartette takes up the chorus. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra. This composition was written by Ted Snyder.

No. 9049, "Ev'ry Little Bit Helps Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces five popular songs previously listed: "Every Little Bit Helps" (our Record No. 9016); "You're My Heart's Desire, I Love You, Nellie Dear" (our Record No. 9013); "Paddy's Day" (our Record No. 9009); "Sweet Maid Divine" (our Record No. 9018) and "Hey! Mister Joshua" (our Record No. 9007).

160 NEW MEXICAN SELECTIONS.

Listed below are the remaining 160 of the 303 Mexican Records, the masters for which were made by our experts in Mexico more than a year ago. These titles will appear in the next editions of the Foreign and Numerical Record catalogues. They will also appear in a special catalogue of Mexican selections. This catalogue has been prepared especially for use in Mexico and Cuba, but a small additional supply has been printed for use in the States bordering on Mexico, which have a considerable Mexican population.

QUICK WORK.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 1, 1905.

Opened my new store Saturday to fine business. Sold out stock of Edison Phonographs before 8 P. M., including Triumphs, Homes and Standards.

W. J. KELLEA,
103 South Pearl street.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. We plan to print about 10,000 more than we have orders for when we go to press, five weeks in advance of the month of issue, but frequently these are soon used up with extra orders.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

Blank, per 100 copies.....$ .25

Imprinting, 25 cents additional for each imprint, without regard to quantity. On this basis 500 copies cost $1.50 and 1,000 copies cost $2.75.

No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Most Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

By Mail.

Single copies, per year.....$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year..... .90
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year..... 1.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year.... 3.60

Unless Jobbers open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

IN CUBA ALSO.

A representative of our Foreign Department now traveling in Cuba and Porto Rico, recently wrote concerning an incident of his travels as follows:

Our customer in one of the interior towns has a ——— machine, which he won in a raffle, and he wanted some friends to judge as to the merits of the two machines. So we arranged to have a little concert at his store in the evening. The disc machine and the Standard Phonograph were placed several feet apart on the counter, both facing the door, and pieces were played on each alternately. Among his friends was a gentleman who desired to purchase a machine, but was undecided as to which he preferred. After playing the machines quite a while, during which a large crowd had congregated in front of the store, reaching almost to the middle of the street, several pieces were played successively on the disc machine, when some one in the crowd outside said: "Now play some on the other machine," this demand being seconded by a little shaver who had secured a position of advantage by climbing a nearby lamp-post, who said: "Yes, that's ours—the one that says 'Edisonian.'" Both the crowd outside and those within the store had a laugh at the little fellow's expense, but the encore given the Record played in obedience to his wish, as well as the fact that the party who was undecided ordered a Standard Phonograph, which was added to our customer's initial order, showed the little fellow's opinion to be about the sanest as that of the other's present."

FOR TUNING PHONOGRAPH RECORDS.

W. H. Miller, manager of the Recording Department of the National Phonograph Co., has been granted a patent for a method of tuning Phonograph Records, described as follows:

In making talking machine records for sale it is important that the masters from which duplicates are obtained should be secured at a standard surface speed, which at the present time with Edison Records is about one hundred and sixty-four revolutions per minute. In this way when the reproducing machine is properly adjusted musical selections can be reproduced in the exact key in which the original music was played in order that the best effects may be secured. If there is a relatively small difference in the surface speed of the masters, a perceptible variation in the key of the reproduction is observed, and to secure the best effect therefore a separate adjustment of the reproducing machine would be required for each selection. Consequently it is commercially important that the masters should be obtained at the same surface speed, and it is therefore necessary that some effective way should be suggested by which the tuning of any Phonograph or other talking machines can be readily effected, whether for the taking of the masters or for the reproduction of the complete record.

The present invention presents a method of this character which has been successfully used in practice for some time.

In carrying the invention into effect take a standard talking machine, for example, and adjusts its regulating mechanism so that its mandrel will turn at the desired speed. This adjustment may be effected by timing the mandrel shaft in the usual way, and by carefully adjusting the regulating mechanism until the desired speed is obtained. Now place on this standard machine as so regulated an ordinary blank and record thereon a certain selected sustained note—for instance, B flat—which may be produced by a simple reed or in any other way. This note as so recorded is preferably sustained at a continuous volume and for a considerable time, and may occupy substantially the entire record in the record at any point to sound the standard note. The record so formed constitutes a key by which the tuning of other talking machines can be effected, and, if desired, it may be duplicated in any suitable way to obtain a large number of copies. When a talking machine has to be tuned, whether for recording or reproducing, one of the key records or duplicates thereof is placed on the Phonograph and a reproducer engaged therewith, so as to sound a single continuous note. A reed keyed to the same pitch—for example, B flat—is now sounded, and the adjusting mechanism of the machine is so regulated as to bring the note sounded by the talking machine in exact equality with the note sounded by the reed. When these two notes are exactly the same, the speed of the talking machine will correspond exactly to the standard speed of the original machine. This tuning can be effected with great accuracy, owing to the delicacy of the ear, and with great rapidity. Prior to this invention the tuning of talking machines was effected by counting the revolutions of the mandrel; but such an operation was tedious and relatively uncertain.

COLLINS AND HARLAN AT MILWAUKEE.

In its report of the Merchants and Manufacturers Exposition at Milwaukee, the Music Trades said:

One of the most interesting features of the exposition is the making of Phonograph Records, in connection with the exhibit of the McGreal Bros., agents for the Edison line. It is an unusual opportunity to see two men whose voices have been made familiar through the medium of the Phonograph, while the men themselves were in New York, and were the original producers of the darkey laugh and negro dialect. Consequently, a large crowd surrounded Arthur Collins and Byron G. Harlan, who, with heads close together, sang into the mouth of an octagonal horn, and then stood by while the Records were placed in a Phonograph and reproduced. Both are men of splendid physique and strong voices, and their work is a practical demonstration of the statement that the Phonograph "listens as well as talks." Mr. Harlan and Mr. Collins are both employed in the Edison Laboratory of New York, and are two of the most successful makers of Phonograph Records in the country. Their duets and solos are reproduced throughout the country. Mr. Harlan having a tenor voice and Mr. Collins a baritone.

Mr. Collins, when asked how many Records he and Mr. Harlan had made, replied: "Millions of them. I have been in the business eight years and Mr. Harlan has been at it five or six. There are not many people who make a success of it, owing to the fact that it requires an iron throat, powerful lungs and a peculiar singing voice. Then, care must be given to the most minute details and every word has to be pronounced distinctly, with every vowel and consonant accurately enunciated.

"Naturally, the work which we do here is crude. In New York we have an orchestra assisting and no Record is sent out unless it is absolutely perfect. A mispronounced word or a blast throws the Record out."

THE OLD STORY.

Under date of May 13, the H. M. Holleman Co., Jobbers at Houston, Tex., wrote:

"Sometime ago you sent us address of H———, Houston, Tex. We communicated with him, and also sent representative to interview him, but without success. He purchased a ——— outfit for $45. Yesterday we played a Home in competition with his machine, rendering some of the same selections he had purchased with his disc machine, with the result that he made us a proposition to exchange. We finally traded him a $55 Edison outfit, allowing him $20 for his machine. As a rule, we do not care to trade, and this is our first acceptance of a disc machine, but we were very anxious to take up this sale, inasmuch as the disc dealer had not given us a fair deal in handing the first sale."

A BANNER JULY.

From all sides come reports of the biggest business in Edison Phonographs and Records ever known at this season of the year. The trade everywhere states that the demand for Edison goods has continued brisk, the advent of hot weather having nothing like its usual effect upon business. Dealers who usually set aside their Phonograph and Record trade in summer and devote their time to pushing goods of an out-door character, such as bicycles, sporting goods, etc., write that the demand for Phonographs and Records has been so constant they have not found it necessary or desirable to give so much attention to other lines. Orders received at our factory bear out these reports of Jobbers and Dealers. It would be idle to assert that orders are as heavy as in cooler weather, for they are not, but the falling off is nothing like that of past years, at the same season. The present volume would have been considered large business at the busiest period two years ago. The advance orders for July Records were ninety per cent. of the June orders, and the latter month has only been exceeded twice since the Phonograph was invented. The quality of the August list will do much to insure a heavy demand and the advance orders will probably equal those for July. Every selection on the list is good, and even if their patrons are away on vacations just now or will be later, no Dealer can afford to be without his usual stock of new Records. Just as soon as his people get back they will certainly want a lot of them.

It is a little early to place orders for fall goods, but it is not too early to think over the general situation and decide just how you intend pushing the business when cooler weather comes. It is just as well, too, to remember that those who place their fall orders early get better service than those who put it off later, when everybody wants goods.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR AUGUST, 1905.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near August 1st as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if received prior to July 10th, will be shipped. August Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock order for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

RETURN PROPOSITION TO BE WITHDRAWN JULY 5th, 1905.

The following letter has just been mailed to the entire trade in the United States:

NOTICE TO DEALERS.

New York, June 27, 1905.

We hereby notify you that on July 5th, 1905, the offer contained in our letter of May 25th, Form 702, relating to RETURNS OR EXCHANGE, CRACKED OR DEFECTIVE RECORDS will be withdrawn. After that date WE WILL NOT TAKE BACK, OR ACCEPT FOR CREDIT OR EXCHANGE, RECORDS OF ANY DESCRIPTION WHATEVER, unless it be such as are mechanically defective; and, they must not be returned until you have first written us advising the quantity to be returned, also the nature of the defects, and obtained our permission to return them.

Yours very truly,

C. H. WILSON,
Manager of Sales.

In explanation of this notice we would say that it has been found necessary because of the unwillingness of the trade to comply with the provisions laid down in our letter of May 25th for the control and regulation of the matter. A return proposition is always troublesome to handle satisfactorily, and without the co-operation of all parties it is impossible. We had hoped that the plan would be a material benefit to the trade and regret that circumstances make its repeal necessary.

RECORD SHIPPING MEMORANDUM.

With every shipment of Records now made from our factory is included a memorandum, showing what numbers and how many of each make up the shipment. The advantage of this plan is apparent to every consignee. If he keeps a list of Records on order with the factory he has but to check his shipping memorandum against this list to know just what Records are due him, should his order have been shipped short.

MEDIOCRITY NO LONGER SATISFIES.

One of the encouraging signs of the times is the popular demand for good entertainment. We use the term good comprehensively. The mediocrity that has sometimes prevailed no longer satisfies. Take for instance the rapid improvement that has been made in the Edison Phonograph. Instruments can now be had as low as ten or fifteen dollars that outclass for parlor or porch amusement anything known a few years ago for ten times the price. The Gold Moulded Records can now be procured for the astounding low price of 35c. each. They reproduce all the beauties of the voice or orchestra, for which opera houses charge prices almost forbidding, if you wish to hear the same pieces rendered by the artists themselves.—National Magazine for July.

25 SWEDISH RECORDS.

On page 3 of this issue are listed 25 Edison Gold Moulded Records of Swedish songs and Swedish instrumental music. There are 18 solos, 3 duets and 5 band selections. During the past two years we have had many requests from all parts of the country for a list of Swedish selections. Our Recording Department has been continually searching for artists of the right ability to make such a list of Records, and the opportunity came recently, when they secured Magda E. Dahl, soprano, Arvid Asplund, tenor, and Albert Arvesehoug, baritone, all Swedish singers of the first rank. The instrumental selections were made by the Edison Military Band, especial care being taken to play them in the characteristic Swedish style. All of the singers were accompanied by the Edison Symphony Orchestra. The trade may offer these Records to their Swedish patrons with the assurance that they are made by splendid talent and with the usual care of our Recording Department. Shipments of Jobbers' orders will be made about July 15th. Dealers having Swedish patrons should place advance orders with their Jobbers.

Jobbers will be supplied upon request with a limited number of special supplements of these Records, which will be shipped with the Records. The edition being printed is one-tenth the edition of regular supplements and Jobbers should order in about the same proportion.

ELECTROS OF MONTHLY LIST.

A number of Jobbers and Dealers asked us to get out electros of the monthly list of Edison Records as suggested by J. H. Lepper last month, and we have had a quantity made. One will be mailed to any Dealer upon receipt of thirty cents in stamps. Those having open accounts need not remit. These electros will be made each month as long as the trade desire them.

NO. 8274 ALSO CUT FROM CATALOGUE.

Through an oversight Record No. 8274, "L'Enfante March," banjo solo by Van Eps, was not included in the list of cut out selections issued February 17, 1905, Form No. 663. It has been dropped from all catalogues and the trade is asked to accept this paragraph as a notice of the fact.

While on your summer vacation, Mr. Dealer, make up your mind to stock up early for fall business.

TO AGAIN ASSURE THE TRADE.

The following letter and copy of the stay of injunction in the case of the New York Phonograph Co. against the National Phonograph Co. have just been mailed to the trade in the United States. They explain themselves.

THE LETTER.

Orange, N. J., June 9, 1905.

Dear Sir:—

We have had our attention called to a notice which the New York Phonograph Company has sent to Jobbers and Dealers in the State of New York in reference to the suit brought by them to enjoin this company from dealing in Phonographs and supplies in that State. The notice in question has also been disseminated by other companies claiming similar rights in other localities.

The order for the injunction referred to in said notice was stayed by an order of the court, as appears from the copy which follows. An appeal having been taken from the decision of the lower court, the stay is continued and all other proceedings are suspended, pending final disposition of the case by the Circuit Court of Appeals. If the Court of Appeals should finally hold that the New York Company is entitled to an accounting, that will be a matter for the National Company to settle, and Jobbers and Dealers throughout the State of New York and elsewhere cannot be held accountable to the New York Company, or any other parties claiming similar rights, for the obvious reason that damages cannot be exacted twice for the same cause of action. So far as concerns other companies outside the State of New York claiming similar rights, it is sufficient to say that no suit has progressed beyond the mere formality of filing the usual bill of complaint. In any event, we repeat the assurance which we have always cheerfully given, that we stand back of our Jobbers and Dealers to the fullest extent, and that we hold ourselves ready to defend, at our expense, any action which may be brought against them for violation of any patent, or similar rights, in connection with our goods, and to pay any damages which may be assessed therein, provided that in the event of such a suit, the matter be immediately turned over to us, to be handled by our own attorney.

Yours very truly,

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH COMPANY,
W. E. GILMORE, President.

THE STAY.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, held in the court room in the Post Office Building in the County of New York, on the second day of May, 1905.

Present: Honorable John R. Hazel,
U. S. Judge.

New York Phonograph Co., Complainant,
vs.
Thomas A. Edison, Edison Phonograph Company, Edison Phonograph Works, and the National Phonograph Company, Defendants.

Order Staying injunction.

A decree for an injunction in favor of the complainant, New York Phonograph Company, and against defendant, National Phonograph Company, in the above entitled suit in equity having been made and filed herewith, it is Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed that the said injunction against the said defendant, National Phonograph Company, be and the same hereby is stayed till the first day of July, 1905; that if on or before the said first day of July, 1905, said defendant, National Phonograph Company, shall have perfected an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, from said decree for an injunction and shall on or before that date have filed a bond in the office of the clerk of this court in an amount, and with surety approved by the complainant's counsel or fixed and approved by this court, and bond to be conditioned upon the payment to complainant by defendant, National Phonograph Company, in case the said decree shall be affirmed by the said United States Circuit Court of Appeals of all profits which shall be made by or which accrue to said defendant, National Phonograph Company, and of all damages which shall be sustained by complainant, New York Phonograph Company, by reason of this stay of the said injunction, then this stay is continued till the first day of the next term of said United States Circuit Court of Appeals; that if then said appeal is docketed and noticed for hearing by defendant, National Phonograph Company, as a preferred cause, this stay is continued till the hearing, decision and mandate of said United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

It is further ordered that the bond hereinbefore referred to be in the amount of $20,000.

JOHN R. HAZEL,
U. S. J.

BEGINS ITS SECOND YEAR.

With the July issue the New Phonogram begins its second year. Notwithstanding its diminutive size, its first year has been most successful. The edition of the first issue in July, 1904, was 90,000 copies. The edition has increased every month, 230,000 copies being printed for July, 1905. We believe that the Phonogram has been an important factor in the remarkable increase of the demand for Edison Phonographs and Records in the past year. Its three principal features—the descriptions of new Records, its "Questions and Answers" department and the pictures of the artists who make Edison Records—have caused it to be eagerly sought by the public. These features will be continued without change through at least another volume.

Dealers who have put in the entire list of Edison Records, (domestic selections) report that it has been a profitable move. It is worth the consideration of every enterprising Edison Dealer.

RECORDS MADE OVER UNDER NEW CONDITIONS.

The new edition of the catalogue of domestic selections will show that since the issuance of the April edition, Form No. 670, a considerable number of titles have been made over under new conditions. The old moulds of these selections were either worn out or were not up to the standard. The new moulds have been made in the most up-to-date manner by our Recording Department, and Records made from them will be found equal to any made for the Monthly Supplement. Some of the new moulds are already in use and after July 15th all orders for these numbers will be filled under the new conditions. The new Record Catalogue will show the changes but the attention of the public will not be specially called to them. This will give the trade time to dispose of the stock they have on hand. This announcement will only appear in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. The trade will do well to carry an increased stock of these selections and point out to their customers that they are equal to those shown on the Monthly Supplement.

PRINTED MATTER.

In addition to the usual number of Record supplements for July we are sending every Jobber an equal quantity of a circular referring to the July list and intended for general distribution in channels not covered by the supplements. The edition of these circulars is 3 million, and we hope that by July 10th they will be in a million homes in the United States, silently asking their readers who own Phonographs to hear the July list and offering an argument to non-owners why they should join the vast army who find in the Phonographs their greatest source of entertainment. A copy of this circular has just been mailed to all Dealers. Jobbers are asked to distribute the supply sent them where they will do the most good, giving their Dealers a proper share. Getting out these circulars is something of an experiment, and if they prove the assistance to the trade that we anticipate a similar one will be printed for August.

The lithographed steel sign, showing the portrait of Mr. Edison, has been received by the trade with many expressions of pleasure and numerous complimentary letters have been written concerning it.

The July Record Bulletin appears with a new design at the head, printed in black and red. The words "Now Ready" are the most striking features of the head and are intended to notify the passerby that the Records for the month are on sale.

After many delays we can now definitely promise that the new numerical catalogue, Form 720, will be mailed to the trade within the next two weeks. This will include every Edison Record now catalogued to and including July and also including the complete Mexican list and the Swedish list printed in this issue. From it will be omitted all cut out selections. We may now explain that the principal reason for deferring the issuance of this catalogue was to get in it the entire Mexican list and the Swedish list, both of which have been in preparation for some time.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

For the third time in three years the Price Phonograph Company, Brooklyn, has been obliged to move its Broadway store to larger quarters. The new store at 1260 Broadway, one door above the present store at 1258 Broadway, is fifty feet longer than the old store and will be the largest store of its kind in the city. There will be eight private Record testing rooms fitted up in the most luxurious manner with electric lights and fans, besides a large general testing room. Other improvements include a private office where the details of business may be transacted quietly; a large display and stock room where at least fifty machines and over 100 different styles of horns of every description are kept constantly on hand. In the wholesale department 50,000 Edison Gold Moulded Records will be kept. This is the sixth store the Price Company has fitted up and is the finest of the lot. Their other stores are at 5318 Third avenue; 600 Grand street, Brooklyn, and 203 Main street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. Price recently sold his sporting goods store in Jamaica to the J. B. Cooper Phonograph Co.

The H. M. Holleman Co., Houston, Texas, has been succeeded by the Texas Phonograph Co.

TALKING EDISON ALL THE TIME.

SELMA, N. C., June 3, 1905.

You can at all times rest assured that your product will be well pushed and your interest carefully guarded in my hands. I have tried them all; I am yet holding on to the Edison, and talking Edison all the time. What reason would I have not to do so? Again promising you my local support, and that I will thoroughly keep your goods before the public,

ROBERT E. SNIPES,

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR AUGUST, 1908.

A notable feature of the August list is the fact that it introduces some very clever talent to the many thousands of Phonograph owners. The statement that Miss Clarice Vance has been induced to sing some of her song hits for the Phonograph will delight all patrons of the leading vaudeville houses. Her first presentation is "Mariar," in which she has scored a great success. The Knickerbocker Quintette will be heard with great pleasure. Their singing of "The Rosary," in which they make their initial appearance, is delightful. Edgar L. Davenport, whose first Edison Record is given in the August list, is well known from Maine to California as a comedy actor of the first rank. His work in "The College Widow" during the past season will be recalled with pleasure by all who saw that jolly comedy. Much more might be said of the ability of all of this new Edison talent than we have space to give to it. For quality and variety the August list has never been excelled.

No. 9050, "Oberon Overture," by the Edison Concert Band, is a selection of the better class of music and a composition found on all first-class musical programmes. It was written by Weber. The Edison Concert Band has transferred the composition to our Record in an unusually fine manner.

No. 9051, "Mariar," by Miss Clarice Vance, introduces to the Phonograph public a new singer in the person of Miss Vance, who is one of the most widely known artistes in vaudeville. She is a top line feature in all vaudeville theatres, and is one of their most popular performers. Her work is always finished and never boisterous. While this Record is not as loud as many others, we feel sure that it will find many admirers. The Record shows Miss Vance in one of her big successes, and the song is given in her characteristic style. "Mariar" is a farmer's serenade. The music is by Moss Gumble and the words by Harry Williams. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9052, "The Rosary," is made by the Knickerbocker Quintette, a new organization. This is its first Edison Record. It is probably the only time that a quintette Record has been made of Nevin's beautiful song "The Rosary." The Knickerbocker Quintette is known throughout the realm of vaudeville as the "Original Spook Minstrels." It is composed of: Parvin White, first tenor; Charles H. Bates, second tenor; G. de V. O'Hara, first baritone; Wallace C. White, second baritone; Leon Parmet, basso. The singing of this Quintette is quite different from the work of the ordinary groups of singers. It is of a character that will be found very pleasing. The music of "The Rosary" was written by Ethelbert Nevin, and the words by Robert Cameron Rogers.

No. 9053 "Jim Bludsoe" is by Edgar L. Davenport, another late addition to the talent making Edison Records. His first Record will show to the Phonograph public that he is a most valuable acquisition. "Jim Bludsoe" is a descriptive Mississippi poem written by the Hon. John Hay, Secretary of State. It is rendered by Mr. Davenport in a manner that shows he is a finished elocutionist. It has been many months since we put out a Record of this character, and we believe that the public will agree with us that we have been most fortunate in securing the service of Mr. Davenport to make it. Mr. Davenport is an actor of wide repute, having played leading parts in many plays during the past few years. His last appearance in the "legitimate" was in the "College Widow." During the summer season he is playing in vaudeville. He opened at the Empire Theatre, Boston, on May 29th, and has since been a prominent feature of the best vaudeville houses.

No. 9054, "Dearie," by Harry MacDonough, is one of the most popular numbers in Frank Daniels' musical farce, "Sergeant Brue," in which it is sung by Miss Sallie Fisher. It is a ballad of the sentimental order and is successfully sung by Mr. MacDonough with orchestra accompaniment. "Dearie" is the work of Clare Kummer.

No. 9055, "Take a Car," by Collins and Harlan, is a comic waltz song suitable to the summer season. It is sung in the usual clever manner of Messrs. Collins and Harlan, and introduces various characteristic effects which must be heard to be appreciated. This song was produced by Rose and Snyder. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9056, "Bewitching Beauty," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a new composition by J. C. Heed. It is a light summery number, melodious, and with catchy light figures for all the instruments.

No. 9057, "Who's There," by Arthur Collins, is a new coon song by Smith and Brown, writers of "Shame on You." It tells a funny story and gives Mr. Collins a good opportunity for his particular line of work. The orchestra accompaniment adds to the attractiveness of the Record.

No. 9058, "Saved By Grace," by MacDonough and Biebling, is a Record of this well-known sacred hymn by George C. Stebbins and Fanny J. Crosby. It is given with excellent effect by these duettists. It is listed in response to many requests. Chimes are introduced into the interlude and the orchestra accompanies the Record throughout.

No. 9059, "Cleopatra Finnegan," by the Edison Military Band, was written by Neil Moret, composer of "Hiawatha" and other well-known selections, who styles his latest effort as "an Afro-Celtic Intermezzo." It is a sparkling number and with a vein of humor running through it. The oboe is very effective in the beginning.

No. 9060, "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me," by Miss Ada Jones, is a sentimental song by Theodore Morse and Jack Drislane. A pretty melody and story by these writers of numerous songs that have hit the popular fancy. Miss Jones, always interesting and entertaining, gives an especially fine version of the song, assisted by the orchestra.

No. 9061, "Violette," by Harlan and Stanley, is a new soldier march song that has made rapid progress in public favor during the past three months. It introduces Miss Daisy Donlin as "Violette," something new and novel in this style of selection and adding much to the effectiveness of the story, which Messrs. Harlan and Stanley tell in their usual interesting manner. This song is written by J. B. Mullen and Dolly Jardon.

No. 9062, "Peter Piper," is a xylophone solo by Albert Benzler, with orchestra accompaniment. It is one of Mr. Benzler's best efforts. Xylophone solos are always popular and "Peter Piper" is an excellent addition to those listed in our catalogue. The music is by S. R. Henry.

No. 9063, "My Irish Molly O," by Billy Murray, is another popular hit from Frank Daniels' musical farce, "Sergeant Brue." It is Murray's voice is well fitted to this character of song and he renders it in good style. Jean Schwartz and William Jerome are the writers of this composition.

No. 9064, "Louis and Lena at Luna Park," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a talking and singing duet which will equal if it does not exceed the popularity achieved by "Heinie," made by the same artists. It has all the attractive catchiness of "Heinie" and besides has descriptive effects of its own. As its title indicates, the scene is laid at Luna Park, Coney Island. Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer are excellent in this bit of acting and singing. Miss Jones sings "Meet Me Down at Luna Park," and Mr. Spencer joins in the chorus. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9065, "Pearl of California" is a bells solo by Albert Benzler, with orchestra accompaniment. The music is written in song and dance tempo, the same as the most popular of Mr. Benzler's bells solos, and the Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The composer is Edwin Ortelle.

No. 9066, "Just Across the Bridge of Gold," by Byron G. Harlan, is a ballad that has rapidly risen into popularity, and for which we have had a big demand. The writers, Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew Sterling, are identified with many successes in this and past seasons. Mr. Harlan gives the pathetic story, with its appealing musical setting, in a manner to win favor at once. He is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9067, "Every Dollar Carries Troubles of Its Own," is by Bob Roberts, and as usual, Mr. Roberts makes a lot of this coon selection, which tells a comic story. It is topical in a way, referring to a number of well-known people, on topics familiar to the public. Those familiar with Mr. Roberts' Records will realize how cleverly he can sing one with the above title. The orchestra accompanies the singer. Leighton and Leighton wrote the words and the music.

No. 9068, "Presentation March," by the Edison Military Band, is a first-class march with good swing and melody. Its composer is E. Doring.

No. 9069, "In the Evening by the Moonlight," by Edison Male Quartette, is a popular standard old number, much called for, and one that is always heard with pleasure. It is splendidly sung by the Edison Male Quartette. The words and music of this song were written by James Bland.

No. 9070, "Would You Care?" by Irving Gillette, is Charles K. Harris's latest love ballad, and one that will probably be one of his biggest successes. It has already achieved a wide popularity and will be much sung in the coming fall and winter. Mr. Gillette makes the Record in his usual fine manner and is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9071, "Message of the Old Church Bell," by Harry Anthony, is a beautiful descriptive song rendered in Mr. Anthony's best vein; one that will be attractive for a long time to come. It is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music of the song was written by Manuel Romain and the words by Leighton and Leighton.

No. 9072, "Mississippi Minstrels," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces the end men, Billy Murray and Len Spencer, and a descriptive song by Harry MacDonough, "There is a Light in the Window," with quartette chorus and orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9073, "Now What D'ye Think of That Medley," by the Edison Military Band, includes four recent popular songs as follows: "Now What D'ye Think of That," (our Record No. 9046); "Samba and Dinah" (our Record No. 9013); Good Bye, Sweet Marie" (our Record No. 9034); "Shame on You" (our Record No. 9033).

JULY RECORDS.

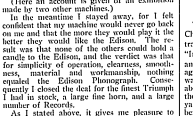
We wish to compliment you on the July Records. They are fine, and each month seems to be better and better.—J. G. Piper, Manager for Magruder & Co., Nashville, Tenn.

While we are only one of the small "fish", still we have ordered about twice as many as we generally do from the advanced samples, and if the National Phonograph Co. would list 24 Records every month like these samples, it would not be necessary for them to do any advertising at all. I can say right here that I have been in the Phonograph business for ten years but never before did I bear an assortment of 24 Records that could compare with those listed for the coming month.—Thomas Clancy, Manager Phonograph Department of the Conroy Piano Co., St. Louis.

WON OVER ALL COMPETITORS.

PORTLAND, ORE., June 6, 1905.

It gives me pleasure to write to you concerning a competition deal that I have just closed which goes to show that merit will always win out. The members of the line new firehouse, of whom there are eighteen, decided they wanted a Phonograph, and so sent on a committee to make the rounds. They happened to call upon me first and last Friday evening I proceeded over there with a fine Edison outfit. I gave them a real enjoyable entertainment, in the meantime acquainting them with the many superior qualities and talking points positively not to be found in any other talking machine. However, after the whole affair was over they were undecided, as a few thought they might prefer something else. I did not want to take my instrument away so told them I would leave it there and for them to give it a thorough test.



(Here an account is given of an exhibition made by two other machines.)

In the meantime I stayed away, for I felt confident that my machine would never go back on me and that the more they would play it the better they would like the Edison. The result was that none of the others could hold a candle to the Edison, and the verdict was that for simplicity of operation, clearness, smoothness, masterful and workmanship, nothing equaled the Edison Phonograph. Consequently I closed the deal for the finest Triumph I had in stock, a large fine horn, and a large number of Records.

As I stated above, it gives me pleasure to write to you concerning this deal, for it shows that it is an indisputable fact that there is positively nothing that can equal an Edison Phonograph when each kind of a machine is put to a severe test before the others. From the fact that there were eighteen purchasing the outfit and the opinion was virtually unanimous concerning the Edison is itself conclusive evidence that the Edison has no equal.

E. B. HYATT,
Portland Phonograph Agency.

KAISER'S TRANSPARENT SIGNS.

The above is a representation of an attractive illustrated transparent sign now being gotten out for trade use by L. Kaiser, of 32 East 14th street, New York City. Its wording tells its purpose. The signs are sold in sets of twelve—one for each month—for $1.20, carriage prepaid. Each sign is 15x25 inches in size and can be placed in position on glass doors or windows with small gum stickers. Being transparent, they can be read from either side, day or night. The first and last lines of the signs have white letters, the second and fourth lines are red and the middle line is gold color.

MR. COLLINS IS NOT A NEGRO.

Possibly because of his great success in singing coon and rag-time songs for the Edison Phonograph some people seem to have gained the impression that Arthur Collins is a colored man. Such an impression is naturally amusing to Mr. Collins. It is complimentary, however, to imitate the colored race so closely as to be mistaken for the real article.

WHO DID IT?

"We had a lot of fun on a train going to Chicago from Minneapolis last week," said a traveling man at the Coates House yesterday. "In the Pullman were a vaudeville performer and his wife and they had with them a Phonograph. When they retired the Phonograph was played in the upper berth. Next morning about 6.30 o'clock I heard a Phonograph, I thought. It sounded like one of those barn-yard selections. I stuck my head out of the berth and could see no one. Presently I heard the porter come down the aisle and stop at the berth of the vaudeville performer. "Who's running that Phonograph of mine?" asked the actor sharply, "they ain't nobody dat Ah knows of, sah," replied the porter. "Well, I heard it," said the actor. Then he got out of bed and looked into the upper berth. The Phonograph was there. The news that there was someone on the car who could imitate a Phonograph spread when all the berths were closed up, but no one acknowledged that it was he. As I left the car, however, I heard the Phonograph again, and, turning, discovered that the noise was coming from an old gray-haired Methodist minister who had the berth across from the actor and his wife. Now, who would have thought it?"

A SUGGESTION.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June 3, 1905.

We tried demonstrating in a store 25x40 feet, wood floor and ceiling, but brick walls. During our entire stay therein we were unable to get satisfactory results, the density of walls evidently deadening the sounds, hence deteriorating musical quality. We have recently moved into a store T shape, with entrance on two streets, covering three times the space, yet the Phonograph sounds excellent, the acoustic properties being superb. The new store has a stone floor, but plank ceiling and walls. If other dealers are having bad results in demonstrating, they should investigate their locations.

H. M. HOLLEMAN CO.

SOLD WITHOUT TRYING.

As illustrating the ease with which a Edison Phonograph may be sold, one of our salesmen, who has just returned from the South, relates an interesting incident of his recent trip. He was exhibiting a "Standard" machine with a large-sized horn, in the store of a merchant in one of the Southern towns for the purpose of inducing the merchant to become a Dealer in Edison goods. While he was playing the Phonograph, a darkey strolled into the store, attracted by the music, and silently listened while the demonstration was being made. In a quiet moment, he broke in "That's pretty good, Boss, how much is that machine worth?" He was told that the price of the outfit was $25. He immediately left the store and in a short time returned. Handing $25 to our salesman he said, "I'll take that machine, Boss." He was told that that particular machine was not for sale, but that one like it would be furnished him in a week. Upon the merchant agreeing to put in the line, the darkey's money was turned over to him to make delivery when his stock was received. The ability of the Phonograph to sell itself to an apparently poor negro had much to do with inducing the merchant to become a Dealer.

EXPORT BUSINESS.

Big developments may be looked for this year in the export demand for Phonographs, according to the manager of the Export Department of the National Phonograph Co., New York. "Until a year ago," he said, "we paid little attention to export possibilities, as our home demand was about all we could attend to. Nevertheless we received quite a few orders from abroad through export commission houses and from our general advertising. During the past year we have sent agents to various foreign countries to introduce our machines, and their success has been wonderful. We are going ahead on the plan of giving our foreign customers just what they want and have introduced 'local color' where possible by having Records made by foreign bands and singers right in the countries where we expect to sell the Records. We have sold thousands of machines in Mexico and Cuba and have an agent out now who is making a grand tour of South America. The Spanish speaking people in those countries are great lovers of music, consequently we sell more band Records and such than any other kind. We now have orchestras and singers in all parts of the world turning our Records so that we are prepared to handle any foreign demand that may arise. We expect this year's foreign business to be three or four times greater than that of last year, which in turn was more than twice as great as that of the year before."—Talking Machine World.

A GOOD LETTER.

The following is an excellent form letter used by an Edison Dealer in the West:

We are informed that you are interested in the Phonograph matter. So is every family. In no other way can you so easily and successfully entertain your friends, family and your neighbors as with an Edison outfit. A wonderful variety is possible: band marches, songs, whistlers, orchestra pieces, banjo, mandolin, bagpipe, bells, xylophone, bugles, chimes, clarinet, cornet, trombone, violins, flute, piano, piccolo, violin, zither, singing, talking, whistling, etc. One can never become weary of such a change of programs. You can have whatever you want whenever you want it. We have not yet seen the person who became tired of an Edison outfit. Once in your home you, would never be without it. Even the youngest child can operate it. It is a great educator of mould in the home. Every one who hears the late improved Phonographs pronounces it perfect in tone and reproduction, as well as mechanically. Every person expects to own an outfit sooner or later. Here is where we come in with our liberal proposition whereby you can own a machine at once for a very little.

We are doing the talking machine business of this part of the State. There is a reason for this. We carry the goods in stock all the time—the machines, the Records, the horns, the stands, the carrying cases, etc. The Phonographs run in price from $10 to $50, according to the style you choose. The $30 type is one of the most popular. Records are 35 cents each, cash. Horns run from $1 up to $5 is the popular sizes for home use.

TERMS—To any responsible adult person we will sell a machine at $1 per week without interest until paid in full. We also permit reliable parties to take an outfit out on a week's trial free of charge. We pay all freight charges on machines, also on Records when bought in quantities of 12 at a dozen at a time. We allow a customer when he first purchases a machine to select an assortment of Records from with him from us to make his selections among the people directly interested with the distinct advantage of hearing them on your own machine. Such assortments may be taken out for a week or two until your first choices have been made. After that there is absolutely no exchange permissible, nor do we allow Records to be taken out on approval, nor under no circumstances will we issue Records for any occasion. We do not rent outfits for any consideration; it is cheaper for you to buy than to rent. The Edison Records are made only in the Phonograph, but not to the Records, horns, stands and other accessories. Before any purchase is asked to sign a chattel lease showing that you are the owners of the machine until paid for in full by yourself. This is required of us by the terms of our agreement with the factory. No Records are given with the machine. For the small 12-inch fees that comes with the machine we allow you $1 in exchange for a Record, which you may select. Defective Records are returned, but one at a time. There is positively no discount permitted on Records. Please do not mention all these little matters, because we can answers to questions that are asked us every day. We are glad to answer any queries. Correspondence is earnestly solicited and will be fully and promptly attended to by the proprietor personally.

Wherever possible we like to have the intending purchaser call at the store. It will pay you well here for himself the best there is in the world of entertaining your wife and children along if you are fortunate enough to possess any. If not, bring your friends with you. Come anyway; whether you are in the market for an outfit just at present or not. You will enjoy the concerts just the same. Again we invite you to call and favor the perfect talking machines. You will be convinced that there is but one good machine—the Edison.

It pays to make up a list of Phonograph owners and mail them a Record supplement each month.

THE SUCCESS OF THE O. K. HOUCK PIANO CO.

In May a large music house in a Western city wrote to the O. K. Houck Piano Co., at Memphis, Tenn., asking their advice in the matter of jobbing Edison goods. The letter of inquiry and the reply of the O K. Houck Piano Co. are printed in full, with the cordial consent of the latter.

THE INQUIRY.

We are thinking of becoming a jobber of Edison Phonographs and Records. Have you increased your business since you took on the line, and from your experience would you advise us to take it up?

THE REPLY.

Gentlemen:—Answering your letter of the 9th inst., would state that a little over a year ago we put in a Dealer's stock of Edison Phonographs.

Our first order was very small, and if we remember aright, it did not come to over $600. We had at that time no idea of the possibilities of the business and put in the small line mentioned purely as an experiment. Upon getting our stock arranged we inserted a small advertisement in the papers acquainting the public with the fact that we had put in a stock of the Edison goods and invited them to visit our store and hear new Records, etc. We also made a small display of the goods in one of our front windows. We were simply astonished at the way the goods sold and immediately telegraphed for more machines and sent mail orders for additional Records.

We soon began to appreciate the possibilities of the business if worked on a large scale, so our next move was to build an exclusive talking machine room with special fixtures for the accommodation of Edison Records. We put a young man in charge of the Record stock, his business being to do nothing but try over Records for either intending purchasers or patrons of our house. Up to this time we had been handling the goods only as dealers, but the demand for the Edison goods had then increased to such a point that we felt justified in becoming Jobbers in the goods, and some six months ago we took on the jobbing agency.

Our business in the Edison product has gradually grown to such proportions that a little over a month ago we leased a store at No. 160 South Second street, about two blocks from our Main street establishment, for the exclusive purpose of selling talking machines at wholesale. This wholesale department will be run entirely separate from our retail department. It will have its own office force, will find all wholesale orders and handle its own correspondence independently of our Main street house. This is what we have done in Memphis alone.

Last December we moved into our new St. Louis house, having five floors and a basement. We have devoted the entire third floor and most of the basement there to our talking machine business and carry a very large stock of the Edison product. Our St. Louis business in this line has exceeded our most sanguine expectation.

At our Little Rock house we have a large portion of one floor devoted to our talking machine department. Our Edison business at this point is proving very satisfactory.

We opened our Nashville house on March 6th last, and carry there a complete line of the Edison goods. Although the Nashville department has been running only a trifle over two months, still our talking machine business there has already reached a figure that we would have deemed satisfactory if the business had been established a year.

We have gone into this matter at considerable length and in detail because it is a part of our business over which we are all particularly enthusiastic.

We believe that there is a great future for the talking machine business and the possibilities appear to us as practically unlimited.

We would advise you most strongly to take on the jobbing agency for the Edison line, as you cannot make a mistake in doing so.

We cannot think of anything else that would interest you particularly, unless that it might be to emphasize the necessity of specializing this branch of your business. It is absolutely essential that you conduct it as a separate and distinct department, that the business be watched closely, that you see that sufficient quantities of the popular Records are always on hand, also that your advance orders for Records are large enough to supply the demands of your business.

Our experience has been that when first going into the talking machine business there is a disposition to order too sparingly of Records. While, of course, good judgment should be used not to overstock yourself, still we believe that we would rather err on the side of too much stock than not to have enough to meet the demands of our customers.

We trust that the information given will encourage you to take on the Edison line, and are confident that if you will go at it in the right way you will never regret making the move.

If we can give you any further information on the subject do not hesitate to call on us.

O. K. Houck Piano Co.

THE CONSENT.

National Phonograph Co. June 8, 1905.

Gentlemen:—Replying to your favor of 31st ult., beg to state that you have our cordial permission to make any use you desire of our recent letter to the ——— Co. We have no objection whatever to your using our firm name in connection with it.

In writing the ——— Co. we stated only facts, and as we ourselves are enthusiastic over the commercial possibilities of the Edison machines and Records, we shall never fail to endeavor to impress our views on other dealers throughout the United States whenever the opportunity presents itself.

If our letter to the ——— Co. in any way influences them to take up the line, we shall consider that we have done them the favor rather than yourselves. We are not unmindful of the many courtesies shown us by your esteemed firm, and feel that the very least we can do is to say a good word for the Edison product whenever possible.

While our firm is young in the talking machine business, still we are greatly encouraged as to the future of same and intend to devote a goodly part of our energies in this direction.

We also take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the splendid protection you give to legitimate Dealers against price cutting.

We have already gotten far enough into the Phonograph business to see that the absolute one price system is the great safeguard of the business, and that without it the Jobbers' and Dealers' legitimate profits would be entirely dissipated, and besides, the pleasure of handling a business of this character would be greatly marred.

DON'T PUT IT OFF; DO IT NOW.

Every individual or firm that has been selling Edison Phonographs and Records for any length of time and in a progressive manner, must look back over the business done in the first half of this year with much satisfaction. If such individuals or firms have carried a proper stock of goods and given their sale the attention necessary to the success of any business, then they must feel that elation and gratification which comes from doing anything successfully. Dealers in Edison goods have had in the past six months the most prosperous period since the invention of the Phonograph. Most of the business came to them with little effort on their part. Those who advertised and hustled in other ways got a larger share than a majority of Dealers, but most of them bought and sold to meet the demands of the public. This demand was caused by the quality of Edison goods and the methods being employed by the National Phonograph Company to exploit them. These features of quality and effort have caused the usual dull midsummer season to be practically eliminated. No one is selling as many Phonographs and Records now as in the first four months of this year, but every Jobber and Dealer is doing a larger business at the present time than in any month of last year. This statement is borne out by the output of our factory and by the orders that are being received with remarkable steadiness and uniformity.

With the experience of the past few months before him, and with his knowledge of the present state of trade, every Jobber and Dealer should now be revolving in his mind this question, "What shall I do to get even a greater share of this 'easy-money' business in the months to come?" The question may be answered thus: Carry a proper stock and let the people know that you have it. Call to mind the business you lost in the past six months because you did not have the stock, and make up your mind to guard against such losses by carrying a larger and more complete stock. If you have had trouble in handling your stock and have lost time when waiting upon customers because you could not find Records when you wanted them, spend a little extra time in planning a better way of carrying Records. If you don't know how, ask your Jobber for some assistance. If you have not been carrying the full line of Edison domestic selections, ask your Jobber about the success of the Dealers who have done so and follow their example. It is worth many dollars to an Edison Dealer to be able to announce to the public that he carries every Edison Record.

Don't wait till cool weather brings customers to your store. Get ready now. It is only August, of course, but by the time you make up your order, pass it along and get your goods, it will be from September 1st to 15th and the fall season will be at hand. Edison goods are going to be better advertised than ever before, and the demand will be proportionately greater. Then, too, there will be improvement in quality that will be a potent factor in inducing the public to fall in under the Edison banner. We know that the fall business in Edison goods will be the greatest in the history of the Phonograph, and those Dealers who do not early prepare for it will soon find that they have made a mistake.

NO DULL SUMMER.

The officials of the National Phonograph Co. looked forward to the advance orders for August Records with considerable interest. The July orders had shown no marked falling off with the advent of summer, but it was thought that August, with its discomforts and the absence of people on vacations, might tell a different story. Consequently, there was rejoicing when the August orders were footed up and the total found to equal those for July. It was then realized that the Phonograph business was not to have a dull summer season and that there was to be no break in the record of the year.

EDISON COMMERCIAL SYSTEM.

The Edison Commercial System for installing the Edison Business Phonograph was formally announced to the public on July 1st, 1905. The work of perfecting the Edison Business Phonograph has been in hand for the past three years. It was thought to be completed a year ago, but it was decided to give it a thorough and practical business trial before putting it on the market. One hundred machines were installed in the offices of a number of firms in New York city and vicinity, conducting various kinds of business, and a most complete trial was given them. These trials lasted nearly a year and the reports from each justified this company in announcing the formation of a special department, to be known as the Commercial Department, for the installation and sale of the Edison Business Phonographs.

The department is in charge of Nelson C. Durand as manager, and Charles L. Hibbard as general superintendent. Offices have been leased on the third floor of the Bank of the Metropolis building, 31 Union Square, New York, immediately under the general offices of the National Phonograph Company. This will be the headquarters of the selling force, and as fast as practicable branches will be established in other large cities. Believing that the success of the Business Phonograph depends upon the most careful installation and supervision, it has been decided not to sell machines through the trade in the same manner as the Phonograph used for amusement purposes. That many more could be sold in the first year, if sold through the trade, is not doubted, but Jobbers and Dealers could not afford the time and expense necessary to instruct them and look after their operation until their patrons had themselves become accustomed to them and needed no further assistance. We have decided, therefore, to handle the business in a manner that will ensure the certain success of the system, even though it may take a much longer time in which to get the same volume of business.

The Commercial Department has issued a special catalogue, in which appears the following announcement:

TO THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Mr. Edison's genius and his many successful inventions should warrant a careful investigation of the Edison Commercial System, which employs the Business Phonograph for commercial work.

The business man who gives his attention to the subject should carefully distinguish between the mere purchase of a Phonograph and the installation of the Edison Commercial System. Purchasing a "machine" is often, only a step in the direction of the installation of the Edison Commercial System, which is the responsible action of a company guided by the advice of commercial experts and backed by Mr. Edison's wide experience.

The Edison Commercial System makes it practicable and advisable to centralize the dictating machines in any office—a fact that alone should recommend it to managers as a genuine economy and an economy of space for dictating machines. Less apparatus, perhaps, but of still greater value, is the convenience to the "brains that direct." The Phonograph makes the department heads independent of office routine, and enables them to privately give greater concentration, conclusions and freedom of thought to business correspondence.

The necessity for a separate department to install and maintain the Edison Commercial System has been impressed upon the undersigned company, operating under Mr. Edison's patents. To that end the "Commercial Department" has been established, which will be the only distributing business centers in this country and abroad to carry out its plans, for which the company will be fully responsible. All business, therefore, relating to this subject should be conducted with branch offices bearing the undersigned firm name, or direct with the main office at Orange, N. J.

This catalogue has been written simply and directly for business men, avoiding technical terms and descriptions. Its mission will be accomplished if the reader is prompted to ask for a practical demonstration of the system and our prices for installation.

A copy of this catalogue will be mailed upon request to any one interested. It will not, however, be furnished in quantities.

"JIM BLUDSO."

The death of Secretary John Hay lends a peculiar interest to the Edison Record in the August list of "Bludso," one of Mr. Hay's earliest literary efforts and one that has been widely published and read. Our Record is made by Edgar L. Davenport in a manner that brings out the full meaning of the poem. If Jobbers and Dealers call the attention of their patrons to these facts this Record will have a large sale.

PRINTED MATTER.

With their August Records we are sending to all Jobbers a quantity of another special circular bearing upon the August list, which we hope will prove of material assistance in aiding Jobbers and Dealers in quickly disposing of their first orders and compelling them to come back for a new stock of Records. Copies have been mailed to the entire trade. Dealers may get a supply of them from their Jobbers should the latter fail to include a quantity with their August Records. The quantity shipped to each Jobber is the same as his standing order for supplements. Additional quantities of July and August may still be supplied upon request.

A new Foreign Record Catalogue, Form No. 720, will be issued this month. Copies will be mailed in a few days and all orders now on hand will be filled with the new edition. This catalogue will contain every foreign selection for which we have moulds at Orange, including the recently-listed Hebrew and Swedish titles and the complete Mexican list.

Because of the disappointment expressed by many Phonograph owners at their inability to get copies of the first issue of the NEW PHONOGRAM, July, 1901, we have just reprinted a small edition of that issue and will mail copies at two cents each. Dealers having customers anxious to get copies should inform them of this fact. We cannot fill orders for quantities of this issue.

Copies of the new Record catalogue, domestic selections, are mailed herewith. It is Form No. 725 and includes all titles listed to July. This catalogue will be current until October 1st at least.

The new Numerical Catalogue of Records, Form No. 700, was mailed to the trade last month. It gives all titles listed to and including July, 1901, both domestic and foreign, and corresponds with the new Record catalogue, Form 725. By attaching a new supplement each month, Dealers may keep the catalogue up to date.

The steel lithographed sign showing a portrait of Mr. Edison, and sent out some weeks ago, was for trade use only. In order that the public might also have a photograph of Mr. Edison we have had one lithographed on card and have just mailed copies to the entire trade. Jobbers may place orders for a quantity, both for their own and their Dealers' use. This card bears no form number. It may be ordered as No. 746.

Our printer promises delivery of the first copies of a new Phonograph Catalogue, Form No. 740, in a few days, and in two weeks we shall be filling orders for machine catalogues out of this edition. This catalogue is practically a reprint of the present catalogue, but the illustrations of the machines will be treated in a different manner and it will have a colored cover.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Conroy Piano Co., of St. Louis, Mo., have opened a branch store at Dallas, Texas.

The Hoover-Ball Co., Edison Jobbers at Newark, Ohio, have been succeeded by the Ball-Fintze Co. The capital stock has been increased to $100,000. This company has had a phenomenal success with Edison Phonographs and Records since they became Jobbers less than a year ago.

W. G. Walz & Co., of El Paso, Texas, became Edison Jobbers last month. They have been selling Edison goods for some time as Dealers and their success has warranted them in taking up this line as Jobbers. They intend making an aggressive campaign in that part of Texas and in the adjoining States.

James I. Lyons, of Chicago, has moved from 73 Fifth avenue to 194 Van Buren street.

CONVENIENT, ECONOMICAL AND INEXPENSIVE RECORD SHELVING.

One of the problems of the Dealer in Edison goods is to find a compact and economical method of carrying his stock of Records, and one, too, that will make an attractive display showing the value of his stock. The Dealer who has had no opportunity of seeing how others carry their stocks and who must depend upon his own ingenuity, is often puzzled to know just how to solve the problem. As a result, if he is busy, he puts them on ordinary shelves, losing an opportunity to make an attractive display and putting himself to much trouble all the time in endeavoring to find Records which are generally somewhere else.

When these shelves are built with open ends, it is necessary to have a wire stretched from front to rear upright so as to prevent the Records from falling off. (See D, Fig. 2.) Or a strip of wood may be nailed from front to rear upright to answer the same purpose. (See A, Fig. 2).

If the shelving is built away from the wall, it is also necessary to have wire stretched across the back or a strip (D) nailed to the back to keep the boxes from falling off. The uprights can be extended upwards to hold more sets of steps if desired. Steps can also be made with more shelf surfaces. (See Figs. 4 and 8.) Illustration No. 6 shows four-

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE.

The following notice was on June 30 mailed to all Edison Jobbers:

TO ALL JOBBERS

Notice of change in Delivery Clause of Jobber's Agreement, Form No. 86, dated July 18th, 1901.

To take effect July 1st, 1905.

All shipments are made F. o. b. Orange, N. J., at purchaser's risk.

On shipments of one hundred pounds or more from Edison Factory, Orange, N. J., VIA ROUTE THAT SHALL CARRY LESS freight will be allowed to any city in the United States in which a Jobber is located. If routing is dictated by Jobber, any increase in charges caused thereby will have to be paid by the Jobber.

No allowance for freight charges will be made on receipt of paid freight bills.

Yours very truly,

W. E. GILMORE,

President.

June 30, 1905.

This is one of the most important announcements ever made by the National Phonograph Co., its effect upon the trade will be far-reaching. It means that every Jobber and Dealer in Edison goods, no matter where located in the United States, will pay the same price for Phonographs and Records and will be able to realize the same profit on them. It means that the East will have no advantage over the West. It means the removal of a cause of much dissatisfaction and trouble. It means the opening up of new territory, and it means, as a whole, a greater success for all making or selling Edison goods. The cost to us of this change will be heavy, but we believe that it will in the end be profitable.

THE EDISON ON TOP.

San Angelo, Texas, July 15, 1905.

Accept my thanks for the Phonograph Monthly, which I find very interesting and of service in keeping me posted. The pie-plate machine man has been here, but has not done anything, as the town has gone wild on Edison machines, because they are so much more clear, don't scratch, and have no needles to change with every record. When I heard this agent was in town, I invited him to bring in his machine and set it up along side of our Edison Standard, but he said, "No; your Edison is very fine and clear." He then said: "Won't you play for me that clarinet solo 'Nellie Grey'" I heard you play a few minutes ago, for it's a beauty, the finest thing I ever heard." Then turning to the audience he said: "That music is wonderful, and the man who invented that machine is the greatest man living to-day." To all of which I said amen. You would be surprised to see the interest manifested by the cowboys, teamsters, clerks, boys, merchants, stockmen and others when we give an Edison concert. It is certainly wonderful to notice the facial expressions, and the interest displayed. Why, a cowboy will climb up on the table, sit down on his heels, or cross his legs like a tailor, and gaze intently into the horn, while his associate cowboys gather on either side of the table in a continuous line and look into the horn for the singer. The Edison Phonograph is certainly on top out here, and every one sold helps to sell another.

FOREIGN CUT OUTS.

Notice is hereby given to the trade that we have no moulds or masters of the following foreign selections, and orders for them cannot be filled. These numbers appear in the Foreign Catalogue, Form 720, to appear this month, but they will be cut out with the next edition:

1339	O Paradies Africans (Italian) ..... Sala
1280	Wacht am Rhein (German) ..... Wenck

In the June issue of the Phonograph Monthly we printed a list of selections dropped from the Foreign Record Catalogue. This list included No. 12933, "Bravo Dublin Fusiliers," by the British Military Band. We have since discovered that this should not have been cut out, for we still have moulds of the selection and it will be restored to the Foreign Catalogue when again printed.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY.

"The old axiom, that Goods well displayed are half sold,' was never so applicable as it is in the case of Edison Records and machines," writes W. J. Killen, a Dealer in Albany, N. Y., who carries the full line of Edison domestic and foreign Records. "For some time I have noticed people coming in my store and asking, 'Have you got German Records?' I hit upon a window display scheme which certainly is a perfect illustration of the Edison phrase 'Edison Records Echo All Over the World.'

"All that is necessary is about thirty-five cents worth of silk ribbon about a quarter of an inch wide, (you can buy it for about one and a half cents a yard) and a map of the world. Hang the map in the window about a yard above the window flooring and about a foot back from the glass front.

"If you have the stock, the window display will sell them, if you have any kind of a location. Take, for instance, the German Records. Locate Germany on the map and cut a slit in the map at this point just large enough to pass the ribbon through it. Then take a German Record, preferably "Der Watch Am Rhein," with the name marked on the Record. Lead the ribbon down from the map inside the Record. Then place in front of the Record a small card inscribed 'RECORD FROM GERMANY.' The Record, of course, must be placed so near the window front as possible, so passersby can read the name on the Record and see that it really is a German Record. With these foreign Records stretched along the front of the window and the ribbons leading down from the map, it makes a very pretty and effective display.

"In the center of the window may be placed a half-dozen Edison domestic Records with a card inscribed, 'A Bunch of American Beauties.' Have three ribbons lead from the United States on the map down into this group of American Records. The ribbons should be red, white and blue. Records for this group should be Nos. 4, 8818, 52, 5, 8971, 8135 and 8227.

"My most effective window display was an exhibit of the Edison gold moulding process. I showed a model of the Edison vacuum process and the electrotyping bath, together with a perfect copy of an Edison gold mould. As this exhibit was the result of considerable experimenting on my part I do not care to explain how all the details were worked out. However, anybody who will go into the matter and find out how to do it will certainly find that it will pay them for their trouble. I brought the people from miles to see that Edison gold mould, which I advertised as a free exhibit in my window.

"As a backing for the foreign Record display, described above, a pyramid built to hold on each step a specimen of each type of the Edison Phonograph makes the display doubly effective in that it sells them both machines and Records."

JUST THE THING FOR DANCING.

"We have organized a dancing club here called the Sorin Few, which has a private dance two nights a month," writes Will Barden, a Dealer at Edgertown, Wis. "We have the complete list of dance Records, made only by you, and the time we have is a topic talked of by the whole crowd, and all say it is the finest dance music they ever heard. Our hall is 40 x 80 feet, and the Phonograph is just the thing. We use a Home with a 56-inch horn. I have sold several machines and not a fault is found in any of them. Also lots of Records. You see by heading of letter I am in the photographic business also. Well, when we get a restless child we start the machine and every thing is smooth sailing. It also livens up the older people, and we get better expressions while the machine is going."

ABOUT PREMIUM MACHINES.

J. H. Lepper, an Edison Dealer at Mason City, Iowa, sends the following interesting letter concerning the manner in which he routed the company which gives away a cheap talking machine and sells records at fifty cents each:

My first advertisement sent the local manager to Chicago to try and beat me off. I got thunderstruck from his first letter. I wrote answer, but the bluff did not work and I kept selling "Edison" machines and Records. My dealer's ink and pencil were worked overtime, and I got no matter to all people who had Edison machines. As a consequence I sold several Edison standard outfits, taking in the premium machines at $10 a piece, so I soon showed such a low value on the premium machines that I could not be deceived further. I thought I could play a big card myself, and came to investigate my Edison Phonograph and Records. I also saw the scheme whereby I furnish those owners of the premium machines with Records at fifty cents each. I found that I could have it with several factories, sending them to all parts of the country in the section of the State where these machines are used. I have had the pleasure of a call this week from the manager of the concern in Chicago, and he says plump out to my own self that I am ruining their business in this State. He says they sell their goods from Maine to California but have never had as much trouble as I have caused them. He said he was having trouble with his local men in Chicago, and that I was the cause of it. Now worth it just on account of what I had done.

"This premium machine concern guaranteed the local man protection in his field, saying no one else could get the machines or records, but at the same time I have bought their customers' lists and have already changed their customers (who wished to buy) 50 cents each for records.

"The local man has thrown up the whole deal and Mr. Chicago man has been obliged to take his outfit and go, for none of the other local dealers will have anything to do with it.

"Now, gentlemen, I am sorry that this have premium machines in their town and want to get rid of them, I will give them full particulars if they will write me.

"I wish to say another word in behalf of the Edison Phonograph and Records. I have had a large number of buyers who have had a large sum to lay store and say they could buy a machine or a Record for less just as they pleased and I have never sold a single Record or machine at one cent less than list price. On one machine I have the largest profit on record to-day. I have the only machine on the market and the prices are cut all to pieces on them all over the country. The goods are quoted to me by prospective buyers at prices from wholesale prices up to list. I am thoroughly convinced that I can supply any dealer with any customer will trade at me. Owing to the lack of protection this concern has given me, I have lost $200 worth of business by having jobbers and others selling consumers at wholesale prices for single machines. From the other machines which I sell I realize from 10 to 15 per cent. Oh, by the protection they have given me and by following up inquiries they have had from this section of the country.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR SEPTEMBER, 1905.

Two new artists make their first Edison Records in this September list. Herbert L. Clarke, principal cornet soloist in Sousa's Band, plays a cornet duet with John Hazel, cornet soloist of the Edison Military Band. Miss Marie Narelle, the Australian soprano, sings that favorite Irish ballad, "Killarney." Besides these, all the old favorites, Collins, Harlan, Roberts, Murray, Tasoni and the others, have selections suited to their particular talents. Edgar L. Davenport has another fine recitation and Hans Kronold is again heard in one of his artistic 'cello solos. The list as a whole is well balanced and contains one or more selections for all tastes.

No. 9072, "Pique Dame Overture," by the Edison Concert Band, is one of Suppe's best and most popular compositions. The flute and clarinet duet introduced is one of the features of the Record, which as a whole is strictly high-class in every respect.

No. 9073, "Down Where the Silv'ry Mohawk Flows," by Harry Anthony, is already a popular hit, having sprung into popularity with the same rapidity as have most of the sectional songs of this kind. The music is written by John and Otto Heinman and the words by Monroe H. Rosenfeld. It is most effectively sung by Mr. Anthony, who is accompanied by the orchestra. The selection has a pretty melody and the story is the ever-appealing one of

"Be the sheeves of the river she is waiting,
And I'm longing to see my Mountain Rose;
I am going home once more to the lov'd one I adore,
Down where the silv'ry Mohawk flows."

No. 9076, "Making Eyes," by Collins and Harlan, is a new song by Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew B. Sterling, who are well known as the writers of many big song successes. Its music is of a jingling character and the words are interspersed with a witty dialogue in Collins and Harlan's best vein. This composition is bound to be a big hit in the coming season. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9077, "Swiss Boy," is a cornet duet by Herbert L. Clarke and John Hazel with orchestra accompaniment. This selection gives the theme of the old song, together with the famous variations composed by the late B. C. Bent, the celebrated cornet virtuoso, who was cornet soloist of the late P. S. Gilmore's great band. Mr. Clarke, who plays the duet with Mr. Hazel, is the principal cornet soloist of Sousa's Band. Mr. Hazel is the principal cornet soloist of the Edison Military Band, and will be well remembered as the composer and performer of the cornet solo "Le Secret Polka," (our Record No. 8546).

No. 9078, "Waltzing with the Girl You Love," by Harry MacDonough, is a well-rendered Record of a descriptive waltz song by Evans and Shields, and is sung with orchestra accompaniment. It is a very popular selection, and one for which we have had many calls.

No. 9079, "Chimmie and Maggie at the Hippodrome," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, describes Chimmie and Maggie's first visit to the New York Hippodrome. Their characteristic comments during the progress of the performance are highly amusing. Chimmie and Maggie are from the Bowery, of course, as their style of conversation plainly indicates. A number of the features of the Hippodrome are given, among them being the "Dance of the Hours" ballet and the battle scene of the "Raiders." The music of the orchestra lends much realism to the portrayal, as does also other incidental effects.

No. 9080, "Melody in F," is a 'cello solo by Hans Kronold, with piano accompaniment, of this most delightful composition by Rubinstein. Mr. Kronold plays it with the same care and artistic interpretation characteristic of all his work. No collection of high-class Phonograph Records will be complete without this one.

No. 9081, "Killarney," by Miss Marie Narelle, introduces a new singer to the admirers of the Phonograph. Miss Narelle comes from Australia. She is a well-known concert singer, having taken part in concerts with the best vocal and instrumental artists in her own country, Great Britain, Europe and America. She has a powerful, well-trained soprano voice of adequate range and agreeable quality. Her rendition for our Record of "Killarney" will be recognized as the work of a finished artist. Her singing is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of "Killarney" was written by M. W. Balfe and the words by S. Falconer.

No. 9082, "The Crucifix" ("Come Ye That Weep"), by Anthony and Harrison, is a tenor and baritone sacred duet too well known to call for description here. It was written by J. Faure and the translation is by F. W. Rosier. This composition is sung by the best church choir soloists. Messrs. Anthony and Harrison have sung it for our Record in a most satisfactory manner. The orchestra accompanies as in an effective fixture.

No. 9083, "Washington Grays March," by the Edison Military Band, is a stirring old-time march composed by C. S. Grafulla, of wide fame as a composer and band leader. It was previously listed by us in the old style wax Records and is made over for the Moulded Records in response to many calls for it.

No. 9084, "Nobody," by Arthur Collins, is a coon song that is quite a departure from those recently written, introducing a number of comical situations. The song fits Mr. Collins like a glove. The story is of a coon for whom nobody does anything, and who does nothing for nobody. Nobody told him that the tobasco sauce wasn't catchup, in fact "nobody" told him "nothing," causing him lots of trouble. Mr. Collins brings out the ludicrous points in the song to perfection. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this song is by Bert A. Williams and the words by Alexander Rogers.

No. 9085, "Just Plain Folks," by Ada Jones, is a descriptive song of great human interest and is handled with that finish which characterizes all of Miss Jones' offerings. The orchestra accompaniment is fit and appropriate, and enhances not only the beauty of the melody and story, but enables Miss Jones to impart to the sentiment of the piece its full scope and meaning. The music and words of this composition were written by Maurice Stonehill.

No. 9936, "Waltz of the Swallows," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a delightful waltz selection, very effectively featuring the oboe. It is a Mexican composition by Chavez and Valverde, and is known to many under its Spanish title "Vals de las Golondrinas."

No. 9982, "Lasca," by Edgar L. Davenport, is a pathetic poem by F. Desprez. It tells of the affection of Lasca for her lover of the plains. She was ever at his side and ever seeking to protect him. She would hunger that he might eat; she would take the bitter and leave him the sweet. One day the herd stampeded on the Rio Grande with Lasca and her lover right in the path of the maddened cattle. They mounted a mustang and endeavored to escape. The herd gained on them and the cowboy left word to shoot the mustang and crouch under his body. A shot, and this was done. As the pair fell, Lasca protected the body of her lover so that she bore all the blows of the surging cattle. When the stems had passed, Lasca was dead but her lover lived. Those who have heard Mr. Davenport's recitation of "Jim Bludso," listed last month, will realize how effectively he has made this Record of "Lasca." Chopin's Funeral March is introduced at the close of the selection.

No. 9988, "Just Because: I'm from Missouri," by Bob Roberts, is a new coon song describing the love of a colored gentleman's woes just because he was born in Missouri. It is rendered in Mr. Roberts's inimitable style, with the same clear articulation that has been so much admired. He is accompanied by the orchestra. Percy Wenrich wrote the words and music of this song.

No. 9989, "Through Battle to Victory March," by the Edison Concert Band, is a splendid march by F. v. Blon, composer of "Flag of Victory March" (our Record No. 9032.) "Through Battle to Victory March" was previously listed in the old style Records. It was a popular selection and many Phonograph enthusiasts have regretted that it was not before made by the moulded process. It is listed here because of a general demand for it. This composition is known also by its German title, "Durch Kampf zum Sieg."

No. 9990, "Two Little Girls Loved One Little Boy," by Byron G. Harlan, is a sentimental ballad that is fully described by its title. The story is a new idea, and the melody has a very catchy waltz movement. Mr. Harlan sings it in the careful manner characteristic of his solos and he is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this song was written by J. B. Mullen and the words by Estelle Hillman. It has only just been published.

No. 9991, "You Must Think I'm Santa Claus," is made by Tiscott. The success of Tiscott in our Record No. 9033, "Shame on You," listed in July, leads us to put out "You Must Think I'm Santa Claus," another coon song in which this artist has made more than a hit throughout the country. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music is by Maxwell Silver and the words by Irving Jones. The character of the selection is shown in the chorus as follows:

You must think I'm Santa Claus,
Because I drive my reindeer team,
I guess you hear sleigh-bells ringing, babe,
When I crosse 'round the way.
If you think I'm a human Christmas tree,
You have cer-tain-ly made a frost;
Because I drive you presents, babe,
Does in-sulate, don't think I'm Santa Claus.

No. 9992, "The Adieu," by Marie Narelle and Harry Anthony, is a soprano and tenor duet with orchestra accompaniment. This is a sentimental composition of the better class and one of the so-called standard kind that live and are always well liked. Miss Narelle's success in making a Record of "Killarney" (No. 9781), referred to above, warranted the b-lief that she would also be appreciated in duets with an artist of Mr. Anthony's calibre. We are sure that the public will agree with this opinion. The music of "The Adieu" was written by O. Nicolai and the English version of the words by H. Hilliard.

No. 9993, "The Bells," by Albert Benzler, is a bells solo with orchestra accompaniment. It is a particularly appropriate selection for orchestra bells, both in title and character of music. It differs considerably from b-lls selections previously listed and has a delightful orchestra accompaniment. That it will increase rather than diminish in popular favor is confidently expected. The music is of a favorite character and was written by Carlos Moro.

No. 9994, "Little Girl You'll Do," by Irving Gillette, is a sentimental ballad with orchestra accompaniment. This is assuredly one of Mr. Gillette's best efforts. It is a favorite song of this artist, a fact made apparent to the listener of the Record by the extreme care with which it is rendered. It is said that one of next season's biggest drawing attractions is to feature it by having it sung by one of its principal artists, which will add much to the favor in which it is already held. The music is by Alfred Solman and the words by Benjamin H. Burt.

No. 9995, "Give My Regards to Broadway," by Billy Murray, is one of the biggest successes in the musical farce, "Little Johnny Jones," in which it is sung by its composer, George M. Cohan. The song always makes a hit whether sung in or out of the play. We made a Record of it last January, but it was not considered up to our usual standard and was not listed. This will explain why we are apparently late in putting it out. Nothing has been lost, however, by the delay, for the song is now so widely popular that it will be in greater demand than it would have been eight months ago. The song describes the parting of two Yankees in a foreign country. One is coming back to New York and is enjoined by the other to:

Give my regards to Broadway, remember me to Herald Square;
Tell all the gang at Forty-second street that I will soon be there;
Whisper of how I'm yearning, to mingle with the old time throng,
Give my regards to old Broadway and say that I'll be there ere long.

No. 9996, "Sing Me the Songs of Dixie Land," by the Edison Male Quartette, is another splendid quartette Record with orchestra accompaniment. It is a descriptive composition and tells of the dying soldier boy's desire to have his comrades sing him songs of Dixie land. The verse is done in solo and quartette alternating and the chorus is all in the quartette form. The music and words are by James W. Casey. The chorus is as follows:

Sing me songs of Dixie land, my southern home,
Let me hear the clear old tunes, as far away I roam,
Sing of my Kentucky home, and sing of old Black Joe;
Way down upon the Suwannee River, Dixie's songs of long ago.

No. 9997, "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces four popular selections from the August list as follows: "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me," (our Record No. 9060); "The Message of the Old Church Bell," (our Record No. 9071); "Would You Care," (our Record No. 9070), and "Violette," (our Record No. 9061).

"THE MODERN PROFESSION OF INVENTING."

The World's Work for June contained an interesting article on "The Modern Profession of Inventing." Part of the article referred to Mr. Edison and his work, as follows:

The best-known example of the independent inventor is Mr. Thomas A. Edison. This strange man, so simple in personal appearance and manner, so extraordinary in his habits of life and methods of work, moves among his complicated series of shops and experiments with such mental precision and constructive energy, yet appearing to do so without any sense of order or system—a sort of volcanic intellectual chaos—that he is the despair of all the men who try to analyze him. But he has no sentimental notions about an invention. When an idea occurs to him his first question is, "If it can be done, is it worth anything?" If it will not pay, he has no use for it. Inventing is his business; the things he invents must be worth money.

The instant he decides that the idea is worth while, he sets in motion his extraordinary method of developing it. Some time ago, for example, he needed a chemical mixture that should have two properties that are rarely found together in the same compound. He might have set a chemist to work to figure out from the known science of chemistry what would be most likely to fill the requirements, and so narrow the problem down to one of trying a few chemicals. What he did was to take Watts's Chemical Dictionary, in several ponderous volumes, and have his assistants make every chemical mixture in it that could even conceivably serve his purpose, and try every one of the thousands.

"Out of the lot, I found about seven compounds that worked," said Mr. Edison, "but when I finished the experiments I knew beyond a doubt that those seven were the only ones that could be made for that purpose."

He became interested in radium. The scientists had described certain substances as being those in which the presence of radium could be detected by sensitive photographic plates. Mr. Edison was not satisfied. He took 7,000 plates, put a sample of fifty different substances on each plate, and locked them up for seven weeks in a dark room. At the end of that time he had the plates developed and found that practically every one of the 350,000 specimens showed traces of the presence of radium.

This, then, is his method—to take nothing for granted, to believe that anything may be possible, and then to try everything conceivable in the hope of hitting on what he needs. To see him moving through his great laboratories, head bowed, hands in pockets, his face set in an expression of intense mental preoccupation, his hair carelessly combed which ever way it may decide to fall, his eyes focussed miles away except when he flashes into some one else's a look of instant understanding, his whole appearance except for the eyes and the humorous yet grim mouth, is that of a dreamer rather than of a tireless worker. Yet this is the man who, eating practically nothing and exercising not at all, works often for thirty-six hours without sleep, falls unconscious from exhaustion on bench or desk, and wakes to work again, sometimes for a week without undressing; electrical with mental energy; marvelous in the power of his inventive imagination. That is the popular idea of what an inventor is—a man of dreams and action in one, possessed by an idea that harasses him until it be delivered in finished form.

Mr. Edison has very definite ideas about inventing as a profession. When asked to describe the personal qualifications and the type of mind necessary for an inventor, Mr. Edison said:

"The point in which I am different from most inventors is that I have, besides the usual inventor's make-up, the bump of practicality as a sort of appendix, the sense of the business, money value of an invention. Oh, no, I didn't have it naturally. It was pounded into me by some pretty hard knocks. Most business, money value of an invention. Oh, think whether their invention will be salable when they get it made. Unless a man has plenty of money to throw away, he will find that making inventions is about the costliest amusement he can find. Commercial availability is the first thing to consider.

"In working out an invention, the most important quality is persistence. Nearly every man who develops a new idea works it up to a point where it looks impossible, and then he gets discouraged. That's not the place to get discouraged, that's the place to get int-rested. Hard work and forever sticking to a thing till it's done, are the main things an inventor needs. I can't recall a single problem in my life, of any sort, that I ever started on that I didn't solve, or prove that I couldn't solve it. I never let up until I had done everything that I could think of, no matter how absurd it might seem as a means to the end I was after. Take the problem of the best material for Phonograph Records. We started out using wax. That was too soft. Then we tried every kind of wax that is made, and every possible mixture of wax with hardening substances. We invented new waxes. There was something objectionable about all of them. Then somebody said something about soap. So we tried every kind of soap. That worked better, but it wasn't what we wanted. I had seven men scouring India, China, Africa, everywhere, for new vegetable bases for new soaps. After five years we got what we wanted, and worked out the Records that are in use to-day. They are made of soap—too hard to wash with and unlike any other in use, but soap just the same.

"The second quality of an inventor is imagination, because invention is a leap of the imagination from what is known to what has never been before.

"The third essential is a logical mind that see analogies. No! No! not mathematical. No man of a mathematical habit of mind ever invented anything that amounted to much. He hasn't the imaginaties to do it. He sticks too close to the rules, and to the things he is mathematically sure he knows, to create anything new. I don't know anything about mathematics; can't even do proportion. But I can hire all the good mathematicians I need for $15 a week."

This last point is illustrated by an incident that occurred in his laboratory. He needed to know the exact capacity of a vessel of very irregular shape. He called in two of his mathematicians to work it out. They made innumerable careful measurements with various finely graduated instruments, and after an hour's work went away with a mass of figures to work out the capacity. As soon as they had left, Mr. Edison filled the vessel with water, poured the water out into a measure, and noted how many cubic inches it held. Two days later the mathematicians brought in the result of their complicated figuring, and it tallied exactly with Mr. Edison's five-minute measurement.

In the practice of his profession Mr. Edison has to save time. There is a pretty well developed suspicion among his assistants that his deafness is largely a ruse to avoid hearing things that he does not care to pay attention to. When Mr. Edison sat for the photograph at the front of this magazine, in one of the poses his eyes were dropped, looking at his hands. It was a time exposure, and the instant the shutter of the camera closed with a click he looked up and exclaimed "Overexposed." His attorney shouted to him:

"Did you hear that click?"

"Eh?"

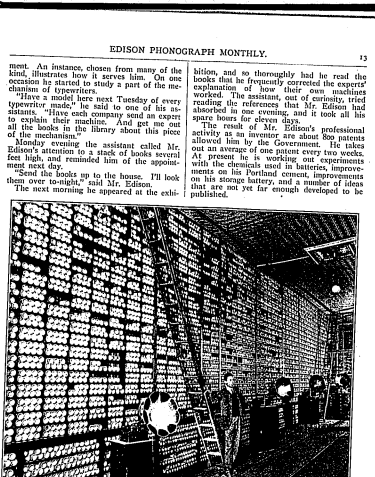
"How did you know that he had finished that exposure?"

"Oh, I had an intuition."

To Mr. Edison, time is so valuable that he does not waste it even by taking account of it. Time to him is only the chance to get things done; and no matter how long it takes, they must be got done. In his office safe there is carefully locked away a $2,700 Swiss watch, given him by a European scientific society. It is never used. He buys a stem-winder costing a dollar and a half, breaks the chain ring off, squirts oil under the cap of the stem, thrusts it into his trousers pocket, and never looks at it. When it gets too clogged with dirt to run, he buys it on a laboratory table, hits it with a hammer and buys another.

Where a man in the profession of law or of medicine has a suite of offices, Mr. Edison's Time to him is only the chance to get things many laboratories. In this building are many rooms set apart for different kinds of experiments. In one, an assistant who came to him in 1889 from the laboratory of the German scientist, Helmholtz, works alone, or with his sub-assistants, on Phonograph improvements. Mr. Edison may not see him for two weeks at a stretch, but when he does come, he is full of enough ideas to keep the room busy for a month. In another room is his chief chemist, himself an inventor of proved merit, working out Mr. Edison's ideas on some new chemical compound. Across the hall, in a room filled with batteries, each of a different composition, two men and a boy are taking records of how the batteries work. In another room, improvements are being worked out on Mr. Edison's new storage battery. There are often a dozen inventions under way at once, each requiring the work of an expert; and through the great laboratory Mr. Edison moves: from room to room, keeping check on the progress of each, suggesting radical changes in the work, always full of ideas, and impressing so profoundly on his men his own mental curiosity, and eagerness and energy that they, as they say themselves, work much harder for him than they would on their own ideas.

Mr. Edison's power of rapid assimilation of the most in any point discussed is one of the most valuable parts of his professional equipment. An instance, chosen from many of the kind, illustrates how it serves him. On one occasion he started to study a part of the mechanism of typewriters.



"Have a model here next Tuesday of every typewriter made," he said to one of his assistants, "Have each company send an expert to explain their machine. And get me out all the books in the library about this piece of the mechanism."

Monday evening the assistant called Mr. Edison's attention to a stack of books several feet high, and reminded him of the appointment next day.

Send the books up to the house. I'll look them over to-night," said Mr. Edison.

The next morning he appeared at the exhibition, and so thoroughly had he read the books that he frequently corrected the experts' explanation of how their own machines worked. The assistant, out of curiosity, tried reading the references that Mr. Edison had absorbed in one evening, and it took all his spare hours for eleven days.

The result of Mr. Edison's professional activity as an inventor are about 800 patents allowed him by the Government. He takes out an average of one patent every two weeks. At present he is working out experiments with the chemicals used in batteries, improvements on his Portland cement, improvements on his storage battery, and a number of ideas that are not yet far enough developed to be published.

PHONOGRAPH DEPARTMENT OF THE THEO. F. BENTEL CO., PITTSBURG.

At our request the Theo. F. Bentel Co. sent us the following description of the above department:

"We believe we can say without any hesitancy that we show the largest stock of Edison Records for retail exclusively in this section. Traveling men in the trade say that our retail department is the largest they visit. We give you the dimensions as follows: Length of shelving, 96 feet; height, 14 feet; capacity of each bin, 12 Records. According to estimate, from the ceiling down to the base, which is arranged numerically, the capacity is 28,800 Records. Capacity of latter space, 4,600, from which you will see we show over 30,000 Records in the retail department.

"In our wholesale department, which occupies the second floor, the racks are arranged largely on the same basis and will hold 50,000 Edison Records. At the present writing we believe our stock of Edison Records alone will average about 70,000. It is our aim to carry not less than twenty-five in the wholesale. From this you will see that we are in a position to give the best service possible. Our almost nine years' experience in the talking machine business enables us to appreciate the wants of the trade and we believe we are in a position to do so.

BE READY WHEN BUSINESS COMES.

Every Jobber and Dealer in Edison Phonographs and Records who sincerely desires to get a fair share of the business in these goods in the coming fall and winter must at once give careful and serious consideration to the subject, if he has not already done so. So far as the thermometer is concerned, it is still summer, but fall is but a few days away, and when it comes it is going to bring a demand for Edison goods that will astonish even the most optimistic. Aside from the efforts being made by this company to exploit its product, the Edison Phonograph and Edison Gold Moulded Records have jumped into a popularity that has amazed the entire trade. The peculiar merits of both have swept aside much of the prejudices of the past and have caused the public to realize that the Edison Phonograph is infinitely better than they deemed it possible for a "talking machine" to be. This awakening to the improvements in the Phonograph made by Mr. Edison in the past few years is responsible for much of the present phenomenal demand for Edison goods, and this demand is going to continue with added strength as the weeks pass by. The installation of an Edison Phonograph in a home is almost invariably followed by the sale of others in the same neighborhood. It is so much better than the kind the neighbors had previously heard that they cannot resist the desire to own one. Every Dealer has seen this happen. Every Dealer knows that his greatest difficulty is to get a prospective customer to hear the Phonograph, for once heard it will sell itself and it is a most active salesman for all time.

These remarks are simply to point the way and arouse the slumbering Dealer to the necessity for immediate action. Edison Dealers who are in the business to make money should foot up the biggest month that they have had this year and add fifteen per cent. to it as a basis for their October business. Another fifteen per cent. for November and still another for December. Many Dealers will do better, but every one should at least do as well as this. Dealers should then take account of stock and determine how many more Phonographs and Records are needed to do a business of this size and get busy with their order books. It is equally important to order early. At our factory in Orange we are already arranging to run night and day in order to keep pace, if possible, with the demand that we know is coming. We shall soon be pushing the factory to its utmost capacity, but we know that as the season advances even this will not keep up with orders. Therefore our injunction to order early.

It is not necessary for a Dealer to order at one time enough goods to carry him to the end of the year. He can decide on what he needs for that period and give an order to his Jobber to make a part delivery each month. This will insure the delivery of goods when wanted and will enable the Jobber to place his order upon us with a better knowledge of the situation. Most Jobbers order of us in this way every fall and find that it works most advantageously. Those who do follow this plan will find it profitable to adopt it.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of carrying a full stock of goods, especially Records. Dealers lose much business every year because they do not have the titles asked for by their patrons. Aside from our selfish desire to sell goods, we cannot too strongly urge Dealers in large towns and cities to carry the complete line of domestic titles. The cost is small compared with its value in getting and keeping business. Where this is not possible, Dealers should arrange to keep in close touch with a Jobber so as to get Records promptly and fill orders without delay.

Prepare for a great fall and winter business and order early.

NEW RECORD BOX.

The September Records were packed in a new style carton, which we think is the best box of the kind ever put out by this or any other company. It is slightly smaller in diameter than the cartons recently used and is lined with felt, which fits snugly around the Record, holding it firmly in place, without scratching the surface. The box has no spindle such as held the Record in place in the old carton, but it has the conventional cover and bottom peculiar to the latter. All Records hereafter made will be packed in this new box.

AN ATTRACTIVE FOLDER.

We have just mailed to the trade a copy of one of the most attractive folders yet issued by this company. It is Form No. 690, and is entitled "The Slave of the Ring." It is an adaptation of the "Arabian Nights" tale of that name. The title page shows a most charming slave rising from an Edison Record. On the other pages is an Edison Phonograph and the following ingeniously worded matter:

BEHOLD THE SLAVE OF THE RING!

I am the Genii of Entertainment, created by the Great Wizard of the New World to delight him who possesses the Ring.

Wouldst thou have melody?

Place the Ring upon thy finger and I will sing for thee a tender song of love.

Or wouldst prefer merry tales and joyous laughter? Then can I give thee until thy heart shall swell with happiness.

Or wouldst thou wouldst yield thy members to the rhythmic dance?

Then can I sound the harmonies that will float thy form through space even as the thistledown rides on the breeze of the breeze.

Or, if thou wouldst take to sweet repose, or waken in the land bland with memories of youthful days. At thy command, the Slave of the Ring will softly sweep, and the cares that invest the day will flee like their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away.

Speak thy will, O Prince!

I am the Slave of the Ring!

I am the Slave of the Ring! I come from The Arabian Nights Entertainments, but I am a marvellous reality of today! The American Nights Entertainments.

The great Wizard of the New World is none other than Thomas A. Edison.

The Ring I wear for me is the Edison Phonograph.

The Ring is the Edison Gold Moulded Record.

You are the favored Prince, if you own a Phonograph, and your name is the Realm of Pleasure.

No matter what may be your mood, the Phonograph stands ready to entertain you. When you have finished your day's grind, and want to forget your business, you need only don your comfy old coat your sitting-room, your pipe and your smoking jacket, to go to the theatre or opera.

The slave of the Ring can growl—when and where you wish—grand opera, comic opera, or vaudeville. He can render any selection (vocal music) bands, orchestras, or instrumental soloists, or vocal quartettes, solos, duets, trios, or minstrel choruses; political speeches, sermons, impersonations.

When your wife is wearied after a day's housework, she can call the children free of their boisterous play, this charming entertainer can rest the one and delight the others.

Should you have unexpected visitors, an otherwise dull evening can be made an enjoyable occasion by summoning the Slave of the Ring.

Once you have heard you never tire of it, because it has ever something new to delight you.

It gives pure pleasure to all, young or old.

It is always willing, and will go where you please; on the back porch or verandah to brighten the long summer evenings; in the bedroom to cheer the sick; or take your summer home to heighten the vacation pleasures.

You cannot realize what a pleasure it will be to own a Phonograph until you have heard some of the new Edison Gold Moulded Records.

Go to the nearest dealer and ask him to bid the Slave of the Ring prove his skill as an entertainer.

DEALERS SHOULD ADVERTISE.

Next in importance to keeping an adequate stock of Edison goods is to advertise so that the public will know that you have them. Our magazine advertising is arousing great interest in the Edison Phonograph, and when Dealers advertise locally they get the greatest possible benefit from this advertising. Try it, Mr. Dealer.

DEALERS MUST GET PRINTED MATTER FROM JOBBERS.

We must once more point out to Dealers the necessity of getting catalogues and printed matter from or through their Jobbers. If the latter cannot supply it they can at least forward the Dealers' order, with some statement to show that he should have the quantities asked for and a guarantee to pay transportation charges if the Dealer will not. We will not supply Dealers with printed matter direct and pay charges on it, whether ordered by a Jobber or Dealer. When Dealers order printed matter direct much unnecessary correspondence is caused. As an instance, we frequently get a request from a Dealer for a thousand each of Phonograph and Record catalogues. To use these quantities properly a Dealer must do a large business in Edison goods. Having no knowledge of the Dealer's business, we must either refer the Dealer to his Jobber, or find out whom he buys through and ask by mail whether the Dealer's business requires the quantities ordered. If the Dealer wrote direct to his Jobber he might not get catalogues by the thousands, but he would get what his business warranted. Jobbers may get back at us by saying that they do not get enough printed matter to fill orders. For the most part we send all that is ordered. If it is not enough let us know and we will in turn order more largely. The demand of the past year has upset most liberal plans and at times made it hard to print catalogues fast enough. We will overcome this as quickly as possible until no one can find fault.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The H. C. Rees Optical Co., of San Antonio, Texas, have become Jobbers of Edison goods. They have been Dealers for some time.

The Douglas Phonograph Co., of 89 Chambers street, New York, have bought the business of E. S. Oliver, 20 New street, Newark, and will conduct it as a branch store.

The statement last month that the Conroy Piano Co., of St. Louis, had opened a branch store at Dallas, Texas, was premature. A representative of the company was sent to Dallas for that purpose, but after a stay of three weeks was unable to find a suitable location. The company has, therefore, given up the project.

Read & Read, Boston Jobbers, have removed from No. 558 Washington street to No. 630 on the same street.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new colored hanger, Form No. 657, was mailed to the trade with the Record bulletins, supplements, etc. It shows the heads of a family of four grouped around an Edison Phonograph and bears the phrase, "It Amuses the Whole Family." One has been mailed to every Dealer but small additional quantities will be furnished to Jobbers on request.

Copies of the new Phonograph catalogue, Form No. 740, are mailed to all Jobbers and Dealers herewith. As stated last month, there are but few changes in the descriptive matter. The cost of special equipments has been added, and the new prices of business blanks are given. The first nine pages are devoted to a "talk" on the merits of the Edison Phonograph and to several suggested programmes for evening entertainments. We believe that the latter features will make the catalogue much more useful as a means of selling Phonographs. The various illustrations are treated in a new and attractive manner. The cover is lithographed in several colors and gold, and shows a picture of Mr. Edison on the front.

MUSIC DEALERS INJURING THEMSELVES.

While music dealers are regarded as one of the natural agencies for the distribution and sale of talking machine products, still they do not take hold of the business with that vim and activity so characteristic of other lines handling these goods. The music trades people have every facility for demonstrating and marketing the line, with store room ready at hand and customers who regard these dealers as the legitimate representatives and sellers of everything pertaining to music and kindred merchandise. A talking machine department is held to be a profitable addition to the business, and the only drawback to a better understanding of this inviting prospect is the prejudice of music dealers themselves.

A great many, much to the credit of their judgment, have recognized this fact and take pleasure in maintaining this branch of their establishment at the highest pitch of efficiency, according it ample room and suitable equipment. These are the wise ones. Another portion of the trade look askance at the proposition, arguing that the talking machine is in no sense musical, hence should be ignored entirely as being outside the pale. No greater mistake was ever made if the commercial side of the business is taken into consideration. It is a splendid line of goods to have, and in the hands of men entirely progressive there is "big money" in it. Besides, a talking machine department worthy the name is a drawing attraction to the distinctly musical end not to be despised, as many live dealers have cheerfully testified.—Music Trade Review.

RECORDS AND COPYRIGHTS.

When Judge Hazel, United States Circuit Court, New York City, recently handed down his decision in the White-Smith Music Publishing Co. against Apollo Co., in which he declared perforated music rolls were not "writings" within the meaning of the copyright statute, and therefore did not infringe or invade the rights of copyrighted music, he placed the talking machine record in the same category by approving the previous rulings of both American and English courts. That portion of his opinion dealing with this matter follows:

"In the Kennedy against McTammany case (33 Fed. Rep., 584), which was decided in 1888, Judge Colt held that perforated music rolls or strips of paper are not infringements of copyright sheets of music; and that such perforated sheets are designed not to occupy the field of sheet music, but are a mechanical invention to mechanically perform tunes. . . . In the Stern against Rosey case (17 App. D. C., 562), decided in 1901, it was held . . . that the ordinary meaning of the words 'copying, publishing,' etc., cannot be enlarged to include 'the reproduction through the agency of the phonograph of the sounds of musical instruments playing the music composed and published by the complainants.' There appears to be little difference between the facts of the Stern case and the facts here, except that in that case the alleged infringing record consisted of a disk or cylinder for reproducing music by means of the phonograph. The court further said: 'It is not pretended that the markings upon waxed cylinders can be made out by the eye, or that they can be utilized in any other way than as parts of the mechanism of the phonograph.'"

A FOLLOW-UP LETTER.

E. B. Rhodes, of Groesbeck, Texas, sends out the following letter to the names of inquirers sent him by this company:

DEAR SIR:—Your letter to the National Phonograph Co. has been referred to me for attention, as I am their agent at this place. I would be pleased to sell you a Phonograph, or any Records, or, in fact, anything you may need. I have been handling talking machines for a number of years, and have sold several different makes, but find the Edison Phonograph is the most satisfactory in every respect. The machine is finely and correctly built, on the most improved and handsome plans. The Records are just as fine as can be made, the music and songs being much superior to other than records for any other machines as well as much more lasting; many of the other machines wearing the Records out in a few times. After a record begins to wear, it loses its beauty very rapidly, and soon becomes worthless. Edison Records stand continuous use without showing wear, when properly handled. You can see and hear the Edison Phonograph and machines, where I have recently opened a line of music and supplies in connection with which I will handle Phonographs and Records. Would be pleased to have you call and see me. Can furnish the machines at same price you would have to pay in Chicago, or St. Louis, thereby saving the freight for you. The Phonograph is a little cheaper than the catalogue price; nothing at retail trade, and we can sell the Records at the catalogue price. Thanking you for the inquiry, and hoping to be able to sell you a machine and outfit, I remain,

MEXICAN RECORDS.

Walter Stevens, manager of the Foreign Department of the National Phonograph Co., was interviewed recently by a representative of The Music Trades and furnished some interesting details in reference to their successful efforts to obtain in Mexico some 300 Records, made by their special representative in Mexico City. He said:

"Mexico is a land of music and song, and as a market for the talking machine is excellent. We have been met with great success in Mexico City, and for us not expert 300 Records, including the national airs and dances, marches, etc., as rendered by the Bandas Militares de Estado Mayor, which is a military band used solely for State occasions and functions where many officers of the government and the army are present. In English we would call it the staff band. And also the Zapadores de Mexico. This band, while it is used also for large functions, is called upon to take part in the festivities of the soldiers themselves. Both of these bands are maintained by the government and are composed entirely of native Mexicans.

"There is one peculiarity about the musical balance of Mexican bands, and that is that they run largely to reed instruments, or to such branches as produce to a great extent reed tones.

"We also obtained some selections rendered by the Arriaga Trio, consisting of two mandolins and one guitar. The mandolin players in this trio are reputed to be the finest in Mexico. We were fortunate in obtaining the services of Señores Arbego and Picazo, Americans by a noted tenor and Picazo a well and favorably known baritone. These selections are the popular songs of Mexico sung with guitar accompaniment.

"One of the most interesting lot of Records which we obtained in Mexico were some recitations by Juan de Dios Peza, who is the celebrated poet of Mexico. Another set of Records which have taken exceptionally well are the descriptions of bull fights and cock fights, the bull fight in Mexico being a very attractive sport and very popular. Records for these descriptions were obtained by securing the services of quite a number of the well-known patrons of the bull fights, and any one who knows anything at all about bull fighting, as practiced in Mexico City, can readily follow the different stages of the battle."

Mr. Stevens says that business in the Foreign Department is excellent; that Mexico is one of the best talking-machine countries there is; that Cuba is also very good, and that they have recently entered into Jamaica as a field for their machines with fair success.

In an entertainment recently given by a lodge at Kansas City, Mo., the entire programme was furnished by A. L. Trester, of that city, with his Edison Phonograph. Selections were also played for dancing.

THE PHONOGRAPH.

[The following is a composition written by Edw T. Connolly, a pupil in the San Francisco schools.]

The Phonograph was invented by Mr. T. A. Edison in 1877 at his Menlo Park Laboratory, New Jersey, and it came into existence to afford pleasure and amusement to thousands of hearts.

Thomas Alva Edison, the most noted electrician of the age, was born at Milan, Ohio, February 11, 1847. His father was of Dutch and his mother of Scotch descent. His mother having been a teacher, gave him a fair education.

Edison was a great reader. At the age of twelve he became a newsboy on the Grand Trunk line running into Detroit; he then began to study chemistry.

Having gained the right to sell papers on this line he purchased old type and with a few companions printed and issued the "Grand Trunk Herald," the first newspaper printed on a railway train.

He then learned telegraphy from a station master and thereafter his mind was chiefly taken up with electrical studies.

His fame as an inventor was world-wide in 1876. He had taken out over fifty patents in connection with improvements in telegraphy alone. Thence also emanated his Phonograph, a machine for recording and then transmitting human or any other sound.

The Phonograph was discovered by accident. Mr. Edison was at work on a telegraphic apparatus, which by reason of indentations made on paper would transfer a message from one circuit to another automatically by means of a tracing point connected with a circuit-closing device.

Upon revolving with rapidity the cylinder that carried the indented paper, Mr. Edison found that the indentations could be reproduced with great rapidity through the vibration of the tracing point. Immediately he was sure that he could vibrate a diaphragm, by the sound-waves of the human voice.

He reasoned that he could attach a stylus to the diaphragm, and make these sounds record themselves upon an impressionable substance adjusted on a revolving cylinder. He began to experiment with parafined paper and afterwards with tinfoil as the receiving apparatus.

Although the apparatus was crude the result was a remarkable success, and in 1878 Mr. Edison made a number of Phonographs, which were exhibited in America and Europe.

The perfected Phonograph of to-day is a metal cylinder covered with a layer of wax on which a pointed pen inscribes tracings corresponding to the vibrations caught by a membrane placed on the top of the pen.

An electric battery causes the cylinder to revolve and as one speaks in front of the membrane the cylinder advances slowly in a horizontal position and at the same time revolves rapidly.

The Phonograph is now very common. Many thousands are distributed in American business offices, where they facilitate correspondence in a variety of ways. They are also employed by stenographers as a help in the transcription of their shorthand notes, which are frequently read off to a Phonograph and then written out when time affords. Direct stenographic work may be reported verbatim by the Phonograph.

It reported a discussion of 10,000 words at a Presidential convention held in 1890, the words being quietly repeated into the machine by the reporter as quickly as they were uttered by the various speakers.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. We plan to print about 10,000 more than we have orders for when we go to press, five weeks in advance of the month of issue, but frequently these are soon used up with extra orders.

Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.
Blank, per 1000 copies.....	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies.....	1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies.....	2.75
BY MAIL.
Blank orders must be mailed in same envelope as imprinted orders and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500 copies.
Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.
BY MAIL.
Single copies, per year.....	.50
Five copies to one address, per year.....	2.00
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year.....	7.80
Fifty copies to one address, per year.....	7.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

"SONG THE HAND ORGAN PLAYED."

The H. M. Holleman Co., of Houston, Texas, recently sent a programme of a vaudeville theatre in that city, in which mention was made of a special record made by that company, and used in connection with a song by Willis Fessenden, entitled "Song the Old Hand Organ Played." The Holleman Co. wrote the following explanation of the matter:

Willis Fessenden, an actor called on our Mr. Holleman and together they arranged a novel effect, making some first-class records of "hand organ songs," which were put on a Gem Phonograph, wound up and installed in a box, painted to imitate a hand organ, such as they use in connection with a monkey. At the proper time in the act the hand organ effect was started, mystifying the audience. It is rather hard to adequately describe the act unless one could hear it, but much favorable comment was made upon the novelty at its first performance.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR OCTOBER, 1905.

The October list of Edison Records has been made up with especial attention to variety, and it will be found to contain something for all tastes, whether it be for high class music or rag-time coon songs. It is this variation that makes these monthly lists so popular. We are frequently criticised by lovers of good music for not cutting out the rag-time and kindred selections, but such critics are selfish and can only see one side of the situation. They do not realize that thousands of others prefer the songs and music of a light and seemingly silly character. We know the wants of both, and as far as is possible with twenty-four selections each month we endeavor, to furnish something to suit all. Dealers should point out to the public that now is the time to prepare for entertaining their families and friends in the coming indoor season and that they cannot do better than make a generous selection from this list for that purpose:

No. 9098, "Selection from Chimes of Normandy," by the Edison Concert Band, introduces the most popular airs from this ever-favorite opera by Planquette. The number of different airs given make the Record one of exceptional interest. The work of the band is fully up to the high standard of the Records already made by this organization.

No. 9099, "In the Days of Chivalry," by Irving Gillette, is another descriptive song by Egbert Van Alstyne and Harry Williams, composers of that phenomonal success, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," our Record No. 8958, which was also sung by Mr. Gillette. These facts will lend much interest to this new song. The subject and melody differ greatly from the "Apple Tree" song, as it properly should to be a success. The chorus has a melody that lingers in the mind of the hearer and the more it is heard the better it is liked. It is one of those songs that wears well and never tires. The publishers expect it to be quite as popular as the "Apple Tree," as the song is generally known. Mr. Gillette sings "In Dear Old Georgia" with much feeling, and his fine voice makes a notably fine Record. He is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9100, "Everybody Works but Father," by Bob Roberts, is now being sung by Lew Dockstader in performances by his minstrel organization. This is one of the biggest hits that Mr. Dockstader has had in years, being repeatedly encored wherever he sings it. The song humorously tells how the various members of the family work with the exception of father, who sits on the front porch all day. Mr. Roberts's unusually clear articulation makes every word clearly understood. The Record will be found one of his best efforts and will be one of the best sellers on the October list. Mr. Roberts is accompanied by the orchestra. "Everybody Works but Father" was written by Hart and Hager.

No. 9101, "Robin Adair," by Herbert L. Clarke and Leo Zimmermann, is a cornet and trombone duet with orchestra accompaniment. This is an original arrangement as a duet by Clarke and Zimmermann are respectively the principal cornet and trombone soloists of Sousa's Band, and have played this selection all over the world, responding to nightly encores with it, so great has been its success. Our Record is a splendid reproduction of these artists' performance.

No. 9102, "I Wait for Thee," by Theodore Van Yorx, is a sentimental song by C. B. Hawley and Ida Whipple Benham, which introduces to the Phonograph clientele a new singer in Mr. Van Yorx, who is one of America's best oratorio and concert tenors, and is tenor soloist of St. Thomas's Church, New York City. The ballad that Mr. Van Yorx has chosen for his initial performance is a splendid composition and one that displays his well-trained voice to perfection. The usual orchestra accompaniment stands back of the singer.

No. 9103, "The Village Seamstress," by Miss Elene Foster, is something entirely new in the way of a Phonograph Record. Miss Foster, who makes it, is a well-known elocutionist, having given readings and recitations before many of the leading clubs and at select entertainments in various parts of the country. She is an unusually clever mimic, as those who hear this Record will admit, and her portrayal of the garrulous village seamstress, with the latter's characteristic repetition of the gossip of the day, will be readily recognized as lifelike by all familiar with country life.

No. 9104, "Making Eyes Dooley," by Albert Benzler, is a xylophone Record with orchestra accompaniment that cannot fail to be in great demand, including as it does four popular songs, as follows: "Making Eyes," (our Record No. 9076); "Waltzing With the Girl You Love," (our Record No. 9078); "Come Along, Little Girl, Come Along," (our Record No. 9038), and "Give My Regards to Broadway," (our Record No. 9093). The orchestration is very effectively arranged with a cornet variation on "Waltzing With the Girl Your Love," which is a feature of the Record. The orchestra accompanies the xylophone.

No. 9105, "A Picnic for Two," by Harry MacDonough, is a serio-comic song and one of the most popular hits of the present season. It was written by Albert Von Tilzer (music) and Arthur J. Lamb (words), and sung in good style by Mr. MacDonough, with orchestra accompaniment. Messrs. Von Tilzer and Lamb also wrote "Teasing," our Record No. 8892. This new song is written on an entirely different theme, both words and music, but it is quite as catchy.

No. 9106, "Fishing," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch, with orchestra incidental music, introducing a summer resort flirtation scene, with a witty dialogue by Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer and concluding with Pay Templeton's song "Fishing," sung by Miss Jones. This is one of the best Records that these artists have made. It will be a favorite with everybody and especially with those who spend a vacation at any of the numerous summer resorts of the country.

No. 9107, "The Whistler and His Dog," by the Edison Military Band, will bring back pleasant memories to those who visited Asbury Park, N. J., in the past summer. "The Whistler and His Dog" was composed by Arthur Pryor. It was played with great success by the band under his leadership at Asbury Park during the season ending in September. If the piece did not appear on the regular programme it was demanded as an encore, no concert being permitted to end without it being rendered. It is written in the caprice movement and includes some effects quite new in band compositions. Our Record will be recognized as a splendid rendition of this selection.

No. 9108, "I'll Be Waiting in the Gloaming, Sweet Genevieve," by Byron G. Harlan, is a sentimental ballad that is being sung with great success in Dockstader's Minstrels by Manuel Romain. It has a tuneful melody and effectively introduces a bit of the old song "Genevieve." It squite certain to achieve a wide popularity. The song is well fitted to Mr. Harlan's style of ballad singing. He is accompanied by the orchestra. J. Fred Hall wrote the words and music of this composition.

No. 9109, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," by Anthony and Harrison, is a sacred selection, the words of which were written by Annie Herbert and the music by Ira D. Sankey. It makes a splendid duet Record. As Messrs. Anthony and Harrison are both choir singers in one of the principal New York City churches they are able to give the hymn a perfect interpretation. Our recording department has had many calls for this selection. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9110, "New Era Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a beautiful orchestral selection by J. C. Heed. It features the different instruments interestingly and is a Record that will please all who are partial to the work of our orchestras.

No. 9111, "What You Goin' to Do When the Rent Comes 'Round," is a new coon song, sung by Arthur Collins. Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown has a fondness for gambling. Bad luck has been his on this particular occasion. When he returns home Mrs. Brown won't let him in and shouts to him despairingly, "What you goin' to do when the rent comes 'round? Rufus, I love you, but this serves you right. Guess that's sufficient; good night." This song was written by Harry Von Tilzer (music) and Andrew B. Sterling (words). It is extremely funny and its melodious swing will lend it wide popularity. The orchestra accompanies the singer.

No. 9112, "Angelena," by MacDonough and Bielding, is a descriptive love song by Lawrence B. O'Connor (music) and C. E. Bielding (words), and sung with orchestra accompaniment. This is unquestionably one of the best duet Records ever made by Messrs. MacDonough and Bielding. The success of the selection is largely due to its delightful melody and swinging movement. The humming of male voices in the chorus is a new and attractive feature.

No. 9113, "Evening on the Plaza," by Samuel Siegel, is an unaccompanied mandolin solo. The selection was composed by Mr. Siegel and has been played by him on his various tours throughout the country. There is no greater artist on the mandolin than Mr. Siegel, and his selection is one of his most taking numbers, being nightly received with generous applause by discriminating audiences.

No. 9114, "My Word," by Ada Jones, furnishes another evidence of the great versatility of Miss Jones. She has been heard in coon songs, German dialect, Irish ballads, vaudeville sketches, and now she fairly outdoes previous efforts by the clever manner in which she renders Katie Barry's great success in "Fantana." The English dialect employed by Miss Jones in this song is very refreshing. The music of "My Word" was written by Raymond Hubbell and the words by Robert B. Smith. The orchestra accompanies the singer.

No. 9115, "Leader of the German Band," by Collins and Harlan, is a new comic march song by Thomas Morse (music) and Edward Madden (words), who have a number of big hits to their credit in the past season. It has a catchy swing to it and is a duet it makes a fine number. Messrs. Collins and Harlan, as usual, bring out the fun and melody in an excellent manner. They are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9116, "Yankee Grit March," by the Edison Concert Band, is Abe Holzmann's contribution in competition to his "Uncle Sammy March," four Record No. 8632) Mr. Holzmann's marches are famous throughout the world, and no composer's works spring into such sudden and lasting popularity as his.

No. 9117, "Wearing of the Green," is by Miss Marie Narelle. Even better than Miss Narelle's Record of "Killarney" in September is her rendition of this song, so dear to the heart of every true son and daughter of old Ireland. The sentiment of the song will appeal strongly to them, but Miss Narelle's artistic singing will cause the Record to be sought by all classes. Unusually good is the work of the orchestra in playing the accompaniment.

No. 9118, "Hiram Green, Good Bye," by Billy Murray, is a comic song being sung by Dave Lewis in the musical oddity "Kafoozelum." The music is by Clarence M. Chapel and the words by Henry A. Gillespie. It is cleverly sung by Mr. Murray with orchestra accompaniment. Hiram is a country lad who wants to see the city, and his friends sorrowfully bid him good bye, knowing well what his finish will be. That Hiram is verdant may be seen by the following bit of introduced dialogue: Bunco Man—"Hello, Hiram, come with me and I'll show you the Tenderloin." Hiram—"Tenderloin! Gee, that's my favorite kind of steak."

No. 9119, "The Musical Yankee," by Len Spencer, is a vaudeville musical specialty in which are introduced music by sleighbells, xylophone, violin, ocarina and cornet. The conversation between the musical Yankee and the leader of the orchestra is decidedly humorous and gives a flavor of theatre realism seldom attained in a record performance. Because of its unusual variety this Record will be a large seller.

No. 9120, "Hard Times Come Again no More," by the Edison Male Quartette. A better quartette Record is seldom heard. The verse is given in the form of solo, duet, trio and quartette and the chorus by the quartette. It is beautifully sung and extremely interesting from the fact of its consistant change in tone color. The orchestral background lends an added charm.

No. 9121, "My Maryland March," by the Edison Military Band, is a delightful march by W. S. Mygrant and played in splendid style by our Military Band. "Maryland, My Maryland," is introduced into the composition in a most attractive manner.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON.

[An interview by Francis Arthur Jones, published in Strand, May, 1905.]

Probably no man living has ever been the subject of more remarkable newspaper stories than Thomas Alva Edison. The very rarely grants interviews to journalists, and consequently, the hard-pressed reporter has considerable scope given to his gifts of imagination when he calls on Edison for a new "story" respecting the inventor of the incandescent lamp. It is very seldom, however, that Edison takes the trouble to contradict these tales, though a short time ago he issued a statement with reference to a certain American publication attributing a weekly interview with him and attributing to it a long and circumstantial set of so extraordinary a character as to call forth a letter from Mr. Edison's legal adviser, in which he denied that there was any truth whatever in the alleged interviews. Remarkable as the statement may appear, there is no exaggeration in it. Edison's own work is among the marvels of the whole world, and no composer's works spring into such sudden and lasting popularity as his.

The present writer has paid many visits to the Edison laboratory at Orange, N. J., and had the honor of being granted more than one interview with the inventor, a fact for which he had special permission and approval that is specially set forth in the Strand Magazine and the various articles written in the laboratory were photographed. During these visits to Orange much interesting information was obtained from Edison himself, who are in the inventor's confidence, though much of the published which has not been sanctioned by Mr. Edison himself.

"If you have any full revelations," he said, "to come here when you please, gather all the information you require, and photograph the laboratory from end to end. But this was certainly a generous invitation, of which the reader, it is scarcely necessary to say, took full advantage.

The Edison laboratory consists of a group of buildings of impressive proportions, erected in the midst of green meadows and shady trees, and is probably more picturesquely situated than any other place of the kind in the world. The main building is two hundred feet long by one hundred and three stories high, while the four smaller buildings are by a hundred feet by twenty-five feet and one story high. The laboratory is constantly added to, and each year sees some improvement or enlargement.

On first entering, one is ushered into a fine library a handsomely furnished and fully forty feet high. It has many interesting features, including a magnificent collection of minerals and geological specimens purchased in Paris many years ago. The collection is scientifically classified, and has been gathered together in this spacious room number close upon sixty thousand specimens, and includes every examples and variety of geology, with scientific research published throughout the world in connection with the subject.

It may be remarked here that Mr. Edison seldom replies personally to a letter, and, indeed, rarely even signs one, and it is not a fact, as too often been stated, that he speaks his replies into a Phonograph, which are afterwards submitted in paper by his secretary. He simply glances at those letters which are of sufficient importance to be placed before him, and scribbles a few words on the margin, after which his secretary takes it. Mr. Edison's writing is not a polite one-hand, for he has no particular dislike to writing, and could, if necessary, do the chief through some correspondence day after day, but, to be at one of the quickest longhand writers in the world, having cultivated the art when a telegraphist many years ago.

Near Mr. Edison's desk is an alcove containing a small table and a chair, and here the inventor occasionally takes his modest lunch, in the midst of the plainest description, for he suffers at times from indigestion and has to be careful. The lunch is brought to him in a little basket each day by Mrs. Edison, who packs the little basket herself.

Near the library are the stock rooms, where everything necessary for scientific experimenting may be found, and its quantities which would fill a shop many years. The room is long and narrow, but of exceptionable height, and contains thousands of small drawers, numbered and from the floor to the roof, labelled with a hundred quaner titles, such as ores, needles, shells, rosewood, fibres, inks, tools, borers, gums, resins, feathers, etc.

One of the most interesting sections of the laboratory is the galvanometer building, presided over by Messrs. Robert Hollis and N. Trasbolt, both young men of considerable clever scientists. This building is of heroic size and excellently lighted by a dozen large windows. The great height is made from the fact that a great deal of cement was used in its construction, everything being of brick and stone. Its practicality, was great, but subsequently proved to be a needless money wasted, for it had not been erected more than a few months when electric cars were put on a line very near to it, thus rendering futile Mr. Edison's costly endowment in this "magnetic influence." Near this galvanometer is a room which contains nothing but a very big safe and a big writing table, and here Mr. Edison, after a hundred quiet titles, such as ores, needles, shells, rosewood, fibres, inks, tools, borers, gums, resins, feathers, etc.

it made. The latter is presided over by Mr. John F. Ott, and it is here where all the small models are made. In the heavy machine shop, in charge of Mr. Robert A. Backman, is turned out the big machinery used in the cement works and elsewhere, as well as the large Phonograph parts.

Another interesting room is known as the Precision Room, where all the instruments are perfected. This room is also in charge of Mr. Ott. Here all the most delicate parts of the machinery used in the construction of the various inventions are made. There are also the automatic machines in this room, all of an automatic nature, and the tool room, in charge of which the body of a Phonograph is made in one operation. The metal box on which the Phonograph is mounted is placed on the machine, and simultaneously eight holes are drilled, the box is milled, and the corners are sawed to size. This takes but a few minutes, and one man is able to turn out a hundred a day.

Perhaps the room having the greatest amount of interest for the general public is that presided over by Mr. W. T. Wangemann, and known as Room No. 13, or the Phonograph Experimental Department. Here Mr. Wangemann has a large library, in which he shows here—hundreds of records, forms of horns ranging in length from a few inches to eighteen feet, Phonographs of all sizes and shapes, Records, etc. In this room efforts are being constantly made to obtain better sound results and superior Records.

"All the work done in this room," Mr. Wangemann said, "is of a purely experimental nature. Many efforts are considered on obtaining better apparatus for recording and reproducing, better raw materials for cylinders, and better Records, both blank and moulded, etc. In fact, it is here that every effort at improving and advancing the present way of Phonograph production and reproduction is made. We are constantly experimenting with different kinds of materials, new compounds for blank Records, new shapes or formels, and, in fact, there is nothing we do not try in order to obtain perfection of sound reproduction."

Mr. Wangemann has spent many weeks and months in this room, and has put in not two and three in the morning. He has a small cot in the corner, and when the experiments are most interesting here he sits and listens to Records for many hours at a time, scribbling on scraps of paper his opinions of the various Records. No one is allowed in this room under any circumstances, and the Edison agent who has every part of every Record in this room, endeavoring to render the Phonograph perfect, has given up much of his time finding out the reasons for poor work, for he believes that more can be learned from things going wrong than from things which go well. As readers may be aware, there is no substance known to the Phonograph industry—moulded wax excepted—of which will not recognize sound waves vitally. If it were possible to find a substance which would be absolutely dead to sound, and yet solid enough to be used in mechanical construction, then one could obtain for superior reproductions of sound waves, both vocal and instrumental.

The Chemical Department of the Edison laboratory is under the charge of Mr. Frank L. Dyer, who employs a numerous staff, and who is, perhaps, one of the hardest worked individuals in the building. Although a member of a prominent firm of patent lawyers in New York, he spends practically his entire time in the laboratory, and there is little in regard to Mr. Edison's many inventions with which he is not connected. The writer had an interesting conversation with Mr. Dyer regarding his department in the course of which he said:

"Mr. Edison's work being based almost entirely on such investigations, many of my work has to do with Mr. Edisons and suits based thereon. Not only has Mr. Edison numerous suits for alleged profits in vestor and interest charge thus, having filed more than one thousand one hundred applications for patents, since, for which over seven hundred patents have so far been granted, and more than two hundred applications for foreign patents in most of the countries in the world, but numerous and frequent applications for reissues of the basic Edison experiments and workers connected with them. The coal companies that are identified with the Edison Interests, such as the Standard Phonograph Co., the Edison Manufacturing Co., the Edison Storage Battery Co., the Edison Portland Cement Co., and about twenty others. Consequently there are always several hundred active applications pending, according to this country and abroad, the special details of which have to be remembered in order that they may be properly prosecuted.

"It is, of course, physically impossible for me or my department to attend personally in the many suits against infringers of the Edison patents all over the world, although they are conducted under my own direction and some by me personally. In this work, however, I have the assistance of Mr. Frederick Ives in New York, Chicago, Washington, London, Paris and elsewhere. In addition to the patent suits, there are many other legal actions of which this department has charge and many of which it directly conducts, such as the many damage suits for personal injuries, actions based on contracts, matters of insurance, etc.

"Mr. Edison's work as an inventor," continued Mr. Dyer, "as shown by the records in my office, extends over a most varied field. In addition to his better-known patents granted in connection with the development of the electric lamp, the Phonograph, telegraph, telephone, ore-milling machinery, and storage battery, there are his patents relating to fire extinguishers, typewriters, electric pens, voting machines, addressing machines, methods of preserving fruit, cast-iron manufacture, wire-drawing, electric incandescence, moving picture machines, the making of plate glass, concentration apparatus, and many others. In the line of Phonographic art he has secured a hundred and one patents on Phonographs and Graphophones, on electric motors twenty patents, on telegraphs a hundred and forty-seven patents, on telephones thirty-two patents, on electric lights a hundred and sixty-nine patents, on dynamos ninety-seven patents, and on 'miscellaneous' one hundred and seventy patents. What it is remarkable in Mr. Edison's inventions is that they consist simply of a carbon filament in an exhausted glass bulb, and that practically nothing in developing the lamp—apart from different patentable modifications and improvements on such device appears really novel.

Mr. Edison being a proverbially modest man and "shunning the limelight as much as he can," Mr. Dyer himself, took the opportunity of asking Mr. Edison if he would give me some of the results of his observations of the great inventor during the many years with which he had been connected with him, and which were necessarily by no means valueless and are more than any journalistic interview. Mr. Dyer was kind enough to write the following, which together in full fashion, he similarly signed:

"I presume the commonly accepted idea of Mr. Edison is that by brilliant flashes of intellect inventions spring fully developed from his brain, or else that he has had the singular good fortune to acquire the instrument to whom Nature communicates her discoveries. The fact is that he has had the ordinary education to start with, a good grasp of the successive monthly distributions of a battery.

"Neither of these views is correct, and Mr. Edison draws a very broad line between 'discovery' and 'invention.' In his estimate a discovery is a 'scratch'—something that might be disclosed to any one and give no indication of possible value, while an invention, on the other hand, is the result of disciplined mental faculty which perceives the application of some phenomenon or action in a new way. As an inventor, therefore, Mr. Edison possesses two qualifications preeminently that, the inventive faculty, and the mental insistence by which the adaptability of some observed fact is developed. He is constantly asking himself the physical energy and patience necessary for the investigation by which that result shall be ascertained.

"Although capable of flashes of great genius, his mind is necessarily analytical, and when a problem is presented to his attention it may be safely presumed that he will not abandon it until he has mastered it, and the more intricate and obscure the problem, requiring this mental equipment, his success has depended, with every fresh effort, largely on his physical as well as upon a certain acidity of his nervous system that has taken no account of fatigue or mental. In other words, day after day, with only a few hours' sleep, he has kept his mind concentrated on the one question, and the physical energy and patience necessary for this would drive most men into nervous prostration.

"In a recent argument in a suit on one of Mr. Edison's patents opposing counsel sought to show that Edison was more an inventor than a discoverer, and in this the remark made was entirely complimentary. Mr. Edison's inventions have very largely consisted in the following new mechanical appliances, until to-day the Edison Laboratory is a vast museum of the most perfect tools, very popular conception of Mr. Edison is that of a man who accomplishes startling results by instantaneous flashes of intellect. The real Edison is a man of indefatigable industry, who attains his ends by concentrated effort intelligently applied.

"In the subject of 'scratches,' but very few real discoveries have been made by him. In one of these, experiments were being made in the early days with automatic telegraphy where the effect of the current was to produce chemical changes in moving paper strips with various substances. In conducting these experiments Mr. Edison held in his hand a pen, through which the current passed, and which touched the paper. It was found that, with some chemicals, the presence of the current increased the friction between the pen and the paper, so as to subject the pen to slight pulls. Later, when experimenting with the telephone, these earlier ideas were applied to this, and as a result the 'telegraph,' or 'talking telephone receiver,' was invented, wherein the same phenomenon is employed. Although this work Mr. Edison regards as a 'scratch,' it serves to see that very few men had ever had the inventive faculty to foresee that using a new telephone."

A very good example of the inventor's methods may be found in the perfected Edison storage battery. Here, however, the details of this development would require a book of much human nature, of intense interest, of bitter disappointments, of many disappointments, and of final successful realization. In the first place, the defects of the old battery, as used for electric motive power purposes, or to telegraphs a hundred and forty-seven patents, on telephones thirty-two patents, on electric lights a hundred and sixty-nine patents, on dynamos ninety-seven patents, and on 'miscellaneous' one hundred and seventy patents. It is one of the inventor's greatest achievements, but from all that I can find there may be very few people who are not directly or indirectly interested in the automobile. The storage battery might be held of its very least of Mr. Edison's inventions, for it is an unalterable rule with him never to allow any invention issue from his laboratory until it is absolutely perfect. Everyone knows how, when he was at work on the Phonograph, he would not, so as to subject the pen to slight pulls. Later, when experimenting with the telephone, these earlier ideas were applied to this, and as a result the 'telegraph,' or 'talking telephone receiver,' was invented, wherein the same phenomenon is employed. "In the subject of 'scratches,' but very few real

I have dwelt somewhat at length on this story of the perfecting of the Edison battery, not only because Readers may also be interested to learn that the first patent on the Phonograph was granted to the United States on February 19, 1878, and was dated February 19, 1878, No. 200,521. "In this patent is disclosed the new blanket instrument in which the sounds are recorded on a sheet of tinfoil applied to the surface of a cylinder. The patent also discloses in an application filed December 24, 1877, and dated January 30, 1877, No. 2,900, Mr. Edison's original Phonograph or cylinder Phonograph, but also an apparatus embodying his original conception of an embossed strip.

I have left all reference to the chemical department until the last for two reasons. First, because it is the most interesting department to the ordinary layman, and secondly, because it was there that I first saw Mr. Edison. The room is a large one, with numerous benches and tables, and is divided into sections, the outer and larger being presided over by Mr. Fred Ott, while the inner and smaller is Mr. Edison's own private sanctum. Very few people are allowed entrance to this room, and those who are are closely connected with the experimental work—although when the "old man," as his assistants love to call him in full reverence, is engaged in endeavoring to solve some scientific conundrum, he is so absorbed as to be perfectly unconscious of any one's presence.

Mr. Edison has spent many days and nights in this room, without taking any sleep, and often is engrossed in his experiments as to even forget to eat. Latterly, however, Mrs. Edison, with characteristic wifely privilege, has insisted on her husband returning home in reasonable time, and, in order that he should not have the excuse of being able to say that he had no food there, she has had the laboratory built on to their beautiful home in Llewellyn Park, where the inventor may prosecute his favorite investigations undisturbed.

The chemical department at the Edison laboratory differs very little in appearance from those belonging to other noted scientists and inventors, though it is probably larger than the majority. It is, of course, littered with every contrivance necessary to scientific experimenting, and replete with philtres, stills, "surprise" jars, batteries, carbonizing, or reducing chemicals, fume chambers, test-tubes (for testing the solution of his storage battery), every kind of chemical, numerous clocks, etc.

On entering the chemical department I found Mr. Edison seated at his table chatting to half-a-dozen of his "boys," as he always calls his assistants, and apparently enjoying a rest. I did not like to disturb or examine his features without his being aware of the fact. Most readers doubtless know Edison from the portrait of him published many years ago, and which shows him listening to the Phonograph. Although taken almost twenty years ago, the inventor still resembles this photograph to a remarkable degree. The broad, high forehead, the deep, penetrating and youthful expression which will, without doubt, always be its chief characteristic, whatever age he may reach.

He is of medium height, powerfully and compactly built, and on the day I saw him, was wearing a well worn coat of dark-grey material, pants, and an old pair of trousers, spotless linen and collar and tie. His head is massive, the forehead high, eyes deeply set, brows overhanging, and the expression extraordinarily keen. His eyes are wonderfully luminous and, when he is interested, light up his entire face. His hair is plentiful and brushed back from the temples. He is somewhat deaf in the right ear, and, though constantly placing his hand behind his left ear in order to catch what is being said, the organ has been pressed slightly forward. He was speaking in a very quiet voice, and was watching the lips of those who were answering him, in order the more readily to catch their remarks.

Suddenly he became conscious that there was a stranger to the room, and, jumping from the table with the agility of a boy, welcomed me in hearty American fashion, and was about to lead the way into his own room when he paused and asked me if I ever wrote a moment while he read the "boys" a few letters which had arrived by the morning mail. Therefore, he took from a drawer a sheet of paper out of his pocket, on which was typed a humorous paragraph, which he read to the young men who were crowding round him, and I joined in the hearty laugh which followed the recital. Like Lincoln, Edison loves a good story.

Then he led the way into his sanctum, and seating himself at his table, where he has evolved so many wonders, motioned me to a chair beside him and expressed a desire to know what he could do for me. I almost felt inclined to request him to invent some machine which would write my interviews, but, instead, I asked him to tell me of his latest. Such when he printed and published the Weekly Herald on board the cutters running between Port Huron and Detroit.

There was not much to tell, he declared. He was a boy of fourteen at the time, and the idea of publishing a newspaper had come to him one day, and at times before he was able to put it in actual operation. Early in 1862 he bought some old type and "wiezers" of the Detroit Free Press, obtained the use of a smoking car on his paddleling and printing office, and founded the Weekly Herald. He did all the work himself; set up the type, wrote the editorials, gathered the news, and, when the paper was printed, he sold the papers himself, and in a very short time had no fewer than four hundred subscribers. The paper ran for several months, and then, in an unfortunate moment, the "staff" began to combine chemistry with journalism. As a journalistic enterprise, set fire to the office with a stink bottle, and was summarily ejected from his "office."

"In this way," laughed Mr. Edison, "the Weekly Herald came to an end. But I had got quite finished with journalism, for soon after I issued a 'society' paper called Paul Pry, which, however, only ran a few numbers."

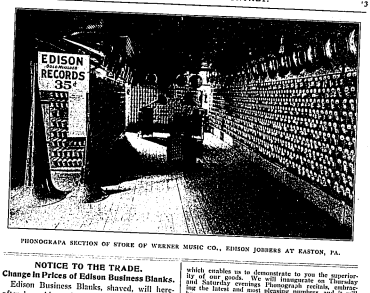
One copy only of the Weekly Herald appears to have been preserved, and that was rescued from destruction by Mrs. Edison, who kept it as a memento of her husband's early days. It is a most interesting little sheet, and though stained and creased, probably from being carried in the pocket, is very well printed, and contains a number of pages of features. Edison was keenly alive to the last item of attracting new subscribers. "In a few weeks," announces the editor, "each subscriber will have his name printed on his paper."

One of the stories most frequently related regarding Edison's earlier days tells how, when he was working in a certain factory, he was called upon to evolve some means whereby the hordes of cockroaches which infested the place might be got rid of. For the special benefit of these insects he constructed a trap and charged it with electricity, so that each insect on touching it received a shock which effectually settled it. Mr. Edison laughingly told me that not if this story was true, and he acknowledged that it was.

There seems to be a generally expressed belief that Mr. Edison dislikes the Phonograph, and some papers have gone so far as to affirm that he will not allow one to be in his house. I asked Mr. Edison to corroborate this, but he could not do so. "I am very fond of the Phonograph," he said, "and can listen to good Records by the hour. I do not, perhaps, like the Records that are most popular with the public, for I am not particularly fond of so-called comic songs, or ragtime music. My favorite music is Beethoven, and I never tire listening to his symphonies."

Mr. Edison has never spoken into a Phonograph for the purpose of making a selling Record, and seemed surprised when I suggested that if he did so it would certainly have an enormous sale. But he has made Records for his own amusement, and I can think so. He might some day speak into the Phonograph the story of how he invented the talking machine, but he did not consider it very likely, as we let it go at that, and I asked him what was the longest time he ever spent over an invention without leaving it.

"Four days and five nights," he replied. "During that time I had no sleep and had most of my meals standing. I did not find it a great hardship, and put so accustomed to doing without sleep that, had I wished to do so, I could have gone on for another two days. I have met men who work with me here in this laboratory who are accustomed over a few days and nights to go without sleep, and who will work for three and four days and nights with me before I turn my ideas. Every inventor must possess unceasing energy if he is desirous of achieving anything. Without it he will certainly fall in his objects."



What do I consider the greatest invention of the 19th century? Why, America, of course. She probably has more need of inventions, for labor is dear, and so some means must be found to reduce the times short. My greatest invention? Well, I am not sure on which I consider has been the greatest benefit to mankind, but undoubtedly my incandescent light system is, as it is certainly the one of which I am most proud."

It seemed superfluous, when one considered how tenaciously Mr. Edison sticks to his work, to ask the inventor if he had any "hobbys," but I did so, and he at once declared that he had. "Chemistry and mechanics are my chief hobbys," he answered, "and I find myself as much at home in the laboratory as a fond of driving, and, of course, deeply interested in automobiling."

Mr. Edison looked affectionately at a glass tube containing some kind of solution suspended over an electric spark, and as the liquid began to bubble I remembered that I had heard that the famous inventor spends by naked him if he contemplated a visit to England, and he replied that in the course of a year or two he might give himself that pleasure. He had already made two visits to Great Britain, and on each occasion his reception had been so warm and sincere that he felt very much inclined to repeat the experience. Then, as I rose to depart, he took with some scarlety the building already, and as I looked back from the laboratory door I knew that his mind was once more absorbed in some experiment, or experiment, and that everything else was forgotten.

JULY, 1904, PHONOGRAM REPRINTED.

Owing to the hundreds of requests for copies of the first issue of the new Phonogram (July, 1904), we have reprinted a limited edition, and will mail copies at two cents each. It is our intention to later reprint the pictures of Messrs. Collins and Harlan, which appeared in the first issue, but many correspondents were anxious to get a complete file.

SOUTHERN DEALER'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

The following is part of a letter sent by the Southern Phonograph Co., of Birmingham, Ala., to its patrons, announcing its removal to larger quarters to 116 North 21st street:

Our list of Edison Records is replete with all the elegant and latest numbers of those famous Records, which are unequalled and which are recognized the world over as the acme of excellence in the art of reproduction of sound. There is but one perfect instrument for the reproduction of sound, in its full value of beautiful tone, and that instrument is the Phonograph, and that is the Edison Phonograph, in connection with the Edison Gold Moulded Record. This instrument faithfully reproduces every musical instrument and all the peculiarities of tone incident thereto, and the Records can be played over without sensible diminution of volume or tone.

We will occupy the entire building, and in the arrangement of our parlors have an eye single to the comfort and convenience of our patrons. One of the greatest benefits accruing to our removal to the new quarters is the freedom from noise and other disturbing influences we were forced to endure in the old location. We will be all to ourselves, too, all of which enables us to demonstrate to you the superiority of our goods. We will inaugurate on Thursday and Saturday evenings Phonograph recitals, rendering the latest and most pleasing numbers, and it will be our constant aim to please in your pleasures, not only during these entertainments, but at all times to the best of our ability.

We take pleasure in inviting your attention to the fact that we are the original introducers in Birmingham of this famous instrument, the Phonograph, which have furnished so much delight to thousands.

Thanking you for past patronage, and taking this occasion to state that we will endeavor to merit to the fullest extent a continuance of same, we beg to remain, SOUTHERN PHONOGRAPH CO.

VISITORS FROM INDIA.

Messrs. Rustanji Jamseiji Noorkoy and S. J. Noorkhoy, of Khetwady, Bombay, India, representing the Standard Trading Agency, called at the Laboratory on Wednesday, August 9th, with Senor Cabanas, of the Foreign Department. They have been on a tour through Europe and America since May 1st last. They will reach home again about November 1st, after having visited thirty cities in Europe and America, and traveling over 25,000 miles.

The J. F. Schmelzer & Sons' Arms Co., of Kansas City, who became Jobbers in Edison goods a few months ago, recently wrote:

"We find a greater demand for these machines than any others. We are pleased to state that our business in Edison goods is far better than we anticipated. We are getting up circular matter and send it out broadcast, and we are satisfied that it will have the desired effect."

A GREAT SEASON AT HAND.

From the manner in which orders for Phonographs and Records have been received in the past month it is evident that the Jobbers are amply anticipating their wants and are preparing for a great fall and winter season in Edison goods. Every order for both machines and Records shows a large increase over orders placed by the same firms at the same time a year ago. This makes it certain that our factory facilities will be strained to the last degree to meet the demand. Hundreds of hands have been added to the working force and many departments are working nights as well as days, with two shifts of hands. This will be continued for the remainder of the year at least and as much longer as the demand makes it necessary.

Many of the orders placed by Jobbers cover a period of four months and provide for shipments at a given time each month or as near as circumstances will make it possible. This plan enables our factory force to plan for some months in advance and it ensures Jobbers getting goods nearer on time than would be possible if orders were placed from month to month. Dealers would act wisely if they would adopt a similar policy and give their Jobbers orders covering the remainder of the year, with shipments of a certain quantity each month. Jobbers would appreciate this and Dealers would be in better shape to supply the wants of their patrons than if they waited till their stocks were nearly depleted before they placed their orders. Every Dealer who is making an earnest effort to sell Edison goods can safely count upon an increase of from twenty-five to fifty per cent. over his business in the fall of last year and can order accordingly.

The advertising that we are doing this fall is double what it was in the same months last year and the expenditures for November and

December will be the largest in the history of the company. It is certain to create an unprecedented demand for Edison Phonographs and Records, and the Dealers who do not carry a sufficient stock to meet the demand will learn of their mistake when too late to remedy it. Dealers will also find it profitable to do an extra amount of advertising in their local papers, so that the public after reading our general advertisements in the magazines will know where to buy the goods in their own cities and towns.

MUST GET ORDERS IN BY THE 10th.

The following letter was sent to our Jobbers in the latter part of August, just too late for publication in the September PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY:

NEW YORK, AUG. 26, 1905.

For the reason that some Jobbers are not complying with our instructions and request, that their stock orders for advance Records be sent us not later than the 10th of the month following receipt of lists, we again beg to notify you that unless such orders are sent us by the 10th of the month, we cannot promise shipment of them at same time shipment is made to such Jobbers as send their orders by that time.

This month there are some Jobbers who have not sent in their orders for September Records and for that reason shipment of same, if order is received, cannot be made at same time as to other Jobbers, which will be some time next week.

As we believe it is very important, if not absolutely imperative, that each and every Jobber receive their stock of advance Records at the same time, we trust any who have heretofore been delinquent in getting their orders in on time, as above requested, will hereafter see that delays of so serious a nature do not occur again.

C. H. WILSON,
Manager of Sales.

There is little to add to this notice, except to say that the greatly increased demand for Records makes it absolutely necessary to get orders in by the 10th. If shipments are to be made between the 25th and the 1st of the month we must have the co-operation of Jobbers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR THE TRADE.

Lovejoy Novelty Works, Laramie, Wyo.—Are the words "Gold Moulded" copyrighted as applied to Edison Records? There is a party here that is advertising another make of records as "Gold Moulded." Now, the word "Gold Moulded" is misleading, as it would make people think that they were the same as the Edison Records.

[It is not copyrighted. It was, however, originally used by this company to describe Mr. Edison's original process of using gold in making moulds for Phonograph Records. The value of the phrase was not recognized till it was too late to copyright it.]

A SURE WAY TO INCREASE SALES.

Every month we spend thousands of dollars advertising the Edison Phonograph. Did you ever think that this advertising is done for your benefit, Mr. Dealer?—to send you new customers? Most Dealers appreciate this great help. Others apparently think it is nothing because it costs them nothing. They will not take care of the business we send them. Our advertising produces inquiries about the Phonograph from prospective buyers all over the country. They want to know just what a Phonograph will do for them in the home, and how much it will cost.

We send them a booklet, and write them that we have sent their names to the nearest Dealer, who will call or write and give them full particulars. Then we send the Dealer a Home Office Reference giving the name and address of the inquirers and asking him to report to us the result of his call or letter. And here's where we find out whether the Dealer appreciates the free advertising or not. Most Dealers call or write promptly, and in a large percentage of cases, make a sale. Others apparently throw this valuable information in the waste basket and neglect a good prospect of a sale, because a little effort is required to handle it.

Of course we know that every prospective does not buy, but a large percentage do, if properly followed up by the Dealer. But whether they buy or not we want to know. We want every Dealer to give Home Office References prompt and careful attention, and then report to us. This information is important. It tells us how much our advertising accomplishes, where it is weak, how it can be improved, how we can help the Dealer to close sales, and whether it will pay to increase the advertising.

Won't you help us help you? Designate some one in your office to take care of these references and report to us. Progressive Dealers find that it pays, and so will you if you have not heretofore given this matter the attention it deserves. Now is a good time to start handling references systematically. Our advertising is heavier this fall than ever before, and if Dealers want us to keep up this expenditure, they should work with a will to make it pay.

Owing to a typographical error the title of No. 9116, "Yankee Grit March," is given in the October Supplement as "Yankee Girl March." Dealers whose patrons call attention to it will please explain the matter. But for the large edition we would have had the supplement reprinted.

WESTERN SALES FORCE VISIT THE ORANGE FACTORY.

George M. Nisbett, Manager of our Chicago office, and his seven salesmen, paid a visit to the factory at Orange, N. J., during the week of August 28. They reached New York on August 28 and spent the two following days inspecting Mr. Edison's laboratory and the various buildings which comprise the factory of the National Phonograph Co. It was the first visit to Orange of most of the salesmen, and they obtained a much better idea of how Phonographs and Records are made than they had before known. They also found the plant a much larger proposition than they had anticipated. Mr. Edison met the party at the laboratory and gave each a cordial hand shake and a pleasant greeting. The occasion was the first time that the Western salesmen had ever met together, and on the second day the wish was expressed that they might be photographed in a group. A happy combination of circumstances made it possible to get Mr. Edison, Mr. William E. Gilmore, President of the company, and Mr. C. H. Wilson, General Manager of Sales, to join the group. The picture is reproduced herewith. Mr. Nisbett was detained in New York and to the regret of his faithful co-workers could not be included in the picture. This will explain why his photograph is here given separately.

WESTERN SALESMEN AT THE EDISON LABORATORY.

The seven salesmen are standing in the back row and reading from right to left they are: W. C. Patrick, L. R. Chandler, F. L. Fritsley, W. Hoos, A. H. Kloehr, M. C. Kreusch and A. B. Chandler. In the center of the front row are Mr. Edison and Mr. W. E. Gilmore, President of the company. Mr. Wilson, General Sales Manager, sits at the right and L. C. McChesney, Advertising Manager, at the left.

GEORGE M. NISBETT,
Western Manager.

Thursday and Friday were spent in seeing New York and its nearby resorts. On Thursday night President Gilmore gave a dinner in honor of the party in New York. When the party left for Chicago Friday night they had absorbed enough material to tell interesting stories to the trade for some weeks to come.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

Finch & Hahn, of Albany, have moved their Troy branch from 7 Third street to 3 Third street, and their Schenectady branch from 496 State street to 504 State street.

The Eclipse Phonograph Company, of Cleveland, O., have removed to 162 Prospect street.

The Knoxville Typewriter and Phonograph Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., have moved from 311 Clinch street to 421 Gay street.

The American Phonograph Co., of Gloversville, N. Y., opened a branch jobbing agency at 34 Church street, Burlington, Vt., on October 2.

New Edison Jobbers during the past month were the Hext Music Co., Denver, Colo., the Talking Machine Co., Pittsburg, and W. A. Meyers, Williamsport, Pa.

W. E. Henry, formerly manager of the Pittsburg branch of the Columbia Phonograph Co., in connection with P. A. Powers, of Buffalo, has opened a large wholesale and retail talking machine store at 619 Penn avenue, Pittsburg, under the title of the Talking Machine Co. They have already become Edison Jobbers. They have fitted up their large store in handsome style.

The Eastern Talking Machine Co., Boston, Mass., is one of the very prosperous concerns of the country. Last year it declared a dividend of over 30 per cent., and perhaps this will be exceeded for the current fiscal period. Starting with a capital of $7,500, it is now rambling along cheerfully and contentedly, with its financial standing rated at $75,000 and not owing a dollar.—Music Trade Review.

ABOUT OURSELVES.

John R. Schermerhorn, Assistant General Manager of the National Phonograph Co., sailed on September 26 on the Kronprinz Wilhelm to spend several months at our branch offices in London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels, and also to look into the matter of establishing branches in other European cities.

C. H. Wilson, General Manager of Sales, is making a trip to the Pacific Coast with a view of establishing new trade relations in several of the large cities west of the Rocky Mountains. He is accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, and will visit several Jobbers between Chicago and San Francisco before he returns.

Edgar W. Dennison resigned on September 16 as Secretary of the National Phonograph Co. A. Westee, General Auditor, who has been with the company almost since its organization, has been appointed Secretary in place of Mr. Dennison.

Walter H. Miller, Manager of our Recording Department, returned in the latter part of August from a tour of the recording plants at London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels. Mrs. Miller made the trip with him.

Charles N. Wurth, of the Edison Laboratory, returned recently from Europe, where he spent the past two years installing Record moulding plants at Paris, Berlin and Brussels.

A WORD TO DEALERS ABOUT ORDERS FOR PARTS, ETC.

We would like to impress upon sub-Dealers the desirability of having Reproducers and Recorders repaired and ordering small parts through their Jobbers. When Dealers who are buying goods from Jobbers send such orders to us it causes a lot of needless trouble. Before we can receive the order we must get the Dealer to sign agreement, because we do not allow a Jobber to sell goods to a Dealer who has not signed through him and to be consistent we cannot do it ourselves. This done the order is put through. When the work is done or the parts ready for shipment we must put through a pro forma bill, having no knowledge of the Dealer's financial standing. When the bill is paid shipment is made. All of this trouble would be saved if orders were placed through Jobbers and the Dealer would get much better service. Should Jobbers decline to handle these small orders, we shall be glad to have the Dealer send us the Jobber's refusal. We doubt, however, if any Jobbers would refuse to handle them.

PHONOGRAM CHANGES.

The Advertising Department would appreciate it if the Jobbers who order Phonograms each month would give us notice at least a month in advance of any change in quantity or imprints. This will enable us to order a sufficient quantity printed each month and properly fill orders for imprinted copies. By the time this paragraph is read we shall have the November Phonograms largely printed and some of them will be packed for shipment. Phonograms are packed with Records of the month and as the demand for the latter has grown to such an enormous extent we are compelled to begin packing early in the month so as to get the work completed by the 25th. After the Phonograms are packed with Records it is difficult to increase or decrease the standing order. By sending in changes before the first of the month, Jobbers will materially assist the handling of orders for Phonograms and Records.

PRINTED MATTER.

We have gotten out a special booklet, printed in two colors, for use only in replying to inquiries for our catalogues resulting from our magazine advertising. It is called "Home Entertainments with the Edison Phonograph." It is not intended to supply this form to the trade. The edition printed would not make it possible, even if we felt disposed to send it out for general distribution. It will be useless, therefore, for Jobbers or Dealers to request quantities of it.

Until we can reprint them, it will not be possible to fill any further orders for Folder No. 690, entitled "Slave of the Ring," or Card No. 746, showing the picture of Mr. Edison. It will require from four to six weeks' time to print a further edition of these forms.

For the benefit of those who do not seem to have read previous notices in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, we beg to say that Forms 535, 540 and 550 are now out of print and cannot be supplied. They will not be reprinted. The same is true of the little book marks, Form 205.

In order to have a more up-to-date catalogue for the holiday trade and avoid as far as possible the use of supplements, it has been decided not to get out a new catalogue of Domestic Records until November 1. This will include November Records. Jobbers should bear these facts in mind and not get too heavily stocked up with the present catalogue. None of the November 1 edition will be shipped till the November Records have gone out.

Form No. 409, the card in colors, showing a boy with a hatchet "Looking for the Band," is out of print and cannot be supplied to the trade.

We would again advise the trade that the booklet on the "Art of Making Phonograph Records" is out of print. A new edition is in preparation, but will not be ready for several weeks.

The numbers on Record order sheet C will run out with the December Records. Sheet D will be ready for use in December.

One of the handsomest and most effective show-cards that we have had sent us is that recently published by the National Phonograph Co, Ltd. It is an oval portrait of Edison, with the famous trade mark signature underneath, and at top the words "Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records." The background of the card is apparently of mahogany, and the graining of the wood is really wonderfully well imitated. The card is actually of steel, and is nineteen inches by thirteen.—Talking Machine News, London.

LOOK OUT FOR BOGUS PARTS.

Dealers are cautioned against buying bogus parts for Edison Phonographs, reproducers and records. Order Edison parts and insist upon having them. The difference in cost between Edison parts and imitations is trifling but the difference in quality makes the latter much more expensive in the end, to say nothing of the dissatisfaction of customers who get the inferior parts.

STOLEN PHONOGRAPH.

F. H. Van Duzer, a Dealer at Port Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y., had a Home Phonograph No. 144854 stolen from his store on the night of September 14. If any Dealer is asked to buy it he should hold the machine and notify Mr. Van Duzer.

READ THE MONTHLY.

It is to be regretted that many Jobbers and Dealers do not pay sufficient attention to the information given them in these columns. This is especially true of printed matter. Much correspondence could be saved if they would read and remember the information given them, especially that concerning the issuance of new forms of printed matter and also of forms, the editions of which become exhausted.

HOW FATHER OUTDID EDISON.

"I'll bet you that I'm not kep awake until midnight by that gabby Clarence."

And he wasn't.

COULDN'T RESIST ITS CHARMS.

I sold a Home outfit recently to a man that said he would not have a talking machine in his home. I said to him, "Yes you would if you heard an Edison Phonograph." He said, "No I would not have one." "Well," I said, "you let me bring an Edison Home machine up to your home and you will be delighted so much, and so surprised, that you will buy one at once." So he consented to let me bring it to his home. I took it with the latest Records and I sold him the Home machine, a large horn and stand and three dozen Records, and he is now one of my best customers. I won him over to the Phonograph completely. He told me that he was delighted with it and would not part with it for anything.

BOUGHT THE WHOLE LIST.

As it may be interesting to you to note the value of your methods of advertising, we relate an instance that was quite interesting to us, which happened a few days ago. A gentleman came in with a full page from McClure's Magazine containing the Edison advertisement, wherein any one interested was requested to call upon the nearest dealer and hear several select numbers. After hearing two or three pieces, he requested that we wrap up the entire list without exception. This is rather unusual, but quite satisfactory.

GREAT AID IN MISSIONARY WORK.

The following is an extract from a letter received from the Rev. J. H. Pettee, for twenty-seven years a missionary in Japan:

"I am constantly using my Edison Phonograph to the great delight of foreigners and Japanese, civilians and soldiers, missionaries and merchants, adults and children, Russian prisoners and Japanese wounded soldiers, Buddhists and Christians, and the public generally. It is a great aid to my missionary work."

A FINE BUSINESS SHOWING.

Spratt & Corcoran, of Watertown, N. Y., became Dealers in Edison goods on December 3, 1901, with three machines and 150 Records. At that time there were several other Edison Dealers in Watertown. They at once saw the possibilities in the business and began to push the line in a most aggressive manner, becoming large advertisers in local mediums and using other up-to-date methods. On July 19 they reported that their business for less than eight months was as follows:

1328 Edison Records.
2 Gem Phonographs.
198 Standard Phonographs.
54 Home Phonographs.
2 Triumph Phonographs.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR NOVEMBER 1905.

With the advance of the amusement season and the development of song hits by the various music publishers, there comes such a variety of material suitable for Record making that it is quite a task to know what to put out first. We feel that in making up this November list our Recording Department has shown excellent judgment. It has produced twenty-four Records of unusual merit and sufficiently diversified in character to meet the approval of all. From a recording standpoint they are also fine.

No. 9122, "Hungarian Fantasia," by the Edison Concert Band, is a well-known composition by Theodore M. Tobani, written in Hungarian style and made up of Hungarian selections. It has all the characteristic snap of Hungarian music, and our Concert Band has interpreted it in a manner only obtained by a thoroughly efficient organization.

No. 9123, "Mother O' Mine," sung by Theodore Van Yorx, is by Rudyard Kipling and it has been set to music by Frank E. Tours. The music is of a dramatic character in the climaxes, which are well brought out by Mr. Van Yorx. Mr. Van Yorx's fine voice is winning him a host of Phonographic friends. The words of "Mother O' Mine" are:

If I were hanged on the highest hill,
Mother O' Mine,
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother O' Mine.

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother O' Mine.

If I were dumb'd, of body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother O' Mine.

No. 9124, "On the Banks of the Rhine with a Stein," by Collins and Harlan, is a waltz song by Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew B. Sterling, writers of "Under the Anheuser Bush," (our Record No. 8575). The music is of the same general character and fully as attractive. The song tells of the pleasures of a chat with the boys alongside of the well-filled stein. It is a new composition and is sung with much spirit by Collins and Harlan, with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9125, "Friendly Rivals," is another splendid concert duet by Herbert L. Clarke and John Hazel. Mr. Clarke is the principal cornet soloist of Sousa's Band, and Mr. Hazel is principal cornet soloist of the Edison Military Band. The music is of a polka character. Its writer is Carl Fischer.

No. 9126, "Honeymoon Hall," by Harry MacDonough, is a waltz song from "The Pearl and the Pumpkin," which had such a run at the Broadway Theatre, New York. Its music was written by John W. Bratton, and the words by Paul West. It is of a serio-comic order. It is finely sung by Mr. MacDonough, who is accompanied by the orchestra. The chorus follows:

Honeymoon, Honeymoon Hall!
O, the rent there is nothing at all,
'Tis in Bill and Coo street,
All the rooms are "sensize,"
And upon you no creditors call.
Down in Honeymoon, Honeymoon Hall!
It is crowded in springtime and fall;
There you find many by wedding march
Down in Honeymoon, Honeymoon Hall.

No. 9127, "In Timbuctoo," by Billy Murray, is a monkey ditty, not unlike "Come Down from the Big Fig Tree," by the same composers (Theodore Morse and Ed. Madden), except that "In Timbuctoo" will be judged more tuneful and interesting. We predict a big success for this song and for our Record of it. Mr. Murray has the assistance of the orchestra in his excellent rendition of this song.

No. 9128, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," by Anthony and Harrison, is a well-known gospel hymn by J. E. Gould and the Rev. Edward Hopper, and much requested by users of the Edison Phonograph. It is one of those selections that are as staple as the necessities. It will probable be a permanent selection in our catalogue. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9129, "Bold Front March," by the Edison Military Band, was composed by F. E. Seltzer, who wrote "American Standard March." The Record is made by the Edison Military Band, under the direction of Mr. Seltzer, who is its leader. It is played with a vim and dash in keeping with its attractive title.

No. 9130, "Wait 'Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," by Byron G. Harlan, is a descriptive song with a march tempo chorus. It is one of the popular ballads of the present season. Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew B. Sterling, who wrote this song, seem to be always in touch with the wants of the public and to give it just what it wants in the song line. Mr. Harlan's sympathetic voice and style are admirably suited to this selection. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9131, "And the World Goes On," by Bob Roberts, is the song hit sung by Raymond Hitchcock in his new comedy drama "Easy Dawson." Mr. Roberts makes the Record with such a perfect imitation of Mr. Hitchcock's manner of singing that it is hard to realize that Mr. Hitchcock is not singing himself. All who are familiar with this actor's style will appreciate the imitation. The singer is accompanied by the orchestra. The song is written by Harry O. Sutton (music) and Jean Lenox (words).

No. 9132, "Betty," by MacDonough and Biebling, is a swingy rhythmical schottische tempo melody, set to a sentimental story and sung in good style by these popular duettists, with orchestra accompaniment. The chorus follows:

Betty, my sweetest little fairy,
Betty I love you true.
Tell me just when we are to marry,
Give me your answer, do.
Betty, just tell me what's to hinder,
Betty, with dainty form so slender,
Betty, with eyes of blue so tender,
I love you.

No. 9133, "Roses and Thorns," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a Mexican dance previously listed in the old style Record catalogue. It is brought forward again on account of its beautiful melody and the fact that it is well adapted to our present methods of recording orchestra selections.

No. 9134, "We'll Be Together When the Clouds Roll By," is a sentimental ballad by Irving Gillette. A monthly supplement that did not include a selection by Mr. Gillette would now be regarded as incomplete by thousands of Phonograph owners. By many he is regarded as one of the best tenor singers we have ever had. This song by Kerry Mills and Alfred Bryan is well suited to Mr. Gillette's voice and cannot fail to be widely sought. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The words follow:

We'll be together, sweetheart, when the clouds roll by,
Let your heart be cheery, dearie, don't, you cry!
When the merry days are o'er, in the spring time,
Wait be together when the clouds roll by.

No. 9135, "I'm the Only Star that Twinkles on Broadway," by Ada Jones, was written by Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew B. Sterling and is sung in Miss Jones' usual attractive style with orchestra accompaniment. The following words tell how the "star twinkles":

Now I am a Broadway star all right,
I'm the star that twinkles on Broadway,
All the others are not only shining they say,
I'm a public favorite you can plainly see,
Why I'm making Leslie Carter's boy look gray;
I remember when Belasco saw me play,
Richard Carle by the hand and fainted died away,
'Cause I signed with Hill for a season,
I'm the only star that twinkles on Broadway.

No. 9136, "Pretty Mary," by Harlan and Stanley, is a beautiful sentimental ballad of the old time "Sweet Mary" order. It is just as tuneful and singable, and en its merits, both vocal and music, ought to be just as popular. The blending of the voices of Mr. Harlan and Mr. Stanley is in perfect sympathy with the old but ever new and interesting story and the charming melody to which it is set. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. The music is by Kerry Mills and the words by A. B. Sterling.

No. 9137, "Dancing in the Starlight," by the Edison Concert Band, is a delightful light number of the caprice-gavotte order and well worth a place in the most exclusive collection of Records. J. Henry Ellis is the composer.

No. 9138, "The Sweetest Flower that Blows," by Marie Narelle, is a sentimental song by Charles B. Hawley (music) and Frederick Peterson (words). Splendidly sung by Miss Narelle with orchestra accompaniment. The words follow:

The sweetest flow'r that blows,
I give you as we part,
For you it is a rose,
For me it is my heart;
The fragrance of my love,
Ah, dear, is only yours,
And in dying fails,
It is my love for you.

No. 9139, "Have You Seen My Henry Brown?" by Arthur Collins, is a new coon song that fits Mr. Collins' voice and style as if it were written especially for him. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. Henry Brown has left his loved ones who stakes her desire to find him in the following words:

Have you seen my Henry Brown,
Any place a-hanging 'round?
I'm a-looking for him, he was found.
I'm going to hunt all over town,
For that scamp that threw me down;
On my knees I ask you please, have you seen my Henry Brown?

No. 9140, "The Irish Girl I Love," is sung by Edward Barrow a well-known English tenor, who here makes his first Record for the Edison Phonograph. Mr. Barrow commenced his musical studies when but a youth. Going to London he entered the Royal Academy of Music, placing himself under Arthur Thompson, an eminent professor at the Conservatory, and later under Signor Alberto Randegger, and graduated with the highest honors. Coming to this country he continued his studies with Victor Harris. He now makes New York City his home. He is solo tenor at the Central Congregational Church, New York City, and he has appeared in concerts with the most prominent singers of the country. His first Edison selection is from "Rogers Brothers in Ireland," which opened at the Liberty Theatre, New York, in August. The song is one of the gems of the play. It has a slow waltz movement. It was written by Max Hoffman (music) and George V. Hobart (words), and the orchestra accompanies the singer.

No. 9141, "Sweet Little Daisies," by Albert Benzler, is a bells solo with orchestra accompaniment. It is one of those pretty song and dance movements that have been so well received as bells numbers and which admit of splendid orchestral embellishment in the accompaniment. The Record will rank among the best of Mr. Benzler's solos. "Sweet Little Daisies" was composed by Frank R. Seltzer, director of our Military Band.

No. 9142, "Fol-the-rol-lol," by Edward M. Favor, comprises eight unrestricted verses to the old Fol-the-rol-lol tune. Four choruses are also introduced, both male and male voices. The Record is one that will be very popular because of its extremely ludicrous character.

No. 9143, "Courtship of Barney and Eileen," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is another clever vaudeville specialty with orchestra accompaniment. This is quite unlike the specialties heretofore made by Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer, but is just as clever. It tells in Irish dialect of how Barney courted Eileen.

No. 9144, "When the Evening Breeze is Sighing 'Home, Sweet Home,'" by the Edison Male Quartette, is a charming descriptive ballad given in quartette form, effectively arranged, and sung with orchestra accompaniment with the same blending of voices and artistic style that have made the Records of this quartette so popular. The words of the refrain follow:

And the breezes still are sighing as they sighed that morning
When through the world I started forth to roam;
And it seems that I can hear the Mother's voice in me so clear,
When the evening breeze is sighing "Home, Sweet Home."

No. 9145, "Everybody Works But Father Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces five popular songs as follows: "Everybody Works But Father," our Record No. 9000; "Leader of the German Band," our Record No. 9115; "Anvelena," our Record No. 9112; "In Dear Old Georgia," our Record No. 9099, and Hiram Green, Good Bye," our Record No. 9118.

SLOT PHONOGRAPHS IN GREAT FAVOR.

The advantage of the Phonograph to the public at large is being greatly appreciated by all classes. Take, for instance, the amusement parlors found in the shopping districts of all of the large cities, where for a cent one is able to hear many of the great singers sing their favorite songs and ballads and operatic selections. Then, again, the National Phonograph Co. have their own orchestras and bands, and every day these orchestras and bands are playing for the purpose of making Records of all the latest popular music, particularly marches and operatic selections. The Records which are manufactured for this purpose often cost large sums of money, and evidently there has been no expense spared on the part of the manufacturer to obtain for the public the very finest material at hand. In all sections of the country these penny arcades, as they are popularly styled, are meeting with great success. This not only opens up a field for the manufacturer in the arcade business itself but increases the popularity and demand for the Phonograph, because in many instances where the Phonograph is unknown comparatively, in the rural districts particularly, folks visiting the city are attracted by the glamor and glare of these places and visit them, immediately becoming imbued with the idea that they must have a Phonograph for their own home. The price at which they are sold places them within the reach of nearly every one.

The American Phonograph Co., of Detroit, recently received the following letter from a customer to whom they had sold an Edison Standard Phonograph, allowing him $7 for his disc outfit which had cost him $35:

"I received the Standard Phonograph yesterday all right and notice that it is put in a fine quarter-sawed dark golden oak finished cabinet. After using a ——— machine for two or three years the difference is so great that I don't think I would have been better pleased if you had sent me a deed for a half interest in your business."

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. We plan to print about 10,000 more than we have orders for when we go to press, five weeks in advance of the month of issue, but frequently these are soon used up with extra orders. Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1000 copies.....	$2.50
Smaller quantities pro rata.
Imprinted, per 500 copies.....	1.50
Imprinted, per 1000 copies.....	2.75

Imprinted, per 1000 copies..... 2.75
Imprinted orders require three days' extra time in receiving imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.....
Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year.....	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year.....	.90
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year.....	3.60
Fifty copies to one address, per year.....	5.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

A HEARING CONVERTED HIM.

Walter Rolfe, a Dealer in Edison Phonographs and Records at Hartford, Conn., Me., relates the following incident "While in my store a few days ago I was engaged in conversation with a gentleman of considerable musical ability and he inquired, 'How is business?' When I informed him that the Phonograph business was especially good, he laughed and remarked that he could not understand how intelligent people could be induced to invest their money in such 'mincry boxes.' Upon this I started my Home Phonograph with a late, high-class orchestra Record. When I finished playing it there was a look of surprise on his face. 'Why,' he remarked, 'that is beautiful. It beats anything I ever heard on a talking machine. That must be a better machine than the average.' I replied that it was no better than any of the late model Edison Phonographs and I entertained him for a solid half-hour with some of the late Gold Moulded Records. When he left the store he was glad to take back his remark regarding the Phonograph and said it was the best concert he had listened to for many months and was a wonderful improvement on the cheap scratchy machines he had been accustomed to hearing."

WHAT AN ILL WIND DID.

Last week a large touring car stopped here for repairs. One of the party fell in love with the Phonograph. I had one running while they were waiting. I sold him a Standard and three dozen Records and they left for Olean, N. Y., with the Edison playing No. 9017.

A PHONOGRAPH CLUB.

ROCKDALE, TEXAS, SEPT. 6, 1905.

Here is a selling scheme that might be of interest to the trade. I have a Phonograph Club consisting of twenty members. Each member pays $1 per week for twenty weeks and the club buys one machine a week. Then they draw to see which member gets the machine that week, and the member who gets the machine does not draw again but pays his dollar every week till he has paid $20. The club takes a mortgage on the machine for balance due. You see, I sell a Standard machine a week to this club. I get cash for the machine and the club gets twenty weeks' time. You see this gives me a chance on selling twenty Standard machines, and the members believe they have twenty weeks to pay for their Phonograph, but there is only one goes out every week till every member has a machine. The beauty of this plan is when a member draws for eight or nine weeks without getting a machine he will come in and pay the balance and get his machine. The way I manage the drawing is this: I write each man's name on a slip of paper and put it in a small envelope and seal it up. I draw one out each week and open it and the name inclosed gets the machine that week. I think when I get these twenty machines out, and others I sell to parties who do not belong to the club, I will have a fine Record business. I have handled other machines here but did not make a success of it as the price of the records was too high. I have got every one Phonograph crazy here now and I am expecting a large trade.

J. B. ASHBY.

500 EDISONS TO ONE OF ALL OTHERS.

ALBANY, N. Y., AUG. 31, 1905.

Your letter enclosing a reference to a prospective purchaser received. I appreciate your favor very much, and commend the adoption of your follow-up system. I think it will prove a great benefit to Dealers and Jobbers as well as to the National Phonograph Co. I have received many favorable comments on the fine list of records for September, both in regard to the tone and quality and the artists in general. While I handle other records besides Edison Gold Moulded Records, I sell but few of them, for the Edison Records excell them all. I sell 500 Edison Records to every one of the other makes. Many of my patrons say, give me the Edison Record or none at all, even if the selection wanted is made by other companies and not on the Edison Record. When I first started in business, my store was small, but before long I had to get a larger place, thereby increasing my trade. I look for a prosperous fall and winter business.

MARK A. OBY,
1722 Broadway.

WANT NONE BUT EDISON MAKE.

BLUFFTON, INDIANA, AUG. 21, 1905.

I formerly handled disc goods exclusively, but since I put in the Edison line my talking machine business has doubled many times over and I find it almost impossible to sell any other make. In fact, I have sold but one disc machine in seven months. The people don't want them after they hear the Edison.

Your Records as you are now making them, are simply wonderful and outclass every other line. I find that it pays to carry a complete assortment prominently displayed. The arrangement of record stock which you illustrated in your August PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, has been in use by me for some time. It is certainly fine and establishes the confidence and enthusiasm of customers the moment they enter my store.

GEORGE D. SHIGLEY.

A FINE PHONOGRAPH STORE.

Foster & Foster, Edison Dealers at Spokane, Wash., send the following description of their new store:

"We recently have the sweetest Phonograph store in the Pacific Northwest, having our whole store, where heretofore we occupied but a part of it. The size of our store now is 21 x 64. It has two large display windows. The interior decorations and woodwork are in dark golden oak, both sides of the store being alcoved and numbered from 1 to 12,000, numerically consecutive, 1 to 6 in the back of store we have arranged a sleeping room and a very pretty Phonograph parlor, where we can show a customer to hear and show him what a machine will do in a home similar to one in his home. The store is very light, and we have a balcony over three rooms which we will finish off later, and by double-decking the front portion will have four rooms.

"The new Records from month to month are getting better and better, and we wonder if the company will ever quit improving."

A STRONG ENDORSEMENT.

Brown Brothers, of Great Eastern street, London, in a recent advertisement of their business used this unusually strong phrase: "Worth Handling: Genuine Edison Phonographs and Gold Moulded Records; absolutely the most perfect talking machines and Records yet introduced." The italics are ours. It is significant when a firm with the standing of Brown Brothers, without solicitation, prints such a sweeping and unqualified endorsement of the Edison product.

WHY HE IS SUCCESSFUL.

SALEM, INDIANA, AUG. 18, 1905.

Having noticed in this month's PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY a description of F. L. Fritchey's "step" shelving as applied and used by some of the large Dealers of Edison goods, we thought possibly the readers of the MONTHLY might be interested in the application of the plan to the needs of the smaller Dealer in a town of 2,000 people. Our initial order for Edison goods was received some four months ago. Since that time we have done a very fine business and we attribute it to the method of showing the goods, judicious advertising, and, last but not least, the superiority of Edison Phonographs and Records. In this section of the country we find that the price of the Edison Record as compared with the dollar records of the other kind, is a point to be emphasized in our advertising, and then, after the possible purchaser hears them and the musical tone produced, it is a trouble to sell him an outfit. This may appeal to other small Dealers. There are other machines on sale in this town, but so far as we can learn, not one of them has been sold since we have been selling Edison goods.

H. H. ROUTH & SON.

CONTRAST MADE A QUICK SALE.

I am delighted with the Phonograph business. It is on the increase. I am putting out twice as many machines as last year. My clerk was conducting a free concert a few days ago when a gentleman came into the store and asked if it was possible for the Home Phonograph to record and reproduce all the Records advertised. I overheard the remark and replied that it would record the voice of a mule as well as the beautiful songs we had played. We played Record No. 8071, "Yankee Patrol," and then No. 8721, "The Mule Song." He at once said, "I want the machine." In one hour I had his outfit loaded on my auto car and delivered three miles in the country. I don't sell any other make of machines and my customers are all delighted and have the best.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS AND THE PHONOGRAPH.

This is the way J. A. Leissy, a Dealer at Richmond, Cal., recently sent an order to Peter Bacigalupi, Edison Jobber at San Francisco:

"Send by next mail to S. C. Dale, Richmond, Cal., Record No. 152, 'Mendelssohn's Wedding March.' Party is so enthused over the Phonograph just purchased that the wedding march is to be played on it at their daughter's wedding."

A BETTER ONE NOT SOLD.

Here's the way Thomas Wardell, Edison Jobber at Lowell, Mass., put it in a circular letter sent to his patrons recently:

The undersigned has had eleven years' experience in the talking-machine business. In that time I have heard, handled and sold all makes of records. I am now as pro and anti, handling Edison Phonographs through the conviction that they are the best for severing qualities, and ESPECIALLY IN QUALITY OF TONE, consequently they are THE CHEAPEST RECORD IN THE MARKET.

When I find a better Record than the Edison, I shall gladly advertise it.

Edison Records advertise themselves.

THE YOUNGSTER KNEW THE DIFFERENCE.

"Here is a little incident you can make use of," writes T. L. Thomas, a Dealer at Hazleton, Pa. "A customer came in this week to buy Records. I have a half-dozen of another make which I don't sell. I have them here for comparison only. I went to put one on the machine for comparison when a little boy six years old, who was with the lady, when he saw the box, begged me not to put it on the machine, and asked that I should take one out of the box that had Mr. Edison's picture on, as Mr. So and So, their neighbor, had the other kind and they did not play as loud as the ones that had Mr. Edison's picture on. Of course I complied for the time being, but I hunted the neighbor up and got him to my place, allowed him $2.50 for his old machine and sold him a Standard, horn and stand and forty-two Records. So you see the children know the difference between the real and the imitation."

CERTAIN TALKING MACHINES TOO MUCH FOR PEOPLE OF MARION, O.

Marion, O., Sept. 9, 1905.

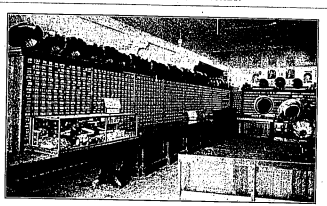
Citizens of Marion are up in arms against "talking machines." They have stood for the piano practice and the girl taking lessons in voice culture, but the disc concerns are the limit. The chief complaint seems to be that the machines disturb their nightly slumbers, though some assert that they get tiresome through the daytime, especially as they are forced to hear the same old tune many times a day. A long petition has been presented to the police protesting that a certain machine was becoming a public nuisance. An investigation will be made.—Hamilton, O., Evening Democrat.

In sending the above clipping a Dealer notes: "Recently a show exhibiting in a large tent made a week's stand in this city. They had a disc machine which they used throughout the show. It was awful—both show and disc."

A DEALER'S WAY OF ADVERTISING RECORDS.

Turner's Falls, Mass., Sept. 7, 1905.

I have an advertising sheet that I am sending out every month. This has proven very profitable to me. I am getting mail orders from Vermont and New Hampshire. If I get hold of a party who has never even told his friend or neighbor that he was going to get a Phonograph sometime I enter his name on my list and send him the circulars, together with a Phonogram each month. I have got enough sales from this sheet so far to pay for its cost for years. It will help others as it helps me.



G. A. Gove.

The sheet referred to was a circular 8½ x 11 inches in size. At the top was printed Mr. Gove's letter head. Below it were the words "Edison September Records Received Today." Then followed a brief description of about a dozen of what Mr. Gore considered the best in the September list. The descriptions were condensed from those in the August Phonograph Monthly.

IN THE REALM OF MUSIC AND SONG.

Robert M. Reese, of Hamilton, Ohio, sends a show bill and programme of a Phonograph entertainment given by him recently. It was announced as a "Grand Double Phonograph Entertainment by the Edison Concert Co. One hundred and twenty minutes in the realm of music and song. The prince of entertainers—The Phonograph—will delight its hearers with: Exquisite operatic selections, charming melodies, famous band and orchestral productions, comic and sentimental songs, recitations—comic and dramatic; and everything in the way of pleasures that appeals to the sense of hearing."

The programme included forty-eight specially selected Edison Records.

SECTION OF STORE OF TEXAS PHONOGRAPH CO., HOUSTON, TEXAS.

BEAT OUT THE "ROASTERS."

"The enclosed letter explains itself, coming as it does from a man of pronounced," wrote the Santa Fe Watch Co., of Topeka, Kan., recently. "The Saturday Night Club has never before been known to allow a man to finish his speech. This time the speech was finished, not by a man, but by the Edison Home Phonograph and in a voice loud and plain enough to be heard anywhere in the hall. We heard the Records in our store and they were as loud and clear as any made in the factory."

The letter referred to was written by Judge R. A. Burch, of the Supreme Court, Topeka, Kan., and was as follows:

"I beg pardon for the long delay in expressing my thanks for the use of the Edison Phonograph at the Saturday Night Club banquet. Without ever before attempting the feat, I made a perfect Record of my speech at the first trial, and the reproduction was such that the 'joshers' and 'roasters' of the club could do nothing but wait until the machine had finished delivering the speech.

R. A. Burch."

SIMPLY GRAND.

Accept my congratulations and thanks for your "Hungarian Rhapsody" and "Summer Night's Dream" just issued. They are simply grand. I consider them the most wonderful of anything you have yet produced. I cannot half tell you what the Phonograph is to me. It has opened up a field of pleasure and knowledge that has heretofore been almost inaccessible to me. Wishing you success for your high-grade machines and your most wonderful Records of natural tone.

Paul R. Stevens,
Portland, Me.

A SIDE LINE BUT PROFITABLE.

I have more orders on hand now for Edison goods than I have ever had since I have been in business. My books call for one Home, a Standard and four Gems, all cash sales. They are growing more popular every day. Wish I had $500 to spare. I would invest it all in Edison goods. Your goods paid my rent through the winter. I hope to largely increase sales this winter.

Canaan, Conn. George W. Ford.

A LITTLE EDISON EXPERIENCE.

Two ladies came into my store and wanted to buy two machines, one each. I was loaded with disc machines and tried to run off a couple of them, so played the best records I had on the disc machine. Then they asked to hear the Edison. What did they do? Not a thing but take the two Edison machines. Moral—Keep a full line of Edison goods and do business.

A PHENOMENAL SITUATION.

The problem that confronts the National Phonograph Co. at the present time is not how to secure orders for Phonographs and Records but how to fill those orders already on file. No more eloquent statement concerning the demand for our goods could be made than the fact that within the past month we have been compelled to decline orders from nearly a dozen firms who wanted to become Jobbers in our goods and who stood ready to make a cash payment for the initial quantity required by our jobbing agreement. It follows that we greatly regretted that circumstances compelled us to do this. It was, however, simply impossible to take on any further Jobbers at the present time and give them a service that would enable such firms to make a proper start with our goods. We could have taken their orders, and, by making our regular patrons wait longer for Phonographs and Records, and making part shipments to the new firms, have permitted them to make a beginning, but such a course would have been unsatisfactory to the new firms and unfair to those already in the business. The best that we could promise the newcomers was that we would be able to take care of them after the first of the year, which we sincerely trust we can do. The jobbing orders that were accepted in the past month, and they were of a notable character, were the result of plans made earlier in the season, or it is probable that they, too, would have been compelled to wait until a later date before we could have welcomed them into the Edison family.

No such demand has ever existed for Edison Phonographs and Records as now prevails. At this time a year ago we thought we had reached the top notch in volume of orders, but the unfilled orders at the present date are double those at the same date a year ago, and the new orders each week exceed the product of our factory. To tell the trade the number of unfilled orders for Phonographs and Records that we now have on hand, even stated without any thought of exaggeration, would cause the trade to feel that we had entered into competition with firms to whom figures mean little when stating the business that they have done or are doing. We are amazed ourselves at the magnitude of the business, and we know that the trade would be equally amazed could it realize the true situation.

Fortunately, we have a factory capacity largely in excess of that of a year ago, and as it is now being crowded to its limit, we hope to make steady progress toward shipping the Jobbers sufficient goods to take care of their Dealers, even though we may not be able to make complete shipments. Jobbers may rely upon it that in apportioning our daily output of machines and Records, we will make shipments with equal fairness to all. No one will be given any advantage over his competitor in this respect. Nothing will be left undone to keep the trade supplied and to complete orders as near as possible to the specified time.

JOBBERS SHOULD ANTICIPATE RECORD DEMAND.

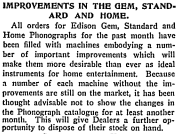
The demand for Edison Records is growing so rapidly that the time is at hand when Jobbers will be compelled to change their methods of carrying stocks and ordering Records. Most of the time in the past it has been feasible for a Jobber to wait till his stock of Records ran low, place a new stock order and get the Records in from one to two weeks, thus avoiding the necessity of anticipating weeks in advance or carrying large stocks. With the Record business almost doubling from year to year it is no longer possible to give the service of two years ago, even with facilities for making 100,000 Records a day. A greater time must elapse between the time of placing orders and getting the goods. Jobbers must order farther in advance or wait longer to get their orders filled. To wait means loss of business to the Jobber who does not have the Records to fill the orders of his Dealers. Placing orders farther in advance is, therefore, the only practical solution. This, after all, only means a little more study of the Record situation. It only means that a Jobber must learn how to anticipate the sale of every Record and place orders to be shipped on or after a certain date. By the use of a card file or any similar system a complete record can be kept of the sales of each title. Such a record will show the total sales of each number in a given period and will form an excellent basis from which to make up anticipatory orders. A system of recording the number of Records received from the factory and sold can be kept that will tell by a glance just how many of each number are in stock without looking at the shelves or store rooms. The plan of ordering Phonographs in advance is successfully followed by all Jobbers and there is no reason why the same principle cannot be followed in ordering Records. To do so would greatly facilitate the task of filling orders at the factory. The advantage to the Jobber of always keeping a complete and adequate stock of Records is too apparent to call for comment.

AUSTRALIAN AND MEXICAN DISTRIBUTING DEPOTS.

Owing to our constantly increasing trade in the Australasian Colonies and the Republic of Mexico (both showing in the past year an increase of business representing nearly 100 per cent. over the preceding year), it has been found necessary to open distributing depots at Sydney, N. S. W., and Mexico City, Mexico.

William W. Wyper, our Australian representative, sailed from San Francisco October 12th, en route for Sydney, N. S. W., and as soon as practicable after his arrival, will secure the necessary office quarters, also a storeroom for the accommodation of a large stock of Edison Laboratory products, the shipment of which is now in transit. It may be of interest to our friends in the trade to know that the people of Australia are to-day using more Edison Phonographs per capita than those of the United States. We are sure that our efforts to carry a large stock of Edison apparatus in Sydney will be thoroughly appreciated by our clients when it is shown that it requires from two and a half to three months to receive a shipment from New York by direct steamer, or via Liverpool.

Practically the same conditions prevail in Mexico as in Australia. The increase of our business in Mexico has been phenomenal, and to meet the requirements of the trade, we have arranged to carry there a large stock of all goods we manufacture. Our Mexican representative, Raphael Cabañas, left New York October 12th, and after visiting the trade in several of the principal Mexican cities, expects to reach Mexico City about November 15th.



Both Mr. Wyper and Mr. Cabañas are particularly adapted to the work which they have undertaken, in that they have spent the greater part of their lives in the field in which they will operate. With direct representation, and with a large stock of goods at hand, there is no doubt that a still further increase in business in the above territories will result from our efforts.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE GEM, STANDARD AND HOME.

All orders for Edison Gem, Standard and Home Phonographs for the past month have been filled with machines embodying a number of important improvements which will make them more desirable than ever as ideal instruments for home entertainment. Because a number of each machine without the improvements are still on the market, it has been thought advisable not to show the changes in the Phonograph catalogue for at least another month. This will give Dealers a further opportunity to dispose of their stock on hand.

CHANGES IN THE HOME.

The principal feature of the Home machine is that the top plate is done away with and the body is screwed on to the cabinet, which we believe will eliminate the feature of the body shifting during transportation and getting out of alignment with the motor frame. The swing arm lock bolt has been changed, not for the purpose of improving the working of the lock bolt itself, but so as to be able to shorten the machine about two inches, which improves the appearance of the machine and the cabinet, and also decreases the dimensions of the packing box.

THE IMPROVED HOME.

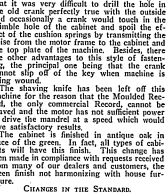
A more important feature is the change that has been made in the speed adjusting screw, which has been taken off from the top of the machine entirely and placed underneath the top plate. All machines before they leave the factory will be adjusted for 160 revolutions per minute, but if for any reason any one should desire to change the speed it can be done by lifting up the table of the cabinet and turning the adjusting screw. The reason for this change is that with the adjusting screw in such easy reach it has been the cause of the speed being unintentionally changed and consequently the results from the Records have not been the best.

A guard has been placed over the feed nut spring to protect the spring from being bent out of adjustment. A set screw passes through this guard for adjusting the spring, in place of making the adjustment by bending the spring.



The machine is equipped with a new winding crank, nickel plated and polished, and the crank is attached to the winding shaft by means of a thread. The reason for this change is that it was very difficult to drill the hole in the old crank perfectly true with the outside and occasionally a crank would touch in the thimble hole of the cabinet and spoil the effect of the cushion springs by transmitting the noise from the motor frame to the cabinet and the top plate of the machine. Besides, there are other advantages to this style of fastening, the principal one being that the crank cannot slip off of the key when machine is being wound.

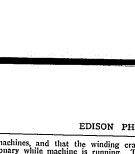
The shaving knife has been left off this machine for the reason that the Moulded Record, the only commercial Record, cannot be shaved and the motor has not sufficient power to drive the mandrel at a speed which would give satisfactory results.

The cabinet is finished in antique oak in place of the green. In fact, all types of cabinets will have this finish. This change has been made in compliance with requests received from many of our dealers and customers, the green finish not harmonizing with house furniture.

CHANGES IN THE STANDARD.

The principal change in the Standard machine is in the introduction of cushion springs between the top plate and the motor frame to eliminate the noise from the motor gearing.

THE IMPROVED STANDARD.



The speed-adjusting screw and winding crank is applied the same as on the Home machine. The cabinet is of same finish as the Home, but the lower part is one-half inch higher than the old cabinet to provide for the additional height taken up by the motor, due to the introduction of the cushion springs.

CHANGES IN THE GEM.

The most noticeable feature on the new Gem machine is the winding crank, which replaces the winding key; that the winding is done right hand, the same as the other types of machines, and that the winding crank is stationary while machine is running. To accomplish this it was necessary to introduce a special shaft and two gears. It takes less power to wind the machine.

The starting button has been placed on the right hand side of the machine, and in place of pushing and pulling the button to start and stop the machine the new button is in the shape of a cam, which has to be turned to the right to start the machine and to the left to stop it. The starting and stopping device is so arranged that the speed cannot be changed during the ordinary operation of starting and stopping the machine, as was the case with the old Gem, and if it is desired to make any alternation in the speed of the machine it can readily be done without removing the wooden base.

Another important feature is the substitution of a regular Model "C" reproducer instead of the old Model "B" reproducer. The finish of the cabinet is the same as other machines.

OPENING AT LAWRENCE, MASS.

Gordon Bros., of Worcester, Mass., opened a coin-slot Phonograph parlor in Lawrence on September 30th and a local paper referred to the occasion as follows:

"The one cent exhibit, 160 Essex street, opened up last Saturday night with a wonderful success. The management was obliged at one time to shut the doors, announcement-loving people to the number of many hundreds not being accommodated. The Gordon Bros., who are leading men of Worcester, are the proprietors of the exhibit, who run places like it in the principal cities of the country. Thomas A. Edison is the principal figure in the unique exhibit. One full side of the room is occupied by the latest improved 20th century type Phonograph, which by merely dropping one cent you can hear the best singers and musicians of the world, with most wonderful distinctiveness. Views and comic acts are also on exhibit. The place is very neat and tastefully arranged, beautifully illuminated by electric lights.

"It is just what we want in this growing city of ours; a place where we can nourish our souls with good music, such as the Edison Phonograph furnishes, a place where ladies and children can spend an hour for the small amount of one cent," remarked an old resident of the city while shaking hands with the manager, Mr. Ehninger.

WHY SOME DEALERS DON'T SUCCEED.

A Western Dealer who has made a considerable success selling Edison Phonographs and Records visited our factory at Orange recently and during the course of a conversation on the general situation, with reference to the business being done by Dealers in Edison Phonographs and Records, made the following significant remark. He said, "The trouble with many Dealers is that they do not study the Phonograph proposition. If they did, they would be more successful in business." This is undoubtedly the real reason why many Dealers do not become successful. They expect to buy Phonographs and Records as they would cereals in packages and sell them with no more knowledge. They do not keep themselves informed about the general situation; they do not take the trouble to learn even the simplest things about the machines from a mechanical standpoint; they do not keep a proper stock of goods; they do not display them in an attractive manner; they do not let the public know they sell them, and they do none of the things which an up-to-date and aggressive man would do. Consequently, they seldom carry more than the initial quantity of goods, and they are always wondering why they do not have a better sale for them. The stock they do carry is not infrequently stuck away in a corner out of sight and more or less covered with dust. Prospective customers soon find they do not have what is wanted and they seldom return for the purpose of making a purchase. Contrast such dealers with those who read trade papers and everything else pertaining to the line; who make a study of the machine; who know which Records are most likely to be wanted by the public; who carry the entire stock of Edison Records; who make an attractive window display; who play the Phonograph occasionally for the entertainment of the public; who advertise, and who, in other ways, handle the business in an intelligent manner and you will see why they make money and why the unprogressive Dealer does not.

WHO ARE INSTALMENT DEALERS?

In following up the inquiries received from our magazine advertisements we frequently get letters from inquirers who want us to refer them to Dealers who sell Phonographs on instalments. At present we are unable to comply with these requests, for we have no means of knowing which of our Jobbers or Dealers do a business of this character. We will be glad, therefore, if Jobbers or Dealers selling on instalments will advise us of the fact. We will enter this information on our file cards for future reference in all cases where it is sent to us.

PRINTED MATTER.

Record order sheet D is being printed and will be ready for the use of the trade in time to use it for orders for December Records.

A Christmas folder is in preparation. Single copies will be mailed to Jobbers within ten days, with a request that they place orders for such quantities as they can use during the holiday season. Jobbers should get enough for their own retail trade and to supply their Dealers. The edition being printed will permit the trade to use them liberally. It is expected to ship these folders with the December Records.

Complaint has been that the Phonograph catalogue does not agree with the improved Gem, Standard and Home Phonographs now being shipped on all orders, in that the catalogue shows that the Standard and Home machines are equipped with shaving devices, whereas shaving devices have been removed from the new machines. This condition was known when we began to ship the improved types, but since the catalogue could not show both the old and new it was deemed best to continue the present catalogue until Dealers generally had had time to dispose of their stocks on hand. In spite of the removal of the shaving devices the new machines are superior to the old, and Dealers should have no trouble in explaining the situation to customers who want machines equipped with shaving devices. A corrected edition of the machine catalogue will be issued shortly.

Folder No. 690 ("Slave of the Ring") and photo card No. 746, showing a picture of Mr. Edison on one side, are being reprinted and trade orders can be filled about November 15.

The new Phonogram has reached an edition of 275,000 copies each month and still continues a popular and profitable means of selling Records.

AN INTERESTING BOOKLET.

"Thomas A. Edison and Phonograph Record Talent" is the title of a handsome little booklet just issued by the Souvenir Publishing Company, Easton, Pa. It contains a well written biographical sketch of Mr. Edison, the story of the first Phonograph and a good description of the machine in its present state of development. Among the excellent half-tone pictures which embellish the booklet are those of Mr. Edison, his birthplace, laboratory and library, and photographs of a large number of artists who have made Edison Records. The booklet is designed to be sold by Phonograph Dealers at twenty-five cents.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

October was a notable month in the history of the National Phonograph Co., not only because of the truly remarkable volume of orders placed by our regular Jobbers, but also from the fact that four of the leading firms in their line in the United States became Jobbers in our goods. Perhaps the most prominent of these were Lyon & Healy, of Chicago, one of the leading music houses in the country. Marquette Healy, of this firm, paid a visit to our New York office and placed an initial order for 500 machines and 20,000 Records. It is the intention of this house to strongly push the Edison line without in any way affecting the lines which they now represent.

As a result of the trip made to the Pacific Coast by C. H. Wilson, General Manager of Sales, jobbing orders were placed by D. S. Johnston Co., 903 Second avenue, Seattle, Washington; Graves & Co., 328 Washington street, Portland, Oregon, and the Spokane Phonograph Co., 7 Post street, Spokane, Washington. The initial orders placed by these firms were unusually large, and because of more economical transportation charges, the orders were placed in car loads. The principal factor in the signing of these three firms was the decision of this Company to allow freight charges on all goods sold to Jobbers anywhere in the United States. It is the intention of all three of these new Pacific Coast Jobbers to open up new territory and aggressively push the sale of Edison Phonographs and Records in places where they heretofore have been unknown because of the heavy freight charges to the West.

Babson Bros., 148 Michigan avenue, Chicago, have also become Jobbers in Edison goods, and it is their intention to do a large mail order business, besides jobbing the line in the usual way.

Harry Jackson, Edison Jobber at 219 Bowery, New York City, has opened his seventh branch store at 86 Amsterdam avenue, New York City.

The Peoria Phonograph Co., of Peoria, Ill., have removed from 222 Bridge street, to 416 South Adams street.

The Minnesota Phonograph Co., Edison Jobbers at St. Paul, Minn., have opened a jobbing branch at 518 Nicollet avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

F. M. Atwood, of Memphis, Tenn., has removed from the Lyceum Building to 160 North Main street.

S. K. Hamburger, of Harrisburg, Pa., has opened a jobbing branch store at 723 Chestnut street, Reading, Pa.

LYON & HEALY'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

The letter printed below was sent out by Lyon & Healy, of Chicago, as an announcement to the talking machine trade that they had become Jobbers in Edison Phonographs and Records.

We have added a complete line of brand new EDISON PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS to our talking machine department, and are now prepared to give prompt attention to all orders for anything in this line.

This letter, with the enclosures, is intended mainly for some of our friends who are familiar with Edison goods, and to invite those who are already established in the talking machine business to sign the Edison contract in triplicate and return, with information as to being already established as an Edison Dealer. We would ask regarding established Edison people to state and attach their numbers, so that, in this way, they are unable to favor us with an order. It will save delay in filling orders should we receive such favors in the future.

The Edison line has proved such a money-maker for Dealers who push it, as nearly as a class of talking machine goods is having a phenomenal business. A daily output of 200 thousand Edisons and 20,000 Records, all sold at the full list price, certainly making money for somebody. Are you on to this harvest? If not, don't you want to be?

There is no buncombe about the figures given above. Our Mr. Marquette A. Healy has just spent a week at the factory and you are probably aware of his ability as a buyer.

We will announce our special prices on a fine line of up-to-date supplies to the regularly established trade who return the signed contracts. Those who are not familiar with the Edison line will receive, by return mail, the enclosed card and mailing for complete information, catalogues, etc., covering our new goods.

Write to us for our new and original plan of sending a monthly Record list to your Record buyers in connection with your name on, thereby saving you the trouble of mailing them out yourself.

Thanking you in advance, we are,

Yours truly,

PERSONAL.

William E. Gilmore, President of the National Phonograph Co., paid a flying visit to the Chicago office on October 18th, returning on the 22d.

W. A. Myers, Edison Jobber at Williamsport, Pa., visited our New York office on October 23d and also took occasion to run out to the factory at Orange.

Richard F. Outcault, creator of "Buster Brown," lectured in Orange on October 21st, and while there called upon Mr. Edison, for whom he worked as a draughtsman for several years.

AN ATTRACTIVE STORE.

One of the most attractive Phonograph stores in the South, reports our Southern travelers, is located at Macon, Ga., and known as the Macon Phonograph Co. R. T. Dews is the manager. They carry the entire line of Edison Records and Phonographs, and Mr. Dews reports conditions very flattering owing to the fact that the Phonograph business has just commenced to be popular in the South.

NO FREIGHT ALLOWANCE TO DEALERS.

A misapprehension has arisen among some Dealers in the far West concerning the meaning of the announcement made in the August PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY about freight allowances to Jobbers beyond the Mississippi. In commenting on this announcement we said in August:

"It means that every Jobber and Dealer in Edison goods, no matter where located in the United States, will pay the same price for Phonographs and Records and will be able to realize the same profit on them."

This statement meant that no Jobber would hereafter have any occasion for charging Dealers more than the standard prices for our goods due to the extra freight charges he formerly paid. It did not mean that we had changed our policy of not allowing freight charges on goods shipped to Dealers whether ordered by a Jobber or by the Dealer himself. Under our new rule we will allow full transportation charges to Jobbers, no matter where located, but we will not do so to Dealers, whether shipments are made from the factory or from their Jobber. In emergency cases or as a matter of accommodation, where we make shipments direct to Dealers on an order sent us by Jobber or on an order sent direct by Dealer to be charged to Jobber, they will have to ply the amount which the transportation charges would represent had the shipment been made from the city in which Jobber was located. To be more explicit, where we make shipments direct from the factory to Dealers, such shipments to be charged to Jobber, the Dealers will have to pay the transportation charges when the goods are received. They should then turn the freight vouchers covering such charges over to the Jobber, who will credit them in full and then charge the Dealers with the amount which the freight would represent had the shipment been made from the city in which the Jobber is located.

KING WILLIAM'S BIRTHDAY REMEMBERED.

Mr. Edison in June presented the German Emperor with a specially finished Phonograph in commemoration of His Majesty's birthday. The gift was in September acknowledged as follows:

Washington, D. C., September 25, 1906.

Dear Sir:—I have the honor to inform you that His Majesty the German Emperor has been pleased to accept the specimen of your latest type of Phonograph kindly offered in your letter of June 20th. His Majesty has commanded me to express to you, and your courtesy which he appreciates very highly.

Very sincerely yours,

BARON v. d. BUSSCHER,
German Charge d'Affaires.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR DECEMBER, 1905.

Abounding in all the features characteristic of the holiday season is the December list of Edison Gold Moulded Records. It includes music for those who dance, songs for the light-hearted, ballads for the sentimentally inclined, old time songs for the reminiscent, appropriate hymns for the Christmas season, and band and orchestra selections for all. Notable features of the month are the re-listing of "I'm Old But I'm Awfully Tough," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and "As We Parted at the Gate." These songs have been out of our catalogue for some time, but their never diminishing popularity has made it desirable to put them back. "I'm Old but I'm Awfully Tough" is sung by Andrew Keefe, and we believe that he will at once achieve a great success.

No. 9146. "At the Old Grist Mill," by the Edison Concert Band, is a descriptive fantasy beginning with the "break of day." The bull-frog and the bobwhite are heard, with the crow of the rooster and the barking of dogs in the distance. The hour of four strikes in the old town clock, after which begins an allegro number descriptive of the starting of the old mill, accompanied by the singing of birds. The mill at work follows, as does also the noon hour rest, with characteristic music. Returning of the mill hands marks the day's labor and stopping of the old mill, followed by the croaking of the frogs in the evening, brings the Record to a fitting close. This composition was written by Otto J. Miller.

No. 9147, "Lorna," by Edward Barrow, is a delightful Record of a most beautiful song, which Mr. Barrow renders with an absolute never before approached in the Phonograph. The beauty of the Record is further enhanced by the work of the Edison Male Quartette, which softly accompanies Mr. Barrow in the chorus. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The song is written by Ernest Newton (music) and P. E. Weatherly (words).

No. 9148, "The Golden Wedding," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is an original vaudeville sketch, with orchestra accompaniment, written especially for our Record. An aged couple on the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage are talking reminiscently of their wedding day and lovingly exchanging felicitations on the happy years that have marked the span of their married life. Interspersed with the dialogue is incidental music by the orchestra, including "The Golden Wedding" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." This Record is unlike any that Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer have yet made, but we believe that it will find a large sale among those who appreciate well rendered Records of sentimental subjects.

No. 9149. "Träumerei," is a violoncello Record by Hans Kronold. No more artistic Records have ever been made for the Phonograph than these solos by Mr. Kronold, an acknowledged master of this most delightful instrument. Mr. Kronold's rendition of Schumann's charming composition is that of the true musician. In making the selection he was accompanied by the piano, an orchestra accompaniment not being suited to a violoncello solo.

No. 9150. "Bye-Bye, My Eva, Bye-Bye," by Arthur Collins, is Carroll Johnson's great song hit in Lew Dockstader's Minstrels. It is a coon song that will hold its own among the best. The story is humorous and the melody is singable and catchy. Mr. Collins gives it in his inimitable style. In it Mr. Collins introduces the following bit of monologue in dialect: "Eva, did you ever note the fact of how happy we might have been if we hadn't been so dog-one miserable?" The orchestra also effectively introduces a bit of "Auld Lang Syne."

No. 9151, "Lily White," by Harry MacDonough, is one of the most popular numbers in the repertoire of "The Pearl and the Pumpkin," which has had such a successful run at the Broadway Theatre, New York City. It is a sentimental composition and one that cannot fail to please, both in its music and in the manner in which Mr. MacDonough sings it. The music is by John W. Bratton and the words by Paul West. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9152, "I'm Old But I'm Awfully Tough," by Andrew Keefe, introduces a new Phonograph singer. Since circumstances made it impossible to supply the trade with this Record and later made it necessary to eliminate it from our catalogue, we have probably had more requests for this selection than any other one in the catalogue. In making it over, we shall, beyond question, please thousands of present and prospective owners of Phonographs, and we anticipate that until the trade is again supplied, there will be a great demand for this Record. In Mr. Keefe we have found an artist who has done this song full justice and we believe that his Record of it will equal in popularity any one previously made. Unlike our former Record, this one is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9153. "Happy Heinie March," by the Edison Military Band, is a new composition by J. Bodewalt Lampe, introducing bits and suggestions of well-known German melodies, interwoven and entangled very cleverly, forming a snappy, characteristic march, descriptive of its title.

No. 9154. "The Girl from the U. S. A.," by Irving Gillette, is quite a departure from the usual run of popular songs. The music is catchy and quite characteristic of the story. The music was written by Lee Hoffman and the words by Wm. Clifford. The words of the chorus follow:

"The Englishi girls are nice, I know,
We love the German beauty;
The French girl has a winsome face,
But I'm bound to say:
The Spanish girl has dreamy eyes,
But still I'm bound to say
The girl I prize the most of all
Is the girl from the U. S. A."

No. 9155, "Nothin' from Nothin' Leaves You," by Bob Roberts, is a coon song by Ed. Rose and Ted. Snyder, and sung in Mr. Roberts' best style, with orchestra accompaniment. Harold Lee is told by his beloved to listen to her, whereupon she proceeds to take the most scathing and sarcastic comparisons between him and nothing, in which nothing comes out first best. The chorus follows:

"You talk like nothin', and you walk like nothin',
Nothin' seems to be your aim;
You look like nothin', and you act like nothin',
Nothin' and you're the same.
You can't learn nothin', 'cause you don't know nothin',
I've forgot more than you ever know;
The only thing can forgive you now
Is nothin' from nothin' leaves you."

No. 9156, "Star, Beautiful Star," by Anthony and Harrison, is a hymn by Fred Schilling and Rossiter W. Raymond which was written especially for Christmas services. It is included in the December list because of its appropriate Christmas character. It is sung in a manner appropriate to the character of the music, and the singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9157, "Romantic Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a swell orchestra overture by Keller Bela, similar in character and opportunities for featuring various instruments in the orchestra to "Summer Night's Dream" overture (our Record No. 9002), which was so much admired.

No. 9158, "Can't You See I'm Lonely," by Ada Jones, is one of the prettiest songs that Miss Jones has ever sung for a Record. The dainty coon dialect introduced is fascinating, and the chorus Records are widely popular, and all who admire her singing must have this one in their collections. The music of this song was written by Harry Armstrong and the words by Felix F. Feist.

No. 9159, "Call Again, Calligen," by Edward M. Favor, is an unpublished song, written especially for our Record. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment. Calligen, an Irish tailor, has a customer who is in arrears on payment for clothes that have been furnished on the instalment plan. When he calls to collect he is told to call again. The similarity in sound of Calligen" and "Call Again" furnish, together with a number of ludicrous situations, the humor in the selection.

No. 9160, "Nigger Loves His 'Possum," by Collins and Harlan is a coon song with orchestra accompaniment, introducing a Mississippi steamboat scene with all the incidental effects. Sung in the characteristic style of these popular artists, Dan Dresser wrote the words and music of this song.

No. 9161, "With Flying Colors March," by the Edison Concert Band, is a stirring and swinging march by Dox Cruger, the composer of "Down Tennessee" (our Record No. 8844), and "In Old Alabama" (our Record No. 8392). A splendid march Record.

No. 9162, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by Marie Narelle, is an ever popular song, which to render well requires a very sweet and sympathetic voice, such as is possessed by Miss Narelle. There have been constant requests for this ballad and doubtless our friends have often wondered why it has not been listed before, but to have it by Miss Narelle is well worth waiting for. Miss Narelle is accompanied by the orchestra. The composers of this song are H. P. Danks (music) and Eben E. Rexford (words).

No. 9163, "Short Stories by Frank Bush," is a talking Record made by Mr. Bush himself, who is one of the best known vaudeville artists on the American stage. The stories are extremely funny, and the manner in which Mr. Bush tells them adds to their humor. The stories given on this Record were written for this especial purpose and have not been published in any form.

No. 9164, "Sympathy," by Billy Murray, is a comic song out of the ordinary, both in music and story. "Don't Worry Bill," which is the sub-title, is likely to become a catch word. Mr. Murray with his clear articulating voice brings out the comic situations in the piece very funnily. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The music and words of this song were written by Kendis and Paley.

No. 9165, "Killarney, from Rogers Bros. in Ireland," is a xylophone solo by Albert Benzler, with orchestra accompaniment. This instrumental number was composed especially for the Rogers Brothers by Max Hoffmann and is played as an overture at their nightly performances. Bits and suggestions of Killarney will be noticed throughout the Record.

No. 9166, "Starlight," by Byron G. Harlan, is a new march song by Theodore Morse and Edward Madden, composers of "The Bell" (our Record No. 8855). It has a catchy air that will carry it to wide popularity, and Mr. Harlan's splendid rendition of it will aid in popularizing the song and our Record. The chorus follows:

"Good night, my Starlight,
Heart of my heart,
You'll be my Starlight
Ever and ever apart;
And when I'm far away,
My dreams will be
Dreams of your true love,
Good-night, Starlight.

No. 9167, "As We Parted at the Gate," by Harlan and Stanley, was previously listed when we were making the old style wax Records. It is now re-listed on account of the many urgent demands for it. Its popularity is not to be wondered at because it is a most attractive sentimental song and one that will ever retain its hold upon the public. It is as attractive to-day as when first written some years ago by E. Austin Keith. Being sung by a duet will make the Record more desirable than when made in solo form. The orchestra accompanies the singers.

No. 9168, "Silent Night," by the Edison Male Quartette, is another selection suitable to the Christmas season. The Christmas words are set to an old German melody, which is sweetly rendered. Somewhat of a departure is the lights and shades introduced so appropriately by the quartette. The effect is much more pleasing than uniform volume of tone heretofore given. The singers are unaccompanied.

No. 9169, "Good-Night Waltz," by the Edison Military Band, is issued as a supplemental number to our dance list and intended to be used as the last number in dance entertainments, ending as it does with "Home, Sweet Home." The Record includes Waldteufel's "My Dream" waltz, "Auld Lang Syne," "Good-Night, Ladies," "Merrily We Roll Along" and "Home, Sweet Home." The Record is made in accurate waltz tempo, but aside from this feature it will be a desirable Record because of the variety of airs included in it.

TRAY SYSTEM OF CARRYING EDISON RECORDS.

Since it is the function of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY to furnish the trade with all information that will aid Dealers in handling Edison goods to advantage, we are this month referring at length to the advantages of the tray system for carrying retail stocks of Edison Records. As its name implies, Records are kept in stock by means of pasteboard trays, or rather open boxes, whose sides are about half as deep as a Record box when standing on end. These trays are made of black covered pasteboard, reinforced with cloth at the corners, and large enough to hold four Records standing on end. Their general appearance is shown in Fig. 1. On the front of the boxes are labels, being printed for trade use by Victor H. Rapke, of 1661 Second avenue, New York. These labels show the number and title of each Edison Record and the name of the artist or organization that makes it. Fig. 2 furnishes an excellent illustration of the appearance of a large number of Edison Records, when carried by the tray system. The reader will note the ease with which every number may be read and the facility with which a Dealer may determine when a number is missing. The system shown in Fig. 2 requires ordinary shelving ten inches deep and with a space from five and a quarter to six inches between the shelves. Uprights should be built at intervals of from five to six feet or the shelves will sag and mar the appearance of the whole rack.

Victor H. Rapke, Edison Jobber at 1661 Second avenue, New York, who was the first to introduce the tray system for carrying Edison Records, furnishes some figures about his plan for constructing shelving. Instead of building shelves along the wall he has built four racks at right angles with it. Each rack is 14.8 feet long, 6 feet high, has twelve shelves made of half-inch material and built with a clearance of five and a half inches between the shelves.

Uprights of seven-eighth inch stuff are placed 34 inches apart or just wide enough for 12 trays, placed side by side. Each shelf is 11 inches deep from front to rear. The bottom shelf is built 4 inches above the floor. Two sections of 12 shelves each are placed back to back, so that the two occupy a floor space of 14.8x1.10. Each section will hold 720 trays, so that only two sections are needed to carry every Edison Record in the domestic catalogue. The four sides of the two double racks provide room for 2,880 trays, enough to carry every Edison Record made, and as each tray holds four Records the total capacity is 11,520 Records. Every Record is in easy reach of the floor.

Mr. Rapke points out that the numbers should run up and down and not lengthwise across the shelves. The advantage of this is that all the low numbers are found in one division and time is saved in not being compelled to walk from one end of the shelves to the other to find numbers wanted.

This system of carrying Edison Records is of greater value to the Dealer who wants to carry the entire Edison list than it is to one who carries only part of the list, although it can be used advantageously by any Dealer. The number of Dealers who carry every domestic Record is rapidly growing, it being more and more recognized that to do so means to be successful, and to such Dealers the tray system is invaluable.

The advantages obtained by using this system are many, but perhaps the most important is the fact that the customer can see at a glance the name and number of any selection in stock, which in many cases means a sale that would be lost if the catalogue alone was depend upon. Thus it acts as a silent salesman. Another benefit of no small importance is the ease with which a Dealer can make up an order for the selections not in stock. The trays for this system can be had from any firm manufacturing paper boxes and they are quite inexpensive. The Talking Machine Supply Manufacturing Co., of 48 Hanover street, Boston, is making a specialty of furnishing a complete outfit for the tray system at a cost of $40.00. The outfit includes 1350 trays, enough for the entire Edison domestic list now issued and the December list in addition. The trays are labeled and ready to put on the shelves. The outfit also includes a year's subscription for new labels, which are mailed monthly as issued.

With the talking machine business in the thriving condition it is to-day, and still growing, no Edison Dealer can afford to be without a complete stock of Records, and to such the tray system is worthy of the praises bestowed by those who already use it.

THANKS.

ELIZABETH, N. J., October 4, 1905.

I can't help congratulating you on your efforts in improving the Edison Records and machines. A customer can't help asking for more and more Records, especially this month's list. I think it my duty to thank you for the improvement as it is done in my benefit as much as the customer's.

EARL TAUSSIG.

HIRE THE OPERA HOUSE TO PLAY RECORDS.

Thomas Bros., of Madison, Neb., hire the local opera house one evening each month and play the new Edison Records for the benefit of their patrons and the public in general. The invitation they sent out in August read as follows:

GRAND CONCERT
Hain Opera House.

You and your friends are cordially invited to be present at the Opera House, Saturday evening, August 19th, Twenty-three hours of seven forty-five to listen to an Edison Phonograph concert from the latest August Records. Our August Records have just been received and they are not new and catchy, and consist of the latest and popular selections.

Admission to the concert is free. Farmers come with the family.

Call in and make your selections while the list is complete and get first pick of your favorites. Remember that we always carry a complete line of Edison Phonographs, Records and supplies and you are always welcome at our store to examine the Phonographs and hear them.

THOMAS BROS.' BOOK STORE.
In Opera House Block, Madison.

EDISON ALL THE TIME.

Here is something for the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY which I consider to be the most interesting musical periodical that we receive.

About six months ago we sold a Standard outfit to a well-known gentleman here. He soon got the Record fever and now has a nice selection of Edison Records to which he adds a few each week or so. He became an Edison enthusiast and spread the glad tidings of a perfect talking machine. Since that time his niece and nephew have both bought Standard outfits and to-day his brother eighty-four years of age drove sixteen miles in order to buy a Standard outfit. He left with it as happy a man as you could find.

Edison product first, last and all the time for me! During the last three years the sales in our talking machine department have increased from a few hundred dollars to several thousand dollars per year. And the end is not in sight! Why this increase? Pushing Edison product.

SIMON'S MUSIC HOUSE,
OTTAWA, Ill.

AN INVITATION.

Below is given a copy of a series of letters that the O. K. Houck Piano Co., of St. Louis, are sending to their patrons each month:

We take pleasure in calling your attention to the Edison Records for the month of October. We have a splendid line of selections, and you will note that there are two new additions in this list of Record makers for this month.

We particularly recommend the following excellent numbers:

AMBEROL—8095, 8104, 8107, 8112, 8116, 8121, 8102, 8110, 8128.

CLASSIC—8088, 8110.

COMIC—8108, 8111, 8114, 8118, 8119, 8093.

SACRED—8096.

You are cordially invited to call at our store and have us play for you the list of EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS whether you desire to purchase or not.

We have just added a new Record room, size 22x22 feet, to our already handsome department, which gives us a show room floor space larger than any in the city.

We extend to you a standing invitation to call at our store and hear the new Records whenever it is convenient for you to do so, and we trust that you will make it convenient to call often. We will continue mailing you the Phonogram each month.

"FOLLOW-UP" LETTERS.

The following "follow-up" letters are printed for the information of Edison Dealers who may desire to get up something of the same kind:

FROM CHARLES REINHARD, NEW HAVEN, PA.

Dear Sir:

The home office of the National Phonograph Co. advises that you have made inquiry about their Gold Moulded Records.

I am their agent in this territory and will be pleased to call on you at any time that may be convenient. I have been handling talking machines for some time, and am safe in telling you that the improved Edison Gold Moulded Records are the best that money can secure).

I have pleasure in this connection in sending you a catalogue of Edison Records, and a copy of August and September Phonogramas.

You can make up a selection of Records from these lists, and if you order one dozen or more at one time, I will pay the express charges.

If you have not heard the Edison Phonograph before you buy them I would suggest that you come to our Phonograph parlor, which is located on Third street, New Haven, Pa. You will find it open any evening.

You could do this very nicely by coming over on the 7.45 P. M. car, do some evening and returning on train No. 9.

However, should you find it inconvenient to make that trip, you will be perfectly safe in ordering by mail. There are no inferior Edison Records (I do not handle any other Records and order all their Records by mail. We do not wish to see these people from one year's end to the other, and if we did not take pains in filling their orders we could not get orders from them each month.

Thanking you for the inquiry and hope to be able to make some satisfactory arrangement with you and add your name to our already large list of regular customers.

Don't forget that we have the only complete line of Edison goods in this section; we have no old stock on hand, every Record we sell directly comes to us direct from the factory, always new, fresh and up-to-date.

Thanking you in advance for at least a reply, we beg to remain. Yours truly

SECOND LETTER.

Dear Sir:

Several days ago we wrote you in reference to a letter of inquiry which you addressed to the National Phonograph Co.

Not having heard from you leads us to believe that our letter may have miscarried, and we take the liberty of again advising you that we are the authorized agents for the sale of Edison Phonographs and Records in this section.

Under separate cover we are mailing you another Record catalogue, and desire to impress upon you that we carry a full line of the Edison Gold Moulded Records, and should you place an order with us for Records we will fill your order promptly on the day it is received.

If you order one dozen or more Records at one time we will deliver them to you all charges paid.

We now have several customers in your town who order a few Records from us each month, and we would be gratified to add your name to our list.

Having had several years' experience in the talking machine business we do not hesitate in telling you that the Edison is superior to all others.

Should you desire to hear the Records before you purchase them, we invite you to come to our Phonograph parlor, located on Third street, New Haven, Pa.

If you are interested to play a number of Records for your customer you intend to buy or not, we trust that you will give this your best consideration, we beg to remain

Very truly yours,

FROM J. A. FOSTER CO., PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Your home is not complete without the PHONOGRAPH—what other instrument at even double its cost can provide such a variety of music and amusement—as an EDISON PHONOGRAPH? See if you can think of one.

We wish to make you the following proposition on a PHONOGRAPH OUTFIT. If you will call at our store we will quote you the lowest cash price and sell you at it down and 50 cents per week.

Should you call, opportunity, we will demonstrate our ability to give you service and goods that will be ours to please. We trust you will pardon such a long letter, but we want to give you all this information, believing that it would be of value to you at this time.

FROM O. A. REYNOLDS, SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS.

Dear Sir:

The National Phonograph Co. have informed us as to your inquiry in regard to Edison Phonographs. They also state that they have sent you catalogues, which you have no doubt received by this time. We would be pleased to have you call at our store and let us show you the different size machines, as we have them all in stock, we being the only firm in Central Illinois carrying a complete line of Edison goods. Our store is devoted exclusively to talking machines and we consider ourselves not unqualified to call on an, we would add, and to ask you the machine you would most like to hear, with the privilege of exchanging it at any time within thirty days. With this arrangement you would run no risk of being dissatisfied. We refer you to any bank in the city as to our financial circular as to guarantee of one year on Edison machines.

We would kindly ask you to let us have a reply at your earliest convenience.

We are Yours respectfully,

AN EXCELLENT WINDOW DISPLAY.

The illustration shown herewith was made from a photograph sent by O. S. Thompson, an Edison Dealer at New Albany, Ind. It is a photograph of one of his window attractions. The photograph shows a picture of Mr. Edison in the center, surrounded by pictures of the Edison talent, cut from the Phonogram each month. As each issue of the Phonogram appears the pictures are cut out and added to the group, changing its general appearance and furnishing a new attraction each month. The group measures 26 x 34 and is set on an easel in Mr. Thompson's show window. It attracts much attention from the public.

AN AGGRESSIVE COMPANY.

The Eastern Talking Machine Co., Edison Jobbers at 177 Tremont street, Boston, had a formal opening on October 8th of their remodelled building, to which a two-story addition has just been made, affording 6,000 more square feet of floor space. This company ranks among the leading talking machine firms in the country.

When the firm started in Boston at 177 Tremont street, they had 2,000 square feet floor space. At the present time they have 14,000 square feet. Two entire floors have been added, besides the basement, where all the shipping is done.

STORE OF THE EASTERN TALKING MACHINE CO., BOSTON.

On the first floor is an immense show room for the machines, and an Edison Record stock room. This floor is newly painted and decorated and three new demonstrating rooms for the Edison Records have been added.

At the rear is the repair department, completely equipped for repairing all machines, no matter what the make. Skilled workmen are constantly at work on these delicate mechanisms. In the basement all the shipping is carried on and freight received. The surplus stock is stored here also.

On the second floor are the offices, including the general and private offices, and the reception room for ladies. This reception room is an entirely new innovation for this sort of a business house. Its purpose is to provide a meeting place for the women patrons, a place where they can wait for a half-hour or so for their friends, and spend the time writing the many social notes necessary to the women of to-day.

The room is furnished in a novel manner, three unique models of the combination machine and Record cabinet being shown. These look like the exquisite parlor curio cabinets and are finished in Vernis Martin marquetry and Rookwood and make a very desirable addition to any room. These are the first combination cabinets that have been shown in this part of the country.

The reception room has a very attractive view, looking out onto Tremont street and the Common. Attractive hard-wood chairs and ferns make a very pleasant ensemble.

On the third floor is the surplus stock and the Record storage. The walls and ceiling of the building are made of fireproof metal.

THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

If the year 1905 lives up to its record for another month, the holiday season now at hand will be the most successful in the history of the Phonograph trade. The extent of each Dealer's success now depends largely upon his own efforts. If he is aggressive and enterprising, he will succeed handsomely; if indifferent, his business will be small. For weeks we have worked every department of our factory to its utmost capacity to turn out Phonographs and Records, and while we are still far from being caught up on orders, we believe that our efforts have produced Phonographs and Records in sufficient quantities to provide every Dealer with a stock large enough to do the biggest holiday trade he has ever seen. The extent to which Edison Phonographs will be bought for Christmas presents this month will astonish even those familiar with the unusual conditions constantly arising in the Phonograph business.

An Edison Phonograph possesses many qualities which make it an ideal Christmas present, for it has a place in every home and is something that will not lose its novelty in a day, but will furnish amusement for a family for months and even years to come. This view of it is going to be taken by thousands of families, and they are going to spend their money accordingly.

The National Phonograph Co. has been doing more advertising this year than any time in its history, and we believe that it has done much to cause the present widespread demand for Edison Phonographs and Records. Local Dealers can get a direct benefit from this advertising by taking such steps as will tell the people of their city or town that they have the goods and can take care of their demand. It is the season of the year above all others when advertising of Edison goods yields its best results, and Dealers should advertise liberally now, even though they do not at any other time of the year.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR JANUARY, 1906.

RECORDS listed below will be ready for shipment as near January 1st as possible, at which time Jobbers' stock orders, if received prior to December 10th, will be shipped. January Supplements will be forwarded to Jobbers with their stock orders for Records. Retail Dealers should place stock orders with their Jobbers at once, to insure prompt shipment as soon as Jobbers' stock is received.

ABUSE OF SAMPLE RECORD PRIVILEGE.

The plan of sending samples of new Records to Jobbers one month in advance of their general shipment to the trade was adopted in order that Jobbers might learn by hearing them how good they were from a selling standpoint and be able to make out their orders in a more intelligent manner. It was recognized that without being able to hear them a Jobber could not arrive at a satisfactory conclusion in making out his monthly order. Then Jobbers were permitted to play them for Dealers, either by having Dealers visit their stores or by sending them to the stores of Dealers when accompanied by a salesman. Still later Jobbers who did not employ salesmen were permitted to ship these sample Records from one Dealer to another, with the distinct understanding that they should not be played before the public.

All of this was done in the interest of Jobbers and Dealers and it was understood from the beginning that the whole arrangement was to be purely a trade matter. It was one of which the public was to know nothing and we endeavored to make it clear that the Records were in no instance to be played to individuals outside of the trade. We regret to say that the privilege has been abused in a manner, which, if continued, will compel us to cut off entirely from offending Jobbers the privilege of getting these samples. The latest abuse of the privilege has been by certain Dealers advertising and inviting the public to hear the new Records when sent to them by their Jobbers. This abuse will not be permitted to continue. Jobbers must refuse to ship samples to Dealers unless they will agree not to play them before the public, or we shall feel compelled to refuse to send them to Jobbers who ship them to Dealers knowing that the latter will play them publicly.

There are excellent reasons why sample Records should not be played to any one outside of the trade. In the first place, it accomplishes no good to play them beyond the amusement of a few individuals who can just as well wait until the Records are on the market. On the other hand, permitting them to be played in advance must necessarily be a source of constant trouble and friction. For instance, there are two or more Dealers in one town. One Dealer buys of Jobber A and the other of Jobber B. The sample Records of Jobber A reach the town a week in advance of those of Jobber B, or probably the latter does not send out samples at all. As a result the Dealer buying from Jobber A gets the new Records, plays them for the public and gets credit for being more enterprising than his competitor. The latter, on the contrary, is fully as alive as the other Dealer and naturally feels that he has not been fairly used. There are a number of other good reasons why the abuses must not continue. It is not necessary, however, to refer to them here, for we are determined that these samples shall not be used for any other purpose than we intended when the plan was put into effect. Those who continue to offend must not find any fault if they are summarily cut off from the privilege of hearing sample Records.

NOT A MISTAKE.

We are in receipt of a letter from a Dealer stating that two of his customers selected old style Home machines in preference to the new style recently put out. He states that they did this on account of the speed regulating screw being on top of the cabinet. This experience leads him to ask whether we do not think that we have made a mistake in placing the speed regulating screw on the under side of the machine instead of the top. Instead of thinking it a mistake, we still strongly claim that the change is a marked improvement. The speed-adjusting screw on top of the machine was constantly being turned by inexperienced players, changing the speed of the machine and causing an unsatisfactory playing of Records. With the speed-adjusting screw on the underside, it is quite accessible when it is desired to change the speed for some good reason, and it is out of the way of idle or mischievous hands. As a matter of fact, if Phonograph owners would get their machines adjusted to the right speed at the start, they would find it much more advisable not to make any change in it. Our Records are made at a uniform speed of 160 revolutions per minute and there is no occasion for running a Phonograph at any other speed, notwithstanding the views of those individuals who think they can improve the Records by increasing or decreasing the speed. Those who once get their machines running at the right speed and give it no further thought will get the best and most satisfactory results from their Records.

WILL BE CALLED THE "BALMORAL".

It has been decided to change the name of the Victor Phonograph (battery current playing standard size Record) to "Balmoral." This change will take effect as fast as new literature is printed, beginning with the new edition of the Phonograph Catalogue.

SHALL DEALERS SELL ON INSTALMENTS?

Whether or not to sell Edison Phonographs on what is known as the instalment plan is a question that is being debated by many Dealers throughout the country. Among many Dealers who have not given the subject proper thought there is considerable prejudice against the general plan of selling goods in this manner. Viewed superficially, they can only see in it considerable trouble and many chances of loss. They are apt to regard the firms who are selling goods in this way as lacking in business acumen, and as those whose failures are only a matter of time. Many men who have not taken the trouble to investigate the subject have declared time and time again that before they would sell goods on instalments they would go out of business, and with this declaration they have dismissed the subject.

As a matter of fact, selling Phonographs on instalments does not mean half the trouble that many Dealers fancy. In fact, it is much easier to sell a Phonograph to a man upon a small payment with an agreement to make other payments weekly than it is to get him to lay down the entire amount of the purchase. Of coirse, as an offset to this, there is the trouble of making the weekly collections, if a collector is sent out, or of making a series of entries on the books when the payments are made at the store. This, after all, is a clerical detail and easily handled.

Firms who make a feature of selling Phonographs on instalments do not take any greater risk than a grocer would in the ordinary course of his business. These firms do not turn a Phonograph over to a man simply because he comes in and makes the first payment or signs an agreement to make a weekly payment. On the contrary, before they allow the machine to go out, they find out who the man is, where he works, what he is probably earning, and they get two or more desirable people to say that he will in all probability complete the payments required to own the machine sold him. The experience of men doing this character of business has shown that a very small proportion of those who get a Phonograph on this plan fail to make the payments, and a very much smaller proportion still disappear with the machine before they have finished paying for it. Probably not five per cent. of those who buy a Phonograph on instalments return it, and not two cases in a hundred does a Dealer actually lose the machine without being compensated.

In some States the laws are such that the title of the machine passes as soon as a payment is made upon it and the remaining payments are considered by the law as similar to all other debts. In such States there is, perhaps, a little larger element of uncertainty about doing business in this manner, but an extra precaution in making sales will offset this risk. In all other States the Dealer remains the owner of a machine until the payments have been completed, and the purchaser who fails to make his payments loses not only his machine but the payments he has made, unless the Dealer leniently returns to him the amount above the wear and tear on the instrument. Such a variety of goods is now successfully sold on the instalment plan, that there is no longer any question about the propriety of doing this kind of a business.

Selling Phonographs on instalments can only be successfully done where the Dealer has a reasonable amount of capital that he can invest in this way. If his means are limited, it would be foolish for him to consider the matter. If, however, he has capital enough to handle a business of this character, there is no reason why he cannot make money in doing so. It has never been the policy of this Company to urge Jobbers or Dealers to do an instalment business, for we have always felt that the decision should rest with the individual or firm. The experience of others has shown that it is a legitimate and profitable way of selling Phonographs, and that no reason exists why those now prejudiced against it should not follow in the same footsteps. The greatest argument in favor of an instalment business is that five men will buy goods on instalments to one who will pay spot cash, and it simply means that Dealers selling on time payments would sell five machines where they now sell one.

Then, too, since Records are seldom sold on instalments, the Dealer makes a nice cash sale of Records with every Phonograph put out, and he has a steady and profitable customer for Records for at least the time the payments are being made; and indefinitely if the customer gets the right sort of treatment. In fact, it is worth while to get a Phonograph into a home for the Record business that will follow.

ALWAYS GETTING BETTER.

Have been handling Edison goods for more than ten years, and the longer I am associated with them the better they become. I like your principle of doing business. I thank you for your past favors and trust that you may always maintain your present sterling business standing, which makes it a pleasure to handle your goods.

75 RECORDS TO BE ELIMINATED FROM LIST.

Notice is hereby given that after February 1st, 1906, we will be unable to supply the following Records and they will not appear in Record Catalogues issued after that date. Many, if not all, of these are good selling selections. We, therefore, trust that the trade will be able to dispose of stock on hand before they are dropped, but even after that date there will be a demand for them from catalogues now out. The chief reason for eliminating them is to give the trade additional space to carry the new Records listed monthly.

INFERIOR PARTS.

Complaints reach us occasionally from individuals who claim that they bought certain repair parts like sapphires, feed-nuts, springs, etc., from their Dealers and found that they were decidedly inferior. Investigation of such cases has shown that the supplies and parts had not been obtained from us, but had been bought from outside individuals at slightly lower rates than we charge them. The retail purchasers of these supplies and parts naturally thought that they were buying Edison goods and our reputation suffered, though we were in no way responsible for the substitution. This leads us to point out to the trade generally, and especially Dealers, that it does not pay to buy inferior goods of this character, because they can be had for a little less money than charged by us for the same parts. A Dealer can impose upon his customer once, but in most instances he cannot do it a second time, for as soon as the customer learns of the imposition he will not only refuse to buy further parts from him but he will in all probability take away his Record patronage. The parts made by us for the various types of Phonographs are the best that can be produced, and they are worth all that is asked for them. Dealers will be wise if they buy Edison supplies and parts and get them only from such sources as they can rely upon. We feel sure that no Jobber would attempt to sell inferior goods when Edison goods are asked for. Dealers are especially cautioned against buying sapphires except those known to be made by us. Ordinary glass when rounded and polished looks to the eye very much the same as a genuine sapphire and yet is a much different article when put into actual use, It soon wears, and when it begins to wear, it cuts the Records and causes trouble all around. The saving of a few cents on a sapphire will cause dollars of mischief in the future to all who get them. Jobbers will do well to handle no other sapphires except those bought from us, and Dealers should buy them only from such Jobbers as they can rely on.

MONEY TALKS.

The Kern Music Co., of Jersey City, N. J., backed its belief in Edison Phonographs by running the following phrase in display type in the daily papers:

"$500 cash! Reward will be paid for proof that any Phonograph is as good as an Edison."

MUSIC PUBLISHERS.

The publishers of the music in the January list of Edison Records will not be printed until the January issue of the PHONOGRAM MONTHLY. The lists will be printed regularly thereafter. GET THEM TO BUY NEW ONES.

Most Dealers do not realize how important a belt is to a Phonograph. If they did, they would point out more frequently to their customers the desirability of getting a new belt instead of attempting to repair an old one. A new belt for a Gem machine costs but 10 cents, one for the Home and Standard machines, 15 cents and one for the Triumph 25 cents. At these prices it does not pay any one to attempt to mend an old belt, to say nothing of the unsatisfactory results caused by a belt so repaired. When Dealers bear their patrons talk about mending a belt, they should strongly urge them to get a new one instead of doing so.

A STANDARD SPEED TEST.

On the back rod of every Edison Phonograph now being shipped from this factory, two circular marks have been placed at a distance of one and six-tenths (1 6-10) of an inch apart. With the Phonograph fully wound and running at full speed, and with reproducer arm down as for reproducing, the reproducer arm should travel from one mark to the other in exactly one minute, which indicates that the cylinder makes 160 revolutions in one minute. These marks may easily be made on any Phonograph, but care must be exercised to make them exactly the right distance apart. Even a slight variation will affect this speed.

TREATED WELL IT WILL PAY WELL.

The necessity of Jobbers and large Dealers having sound-proof rooms in which Records can be tested is becoming more and more obvious. In order to pay well, the Phonograph business requires just as careful treatment as other special lines of trade, and when it receives it, it will show just as gratifying returns. Its business cannot be treated indifferently and stowed away in some obscure portion of an establishment if expected to pay well. It is more than could be expected of any other line. The sale of Phonographs requires just as correct treatment as other trade specialties. It is pretty sure to respond to progressive environment and return Dealers excellent results for any legitimate outlay.

THE PHONOGRAPH.

The children in the flat above,
Stay race and romp and tear,
Until the noise quite drives you mad,
And you could curse and you swear;
Those boys and girls, you know,
That loud mankind to vex,
And the only peace you ever get is
When the Phonograph starts in.

The maiden just across the hall,
Thumps the piano strong;
A budding artiste blows upon
The cornet loud and long;
Yet, though both may be thus engaged,
The most infernal din
Is tolerated by heavenly meek
When the Phonograph starts in.

They wake you in the morning
Long ere the day grows bright;
You'll find that there's no sleep to break
Your slumbers into bits;
Why hide beneath the coverlids—
Your ears put cotton in?
You can escape that awful sound
When the Phonograph starts in.

There's "Yiddle" and "Would You Care,"
"Tammany" and the rest;
From ragtime up to sacred song—
A million, I'll be bigot!
Are there that have a right to sleep
As the twilight's coming in,
And you're always glad you're living
When the Phonograph starts in.

ADVERTISE LOCALLY.

On page 13 of this issue, we print a copy of our advertisement in the Christmas publications. This advertisement is appearing in magazines and other publications having an aggregate circulation of many millions of copies which reach half the homes of the country. In addition to this, we are running special advertisements in the Sunday issues of the principal papers in the principal cities throughout the United States and Canada, and these papers will reach many homes not covered by magazines. On the whole, we believe that our advertising will be seen and read by nine-tenths of the people of this country. All of this advertising is general in its character and calls upon the public to visit Dealers and have them play Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records. It does not, in any case, give the names of Jobbers or Dealers. The latter can reap the fullest advantage from this advertising by using the columns of their local papers to tell the public who they are, where they are and what they sell. Dealers who do this advertising will get much more benefit from our general campaign than those who make no effort to advertise.

PRINTED MATTER.

We are sending out this month a copy of the new edition of the Record Catalogue, Form No. 770. The first half of this Catalogue to go out will be bound with the present style cover and the second half with a new cover. In every other respect the Catalogue is the same, and those who later learn that the new cover is in use should not feel that their Catalogues differ in any way from the later ones, but continue to use them. We will make no effort to fill orders for the new covers where we feel that the trade is asking for them simply to have something that their competitors do not have. Having two different covers on one edition is something that we could not avoid and we shall expect the trade to use them just as if they all had the same cover.

With their orders for December Records, we are sending to all Jobbers in the United States a supply of folders and hangers printed especially for the holiday season. These are being sent in sufficient quantities to enable Jobbers to give Dealers as many folders as they receive Supplements each month and one of each hanger to each of their active Dealers. The editions of all three forms are exhausted with these shipments, and it will not be possible to fill any further orders for them. This treatment of the matter was necessary because the forms could not be gotten ready earlier.

THE PHONO TRADER'S OPINION.

The Edison Gem, Standard, Home, and Triumph Machines are so well known in every part of the civilized world that I can with confidence advise every agent, large or small, to stock these machines. They are absolutely perfect. They always give universal satisfaction. They make customers that you will never lose. It is a pleasure to handle them, for you can rely on the workmanship, exact timing, silent action, and beautiful finish. What more do you need, Mr. Dealer? The same remarks apply to their up-to-date Gold Moulded Records. Who ever heard of a customer being dissatisfied with their Records—it would be a record, certainly, to hear of such a thing.—Phono Trader, London.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR JANUARY, 1906.

The opening list for 1906 of Edison Gold Moulded Records is full of excellent selections, including hits from new comic operas and musical comedies, with the usual variety of instrumental music characteristic of these monthly lists. There is not a single Record in the entire twenty-four that does not represent the highest standard of the art of reproducing sound.

No. 9170. "The Choristers," by the Edison Concert Band, is a novel band Record. In one of the strains the melody is played by chimes with band accompaniment embellished by clarinets. In another strain the same melody is played by chimes with band accompaniment and orchestra bells obligato. Another attractive feature is the singing of birds, by Jos. Belmont. The selection is varied and very interesting from beginning to end. The composer of this selection is Bernard Pieltjs.

No. 9171, "Somebody's Sweetheart I Want to Be," is by Byron G. Harlan, who is always fortunate in his selections. He is particularly so in this month's offering, "Somebody's Sweetheart I Want to Be," written and composed by Cobb & Edwards, has already well started on the road to popularity. Among the prominent performers singing it in vaudeville is Lillian Russell. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9172, "Fritz and Louisa," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch introducing both singing and talking by Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer, also orchestra incidental music. It is a humorous dialect sketch, a line of work in which these artists have been more than successful. This sketch was written especially for our Record.

No. 9173, "A Lovely Night in June," is a bells solo by Albert Benzler, of a song and dance composition in schottische tempo, written by Jean Missud. A well rendered Record of a most attractive composition.

No. 9174, "The Getting Sleepy," by Arthur Collins, is something new in the line of coon songs, the words and music of which are by Joe Hollander, who also composed, "Gone, Gone, Gone," (our Record No. 8759). It is quite a bit of character work as rendered by Mr. Collins for our Record. Especially interesting is his comic talking interpolation. Mr. Collins has a style all his own in this line of work. Made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9175, "If a Girl Like You, Loved a Boy Like Me," by Harry MacDonough, is one of Lillian Russell's successes in vaudeville. Made with orchestra accompaniment. It has a catchy waltz melody and the story is something away from the usual run of songs of this character. Cobb & Edwards have written a number of songs that have taken the public fancy, and this, their latest, is thought by those who have heard it, to have all the essentials that made their former work so successful.

No. 9176, "Hebrew Vaudeville Specialty," is a Record by Julian Rose. It is some time since we have listed a Record made by Mr. Rose, whose comic Hebrew dialect specialty is known all over the country. In this Record he gives a very humorous monologue, concluding with a parody on "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree." His former Records were accompanied by the piano. This one is accompanied by orchestra, which enhances the realism of the vaudeville specialty greatly and makes of the Record, "A regular little theatre."

No. 9177, "Lights Out March," by Edison Military Band, is a characteristic military march, introducing "Lights Out." Played with all the precision and artistic work of our excellent band organization. Written by F. E. McCoy.

No. 9178, "Miss Mary," by Irving Gillette, is from Chauncey Olcott's new Irish play, "Edmund Burke." It is a song that appeals thoroughly to his audiences. Mr. Gillette makes much of this song and we think it surpasses some of his previous Records. It is a very pretty song and exquisitely sung and recorded, and will attract a lot of attention. This composition is by Chauncey Olcott and Theodore H. Northrup, and the Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9179, "The Load That Father Carried," by Bob Roberts, is a comic song with an original and catchy melody, something after the order of "Everybody Works But Father," (our Record No. 9100). Both are sung by Mr. Roberts and accompanied by orchestra. We insert the words of the chorus, supplying the information that the referred to "load" is a load of "peaches."

"'Twas the load that father carried that made him bend so low,
Since the day that he was married he's been carrying the load,
We'd watch him in the evening with struggling down the road,
Then all us kids would shout 'Hey Mamm,

No. 9180, "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," is another splendid selection by Anthony and Harrison. Our sacred songs by Anthony and Harrison are meeting with universal praise and considered to fill a long felt want. Both Mr. Anthony and Mr. Harrison are well-known church singers, occupying solo positions in prominent New York City churches. Consequently they bring to this class of work an experience which, together with their cultured voices, contribute largely to the success of these Records. The beautiful orchestration is also a feature.

No. 9181, "Forget-Me-Nots," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a beautiful and dainty orchestra selection equal to any we have ever listed. Our Symphony Orchestra Records are one of the features of our monthly supplements. The music is always of a high grade, requiring the best artists in the world and the most perfect methods of recording.

No. 9182, "I'm a Woman of Importance," by Ada Jones, is a comic song hit from "Fritz in Tammany Hall," which gives Miss Jones an opportunity to display her versatility with different dialects. Audiences at the Herald Square Theatre, New York City, nightly applauded this popular number. The Phonograph public will be just as much entertained with our Record of it.

No. 9183, "La-Tydley-Tydley-Um," is a funny song, by Edward M. Favor. The enormous success of Mr. Favor's Record of "Fol-the-rol-lol" (our Record No. 9142), prompts us to list a similar selection, entitled "La-Tydley-Tydley-Um," which is made of topical verses and choruses and sung in Mr. Favor's clever style. This composition is by Worton David and Maurice Scott. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9184, "Ride Your Own Canoe," by Collins and Harlan, is one of Morse and Madden's latest characteristic coon songs, combining an original and catchy tune with a story of more than ordinary interest and fun making opportunities, which it is needless to say Collins and Harlan make the most of. The attractiveness of the Record is further added to by the comic coon talk and an excellent orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9185, "It Blew! Blew! Blew! Schottische," by the Edison Concert Band, is a Record in dancing tempo made in response to many requests for Dancing Records. It is recorded at the correct tempo as approved by William P. Rivers, of the Knapp Mansion Dancing Academy, Brooklyn, N. Y. The selection will be found to comprise both the catchy tunefulness and swingy rhythm so requisite for dancing.

No. 9186, "Robin Redbreast," by Marie Narelle, is one of the most popular numbers in "Happyland," performed by The Hopper Opera Company at the Lyric Theatre, New York City. As sung by Miss Narelle for our Record, it makes a dainty and beautiful number. An added charm is the bird imitations by Joe Belmont. It is a rare and novel item and undoubtless be very much appreciated. It is also accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9187, "Good-Bye Dixie Dear," by Mac-Donough & Biehling, is one of the popular march songs of the season. As made for our Record by MacDonough and Biehling it is an exceptionally fine number. The orchestration is decidedly effective, especially the part that introduces "Dixie." The Record is bound to be liked very much.

No. 9188, "Yankee Boodle," by Billy Murray, is one of those topical songs always interesting to people who keep up to the times. "Yankee Boodle," sung in "Fritz in Tammany Hall" and made for our Record by Billy Murray, is one of the best of its kind and strictly up to the minute in topics introduced. The insurance question, just now of such universal interest, is one of the matters humorously treated.

No. 9189, "A Gay Gossoon," by Vess L. Ossman, is a composition well suited to the banjo and one which Mr. Ossman makes much of, as does also our orchestra director, who features his orchestra effectively throughout. The selection brings out unexpectedly every now and then bits of well-known Irish melodies, which are as often and surprisingly turned again into original airs by the composer. The number is characteristic of its title and is in march tempo.

No. 9190, "Take Me to Your Heart Again," by Edward Barrow, is a beautiful new sentimental ballad that will at once appeal to its hearers. Mr. Barrow renders it in that sympathetic manner which he so appropriately and artistically employs. Sung with orchestra. The words of the refrain follow;

"When the sun at eve is sinking,
When the birds have built their nest,
When the birds have flown to rest,
When the dew-drops kiss the clover,
Softer than the summer rain;
When the lonely day is over,
Take me to your heart again."

No. 9191, "Barnyard Serenade," by Spencer and Holt, is a unique Record. Len Spencer gives a descriptive talk on the rural barnyard at sunrise, which is punctuated by All. Holt with imitations of the shanghai rooster, little chickens, button rooster, robin, mocking bird, peacock, turkey gobbler, cow, calf, dog and jackass. The imitations are exceptionally fine and the way the talk is worked in and around them is decidedly clever. The recording is very distinct and clear and tonal quality human and natural.

No. 9192, "The Jolly Blacksmiths," by Edison Male Quartette, is a good solid number. One of the striking features is where the well-known part of the "Anvil Chorus" from Verdi's "Il Trovatore" is introduced with anvil accompaniment. It will always be a steady seller—good staple goods.

No. 9193, "Fol-the Rol-Lol Medley," by Edison Military Band, is one of the best band medleys of popular songs we have listed in some time. Comprises the following five song successes: "Fol-the-Rol-Lol" (our Record No. 9142), "Sympathy" (our Record No. 9164), "Starlight" (our Record No. 9166), "Silver Threads among the Gold" (our Record No. 9162), "Can't You See I'm Lonely" (our Record No. 9158).

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobber's orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DISTRIBUTED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1,000 copies	$2.50
Imprinted, per 500 copies	1.00
Imprinted, each additional 500 copies	0.75

Above prices include imprinting, less than 500 copies, or requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .30
Five copies to one address, per year	1.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	5.00
Fifty copies to one address, per year	9.00

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

MR. SCOTT LAID UP.

The New England trade will regret to learn that J. W. Scott, our New England salesman, is laid up at his home, Newark, N. J., with a severe attack of facial erysipelas.

NO MORE DIVIDED ORDERS.

The letter printed below was recently sent to all Jobbers. It explains itself fully. Its issuance was made necessary by the abuse of the privilege of splitting up orders for new Records so as to save Jobbers the trouble of repacking for shipment to Dealers.

TO ALL JOBBERS.

New York, Nov. 18, 1906.

It has recently become the custom of some Jobbers to split up their advance stock order for new Records into several different orders; one to be marked for them in the regular manner, the balance to be marked with special instructions. The object in so doing is a means of identification for these Jobbers as to the Dealers to whom they are to be shipped. This custom we cannot allow or carry out, as in the first place it makes a great deal of additional work and some considerable extra expense to each shipping point, and, in the case of Orange, the second place, it gives the Jobbers, to whom we split up shipments in this manner, unfair advantage over those who receive one shipment only, as not having to unpack and repack, they can get their goods out to the Dealer much quicker, in the third place, we cannot for one moment attempt to split up orders and mark them generally, as should such a policy become general, we would soon be called upon to pack all Jobbers' Records over in separate shipments, consequently much delaying, so they would not be out of the trouble of unpacking and repacking before sending shipment to their Dealers.

With this explanation in the matter, we must absolutely refuse hereafter to pack any orders whatever in separate lots, or containing split shipments, and must request a prompt and literal fulfillment of your Jobber order. Please have Records be sent as complete in one order, to be shipped by freight, or should you desire part of them by express, in two orders, one to be shipped by freight and one by express.

C. H. WILSON, Manager of Sales.

WILL THE WONDERS EVER CEASE?

[Written by C. Harold Porter, of Brockton, Mass., upon hearing that Byron G. Harlan was a father, and that his only regret was that his daughter was not born in New York.]

No wonder that the clocks have stopped;
No wonder trains are late;
For something startling is happening
I'm sure you ought to state.

It happened in New Jersey
Not very long ago,
And that's the reason I start to tell you
I'm sure you ought to know.

You all have heard of Harlan,
The tenor, heaved with fame.
A few months or long ago
A fair maid took his name.

You've heard him sing without a doubt
Upon the Phonograph;
And you, no doubt, as well as I,
Enjoy his pleasing laugh.

You've heard him sing with Stanley;
And Collins, many times,
At first in the slot machines
You've spent your hard earned dimes.

Sometimes his songs are jolly,
Sometimes they're very sad.
Some of them cause the tears to flow,
Some of them make you glad.

He imitates the Dutchman,
The Reuben and the Yank,
When he imitated mother's voice,
My heart within me sank.

No longer need he change his voice
To childish tones and high,
For now he's got a little tot
Who'll take this part instead.

They say he's happy as a lamb;
This only what is that thing
Had been born in New York.

THE ART OF ATTRACTING CUSTOM.

The imperative duty of attracting customers, calls for certain activities within the store and without. In the first place, the store itself should be inviting. Its exterior, no less than its interior, should appeal pleasantly to the public and convey to the observer a favorable idea of the proprietor and his wares. A clean, unobstructed pavement, a tasteful, prosperous-looking store front, a handsome modern sign, an attractive entrance—all these are important factors in giving to the store an individuality that appeals favorably to the public. In this category, too, is the show-window, which should be a crystallized edition-de-luxe of the store itself, reflecting, in a striking way, not only the beauty and merit of the stock, but the enterprise and good taste of the proprietor. Brilliant lighting and effective arrangement in the window will speak volumes for the goods and service within. And care must be taken, especially at this season, that the interior of the store is worthy of the exterior presentment—that the floors, walls, fixtures, decorations and goods are harmoniously bright and clean. The Christmas-tide is a time of joy and good cheer, of giving and receiving, of happiness and harmony, and the spirit of the season should be reflected not only in the store and decorations, but also in the unobtrusive politeness and graciousness of manner of the proprietor and clerk.—Exchange.

AMERICAN PHONOGRAPH CO. AT BURLINGTON, VT.

The American Phonograph Co., of Gloversville, N. Y., Jobbers of Edison Phonographs, which recently opened a branch store at 34 Church Street Burlington, Vt., to meet demands of increasing trade in the state of Vermont and Northern New York, report an excellent business since the opening on October 2d. They occupy two floors and basement, and carry a large stock of Edison Phonographs, Records and supplies, which enables them to supply the trade more conveniently and promptly than in the past. They have received many praises from Dealers in that section, for prompt shipments, always carrying a large stock and filling orders the same day received, which enables the Dealer to replenish his stock on short notice, and to supply his customers with the new Edison Records the day they are received from the factory. This concern are firm believers in judicious advertising and are conducting an extensive campaign, in the newspapers, backed by an efficient follow up system, which not only helps the American Phonograph Co., but all the Dealers handling Edison Phonographs.

GRAVES & CO., PORTLAND, ORE.

Two carloads of Edison Records and Phonographs have arrived in Portland from the Edison laboratories in Orange, N. J. This is said to be the largest shipment of Phonographs ever sent out to the Pacific coast. It is destined to complete the stock of Graves & Company, who have been made Jobbers for Edison goods in the Northwest.

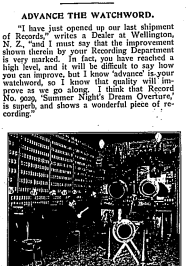
As one would naturally expect the already large retail store at 308 Washington street would have to be expanded considerably to accommodate in proper classified arrangement a stock of 50,000 Records and several thousand Phonographs, in addition to the big stock of stringed and band instruments, and the complete stock of supplies kept for the trade, saying nothing of the immense stock of sheet music which occupies one entire wall of this big retail and wholesale establishment. When this demand for more room confronted F. W. Graves, the head and founder of the house, a man who has grappled with and solved successfully many knotty financial problems, he proposed to his associates that a lease be taken on the Arcade Theater building, standing at the rear of the store. Naturally enough this looked like extravagant expansion to many. The wisdom of the step taken is now apparent. Where theatrical stars delighted thousands of people, Phonographs now perform a similar mission. The space occupied by the auditorium and stage of the old theater has been divided into Phonograph parlors, each having individual finish and different furnishings. One of the front parlors, occupied by Edison machines, is finished in blue and gold, with a canopy ceiling studded with electric lights.

The old galleries of the theatre are fitted up with cabinets which skirt every nook and corner of the walls, holding, it is estimated, 25,000 Records. In all the departments of this big establishment over 10,000 square feet of floor space are utilized. Taken as a whole, the Phonograph parlors of Graves & Co., are acknowledged to be the finest by far in the United States.

PHONOGRAPH NOOK OF W. A. PRESTON, THE "HANDY MAN," GRINNELL, IA.

These Phonograph parlors are crowded all day long with customers and the interest manifested in the marvel of the times.—Portland Telegram.

A NOVEL ADVERTISING PLAN.



A daily paper in Houston, Texas, recently inaugurated a novel guessing contest, in which well-known business houses were described, but the actual names withheld. The following is the paragraph referring to the Texas Phonograph Co., Edison Jobbers in that city:

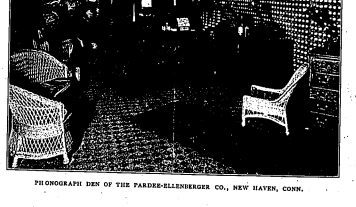
There are several varieties of talking machines. One style claims their 1905 model is the only one that will make perfectly harmonious music. Makes no scratching sound, runs without noise, and so simple any child can operate it. Instead of constantly changing needles, as required on "disc" machines, it has a sapphire point that lasts for years without a change. On this machine your voice or singing is easily recorded at your own home. Machines sell for $10 up and the Records at 35 cents each for any title of music desired, and may be run hundreds of times without wear.

The store that handles these Records at wholesale and retail is on the same street as the Houston Water Co. and the Burnett Hotel. What is the firm's name? Two names appear on the window, so don't get the wrong one.

ADVANCE THE WATCHWORD.

"I have just opened up our last shipment of Records," writes a Dealer at Wellington, N. Z., "and I must say that the improvement shown therein by your Recording Department is very marked. In fact, you have reached a high level, and it will be difficult to say how you can improve, but I know 'advance' is your watchword, so I know that quality will improve as we go along. I think that Record No. 9030, 'Summer Night's Dream Overture,' is superb, and shows a wonderful piece of recording."

PHONOGRAPH PARLOR OF C. BOUZAID & CO., AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND.



A HINT TO SALESMEN.

In former issues we have urged the necessity of salesmen becoming acquainted with the machines, and too great a knowledge cannot be gained of this great question. An intimate knowledge of any business is necessary to achieve success, for better results can be obtained. We have discovered that dull seasons do not exist for the man who understands his business. He places a stronger emphasis upon business during periods which are more than ordinarily dull than at other times, and as a result he secures advantages which are far beyond those men who sit by and say that the season is dull and there is no necessity for any special exertion. When a man says that business is dull it usually means that he has not a correct knowledge of his local environments. Some seasons may be better than others, but there should not be dull times in any well-regulated enterprise.—Talking Machine World.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

I wish to inform you of a rather peculiar coincidence that occurred to me a short time ago. I was alone one day, playing one of your machines, and after playing several selections I noticed three mice almost in a row, making their way toward the Phonograph. I was rather surprised at their appearance, as the place is quite free from mice as a rule. I watched them closely, not disturbing them until the Record was finished. They appeared to enjoy the music very much, as they came very close to the machine and then stopped looking at it. I occurred to me a short time which the piccolo parts were quite prominent, and I think it must have been the tone of the piccolo that drew them.

"FOLLOW-UP" LETTERS.

FROM A. G. ARCARO, WILMERDING, PA.

Your recent favor addressed to National Phonograph Co., Orange, N. J., has been referred to me for attention, and in reply would say I can furnish you with anything made by the company, at the lowest possible price (regular) and would be pleased to meet you at my office any time you may call and play any of the Gold Moulded Records in our stock (which includes about 2,200 of the best and best selling Edison sons). Any Records that may wish and not in our stock I can order for you, and would advise you that I can get them at the earliest possible date, as I deal with the four leading Phonograph houses that handle the Edison line in the State of Pennsylvania. Therefore, I stand a better chance than if I was only dealing with this factory, for I can get your order for Edison goods (not in stock) at 4 o'clock P. M. I go to my telephone and call up the supply house, and if any of the four have what I want I will have it at Wilmerding at 7 P. M. this same day. This is about two weeks sooner than I could get a factory shipment, and at the same price. Hoping to be favored with a call or order, I remain,

FROM H. S. SHORT, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

The National Phonograph Co. writes me you have made inquiries about Records. I beg to put myself at your services, and inform you that I have in stock every Record, without exception, made by the Edison people. If you can find a Record you want that I carry any time between 9 A. M. and 5.30 P. M. I shall be pleased to play all Records you desire to hear.

IMPOSSIBLE TO OVERSTOCK.

"At the time I placed my advance order for machines, I thought I was ordering enough to take care of increasing business, but it seems that no one can calculate with any certainty on the sale of Edison goods, except that it is impossible to overstock."—Extract from letter from A. F. Ferriz, Edison Jobber at Utica, N. Y.

AN IMPROVED EDISON
PHONOGRAPH
Brings Christmas Cheer All the Year

No other gift yields such lasting pleasure as an Edison Phonograph. Everybody likes it—from baby to grandmother. No skill is required to reproduce perfectly brilliant band music; the finest vocal solos, duets, and quartettes; the funniest character songs and vaudeville skits. It replaces the opera and theatre for grown folks, and is unequaled for entertaining children. Edison Gold Moulded Records include thousands of popular, classic, sacred, operatic, or comic selections, and 21 are added every month. Thus the Phonograph provides more fun and music than any other automatic entertainer—yet is within the reach of all. Hear it at the nearest dealer's before deciding on any Christmas present. "It speaks for itself."

Gentlemen:-

Replying to yours of the 30th ult. will say that we find that our business in your product has increased at least 200% this year over last, with every indication of still increasing.

I thank you for your generosity in furnishing us with the literature which we will spread broadcast over our territory, and also thank you for your very kind and prompt attention to us generally.

The goods are first class and are a recommendation in themselves and every time we make a sale it leads to another one.

You can rest assured of our co-operation to the fullest extent.

Yours very truly,

Peter Bacigalupi

LOOKING BACKWARD AND FORWARD.

At a time like this it is quite proper to cast retrospective and prospective glances at the trade situation as viewed from an Edison standpoint. The year 1905 was one of unexampled prosperity to the entire country and great strides were made in all industrial businesses. In few other industries have greater advances been made than in the manufacture of talking-machines. The growth of the business has been of a phenomenal character and quite beyond the expectations of even the most optimistic men connected with it. Regarded but a few years ago as a fad that would soon run it course, the Phonograph has, by its rapid evolutions, won widespread recognition as an article quite as staple as a piano and as likely to endure. Without desiring to be egotistical or boastful, we believe that the business of the National Phonograph Co. has in the past year grown in a grater ratio than that of any similar concern in the industry. We feel assured that the Edison Phonograph and the sound reproducing principles back of it have to a greater extent than ever been accepted by the world as those furnishing the most natural reproduction of the human voice or of any musical instrument, and therefore the most desirable instrument of its kind on the market. The business of the National Phonograph Co. steadily increased throughout the year. Each successive month brought a larger business than its predecessor, the summer months being no exception to this growth, the last four months bringing a demand for goods beyond our factory capacity.

Looking forward, all conditions seem favorable for a volume of business as much greater than that of 1905 as the latter was greater than the year before. Never before have the relations between the trade and ourselves been more cordial, and never before have Jobbers and Dealers been so enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Edison product. (Continued from page 1.)

provements have made the several types of Edison Phonographs the most perfect sound reproducing devices of the day, and the progress in the art of recording has produced Records of lifelike naturalness and clearness. The number of Jobbers and Dealers now handling Edison goods long ago reached a high watermark, and the weekly increase in the number is greater than ever. Several of the largest firms in the country in their respective lines will become Jobbers as soon as it becomes possible to give them the goods required by the initial order. Freight allowances to Jobbers to all points in the United States is going to have a salutory effect upon the growth of Edison business in the South and far West. The opening up of new branch offices at Sydney, Australia, and Mexico City, and the phenomenal growth of the business in all foreign countries all presage a year of continuous growth and progress.

So here's to the year 1906. May it bring greater prosperity to all engaged in marketing Edison goods and may its close bring us the same good will from the trade as we enjoy today.

DON'T CANCEL.

The holiday season is over, the year closing with a month that, for strenuosity from a manufacturing standpoint, has never seen its equal in the life of the Edison Phonograph. Every member of the Sales Department has spent his waking hours reading letters and telegrams and listening to personal appeals for goods that could scarcely be half appeased, and their sleeping hours have been haunted by visions of irate Jobbers, each of them declaring that he was not getting his share of the machines that were being made at the factory and begging for a "square deal." Such a situation has had no precedent. Its extent was not anticipated and its trying features could not, therefore, have been prevented. And now that we have passed through it, we feel safe in saying that a similar situation will not occur again. Not that we do not expect as great a demand for goods, for we have every reason to look for a much greater demand, but the demand will find us better prepared to take care of it. We hope that the trade will never again be compelled to sell machines of other makes because of an inability to get as many Edison Phonographs as they wanted. It is due the General Manager of Sales to say that no official of the company has worked harder in the past four months to apportion fairly and equitably among the Jobbers the output of machines. It has been his daily task to sit down with a tabulated sheet showing the orders on file and designate how each day's output should be shipped. The fact that so many Jobbers have felt aggrieved shows that he did his work without favor but with an eye single to the welfare of Edison trade everywhere.

Now that the holiday rush is past it may be that some Jobbers will feel inclined to cancel all or a portion of their unfilled orders Here is where they will err. The natural inclination is to think that there will be a falling off in the demand, but we have every reason to believe that the sales of Edison goods will show no marked decrease for several months. Every indication points that way, and the wise Jobber and Dealer will carry an adequate stock to meet it. The sale of Edison goods has ceased to be a matter of seasons. It is an all-year-round business with less variation in volume each month than many lines generally regarded as more staple. The sooner this fact is recognized the better it will be for all concerned.

THAT "FREIGHT ALLOWANCE" AGAIN.

A New York City Jobber wrote recently, asking that something further be said in the matter of freight allowance to Jobbers, claiming that many Dealers were still unable to understand the subject. If such Dealers will turn to the Agreements they sign they will find under the heading of "Delivery" on the first page three sentences reading as follows:

F. O. B. Orange, N. J., if ordered from factory.
F. O. B. Chicago, if ordered from Chicago.
F. O. B. city in which Jobber is located, if ordered from Jobber.

These phrases tell the entire story and should require no further explanation. They mean that if a Dealer orders goods direct from us, shipment is made from factory at the expense of the Dealer. The same is true if goods are ordered from the Chicago office. If goods are ordered from the Jobber they are shipped from the Jobber's city and transportation charges must be paid by the Dealer. If for any reason a Jobber has a shipment made direct from the factory to a Dealer, then the Dealer must pay the transportation charges the same as if shipment had been made from the Jobber's city. In other words, shipments made direct from factory cannot be used as a means of evading any part of the transportation charges that a Dealer would pay if shipment was made from the Jobber's city. The original paragraph which caused this misunderstanding had reference only to Jobbers and did not in any way affect the freight charges on shipments from Jobbers to Dealers.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

Below is printed a copy of a letter sent to the entire trade in the United States under date of December 15th. The announcement referred to and given on page 7, also contained biographical sketches of the eight artists who made the first ten of these Grand Opera Records. Five of these artists, Messrs. Scotti, Van Rooy, Dippel, Knote and Resky, are now singing leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. Messrs. Constantino and Berti are widely known abroad as operatic singers of high rank, but they have not yet been heard in this country. Signora Resky has a beautiful soprano voice, but her engagements to sing in high class concerts will not permit her to sing in Grand Opera at present. The letter given below and the announcement on page 7, give full details about the selections. These ten Records will be found the most natural reproductions of the human voice ever made.

LETTER TO THE TRADE.

We enclose herewith an announcement concerning the issuance of a series of Edison Records of Grand Opera music made by Grand Opera artists. The ten selections shown on this announcement comprise the first supplement of these Records. Other supplements will follow from time to time.

These Records will be shipped to Jobbers with their February Records. Dealers are asked to place early orders for them so that Jobbers may be able to make up their own orders more intelligently. For your convenience in making out your order, we are enclosing a special blank, which should be filled in and sent to your Jobber.

The list price of these Grand Opera Records has been fixed at seventy-five (75) cents each and they must be sold under all the conditions of the present agreement governing the sale of Edison goods. The full list price of seventy-five (75) cents must be maintained. The Dealer's price will be forty-five (45) cents each net.

Special supplements, attractively printed, will be shipped to each Jobber with his order for Grand Opera Records. These supplements will be supplied in about the same quantities as furnished Jobbers each month and they will supply them to Dealers in the same manner. As far as possible, we want every Phonograph owner to be informed concerning these high class Records and the trade is urged to use every effort along these lines.

We anticipate a large business in these Records and trust that every Dealer will carry such a stock as will meet every demand on the part of the public. The trade will take no risk in ordering liberally, for they will always be staple stock, and there will be an increasing demand for them as soon as the public learns of their superior character. Then, too, the greater ratio of profit will make it worth while to carry a stock and push the sale of these Records.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.,
C. H. WILSON,
General Manager of Sales.

Owing to the duty, the list price in Canada has been fixed at 85 cents each.

MORE ABOUT INFERIOR PARTS.

In the last issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY was printed an article headed "Inferior Parts," which cautioned the trade against buying parts for Edison Phonographs not made by us. A Dealer returned a clipping of the article, with this notation: "Would you blame Dealers in getting other makes of parts when Edison parts don't fit. How about feed-nuts?" The following was our reply:

We note your statement on clipping from December PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY with reference to Edison parts not fitting other machines and cannot account for it in any manner. The only parts that you refer to are our feed-nuts, and we do not, therefore, know what other parts you refer to. The feed-nuts that we are supplying to the trade are made on a machine which automatically threads them, and we believe that they are absolutely correct, as we are putting an our regular machines. We have no trouble whatever in making them fit these machines and no reason exists why they should not fit other machines of the same style now on the market. If you have any complaints to make in regard to feed-nuts, we should be pleased to have you do so, and we will thank you to return them to us and we will be glad to give you new ones for them without charge. You may send these to us collect, and we will immediately return new ones, prepaid. If it not possible that some one other than ours are put-nuts, and that they are of inferior quality? Please read if they are not. NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.

As yet no reply has been received. The offer made in our reply stands good to the entire trade. If Dealers have any genuine Edison parts that will not fit the machines that they are made for, they may send them back and we will replace them without cost for parts or transportation. If such parts are in existence we want to get them back at any reasonable expense.

TOO COSTLY.

Interested owners of Phonographs still occasionally suggest that it would be an excellent plan to print the complete words of all the songs of which we make Records and include a copy in each Record that we send out. Viewed in the light of a few copies, this suggestion seems quite feasible and attractive. When, however, the total quantity of Records made each year is considered, the idea assumes a very different phase, for even at a cost of a few cents per thousand the total cost in a year would be many thousands of dollars. Since there would be no return whatever for this service, the expenditure would be an entire loss. Then, too, the publishers of the famous songs would probably take exception to this use of the words and demand a money return for the privilege. Altogether, the suggestion is out of the question.

LOCAL ADVERTISING BY THE TRADE.

As might be expected, the local advertising done by Edison Jobbers and Dealers in December was of a most enterprising character. We regret that an unusual crowd of matter makes it impossible to publish a list of those who sent us copies of their local advertising. The most notable of this advertising was done by the Knoxville Typewriter and Phonograph Co., Knoxville, Tenn., and Ackerman & Co., Scranton, Pa., both of whom used full pages in their daily papers.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

Announcement to the Trade.

We have perfected plans for the issuance of a series of Edison Records of Grand Opera selections, made by the principal stars of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and by prominent artists appearing in Grand Opera in this country and abroad. The following artists appear in the ten selections given herewith that comprise the first list of the series:

Antonio Scotti, Italian baritone
Heinrich Knote, German tenor
Andreas Dippel, German tenor
Anton Van Rooy, German baritone
Florencio Constantino, Italian tenor
Romeo Berti, Italian tenor
Gustave Berl Resky, Italian baritone
Signora Scarphy Resky, Italian soprano

The services of these great artists of the Grand Opera world, as will be understood, were obtained at an extraordinary expense. The work of recording was done at our own laboratories, where our unrivalled equipment made it possible to secure the most faithfully accurate and natural reproductions.

Other instalments of these Records will be issued from time to time.

As an evidence of the artistic character of these Records, we print below the translation of a letter written by Signor Scotti referring to the records made of his voice.

LETTER FROM SIGNOR SCOTTI

MILAN, October 9, 1905.

"I have great pleasure in informing you that the cylinders which I sang for you are excellent from every point of view, and I consider them as an absolutely natural reproduction of my voice. I must, however, tell you that the cylinder on which I sang the air from the "Sonnambula" pleases me most, and I certainly think it is the best of all I have ever heard.

"(Signed) A. SCOTTI."

PHONOGRAPHS FOR MONKEYS.

A dispatch from Paris says that Professor Garner, who made special studies of the Simian language, in now ready for another expedition to the Congo, somewhere near Cape Lopez. He will be equipped with a number of delicate instruments designed to analyze the the sensations monkeys feel regarding the impressions of color, form and music. He will carry Edison Phonographs especially to register the sounds made by the monkeys while he is hidden among them in his green painted cage. He will tail from Marseilles in a few days.

CONCERNING REPAIR PARTS.

Now that there are two kinds of Gem machines, two kinds of Standards and two kinds of Homes on the market. The trade in ordering repair parts should be careful to state whether they are wanted for the old style or new style machines. Some parts of the new style machines differ from similar parts in the old, and without knowing whether they are wanted for new style or old style, we cannot fill orders with any certainty that we are doing so correctly.

We again desire to call the attention of sub-Dealers to the necessity of ordering repair parts from Jobbers and not direct from us. Even if all conditions are in regular form, practically no time would be gained in ordering repair parts direct from the factory. On the other hand, in most cases, such sub-Dealers are not known to us except through the agreement furnished by their Jobber, and before we can accept any order direct from them we must have a direct agreement signed. Then, if the Dealer is not known to our Credit Department, before shipment of the parts can be made, we send out a pro forma invoice, which must be paid before shipment is made. As a consequence, Dealers put us to considerable extra trouble and cause themselves needless delay when they order parts direct. We will be glad if Jobbers will explain this matter more fully to their Dealers and urge them to make all purchases from them and thereby discourage placing orders direct.

NO EXCHANGE PROPOSITION FOR CUSTOMERS.

Once in a while a Dealer writes in, stating that in his opinion some arrangement should be put into effect by which a Dealer could take back from his customers old Records in exchange for new ones, a similar exchange to be made between Jobbers and Dealers, and between Jobbers and this company. The suggestion is not a new one by any means, and we have on one or two occasions referred to the unreasonableness of such a proposition. When a Phonograph owner buys a Record at a cost of thirty-five cents and plays it several hundred times, if he cares to, he will lose nothing if he throws it away. Even if he plays it fifty times he has had in amusement full value for the money expended. It would be just as reasonable to ask publishers of sheet music to take back old copies in exchange for new ones after the owner had played the music over until he was tired of it. This is the attitude of the National Phonograph Co. concerning this subject, and it is quite improbable that any exchange proposition of this kind will ever be allowed.

DEALERS' RESOLVES FOR 1906.

To carry an adequate stock of Edison Phonographs and the full list of Edison Gold Moulded Records (domestic selections).

To see that every Phonograph owner within your knowledge gets a list of new Records each month and, if possible, some other printed matter concerning Edison Records.

To put down the reason why you lose a sale and take steps to prevent its recurrence.

To advertise in some way and increase such advertising as your business grows; learn to regard advertising as a profitable investment—not an expense.

To maintain prices and other conditions and thereby give Edison goods the same fair treatment that you have given them and they have given you in the past.

To make your stock of goods inviting and your window displays attractive.

To keep in close touch with your Jobber so that you can get goods at short notice should you unexpectedly run out of Phonographs or Records.

To keep your credit at par so that Jobbers will be glad to sell you and will seek your patronage.

A PREMATURE ANNOUNCEMENT.

An announcement has appeared in some of the music trade papers recently to the effect that the National Phonograph Co. was about to put a six-inch Record on the market. This announcement is decidedly premature, for this company has no immediate intention of doing anything of this kind. Should a decision at any time be reached to market a Record of this kind, the trade may rest assured that it will be given ample notice of it in the usual way, and it should pay no attention to unauthorized paragraphs on the subject.

FOLLOW-UP LETTERS.

PROM L. S. PORTER, DEDHAM, MASS.

A short time ago I wrote you a letter, in reply to your correspondence with the National Phonograph Co., in regard to Edison Phonograph Records. Not having had the pleasure of a reply, I should have thought that perhaps the matter had slipped your mind. If so, kindly let me remind you that winter with its long cold and lonesome evenings is upon us. Now, the best way to drive away the lonesome hours of business is to have an Edison machine in your home.

No other machine or instrument can please your entire family at such a small cost as this great invention. If you have not yet had a catalogue of Records sent you, kindly inform us of the fact, and we will assist you in what every way possible, and soon to do so. If you have purchased an outfit, we would be more than pleased to have your trade in Records and supplies. We carry a very large stock of machines and supplies, and every Edison Record listed in the catalogues. Awaiting your early favors, which will not let this matter remain in an undecided way any longer, I remain,

We sell on easy terms and will be pleased to let you have an outfit on terms which I know will please you.

AN ADVERTISING RECORD FOR THE TRADE.

With this copy of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY we are mailing a blank entitling the Dealer receiving it to the use of a special advertising Record which we are loaning the trade for use in connection with store exhibitions. A supply of these Records is being shipped to all Jobbers with their January orders for regular Records and they will supply Dealers upon presentation of the order blanks. This advertising Record is put out with the express understanding that it shall not be sold or given away to the public. The "talk" on the Record is printed in full below. It was made by Len Spencer, whose splendid voice and clear articulation have produced a record of unusual attractiveness.

I am the Edison Phonograph, second to the great Wizard of the new world to delight those who would have melody or be amused. I can sing you tender songs of love. I can give you merry tales and joyful laughter. I can transport you to the realms of music divine. I can toss you to join in the rhythmic dance. I can tell the babe to sleep, or recall the spoken in the aged hour, soft memories of childhood's days.

No matter what may be your mood I am always ready to entertain you. When your day's work is done I can bring the theatre or the opera to your home. I can sing you grand opera, comic opera or vaudeville. I can give you sacred or popular music, band, orchestra or instrumental music. I can render solos, duets, trios, quartettes.

I am aid in entertaining your guests. When your wife or sweetheart tells stories of the day and the children are, I can rest the ears and quiet the other. I never get cross or tired. I never lose my temper. I always have something new to offer. I give pleasure to all, young and old.

I will wherever you may be—in the parlor, in the sick-room, on the porch, in the camp or to your assembled friends.

If you sing or talk to me I will retain your songs or words, and repeat them to you at your pleasure. I can enable you to always hear the voices of your loved ones, even though they are far away.

I talk the universal language. I can help you to learn other languages.

I am made with the highest degree of mechanical skill. My voice is the clearest, smoothest and most natural of any talking machine.

The name of my famous master is on my body and tablets. Then make sure genuine Edison Phonograph.

When you become satisfied with me the better you will like me. Ask the Dealer.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Western Talking Machine Co., Philadelphia, have moved from 25 S. Ninth street to 128 S. Ninth street.

The Phillips & Crew Co., of Atlanta, Ga., who took up Edison goods as Jobbers during December, are one of the leading piano and music houses in the South, and we feel especially pleased at being able to include them in our list of Jobbers. They are aggressive and their efforts will add much to the popularity of Edison Phonographs and Records in that part of the South.

Pardee-Ellenberger Co., of New Haven, have bought the Jobbing business of the Caulkins & Post Co., at Middletown, and are now the only Edison Jobbers in Connecticut.

C. A. Ray, Louisville, has moved from 640 Fourth avenue to 650-652 Fourth avenue.

The Reading Phonograph Co., Reading, Pa., are now located at 911 Penn avenue, have moved from 809 Penn avenue.

The Craig-Jay Co., of Indianapolis, have dissolved, the business being continued as the Indiana Phonograph Co., with Charles F. Craig, proprietor. They have moved from the former location, 234 Massachusetts avenue, to 45 Virginia avenue, where they have fully doubled their facilities. The new store is 160 feet deep, with entrances and display windows on two streets. The company are exclusive Edison Jobbers.

For some time past the talking-machine department of the large store of John Wanamaker has been considerably handicapped by the inadequate floor space. They are now making alterations, which, when completed, will give them about twice as much space as they have had before and will enable them to display to much greater advantage a line of Edison goods which they carry. Manager Bockhurst, when seen recently by a representative of the Music Trades said: "We carry only the Edison line of goods, and up to this time have suffered materially for want of space. As soon as our alterations are complete we will greatly increase our stock of Records, machines and cabinets and will then have a thoroughly up-to-date line. This department has grown with a growing rapidity. Many of our customers find it very convenient to purchase their records and supplies while visiting the store for other purposes, and this helps us materially in our sales. For an indefinite time the talking-machine department will continue to occupy its present quarters, and I cannot say definitely when it will be moved to the new store."—Music Trades.

BRANCH OFFICES.

The Mexico branch of the National Phonograph Co. is now in full operation. It is located at Calle Prolongación del 5 de Mayo, No. 67-77, Mexico City. This branch will be under the direction of our Foreign Department with Rafael Cabanas as local manager.

The Australian branch of the National Phonograph Co. is located at 340 Kent street, Sydney. It began business on January 1. Its cable address is "Sonido, Sydney." This office is also under the control of our Foreign department.

Nos. 12227 AND 12273 TO BE CUT OUT.

The trade is hereby advised that we have no moulds or masters of Records Nos. 12227 and 12273 and we will consider these cut out selections when our present stock is exhausted.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR FEBRUARY, 1906.

This February list of new Records is strictly Edison in character—full of timely songs and music, abounding in variety and recorded in a manner that has made Edison Records the synonym for artistic excellence throughout the entire world. Claims for natural reproduction are made by everybody and, consequently, the public, who will not listen, remain prejudiced. To hear an Edison Phonograph and Edison Gold Moulded Records is to become a convert to their really remarkable qualities.

No. 9198, "Caprice Militaire," by the Edison Concert Band, a composition by T. H. Rollinson, is a favorite with a number of first class band and orchestra organizations and is often heard at the best theatres. It is original in style, brilliant and quite unlike any other composition listed in our catalogue. Its rendition by our Concert Band is a remarkably fine piece of recording.

No. 9199, "Henry Klein," by Miss Ada Jones, is easily the best song specialty introduced into Klaw & Erlanger's annual spectacle, "The White Cat," now in the Drury Lane Theatre, London. It is a Dutch waltz song, and Miss Jones gives it in dialect in her usual happy style. It has an orchestra accompaniment. The Dutch wooden shoe dance is one of the realistic and effective parts of the Record. Jerome and Schwartz, who wrote "Mr. Dooley," "Bedelia," "Cordelia Malone" and "My Irish Molly O," all found in our Record catalogue, are the composers of "Henry Klein," their latest big success.

No. 9196, "I'm Dreaming of You," sung by Collins and Harlan, is a selection quite different from the coon love songs previously made by Collins and Harlan. The song is particularly new, allowing the two voices in separate melodies and different words. There is no question about its becoming one of these artists' big successes. Frank Pogeny wrote the words and J. B. Mullen gave it the best melody that he has written in some time.

No. 9197, "Genevieve Waltz Medley," by Eugene Rose, is a Record by the ocarina and the first solo of its kind made for our catalogue. A bit played by the ocarina which was introduced into "The Musical Yankee," our Record No. 9119, led to numerous requests for an entire Record of this unique instrument. This specially arranged waltz solo, with orchestra accompaniment, is the result. The ocarina makes an unusually loud and clear Record, and this selection will undoubtedly be much in demand. It introduces "On the Banks of the Rhine," "Fra Stein," our Record No. 9124, "I'll Be Waiting in the Dreaming, Sweet Genevieve," our Record No. 9108, and "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," our Record No. 9130.

No. 9198, "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?" sung by Harry MacDonough, is a sentimental ballad somewhat above the ordinary, the medley being particularly well written. The words are by J. J. Walker and the music by Ernest R. Ball, composers new to our catalogue. Mr. MacDonough renders the ballad in a manner fully up to his usual high standard.

No. 9199, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," is a splendid Record by Anthony and Harrison, of the widely known sacred song, the music of which was written by William G. Tomer and the words by the late Rev. Jeremiah E. Rankin. Made with orchestra accompaniment and splendidly sung by Messrs. Anthony and Harrison. From time to time calls for this selection have been numerous, especially of late, or since the Oyster Bay school children sang it at the departure of the President for his recent tour through the South.

No. 9200, "It's a Good World After All," by Bob Roberts, is a comic song written and composed by Vincent Bryan and Gus Edwards, respectively. The verses are numerous, containing such sentiment as "Married life can't last forever, it's a good world after all." The music is well fitted to the words, which latter Mr. Roberts articulates in his usual distinct manner.

No. 9201, "The Blue Jackets March," played by the Edison Military Band, is a march, composed by C. W. Bennett. It may be likened to one of the most successful Records of band pieces ever listed in our catalogue: "The New Colonial March." Both have the same clarinet features in the trio, or second half, which has been so much admired. The melody in each, of course, differs materially, but the same spirit and dash are in both.

No. 9202, "Daddy's Little Girl," by Byron G. Harlan, is another sentimental song, written by Theodore Morse and Edward Madden, who are responsible for many popular song successes during the last few years. It tells a pathetic little story of human interest set to a melody lingeringly attractive. That Mr. Harlan's work in this Record is in entire sympathy with the intention of the composer goes without saying.

No. 9203, "College Life March," by Joe Belmont, is a most attractive whistling solo. It has been some time since we have listed a solo by Mr. Belmont, whose style and method of whistling is like no other artist in his line. The selection will be found to have lots of snap and go to it. It was written by Henry Frantzen and it is his first appearance in our catalogue with an instrumental number, although we have several successful vocal selections listed, for the music of which he is responsible. Mr. Belmont's solo is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9204, "Lazy Moon," by Billy Murray, is a very unique and melodious coon love song. Written by Cole and Johnson and sung with orchestra accompaniment. It is something new in our Records for Mr. Murray to sing a song of this character, but his excellent rendering of this piece is reason enough for his departure from the kind of songs with which he has been identified. The assistance of the Edison Male Quartette in the chorus is one of the features of the Record.

No. 9205, "Ghost of the Mayor Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a Record, the title of which is the English translation of L. Grossmann's opera "Der Geist des Wojewoden." It is perhaps best known by its Hungarian title. All the characteristics of Hungarian music are present in the composition. As an orchestra Record, showing the best features of the different instruments, as well as skillful playing and careful recording, it is doubtful if we have ever listed any instrumental number that will be more generally appreciated by admirers of this class of Records.

No. 9206, "Neath the Spreading Chestnut Tree," by Irving Gillette, is a song by Evelyn Bloom and Arthur J. Lamb that gives Mr. Gillette the opportunity of duplicating the success of his singing in our Record "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree." The two songs are dissimilar both in story and music, but are thought by many to be equally melodious. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9207, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Miss Marie Narelle, is an excellent Record of the old and ever popular ballad that needs no description here. Its music was written by Sir John Stephenson and its words are by Thomas Moore. Miss Narelle's sweetly sympathetic soprano voice is heard to great advantage in this Record.

No. 9208, "Peachtonia," by Edward M. Favor, is a comic song by Vincent Bryan and Gus Edwards, which is interpreted in Irish dialect by Mr. Favor, who excels in songs of this character. The play upon words is extremely ludicrous, which, of course, Mr. Favor makes the most of. It suggests "Tammany" in a general way, but has no local reference, for which reason it will no doubt have a wider territorial popularity.

No. 9209, "Titania (Air de Ballet)," played by the Edison Concert Band, is a very interesting band selection, and it is rendered by our Concert Band in a style in keeping with its character. It is written in a fascinating waltz tempo, and is replete with changes of melody throughout. The work of the composer, W. G. Sired, is new to our catalogue.

No. 9210, "Is Everybody Happy?" introduces a new artist to our patrons in Miss Madge Maitland. This song was composed by Frank Williams (words) and Ernest Hogan and Tom Lemonier (music). That Miss Maitland will at once prove a success we have no doubt, and the song that she has selected for her initial bow ought to be a second in success to the artist herself. Miss Maitland's coon dialect has never been excelled by an Edison singer, and she injects an individuality into the song that stamps her as a clever artist. Miss Maitland is well known on the vaudeville stage. The chorus of the song is decidedly infectious and insists on not leaving you.

No. 9211, "Robinson Crusoe's Tale," by Arthur Collins, is a song by Benjamin Hapgood Burt, which is one of the best numbers in "Moonshine," a musical play in which Marie Cahill plays the principal part and sings this song. Our Record was made by Arthur Collins, who makes a decided hit of the song. It is a comic song, as will be seen by the chorus as follows:

Robinson Crusoe lived alone,
No bills to pay, or friends to loan;
No wife to say when he comes home,
Robinson Crusoe, why do you do so?
He wore the same clothes all the while,
A set of beads and a heavenly smile,
They very seldom changed the style,
Did Robinson Crusoe's fate.

No. 9212, "My Mother's Old Red Shawl," sung by MacDonough and Bieling, is a selection, which is also known as "The Little Old Red Shawl My Mother Wore." It was formerly included in our catalogue and in response to numerous requests is now re-listed, but this time as a male duet by MacDonough and Bieling. The favorite old pathetic ballad is too well known to need description.

No. 9213, "The Chaser March," is another xylophone solo by Albert Benzler. It is thought by many to equal "The Messenger Boy" March, one of the best xylophone Records in our catalogue. It is safe to predict that it will be just as popular and perhaps more so. The one composition suggests the other in swing and catchiness, but they are entirely unlike otherwise. The orchestra accompaniment makes a fine background.

No. 9214, "Save Your Money 'Cause de Winter am Coming On," by Miss Clarice Vance, is a coon song of the real comic variety, and in the hands of Miss Vance is unusually so. The general opinion of all who have heard Miss Vance's latest effort is that it is superior in every point of interest to "Mariar," our Record No. 9051, which we listed last August. The orchestra accompaniment is one of the features of this Record. Raymond Teal and Hal Godfrey are the writers.

No. 9215, "The Original Cohens," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch that differs from all other Records of these artists previously listed by us. As the title implies, it is a Hebrew sketch. It introduces an adaptation of the old-time Hebrew character song, "Solomon Levy," sung by both Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer. The scene is laid in a Baxter street New York clothing store, while the action of the sketch portrays the popular impression of daily happenings in that famous locality. Such expressions as "Fadder, push the blue shade over the skylight, here's a gentleman wants a blue suit," are numerous throughout the Record and provoke many a laugh.

No. 9216, "Song of the Steeple," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a composition by Edmund E. Price (words) and Monroe H. Rosenfeld (music) that was specially arranged for our Record as a male quartette and sung unaccompanied. The song is splendid in its new dress and is bound to be appreciated more than ever. It is quite a change in the style of arrangement from the usual quartette.

No. 9217, "Silver Heels," played by the Edison Military Band, is the new 1906 annual instrumental number issued by the music publishing firm who made "Hiawatha" famous throughout the world. It is also composed by Neil Moret, who wrote "Hiawatha." That it will be extremely popular and much asked for, goes without saying, even if it had to depend on its catchy musical merit alone, without the added boom that it will get from its very much alive publishers and the reputation of its famous composer.

FOR LOWER FREIGHT RATES.

The National Phonograph Co., through George N., Nisbett, its Western manager, is actively working toward securing a reduction in the freight rates on talking machines.

We have filed a petition and made application to the Western Classification Committee for a reduction in rates on Phonographs and Phonograph Records, from one and a half times first class to first class in less than car lots, and third class in car lots, and have prefaced our contention for this application by stating that the representative business men of the West recognize the utility of our product and that they realize that to successfully introduce same and handle it on a paying basis it is very essential that transportation charges be brought into line, in order to do business at a profit, and that while we are doing a fairly good business in the West we feel justified in saying that it would be increased 300 per cent. by granting the reduction prayed for. As further matters of interest, we have demonstrated to the Classification Committee that the average value of Phonographs shipped last year did not exceed $ta. The average weight per cubic foot is 15¼ pounds, the average value per cubic foot, $3.57. Another strong point that we have brought forward is the value, loading capacity and commercial necessity, in comparison with articles amalgomated therewith.

First.—A musical instrument, and as such is entitled to the same rates as musical instruments, boxed, N. O. S. first class, pianos, automatic pianos, boxed, etc.

Second.—They are in use commercially for dictation and educational purposes, and as such are entitled to same rates as other articles used for educational purposes, school books, as an illustration, from which knowledge is imparted.

Third.—The commodities mentioned below are of greater value and of less loading capacity, and in a large measure are no more of a commercial necessity—photographic material, N. O. S. boxed; millinery, N. O. S. boxed; perfumery, boxed; toys, N. O. S. boxed, etc., and we could add innumerable other citations.

In this move we shall undoubtedly have hearty support of the entire trade, as it will be the means of helping Jobbers and Dealers to get their goods at fair transportation rates. The matter will come up for consideration before the classification committee which meets in Los Angeles, Cal., some time in January.

EDISON PLAN A GOOD MODEL.

The reduction in price of certain talking machine records is interesting to us in some features which make us feel flattered. These include the same trade prices as fixed for Edison Records, they abolish the exchange proposition and they cut out the special dozen privilege all of which have been peculiar to the National Co.'s plan of doing business.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN JANUARY LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our January list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers:

9170 "The Cheriaters"—Piano copy published by Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
9171 "Somebody's Sweetheart, I Want to Be"—Gus Edwards Music Pub. Co., New York.
9173 "A Lovely Night in June"—Jean Missud, Paris, France.
9174 "I'm Going Sleepy"—Harry Von Tilzer, New York.

LIKES THE IMPROVEMENTS.

FINDLAY, OHIO, DEC. 2, 1905.

I noticed in the December issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY that a dealer did not like the idea of the speed regulating screw being placed under the machine. I, on the contrary, think it a very wise idea in putting same where it can not so easily get turned, as it is almost impossible to wipe off the machine with cloth without turning this screw. I have sold the Edison machines, for over ten years and many a time I have had a customer bring his machine back to have the speed regulated, as there are a great many who own machines that cannot tell, anywhere near, by the sound how fast they should run, and thus the reproduction is not as good as it might be. I think this will stop the bad habit which some owners of machines have, and that is in varying the speed of the machine on almost every Record. I have heard a machine played that was not at the proper speed and it was enough to disgust anyone with the very name of a talking machine, and yet, strange to say, the operator did not honestly know but what it was being played at the very best advantage possible. Although he knew it was not very natural, he took it for granted that it was the best a Phonograph would do. The other improvements on Standard, Home and Gem are greatly in their favor, and I am glad, for one, to see them so rapidly advance.

F. J. COLLINGWOOD.

THE PIANO TRADE AND PHONOGRAPHS.

C. H. Wilson, General Manager of Sales of the National Phonograph Co., had the following to say when the subject of the influence of the talking-machine on the sale of pianos was broached to him by a representative of the Music Age:

"In the first place, my impression is that you can sell one hundred talking-machines where you sell one piano; because they reach a poorer class of people than the piano does. Talking-machines, in my opinion, are more profitable to the dealer than pianos, for the reason that the money invested in them is turned three or four times to once for that in pianos.

"As for our business being temporary, I have heard that tale for the past ten years, but in spite of it the talking-machine industry is going ahead by leaps and bounds, and we are just as optimistic to-day about it as we were at its inception. I feel, as every talking-machine man must, that the business is simply in its infancy. Instead of being a fad or a fad, as some wise ones hinted at first, it has got to be one of the staple lines in the musical field.

"From talks which I have had with several concerns, I am convinced that music dealers are making more out of the talking-machines than any other line of goods they handle, and if it were not for this instrument a great many of the small dealers would not be able to make a living. Instead of being a detriment to piano dealers, I consider it a benefit, as it brings customers into their stores who otherwise would not come. One dealer of every merchant, I take it, is to get people to examine his wares, and in this respect what can outshine the talking-machine as an advertiser? When people come to the store to buy talking-machines or any other article that the dealer carries the salesman has the opportunity to let them know something about the piano line. This is only one of the ways in which the talking-machine can help the piano man.

"To-day the talking-machine is being sold by the foremost piano dealers of the country, which clearly proves my contention that it is one of the legitimate and permanent adjuncts of the music trade.

"I think I cannot advance any sounder argument in behalf of the talking machine's future than to mention just a few of our customers who are prominent piano dealers. On our list we have Lyon & Healy, of Chicago; W. J. Dyer & Bro., of St. Paul, Minn.; Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., of Cincinnati and Chicago; O. K. Houck Piano Co., of Memphis, Tenn, and St. Louis; D. S. Johnston Co., Seattle, Wash.; J. W. Jenkins' Sons Co., Kansas City, Mo.; C. J. Heppe & Son, Philadelphia; E. F. Droop & Sons Co., Washington, D. C., and Ilsen & Co., of Cincinnati; all of whom handle our talking-machines as jobbers, and there are many others who handle them as retail dealers.

"In conclusion, let me prophesy that within half a decade every piano house of note that also handles small goods will deal extensively in talking-machines."

Plan for a bigger Phonograph and Record Business in 1906.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new edition of the Numerical Record Catalogue will be mailed to the trade in January. It will contain all titles listed to and including February.

Because so many Jobbers insisted upon having a quantity of Record Bulletins sent with goods each month, with which to supply their Dealers, we are now mailing but one copy to Dealers, instead of two as before. Other Jobbers having Dealers who need more than one copy may have a supply shipped with Records. Such orders will be kept on a standing list.

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.'S EXPORT BUSINESS.

The manner in which the export business of the National Phonograph Co. is increasing is well told in the following interview by Walter Stevens, manager of our Foreign Department, in the Talking Machine World:

The unexampled prosperity of the talking machine business is not confined, by any means, to the domestic trade. Export business is keeping step with the phenomenal trade, and Walter Stevens, manager of the export department of the National Phonograph Co., bears out this assertion in the subjoined remarks:

"Has our export business increased? Why, my dear sir, it has grown ahead in the most remarkable manner. Of course in Japan, with the war troubles, little could be expected, and in China it is also a little slow. Elsewhere, however, the National Phonograph Co. and the Edison goods are regnant. The company's European business is in the hands of our established agencies in London, Paris, Berlin, Belgium, etc. Our particular territory is the Latin-American countries and Australia, and business in those portions of the world is simply surprising. As compared with last year the increase has been fully 100 per cent, and in Australia it goes even beyond that percentage. As a matter of truth, Australia is 'Phonograph mad,' and there is practically no end to the Edison business in that portion of the world. Recently we have established a branch there, and the other morning I received a cable that our men had secured a location and would proceed immediately to put things in shape. Therefore goods will be sent our agent there as a general distributing point for the entire colony. As yet no goods are sold there on instalment, but it is probable that this will come along soon, as competition is very keen.

"In the South and Central American countries the preferable call is for band and orchestra Records. Operatic numbers are also very popular, and where the Spanish-speaking people reside the ordinary popular song, instrumental and talking Records sell well, and the Edison line has a prestige that stands undiminished before the world. India is another great market for talking machines, but the distinctions of caste or class are so marked that the great call is for the highest grade of goods—everything gold-plated and the most costly Records. In common with other foreign countries, the demand is for native Records, and we are now in a position to satisfy all comers in this respect.

"European merchants, especially the English and the Germans, are more favorably placed than we, so far as trade with South American countries is concerned, on account of the banks established by these nationalities and the shipping lines, but we are gradually overcoming these drawbacks, and as has been true in the past, American enterprise and ingenuity will overcome this temporary obstacle. A new line of steamships from New York is about to be realized, and then we will be in a position to compete with anybody. Our best trade is on the west coast of South America, but business with Argentina is prospectively of the most glowing character. The Edison goods command a price, and the only objection I could offer is that our Latin-American friends are inclined to insist upon too high figures. That, of course, we cannot help. It is beyond our jurisdiction."

EDISON PHONOGRAPH A COURT WITNESS.

For the first time in the legal annals of the United States the sound Record of a Phonograph was admitted in evidence in the Superior Court, Boston, on December 13th, in a "noise" damage suit against the Boston Elevated Railway. It was not, however, without strenuous objection on the part of Gen. C. W. Bartlett, late Democratic candidate for Governor, counsel for the defense, that this novel proceeding was permitted. Judge Wait overruled the objections.

The machine—an Edison, furnished by the Eastern Talking Machine Co. of Boston—was then placed on a table facing the jury, and then a voice was heard from the horn, saying: "Record No. 7."

This was followed by a light rumbling, as of street traffic, and the voice announced. "The train is now at the Beach street station."

The rumbling continued, somewhat louder than before, and the voice announced: "A tip-cart is now passing."

A heavier rumbling, which grew louder, was heard, and the voice announced: "The train has just started."

This was followed by an increasing noise and the announcement: "The train is approaching."

The noise rose with the characteristic clatter and bang of a passing train and diminished to that of the usual traffic of the street. The voice was heard for the last time, saying: "The train has passed."

In offering the Record R. M. Morse, counsel for the petitioners, said: "Anticipating an objection on the part of Brother Bartlett, I will state my object in offering this evidence. The Phonograph is one of the most acute scientific Records, and I offer it on the same ground upon which photographs are put in evidence. Originally the photograph was in the position now occupied by the Phonograph, and I remember well the strenuous opposition which was raised to the admission of the former at one time. The Phonograph, as we all know, is a scientific instrument, and to my knowledge it has been put in evidence at least once in the English courts, though never before, I think, in the courts of this country. It is difficult to describe a noise, or compare one noise with another. The best that can be done is to offer a Record of it."

Gen. Bartlett objected to the introduction of the instrument on the ground that the development of the instrument, and the art of managing it, was not sufficiently advanced and exact to warrant its admission to a court of law, and because it did not appear that the instrument presented in court had the same appliances in the shape of the horn, and other appliances for the reproduction of sound, that it had when the Records were taken.

Judge Wait said that the objections made by counsel were practically the same as those that were made against the admission of photographs and radiographs as evidence, to be submitted to a jury, though perhaps greater in degree, but said that in his discretion he would admit the evidence in this case, but would not consider this as a precedent for the submission of such evidence generally.

The case resulted in a verdict of large damages for the plaintiff.

A DEALER'S VIEW ON INSTALMENT SALES.

Having read your two articles in the December PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, "Shall Dealers Sell on Instalments?" I would like to give you our experience along that line. We find that by selling Phonographs on the easy-payment plan (as we call it) we can sell about ten times as many as we could if we sold them for cash only.

A great many working men and farmers are buying them in this way, while, if they had to pay the full amount down, they would never own a machine. This class of people are also good Record customers. We have one customer who bought a machine this way and now he says, he buys Records instead of getting drunk.

In regard to our collections, we have it distinctly understood that all weekly payments are to be paid at our store, and up to date we have not had one delinquent. It is a matter of how you teach your customers. If there is nothing said about this matter, they naturally will expect you to go after it, and if you make the first collection in that way you can make up your mind that you will have to continue such a course.

We do not consider that we take as much risk in selling Phonographs by this method as some Dealers do that are in the credit business. If we find that a customer is not going to pay, then, by the terms of our agreement, we will proceed to have the machine returned. Every customer to whom we have sold an Edison outfit would not take twice what he paid for it, if he could not replace it, hence we feel safe in selling Edison Phonographs on this plan.

Our agreement is a form that was adopted by the piano dealers at their last annual meeting, and is considered the only one that will stand the law. (It is given below.)

MR. SCHERMERHORN IN EUROPE.

Mr. J. R. Schermerhorn has been elected Chairman of Directors of the National Phonograph Co., Limited, and will take an active part in the management of the company's affairs. In addition to his position on the board of the National Utenograph Co., Limited, Mr. Schermerhorn has also undertaken, on behalf of the National Phonograph Company of America, the control and management of the different manufacturing plants in Germany, Belgium and France. Mr. Schermerhorn will thus have an opportunity of organizing both selling and manufacturing departments with, it is safe to predict, most satisfactory results to all those who handle genuine Edison Records.—Talking Machine News, London.

PLAYED IT AND CHANGED HIS MIND.

MONROE, N. C., DEC. 8, 1905.

Just received your last shipment of Records and they are all good ones. I went out about seven miles in the country a few weeks ago to give a school a little concert. They wanted to raise funds for their library. I gave them about two hours. They cleared a good little sum, and I sold two Standard machines with thirty-six-inch horns, and a lot of Records, the very next week. I am going out again next Saturday to another school to give them a concert. While I do not charge them anything, it is a big "ad" for me, and more than pays me. There is no Phonograph that can touch the Edison in my opinion. A man was in my store not long since that had made up his mind to buy a disk machine. I told him that he was making a mistake. He said that he knew what he was doing; that the disks were the only machines. He knew a good deal about handling Phonographs, and I let him play mine all he wanted to. He kept coming in and playing my machine. I said nothing to him; only greeted him kindly. The outcome of it all was, I sold him a Standard, 36-inch horn and stand and 200 Records.

THE BALL-FINTZE CO., NEWARK, O.

The Ball-Fintze Co., Newark, O., Jobbers of Edison Phonographs, recently moved into a fine new building which they have erected for their own purposes. It is a store structure, 100x100, three stories and basement. The entire second and third floors are devoted to Phonographs and supplies. The offices are located on the second floor and are very handsomely finished in Flemish oak. The accompanying picture being a side view does not do the building justice. As the picture shows, they have their own side track. They believe that this is the largest building devoted entirely to this line of goods in the United States. The Ball-Fintze Co. are exclusively wholesale Jobbers and not connected in any way with a retail department. They are one of the largest and most aggressive Edison Jobbers in the middle West.

Edison Assures Perfect I.C.S. Records

Perfection is exemplified in every part of the I. C. S. Language Courses. The pronunciation of the master records is first made absolutely perfect by the best authorities in the land, and then perfectly reproduced by Mr. Edison's Gold Mould process. No wonder dealers that handle "Double Service" increase their sales 30 per cent. Are YOU selling I. C. S. Language Records? If not, send 50 cents for complete selling outfit.

Exhibition Edison Records

From the Laboratory of Thomas A. Edison

Subject Languages Orange, N.J. March 15, 1906.

International Correspondence Schools,
Scranton, Pa.

Gentlemen:

In your efforts to secure a perfect language record for instruction purposes, I am pleased to state that the master phonograph records, approved by authorities and submitted to me, will be reproduced at the laboratory by my Gold Mould Process, which insures an accurate and unchangable product for any number of duplicates, virtually placing the language in a standard form. Furthermore, these special records will reproduce the human voice in the most perfect and natural manner.

Yours sincerely,
Thomas A. Edison

THE TRADE SITUATION.

Just as much as ever the slogan of the Edison trade continues to be: "Give us goods." The four weeks that have elapsed since the holiday season have brought no change in the situation. The demand for Phonographs seems quite as great as it was on December 1st, and the tremendous weekly output of our factory seems to make but small progress in cutting down the number of unfilled orders constantly on hand. The new year brought no cancellations of any account, the few that did come in having no effect upon the situation. Anyone who doubts the rapidly growing popularity of the Edison Phonograph and Edison Gold Moulded Records should see the correspondence received by our Sales Department from all parts of the country—all complaining of the difficulty of getting Edison goods fast enough to meet the demands of the public. What seem like ample orders when made out and forwarded prove inadequate when the goods are received. This is quite as true of Records as of machines. On January 1st, by unusual effort, we got the Record situation well in hand and were congratulating ourselves upon the promptness with which we were filling orders, when the Jobbers finished their annual or semi-annual inventories and again began to fill up their shelves and bins. This brought an aggregate of orders in a week that, to use a slang phrase, "put us to the hall" before we were aware of it, and again caused a delay in filling Record orders until we could, pugilistically speaking, "get our wind." At this date we are gaining on orders and hope to make more prompt shipments ere long.

While not yet out of the tall timber we want to say a word or two about the coming months of 1906. Steps are already being taken to prevent a duplication of last fall's trade conditions. It seems certain that with our present output of machines and Records we must in another six weeks or two months be practically caught up and be in a position to stay so until plans, now under consideration, can become effective. The immense three-story concrete building recently finished will be fully occupied, other buildings will be erected and existing ones enlarged until it is possible to increase the output twenty-five per cent. Instead of cutting down the output during the more quiet summer months the factory will be operated with its full force and the surplus of output over shipments will be held in reserve for the fall. These plans will, we are sure, make it possible to meet every demand of the trade throughout the year. We have figured that our inability to manufacture enough Phonographs to fill orders caused us a loss of many thousands of dollars, with a corresponding enrichment of our competitors, whose machines were bought because ours could not be had, and we are determined that we will not again suffer such a loss.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS A GREAT SUCCESS.

The National Phonograph Co. entered upon the task of securing the services of the necessary artists and making a series of grand opera Records with a feeling of no little uncertainty as to its commercial success. People with the ability to make good Phonograph Records always command good salaries but to pay thousands of dollars for a few Records by grand opera artists of world-wide reputation was a new experience. It was also a new experience to ask seventy-five cents each for Records when our regular product was being sold for thirty-five cents. But the evolution of the Edison Record had brought it to a point where its naturalness would do justice to the voices of great singers and the work was carried out without regard to expense.

When the announcement and samples of the first ten Records were sent out to the trade many estimates were made by the officials of the company as to the total of the advance orders that would be received from the Jobbers. The sample Records had been out but a few days when we began to get congratulatory letters from enthusiastic Jobbers, all commenting in terms of the highest praise upon the remarkable naturalness and artistic character of the Records. They were declared to be far in advance of anything of the kind ever before placed before the public and to mark an epoch in the history of reproduced sound. The Jobbers later backed their encomiums with orders of surprising size, the aggregate of which was nearly double the highest advance estimate of any official of the company.

We naturally feel much elated over the pronounced success of the first series. It is gratifying to have our work and our own judgment as to its merit so emphatically approved by the Jobbers and to a certain extent by Dealers.

These ten grand opera Records are now in the hands of the trade and in a few days will be passed upon by the most critical jury in the world—the American public. We have no misgivings as to the verdict that it will render. We feel too confident concerning their quality to expect anything but enthusiastic approval. We are confident that these new Records will not only please present owners of Edison Phonographs but attract to the Edison standard many whose musical tastes have kept them from buying because our catalogues have not until now contained high class compositions sung by artists of the highest rank. Of the eight artists represented by our first list, Messrs. Scotti, Knote, Van Rooy, Dippel and Reiss are now singing leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and to question their ability is to doubt Mr. Conried's reputation as the great operatic director of his time.

One other reason for our confidence in the success of these grand opera Records is the manner that Jobbers have placed advance orders. Experience has shown us that a few Jobbers may err in making up their advance orders, but taken as a whole they make few mistakes. We have found that the selections they order in the largest quantities prove to be the most popular with the public.

Because many Jobbers and Dealers have gained the impression that additional grand opera Records would be issued each month, we want to state that, for a time at least, new ones will not be put out more frequently than once in three months. The next supplement will be dated May 1. An advance list will be sent out after March 15th and samples will follow the latter part of the month, probably with the May samples.

THE ADVERTISING RECORD.

The Advertising Record has been voted a great success by the trade and many letters in its praise have been received. In fact, the Record is so attractive that many Dealers report having been offered fancy prices if they would sell the one they had. Of course, Dealers must not dispose of them to the public. There have been so many requests for the Record outside of the trade that we may make it over, eliminating the last sentence "Ask the Dealer," give it a number and title and put it into the regular catalogue as a talking Record.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new Phonograph Catalogue, Form No. 805, and a new Catalogue of Domestic Records, Form No. 820, are being mailed to the trade with this issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. The Phonograph catalogue has been in use some time, but until now has not been mailed to the trade. The Record catalogue contains all Domestic Records to and including February.

The new Numerical Catalogue, Form No. 820, has at last been mailed to Jobbers and Dealers, five copies going to each Jobber and one to each Dealer. Jobbers will be supplied with extra copies for new Dealers or to supply such Dealers as may need extra ones. It must be borne in mind that this catalogue is for trade use only and must not be supplied to the public. Nor should copies be used as order blanks. It is expected to issue a new edition of the Numerical Catalogue every six months.

With the February Record supplement, bulletin, etc., we are mailing copies of the grand opera supplement. This is handsomely printed in two colors, and besides an announcement concerning the Records, it gives a description of each selection.

A quantity of hangers, showing the pictures of the artists who made the Grand Opera Records, and a list of the selections, is being shipped to all Jobbers. Dealers who will carry Grand Opera Records in stock can get one of these hangers from their Jobbers. Dealers who may have decided not to put in Grand Opera Records may find it advisable to change their minds and order some. The printed matter gotten out for these Records should make it easy to sell them.

Dealers who have ordered Grand Opera Records should see that a grand opera supplement is sent to every Phonograph owner. A little effort in this way will result in a nice business in these Records.

We have just gotten out an interesting and attractive hanger illustrating "The Evolution of the Edison Phonograph from a Crude Talking Machine to a Delightful Musical Instrument." It shows pictures of the original Phonograph made in 1877, the Phonograph of 1887 and the present Triumph Phonograph, with a photograph of Mr. Edison in the horn of the latter. It is 17x22 inches in size, is printed in several colors and is mounted with metal strips for hanging. A supply of these hangers are being shipped to all Jobbers for the purpose of supplying their Dealers. It is not being mailed.

The calendar mailed to the trade in January was printed for trade use only and the edition was only sufficient for this purpose. It cannot be supplied to Jobbers or Dealers in quantities on any basis.

REDUCED FREIGHT RATES SECURED.

Thanks to the efforts of George M. Nisbett, manager of our Chicago office, and F. A. Voullaire, Traffic Manager for our company, with headquarters at Orange, the Western Classification Committee, representing the various railroads throughout the United States, on January 19th, reduced the classification on Phonographs and Records from one and a half times first class to first class in less than carload lots and to third class in carload lots; effective March 1, 1906. Although Messrs. Nisbett and Voullaire secured the reduction unaided, it will benefit all talking machine companies. Mr. Nisbett sends the following account of their trip:

The members of the Western Classification Committee assembled at Kansas City on Friday, January 13, and left on a special train at 2 P. M. for Los Angeles, via Missouri Pacific to Pueblo, Colo.; Denver & Rio Grande; Colorado Springs, Colorado Midland to Grand Junction, D. & R. G. W. to Salt Lake, and San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Route to Los Angeles. The train consisted of three Pullmans, a dining car, observation car and baggage car. The trip was most enjoyable from every point of view, scenic and otherwise. On Sunday we were detained over twelve hours in the mountains near Tucker, Utah, owing to a freight wreck, but the time passed pleasantly, owing to my having with me a Home Phonograph and a collection of thirty-six Records. Every selection played brought innumerable encores, and each Record was voted by acclamation to be the "best ever." We reached Salt Lake at midnight on Sunday and left again on the last stage of our journey at 2.20 A. M., Monday, arriving at Los Angeles on Tuesday, the 16th, at 2 A. M. Those on the train were as follows: H. E. Pierpont, A. G. F. A., C. M. & St. P. Ry.; E. J. Seymour, A. G. F. A., C. & N. W. Ry.; J. S. Gorman, G. F. A., A., T. & S. Fe Ry.; H. E. Still, G. F. A., Gt. Nor. Ry.; J. C. Lincoln, A. G. F. A., Missouri Pac. Ry.; E. E. Wood, G. F. A., Union Pac. Ry.; W. W. Broughton, G. F. A., Nor. Pac. Ry.; Fred Wild, Jr., G. F. A., Denver & Rio Grande; George M. Sargent, A. G. F. A., San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Ry.; F. H. Tibbitts, A. G. F. A., Chicago Great Western Ry.; C. E. Wilson, A. G. F. A., Wisconsin Central Ry.; John T. Bowe, Agt. Colo. Southern; W. G. Nemyer, Sec. to H. Snyder, C. R. I. & P. Ry.; G. L. Crosby, C. B. & Q. Ry.; R. B. Miller, G. P. & Nav. Co.; J. C. Groseclose, M. K. & T. Ry.; J. Lund, Wabash; F. O. Becker, chairman West. Class. Com.; F. W. Meadows, Sec'y West. Class. Com.; George M. Nisbett, Western Manager, National Phonograph Co.; F. A. Voullaire, Traffic Department, Nat. Phono. Co., Orange, N. J. The presence of the wives of a great many of the degelates added zest and enjoyment to the trip.

Messrs. Nisbett and Voullaire appeared before the committee on Wednesday afternoon and argued for a reduction in the classification on Phonographs and Phonograph Records, from one and a half times first class to first class in carload lots and third class in carload lots. No decision was reached until Thursday evening when the committee announced that our petition had been granted, the reduction to become effective on March 1, 1906. The novelty of the entire meeting and the thing that made the biggest hit was that the Phonograph itself made part of the plea before the committee. A Home Phonograph was used and two standard blanks which had been dictated to a few minutes before the meeting.

JOBBERS ADVANCE ORDERS MUST BE MAILED BY THE TENTH.

The continued practice, month after month, of some Jobbers in not sending their advance orders for new Records until after the 10th of the month, notwithstanding various appeals from the Sales Department, led to the issuance, on December 30th, of the letter given below, signed by Mr. Gilmore, President of this Company. This letter was mailed to every Jobber.

NEW YORK, December 30, 1905.

DEAR SIR—

Our sales department has several times written all Jobbers relative to stock orders for advance Records being sent up by the 10th of the month following receipt of samples. Some Jobbers, however, have not complied with requests made in this matter, but on the contrary continue sending in their orders from time to time during the month. This has been due to carelessness or no oversight on their part; nevertheless, it interferes very materially with our getting the new Records out in time to ship before the 1st of the month. As orders for the new monthly Records are constantly increasing, to allow shipments to be made before the 1st of each month has grown to be a very serious one, and the only way we can possibly overcome it is to do so by receiving the Jobbers' orders promptly and on time.

We are, therefore, again compelled to advise that ADVANCE ORDERS for Edison Standard Records are MAILED US ON OR BEFORE THE 10TH OF EACH MONTH they will not be entered or filed as orders, and the orders that are MAILED US ON OR BEFORE THE 10TH will be considered as entered and shipped first. Orders received after the 10th will be considered as second orders and will be filled in rotation as received, after all of the first orders have been shipped.

As the question of your receiving new Records at the same time other Jobbers do is a very important one, we feel sure you will give this matter your personal attention, and that your order will be mailed us on time; that is, not later than the 10th of each month.

Yours very truly,

W. E. GILMORE, President.

Advance orders for February Records will be filled in accordance with the statements made in this letter. A number of Jobbers paid no more attention to the letter than in the previous months, but mailed their orders some days after January 10th. If conditions make it possible to fill their orders and ship with those of other Jobbers it will be done. If not, then they will follow as soon as possible thereafter. For one Jobber in a city to get his new Records some days after his competitor is going to cause unpleasantness, but we think that the tardy Jobber will have only himself to blame.

In endeavoring to get all Jobbers to mail advance orders on or before the 10th of each month, we have no desire to be arbitrary. On the contrary, we are only seeking to serve the trade in a proper manner. The extent of the demand for the monthly supplements leaves no other course open. The total of the advance orders is more than double what it was a year ago, and is constantly increasing. It has reached a total that cannot be made in time for shipment by the last of the month, unless Jobbers will co-operate by getting orders in on time. Jobbers will serve their own interests by giving us this co-operation.

SALESMEN CHANGES.

A number of changes have taken place in our force of salesmen during the past two months. C. S. Gardner, who travelled in Pennsylvania and Ohio, resigned in December and his territory is now being covered by F. J. Smith, of Newark, N. J. Frank E. Madison, who represented the company in Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, has been transferred to the New York office and placed in charge of the Agreement Department. A new man will shortly be placed in his territory. H. K. Miller, formerly a retail Edison Dealer in Tacoma, N. Y., has been assigned to the Pacific Coast States, under the direction of the Chicago office. H. A. Turner, at one time manager of the Ray Company branches, will cover Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas. J. W. Scott, our New England traveller, has had Connecticut added to his territory.

THE PHONOGRAM.

Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobber's orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1,000 copies	$9.50
Smaller quantities
25 cents addition for imprinting with Dealer's name and address, without regard to quantity. No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year	.40
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.85
Fifty copies to one address, per year	3.60

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

RECORD MUSIC PUBLISHERS.

Because of a desire on the part of some Dealers to know in advance the names of music publishers whose compositions are represented in our monthly list of new Records, we have decided to return to the plan of printing the names of publishers a month in advance. Consequently the February and March list is given below. It is as complete as we can make it. Where a publisher is not given we either do not know his name or the selection is not published.

NUMBER 12348 CUT OUT.

The trade is hereby advised that we have no more moulds or masters of foreign selection No. 12348, "Vertes Margot" (French), by Bartel, and after our present stock of this selection is exhausted it will be considered as a cut-out selection.

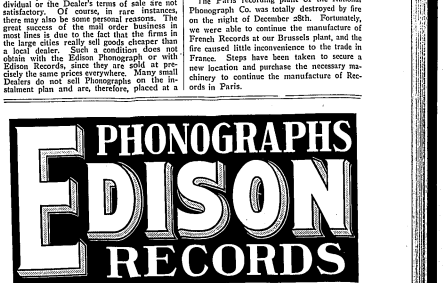
A STRIKING OIL PAINTING.

A calendar for 1906 was mailed to the entire trade early in January. Its principal feature was a reproduction by the three-color process of an oil painting of an old couple listening in delighted amazement to an Edison Phonograph for the first time. The original of this picture was painted by Mastani, a noted Italian painter. It was imported a year ago by William Johnson, then of Fifth avenue, New York city. Its first public exhibition in this country was at the Chalfonte Hotel, Atlantic City, where Mr. Johnson had an extensive exhibit of paintings, and where it was priced at $1,050. It was there bought by the National Phonograph Co. It is now being reproduced in a handsome and life-like manner in fourteen colors of lithography, and copies will later be distributed to the trade. This reproduction will be the full size of the original painting, 17×25 inches. It will be worth a place in any home. Other ones of the painting will follow. The subject is universally regarded as one of the most striking ever put out in connection with a talking machine.

GIVE THE OLDER TITLES A BETTER SHOW.

Too many Dealers and too many of their salesmen are making the mistake of playing only the latest Records issued when the purchaser of a Phonograph is endeavoring for the first time to make up a selection of suitable Records. To the salesman who has heard all of the older numbers it is quite natural that the new list is the most attractive, and a purchaser who makes up his selection from them gets a lot of well-made and varied selections. On the other hand, the older numbers include hundreds of desirable selections, many of which would be preferred by the purchaser if he knew that they could be had. Many a Dealer carries on his shelves for months excellent Records from every standpoint and Records that would find a ready sale, simply because it does not occur to him to play them for customers. In this way he puts down many Records as being slow sellers when really they are only slow because he does not give them the same chance that he does the later titles. Then, too, many Dealers would be able to dispose of many of their apparently slow selling Records, if they would make more of an effort to put them forward and play the later ones only when asked for. Every Dealer should make an inventory of his stock at intervals to ascertain how many of the apparently slow sellers he has on hand and play these frequently. He will be surprised to find how many of them he can sell.

OFFERED $14.00 FOR STANDARDS.



As showing the eagerness of the public to get Edison Phonographs during the holiday season, a large Chicago house offered Jobbers $14.00 for Standard machines.

NOT A VIOLATION OF CONTRACT.

Quite a number of Jobbers and Dealers have written within the past two or three months asking if it was not a violation of contract for firms selling Phonographs on the mail order plan to prepay or allow transportation charges on their sales. In order that this matter may be understood by the entire trade and full opportunity be given all Jobbers and Dealers to sell goods outside of their own cities, we desire to say that it is entirely permissable to prepay or allow transportation charges, provided goods are sold at full list prices. When a Phonograph is bought from a Dealer at a distant point and charges are prepaid or allowed on its delivery, the purchaser does not get it at any less price than he would pay if he bought it from a local Dealer. Therefore, the distant Dealer is gaining no advantage over the local one. In most cases where individuals are induced to buy a Phonograph from a distant point it is either because the local Dealer does not carry a sufficient stock to properly supply the wants of the individual or the Dealer's terms of sale are not satisfactory. Of course, in rare instances, there may also be some personal reasons. The great success of the mail order business in most lines is due to the fact that the firms in the large cities really sell goods cheaper than a local dealer. Such a condition does not obtain with the Edison Phonograph or with Edison Records, since they are sold at precisely the same prices everywhere. Many small Dealers do not sell Phonographs on the instalment plan and are, therefore, placed at a disadvantage by the city firm which will sell on easy terms. If local Dealers would carry an adequate stock of Phonographs and Records and would sell machines on the instalment plan, they would be able to control all the sales in their territory, provided, of course, that they took reasonable means to make it known that they were in business. The clause in our contract preventing Jobbers from allowing transportation charges on goods applies only to the trade to whom goods are sold at a discount. So far as this Company is concerned, we can see no reason why a Dealer should not deliver goods, ten, fifty or one hundred miles away from his store just as he delivers them a shorter distance, provided he is willing to stand the expense. Such a delivery cannot in any way be construed as cutting prices. Dealers who feel that their territory is being trespassed upon by others have the remedy entirely in their own hands, and will be able to retain all the local business if they take the same steps to secure it that outside firms do.

PARIS RECORDING PLANT DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The Paris recording plant of the National Phonograph Co. was totally destroyed by fire on the night of December 28th. Fortunately, we were able to continue the manufacture of French Records at our Brussels plant, and the fire caused little inconvenience to the trade in France. Steps have been taken to secure a new location and purchase the necessary machinery to continue the manufacture of Records in Paris.

A MUSLIN POSTER.

The above cut illustrates a muslin poster in three colors, 22×28 inches in size, of which we have had a quantity made for the use of Dealers to hang up in front of their stores, on the side of their store buildings or on the inside walls. They are made of extra heavy muslin and the manufacturers guarantee that the colors will stand the elements for a long time. One of them will be mailed to any Dealer in good standing upon request. They will not be supplied in quantities for billboard work.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR MARCH, 1906.

The twenty-four Records in the March list may be had anywhere in the United States for $8.40 and no other similar expenditure in the whole wide world can buy such a variety of amusement and pleasure. Twenty years ago twenty-four Records like these could not be had at any price. How many Phonograph owners to-day appreciate what labor, time and money has been expended to bring Edison Gold Moulded Records to their present degree of perfection.

No. 9218, "Gleaming Star," by the Edison Concert Band, is called a novelette intermezzo by its composer, Frederick W. Hager. Mr. Hager is also the composer of "Laughing Water" (our Record No. 8512) which proved to be a great instrumental success. He expects that his latest composition will be equally as popular and, judging from the Record we have made of it, he and the public will not be disappointed.

No. 9219, "Dreaming Love of You," by Harry Anthony, is Charles K. Harris' newest sentimental ballad. Like most of Mr. Harris' songs, it has jumped quickly into popularity. As a Phonograph Record it will become just as popular, attributable as much to Mr. Anthony's artistic rendering as to the piece itself. Made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9220, "I-A-Z-Y spells Lazy," by Collins and Harlan, is a very catchy coon song, written and composed by Miss Cecilia Warfel and Ramsay Wallace. It is cleverly sung by Collins and Harlan with orchestra accompaniment. The chorus is rendered something after the manner of "I'm a-Dreaming of You" (our Record No. 9196) with a sort of double melody effect. Both melodies and words can be distinctly heard. It makes a very fine Record and will prove to be decidedly popular.

No. 9221, "Uncle Josh Weatherby in a Department Store," by Andrew Keefe, is a selection that was cut from our catalogue some time ago after long popularity with the public, decided to re-list it. The Record is now made by Andrew Keefe, whose clear speaking voice and artistic conception of the famous character of "Uncle Josh" will doubtless revive the interest in the series, the best of which will be re-listed from time to time.

No. 9222, "Just a Little Rocking Chair and You," sung by Ada Jones, is a composition by Fitzgibbon and Dreiland (words) and Theodore Morse (music). It is a song that is already on the high road to popularity. It is something on the order of "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me" (our Record No. 9060) and by the same writers and also sung by Miss Jones with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9223, "Hebrew Vaudeville Specialty," by Julian Rose, is another clever vaudeville specialty by Mr. Rose and it gives an original monologue in Hebrew dialect, introducing a parody on "Then I'd be Satisfied with Life," which Mr. Rose sings with orchestra accompaniment. The Record is a "scream" from beginning to end. Many will decide it to be the artist's most entertaining number.

No. 9224, "Some One Thinks of Some One," by Irving Gillette, is a beautiful ballad in waltz tempo, written by J. Fred Helf, composer of "Mamma's Boy" and other popular songs. Ed. Gardenier is responsible for the well written verses. Irving Gillette sings the song for our Record in his customary artistic manner, and is accompanied by the orchestra. Mr. Gillette will add much to the favor in which he is held as a result of his work on this selection.

No. 9225, "10th Regiment March," by Edison Military Band is a bright, snappy march by R. B. Hall, and rendered in the usual admirable style of our Military Band. Mr. Hall also wrote "The New Colonial" March, (our Record No. 8582). This new composition has all the elements of success of the former selection.

No. 9226, "Answer," by Miss Marie Narelle, this is another old ballad, too well known to need description here. Suffice it to say that Miss Narelle, who sings it with orchestra accompaniment, does it to perfection and we think we have never made a better Record of this talented artist. The music to "Answer" was written by Alfred G. Robyn.

No. 9227, "My Name is Morgan, but It Ain't Here," by Bob Roberts, is a coon song by Will A. Mahoney (words) and Halsey K. Mohr (music), which tells of a coon by the name of William Morgan, whose girl's extravagant tastes drove him into bankruptcy and to whom he was constantly compelled to remind that his name is Morgan, but not Astor. This song is accompanied by orchestra which furnishes the background for a catchy tuneful and appropriate melody.

No. 9228, "I Love to Tell the Story," by Anthony and Harrison, is another of the series of sacred male duets that are being made by Messrs. Anthony and Harrison, which are among the most successful numbers on our monthly list. "I Love to Tell the Story," composed by W. G. Fischer, is no exception to the rule. Further attention is called to the marked religious fervor employed by these artists in their exceptionally fine rendition of this selection. The orchestra accompaniment is an effective feature of the Record.

No. 9229, "Sweet Smiles," by Albert Benzler, is a bells solo with orchestra accompaniment. The selection was composed by L. D. Barendsen and the Record is one of the best of Mr. Benzler's attractive solos. It is exceptionally tuneful and being in scottische tempo, or song and dance movement, has a fine swing to it. The bell tones ring out nice and clear and the orchestra accompaniment is artistically featured.

No. 9230, "I Lost My Heart Way Down in Alabama," is sung by Harry MacDonough, who makes much of this very pretty sentimental ballad, the words of which were written by Rene Browner and the music by H. W. Petrie, and we think it one of the best Records that Mr. MacDonough has made in some time. Mr. Petrie will be remembered as the composer of "When the Sunset Turns the Ocean's Blue to Gold," (our Record No. 8615). The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9231, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," by Billy Murray, is one of the leading successes in George M. Cohan's new musical play, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway." Mr. Murray's success with songs of this character is proverbial. He was accompanied by the orchestra when making the Record. Mr. Cohan also composed "The Yankee Doodle Boy," (our Record No. 8910), which was also sung by Mr. Murray.

No. 9232, "I Long to See You Once Again," by Harlan and Stanley, is one of the descriptive and sentimental male duets made for our Records by Harlan and Stanley, which always meet with a popular reception. "I Long to See You Once Again" is a descriptive song, telling of the "rustic home down by the valley stream," and the porch, the old arm chair, the mother sitting there. The pretty story is set to a beautiful melody of a kind that one never tires of. The music and words of this song are by Richard Winternitz and the Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9233, "Razzazza Mazzazza," by Edison Concert Band, is a composition by Arthur Pryor, composer of "The Whistler and His Dog" (our Record No. 9107). It was, like the latter, one of the most successful numbers played by Mr. Pryor and his band during their successful season at Asbury Park last summer. Thousands of persons of that resort will recall the applause that greeted it every time it was played. This composition again demonstrates Mr. Pryor's success in writing strikingly odd band numbers. Those not familiar with the selection must hear it to understand and appreciate it.

No. 9234, "Here's the Use of Kneeling (when a man is down)?" by Edward Meeker, is a coon song by Gus Edwards and Vincent Bryan, which serves to introduce a new artist in Mr. Meeker. That his first performance will gain for him many admirers seems assured, judging from this fine Record of his clear, strong voice, distinct articulation and natural delivery. The song is sufficiently well described in its title. It is already popular. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9235, "Once Upon a Time," by Byron G. Harlan, was written and composed by Vincent Bryan and Gus Edwards respectively, and is sung by Mr. Harlan, with orchestra accompaniment. Mr. Harlan's identification with songs of this character has been almost forced upon him by the public, which has always been prompt to show its appreciation of his conception of songs telling of the saddier things of life, such as "Pessie, Mr. Conductor" (our Record No. 7270) and "Always in The Way," (our Record No. 8501).

No. 9236, "Mandy and Her Man," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is an exceptionally well put together vaudeville coon sketch and shows Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer at their best. The characteristic dialogue and comic situations have never been excelled, which together with the singing and orchestra embellishments make this Record a great entertainer. The coon song, "On Yo' Way," sung by Miss Jones, with orchestra accompaniment, is a feature of the Record.

No. 9237, "Waltz of the Roses," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, was specially composed for our Record by Frederick W. Ecke, and is not yet published. The oboe is featured prominently, playing one of the principal melodies. It is a splendid composition, magnificently performed by our Edison Symphony Orchestra and will be a delight to the many Phonograph friends of this popular organization.

No. 9238, "Sister," by Frank C. Stanley, is a march song inspiration from Australia, from whence came "Daddy Dear," (our Record No. 8223). The story differs from the usual "good-bye" song in the respect that the fair recipient of the soldier's farewell is the sister instead of the sweetheart. The interest, however, survives the departure from the conventional and is added to by the effects introduced by our orchestra of the tramp of soldiers to the tune of "Tramp, Tramp the Boys are Marching," bugle calls and cheers. Mr. Stanley's well trained and robust, yet withal, sympathetic voice, has responded readily to the sentiment of the composition, which was written and composed by Allan M. Rattray and Clarence Vaughan, respectively, both of Sydney, Australia.

No. 9239, "Pretty Desdamone," by Arthur Collins, is a coon love song written and composed by F. Collin Williams. Williams and Walker have made a great success with this clever song, responding nightly to encore after encore. Arthur Wilkins, with orchestra accompaniment. The Record will make it clear at once why the song has proved such a big entertainer with Williams and Walker, as well as why it is claimed that it will be just as big a Phonograph success.

No. 9240, "A Message from Home Sweet Home," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a descriptive ballad with words by Carroll Fleming and music by Edmund N. Florent. The song is fast becoming well known and in this quartette form it takes an added interest by reason of the story which describes a scene where is congregated a ship's crew and the receipt by "Jack," one of the members, of a "Message from Home, Sweet Home." Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9241, "The Dixie Rube," by the Edison Military Band, is a descriptive selection, the music for which was arranged by Thomas S. Allen. In the form here listed the selection was specially gotten up for our Record. The scene depicts a land rome, the band just about to begin rehearsal. Silas Flatsecules, a rube composer, enters and the band begins to play one of its newest pieces. The composer and requests that one of his own compositions be played. The band leader objects, saying that his piece is all mixed up, as "Dixie," "Annie Laurie" and "Yankee Doodle" are written to be played at one and the same time. Silas insists on hearing it, however. Silas' piece makes quite a hit, for you can readily make out the three different tunes, which when played together form a very harmonious whole. Byron G. Harlan plays the part of old Silas Flatsecles and Edward Meeker the band leader.

VISITING JOBBERS.

The automobile shows last month brought to New York City a larger number of Jobbers than usual, many of them being interested in the business of selling automobiles. All of them took occasion to visit our New York office and some of them paid a visit to the factory at Orange. Following the custom that has prevailed for the past three years, the Company gave an informal dinner at Martin's, Broadway and 26th street, on the night of January 18th, to such of the visiting Jobbers as could be present. Covers were laid for nineteen. The guests of the Company were the following: W. D. Andrews, Syracuse, N. Y.; S. K. Hamburger, Harrisburg, Pa.; W. C. Finch, of Finch & Hahn, Schenectady, N. Y.; John N. Willys and W. O. Crew, of the Elmira Arms Co.; W. H. Hug, of Klein & Heffelman Co., Canton, O.; N. B. Griffin, of the American Phonograph Co., Gloversville, N. Y.; Messrs. Pardee, Ellenberger and Silliman, of the Pardee-Ellenberger Co., New Haven, Conn.; W. F. Carroll, of the Utica Cycle Co., Utica, N. Y.; P. A. Powers, Buffalo, N. Y., and C. V. Henkel, of the Douglas Phonograph Co., New York City. The Company was represented by C. H. Wilson, General Manager of Sales; F. K. Dolbeer, Manager of Credit Department; C. E. Stevens, Manager of Foreign Department; William Pelzer, of the Legal Department; A. C. Ireton, Assistant Sales Manager, and L. C. Mechesney, Manager Advertising Department.

Other Jobbers in the city during automobile week and not able to attend the dinner were: J. W. Jenkins, of the J. W. Jenkins Sons Co., Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. Grinnell, of Grinnell Bros., Detroit, Mich.; H. M. Holleman, of the Texas Phonograph Co., Houston, Texas; Louis Buehn, of the Wells Phonograph Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; B. S. Crew, of the Phillips & Crew Co., Atlanta, Ga.; Messrs. Osgood and Carrier, of the C. F. Osgood Co., Boston, Mass.; G. L. Ackerman, of Ackerman & Co., Scranton, Pa.; Messrs. Linscott and Patton, of the Boston Cycle and Sundry Co., Boston, Mass., William Werner, Easton, Pa., and John Sykes, Trenton, N. J.

PLEASE REPORT, ANYWAY.

Dealers who receive retail inquiries from our Advertising Department are asked to report upon them in each case, even though they do not make a sale. A careful record is kept by us of each inquiry sent out, and in order to make the record complete, it is desirable to have a report from the Dealer, so that we may know that the inquirer is getting such attention as will make it possible to buy Phonographs or Records, should he be disposed to do so. Many Dealers have the impression that it is only necessary to report when a sale is made. We wish, therefore, that Dealers would reply to all inquiries sent them and as soon after their receipt as it is possible to make a definite statement.

ADVERTISE THE CUT-OUTS.

As announced in the December issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, seventy-four titles will be eliminated from the Record Catalogue to be issued February 1st. Most of these cut-out numbers are quite as attractive as anything in the catalogue. Very few of them are not selling fully as well as most of the current numbers. They are being eliminated for no other reason than to keep down the total number to be handled by the trade. We are adding practically 300 new titles each year, and Jobbers and Dealers would be glad to have us eliminate an equal number from the catalogue. We found it quite impossible, however, to drop more than the seventy-four printed in the December PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. The list could not be increased without a real sacrifice, both to the trade and ourselves, so largely do they still sell. Jobbers and Dealers who have a stock of these cut-out selections on hand would do well to print up a list of them and call the attention of their patrons especially to them. Many Phonograph owners would be glad to buy some of them if they knew that the opportunity to buy would soon be passed. A year ago, when we had a similar cut-out list, a Brooklyn Jobber printed a quantity of circulars giving the numbers and titles of those that he had on hand, and he reports that he disposed of a large number of them, some of his customers being glad of the opportunity to buy before the stock was exhausted. Other Dealers report that by printing circulars or advertising they can move their supply of any title of which they have a surplus on hand. We would ourselves be glad to get out a printed list of the cut-out titles for distribution to the trade were it not for the fact that few Dealers have a supply of the entire list and it would cause them trouble to advertise selections they did not have on hand and could not get by ordering. The matter can best be covered by each Dealer printing his own list and including in it only such titles as he has in stock.

ENGLISH EDITION OF PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY.

The National Phonograph Co., Ltd., with headquarters at London, has begun the publication of an English edition of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. The first number was issued on December 1st. It is in charge of the Advertising Department connected with the London office. Both the first and second numbers are full of matter interesting to the trade in Great Britain. It is more pretentious in appearance than the American issue, having a colored cover and being printed on a better quality of paper. We believe that it will have an effect on Great Britain Factors and Dealers quite as beneficial to the Company as the American edition has had upon the trade here. A house publication furnishes an excellent medium for keeping the trade informed, and it is as much appreciated by the trade itself as it is beneficial to the company issuing it.

A NEW YORK STATE INSTALLMENT FORM.

Below is a form used by a dealer at Saranac Lake, N. Y., for selling goods on installments. It is printed for the information of dealers in New York and other States where similar laws prevail.

APPLYING THE GOLDEN RULE.

I have just made a sale that was a real pleasure to me, not from a financial point of view, but from the fact that it is going to be used for the pleasure and amusement of the inmates of the Sandusky County Infirmary.

The Directors have just purchased an Edison Home Phonograph, large horn and a large quantity of Edison Records, they have also left instructions to allow the Superintendent to get Records whenever he wants them, and the bill will be paid out of the County's funds.

This action on the part of the Infirmary Directors has been highly commended by all, as it gives our unfortunate poor the same pleasure that owners of Phonographs now enjoy, and it would be well for other Counties to do as much for their poor. The fact that they gave me a standing order for Records, shows that they want the inmates to hear the up-to-date music, and shows that they are doing "unto others as they would have others do unto them."

I thought your readers might be interested in knowing how much good the Phonograph can be made to do if the Dealer will do his share.

C. F. MILLER,
Fremont, Ohio.

HOW IT CONVINCES.

I never sold the Edison Phonograph until about November 8, 1905. It was a very serious doubt in my mind if I could use the initial order and was about to turn it down. I finally took it, and was the most surprised man in any line of goods. I have not only sold the initial order, but in all so far have sold more than 500 Records and 20 Phonographs, and am not through for the season. I am very much pleased with the Edison. I was a ..... enthusiast until your machine came in my house, and now I am more an Edison enthusiast than I was a ..... before I handled the Edison. I have placed Edison machines in the finest homes in this town. When at first mentioning the matter to them they would say, "I do not want a talking machine." I ask them if they ever heard a good one, and beg the privilege of placing one in their house. At this writing I have not had to take out any machines. All have been more than pleased and in several instances these same parties have helped me to sell their friends.

I have a very fine testimony where I sold an Edison to a man. He told his wife about buying one before he took it home and she declared he could not bring it into the house. So he came down and told me about it, and asked if I would let him off. I told him certainly, but suggested that he ask his wife if she would not let me set it up in the house where she could hear it. She finally consented to let us do so, and we sent a dozen Records of a good selection. They played them over several times, and when he came home for dinner the next day his wife was playing the machine. After dinner he remarked that he had better take the machine back, as he had an errand down town before he went to work. She said "no you don't, that is the finest music I ever heard," since that time she has been our best Record purchaser.

W. J. WARNING.
Blanchester, O.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

Magruder & Co., of Nashville, Tenn., have removed to 27 The Arcade.

Ackerman & Co., of Scranton, Pa., are now settled in their new quarters at 217 Wyoming avenue.

The O. K. Houck Piano Co., of Memphis, Tenn., have devoted one entire floor of their Nashville branch to the wholesale talking machine business and carry about 20,000 Edison Records.

NOT NEEDED ON THE TRIUMPH.

A statement was made a month or two ago that on all Edison Phonographs now being made there were special marks on the back rods by which a speed of 160 revolutions a minute could be determined. This statement was not intended to apply to the Triumph machine, which has a speed indicator and requires no other device.

THIS WILL INTEREST ALL DEALERS.

Knowing you are always interested in learning of dealers' progressive methods, I enclose herewith copy of a "Phonograph Talk," which I made on a "Home" and reproduced mightily to the people who attend our "free concert" from 8 to 9 p. m.

It has induced many people to buy, who had not before considered the Phonograph as of any special utility.

I also have a conspicuous card up, worded as follows: "Special Record of your own voice made here. Send one back to the Old Folks."

I charge $1.00 for each one made and have made quite a number since the card was put up, and have added to my machine sales thereby, too.

If this hint is of service to dealers you are at liberty to print it. The entire piece (including introductory, showing who made it, and where and when made), is recorded on one cylinder, and as perfectly audible to an entire audience filling a 25x150-foot room. Every word and tone is distinct and natural. It was made with a recording horn.

SIDNEY MCALISTER, J. P., Dec. 6, 1902.

[Binks, Bidwell & McAlister, Druggists, Opticians, etc., in their store in South McAlister, Indian Territory.]

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I, the Phonograph, child of the brain of the great wizard, Thomas A. Edison, thank you for the kind attention and interest in my great blessing that I can number upon you all if you will take me to your homes.

"I can record the beloved voices of your parents, your children, your lover or sweetheart; and when Death, the fell Diamond of mine away—and goes further, I can reproduce them to you after reproducing their voices in the same old beloved tones and warm your hearts anew with sweet recollections.

"I can record the hilarity of your 'jolly good fellow' and when they are gone restore to you the same old voice and mirth.

"On no other machine can you make a natural Record and reproduction in your own homes, and for this service alone I am worthy the place of honor in your home.

"But more, I can teach your children how to sing, and sing with them the Songs of Home, Sentiment and other foreign languages, or teach the foreigner English.

"I am then bring home to you the Opera, Church, Sentimental and Comic or Descriptive Songs, Funny Stories, Minstrel Jokes, Band Pieces, all kinds of vocal and instrumental music for entertainment and dancing, and all this at the same price as my would-be imitators, the "Graphophones," which send you cold with their screech, and cannot make a Record at any price, Ladies.

"Now, hoping that you will "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me," I remain,

"Yours faithfully and closely,

"THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH."

The phrase "Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Me" was sung to the proper tune, without making any break in dropping and renewing talk before and after singing it, and it made a great sensation every night. I think Mr. Edison should emphasize the Record making more to their customers, as it is a great advantage over all other makes. On the Edison every word is full toned and enunciation perfectly clear. BINKS, BIDEL & CO.

A DEALER'S VIEW OF INSTALLMENT BUSINESS.

Your article in the December monthly on "Small Dealers Sell on Installments," just strikes me exactly. I have been selling Phonographs for over three years, on the installment plan. My terms are $1.00 down and $1.00 per week on Phonographs, except to customers living out of the city, of whom I require one-half cash down, and the balance, payments. Records, large horns, and all other supplies, are cash.

The prospective customer is required to sign a Rent Bill like the one I enclose, printed below), which is further secured by a promissory note, but I do not always require the note.

I find that not one customer in ten will pay cash for a Phonograph, but many who are able to do so, prefer the installment plan.

As you say, " it is worth while to get a Phonograph in a home for the Record business that will follow." The cash sale of Records goes on while they are making their payments, and when the machine is paid for, they keep right on coming for the new Records, which are getting better every month.

I had the pleasure of visiting the Edison Record plant, in New York, in October, and I am convinced that neither pains nor expense is spared in making Edison Records.

D. A. DWINELL.
Des Moines, Ia.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That I, D. A. DWINELL, of the City of Des Moines, County of Polk, State of Iowa, DO HEREBY LET AND LEASE unto [John Smith, 1800 Lyon St., Des Moines, Ia.] said City, County and State aforesaid, the following described Phonograph, viz:

[One Edison "Home" Phonograph, No. 29688; @ $30.00], to be used only in the [Residence] known as number [1800 Lyon Street], Des Moines, for the consideration of the sum of [Thirty ($30.00)] dollars, to be paid as follows, as rent: [One ($1.00)] Dollar on the [1st] day of [December] A. D. [1902], and one dollar each and the further sum of [One ($1.00)] Dollar to be paid on each and every [Saturday of each week] thereafter until the above entire date and lease hereof [Thirty ($30.00) Dollars], with legal interest from date, shall be fully paid. Said Phonograph to remain at the office of D. A. DWINELL, 1000 Fifth street, Des Moines, Iowa, in accordance with the terms of one promissory note of even date and tenor herewith.

Now, be it understood, that if any of the above mentioned payments shall become due and remain unpaid, or the Lessee shall not take proper care of said property, or shall remove the same from said described premises, without the consent of said D. A. DWINELL, in writing endorsed hereon, then at the option of said D. A. DWINELL, said lease, and note for the balance of the rent, remaining unpaid, shall be forfeited, and he shall have the right and this shall be his authority, to enter said premises or wherever else the said property may be found and take possession of said property, and the Lessee to forfeit all payments made thereon.

Dated this [18th] day of [December] A. D., 19[03].

R. E. GRANT, MIDDLEPORT, OHIO.

Under separate cover I am mailing you photographs of the interior and windows of my new room just completed for a complete line of Phonograph and small goods as well as pianos, organs, etc. I am also pleased to say that the addition has proven to be a very profitable and drawing card to my business. My arrangements are said, by travelers, to be as perfect and complete as ever seen. Each wall bracket contains a catalogue department for each piano handled. For Records I use a box, 18x24x3, holding 18 Records. I take the numerically arranged catalogue, count off and mark off under the eighteenth Record. I number each box, the first, 1 to 53, the second, 54 to 85, and so on through, and it takes but a minute to find any number called. In order to keep track of what is sold and unsold, I write the actual eighteen numbers in rotation on a card in each box. When a Record is sold, I make a pencil x opposite the number sold; then when a number is called for all I have to look at is the card. It takes but a few minutes to make up an order from the cards. In ordering I use the National order blank. When Records are received, and as each Record is filed, the x is rubbed out, and in this way I know just how the stock is on short notice, and the order blank shows the amount

LOFTUS MUSIC COMPANY, PUEBLO.

We enclose a photograph showing part of the store of the Loftus Music Company, of Pueblo, Colorado, a company recently organized to handle sheet music and music supplies, also the Edison Phonograph and Phonographic supplies. While a new company our business now exceeds the wildest sort of expectations, growing by leaps and bounds. The Edison Phonograph has taken such a hold on the people in this territory that we cannot at times fill orders for Records fast enough. Fortunately for us we do not have to explain to the public the merits of the Edison Phonographs—that having been already done on land and sea—consequently we have more time to fill orders, and we need the time, too; and in addition, the Records "speak" for themselves. The photograph we enclose shows but two elevations of our Record rack, (account of the focus of the camera not covering) which holds two thousand Records—the largest in Pueblo or the surrounding country—but we are unable to keep it full. LOFTUS MUSIC COMPANY.

"HOW I SOLD A RECORD."

One evening a short time ago, a motorman on one of the electric cars here in this city, came to my store, with his wife, to buy some Records. I played two or three, but none of them seemed to just strike them. I finally, by chance, put on Record No. 8621, "I Ain't Got Time," by Collins and Harlan. When the Record was nearly through his wife said she must take a car which was going by, as she had to go to a lodge that evening, and her husband could buy whatever he wished. She said, "Good night," opened the door and stepped out. She had no sooner closed the door when the Record called out "She's gone, She's gone, Come back and I'll be your dog: Come back and I'll even be your doormat." There was a great laugh as the store was full at the time. The husband spoke up and said, "I'll take that Record,' and he did.

HOW TO ENJOY THE PHONOGRAPH.

The following interesting article appeared recently in the Northern Whig, published at Belfast, Ireland:

Firstly has the Edison Phonograph established itself in nearly every household. Still there are many possessors of such an instrument who do not extract from it the full measure of enjoyment which it is capable of imparting. It is a revelation even to the expert in talking machine mysteries to assist at a "Phonographic seance" in T. Edens Osborne's cosy reception-room at Edison House, Belfast. A couple of hours thus spent slip away with marvellous quickness, and you leave regretting that so enjoyable an experience could not be prolonged indefinitely. For you experience the mingled pleasures of a high-class vocal and instrumental concert, a jolly "smoker," a social chat (with absent friends and dear people of note taking part in the conversation), and a plain talk with yourself. What cannot but appeal to you whether you are a "Phonographic" or not is the marvellous perfection to which the Edison machine and Records have been brought. What a contrast in quality, volume, delicacy and distinctness into the results to those obtained from the early appliances, such as those used in the demonstration given in St. George's Hall nearly twenty years ago. People marvelled then at the primitive machine; they regard the perfected Phonograph now with cool equanimity, although without doubt the developments made in recent years are scarcely less wonderful than the original invention—or rather discovery. The new Edison reproducer, for instance, gives tone effects which were impossible in the old appliance; the improved recorder used with the Edison blank cylinder enables the veriest tyro to make a vocal Record which is not only clear and distinct, but a faithful reproduction of his voice. Perhaps the most wonderful development in connection with the Phonograph is the "Gold Moulded Record," one of the American wizard's cleverest and most remarkable inventions. In connection with these Records the highest musical and "variety" talent have been requisitioned, with the result that Miss Morgan's lovely voice, Gilbert Girard's clever imitations, Len Spencer's stentorian Yankee humor, or Hooley's grand and resonant basso is given out by the Phonograph so naturally and perfectly that you might at times be led to believe that it is the real voice and not a reproduction to which you are listening. The same remark applies to instrumental Records. A Sousa march with its daring and ingenious trickeries of scoring, a dainty gavotte with its delicate nuances of orchestration, or an operatic selection with its beauty of light and shade "comes out" with equal faithfulness, and with just the amount of volume necessary to charm the ear, and to bring out every possible gradation of light and shade without taxing the most delicate nerves. There indeed lies the charm of the instrument for home purposes. It is always powerful enough, never too powerful.

Like an experienced conductor, Mr. Osborne at these seances enhances enjoyment then a rousing baritone song with orchestral by introducing the element of variety. You could have a conventional concert if you liked, beginning with a pianoforte or violin duet and ending with an instrumental quartette. But it is pleasanter when he commences, say, with a bell solo (one of the daintiest things among the many hundreds of Edison instrumental Records); then follows with Michael's fine descriptive piece "The Forge in the Forest," splendidly given by a military band; accompaniment; and then Glover's beautiful old duet "In the Starlight," rendered by voices of the quality and exquisitely blended. Next come a couple of songs from well-known local artists, and the Records (made in that room) are not disgraced even by comparison with the specialties to which you have been listening. Then you are treated to a smokeroom conversation between three or four "fellows whom you know," and whose voices and tricks of speech you recognize even before their names are mentioned. "And now," says Mr. Osborne, "We'll make Records." So the recorder is placed upon the machine and your speech or your song is transferred in indelible characters to the blank cylinder. Gratification, astonishment, or mortification will follow, according to whether you thought you had a harsh or a pleasing voice. "Now, we'll have a discussion," suggests our host, "say, on the Government defeat." So a special tube attachment with four mouthpieces is fixed in the recorder, and a perfectly natural talk in ordinary smokeroom style is recorded, the reproduction of which causes no end of hilarity. Then we have more music—the garden scene from "Faust" finely sung; a pretty gavotte, "Beauty's Cunning," effectively played by the "Symphony Orchestra;" a plantation descriptive sketch by the Edison quintet; a clarinet solo by Tuson; and a violin and flute duet. The seance concludes by the entire company singing "Auld Lang Syne," some of the harmonies of which when reproduced cause a few shuddering among the musical members of the company. As an object lesson in the art of making the Phonograph a real boon instead of an infliction the evening has been as edifying as it undoubtedly has been pleasant.

THE PHONOGRAPH AS AN ASSISTANT SALESMAN!

The management of the old-fashioned Grocery and Drug House of Wm. Dobbin & Co., Ltd., North Street, Belfast, have—with laudable enterprise—placed Genuine "Standard" Edison Phonographs on their counters, which call attention, clearly and unmistakably, to their seasonable goods by means of Records that announce the specialities in each of their departments. We may mention that any person can make and reproduce similar Records inside three minutes.

Messrs. Dobbin & Co. are to be congratulated on having "broken the ice" in connection with this innovation as a modern business method, which was suggested to them by T. Edens Osborne, Belfast, who supplied the instruments &c.—Ulster Echo, Belfast, Ireland.

WE REPORT "PROGRESS."

"Progress" is the best report we can make in the matter of supplying the trade with Edison Phonographs and Records. Because there has been no diminution in the orders received for both we have not been able to cut down the orders on hand, although every department of our factory has been run to its fullest capacity during the month, as they have been for six months past. The situation compelled us to be quite unpatriotic in not observing the two holidays of the month. We did not think it would be fair to the trade to lose the output of two days, so work went on just as usual. The many Jobbers and Dealers who are complaining that they cannot get Phonographs and Records fast enough to meet the demand of their present and prospective patrons, should know that we are turning out all the machines and Records that we possibly can; more than at any time in the history of the industry. These are being apportioned with absolute fairness to all. Every Jobber is getting an equitable share of the output and this plan must be followed until the demand falls off or increased facilities for manufacturing can be provided. The trade may depend upon it that we are as anxious to give them Phonographs and Records as they are to get them, and we are constantly trying to devise ways of increasing the output. It goes without saying that we are greatly pleased with the popularity of Edison goods and are ever endeavoring to enhance it. Our only regret is that we cannot produce the goods to promptly and fully meet the demand. Not to be able to do it is to play into the hands of other manufacturers, for when a man decides that he wants a talking machine he is apt to buy some kind even if he cannot get the one he wants.

The advance orders for March Records may be cited as a fair instance of the almost phenomenal demand for Edison goods. The sale of Edison Records is always the heaviest for the December list in each year, and the advance orders for last December far exceeded any other month since the invention of the Phonograph. Yet the advance orders for the present month exceeded December by nearly 100,000 Records. The orders for stock Records show the same percentage of increase and there is no decrease in the orders for machines. The only suggestion worth making to the trade at the present time is to keep ahead with your orders and not wait till your stock gets low. It is not probable that Jobbers will fill Dealers' orders before they need the goods or that we will overstock Jobbers.

PLEASE, DON'T.

We regret that it is necessary to again point out to the trade that sample Records must not be played or exhibited to the public. These advance Records are sent to Jobbers for the purpose of enabling them to make up their orders more intelligently. For the same reason many Jobbers have arranged to let their Dealers hear them also. There is no objection to this and we are glad to have Jobbers do it, for, after all, it is quite as important to the Dealer to get a line on the character of each selection. But here it must stop. The public must be asked to wait till the Records are regularly on the market. Where we find that the samples are being played to the public we shall insist upon the offending Dealer being denied the privilege of getting the samples. This seemingly arbitrary stand is for the benefit of the entire trade. If we did not constantly insist upon compliance with the reasonable conditions that are laid down we soon would be unable to maintain the system that has proved so advantageous to every one handling Edison goods. If you are offending, Mr. Jobber or Mr. Dealer, don't do so any longer. Work with and not against us.

CARRY A STOCK AND ADVERTISE.

Every Dealer who has made a success of selling Edison Phonographs and Records will tell you that it has been due to two things: Advertising and carrying a complete stock of Edison goods. It is difficult to say which is the more important. In fact, each is necessary to the other. It would be a waste of money to advertise and not carry an adequate stock. It would be poor policy to carry the stock and not advertise. Worked together they yield almost wonderful results. To carry every Edison Record in the domestic list costs a Dealer about $975. The interest on this amount at 5% is $48.75 a year, which represents the cost of carrying the full line. Without this stock the Dealer loses many more sales in a year than is represented by the interest on his money, and being able to supply any selection a customer wants brings him back when he wants others. If he cannot find what he wants he will go to another Dealer and probably become a regular customer. Then, too, there is a satisfaction to a Dealer in being able to advertise that he has every Edison Record. The mere announcement stamps him as progressive and alive to his opportunities. Some Dealers will say that their towns are too small for such a stock of Records. Possibly this is so, but many who now think their towns too small would find that they would develop a surprising amount of business if they would put in the full line. The tremendous growth in the sale of Phonographs in all parts of the country makes this subject of carrying every Edison Record more important than ever. Machines are going into every city and town in the land and they are making a wonderful Record business. If such owners cannot get the Records they want in their own towns they are going elsewhere.

Next to the advantages of carrying an adequate stock of Records is letting the public know about it. Advertising does not necessarily mean the expenditure of a large amount of money. Advertising in newspapers is a most effective way of getting new business and it will cause people to buy Phonographs who had not thought of doing so, but many Dealers feel that their capital will not warrant the expense. An excellent means of getting Record business is to ascertain the names of people owning Phonographs or other cylinder talking machines, send them a brief circular, pointing out your facilities for supplying Records, and then put their names on a mailing list so they they will get a Record supplement each month. A circular letter mailed occasionally to prospective purchasers will get new machine business and the sale of a machine means a steady and profitable Record business. Any other form of advertising will prove profitable if done frequently.

AN ERROR.

On page 26 of the Phonograph Catalogue the statement is made that a Model B Reproducer can be exchanged for a Model C by returning the old one and paying $2.00 difference. This is an error. The difference to be paid is $3.00.

THE PHONOGRAM.

The Phonogram has reached an edition of 360,000 copies and is regarded by the trade as an excellent medium for selling Records.

THE GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

Announcement will be made in the April issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY of another list of ten Edison grand opera Records made by the same artists as sang for the first list. It has been decided not to issue these Records more frequently than once every three months. This will make the issuing dates for 1906 as follows: May 1st, August 1st and November 1st. Probably not more than ten will appear at one time. This arrangement will enable the trade to provide ways of carrying a stock without crowding their stores, and it will give ample time for a thorough exploitation of each new list.

Nothing that this company has ever done has been such a pronounced success as the first ten of these grand opera Records sent out the latter part of January. The judgment of the Jobbers and Dealers, based upon hearing the sample Records, has been amply confirmed by the public. The Records have now been before the public a month. The new orders of the trade in that time have been double the advance orders and are still coming in at a rate that is astonishing every official of the company. What the total for the first three months will be no one now attempts to guess. Dealers who placed small orders are coming back for more and Dealers who were so skeptical that they would not order cannot now get them quick enough.

We have received many letters from Jobbers, Dealers and individuals, saying all sorts of complimentary things about the grand opera Records and congratulating us upon putting them out. Steps are being taken toward having grand opera Records made by other noted singers. No expense will be spared to get the best artists in the world to make some of these Records.

STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

We are very much pleased with the first issue of the Grand Opera Record series. They fill a long-felt want among Edison patrons, and still further enhances the value of the Edison Phonograph as a home entertainer. The National Phonograph Co. is to be congratulated upon this step in the right direction.—C. J. Heppe & Son, Philadelphia.

BOUGHT THE ENTIRE TEN.

I have purchased the entire set of Grand Opera Records. I think that these Records are the finest I have ever heard, and I sincerely hope that you will continue to issue these Records. I think there are many other people who enjoy these Records as much as I do. Trusting that there will be many more of these records, I am,—I. J. R., New York City.

OUR RECORDING DEPARTMENT.

The Recording Department of the National Phonograph Co. was on February 1st, moved from 63 Fourth Avenue, New York City, to 79 Fifth Avenue, corner 16th Street. The new quarters are about twice as large as the former ones and provide much needed room for the work of this important department. The Recording Department is in charge of Walter H. Miller, whose Phonograph connection dates back to the time when Mr. Edison built his laboratory at Orange. He has since been continuously identified with the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records and has played an important part in their present development. Mr. Miller has an able, careful and painstaking assistant in W. H. A. Cronkhite, who is a trained musician and upon whom devolves the duty of selecting compositions and passing upon their musical rendition on Edison Records.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN APRIL LIST

The publishers of the compositions made for our April list of Records so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers:

2242 "Elderess," J. Louis von der Meulen, Jr., Sin Fonidora Co., New York.
2243 "When the White-poor-will Sings, Marguerite," Heid & Hagen, New York.
2246 "Moving Day," Harry Von Tilzer, New York.
2247 "Where the Susquehanna Flows," Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
2248 "I Would Like to Marry You," Platt Pub. Co., Yonkers, New York.
2249 "Target Practice," Will Willis Woodward & Co., New York.
2250 "Let Me Write What I Never Dared to Tell," Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
2251 "Dutie Quit Work Too," Heid & Hagen, New York.
2252 "Chinese Song—Chinese Galop," Carl Fischer, New York.
2255 "In the Golden Autumn Time, My Sweet Elaine," Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
2256 "You're a Grand Old Rag," F. A. Mills, New York.
2257 "Panther Queen," Leo Feist, New York.
2258 "We Stood on the Sun Went Down," Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
2259 "My Lovin' Honey," Chas. K. Harris, New York.
2260 "When Moses with His Nose Leads the Band," J. Havilland, New York.
2261 "Garden of Love," Carl Fischer, New York.
2262 "Happy Rube Waltz," Oliver Ditson Co., Boston, Mass.
2264 "Elibon Albano," Wm. A. Pond & Co., New York.

NOT OUR MISS NELSON.

Several correspondents have asked if the Miss Grace Nelson, who was killed in a railroad accident at Charlton, Mass., last September, was Miss Nelson who sang for the Edison Phonograph. We are glad to say that the woman was not our Miss Nelson.

PRINTED MATTER.

A new four page folder, Form No. 825, is being mailed to the trade this month. It succeeds Form No. 675, "Music for Every Home," (which is now obsolete), and is intended for circulation by mail in place of sending a machine catalogue, which on account of its cost cannot be supplied for this purpose. This folder shows half-tones of the Gem, Standard, Home and Triumph machines and presents an argument on the general merits of the Edison product. Orders from Jobbers are now being filled and they will be in a position to supply Dealers after March 15th.

We are shipping to Jobbers with their March Records a quantity of a new colored lithographed hanger, Form No. 750, and named "A Complete Family Circle." The circle consists of father, mother, baby and an Edison Phonograph. The idea is pleasing to the eye. Dealers may get copies from their Jobbers. It is not being mailed to Dealers.

After much delay we have at last gotten out a new catalogue of electrotypes. It is Form No. 832. It shows many new electrotypes, including a number of the Standard and Home machines with flower horns, some of them being lettered "Sold on Easy Payments" for the use of Dealers who sell on instalments. A copy of this catalogue will be mailed to any Dealer upon request.

Dealers who find their Jobbers slow in furnishing catalogues and other printed matter, and who ask us to furnish it direct, should know that in many cases the slowness of Jobbers is due to our inability to supply it to them fast enough or in the quantities they order. The great increase in the Edison business has been followed by an equally great increase in the demand for printed matter, which it has been difficult to meet. We are working hard to get enough printed matter to fill the orders of the Jobbers and until we can do so it will be impossible to consider the orders of sub Dealers, even where they are willing to pay transportation charges.

Part shipments are being made on all Jobbers' orders for the new Record Catalogue, Form No. 820. In this way we expect to keep the entire trade supplied which would not be possible if we filled all orders in full and in the order received. It is more equitable to all to make two or three shipments on an order for catalogues than to send them at one time and make others wait. Part shipments would not be necessary if a sufficient stock of catalogues could be accumulated before advising the trade and this is what we hope to do in the near future. Until then the trade must be patient with the Advertising Department.

AMONG JOBBERS.

Owing to increased business, Alfred Weiss, Edison Jobber, has been compelled to seek larger quarters, and on February 10th, moved to 1622 First avenue, New York City, where he now occupies an entire three-story building, with a floor space of 6,000 square feet.

William Werner, Edison Jobber at Easton, Pa., has moved to a new location at 432 Northampton Street.

Harry Jackson, Edison Jobber at 219 Bowery, New York City, with various branch stores, sold his business in February to John Rose, who has moved the jobbing business to Astoria, Long Island.

The Talking Machine Co., 619 Penn avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., have been succeeded by the Powers & Henry Co. This change is principally in the firm name, the personnel remaining the same.

William Werner, Edison Jobber at Easton, Pa., has moved from 401 Northampton street to 432-434 Northampton street.

The Eclipse Phonograph Co., Edison Jobbers at Cleveland, O., have removed to 714 Prospect avenue.

PERSONAL.

W. H. Hug, formerly manager of the Phonograph department of Klein & Heffelmann, Canton, O., has joined the force of Edison travelers and will go on the road as soon as he has passed through the training school established at the factory for making salesmen familiar with the mechanical features of Edison Phonographs. He will cover Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

George M. Nisbett, Western manager, with headquarters at Chicago, has just returned from an extended trip to the Pacific coast. At the close of the meeting of the Western Classification Committee at Los Angeles he visited the new Edison Jobbers on the coast and stopped at various cities on the way back to Chicago.

G. Croydon Marks, a member of the Board of Directors of the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., London, and patent attorney in Great Britain for Thomas A. Edison, has been elected a member of Parliament to represent the Launceston Division of Cornwall.

F. A. Voullaire, formerly Traffic Manager, has severed his connection with the National Phonograph Co.

Make plans for a big year in Edison Phonographs and Records.

REPEATING ATTACHMENTS.

We doubt if most Dealers appreciate the advantage of having a repeating attachment on their exhibition Phonographs. It is especially advantageous to those Dealers whose business enables them to have but one clerk and who handle other lines of goods. With a repeating attachment a clerk could wait upon other customers while the Phonograph would entertain all within hearing. There is scarcely a Record that will not bear repeating two or more times, and no one will object to hearing it played more than once. In fact, many Records sound better to customers the second time than when heard the first time, and would be bought when a first hearing only would not have made a sale. Then customers for other goods would unconsciously be influenced in favor of the Phonograph by hearing it played while making purchases. There is also a fascination about a repeating attachment in operation that rarely fails to catch the eye and interest the onlooker.

NATIONAL BRANCH COMPANIES.

The Mexican National Phonograph Co. was incorporated in New York State last month. It will do business in Mexico, with headquarters at Calle Prolongacion del Cinco de Mayo, 67-77, Mexico City. Its capital stock is $25,000 and its incorporators are William E. Gilmore, Alphonse Wetzee and John P. Randolph, all of Orange, N. J.

The National Phonograph Company of Australia, Ltd., is the style of the corporation which will sell Edison goods at Sydney, N. S. to 1622 First avenue, New York City, where W. This branch is already established at 340 Kent street.

JOBBERS ORGANIZING.

Jobbers in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other nearby States have taken the preliminary steps toward organizing the Central States Talking Machine Jobbers' Association. At a meeting held in Cincinnati Mr. Ilsen, of Cincinnati, was elected President; P. T. Ashton, of Detroit, Vice-President, and P. B. Whitsel, of Columbus, Secretary and Treasurer. The next meeting will be held in Pittsburg.

BEGINS A NEW YEAR.

With this issue the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY begins its fourth year. With all its shortcomings, we believe that it has been a useful factor in promoting and knitting together the feeling of good will that exists between the Edison trade and the National Phonograph Co.

METROPOLITAN ARTISTS.

At the parlors of the Albion for over two hours yesterday several artists of the New York Metropolitan Opera House entertained a select circle of musical friends with selections from grand opera by great composers. The artists were Heinrich Knote, the famous baritone, who sang from "Lohengrin"; Andreas Dippel, who gave specimen tenor work from "Martha." "La Traviata," in Italian, was given by Gustave Berl Resky, who afterward was joined in a duet from the same opera by Madame Resky. Antonio Scotti sang superbly a selection from "La Sonnambula," in Italian. He was followed by Florencio Constantino, the greatest living singer, in a number from Verdi's "Rigoletto." The Metropolitan favorite opera "Pagliacca," with Signor Romeo Berti, as interpreter, enchanted the listeners.

The grand opera part of the entertainment was concluded by Herr Von Rooy, rendering in German a song from "Tannhauser" and Bizet's "Toreador," in French.

It was the greatest treat ever enjoyed here and the little audience expressed themselves as "thrilled" through and through with an unexplainable emotion and pleasure.

Instrumental music was also represented at this impromptu concert. The affair will be long remembered by those who were privileged to be present and hear the world's greatest artists.

The entertainment was arranged by Mr. C. B. Haynes, the representative of the National Phonograph Co. He had with him a superb Edison machine and a number of February, 1906, Records.—Augusta, Ga., Tribune.

PHONOGRAPH DREW THE CROWD.

Thomas H. Leonard, of Colton, Cal., one of the oldest Edison Dealers on the Pacific Coast, recently sent in a programme of a Phonograph concert he gave in his town, accompanying it with the following reference to the concert:

"I operated two machines, one Standard with a 24-inch Megaphorn and a Home with a 30-inch brass horn. While one machine was playing a Record I would get the other one all ready to drop the reproducer down at the commencement of the next selection to be played. In this way there was not a second but what there was something doing. So close did I have the machines set each time, there was no time lost, and there was only four words of the entire fifty of the 24 selections omitted by the reproducer being set over a little too far. The night before my concert there was a new millinery store opened up. They hired a first-class orchestra and only twenty-two persons were present. My crowd was not counted, but at a rough estimate we guessed it at 250 people. The concert was only advertised by a few of the programmes being distributed around over the business part of the town a few hours before the concert began. I have played the same pieces twice since in San Barnardino and drew a big crowd each time."

A LETTER TO BE PROUD OF.

POSTLAND, OREGON.
February 6, 1906.

It gives me pleasure to advise you that, on account of increased business, I have found it necessary to again move to larger quarters and consequently have leased the store room at 128 7th street. I expect to make this the very best Talking Machine business in the c ity, and nothing will be spared to make it such. The floor will be of hard wood, while the walls and ceiling will be covered with burlap and then painted. This will make a fine sounding room and Records will then reproduce the same as in one's own home.

When I first started in the talking machine business I handled a little of everything, but soon found out that the public would have nothing but quality regardless of the price. In a very short time I discontinued other makes and handled Edison Phonographs and Records. I have found that for smoothness, ease of operation, material, workmanship and material, and last, but not least, a satisfied customer—nothing in my estimation equals an Edison Phonograph. I attribute my success to three points —quality of goods, goods well displayed, and carrying a full stock. To carry the full catalogue of domestic Records is my strong hold, as the $9.00 or $30.00 invested in the slow sellers brings me a big per cent. on my money.

Shortly will send you photo of my place and you can see in what a remarkably small space I carry my stock, my cases, however, being able to accommodate 6,400 Records, and right at your finger ends. No climbing, no ladders, every Record within your reach.

Competition here is especially keen, we having to compete with another cylinder machine which cannot get Dealers to handle their goods and have to establish factory agents all over the country, and then the premium disc that has to be given away with a newspaper to dispose of it. Even with all this, Portland people want the Edison. When a new customer comes in and is asked what make of machine he possesses, if it be an Edison, he unhesitatingly says so, but let it be either of the other two and he tells you with such a painful expression on his face that you really feel sorry for him if it did not remind you of Hans Krausmeyer and his dog, Schneider, and how even he "got stuck."

Although never before having done so, I desire to thank you people for the way you have protected your Dealers and Jobbers whenever you contemplate a change of price of any of your material. As far as I know now, I can see no reason why I shall not continue to push Edison Phonographs and Records, for they produce the satisfactory results and that is what we all want in business.

Wishing you continued success in your worthy line and again thanking you for past favors, I remain,

PORTLAND PHONOGRAPH AGENCY,
E. B. HYATT, Prop.

MOST PERFECT

We are pleased to announce to our friends that the National Phonograph Co. have issued a list of ten (10) Edison Grand Opera Records which we can personally say are the most perfect Records we have ever had the pleasure of listening to on a talking machine. They are perfect in every way, especially in reproduction and tone, and we consider them the most perfect list ever issued. They are certainly a credit to the great foreign artists who sang them. We herein enclose a list of same and cordially invite you to call and hear them. Do it now. Price only $0.75.—Circular sent to his retail trade by L. R. Porter, Brockton, Mass.

PHONOGRAPH BROUGHT TEARS.

Knowing that you are interested in odd happenings regarding sale or advertisement of machines or Records, I enclose a clipping from the Painesville Republican, of February 5—describing an odd incident happening in my store.—E. Lightner.

The clipping was as follows:

"Thank you, senor."

His voice choked with emotion, Antonio Cardina waited until the last note of the Phonograph died away and silently left the store.

Antonio Cardina was an Italian. He spoke good English although he had only been in the country a short time. E. E. Lightner had just received some new Edison Grand Opera Records and was playing a few for an admiring group when Cardina came in.

Enraptured he stood in the background and said not a word until the impromptu concert was finished.

The last selection was by Signor Constantina, a noted tenor. Cardina listened intently. Soon the Record was finished.

"Please play ze piece again," pleaded Cardina. Tears were in his eyes and his voice wavered like a shutter in the wind.

And no wonder the music of the Italian tenor brought back to him dear days in sunny Italy. Cardina's father had once been a tenor in the Royal theatre and Constantina, his very man whose voice was reproduced in the Phonograph, had succeeded Cardina's father.

"Much obliged, Meester," said Cardina, when the Record finished its second rendition. "You make me very happy."

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR APRIL, 1906.

This month's offering of Edison Gold Moulded Records brings W. H. Thompson back into the monthly list after a long absence on the road with the Madame Schumann-Heink Opera Company. If anything his voice has improved since he was last heard by his Phonograph admirers, and his re-appearing selection is a splendidly rendered number. The list also includes many new and popular songs and instrumental selections, all perfectly recorded.

No. 9242, "Eldorey," by the Edison Concert Band, introduces a new composer to our catalogue in J. Louis von der Mehden, Jr., of San Francisco. "Eldorey" is at present very popular in the West and its popularity is rapidly coming eastward. The composition is a ballet intermezzo, a class of music always tuneful and interesting. It is exceedingly attractive and original in style. Various instruments of the orchestra are featured with bits of solo work.

No. 9243, "When the Whip-Poor-Will Sings, Marguerite," by Irving Gillette, is a new ballad by J. Fred Helf and C. M. Denison and sung with splendid expression by Mr. Gillette. Particular attention is called to the flute imitations of the whip-poor-will, which are effectively introduced in the chorus. Mr. Helf, the composer, of this song, also wrote, "I'll be Waiting in the Gloaming, Sweet Genevieve," (our Record No. 9208). The chorus follows:

" When the whip-poor-will sings Marguerite,
And forget-me-nots bloom at your feet,
You may never know, then you yours,
That I've come 'till once more,
Love's old story again to repeat;
So, listen, little girl, I entreat,
'Till I hear them speak we shall meet.
Let Love's music be your theme,
I'll return sweetheart's name,
When the whip-poor-will sings, Marguerite."

No. 9244, "Flanagan's Night Off," by Len Spencer and Steve Porter, is an unusually funny Irish talking sketch. Flanagan is an Irish policeman who has a night off. At quarter past one in the morning Flanagan's wife is waiting for him to come home. Presently he is heard bidding the boys good-night on the outside and when he enters his condition shows that he has been industriously improving his time while off duty. Then comes a funny dialogue between him and Mary Ann. Flanagan goes to sleep. He snores so loudly his wife endeavors to make him wake up. He thinks that there is a fire and that he is on duty. In his haste he steps through a window instead of the door and falls to the ground below. His wife hears him exclaiming, "It's broke, it's broke." She asks him if it is his back that's broken and he replies, "No, it's me pipe."

No. 9245, "Cousins," by Herbert L. Clarke and Leo Zimmerman, is another cornet and trombone duet by these well-known artists, who are respectively the solo cornetist and solo trombonist of Sousa's Band. "Cousins" is the new number which they are playing on the present concert tour of this famous organization. All admirers of both instruments will be pleased with this Record, for it is not only a splendid composition, but is played in a most artistic manner. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The composition has not yet been published.

No. 9246, "Moving Day," by Arthur Collins, is a vocal story in which the trials of moving day are set forth in a humorous manner. The music of this song was written by Harry Von Tilzer and the words by Andrew B. Sterling, both of whom are responsible for "On the Banks of the Rhine with a Stein" (our Record No. 9124) ; "What You Goin' to do When the Rent Comes Round" (our Record No. 9111), and "Making Eyes" (our Record No. 9076).

No. 9247, "Where the Susquehanna Flows," by Harry MacDonough, is a song that depicts the usual dream of boyhood days at the old home and expresses a desire to be back to "where the Susquehanna flows." Mr. MacDonough brings out the meaning of the selection in his usual clear ringing voice, and he is accompanied by the orchestra. H. W. Petrie wrote the music of this song, and Rose Bronner wrote the words. Mr. Petrie is the composer of "I Lost My Heart Way Down in Alabama" (our Record No. 9230), which appeared in the March supplement.

No. 9248, "I Would Like to Marry You," by Miss Hoy and Mr. Anthony, is a soprano and tenor duet from the musical comedy "The Earl and the Girl." It is sung for our Record by Miss Hoy and Mr. Anthony, who are accompanied by the orchestra. "The Earl and the Girl" contains the largest and most prosperous run of all the musical comedies in New York this season, and the song here listed was one of the biggest features of the performance. In fact, all New York has been humming it from almost the opening night. The selection introduces a new soprano to our list, whose distinct articulation and clear, well-schooled voice will no doubt be appreciatingly received. The duet was written and composed by Edward Laska.

No. 9249, "Target Practice March," by the Edison Military Band, is another of those bright, snappy marches, full of swing and other features suggested by its title. Composition is written by Aluriel Nelson, whose name has not heretofore appeared in our catalogue.

No. 9250, "Let Me Write What I Never Dared to Tell," by Byron G. Harlan, is a musical story of a country lad's love story, the words of the composition having been written by Charles D. Carey and the music by Monroe H. Rosenfeld. It is sung by Mr. Harlan with orchestral accompaniment. The subject is quite new among the sentimental song class and for the short time the song has been out it has attracted more than average attention. The words to the attractive musical refrain follow, but it is in the verse that the departure from the conventional is the more noticeable:

" Let me write what I never dared to tell,
Must my heart for evermore in sadness dwell?
I've loved you as no one has ever,
I've loved you as no one has ever,
Let me write what I never dared to tell."

No. 9251, "Uncle Quit Work Too," by Bob Roberts, is Lew Dockstader's companion song to "Everybody Works But Father," and being sung by him in the nightly performances of Dockstader's Minstrels. It is a sequel to

"Everybody Works but Father" (our Record No. 9100), which is now being sung throughout the entire country, and is one of the most popular songs of the day. Mr. Roberts' Record of "Everybody Works but Father" was a great seller and it is believed this new selection will be equally popular. The composer of this song is Jean C. Havez. Our Record contains two verses and two choruses, the chorus being as follows:

" Ever since he heard about Father, Uncle's quit work too,
Goes out ev'ry evening, comes back with a stew,
Never seems to worry, he's happy as a king,
He sits around the house, with about a half of a load on,
And he never does a day-some thing."

No. 9252, "I Am Praying for You," by Anthony and Harrison, is a sacred duet with orchestra accompaniment of one of Ira D. Sankey's favorite hymns. In this duet form it makes a beautiful sacred number. The occasional solo part for both the tenor and baritone voices gives an added effect to the duet and renders the whole a particularly fine Record. The words were written by S. O'Malley Cluff.

No. 9253, "Ching Chang," by Albert Benzler, is a xylophone solo of one of the best Chinese gahgs. It is decidedly characteristic. One of the features of the Record is the orchestra accompaniment, introducing a variation for cornet on the principal theme. E. Brooks is the composer.

No. 9254, "Comin' Thro' the Rye," by Marie Narelle, is a rendition of this old Scotch song that will gladden every Scotchman's heart and be appreciated by all admirers of the song. Miss Narelle's Scotch accent is genuine itself. Her interpretation of the song could not have been better had she been to the manner born. She sings with an orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9255, "In the Golden Autumn Time, My Sweet Elaine," by Harlan and Stanley, is a sentimental ballad, the music of which was written by S. R. Henry and the words by Richard H. Gerard. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. The song has a very attractive air, and is sung by Messrs. Harlan and Stanley with a splendid blend of voices. A desirable Record for any collection. Mr. Henry, who wrote the music of this song, also composed "When the Harvest Moon is Shining on the River" (our Record No. 8959). Mr. Gerard wrote the words of "You're the Flower of My Heart, Sweet Adeline" (our Record No. 8877).

No. 9256, "You're a Grand Old Flag," by Billy Murray, is a selection from George M. Cohan's new musical play "George Washington, Jr.," and sung by Mr. Murray with orchestra accompaniment. It is to Mr. Cohan's new play what "Yankee Doodle Boy" was to "Little Johnny Jones," which is all that need be said. "Yankee Doodle Boy" (our Record No. 8916), "Give My Regards to Broadway" (our Record No. 9093), and "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," (our Record No. 9231), were all written and composed by George M. Cohan and all sung for our Records by Billy Murray. "You're a Grand Old Rag" will equal any of the above in popularity.

No. 9257, "Feather Queen," by the Edison Concert Band, is a new composition by Miss Mabel McKinley, niece of the late President McKinley. She is also known as Vivian Grey, under which nom de plume some of her famous successes were written. "Feather Queen" is styled by Miss McKinley as an intermezzo march. The composition is becoming very popular, as did "Anona" (our Record No. 8743), and "Koranna" (our Record No. 8780), by Miss McKinley.

No. 9258, "We Parted as the Sun Went Down," by W. H. Thompson, written and composed by Arthur J. Lamb and Alfred Solman, respectively, is a descriptive song that is bound to force its way rapidly to the front. Our Record of this selection, which has an accompaniment by the orchestra, serves to emphasize the return to our catalogue of Mr. Thompson, whose tour with the Madame Schumann-Heink Opera Company, where he sang the leading baritone role, has kept him out of our monthly supplements for some time past.

No. 9259, "My Lovin' Henry," by Ada Jones, is a coon girl's wail about the absence of her Henry. In the first chorus a knock is heard at the door, followed by the bray of a jackass, whereupon the waiting one expresses her disappointment that it is not Henry. In the second verse a knock is followed by the cackle of a chicken, whereupon she declares, "That's my Henry." The imitations are clever. The music of this song is written by Terry Sherman and the words by W. D. Friedlander. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9260, "When Mose with His Nose Leads the Band," by Collins and Harlan, is a comic march song describing a Hebrew brass band. Collins and Harlan sing it with orchestra accompaniment. It has a laughable story and the music is simply irresistible. Theodore Morse, the composer, has dozens of hot successes in our catalogue—too many to enumerate here—but I space permits not any of them would form a comparison because "When Mose with His Nose Leads the Band" stands alone. The words are by Fitzgibbon and Drislane.

No. 9261, "Garden of Love," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a truly delightful orchestra selection, such as could not be obtained by any other talking machine than an Edison Phonograph. The music is of a caprice character and the composition is popular with first class orchestras throughout the country. The oboe plays as a solo one of the principal strains and the 'cello counter-melody effect in another part of the selection is equally delightful.

No. 9262, "Songs the Bands Played," by Edward Meeker, whose first Record listed in March was such a success that we have included another in the April supplement. Mr. Meeker's second contribution has been considered by all who have heard it even more attractive than the first. The song is a play on the titles and melodies of various national and popular airs and is a most unusual vocal stunt. Mr. Meeker acquits himself most creditably in making the Record. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The composer of this melange of airs is not known by us.

No. 9263, "Happy Birds Waltz," by Joe Belmont, is another fine whistling solo with orchestra accompaniment. The music is written in waltz tempo, which always makes an effective whistling solo. This selection is particularly tuneful and interesting and will probably equal if not exceed the popularity of any of Mr. Belmont's solos. The combination of orchestral music and whistling is perfect. E. Holst is the composer.

No. 9264, "Eileen Allanna," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a fine quartette arrangement of this grand old ballad, popular two generations ago and still a great favorite. The late E. S. Marble, comedian, and nephew of the late Joseph Jefferson, wrote the words, and J. R. Thomas wrote the melody. The selection is given unaccompanied.

No. 9265, "Is Everybody Happy Medley," by the Edison Military Band, introduces "Is Everybody Happy" (our Record No. 9210); "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May" (our Record No. 9098); "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" (our Record No. 9231), and "Sister" (our Record No. 9238.)

WHAT THE DEALERS SAY.

We are having great success with your machines and Records.—Crown Talking Machine Co., Mermill, O.

I have sold over 50 Edison Phonographs in this town of 6,000 people in the last two months, and intend to sell more.—H. H. Wrzig, Junction City, Kansas.

I am getting the people "woke up" around here with your Phonograph. The only difficulty I find is, I can't get them, especially the Standard. Expect to do a fair business in this line, when I can get something to sell.—D. C. Mitten, Tehonah, Ida.

We don't do a very large business in Phonographs, but would say that it is very satisfactory and our customers all think their machine is the best there is and Records far superior to anything else procurable. During the last year they have done us been fine.—William Coates & Son, Brocksville, Ont.

We have handled Edison goods for some six years, off and on, but December was a record breaker for us, having sold twenty-three machines (eighteen Homes and five Standards) and some 600 Records. We feel that we have done very well in a small town of less than 2,500 people.—Hughes & McCaleb, Dillon, Mont.

This is a town of 4,000. During the past three years we have sold about 125 Edison Phonographs. Pretty good, eh? During this holiday season we turned out nine Home Phonographs, eight Standards, one Gem. One other make. Why so many Edisons? Gave them all same show.—Steinhauser & Eaton, Watsonville, Cal.

I am a Dealer in Edison goods and they are going out faster than I can get them. Sold two Homes yesterday. I expect to sell forty or fifty machines this year. You certainly have brought out the greatest invention of this or any other age. Trust you will be able to supply the demand which must be very great.—George W. Erb, Gothenburg, Neb.

We are very much pleased with Edison goods and have no use for others. We have had all the different makes of machines and have put them all out but the right one, which we find is Edison. We commenced in a small way some four years ago and now have a large room with a complete list of Records (Edison only). The business has grown wonderfully for the past year and we expect to double it in one year more.—G. W. Lord, Lynn, Mass.

As to business, I haven't been able to get machines or Records fast enough, so far this year. The Advertising Record is fine. Everybody that hears it wants it. So I think the best thing you can do is to put a number and a title on it, and let the people have it on the next month's Record list. One such Record in the hands of every Phonograph owner would do more advertising for the trade than a single one at each Dealer's—D. A. Dwinnell, Des-Moines, Iowa.

This is my first letter to the company, so I will report great progress. I started for myself about November 1st last, with a small order, and now carry the complete catalogue of Records and machines of each make, never less than twenty on hand. I anticipate opening on the Board Walk for the summer, with an exclusive full line of Edison goods. The Grand Opera Records will be a go. I have already re-ordered. No. 84 is great.—R. E. Wood, Atlantic City, N. J.

On October 26th, 1905, while in Chicago, I heard and saw your machine at Lyon & Healy. I hesitated about buying three machines and 150 Records. The next day I went back and bought four machines and nearly one thousand. I made the first sale November 9th. By January 15th, I had sold $10,000 worth of Edison machines and supplies, retail price. I have bought about 400 Records—have 500 in stock. I carry a $400 stock of machines and supplies.—F. Ingraham, Otsego, Mich.

I fear I made a mistake in putting in anything but your line. Am figuring on getting rid of them. Am carrying about 3,000 of your Records in stock all the time. I feel that by having an exclusive Edison business I will be able to get a larger share of the Edison business than by dividing it up and carrying two makes. I have been open four days and have sold over one hundred dollars' worth of your goods and only $1.66 of the others, viz: two records. I was over persuaded in putting in the stock, my own idea being to handle your line only.—C. M. Rork, Oklahoma City, Okla.

"A True Story of the Phonograph," which appears in the February Phonogram, has caused us to sell quite a few of Records Nos. 9147 and 9158. Most all our customers want both, and when a Record customer comes in we always hand them a Phonogram and call their attention to the "True Story of the Phonogram." After they read it they always ask to hear the two Records played and that means that before they leave they add three two to their other selections. We always mail each one of our customers a Phonogram each month and tell them we have just received the new Edison Records, and they always seem "tickled to death" to know that they are in.—Hart Bros., Bucyrus, Ohio.

I like the Edison Phonograph. I like the Edison Record. A man who is in love with his business and is not ashamed of his wares is bound to be successful. That is why I handle your goods.

I also like your method of helping the Dealer sell goods. The wonderful system which you employ in getting the monthly list of Records and advertising matter into the hands of the trade is as accurate as the time that is flashed over the wires every noonday from the Washington Observatory.

If every Dealer would read the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY from page 1 to 16, and pattern after your system of business, he would have no need to drop out through the mud of adversity. —G. H. Daman, Victor, N. Y.

FINE "FOLLOW-UP" LETTER.

FROM McGREAL BROS., MILWAUKEE, WIS.

We wish to thank you for your kind favor just received in our mail this morning. We are glad to hear from you and glad to know that you are one of the thousands who are pleased with the Wonderful Genuine Edison Phonographs. We are sure that you'll never be sorry that you wrote to us for particulars of our GENUINE PRICE, TRIAL OFFER and our SPECIAL TERMS, which we are glad to have you know of. These wonderful music makers in your home for you to enjoy—and enjoy oh! so much more than we can tell you in a letter like this.

The Edison Phonograph! What a wonderful instrument it is! What a wonderful entertainer! What a delightful music maker! You just stand and wonder at it all. Don't you?

It stops—it starts—it plays—it talks—it cries! It's the greatest invention of the King of Inventors—the Wizard, Thomas A. Edison—known in every home in the civilized world.

The Edison Phonograph will not only play the world's greatest songs—sacred—patriotic—opera—operas—quartettes. It will take you to the theatre—play ragtime—minstrels—comic songs, dialogues and recitations—just as clearly and sweetly and natural as if a real band, orchestra or singer was on a stage not ten feet away from you.

Our SPECIAL TRIAL IN YOUR HOME will prove this better than we can tell. You can have an instrument in your home and listen to it for six days at our expense—PERFECTLY FREE OF CHARGE.

And then, the instrument is now very, very simple—a child ten years of age will learn to operate it in 20 minutes. And the cost at one of our outfits is so very little—well you really can't afford to not have one.

Now, we send to the illustrated circular to you understand—no C. O. D. scheme—no interest herewith you'll find our special offers on the different outfits.

Now just give us your trial order. That's all. We'll pay the freight to you. You listen to it for six days. If you like it—and we KNOW it don't say that you're not pleased—you SHIP IT BACK AT OUR EXPENSE. But then, there is no danger of you not liking it—why, you'll say it's the greatest enjoyment that you ever heard of. Just go now as it pays the first time for you on one of the Edison Gold Moulded Records.

And remember you need to pay us cash for it unless you want to. We will trust you for our pay. You don't even need to give reference or even give us any security. We'll take your word. We believe you are honest—that is all we want.

Isn't it a remarkable opportunity for you? Only a few dollars down as your first payment if you decide to keep instrument, balance only $3.00 or more monthly, depending on the special outfit you select. Just read our special offer carefully, then write us a postal requesting us to READ IT CAREFULLY, so that by sending us your trial order, neither of us will make any mistakes or delays.

Just stop and think a moment! Just imagine the pleasure that the Edison Gold Moulded Phonographs means to you and your friends.

How pleasantly dull, dreary evenings and rainy days will pass away when its sweet strains of music and melody are at your command!

How it will brighten and cheer up your home! Why, you will delight, and, for you all the songs and music that you or anyone else could ask for!

How it will turn your home into a theatre or concert room for you!

How it will furnish dance music for you at a minute's notice!

And in the summer time, when work is done, you and place it out on the porch, and it will be heard by your neighbors one hour to nearly a half-mile away.

Just stop and think of the enjoyment and amusement it will give you.

OF COURSE YOU WANT ONE.

Just turn to our special circular and send to us. Don't be under any misunderstanding. We mean you want it. We will pack it up and send it ON SIX DAYS' TRIAL—AND PAY FREIGHT BOTHERS. We shall be looking for your trial order in a few days, and extend to you our thanks in advance.

Very truly yours,

McGREAL BROS.

P. S.—After you secure Phonograph we will place your name on our large monthly mailing list, and you will receive once each month, FREE OF CHARGE, our monthly RECORD LIST, containing all the new Records. You can select from these lists as you wish.

REPORT ON AN "INQUIRY."

Enclosed you will please find report on inquiry No. 3632. The inquirer states that about twelve or thirteen years ago, an agent of the National Phonograph Co., or of one of their agencies, sold him his sample machine (which is about the size of the Home), some Records, a horn and stand for $25.00. This machine has not been taken out of the cabinet and runs about as good as a new machine. It actually does in so far as reproducing sound. There was no use in trying to sell him another. I fixed up his reproducer a little and sold him a new horn and he was well fixed out. This machine could be a fine advertisement of the durability of Edison goods that could be had.—Taylor-Gardner Co., Tacoma, Wash.

SOLD ITSELF.

I wish to tell you how we sold an Edison Phonograph, and perhaps some other music dealer will profit by our experience. Mr. Smith, one of our best farmers, came in with a list of sheet music his daughter had intended him to purchase; among them was "Everybody Works But Father." We asked him if he had heard it. He said "No." The writer said, "Wait a moment and we will sing it for you," and, slipping the Record on the machine, played it for him. At the conclusion Mr. Smith said, "How much is that tarnal machine?" We told him $24.20, with one dozen Records. He said, "Box it up. Beats anything I ever heard."—C. E. Holmes, Ames, Iowa.

STOOD THE FIRE TEST.

I have always had the impression that your Records had to be handled with care, but in a fire, which wiped out our business section January 28, I had 1,000 Records which were taken from cases and placed in bags, coal scuttles and about anything that came to hand, and carried out. These had to be moved twice for safety and then loaded into a truck and moved to the village building, where my postoffice and business is now located, and upon examination not more than forty were found broken. I saved all my machines.—B. T. Burlingham, McGrou, N. Y.

SUCCESSFUL ALONG NEW LINES.

The Western Monthly, an advertising publication, recently contained an article on the success of certain firms in selling goods on instalment by mail, and it referred as follows to the success of Gustavus Babson, of Chicago, in selling Edison Phonographs on instalment in this manner:

Gustavus Babson is a Chicago man with ideas several years ahead of the ordinary trail-follower.

Mr. Babson realized the desire for "music in the home"—realized that there are many thousands of homes where pianos and organs are luxuries too expensive even on the instalment plan, or where they are of no use on account of the lack of necessary musical ability. He knew what great popularity the Phonograph has had in cities and towns and he decided that the Phonograph must be the one substitute for the expensive and useless piano or organ, and while he realized all these things, he also realized that the farmer and small town resident were the people among whom he would find the far greater portion of his patrons.

While the Phonograph is certainly a most desirable acquisition to any home, yet Mr. Babson realized that it was not enough of a necessity to warrant an investment of from $10 to $100 by the average ruralist.

The instalment payment plan came to his mind as the one sure-and-certain method of overcoming this difficulty. If he could get up copy strong enough to create the desire he felt confident that he could land the order if he could make inducements sufficiently strong in the way of easy monthly payments.

He adopted the plan of selling the Edison Phonograph on monthly payments of from $2 to $5 each, according to the price of the instrument.

He went straight to the ruralist with his proposition by the use of large space, sometimes full page, in the leading mail order and agricultural publications.

Of course he is having great success—and he has only just started the business.

ONE OF MANY DEALERS' LETTERS.

I must thank you for your referring to me the inquiry of ——, Montgomery, Iowa. I just sold him an Edison Home, a quantity of Records and forty-eight-inch horn. I am well assured that through his getting such a fine outfit in his locality others will also want machines when they hear his. I am very careful to put out machines that are properly adjusted and finer than silk, and all tested, both Records and machines, so as to always have a satisfied customer. I always get more that way.

I certainly am carrying the goods here, and you take no chances in referring inquiries to me. I have now a stock of about 1,000 Records and plenty of all types of machines.

PHONOGRAPH STORE OF SCHAFF BROS. CO., HUNTINGTON, IND.

A YOUTHFUL SALESMAN.

We present herewith the picture of the young son of S. H. Leath, an aggressive Edison Dealer at Attica, Ind. Master Leath was three years old when this picture was taken.

His father states that he can operate a Phonograph and can tell customers when a Record is good and when it is not. He quite frequently helps out in the store, especially when ladies call for Records. His age makes him one of the attractions of the place.

INMATES WOULDN'T PART WITH IT.

We are now advertising the fact that we carry every Record in stock in the Edison Catalogue, and find that our sales have increased over $00 per cent. We have fitted the rear end of our double store with the new improved wire racks and they are filled with over 2,000 Edison Gold Moulded Records. We also have a large counter with one each size Edison Phonograph in line, from the $10 machine up, so you can hear $10, $20, or $30 music. It is evident that the Phonograph is made for all classes of people, as we had occasion to place one on trial at the Monterville Hospital to see what effect it would have on the inmates. The result was very surprising, as they were the most dissatisfied lot of people imaginable, when we offered to take it away. As a result the superintendent recommended that the machine be bought. We closed the sale at once, and now an Edison Phonograph calms the feelings of a large number of inmates of this hospital. By keeping the Phonograph going all day, and giving free concerts, we sell a large number of machines and Records, and expect to double all sales this year.—Shipley & Boyd, Frederick, Md.

A RETAIL SALE OF SIXTEEN DOZEN RECORDS.

STAMFORD, CONN., February 2, 1906.

I think I can report the largest sale of Edison Records to one man, taken at one time and without playing one of them. That was yesterday, when we sold to one of our well-to-do citizens sixteen dozen new Edison Records and three 72-pcs. carrying cases. Can anyone better that sale? F. C. PARSONS.

ALWAYS RECOMMEND THE EDISON.

We have increased our stock of Talking Machines, and Records, Horns and Supplies, till we now have the largest and most complete line of talking machine goods in New Hampshire. We carry all makes in stock, but always recommend the Edison as best in every way. Edison machines in four styles, each the best value for the money in the world. The Gem, $10; the Standard, $20; the Home, $30; the Triumph, $50. New styles, great improvements and best results. Loudest, clearest and most natural records in the world are the Edison Gold Moulded Records.—Extract from advertisement of the J. E. Lothrop Piano Co., Dover, N. H.

Proof that "Double Service" will Increase YOUR Business

E. R. GUTHRIE
BICYCLES, PHONOGRAPHS
1040 O STREET

International Correspondence Schools, LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 9, 1906.
Scranton, Pa.

Gentlemen:

Replying to yours of 5th inst. regarding my success in selling the I. C. S. Language Outfits will say, there is no other phase of the Phonograph business that has appealed to me as this language system does. The sales are naturally with the more well-to-do people and there is no question of installments to contend with. One can approach the most exclusive people with this language proposition and be sure of a respectful and interested hearing. By exercising a little judgment in selecting the people to be approached with it the dealer will find almost half of them will become good "prospects." The super-sensitive people who have always said they would not have a phonograph in the house fall right into line and enlarge the field for phonograph sales by a large proportion. A "demonstration" for a prospective customer usually consists in playing one record and having a quiet chat. Occasionally one who has already acquired a literary knowledge of a language asks for one of the advanced lessons to be run. Contrast this with playing "rag-time" for an hour for a lot of gigglers who buy one or two records and the dealer who tries it will surely become a devotee to the Language Outfit sales. Nearly every one he shows it to can tell him of some friend who will be interested also.

Yours truly,
E. R. Guthrie.

Isn't it worth 30 cents to YOU to try out such a promising business producer? That is all it will cost you for a complete demonstrating outfit, including demonstrating record for four languages, French, German, Spanish, and English; pamphlets; advertising literature; etc. Every day dealers are proving the success of I. C. S. Language Outfits. CAN YOU AFFORD TO NEGLECT SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY TO INCREASE YOUR BUSINESS?

AN UNCHANGED SITUATION.

The passage of another month has brought no change in the trade situation so far as it relates to Edison Phonographs and Records. It has brought no relief to our executive, office and factory force, all of whom have worked at the highest pressure, early and late, in their efforts to meet the demands of the trade. It has brought no increase in the daily and weekly output, for every existing resource has for months been utilized and a further increase in the product is not possible at present. It has brought no let up in the number or size of orders placed by the trade. If anything these orders have increased and are farther from fulfillment than those placed earlier in the year. Jobbers are "getting wise" to the situation and are placing orders way ahead, even though they may still have many Phonographs and Records due them on orders already on file. The one thing that has been increased to an amazing extent is correspondence. When things don't come the Jobber's way he writes a letter. Then he writes another. These having no effect upon shipments, he warms up to the subject and writes one that burns in. When the entire trade gets to doing this the correspondence becomes voluminous. Then the Dealer takes a hand and complains because his Jobber don't give him Phonographs and Records fast enough. This helps a little. Talk about the art of letter writing! We have received about every kind of a letter under the sun, from the pleading epistle to one that would require an insurance policy as company if Uncle Sam knew of its burning eloquence. We have an assortment of letters that would make it easy to start a correspondence school on the subject.

The remarkable trade situation has caused a hurrying up of plans for increasing the factory capacity that have been under way for some time. Buildings now being erected are being pushed more rapidly so that new ones can be taken up. Our present plans include the extension of every department of the factory, either by the enlargement of existing buildings or the construction of new ones. Our Record making facilities, which six months ago were considered ample for an indefinite period, have already been outgrown. New Record making machinery is now being installed which will increase the output from twenty to thirty per cent. This, however, will only take care of the present demands and leave no margin for the future. The future will require a new and larger building.

We want to again assure the trade that we are doing everything in our power to fill orders and that the apportionment of each day's output is being done with absolute impartiality to all. The Jobber who has an order on file for 500 Standards and who gets only 25 may feel assured that he is getting as large a percentage as any of his competitors.

MISS NARELLE RETURNS HOME.

Miss Marie Narelle, whose delightful voice has found thousands of admirers among owners of Edison Phonographs, has sailed for her home in London. She will make a tour of England, Ireland and Scotland before she reaches her native place. In Australia, Miss Narelle is spoken of as the "Second Melba" and "Our Australian Songbird." Before she sailed from New York she gave a song-recital at the Astor Gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Miss Narelle's charming selections will still appear in several of our monthly lists.

NO OCCASION FOR CONCERN.

Such Jobbers and Dealers as may have read the decision of the United State Circuit Court of Appeals last month, in the suit of the New York Phonograph Co. against the National Phonograph Co., need give themselves no concern on the subject. The following statement from Frank L. Dyer, General Counsel for the National Company, again reiterates our intention of standing back of the trade in all litigation affecting our joint interests:

"It would be manifestly premature at this time to express any opinion as to the effect of the decision until after it is known exactly what form of an order is to be signed, defining the judgment or decree which may be rendered. This much, however, can be definitely said, the National Phonograph Co. will stand behind all of its Jobbers and Dealers, will defend any actions which may be brought against them arising out of the alleged rights of the New York Phonograph Co., and will pay any damages resulting therefrom."

TO ENTERTAIN OUR JOBBERS.

The National Phonograph Company is planning to tender a complimentary entertainment to its Jobbers in the United States and Canada at New York City on July 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th. An informal letter has just been sent to Jobbers, advising them of the fact, and formal invitations will be issued later. We print below a brief programme of "What will happen" during this entertainment. The National Phonograph Company regrets that it cannot also extend an invitation to Dealers to take part in this affair, but the number of Edison Dealers makes it impossible to do so. We cannot, therefore, extend invitations to anyone not actually members or officers of jobbing firms. The affair will be "stag" throughout, it being the desire to have it informal and full of good-fellowship. It will also afford Jobbers an excellent opportunity of getting together and discussing matters of mutual interest.

TUESDAY, JULY 17TH—REGISTRY OF GUESTS.

Headquarters in charge of our own officials, will be opened at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Fifth Avenue and 34th Street, New York City, at 9 A. M. Out of town visitors are urged to reach New York on this day and first report at our Headquarters. Full information concerning arrangements will be furnished here. This hotel will be the home of visiting Jobbers from the time of their arrival until Saturday morning, July 21st.

Jobbers are also requested to register at Headquarters on Wednesday, 11 A. M., Wednesday, July 18th, before 4 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18TH—VISIT TO EDISON LABORATORY AND FACTORIES AT ORANGE, N. J.

Automobiles will leave the Hotel at 8.30 A. M. for the Erie Railroad Ferry, foot of West 23d Street, connecting with special train for the Edison Laboratory and factories at Orange, where lunch will be served on the grounds under escort. Luncheon will be served on the grounds. The return to city will be by special train, leaving at 4 P. M., arriving at hotel in time for dinner.

The evening entertainment will include the Hippodrome (if open) or some other Theatre or Roof Garden.

THURSDAY, JULY 19TH—RIDING NEW YORK BY WATER AND VISIT TO WEST POINT.

Automobiles will leave the Hotel 9.30 sharp for the foot of East 21st Street.

The Iron Steamboat "Orpheus" has been chartered and will leave the Pier at 10 A. M., following the Hudson River to Stand, thence down the Bay and up the Hudson River to West Point, a landing will be made (through the courtesy of Col. Mills) and our party will have an opportunity of inspecting the U. S. Military Academy. The Daily Dress Parade will take place at about 12 M. The "Orpheus" will then turn, we will remark for the return to the city, which will be reached at about 10 P. M.

Luncheon, dinner and other refreshments will be served on the boat, and suitable music will be provided by the Edison Concert Band.

FRIDAY, JULY 20TH—RIDING NEW YORK BY LAND, AND BANQUET.

Arrangements have been made for an Automobile Parade, which will include Fifth Avenue, Central Park, Grant's Tomb, and Riverside Drive, leaving the Hotel at 2 P. M., returning about 4 o'clock.

The entertainment will conclude with a dinner to be served in The Astor Gallery at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, at which Mr. Thomas Alva Edison will be present.

During the Banquet an interesting musical programme will be rendered by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, and a short entertainment will be furnished by Edison Artists.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Price Phonograph Co., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., removed on March 1 to larger quarters at 233 Main street, that city. They now have a very handsome establishment, containing a large exhibition room and five new specially equipped record rooms.

W. C. De Forrest & Son have just completed moving their wholesale Phonograph business from New Castle to Sharon, Pa., where they have five times the room formerly occupied.

The Atlanta Phonograph Co., of Atlanta, Ga., have removed across the street to more commodious quarters at 50 Peachtree street.

Sol. Bloom has moved from 214 W. 42d street, New York City, to 3 East 42d street.

The Central States Talking Machine Jobbers' Association is making excellent progress toward carrying out its aims. Another meeting was held at Pittsburg on March 14. Nineteen jobbing firms were represented. A profitable session was spent in discussing various subjects. C. H. Wilson, General Sales Manager of the National Phonograph Co., was also present and addressed the meeting. He assured the Jobbers present that they would have the fullest coöperation of his company in whatever they decided to do for the benefit of the industry. Jobbers in several additional States have joined the movement since the meeting held in January.

C. V. Henkel has been elected President and General Manager of the Douglas Phonograph Co., New York, and John E. Helm, Secretary and Treasurer, formerly Secretary only. Mr. Henkel, who had previously been Treasurer and Manager, deserves his promotion to the presidency of the company. It has been through his business judgment that the firm occupies its present position in the trade.

Through an oversight no mention was made in these columns last month of the fire that took place in the Phonograph Department of the Boston Cycle and Sundry Company, 48 Hanover street, Boston, on February 3d. Of more interest than the fire itself was the fact that the company made a prompt settlement with the insurance companies, disposed of all its stock on hand, damaged and otherwise, and began again with an entire new stock of Phonographs and Records. In a short time they were in better shape than ever to look after the wants of their Dealers.

W. D. Andrews, Edison Jobber at Syracuse, N. Y., had 86 cases of Edison Records for March shipped to him from Orange in a special express car on February 28th. This is one of the largest single express shipments ever made to such a distance from the factory. Mr. Andrews is one of the largest and most loyal Edison Jobbers in the country.

PERSONAL.

Thomas A. Edison and family are spending six weeks at Mr. Edison's plantation, Fort Myers, Florida.

Peter Weber, General Superintendent of the Edison factories, attended the convention of the Metal Trades Association at Cleveland, Ohio, on March 21st and 22d. He was accompanied by Mrs. Weber.

Charles C. Squire, for two years assistant manager of the London office of the National Phonograph Co., has been appointed assistant to President W. E. Gilmore. His office will be at the factory in Orange.

H. T. Leeming has succeeded F. A. Voullaire as Traffic Manager of the Edison companies. Mr. Leeming was formerly assistant to Tom Riley, Traffic Manager of the American Sugar Refining Co., New York, and latterly was connected with the firm of Riley & Osborne, freight brokers, 80 Wall street, New York.

A. M. Hird, Chief Order Clerk of the Edison companies, was driven from his desk by the crowd of work in his department and was compelled to spend three weeks in Florida during March. He returned the latter part of the month and resumed his duties in excellent health.

THE PENNY ARCADE.

If chance ever finds you alone on Broadway—
Within a few blocks of the Opera House, say—
Defile, if you can, from the entire throng
And linger awhile in the Penny Arcade.

Suburban and Urban, 'tis here that they meet—
The rustic from the country, the man from the street.
The pretty young girl, the timid old maid,
They hear the same airs in the Penny Arcade.

In London aforetime a penny would bring
A broadside of ballads, which you'd have to sing;
But here, drop your cent, and the song will be played,
And sung, in a way, in the Penny Arcade.

Here's a gay tune or sad tune to answer your whim—
A dance or a dirge, an old-fashioned hymn,
An Irish "Come-all-ye," a "coon" serenade,
Or a spellbinder's speech in the Penny Arcade.

Let's see, here's a new song by Miss Edna May;
And what's this?—"Jim Jinkins," a poem by Hay?
Yes, listen: 'Tis strange, but your heart-strings are frayed,
And your eyelids grow moist in the Penny Arcade.

So, if chance ever finds you alone on Broadway;
Just stop in and hear what the records may say;
For life in epitome, sunshine and shade,
You'll find it set forth in the Penny Arcade!

—Munsey Magazine.

PRINTED MATTER.

A large size reproduction of Mr. Edison's photograph has just been mailed to the entire trade. This was issued for trade use only, no provision having been made to supply the picture to the public.

The supplement to be issued in connection with the second list of Grand Opera Records, to be put out in May, will be printed in a style fully as attractive as that of the first supplement. It will be a six page folder, printed in two colors, and in addition to a descriptive reference to each of the ten new selections, the folder will include the titles of the first ten selections. A quantity of hangers for these Grand Opera Records will also be sent to Jobbers with their shipments. Jobbers are expected to supply their Dealers with about the usual quantity of supplements and at least one of these hangers for display purposes.

Jobbers who are using the triplicate form of Dealers Agreement for the purpose of furnishing information to prospective Dealers are reminded that we have a lot of single sheets that were printed for this especial purpose. A supply will be furnished upon request.

FEATURE EDISON RECORDS AS MADE BY DIFFERENT ARTISTS.

The Knoxville Typewriter and Phonograph Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., send a typewritten list of Edison Records made by Arthur Collins and state that they send out something of this kind in every package that leaves their store. This is an idea worth emulating by others in the trade. That the Knoxville Company find it profitable we do not doubt.

NOS. 8115 and 8504 CUT OUT.

The trade is hereby advised that when our present stock of Records No. 8115, "Characteristic Negro Medley," and No. 8504, "Laughing Medley," both by the Invincible Quartette, is exhausted, no further orders for these numbers will be filled. They will be placed on the cut list and omitted from the next edition of the Record Catalogue.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS WILL NOT BE MADE IN CONCERT SIZE.

The following letter was sent to all Jobbers on February 28th:

Dear Sirs—Having received numerous inquiries for Grand Opera Records in concert size, we take this opportunity of advising you that Grand Opera Records will not be made in concert size. You will, therefore, please advise your trade accordingly and not send us orders for them. Very truly,

C. H. WILSON,
General Manager of Sales.

Dealers will also govern themselves accordingly.

INCREASING THE EDISON FACTORY FACILITIES.

The phenomenal growth of the Edison business in the past year has exceeded the capacity of our present factory buildings to such an extent that it has become necessary to make plans for an extensive increase in every department. When these plans are finally carried out our factory will have double its present capacity. This will mean a plant of tremendous size, for its present output of Phonographs and Records, we believe, equals in numbers the combined output of all other talking machine companies in this country.

We have already referred in these columns to the large addition recently made to one of the machine shops. This is now fully occupied. This building is 400x80 feet in size, three stories high, and built of reinforced concrete. In fact, all buildings now being erected are of this construction, as will be all others put up in the future.

Some months ago a new concrete power house, 50x80 feet in size and 25 feet high, was completed and the time since then has been occupied in fitting it with new machinery, etc. This work was finished in March with the installation of 750 horse power Allis-Chalmers vertical engine, direct connected with two 250 kilowatt generators. This installation provides additional power equal to double that produced by our former equipment, which consisted of one 500 horse power vertical engine driving two 250 kilowatt Edison generators, and a 100 kilowatt direct-connected generating set. Our present power is, therefore, three times what we had before. This is believed to be ample for a long time.

Across Lakeside avenue from the main factory, two immense concrete and steel structures are now going up. These will be used for the manufacture of the Edison storage battery, which Mr. Edison has now perfected and which will be put on the market this year. One of these buildings is 287 feet long and 50 feet wide. It has a 50-foot span, without any columns and 50-foot beams, with a seven-foot monitor top for ventilation. A twenty-ton crane will be used in this building to carry the heavy articles from one end to the other. The second building is 600 feet long by 62 feet wide, extending along Ashland avenue, the same as the smaller one, only this one extends the length of the entire block from Charles street to Lakeside avenue. It will be four stories high.

Adjoining machine shop No. 1 a one-story concrete structure 70x200 feet in size is now nearing completion. This will be used for the polishing department.

Early in March ground was broken for a new office building, an improvement that has been sorely needed for a long time, but which has had to wait the completion of buildings and additions needed to meet the demand for goods. This building will also be of reinforced concrete, four stories high, with an ample and light basement for files. The building will face Lakeside avenue and stand between the Edison Laboratory and the present office building. It will be 137 feet long on Lakeside avenue and 90 feet deep. It will be thoroughly fire-proof. This building will provide ample room for the office force for years to come.

During April the work will be begun of increasing the height of building No. 2 from one-story to four stories. The present building is 60x275 feet in size and built of brick. The new work will be of concrete, the present brick work forming part of the walls between the concrete columns. This structure will be occupied by the departments now inadequately housed elsewhere.

When this building is completed another railroad siding will be laid on the west side and the lower floor will be used for packing and shipping Phonographs. This will provide two sidings about 300 feet long between buildings 2 and 17, which buildings will be connected by a roof over the tracks so that the cars can be loaded entirely under cover. The first floor of building No. 17, now used by the shipping department, will be used for Record shipments only. These arrangements will permit the loading of cars with Phonographs on one track and other cars with Records on the west track.

A little later an entirely new Record moulding building will be erected. This will be 200 feet long by 75 feet deep. It will be built on the Alden street side, near Valley road, and will provide accommodations for the manufacture of double the number of Records now being made.

All of these improvements have been definitely decided upon and will be completed within a year. Others are under discussion and will be started as soon as those now in progress are nearing completion.

With the construction of the buildings now going up or decided upon every department throughout the factory will have double its present facilities and they will make it possible to manufacture twice as many Phonographs and Records as at present. All of these concrete buildings are being constructed by our own workmen under the direction of H. J. Moyer & Co., of New York. There are now 2,000 hands on the pay roll of the National Phonograph Company.

DEATH OF R. S. WILLIAMS.

R. S. Williams, President of the R. S. Williams & Sons Company, Edison Jobbers at Toronto, Canada, died at Toronto on Saturday, February 24th. The immediate cause of death was a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Williams, who was born in London, England, April 12, 1834, came to Canada at an early age, and completed his educational studies at Knox College. He founded a music business in a modest way, and by dint of industry and perseverance, built it up till it became one of the most important musical enterprises in the country. He was one of the pioneer manufacturers of musical instruments. Mr. Williams' business success was much advanced by his gentleness of disposition and by his tact and courtesy in his relations with all sorts and conditions of people.

TRADE LETTERS ON NEW GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

The following letters in connection with Supplement No. 2 of the Edison Grand Opera Records, have just been mailed to Jobbers and Dealers:

LETTER TO JOBBERS.

New York, March 20, 1906.

Dear Sirs:—

An announcement to the trade concerning Supplement List No. 2 of the Edison Grand Opera Records, dated May 1, 1906, is enclosed herewith. It has been decided that during the first year at least we will not issue these Records more frequently than once every three months. We believe this will give the Jobber opportunity for the trade to exploit each new list thus getting them out more frequently would not only tax the facilities of Jobbers and Dealers to carry an adequate stock.

Supplementary List No. 2 will be shipped to all Jobbers with the regular May samples, unless we are advised to the contrary. Jobbers' orders must be sent us by April 10th, at the same time as regular advance orders, and shipments will be made with the May Records. Orders not received by Jobbers on or before April 10th will be held over for the next issue and shipped as soon as possible after the orders have been filled. The heavy demand for the Edison Grand Opera Records, together with the phenomenal increase in the regular Record business, makes it necessary that every one to have the co-operation of the trade in placing advance orders promptly, and we would urge upon Jobbers the importance of getting orders in as early as possible.

A limited number of printed supplements as before will be shipped to Jobbers with the Records. Jobbers will find that more simplements of the first list than they needed will confer a favor by at once advising the Advertising Department of the fact.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS.—Supplement No. 2.

Announcement to the Trade.

The second list of Edison Grand Opera Records will go out on May 1st, with the prestige of the greatest single success in the history of the Edison Phonograph. Until the first ten of these Records were fairly on the market it was uncertain how the trade and the public would receive them. In view of the money expended, the care taken to produce them, and their artistic excellence, we believed that they would be a success and we awaited the verdict of the public with great interest. The approval of the public was prompt and emphatic. It accorded them a most enthusiastic reception. Their success was far beyond the most sanguine expectations of all identified with the Edison interests. For clearness, naturalness and artistic reproduction they were pronounced superb. They were hailed as marking an epoch in the art of reproduced sound. No doubt remains that Edison Grand Opera Records will hereafter be one of the most attractive features of the Edison Phonograph, especially to those of refined musical taste.

As showing the extent of the demand for the Records we would state that orders in the first three months will reach a total five times as great as we anticipated when they were first issued. A better evidence of their popularity could not be wanted.

These new selections are sung by Messrs. Scotti, Knote, Dippel, van Rooy, Reiky, Constantino and Berti, the first five of whom sang the principal roles at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, last winter. Messrs. Constantino and Berti have not yet sung in this country, but they have won a name abroad as artists of unusual talent.

The selections are among the most charming airs in the great operas from which they are taken. They are rendered by the several artists just as they sing them in the operas and, while listening to them, one can almost see the singers holding the Metropolitan Opera House audiences spellbound with the magic of their wonderful voices.

NOVEL PHONOGRAPH ARRANGEMENT.

William Peeler, of the Early Music House, Fort Dodge, Iowa, has fixed a novel arrangement to wires, transmitters and receivers, whereby he can put a Phonograph Record on a machine in the Phonograph department, which is in the basement of their store, and transmit the selection by electricity upstairs, to be produced for their customers in that part of the store. The arrangement is very simple when explained. They have fastened to a machine a telephone transmitter, which receives the music, and sends it along the wires to the induction coil, and through other wires to the receiver, which is connected to a large flower horn. At present the horn is placed above the front door, and can be distinctly heard by all visitors. It is their plan to have a horn arranged on the outside of the building, where the music can be distinctly heard by every one going by. It is so arranged that they can attach three or four horns on the wire, which imagnifies the tone wonderfully. Violin and 'cello music is transmitted perfectly, for the vibration of the strings give a powerful force to the sound.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR MAY 1906.

The May Supplement of Edison Records contains quite as much variety as usual, but its most notable feature is the six Records by the Edison Minstrels. It has been deemed more advisable to issue these Records all at one time than to put them out one at a time, because they are most attractive when played in order, although each is complete in itself. The general public has no conception of the labor and time necessary to produce these Records.

No. 9266, "Everybody Works But Father," by the Edison Concert Band, is a comic composition for band, composed by Herman Bellstedt, Jr., and built on and around Jean Havez's world popular song of the same title. It introduces all the different instruments in our Edison Concert Band, from oboe to bass-soon, each playing bits of the well-known theme alternately. The selection is different from any other instrumental composition in our catalogue, and no collection of Records will be complete without it. This selection is being played by Sousa's Band at all of its concerts.

No. 9267, "My Little Dutch Colleen," by Ada Jones, is a comic sentimental Dutch and Irish waltz song, in which an Irishman talks lovingly of his Dutch wife. She responds in equally endearing terms. All familiar with Miss Jones' versatility will realize how attractively she can first sing in Irish brogue and then in Dutch dialect. This song is unlike anything else in our catalogue. The music is by J. B. Mullen and the words by Leo Curley.

No. 9268, "Jessamine," by Arthur Collins, is a very attractive coon love song, which Mr. Collins renders in a manner even better than usual. He sings with an orchestra accompaniment. The song has an attractive air. The words and music are by Albert Gumble.

No. 9269, "Colleen Bawn," by Harlan and Stanley, is a sentimental Irish love song written by J. Fred Helf and Edward Madden, who have written a number of extraordinary successes in Edison Records. The voices of Messrs. Harlan and Stanley blend nicely and the Record as a whole will be found most desirable. Although this is a new composition it is rapidly becoming very popular.

No. 9270, "La Traviata," by Eugene C. Rose, a flute solo, with orchestra accompaniment, is a concert waltz adapted by Wilhelm Popp from Verdi's opera "La Traviata." Mr. Rose's rendition of the composition is that of the real artist. It has been some time since we have listed a flute solo. It will, therefore, be considered by many as a feature of this list.

No. 9271, "Keep on the Sunny Side," by Byron G. Harlan, is a new motto song, with a waltz chorus that "beats them all." The music is charming. Mr. Harlan sings it up to his usual standard and the sentiment of the words will be appreciated by all. The music of this song was written by Theodore Morse and the words by Jack Drislane, both of whom are widely known as having written numerous song hits. The singer is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9272, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," by Anthony and Harrison, is another fine sacred duet, the popularity of which seem to increase from month to month. They are attracting wide attention wherever the Phonograph is known. Dealers in Phonographs report that by means of these selections they are able to interest prospective buyers to whom other selections would not appeal. The music and words of this hymn were written by P. P. Bliss. It is sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9273, "Then You'll Remember Me," by Marie Narelle, is the charming sentimental ballad from "The Bohemian Girl," by Balfe, which is too widely known to call for comment. We have had many requests for it in solo form and it is really a matter for regret that it is only now getting into our catalogue. Miss Narelle sings it in a delightful manner, and is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9274, "Imperial Life Guard" (Gardes du Corps), by the Edison Military Band, is a heavy military march with solid work for trombones and tuba. The orchestra bells are introduced into one of the strains in the trio. This composition is written by R. B. Hall, composer of the "New Colonial March" (our Record No. 8387)

In the six following numbers we have made a departure in presenting six Records that at a glance may seem to be similar in character. Such is not the case, however, for each Record is complete in itself and fully as attractive played alone as when made one of the series. The entire six present a most attractive minstrel performance in miniature. The first Record gives an opening overture, and second introduces one set of end men with jokes and songs; the third introduces another set of end men with other jokes and songs; the fourth is a monologue; the fifth is a dialogue specialty, and the sixth is a sketch quite similar to those with which the average minstrel performance comes to a close. The individual Records may be referred to as follows:

No. 9275, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 1," by the Edison Minstrels, is a grand introductory overture, "Around the World," by the entire ensemble. There is very little dialogue in this Record and the "trip" is represented almost entirely by appropriate musical numbers. The orchestra begins with "A Life on the Ocean Wave," England is "visited," and the quartette sings, "Rule Britania." Then comes Scotland and the bells and orchestra accompaniment contribute "Blue Bells of Scotland." The next is "Ireland," greeted by a tenor solo, "The Minstrel Boy." Germany next, and the bass sings "Die Wacht Am Rhein" in English. For France the quartette enlivens the occasion with "The Marseillaise," also in English. The grand old Russian National Hymn, "God Save the Czar," is next heard by the quartette, after which comes "Homeward Bound," with the quartette singing "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" and

"Oh, it fills our hearts with joy,
To see our friends once more."

interrupted by "Yankee Doodle" and cheers.

No. 9276, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 2," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces the well-known comedians, Arthur Collins and Byron G. Harlan, as end men (First Edition Premiers). Their end gags consist of poetic effusions of an extremely ludicrous character, each trying to outdo the other. Mr. Collins concludes the Record with an end song entitled, "When the Days Grow Longer," with quartette chorus, which introduces the orchestra and ensemble.

No. 9277, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 3," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces America's favorite comedians, Len Spencer and Billy Murray, as end men (Second Edition Premiers). These black-faced artists begin their evening's entertainment with a lively tilt concerning their respective offsprings, replete with laughable comedy and witty points. Harry MacDonough is then announced and sings beautifully "The Lighthouse by the Sea," with orchestra accompaniment and quartette chorus.

No. 9278, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 4," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces William F. Denny in his great monologue entitled "A Matrimonial Chat." A bright, crisp comedy talk of the kind that is always entertaining with love, courtship and marriage as chief topics, concluding with the topical song, "It's All a Matter of Taste," with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9279, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 5," by the Edison Minstrels, introduces Len Spencer and Billy Murray in their great dialogue specialty of comedy flashes entitled "The Jokesmiths." A rapid-fire comedy conversation, bristling with repartee and laugh points, concluding with a popular parody entitled "Everybody Jokes but Father," accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9280, "At the Minstrel Show, No. 6," by the Edison Minstrels, is a plantation sketch by the entire ensemble, entitled "A Darktown Serenade." The arrival at Parson Punkney's; the light in Evelyne's window; Jim's jealous rival; the serenade by quartette with banjo accompaniment; Evelyne appears; birthday ocsulations; the parson, as the boys depart singing, soliloquizes: "Those boys sing like birds. Speaking of birds, I guess I had better count my chickens."

No. 9281, "Sorella," by Edison Military Band, is a composition by L. Gallini which is described as a Marche Exposante by its publishers. Its popularity is world wide and is now all the rage in the United States. While the title "Sorella" is the most known, it is well known under the following titles: "La Mattchiche (Mexico)," "Amour Yeinin," "Zgegenoh Estelle" and "La Polo." It has an original and attractive melody that engages the attention at once. Our Military Band makes a fine Record of it.

No. 9282, "Anxious," by Miss Hoy and Mr. Anthony, is a serio-comic conversational duet by soprano and tenor, with orchestra accompaniment, that will appeal strongly to all admirers of a soprano voice. Mr. Anthony ably assists Miss Hoy in making an artistic Record of this selection. The music and words are by Kendis and Paley, who also wrote "Sympathy" (our Record No. 9164).

No. 9283, "Good Bye, Sweetheart, Good Bye," by Frank C. Stanley, is an old English song of exceptional merit, and one for which we have had repeated calls. Particular attention is called to Mr. Stanley's artistic rendering of this selection. The shading is exquisite. In fact, the whole performance is scholarly to a high degree. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9284, "Dramatic Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a high-class overture, probably best known under its German title Schauspiel. All the instruments show up splendidly, but perhaps the part for oboe will be noticed the most. It is a brilliant and spectacular performance. The composition is by Chr. Bach.

No. 9285, "When the Mocking Birds Are Singing in the Wildwood," by Irving Gillette, is one of the prettiest ballads of the season. The music is by H. B. Blanke and the words by A. J. Lamb. Mr. Gillette's splendid voice appears to excellent advantage in this song. He is accompanied by the orchestra. In the song are introduced bits of Septimus Winner's ever popular "Mocking Bird" song. The flute is very effective in mocking bird embellishment.

No. 9286, "Pretty Pond Lillies," by Albert Benzler, is a bells solo, with orchestra accompaniment, of an old time melody familiar to almost everybody. It makes a splendid Record. The waltz chorus and yodle movement that follows it are particularly melodious. The composition is written by Willie Hall.

No. 9287, "Traveling," by Collins and Harlan, is a comic song somewhat on the order of "Rambling." It has a catchy rhythm with a splendid dash and go. One of those songs that cannot fail to be sung and whistled throughout the land as it becomes known. The music is by George Botsford and the words by James Dewhurst. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9288, "So Long, Mary," by Ada Jones, is Fay Templeton's song in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," and it is without doubt the most popular song in the performance. The male chorus is a feature, and gives stirring realism to the effective scene in the play which this Record portrays. George M. Cohan wrote the music and words of this song.

No. 9289, "Chopin's Funeral March," by the Edison Concert Band, is a Record that in spite of its sombre title will be found one of the most artistic and most attractive that we have made in a long while. Those who pass it by because of its title will miss a great debate.

TALKING MACHINES AS A SIDE LINE.

A large retailer in musical merchandise, in speaking of the talking machine business as an auxiliary to his business, said to the Talking Machine World in the course of a conversation bearing upon that subject: "When I first took the matter into consideration, I could see nothing in it, and for a long time looked upon it as a detriment to any business. I found out, however, that some of my customers wanted these machines, and if I could not supply them, and the records as well, they would go elsewhere, and in so doing, would in all probability buy more or less musical merchandise, so I placed in stock a few machines as an accommodation. In a short time I found that instead of conflicting with my interests they were of a direct benefit to my trade as they were the means of bringing in customers that had never before visited my place, and through the sale of a few records or a machine was able to sell them a good bill of my other wares. Later, I found that the talking machine was a good seller the whole year around, while much of my other stock moved only at the stated seasons, and that the sale of a talking machine meant a continued revenue from records. I now regard the talking machine part of my business as one of the most important, and have gone to a great deal of expense to properly take care of it by the erection of booths, etc. The man who says it is only a passing fad and cannot be made to pay, has never gone at it in the right way, and cannot handle any class of musical merchandise profitably. In the talking machine business, like any other branch of the musical trade, a dealer must study his customer. If I see that the desire is for classical and sacred music, I never think of offering a coon song or a piece of ragtime music except by request, and when I am in doubt I pick out some excellent rendition of some one of the old-time favorite songs that appeal to all classes. Another thing I have learned, and that is never to judge the size of a bank roll by the dress worn by the customer. There are many successful dealers in talking machines in the country at the present time, and as each year rolls on I expect to see the number greatly augmented. I regard the business as still in its infancy, and as perfection comes nearer, the time will come when the talking machine will be a fixture in almost every home where there is any love for music.

I see that sometimes it is spoken of as the 'poor man's' instrument. I take notice that the rich are becoming the best customers, and enjoy it as much as the poorest."

SANG AT HER OWN FUNERAL.

The voice of the dead was heard at the funeral of Miss Minnie Nelson, 1711 Kenmore avenue, Chicago. Three weeks ago she sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," into a Phonograph, and every tone of her beautiful soprano voice was reproduced in the Phonograph at her funeral, causing her friends to-day to comment on the strange experience.

Miss Nelson, who was a music teacher, was possessed of a voice of unusual range. At a party she was induced to sing into a Phonograph—a song, a pathetic ballad and finally the famous hymn.

The three songs were reproduced at once, and all present were amazed at the fidelity of the reproduction of every tone in the singer's voice.

She was taken ill, and expired suddenly, and her funeral services were held yesterday. After the funeral address, the Phonograph solemnly reproduced the song the girl had sung before the shadow of death fell upon her. All present who knew of the circumstances were deeply affected.—Chicago Evening American.

MAKING RECORDS IN CUBA.

George Werner and Fred. Burt, connected with the Recording Department of the National Phonograph Co., returned to New York last month from a three months' visit to Havana, Cuba, where they made over 300 masters of Cuban selections by native artists. Their efforts were directed by Rafael Cabanas, manager of the Mexico office of this company, who made a special trip to Cuba for this purpose. At the conclusion of their work they gave an entertainment and dinner to a party made up of Phonograph Dealers and press representatives. The affair was described in the Havana Daily Telegraph, as follows:

About thirty gentlemen, including representatives of the daily press and weekly periodicals of Havana, together with a number of Phonograph Dealers from Havana and the surroundings, assembled at the residence of the Mexican manager, Rafael Cabanas, of the National Phonograph Co., Orange, N. J., and New York city, yesterday afternoon. They were entertained at the temporary Edison laboratory, which has been opened about three months ago at 146 Industria.

An instrumental trio furnished music for demonstration, which was to show the manner employed in securing master Records for the commercial production of Phonographic Records. A soloist also entertained the visitors with impromptu selections, and a vocal performance on the different representative Cuban newspapers, the Mexican manager, the ex-secretary and the expert, repeating operations. George Werner and Fred Burt, who are representatives of the Edison laboratory.

A delightful lunch was served by the Hotel Telegraph.

The remainder of the temporary laboratory was brought about by the demand for typical Cuban music and songs of this republic. Mr. Cabanas rented a building and was prepared to equip the laboratory with the latest of the expert recording force, for which he had cabled on his departure from Mexico.

After visiting all the places of amusement and hearing the vocal and instrumental artists, arrangements were made to secure the best typify them Phonographically. Comicsongs were made with bands, orchestras, instrumental duets, trios, duettists and soloists. The schedule of recording engagements was made up and the work of making the Records started.

About 300 selections were secured, among these being the Danda Mexicana, rendered under the direction of the well known band master, Sr. G. M. Tomas, the Banda de Artillaria, the orchestras of Pablo Valenzuela and Floriano Pons, sextetta of Antonio Torroella, Cuban comic songs, Spanish and vocal solos, duets, trios and quartettes by well known local talent in Havana and the rest of the republic. A large number of selections of typical Cuban country songs, Puntos Guarjiros, were made, which are a number of typical Spanish songs which are popular in Cuba.

All of these Records will be shipped to the Edison laboratory, where the permanent master Records will be made.

THE DOCTOR SOLVED THE PUZZLE.

A prominent New Jersey physician, who has an unenviable reputation for his unintelligible writing, not so very long had occasion to leave instructions for a nurse who had charge of one of his patients. Learning that they had a correspondence school Phonograph in the house he dictated his message, and found it such a successful means of communicating his wishes to both patient and nurse that he is seriously thinking of purchasing several and installing them in homes where the care of a nurse is a necessity. He knows that they can easily misinterpret his writing, but cannot fail to understand his verbal instructions when delivered by means of a Phonograph.—Talking Machine World.

A CUTE WINDOW DISPLAY.

Although a little out of season, we print herewith a photograph of a novel window display made during the holidays by C. C. Crabb, an Edison Dealer at Columbus, Ind. The idea carried out in this display may easily be adopted at any time.

JACK TAR ENJOYS IT ALSO.

A sailor on board the battleship Kentucky, in subscribing to the Phonogram, wrote as follows:

"Also please find programmes of a concert given by me to the sick, confined to their beds, on Washington's Birthday. I can assure you that they appreciate the concerts and many heartfelt thanks have been expressed towards Mr. Edison for his invention of such a nice machine for giving good enjoyment to those who are unable to get on the upper deck to listen to the ship's band. I have now nearly 600 Records and the concerts are appreciated by the crew, especially of an evening, after a day's good hard drilling. It acts as a very antidote and relaxation."

THE DEALERS' CORNER.

I am writing this letter to show the success I have made in selling Edison Phonographs and Records. About 1900 I bought an Edison Gem Phonograph for my own use. At that time I was an instalment dealer in other goods. One day one of my customers asked me if I sold Edison Phonographs. I said yes, and she gave me an order for an Edison Phonograph and one dozen Records. This machine I bought from one of the Dealers I knew. Later, the same woman gave me an order for two dozen more Records. About two weeks later she recommended me to two other ladies. They also gave me an order for a Phonograph and one dozen Records. I then made up my mind to open a Phonograph store. At that time I lived in rooms. I signed with S. B. Davegs and bought a Gem, a Standard, a Home and about 150 Records. I soon did so well that I rented a store at 308 E. 8th street, New York. Here I did a good business, and soon found the need of a larger store. I then removed to my present location at 437 E. 6th street. I carry a big stock of Edison Phonographs and Edison Records, and my business is steadily growing. On March 2d, one of my customers came in and bought all the Band and Orchestra Marches from August 1, 1904, to March 2, 1906.—A. Abelman, New York.

Since placing my initial order, I find quite a demand for Edison machines and Edison Records have sprung up and I have got started good. I have ordered six machines and I suppose all are on railway lots, unless my Jobbers are temporarily out. I am ordering two more machines and a good supply of records, horns and supplies of all kinds. I'll shove sale of Edison goods and sell them strictly according to contract at full retail prices.—T. L. Pierce, Vernon, Texas.

We have owned one of your large Phonographs for some seven years and have sold talking machines for several years, but have never made a success of the business till we recently made a new contract for the handling of your improved machines. We report in one day's work only, the sale of two Triumphs, one Home and some ten dozen Records. We consider this a good day's work for this time of the year. We expect to place fifty machines in this territory this year.—Ed. W. Hall, Atlecole, Ill.

Since November 12th, when I took an Edison agency, I have sold 29 Homes, 27 Standards, 7 Gems, 2 Triumphs, a total of 59 Edison machines. Have two competitors in this town of 5,000, and Cleveland, twenty-five miles away. —T. E. Lightner, Painesville, O.

The Phonograph business is rapidly increasing. We are asked to furnish music by Phonograph all over the city. Requests also come for music from other towns; and many 100 miles away. We accommodate them all. Without exception they all testify to the merits of the Edison machines, and that the others are not in it. We find that one machine sells another. All that is needed is for a person to hear two or three Records played, and he is a convert. The genuine will prevail.—T. B. Davis, Logan, Utah.

DEALERS' SELLING LETTER.

FROM FARRELL & WULLER, OIL CITY, PA.

Dear Sir:—We are mailing you a copy of the February Phonogram. You are probably aware that we furnish you a complete outfit on the club-week plan, this to include one dozen Records, which you may select, with each outfit; we also furnish a rigid horn and stand, the prices ranging from $25 to $40, according to grade of machine desired. $2.50 and $5.00. An Edison Phonograph outfit will furnish entertainment for either the entire family as well as your friends like a $200 piano, as it brings to your home the finest music of the world, both vocal and instrumental. Here you have a complete minstrel show, the leading vaudeville corner, the solo and familiar songs, the banjo, the cornet, the violin or an entire orchestra or band. Possibly you have a lodge, society or church or more closely social nature. If so, you can have the selections of the grand opera singers of Europe—people who are paid enormous sums to entertain the royal families of the different nations. Possibly you have a birthday coming and a few of these great singers you simply start the Edison Phonograph and hear such singers as Harry Scottt, Knote, Dippel, von Rooy, Rosky, Constantino, as well as others such as your pleasure may call for. In addition to the many different selections of your own have at hand for the amusement of your friends, we have a number here in this machine in the voice, which the phonograph was in the old days. Possibly you may have a reunion, day with all the old-time records, a photograph, of course, will show the faces, but the voices of those who have been Phonographed will record the voices of an individual or the entire assemblage, or you may record the voice of the child on its birthday and save these selections from year to year, or you may study the different dialects or other languages. And the several uses mentioned above will put all these points at your command. Remember, that a small payment down and one dollar each week will not only amuse you as above but help to educate your children.

FROM D. M. RODGERS, CORNING, OHIO.

Dear Sir:—Your letter to the National Phonograph Co. has been referred to me for attention, as they have no Dealer in your town. We have been selling the Edison Phonographs and Records for years and to my notion they are unexcelled. I have had no use for an Edison Phonograph you know that is a perfect talking machine manufactured, and the Edison Gold Moulded Records are just as fine as can be made, while music and songs being plainer and sweeter than records for any other machine.

You come and buy the machine at my place of business and I will be pleased to have you call. Can furnish the machines at same price you would have to pay at the factory, thereby saving the freight for you. The Phonograph is a standard machine, at a standard price, and is a very good made, and up one can sell them cheaper at the same price. I keep over 1,200 Edison Records in stock, and also a complete assortment of horns, cranes and everything.

Trusting that you will call and that I will be able to sell you a machine and outfit, I am,

FROM PARK'S MUSIC HOUSE CO., LOUISIANA, MO.

Dear Sir:—We are in receipt of a letter this A. M. from the National Phonograph Co., stating that they had received a letter of inquiry from you recently in regard to a Phonograph. As we are Dealers for this immediate territory for the original Edison Phonograph we would be pleased indeed to handle your line of machines. The company wrote us that they had mailed you catalogue, list of Records, etc., and we would like to know the style of machine and Records which you prefer so can fill your order promptly, as we can furnish you anything in line of their goods. It is unnecessary perhaps for us to dwell upon the many advantages of this wonderful talking machine, for, as you know, it is the masterwork of the renowned Thomas Edison, who is the originator of all sound reproducing machines.

A Phonograph in a home is one of the most comforting and entertaining propositions that can be seriously considered. Its cost nowadays is very unimportant compared to what they were worth several years ago. The Records we have quoted in their catalogue, are absolutely new but we will do this: If you feel disposed to place an order with us we will prepay the express charges to your station, as we wish to get the Edison Phonograph into your neighborhood. We feel confident that it would lead to future business, for, no their instrument is the peer of all machines of that kind, it is but to be seen and heard to be appreciated. The Edison Records are perfection, as you will note by referring to catalogue. The Records sell at 35 cents each, and there is positively no deviation from these prices.

If you are interested we shall be pleased indeed to hear from you with an order, or if you wish further information concerning them we will be glad to supply it. Thanking you in advance, we may seek in reference to them.

Hoping we may have the pleasure of shipping you a nice Phonograph, and with very best wishes, we beg to remain.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN MAY LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our May list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers:

AN ACCIDENT IN BUSINESS.

It was an accident one morning that I picked up a Record No. 9142, after having sold some others to a lady. She wanted No. 9142 in place of the one she had already bought. I had only the one in the store; I knew it would be a seller, so I told her to come to-morrow and she could get one. A man who happened to pass by, heard the Phonograph, stepped in and said, "I only want to hear any new pieces you may have." He, too, heard "Fol-the-rol-lol" played and also wanted it. I told him to come the next day, knowing I could sell more of this number that day. I succeeded in selling seven of them, and that is why I call it an accident. The salesman had bought five Records the previous evening and perhaps did not intend to buy any the next morning, until he heard this Record played and had a laugh, as did also the lady. Each Retailer should try to study the class of music or singing that his customers prefer and they will not be troubled to play forty or fifty Records and make perhaps two sales.—Char. A. Kleinhaus, St. Louis, Mo.

THE MEANEST MAN.

The meanest man has been found. He is a Phonograph fiend, too. Employes of Lightner's had noticed that he always asks for quartette selections. The clerks tried to sell him other pieces, but without success. Finally he explained. He said, "Do you suppose I'm going to pay thirty-five cents to hear one voice alone when I can hear four for the same money?"

In sending the above from his local paper, J. E. Lightner, Edison Dealer at Painesville, O., states that another customer asserts that listening to his Phonograph has been a great aid to his hearing, which was impaired.

A DAVID AND GOLIATH CONTEST.

The Nebraska Cycle Co., of Omaha, Neb., recently received the following from F. B. Torbert, one of their Dealers at Dorsey, Neb.:

"I had a Phonograph contest to-day, that may interest users of the Edison goods. A party here, whom I have been trying to sell an Edison outfit to, sent to Omaha and bought a ..... machine that retails at $40. His new machine and the little Gem, our smallest machine, were the competitors for the honor, and on a $10 bet. The three judges of the contest decided emphatically in favor of the Edison Gem. It was a David and Goliath contest."

THE PROGRAM.

The forms of the Phonogram close six weeks before date of issue and printing is completed one month in advance of date. Dealers desiring to get a supply to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers four weeks in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobbers' orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance. Following is a schedule of prices at which Phonograms may be obtained by the trade:

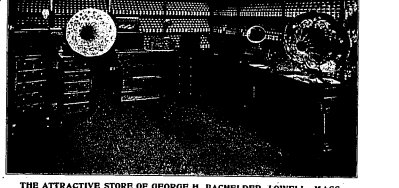
DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1,000 copies	$2.50
Similar quantities per ream	2.50



Imprinted with Dealer's name and address, 25 cents additional, without regard to quantity. No orders filled for less than 1,000 copies of any imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

Jobbers will be glad to supply Dealers on the above basis.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year	$ .25
Five copies to one address, per year	.60
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year	1.00
Fifty copies to one address, per year	2.00

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonogram sent by mail are requested to send cash with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

BICYCLES, PHONOGRAPHS

1540 O STREET

International Correspondence Schools, LINCOLN, NEB., Jan. 9, 1906.
Scranton, Pa.

Gentlemen:

Replying to yours of 5th inst. regarding my success in selling the I. C. S. Language Outfits will say, there is no other phase of the Phonograph business that has appealed to me as this language system does. The sales are naturally with the more well-to-do people and there is no question of installments to contend with. One can approach the most exclusive people with this language proposition and be sure of a respectful and interested hearing. By exercising a little judgment in selecting the people to be approached with it the dealer will find almost half of them will become good "prospects." The super-sensitive people who have always said they would not have a phonograph in the house fall right into line and enlarge the field for phonograph sales by a large proportion. A "demonstration" for a prospective customer usually consists in playing one record and having a quiet chat. Occasionally one who has already acquired a literary knowledge of a language asks for one of the advanced lessons to be run. Contrast this with playing "rag-time" for an hour for a lot of gigglers who buy one or two records and the dealer who tries it will surely become a devotee to the Language Outfit sales. Nearly every one he shows it to can tell him of some friend who will be interested also.

Yours truly,

E. R. Guthrie.

Isn't it worth 50 cents to YOU to try out such a promising business producer? That is all it will cost you for a complete demonstrating outfit, including demonstrating record for four languages, French German, Spanish, and English; pamphlets; advertising literature; etc. Every day dealers are proving the success of I. C. S. Language Outfits. CAN YOU AFFORD TO NEGLECT SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY TO INCREASE YOUR BUSINESS?

TAKING MEASURES FOR RELIEF.

The action of this Company in deciding to drop entirely the June list of Edison Records, as referred to more fully in another column., tells in the strongest terms the facts concerning the state of the Edison business to-day. When a firm adopts methods to reduce the volume of its business there can no longer be a question in anyone's mind as to the truth of our statements about the demand for Edison Phonographs and Records. At this date we are over two and a half millions Records behind orders for current Records, and if no further orders were received we could not complete their shipment in less than five weeks' time, with everything at the factory working in the most advantageous manner. The elimination of one month's list will enable us to devote our Record making facilities for a few weeks to catching up on orders for current stock and we hope that this will do much to relieve the situation. As stated last month, plans are under way for completely doubling our Record making facilities, but their realization is too far away to affect the present demand. We are still considerably behind on orders for Phonographs, but the chances for catching up by July 1st now seem quite bright. Under the present conditions, and until we are in better shape to produce more goods, we would suggest that the trade forestall its needs to a greater degree than is necessary when prompt shipments can be made. Instead of executing Records to be shipped in two or three weeks, they should plan to carry a stock that will last from four to six weeks. In other words, do not let your stocks get low. Bear in mind that you will not get your Record orders filled in less than four weeks, and machine orders probably not much quicker. Unless the business changes entirely from what it has been in the past there will be a falling off during the summer months, which we hope will give us an opportunity to complete all orders and get a large stock ahead for the fall trade. It is our intention to run the factory to its fullest capacity during the summer, no matter what the demand of the trade may be, and in this way to accumulate a stock of Phonographs and Records, for we know that the fall business in Edison goods is going to be the greatest in the history of the business; so great that we will have difficulty in supplying the demand. Those who are wise, therefore, will take early steps to stock up.

NEW PLANS FOR RECORD SHIPMENTS

The demand for Edison Gold Moulded Records reached a point in April that made it imperative to adopt some radical measure to relieve the situation. Our Record making facilities at Orange were being strained to the utmost and no means could be devised for increasing them soon enough to have any appreciable effect. No other course seemed open, therefore, than to do something to reduce the demand. We could not tell the trade to withhold orders for current selections, as it was necessary for every Jobber and every Dealer to carry a stock of each selection already listed in order to supply his trade. It was decided that the manufacture of current Records must go on as usual.

No other course seemed open than to drop entirely the Records for one month and utilize the time that would be required to produce the monthly list in making just so many more current selections. This decision having been reached, it was considered an excellent opportunity to put into effect a new plan for distributing them to the public. The competition among Jobbers has become so keen in the past year or two that many of them were getting a large portion of their monthly orders shipped by express, at a considerable cost to them and a consequent reduction in their normal profits.

For some time there has been a general demand among Jobbers for the adoption of some method of shipment by which they could cut out the express shipments and have their entire order come by freight. The solution of the problem seemed to be solved by making shipments by freight far enough in advance so that they would be in the hands of Jobbers throughout the entire country before a certain day in each month and then fixing a date on which the Records could go on sale and be shipped to Dealers. Such a plan will go into effect with the July Records, and the details of it are given in the letters printed below, which have just been mailed to the entire trade.

The plan in brief is this: July samples will be shipped to Jobbers May 1st. Jobbers must mail their advance orders not later than May 10th. Orders mailed later than this date will be considered as second orders and filled after all first orders are completed. We will ship Jobbers' advance orders from factory so that, all things being favorable, they will reach every part of the country before June 27th. Jobbers will then be permitted to place them on sale and re-ship to Dealers at 8 A. M. on June 27th. As will be seen by the letters below, to allow a single Record to leave the store of a Jobber before this date will be considered a violation of the agreement. The schedule referred to above will be carried out for each succeeding month, samples of August Records going out on June 1st and the Records being placed on sale July 27th. Every Jobber and every Dealer is urged to carefully read both of the letters given below, in order that they may fully understand the new plan.

As another means of relieving our congested condition, it was also decided not to ship May Records until May 15th and Jobbers were advised of the fact early in April. The old plan of shipping will be followed with May Records. Deferring May shipments for fifteen days will serve to break the time between May 1st and July 1st.

As already stated, this new plan is intended to relieve the Jobbers of needless expense and in other ways to benefit the entire Edison business. At the same time it places the entire trade on its honor, and we trust that no one will be so indifferent to the welfare of the business as to violate the confidence reposed in him. The plan puts every Jobber on his honor not to allow new Records and printed matter referring to same to leave his possession before the specified date. It places every individual in his employ on his honor to see that no surreptitious methods are employed to violate the full intent of the plan. It places every Dealer on his honor to do nothing that will in any wise tempt a Jobber or his employees to send them Records in advance of the selling date.

We may seem to be laying special stress upon this feature, but to us it is very desirable that we shall not be called upon to impose the penalties for violation of contract. Those who do deliberately infringe are entitled to no sympathy, and yet it will be extremely difficult for us to impose penalties upon firms whose business with us aggregates many thousands of dollars each year. To enforce the plan, however, we shall do it without hesitancy, although we will deeply regret the circumstances that make it necessary. Violations of the conditions imposed will not benefit anyone and will cause much hardship to those taking part in the violation. We, therefore, sincerely trust that we shall have the coöperation of the entire trade to the extent that we shall not have a single violation reported to us. The letters to the trade are as follows:

LETTER TO JOBBERS.

Apvil 28TH, 1908.

To save our Jobbers the expense of having new monthly Records shipped to express as well as to relieve us of our present congested condition; also to enable us to give better service to the trade on orders for current selections, it has been decided:

1st. To drop the JUNE list of new Records entirely.

2d. That, beginning with the JULY list, all first orders for new monthly Records will be shipped to Jobbers by freight, each Jobber's order going forward as soon as it can be gotten ready, but the Records are not to be placed on sale, or leave the Jobber's store or warehouse, before date specified and authorized below.

3d. Beginning with JULY list, new monthly Records must not be put on sale, either at wholesale or retail, until 8 A. M. on the 25th of the month preceding the month under which they are listed. That is, the JULY Records cannot be put on sale, or leave the Jobber's store or possession until June 25th, and so on. Records on July 25th, and so on. When the 25th falls on Sunday, the Records are not to go on sale until the following day.

4th. Before sending Records by freight, we will get them off in ample time to reach Jobber on or before date on which the Records are to go on sale, all things being favorable, but should any delay occur in transit, or on the part of the transportation companies or carriers, we will not be held in any way responsible therefor.

5th. Samples of new monthly Records will continue to be sent out at same time as though the JUNE list was not to be dropped, and first orders must be sent in at the same time as heretofore; that is, JULY Records, first orders, will be shipped about May 1st, consist of August Records about June 1st, etc., and first orders JULY Records must be mailed on or before May 15th, first orders for AUGUST Records not later than June 10th, etc.

6th. Any Jobber selling or offering for sale, or in any way disposing of new Records in advance of the date specified, will forfeit his right to the list of Jobbers Jobbers receive, and thereafter his orders for advance Records will not be shipped until after the date on which they can be put on sale by other Jobbers.

The foregoing conditions are hereby made part of the Conditions of Sale forming part of the Jobbers' AGREEMENT, and any breach thereof will be subject to the penalties provided for in said AGREEMENT.

Please acknowledge receipt of this communication on form attached below.

Yours very truly,
New York, N. Y. T. H. WILSON,
General Manager of Sales.

We are enclosing copy of a letter being mailed to the trade.

LETTER TO DEALERS.

Despite our increased facilities, and the fact that we are running out many Records than ever before, it has been impossible to keep pace with the constantly increasing demand for Records. We are now over 2,000,000 Records behind-hand. For current stock, and to enable us to catch up to, and give better service to the trade, it has been decided, for the best interest of all concerned, to omit June list altogether, therefore, following May, the next new Record to be issued will be July list.

It has also been decided, that beginning with the July list, new Records cannot be shipped by Jobbers to Dealers, or put on sale by either Jobber or Dealer until 8 o'clock A. M. of the 25th of the month preceding the month under which they are listed. That is, August Records cannot go on sale until June 25th; August Records cannot go on sale until July 25th, and so on. When the 25th falls on Sunday, the Records cannot go on sale until same hour of the day following.

The issue of new monthly Records will continue to be sent out in same date as though June list was not being dropped. That is, first orders for July Records will be sent out about May 1st; of August Records will be sent out about June 1st, and so on, and to successfully carry out our new policy of getting Records to Jobbers, so that they will not be on sale before that day and at time above mentioned, it becomes also imperative that they mail us their stock orders not later than the 10th of the month following receipt of advance lists. In other words, Jobbers' first orders for July Records must be mailed to us not later than July 10th, and August Records not later than June 10th, etc. In order to do this, it will also become necessary that you place your stock orders with them immediately after you receive advance lists, or in time for them to include with their stock order to be mailed us on or before the 10th inst.

We will not be responsible for Records sold or in any way supplied to a Dealer before above mentioned dates, unless we have authorized them changes, which we believe will be of material benefit to the trade, and we ask your co-operation in order that they may be successfully carried out.

Yours very truly,
T. H. Wilson,
General Manager of Sales.

THE JULY ENTERTAINMENT.

The preparations for the entertainment of Edison Jobbers at New York and Orange in July are making excellent progress under the direction of F. K. Dolbeer, Manager of our Credit Department, who has had a wide experience in matters of this kind and who is devoting a large part of his time to the details of the forthcoming affair. Further information about this entertainment will be given Jobbers next month. There is a side to this affair that may not be considered by some of those to whom invitations have been extended. Superficially, it looks as if we wanted Jobbers to come to New York only that we might show them to some extent the cordial feeling that we have toward them by doing everything in our power to give them a good time. We do want this opportunity, and for just such a purpose, and we are going to leave no stone unturned to make the occasion a memorable one to all who attend. At the same time the affair will furnish an opportunity for Jobbers to get together and discuss matters of mutual benefit. Jobbers from the East can meet those from the West; those from the North will meet others from the South, and all may exchange views on many matters of interest and value from a business standpoint, and all will be broadened by the meeting. Even though the entertainment side may not appeal to some Jobbers, those who do not come will make a mistake from a business standpoint. No such opportunity has ever before been offered to get the Jobbers of the entire country together and it may be some years before it occurs again. The boat trip to West Point and return, occupying as it does an entire day, will furnish a splendid chance for all hands to get acquainted, socially and in a business way. We believe that the entire business will be greatly benefited by this entertainment, and we want every Jobbing firm represented. We must again emphasize our regret that it is not possible to extend an invitation to every one of our loyal Dealers.

NEW CUT OUT LIST.

Printed below is a list of 152 selections that will be omitted from the next edition of the Record catalogue to be issued July 1st. Notice of the dropping of Nos. 8115 and 8504 has already been given in the PHONOGRAM MONTHLY. With the exception of Nos. 8115 and 8504, all of these titles are being dropped for no other reason than to keep down the total selections in the catalogue and to make it easier for Jobbers and Dealers to carry a complete stock. They are well made Records, we have good moulds of them and they are still selling largely. This notice is given for the purpose of enabling the trade to work off any stock of these selections that they may have on hand or order such numbers as they may think will later be demanded by their customers.

IMPORTANT TO DEALERS.

We have just mailed to the entire trade some literature with reference to furnishing Dealers with a copy of Massani's painting, "The Phonograph," these copies to be either framed or unframed at the option of Dealers. A letter sent to Jobbers, together with the literature sent to Jobbers, are re-printed herewith. These explain the plan for supplying the trade with copies of this picture, but they require the coöperation of both Jobber and Dealer, and unless the requirements of these forms are complied with at once, it will not be possible to supply the pictures in question. Dealers must sign and forward their copies of the order to their Jobber within ten days and the Jobbers must endorse them and forward the entire lot at one time within fifteen days. After these dates it will not be practicable to fill any order except by mail. Therefore, Dealers who neglect to give this matter immediate attention will have only themselves to blame if they do not receive a framed copy of the picture. We trust that Jobbers will not disappoint their Dealers who send them orders, by not properly forwarding them to us. Additional copies of this painting will be mailed unframed for 30 cents, or if framed, will be specially boxed and shipped by express only at $1.50 each—the express charges to be paid by the Dealer. This picture is a most artistic reproduction of the original painting and, when framed, will be worthy a place in any Phonograph store, no matter how handsomely furnished. The frame will be 4½ inches wide, made entirely of gilt, with sufficient depth to make a handsome setting for the picture. When varnished, mounted and placed in the frame it is difficult to realize that the picture is not an oil painting.

LETTER TO JOBBERS.

APRIL 28TH, 1906.

The enclosed papers are self-explanatory. They are in brief an offer to supply Dealers with a framed copy of Massani's fine oil painting. The Phonograph for general purposes. They provide for your coöperation to the extent of forwarding Dealers' orders, mailing same to us, and forwarding framed copies where so stipulated. This offer will involve several thousand dollars and a lot of clerical work, and for this reason it is only fair to ask your assistance in the manner suggested.

Approved orders must be forwarded to us within ten days after they are received by you, or they will be returned to you unfilled. We will then make a freight shipment to fill orders that require forwarding by you.

All unframed copies will be wrapped in paper with stiffening boards. These will not be separately boxed unless especially requested, and we suggest that Jobbers at a distance, whose orders can only be delivered by freight or express shipment. When, separate packing is necessary it must be indicated on Dealers' orders.

Framed and unframed copies of the picture will be supplied for your own use, but neither will be supplied for further trade distribution, nor will they be supplied for any Dealers other than those whose orders you send us. It is important that you fill in the Dealer's name and Duplicate Jobber's name at Chicago, so as to avoid possible errors and know for whom pictures are intended and shipped.

All correspondence concerning this subject must be addressed to the Advertising Department at Orange, N. J., and not enclosed with other matter.

Very truly yours,
NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH Co.,
Advertising Department.

NOTICE TO DEALERS.

READ CAREFULLY AND ACT NOW, OR REGRET IT LATER.

The above reproduction of the oil painting by Massani has attracted much attention since the issue of our 1906 Calendar and you will doubtless see it in magazine advertising. Neither of these uses, however, do justice to the picture, and in order that the trade and the public may fully appreciate its striking beauty, we have had it reproduced in the best possible manner by the Hallmark process. These duplicates are the full size of the original painting, 17 x 25 inches, and are printed in nine colors, bringing out every detail both in form and color. Owing to the expense of the work it will cost the public 50 cents for each copy.

We want to present a copy to every Edison Dealer in good standing, for window or store display. We will also put it in a handsome gold frame where Dealer wishes it framed, at express charges, or will arrange to have their Jobber forward it to them. In any event, no copy will be forwarded to Dealers unless the ordered, order is first signed by a Jobber and then approved by a Jobber, who is to return the order to us for approval by our Advertising Department. This picture will be our only offer of premiums to Jobbers, nor in any other way than as above, except at a cost of 30 cents each for unframed copies, and $1.50 each for framed copies, shipment by the latter to be made at the expense of the Dealer.

To avail themselves of the above offer, Dealers must sign and forward the enclosed order to their Jobber within ten days. After this date, copies will be sent by mail only, and at the regular 30 cents price. If Dealers want to close the matter with one freight shipment to Jobbers, as it will require considerable clerical work to handle the orders and get them out in a reasonable time.

DEATH OF WILLIAM S. LOGUE.

It is with deep regret that we announce the death at Chicago on April 24th of William S. Logue, for some time manager of the Chicago office of the National Phonograph Co. and for nineteen years connected with Mr. Edison and the Edison interests. Mr. Logue had been suffering from cirrhosis of the liver for some time, but when he went to Chicago on business early in April he seemed no worse than usual. His death at a Chicago hotel on April 24th was therefore entirely unexpected by his family and business associates. Mr. Logue was born at Frederick, Md., on June 26, 1849. At an early age he entered the employ of the the Northern Central Railway at Baltimore, Md., where, in 1861, he learned telegraphy. During the next two years he held various positions, both on this railroad and on the Baltimore and Ohio, until 1863, when he entered the Military Telegraph Corps. In this department of army service he remained until the close of the war, being located at Newport News, Jamestown Island and at Deep Bottom, Va., otherwise known as Butler's advance office. Leaving the army, Mr. Logue entered the Baltimore office of the American Telegraph Co. Subsequently, however, he found employment in turn with nearly all of the various commercial telegraph companies of that period until 1888, when, abandoning telegraphy as an occupation, he entered the employ of Thomas A. Edison at Orange, N. J. With these interests he has since been actively identified. For many years Mr. Logue had charge of the sales and installation of the Edison Phonoplex system of telegraphy, a work for which his telegraphic experience peculiarly fitted him. In 1891 he was sent to Chicago as Western Sales Manager of the National Phonograph Co. Two years later he was returned to New York and became Sales Manager of the Edison Manufacturing Co. (battery department) and the Bates Manufacturing Co. He held these positions at the time of his death.

Mr. Logue was a man who made friends everywhere. He possessed a genial, courteous temperament that won for him the love and esteem of all who knew him intimately. He was popular among his associates. His wide experience made him successful in the various business positions that he held, especially as Sales Manager of the battery department of the Edison Manufacturing Co. Here his extensive acquaintance among railroad men was a most valuable asset. Mr. Logue is survived by a widow and one son. Funeral services and interment took place at Baltimore on April 28th, the services being conducted with Masonic honors.

A CARLOAD OF PHONOGRAPHS.

Following is an extract from a letter from Graves & Co., Edison Jobbers at Portland, Oregon, dated April 14th:

"We are enclosing herewith an order for 500 Phonographs, which will make a car. Presume you will be somewhat surprised to see an order of that size for us, when you had such a time inducing us to take 300 or 400 machines when you were here, but we have since "seen the error of our ways" and have ascertained, by experience, how easy it is to sell Edison goods when we can get them to sell!"

Could a better testimonial be written concerning the merits of Edison goods?

PETER BACIGALUPI LOSES ALL IN SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER.

Peter Bacigalupi, Edison Jobber at San Francisco, lost everything in the disaster of April 18 and following days. His store at 706-708 Mission street was right in the path of the fire and his entire stock was destroyed. Up to April 28th no details had been received from him. A telegram filed by him on April 21st was not delivered in New York until April 24th. This simply stated that he had lost all and that he had established quarters at 1107 Fillmore street. Further facts about Mr. Bacigalupi's experiences will be printed next month.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR JULY, 1906.

Beginning with this issue, the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY will contain the advance list and descriptions of new Records for two months later instead of one month as heretofore. This is because of the dropping of the June list and the new plan of shipping to the trade. The July list introduces two new artists to the Phonograph public and welcomes the return of a former favorite. The list is one of unusual excellence, as the following comments will show:

No. 9290. "Charge of the Hussars," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition well known and much admired among pianists, to whom especially the masterful performance given by our Edison Concert Band will strongly appeal.

No. 9291. "In Happy Moments," is by Alan Turner, who makes his formal bow to the Phonograph public in this well-known ballad from Wallace's opera "Marriana." That Mr. Turner's splendid tenor voice will make him a favorite cannot be doubted. In this Record Mr. Turner embellishes the finale with a special passage which shows off his voice and artistic style to perfection. "In Happy Moments" is Mr. Turner's first Record in the monthly list, but he has also made over for us No. 7010, which has already appeared in our catalogue.

No. 9292. "It's Up to You to Move," is a coon song by Collins and Harlan. Ephraim Johnson wedded a girl of "high degree" and Ephraim sings of her extravagant tastes. He points out that unless she economizes the rent will not be forthcoming and the landlord will advise them that "It's up to you to move." The chorus is set to ragtime, being quite different from the opening verse. Both are attractive, and the talks between the two choruses will provoke laughter when the Record is played. The landlord knocks on the door and demands the rent. Mrs. Johnsons indignantly tells him that he will get no rent till he papers the dining-room and puts open plumbing in the bathroom. Ephraim also declares that he cannot be disturbed, for he is in his pajamas and being served with tea in the blue room. Messrs. Collins and Harlan sing the Record in their inimitable manner and are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9293. "Sailor's Hornpipe Medley," is a violin solo by Leopold Meeskein, an artist whose name appears in our catalogue for the first time. The medley includes the following airs: "Sailor's Hornpipe," "Paddy Whack" Jig, "Haste to the Wedding" country dance, and "Pickett's Hornpipe." This Record has been made because of persistent calls for each of the various selections, and it was thought advisable to include them all in one. The Record is one that will find ready sale.

No. 9294. "Virginia Song," by Ada Jones, is one of the big hits in George M. Cohan's play, "George Washington, Jr." in which it is sung by Ethel Levey. It has already achieved a popularity throughout the entire land which makes detailed reference unnecessary. As the title indicates, the song is of the State of Virginia, whose gallant men, fair women and hospitality have made it world famous. Miss Jones sings it in true Southern dialect, reminding one strongly of "My Carolina Lady," her first contribution to the Edison catalogue. It will probably be the most popular selection in the July list. Mr. Cohan is also the composer of a number of other popular Edison Records, among which are "You're a Grand Old Rag," (our Record No. 9256), and "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" (our Record No. 9231). Miss Jones sings the song with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9295. "Everybody Gives Me Good Advice," by Bob Roberts, is a coon song by Kendis and Paley, which tells the old story of how loss of money is followed by loss of friends and how appeals for assistance receive no other response than good advice—poor substitute for the needy drink or bite to eat. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. Kendis and Paley also wrote "Sympathy" (our Record No. 9161), and this new selection is somewhat similar in style.

No. 9296. "Here's to Our Absent Brothers," is a novelty by Byron G. Harlan. Some years ago J. Fred Helf, the composer of this song, while on the way to Denver with some brother Elks, proposed the usual toast of Elkdom. A lass of ten begged permission to offer the toast. It was granted. Mr. Helf then learned that she was the daughter of an Elk and on her way to join her invalid father in Denver. The incident inspired Mr. Helf to compose the song "Here's to Our Absent Brothers." The composition cannot fail to appeal to every Elk who hears it, and will also be welcomed by the many who have little knowledge of this organization. It is most ingeniously rendered by Mr. Harlan, with the assistance of the Male Quartette, and closes with the Elk's toast, as follows:

"Here back the clock of Elkdom to the hour of eleven,
That we may think of those on earth and in heaven,
And now with reverence to wives, sisters and brothers,
And drink in silence to our Absent Brothers."

No. 9297. "Nibelungen March," by the Edison Military Band, is a well-known standard march adapted from Richard Wagner's grand music drama, "Gotterdammerung," "Siegfried," "The Valkyrie" and "Rheingold." The Record will especially appeal to all admirers of high class music.

No. 9298. "I Like Your Way," by Harry MacDonough, is one of the prettiest and choicest waltz songs of the season, the music for which was written by Max S. Witt and the words by J. J. Walker. Mr. MacDonough lends himself in this sentimental waltz song and is accompanied most effectively by the orchestra.

No. 9299. "Why Don't You Try?" by Miss Hoy and Mr. Anthony, is a conversational soprano and tenor duet by Egbert Van Alstyne and Harry Williams. The duet is between a pair of lovers in which the fair one coyly meets the advances of her lover with the title of the song, "Why don't you try." The Record will appeal to all seeking something attractive in songs including women's voices. Made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9300. "If Washington Should Come to Life," by Billy Murray, is another one of George M. Cohan's clever songs and sung by him in his well-known play, "George Washington, Jr." The song tells of the strange things that Washington would see if he came to life. The things that he would see are best told by the Record itself. It will be one of the most popular of the month. Mr. Murray renders the selection with his usual clear enunciation which makes it possible to hear and understand every word, and he is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9301. "My Little Dutch Colleen Medley," by Albert Benzler, is a well-rendered xylophone solo, with orchestra accompaniment. It includes the following popular airs: "My Little Dutch Colleen," (our Record No. 9267); "Henny Klein," (our Record No. 9093); "What's the Use of Knocking," (when a man is down), (our Record No. 9234), and "Moving Day," (Our Record No. 9240). These medleys are original with our own recording plant and cannot be had in any published form.

No. 9302. "Here It Comes Again," by Arthur Collins, is a coon song by Bert A. Williams, with words by Alex Rogers and Earle C. Jones. It is sung by Mr. Williams in Williams and Walker's newest music creation, "Abyssinia." The first verse tells of a coon who went to a poker game and bet all his money on four kings, only to have his opponent produce four aces, and vowed never to make any insinuations about crooked dealing. In the second verse he tells a friend how homely one of two passing women are and when his friend tells him that the lady is his sister, he endeavors to side step by saying that he meant the other. This proves to be his friend's wife and the explanation makes matters worse. Mr. Collins embellishes the chorus with some of his characteristic coon talk and makes the Record a most attractive one throughout. He is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9303. "Lonesome Little Maid," by Irving Gillette, is a sentimental ballad by Alfred Solman (music) and Benjamin H. Burt (words). It has an attractive air, and is sung most artistically by Mr. Gillette with orchestra accompaniment. This ballad is somewhat above the ordinary as was these writers' former success, "Little Girl You'll Do," (our Record No. 9094).

No. 9304. "Is My Name Written There?" is by Anthony and Harrison, and in this widely known gospel hymn by Frank M. Davis and Mary A. Kidder, another splendid Record has been added to our catalogue of sacred selections by Messrs. Anthony and Harrison. These singers have now become so identified with this class of music that our monthly list would not be complete without one of their contribution. This number is made with orchestra accompaniment as usual.

No. 9305. "Dance of the Nile Maidens," by the Edison Concert Band, is a tuneful intermezzo, introducing a Spanish feature in one of the strains. The whole performance evidences the finished excellence that always characterizes the work of our Concert Band.

No. 9306. "Nothing Like That in Our Family," is a clever song by Will F. Denny. Topical songs have always been his forte and this selection is similar in character. The music for the song was written by Seymour Furth and the words by Edward P. Moran and Will A. Heelan. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. The verses tell of the things that have happened when the singer dines at the house of his swell friend. The second verse tells of the reception that the tramp met when he called at the house of Dr. Brown and asked for a pair of pants. Dr. Brown proved to be an old maid and her reply is amusing. Another verse tells of his treating experience with some friends.

No. 9307. "I Want What I Want When I Want It," by Frank C. Stanley, is a composition by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom that was one of the most popular airs in the comic opera "Mlle. Modiste," in which it was sung by Fritzi Scheff. Mr. Stanley's fine baritone voice is heard to splendid advantage in it. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The song is that of a happy bachelor who can do as he pleases without a wife to scold or oppose him. It is this freedom from restraint that enables him to say, "I want what I want when I want it."

No. 9308. "Chas. T. Ellis' Baby Song," by George P. Watson, is one of the best German dialect and yodle songs now before the public. It was sung, written and composed by the late Chas. T. Ellis, whose recent death gives particular interest to this, his favorite song. Mr. Watson has not made a yodle song for us for some time, and many Phonograph owners to whom this character of music still appeals will be glad to hear him once again. He has lost none of his ability as a yodler. Both are excellent and are interpreted in Record and the song is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9309. "Passion," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a dainty intermezzo quite different from the orchestra selections listed lately. There are numerous changes and effects which show up to advantage the various instruments in our Symphony Orchestra. The oboe, which always contrasts effectively with the other instruments when properly featured, is in evidence, occasionally adding much to the Record's entertaining attractiveness. This composition is by Fred W. Hager, who also wrote "Laughing Water," (our Record No. 8532), and "Gleaming Star," (our Record No. 9218).

No. 9310. "Good-Bye, Mister Greenback," by Edward Meeker, is Mr. Meeker's third contribution to our catalogue and is beyond question the best of the three. He sings the Record clearly and strongly and is especially effective in the rag-time manner in which he sings the last chorus. This coon song is the latest sensation by Thomas S. Allen, who also wrote, "By the Watermelon Vine," (our Record No. 8963); "On Yo' Way," introduced in "Sandy and Her Man," (our Record No. 9238); "Scissors to Grind," (our Record No. 8794), and "Any Rags," (our Record No. 8583).

No. 9311, "Maggie Clancy's New Piano," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is another most amusing vaudeville sketch, largely in Irish dialect. Maggie has a new piano and is playing Wagnerian music. Her father wants to know whether the piano is broken. An amusing dialogue follows and Maggie sings some Irish ballads to her father's great delight. The vaudeville sketches that Miss Jones and Mr. Spencer have made in the past will suffice to show how entertaining this will be, especially when Miss Jones' singing is so prominent a feature.

No. 9312, "Where the Morning Glories Twine Around the Door," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a descriptive song by Harry Von Tilzer and Andrew Sterling, beautifully arranged as a male quartette. The theme is the ever popular one of the New England home, where the fond mother and loving sweetheart await the return of the wanderer. Rendered by our Male Quartette in the artistic manner that has made these singers famous throughout the world. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9313, "Flying Arrow," by the Edison Military Band, was written by Abe Holtzman, by whom it is styled an "Intermezzo Indienne." Mr. Holtzman is the composer of "Yankee Grit March," (our Record No. 9110); "Uncle Sammy March," (our Record No. 8632), and "Blaze Away March," (our Record No. 8098). "Flying Arrow" is full of characteristic melody and has a good swing. The brass instruments are brought out rather stronger than usual, and the whoops of the Indians add to the realism of the Record.

ANOTHER DECISION SUSTAINING OUR AGREEMENTS.

We give below a decision recently handed down by Judge John B. McPherson, United States District Judge at Philadelphia, in a suit brought against Fred G. Schaefer, at that city, for selling Edison Records in violation of our agreement. The charge of the bill of complaint was of a two-fold nature; first, that the defendant, not being a signed Dealer, had no right to sell Edison Records at any price; and second, that the defendant had sold Edison Records below the list price. In Judge McPherson's opinion, both of these points were sustained and an injunction has just been issued against the defendant, prohibiting him, and others acting in concert with him, from handling or in any way dealing in Edison Records, without the express license of this company. The opinion is also interesting in that it fully distinguishes conditional sales of unpatented goods from those of patented goods. The law seems to be reasonably established at this time that in the case of patented goods, the patentee may attach any reasonable conditions governing their sale. That our agreements do define reasonable conditions has been settled by many of the Federal courts. The opinion follows:

NEW JERSEY PATENT CO. and NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.,
vs.
FRED G. SCHAEFER.

U. S. Circuit Court, D. of Pa., 7 April Term, 1906

FRANK L. DYER and CHARLES N. BUTLER, for Complainants.
JOHN H. GOW, for Defendant.

MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION.

"The New Jersey Patent Co. is the owner of patent No. 782,775 which covers the phonograph records that are sold by the complainant, and the National Phonograph Co. is the exclusive licensee of the New Jersey Patent Co. of the Phonograph Company. The invariable custom of the Phonograph Company is to refuse to sell its records to any dealers, or to any dealers except such dealers, as are willing to sign carefully prepared agreements by which the Phonograph Company restricts the sale and use of its instruments and records in several particulars. The validity of such a restriction upon the sale is specified in the contracts, and therefore their sale also to any merchant who has not signed the appropriate agreement, that makes him what is known as an authorized dealer. Each contract provides, inter alia:

"All Edison phonographs, records and blanks are covered by United States patents and are owned by the National Phonograph Company under the condition that the license to use and vend them, implied by law, attaches to the property on the abservance by the vendee of all the following conditions; upon the breach of any of said conditions the license to use, vend, said phonographs, records and blanks, immediately ceases, and any vendee or user thereafter is guilty of infringer of said patents may be prosecuted against by suit for injunction or damages, or both:"

And among the conditions is one which every record is enclosed for sale the following notice appears:

"This record is sold by the National Phonograph Company upon the condition that it shall not be sold to any dealer who refuses to sign the following agreement, and that it shall not be sold or used by any one except the original or any subsequent purchaser for use on an authorized phonograph at a price not less than thirty-five cents apiece.

"A violation of any of said condition, the license to use and vend this record, implied for such sale, immediately terminates."

The defendant is not an authorized dealer, having never made any contract with the Phonograph Company. He is selling and offering for sale records at less than thirty-five cents, having obtained them from some jobbers or dealers who bought them as disclosed by the affidavits. I have no doubt that the defendant's purchases and sales have been made with full knowledge of the restrictions that have been placed upon the sale and use of these records, so far at least as those restrictions are valid. Hence, and that he is deliberately violating them when he is selling sales at a minimum price. Under such circumstances, the complainant's right is established by Ingram-Patterer Co. v. Eureka Co., 72 Fed. 288, and other decisions which have followed it, and the ruling there made by the circuit of appeals for the sixth circuit. Other citations are: Bauer & Cie. v. Bement v. National Harrow Co., 68 Fed. 991; Edison Phonograph Co. v. Kaufman, 105 Fed. 960; Edison Phonograph Co. v. Pike, 116 Fed. 862; Victor Talking Machine Co. v. Seltzer, 123 Fed. 424; Victor Cortelyou v. Johnson, 138 Fed. 955.

If it is supposed, as defendant's counsel seems to contend, that these cases are in conflict to some extent with Bobbs-Merrill Co. v. Straus, 210 U. S. 339; Straus v. Victor Talking Machine Co., 243 U. S. 490; Boston Store v. Ames, 119 Mass. 142; and Victor Talking Machine Co. v. Arlington Co., I can only reply that I am bound by the decisions of the federal courts if they are inconsistent with the rulings of the Massachusetts and of the Pennsylvania tribunals. But there is no conflict, as I think. The first of the cases cited relates to the right of a patentee to deal with his own property as he pleases, while the Grat cases are concerned with the right of a trademark and a proprietary medicine. The principles that govern the right of a patentee to do what he will with his own are not discussed in the opinions of the Massachusetts court, by whom, indeed it is expressly stated that in Victor Talking Machine Co., that Court's trade-mark did not pass to the rights of a patentee in property manufactured under a patent.

A preliminary injunction will be granted.

Mr. Dealer: Don't overlook the opportunity to get a framed copy of the Massani painting, "The Phonograph."

A MISSOURI BREEZE.

Lyon & Healy, Edison Jobbers at Chicago, recently incorrectly filled a customer's order for some Edison Records and the fact was called to their attention by the following breezy letter, which will repay reading:

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:—Inclosed herewith find check in payment for your invoice of talking machine and Phonograph records. Will say that the records were very fresh and nice, in every way with one exception, which I will kindly note.

I ordered, among others, a vaudeville Record called "Fishing," and to be a faithful reproduction of the "Fishing" sketches rendered by Collins and Harlan, Walter Jones and her starring partner, Mr. Lew Spencer. Judge of my surprise to find that you had substituted a ding-dong prayer hymn, entitled "Pass Me not, O Thou not Pass Me By," for vaudeville, or anything of any sense.

Possibly the sending of your invoice was by hours on things for you in your shipping department figured it out from the address that I belonged to that species of vertebrates called "Missourians,"—described in your local papers as consisting principally of a broad-brimmed felt hat and a stogie.

I have considered the purchase of your diseased talkects, as represented in passing his entire existence upon the banks of the Chicago Drainage Canal (formerly known as the Mississippi River). And thus the logical conclusion was—that, being a democrat, I had undoubtedly by mistake ordered a hymn, and something calculated to draw me nearer to the throne than to the footlights.

It is true that formerly the literati of Cape Girardeau and the bidding young intellects of its State Normal School, together with the Ladies' Aid of Nymera for inspiration and solid pabulum, had before we were brought into such close touch with Chicago through the medium of your picturesque canal. Now the entire population throngs the levee daily to view the mighty flood bearing upon its bosom annual consignments of pop bottles, and, ever and anon, a defunct canine.

A solemn thought, that you town with a long outline nose having a large intake, said that we did not seem to get more than a few minutes removed from dear old Chicago.

Well, I say, City of Chicago may pollute the water supply of Cape Girardeau to her heart's content, when you attempt to interfere with our amusements we must draw the line.

Then again, it might have been a mistake on your part, but I suspect not, as I have been told that the Chicago jobbers have been put on the "blink" list, a rain drown at Seldom Seen, Missouri, this winter. He came to the entire town late one evening and upon the wife of the guide asking him what he would have for breakfast, said he would take some pate-de-foie gras, some canvas back teke and it took the united efforts of the entire family to keep the boarder from having tears to keep the guide from killing him for using such language to a lady.

Another thing, the people of Missouri are suffering from too much substitution at the present time. We have a Democratic governor, a democratic senate and a four-flush reformer as Governor. The whole state is run for the benefit of the writers of feature articles in the 100 monthlies published in New York.

Do you know how a druggist could give out morphine for calomel, or how a crossyard man could vote the populist ticket by using the Australian ballot system, but for the life of me I cannot see how you could mistake the impulsiveness of "Pass Me not, O Thou not Pass Me By," for the snappy ozone of "Miss Ada Jones and the Fish Song."

I invited a friend to hear my new Records. He had been a river steamboat captain, that is to say, he was supposed to complicated rhetorical flourishes, Dutch Trimpets and Dago operatic music of all kinds. He yearned for the merry quip of the Mississippi deckhand, and the "Fishing" Record was the only laughable skit called "Fishing". He closed his eyes to recall the rising curtain, the blare of the band and the burst of applause as the headliner somersaults with the wicked wink, the reasonable hosiery and the knowing leer. Then came the low, low whine and tortured tones of the dialogue in "Pass Me not, O Thou not Pass Me By" and then—but Mr. Roosevelt is no particular, lately about what goes through the mails that I will not go into details.

The captain left without ceremony and while I have a Record as good as new, I have lost a friend. He passes me on the streets without speaking, but he don't care as he has had him, one hundred shares at par, in the Private Snap Gold Mining and Development Company.

Furthermore, the Record in question grates on my feelings and is still more incorporate for constant use, as the Frisco Railroad has not renewed my pass for the season. Will you please to give them scriptural authority for withholding the same.

Regretting to be obliged to call your attention to this preserved prayer, I am,

Yours truly,
C. D. BOWTON.

UNSHAVED BLANKS TO BE PACKED IN CARTONS.

Beginning April 2th, all unshaved blanks will be wrapped in cotton and packed in cartons, the same as shaved blanks. None will be packed in excelsior. These cartons have a special label to distinguish them from shaved blanks.

NO. 12295 CUT OUT.

We have no more molds of Record No. 12295, "Chanson à boire," sung in French, by M. Marechal, and when our present stock is exhausted we will be unable to fill orders for it.

A HIGH PRICED GEM.

Just because the auctioneer played "Everybody Works But Father," "Always in the Way," and other well-known airs, while disposing of an Edison Gem Phonograph at auction, at Darlington, Pa., recently, it was bid up by a crowd of eager buyers till it was knocked down at $125.

A FREIGHT "TIP".

For the benefit of other Jobbers, writes the Texas Phonograph Co., of Houston, Texas, we beg to advise that we have discovered a means of having Phonograph Record cabinets shipped at a reduced rate by the following method: The classification on Phonograph cabinets calls for a rate of 175 times first-class, while the rate on chiffoniers is only first-class. These cabinets are practically nothing but chiffoniers and we recently had a shipment of seventy-five of these come to us via freight, in three and billed as "chiffoniers." The pegs were shipped in a separate box and we inserted the pegs after the arrival of the cabinets. A controversy arose with the railroad company, but the decision was in our favor, inasmuch as we told them to open the goods and submit to a committee of furniture men, who pronounced them "chiffoniers."

We cannot see the equity in a difference in classification on these goods, and while it seems little trouble to have the pegs shipped at a separate time, and in a separate box, and then insert them ourselves, yet the saving of one-third of the freight more than justifies the additional trouble.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Kipp Bros. Co., Edison Jobbers at Indianapolis, Ind., has been succeeded by the Kipp-Link Phonograph Co., with headquarters at 217 S. Illinois street, Indianapolis.

The large building of the Theodore F. Bentel Co., Inc., Edison Jobbers, at 632 Liberty street, Pittsburg, Pa., was discovered on fire early in the morning of March 31st, and the flames were not subdued until the interior of the building had been gutted, entailing a loss of $35,000, with $25,000 insurance. The company were preparing to move to Nos. 435-437 Wood street, and had removed about $3,000 worth of goods to the new store. The fire started on the second floor of the Bentel building and Mr. Bentel believes that it was caused by crossed electric light wires. His loss is total. He carried a full line of the Edison goods. More than 35,000 Records were destroyed. The fire did not interfere with the company opening in new headquarters the following week, although they were short of stock for a few days.

The O. K. Houck Piano Co., of Memphis, Tenn., have secured a long lease of three upper floors of the building No. 105 S. Main street, adjoining their Main street establishment. This building will be devoted to their retail and wholesale talking machine business. The new building will give them a great additional amount of space for their talking machine business and will permit of their carrying a much larger and more complete stock than was possible before.

PRINTED MATTER.

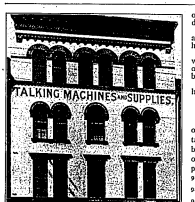
Since the May Records will not be shipped before May 15th, the Phonogram, supplements, bulletins, etc., will likewise not be shipped or mailed before that date. In addition to the regular forms, the May printed matter will include grand opera supplements and hangers. We shall also send out at the same time a sample copy of a little form printed in imitation of a theatre ticket. At a glance it looks as if someone had dropped an envelope and the ticket was falling out. The form is printed alike on both sides, so that the effect is the same, no matter which way the card falls. Quantities of these are being shipped to Jobbers, and by the time the sample copy is received by Dealers, Jobbers will be in a position to fill their orders.

We shall shortly mail to the trade a sample copy of a little booklet on the art of making Phonograph Records at home. This has been entirely re-written and gives some new and interesting facts about the matter of amateur Record making. The quantities that we are sending to Jobbers will not permit them to do more than give a limited number of copies to each Dealer, to be used only for furnishing information to Phonograph owners desiring to know more about the subject. It will not be possible to supply Dealers with large quantities for miscellaneous distribution.

The Phonogram has now reached an edition of 200,000 copies and is unquestionably a most useful piece of printed matter for increasing both Phonograph and Record business. This edition is the more surprising because of the fact that the entire trade are required to pay part of its cost and it is furnished to no one without charge. The fact that the trade so readily pays this charge proves that it is regarded as a valuable means of circulating information about Phonographs and Records.

TALKING MACHINE SALESMEN ORGANIZE.

The New England Talking Machine Salesmen's Association has just been organized at Boston, with the following officers: President, H. R. Skelton; Vice-President, Fred Howes; Secretary, S. J. Freeman; Treasurer, F. E. Lane. President Skelton has appointed several committees. The entertainment committee, is composed of W. J. Fitzgerald, W. E. Vele, Henry Winkleman, H. L. Royer and K. Campbell. The objects of the association as set forth in the by-laws are the general promotion of the interests of the business, and a better feeling among the salesmen in the business. At present the membership is confined to Boston and immediate vicinity, but the membership committee will make every effort to interest salesmen in the New England territory. Meetings will be held on the last Friday evening of each month, and from time to time dinners will be held.



AN ECHO FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

The New York Sun correspondent from San Francisco, in writing of some experiences in the unfortunate city on April 23d, said:

"It seemed as if every person was carrying a Phonograph with the big trumpet tucked under the arm. I never saw so many Phonographs in my life. Didn't know there were that many."

This paragraph shows the regard that thousands of families have for their Phonographs. To them they are their most treasured possession. It was not surprising that in fleeing from their homes so many of the families saved their Phonographs and left everything else behind.

The report continues to be circulated that miss Grace Nelson, who has made Edison Phonograph Records, was killed in a railway accident in Massachusetts last summer. That a lady of this name may have met with such a misfortune we cannot question, but she is not the Miss Nelson who makes Phonograph Records. Miss Nelson is still living. In fact, this name is but a nom de plume.

PARDEE-ELLENBERGER CO.'S NEW BUILDING.

The Pardee-Ellenberger Co., of New Haven, Conn., whose success as Jobbers of Edison goods exclusively has been little short of phenomenal, have just bought a five-story building at 96-104 State street, and are now moving their wholesale stock into it. This building has a frontage of 35 feet on State street and runs back 160 feet, the five floors furnishing 26,400 feet of floor space. The entire building will be devoted to the wholesale end of the firm's business. No goods will here be sold at retail.

The front of the first floor contains space as offices, just back of which is a sales-room, where each of the different types of machines, record cabinets, horn cranes, horns and supplies of various kinds, are open to the customers' inspection. Directly in the rear is a general stock and shipping room with convenient arrangements for handling incoming and outgoing goods. A power elevator connects this with each floor in the building.

The second floor is devoted exclusively to a record stock room. Here bins of the most improved type have been constructed on generous lines, with facilities for carrying a stock of two hundred thousand Edison Records. In a separate section ample provision has been made for foreign selections. With these provisions the company feel that they can handle with accuracy and dispatch this important part of their business, no matter how large the demand.

The floors above give ample space for storage of the goods of a bulky character, such as horns, cabinets, and supplies in general.

The building is located in the heart of the wholesale district within a few minutes' walk of the railroad station, and at a central point between the boat, railroad and express offices.

The Chapel street store will be retained as heretofore for retail purposes only.

DEALERS' CORNER.

We have just started the sale of Edison goods and are more than pleased with them. They are sellers. Shall do all we can to encourage the sale of them.—Jos. Weeks & Son, Harrisville, N. Y.

Am having the best trade now I have ever had since I have handled Edison goods. Have sold more machines and Records since January 1st this year, than I sold during the whole year 1905.—J. W. Maple, Ridgeway, Mo.

I recently sold a customer a Home Phonograph, a flower horn and stand, $36; 100 Edison Records, $35; all at one time. He said that would do for a starter. That's the way I like them to start. He said he had heard all the other makes of machines but the Edison was the only good one. I have two stores and am selling Edison goods to many people that never dreamed of buying a machine.—J. E. Jerd, Rochester and Randolph, Vt.

What is the Difference Between An Edison and an Edison with I. C. S. Equipment?

Do you know the difference between an ordinary Edison Standard Phonograph and an Edison Standard Phonograph with the I. C. S. Language Equipment?

We use the new type Edison Standard, but each machine is equipped with our own patented Repeating Attachment—with a set of head band Hearing Tubes—with a Recorder, Brush and Horn. And the speed screw is above the bed-plate—ease in regulating the speed of the machine is essential, as Language records are run at ninety revolutions per minute. The machine is designed specially for double service—LANGUAGE STUDY AND AMUSEMENT.

Now about the special equipment. It is all necessary in connection with language study, and, if sold separately, would cost $100.00, in addition to the price of the regular Edison Standard Machine. With the hearing tubes, much greater concentration of mind is possible, the ear is trained to sounds of foreign words as they are spoken by natives and, again, none of the sound is lost. There is a sound modifier in the Hearing Tubes, so that the volume of sound can be regulated to suit the listener.

Absolutely correct pronunciation is acquired by repetition. With the I. C. S. Repeating Attachment the same word can be repeated over and over again without touching the speaker arm—simply operate the Repeating Attachment and listen. YOU CAN GUARANTEE ABSOLUTELY CORRECT PRONUNCIATION.

I.C.S. LANGUAGE SYSTEM. with Thomas A. Edison PHONOGRAPH

To learn to speak a foreign language, it is necessary to talk, therefore, to the Recorder—make records—hear yourself talk—compare your pronunciation with the pronunciation on the instruction records. This is a strong talking point in selling Language Outfits.

Two blanks are furnished with each Outfit, so that the party making the purchase has everything ready to start with his studies. The I. C. S. Language Outfit is complete and you will never have a dissatisfied purchaser.

MACHINE SITUATION BETTER.

It is with much gratification that we are able to state this month that the machine situation is well in hand and most orders for Phonographs are being filled with reasonable promptness. For the first time in nine months the trade now has no cause to complain about inability to get machines. The Record situation, however, has grown no better with the passage of another month, in spite of the large weekly output.

We continue to be more than two million Records behind on current orders and these orders, with orders for the monthly list, make it certain that there will be no break or falling off in the Record production during the entire summer. We shall be fortunate if we can open the fall season with less than a million Records behind on orders for current selections. Nothing but increased Record moulding facilities will make it possible to meet the larger demand of the fall. These facilities are being increased as rapidly as possible, and we hope that they will meet all normal demands until our proposed new Record moulding building can be constructed and fitted for work. It will require nearly a year to put up the latter.

The fact that the trade has not been able to get as many Records as were wanted has been quite a factor in relieving the machine demand, for Jobbers have found that inability to get Records enough to sort up their stocks has caused many firms to wait until they can get complete stocks of Records before becoming Dealers.

Even the lapsing of the June list did not bring the relief anticipated, for the last of the May Records could not be shipped until May 29th, nearly four weeks late. Part of this delay was due to the increased demand for the May list of Grand Opera Records, the advance orders being larger than for the first supplement issued in February.

THE ADVANCE LIST OF AUGUST RECORDS APPEARS ON PAGE 2.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR AUGUST, 1906.

RECORDS listed below will be shipped from Orange in time to reach all Jobbers in the United States and Canada before July 27th, all things being favorable, but they must not be placed on sale by Jobbers or re-shipped to Dealers before 8 A. M. on July 27th. Supplements, Phonograms and Bulletins will be shipped with Records, and these also must not be distributed in any manner before July 27th. Jobbers are required to place orders for August Records on or before June 10th. Dealers should place August orders with Jobbers before June 10th to insure prompt and complete shipment when Jobbers' stock is received.

Edison Gold Moulded Records are made only in Standard Size. Both Standard and Concert Records may be ordered from this list. Order by number, not title. If Concert Records are wanted, give the number and letter C.

CHICAGO OFFICE DISCONTINUED.

The Chicago office of the National Phonograph Company, so far as it refers to the sale of Edison Phonographs and Records for amusement purposes, and through the trade, ended its official existence on May 31st, 1906. The separate offices at 304 Wabash avenue, used for the sale of the Edison Business Phonograph, will be continued, but only the Business Phonograph will be sold from that address. Since the Business Phonograph is not sold through the trade the general Chicago office of the company has practically ceased to exist. Hereafter all Edison goods sold through the trade will be shipped and billed direct from the factory at Orange, N. J. The letter printed below was mailed to the entire trade on May 25th.

As this letter explains the conditions that made it necessary to open a branch office in Chicago—lack of a sufficient number of Jobbers to meet the demands of the trade—no longer prevail, and the company in deciding to discontinue the office has removed the only bar to a complete trade understanding. Arrangements have been made with Chicago Jobbers to take the entire stock of the Chicago office and no longer can it be said that the National Phonograph Company is a competitor of its own Jobbers in the sale of Edison goods.

Dealers who have been buying through our Chicago office are urged to at once sign the Edison agreement with one or more Jobbers, so that they will not be inconvenienced in getting Edison goods promptly.

We believe that this action will materially improve our standing with the entire trade, and especially with the Jobbers of the Central and Western States, and we look for a considerable increase in the volume of Edison business from that section. Although every effort has been made to conduct the Chicago branch in an impartial manner and to interfere as little as possible with the business done by Jobbers, yet an undercurrent of resentment has always existed among Jobbers and this has doubtless affected the volume of Chicago business, aside from that placed with our Chicago branch. The closing of the latter will probably cause other strong firms in the Central and Western States to seek to become Jobbers in Edison goods. The letter to the trade was as follows:

ORANGE, N. J., May 25th, 1906.

DEAR SIR:—On May 31st, 1906, we will close and discontinue our Chicago office, now located at No. 304 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill., after which all remittances, orders and communications of every kind for Edison goods formerly sent to Chicago office, should be addressed to the National Phonograph Company, 31 Union Square, New York City.

The original necessity which caused us to open this office (scarcity of representative Jobbers in the territory) has now ceased to exist, and we are pleased to be able to turn over, so far as is possible, the Dealers' business to Jobbers in Chicago who are now in a position to cover the Central and Western States.

In order that they will be in position to properly take care of Dealers' requirements, we would urge upon our Jobbers the necessity of carrying a full and complete stock of Edison goods, thereby placing themselves in position to obtain a share of the jobbing business. Jobbers who have been securing goods from our Chicago office direct are requested to sign our agreement with one or more Jobbers, thereby enabling them to obtain goods promptly and at the same or less transportation charges as was incurred from our Chicago office. Yours very truly,

W. E. GILMORE,
President and General Manager.

THE JOBBERS ENTERTAINMENT IN JULY.

The Jobbers' entertainment, which will take place July 17th to 21st, and for which the formal invitations have just been issued, has created considerable favorable comment among our trade and we are being deluged with correspondence on the subject, the Jobbers with very few exceptions having signified their intention of being present and joining with us in the celebration of the most successful year in the history of the Phonograph business. They are coming from all points of the compass, from Maine to California,—from Canada to Texas, and it is indeed gratifying to note the hearty responses we have had to our preliminary letters.

Our plans have now taken such definite shape that we can promise there will be no hitch in carrying out the arrangement as outlined, as only the details are now to be perfected. With the formal invitations a card has been enclosed which should be signed and returned promptly, thus enabling us to complete arrangements at the hotel for proper accommodations.

Aside from the social features, this gathering of prominent talking machine Jobbers will permit of an interchange of ideas which will prove of inestimable value to all concerned, and no one can afford to miss the opportunity thus provided.

Both Mr. Edison and Mr. Gilmore are taking the warmest interest in the plan and scope of this affair, and this alone will insure the success of an entertainment which has been in contemplation for the past two years.

Our one regret is our inability to include the thousands of loyal Edison Dealers whom we would be pleased to meet, and from whom we could obtain suggestions which would be to our mutual advantage. It would appear from present indications that our original estimate will be exceeded by at least fifty, and we can assure those who do come, a warm and hearty welcome and that they will be fully repaid for the time spent.

DEALERS SHOULD ADVERTISE.

Next in importance to keeping an adequate stock of Edison goods is to advertise so that the public will know that you have them. Our magazine advertising is arousing great interest in the Edison Phonograph, and when Dealers advertise locally they get the greatest possible benefit from this advertising. Try it, Mr. Dealer.

OUR AGREEMENT MUST NOT BE VIOLATED.

During the past month it has been found necessary, to our great regret, to reduce a Jobber to the Dealer's ranks because of violation of our conditions of sale. Complaint was made by some of his competitors and an investigation showed the charges to be true. A complete suspension followed but this was later modified to reinstatement as a Dealer, upon positive assurances that the offence would not be repeated. This Jobber was doing an excellent business in Edison goods, his accounts were in the best possible shape and his relations with this company were of the most pleasant character, but these facts did not deter us from meeting the issue squarely and imposing the penalty, although it was a most unpleasant duty.

We would not call such attention to a case of this kind if it was not necessary to point out the futility of any Edison Jobber or Dealer violating his pledged word by selling Edison goods in any manner not permitted by our agreement. He may do so a few times, and he may make a few dollars before being found out, but his profits will be small as compared to his losses after discovery, and discovery will be only a matter of a few days.

There is not a single firm selling Edison goods, whether its business amounts to $100 or $500,000 a year, that will not be punished if it wilfully violates the conditions of our agreement. This statement is not made because we take any pleasure in making it. On the contrary it is very disagreeable. It is made, however, in the hope that it will hold back some who may be tempted to break faith by the promise of a few immediate dollars. It is also made, and reiterated from time to time, because the agreement system under which Edison goods are sold has been and is the greatest factor in its present success and the continuance of this success makes it more than ever necessary to punish those who endanger it by overt acts. The maintenance of this agreement system is also a matter of great importance to the entire trade. Millions of dollars invested in Edison goods to-day would suffer heavy depreciation if we should even for a year permit our goods to be sold at any price and without restrictions. It, therefore, becomes the duty of all interested to keep faith and see that their competitors do likewise.

Recently our attention has been called to certain Dealers who have been selling three Records for $1.00 and a number of suspensions have followed. Others will be suspended as soon as the necessary evidence can be secured.

CONCERNING THE JUNE PHONOGRAM.

When a decision was reached two months ago to drop the June list of Records the question arose as to the advisability of getting out the Phonogram for June, in the usual manner. The matter was carefully considered and it was decided that not to issue it would cause the trade an almost endless amount of trouble in being compelled to explain to the 400,000 readers of the little publication why it did not appear. It was realized that to get it out when there were no new Records to describe would make it less attractive than usual, but on the whole it seemed better to issue it and the edition was accordingly printed, the work being completed six weeks ago. Had it then been possible to foresee the delay in shipping May Records it is possible that a different decision might have been arrived at. We would not have thought of getting out two issues to be distributed at so near the same time.

However, the June issue is entirely printed and the orders of many Jobbers have already been made with other goods, and in each case a request has been made that the Phonograms be not distributed before June 10th. We must ask the trade to put up with whatever inconvenience and friction may arise from the peculiar situation. It is not likely that a similar condition will again occur. Complaint has already been made that some Jobbers have received their June Phonograms ahead of their competitors but this has been due to the fact that we have been shipping them with other goods in order to save transportation charges. Jobbers will be permitted to re-ship this issue to Dealers at any time and in the least inexpensive manner, provided simply that Dealers be requested not to circulate them before June 10th.

COIN-SLOT PHONOGRAPHS.

A new catalogue of Edison Coin Slot Phonographs has just been mailed to Jobbers. It is Form No. 910. Copies will be mailed to Dealers on request. It has not been mailed to the trade for the reason that no discounts are allowed on the three electric current types and Dealers have no interest in their sale. The electric current types are the Windsor (battery current), Eclipse (direct current) and Acme (alternating current). The latter is an entirely new machine and is the first alternating Phonograph put out by this company. The Eclipse supersedes the Majestic, which has been discontinued. All of these types are sold singly at $65.00 each net and at $60.00 each net in lots of ten or more machines.

A WORD TO JOBBERS.

A long standing rule of the National Phonograph Company provides that no defective material, whether Phonographs, Records or other goods, shall be returned to our factory by Jobbers without first taking the matter up with the company. This rule is intended to save time, trouble and needless correspondence. Frequently, if we were first written on the subject, it would not be necessary to return the goods at all. We could offer suggestions that would make it possible to remedy the difficulty on the spot. Some Jobbers seem to be unaware of the existence of this rule, for they ship us material and it arrives with a simple request for credit, no explanation being made as to the reason therefore. To determine the reason letters must be written, causing annoyance and loss of time. Jobbers are urged not to return any material to us without first writing and getting our acquiescence or other instructions.

DEALERS AND DEFECTIVE MATERIAL.

Many Dealers do not seem to be aware of the procedure to be followed in connection with defective machines or other goods. Not infrequently Phonographs are returned to our factory by Dealers at a distance, with the statement that this thing or that is wrong, and a request is made that the trouble be remedied and the machine returned. In nine cases out of ten the trouble is one that could be remedied by the Jobber from whom the Dealer obtained the machines, with a saving of time and transportation charges. To send a Phonograph to Orange makes trouble and expense for everybody concerned. In the first place, we do not in most cases know anything about the Dealer. Nor have we any means of knowing how long a machine has been in the hands of the Dealer or to what extent we are responsible for the trouble complained of.

No matter what the trouble may be with Phonographs, Records or any other Edison goods, Dealers should return them to the Jobber from whom they were bought, with a simple statement covering the matter. The Jobber will then determine to what extent he or this company is responsible and act accordingly. If the trouble is one that he can remedy, like a broken mainspring in a Phonograph, he will have the work done and return the machine at once. If the difficulty is beyond the Jobber's facilities or ability he will take the matter up with our factory and later return the machine to Orange. We are always willing to furnish Jobbers with material to replace defective parts and do anything that will save them and us the trouble of having to handle returned machines. We especially desire that Dealers who do not buy from us direct should not send defective material back to the factory without at least first endeavoring to have their Jobbers take care of the matter.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS, LIST NO. 2.

Beyond the advance list printed on page 7, there is little to say concerning the third supplement of Grand Opera Records to be issued in August. These grand opera lists have now become part of the permanent plan of conducting an Edison business. They form a most desirable addition to the business done by Jobbers and Dealers, for although the sales are smaller than those of regular Records the better margins make the trade more anxious to dispose of them. These Grand Opera Records are doing much to popularize the Phonograph among an entirely new class of people and are adding to its popularity among all classes. The twenty Records now in the hands of the trade represent an outlay to a Dealer of $9.00, and for the credit of his business every Dealer should carry some of them, no matter how small his regular stock may be. Having these Records in stock will frequently mean the sale of a Phonograph when no other class of Records would interest a customer.

AN ALL YEAR ROUND BUSINESS.

The summer season now at hand is going to demonstrate beyond a doubt that the Phonograph business has become an all-the-year-round proposition. Of course the season will not be as busy as midwinter, but, considering the fact that most people spend so much for pleasures and recreations, it is certain to be profitable for Dealers. The advance orders for July, although a little less than for May, show that the trade do not anticipate any great falling off in the volume of business for the month.

NEW RECORD SHIPPING PLAN.

The new plan of shipping Records to Jobbers by freight in advance is now under way and much benefit is expected from it. The July Records have already been shipped to many Jobbers and other shipments are going out daily. Barring unforeseen contingencies, every Jobbers will have his July Records in ample time to re-ship them to Dealers and put them on sale on June 27th. The co-operation of the Jobbers is all that is needed to make the plan a complete success, and we have every assurance that we will have this co-operation to the fullest extent.

THE MASSANI PICTURES.

A surprising number of Dealers have failed to send Jobbers their orders for copies of the reproduction of the Massani picture, "The Phonograph." They have thus failed to get a framed copy of the picture. It will now only be possible to get an unframed copy, and this will be mailed direct from the Advertising Department upon receipt of the Dealer's order with the Jobber's approval. It will not be possible to supply framed copies hereafter, and it will be idle for Dealers to explain why they did not send in their orders and ask for special consideration. The literature sent out made the matter clear, and we feel that Dealers have themselves to blame in not complying with its requirements.

The orders for framed copies sent in by Jobbers will be filled by one freight shipment from Chicago, where the frames are being made, and the unframed copies will be mailed direct from Orange. None of these frames will be carried at the factory, and it will not, therefore, be possible to fill any further orders from Jobbers.

ANOTHER JOBBERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Eastern Talking Machine Jobbers Association, composed of talking machine jobbers in the Eastern and Middle Atlantic States, after holding several preliminary meetings, has been formally organized by the election of the following officers: President, W. D. Andrews, Syracuse, N. Y.; Vice-President, J. Newcomb Blackman, New York; Secretary, John P. Kelsey, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Treasurer, S. B. Davega, New York; Trustees, the foregoing officers and S. B. Davega and C. V. Henkel, New York; H. L. Ellenberger, New Haven, Conn.; C. G. Andrews and E. F. Taft, Boston; Thomas D. Barnhill, of Penn Phonograph Co., Philadelphia. They are to hold office until August 1st.

The object of the association is to work in harmony with the talking machine companies for the benefit of the entire industry. Committees are now at work endeavoring to secure a modification of conditions which seem to the members to adversely affect their interests. Meetings are being held every two months.

Following is an extract from an unsolicited letter written by a large Edison Jobber in Great Britain, who also handles several other makes of talking machines:

"In conclusion, it is a pleasure to me to be able to state, without any desire to flatter, that genuine Edison Phonographs and Records remain unrivalled in the Phonograph industry. It is further my candid opinion that all attempts hitherto made by rival manufacturers to excel genuine Edison products have been abortive."

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN AUGUST LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our August list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers.

9314 Polonaise Militaire—Carl Fischer, New York.
9315 Waiting at the Church—Francis, Day & Hunter.
9316 Afloat on a Five Dollar Note—Helf & Hager, New York.
9317 Sir Tom Tickle—Victor Kremer Co., Chicago.
9318 After the Ball—Under the Stars—Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
9320 Bill Simmons—M. Witmark & Sons, New York.
9321 Gen. Stump, U. S. A.—Walter Jacobs, Boston, Mass.
9322 Smile on Me—M. Witmark & Sons, New York.
9323 A Dream of Days Gone By—Ed. Rogers Music Pub. Co., Memphis.

FOREIGN SELECTIONS CUT OUT.

We have no more moulds of the foreign selections named below and when our present stock of these Records is exhausted we will be unable to fill orders for them:

12010 Canto de Amor, Malagena (Spanish) Vargas
12129 La Fleur Id Gaulire (Spanish) Vargas
12258 Kriegsmarsch (German) Hofmann
12259 Klange aus Ungarn (Hungarian) Delay
12260 Glockchen ist, der verginat (German) Walter and Hofmann

PRINTED MATTER.

Copies of a new edition of the Foreign Record Catalogue, Form No. 885, has been mailed to all Jobbers. Because so few Dealers carry Foreign Records and also because of the trifling changes between the past and the new issue, copies have not been mailed to Dealers. Such Dealers as carry a stock of these Records can get a supply of the new edition from their Jobbers as usual. Sample copies will be mailed to Dealers on request.

We regret that we cannot comply with the requests of Dealers for a supply of forms for instalment sales of Phonographs. It has not been possible to get up any one form that can be used in all states, owing to the different laws prevailing in most states.

New discount sheets have just been mailed to Jobbers and Dealers. They differ but slightly from the previous edition.

ADVANCE LIST OF GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

Supplement No. 3, August, 1906.

The ten Edison Grand Opera Records listed below will be shipped by freight from Orange with the regular August selections and, all things being favorable, they will reach all Jobbers in the United States and Canada before July 27th. Like the regular list, the Grand Opera Records must not be placed on sale by Jobbers or be re-shipped to Dealers before 8 A. M. on July 27th. Supplements, hangers, etc., will be shipped at the same time and these also must not be distributed in advance of Records.

Jobbers are required to mail orders to us on or before June 10th. Orders not so mailed will be considered as second orders and filled later.

Dealers should place orders for Grand Opera Records with their Jobbers before June 10th to insure prompt and complete shipment when Jobbers' stock is received.

The third list of Grand Opera Records presented herewith will be even more popular than the two lists previously issued. These selections comprise four in German, three in Italian, one in Latin, one in Spanish and one in French. Each is sung by a different artist and three are by women's voices.

The list introduces four new artists in Mme. Rappold, soprano; Miss Bessie Abott, soprano; Mme. Jacoby, contralto, and Alois Burgstaller, tenor. All of these artists sang leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera House last winter and are, therefore, singers of the first rank.

For artistic rendition, natural and smooth reproduction and musical qualities these ten selections will be a delight to all lovers of the music created by the great composers.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBIT.

Although a little late to mention Easter Phonograph exhibits, we feel that the one made by McGreal Bros., of Milwaukee, is worthy of attention. The windows were tastefully decorated with Easter lilies, colored ribbons and draperies. In the center was a wire box containing several live rabbits. Above this box was a sign bearing the words, "Like the Edison Phonograph—Genuine, No Imitation." A little tot, between two and three years old, roamed at will in the window, adding much to the cuteness of the exhibit.

THE PHONOGRAPH AS A PEDAGOGUE.

The New York Sun recently printed an interesting article concerning the success of a self governing school established by Prof. J. Greene MacKenzie at Macon, Mo. One of its features was the installation of an Edison Phonograph, to which the professor dictated his problems. The schools elects its own officers. When school is opened the president of the class goes to the Phonograph and sets it in motion. The pupils rapidly jot down the problems and go to work solving them.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR AUGUST, 1906.

As more appropriate to the summer season, the August list of Edison Gold Moulded Records abounds in music of light character. It is the vacation month and the one time in the year when business and other cares are laid aside and people seek amusement. Therefore, this August list, in the main, seeks to amuse, although there are several selections of a more serious and dignified character. All of the selections are by the old favorites, whose past efforts have endeared them to the Phonograph public.

No. 9314, "Polonaise Militaire," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition by F. Chopin, the celebrated composer, and is the first polonaise listed in our catalogue in some time. It is military in its character and the various instruments of the band in turn are featured with bits of solo work. "Polonaise Militaire" was one of the musical numbers played at the Longworth-Roosevelt wedding at Washington.

No. 9315, "Waiting at the Church," by Ada Jones, is the much talked of song in English dialect, sung by Vesta Victoria, the great English music hall singer, during her recent successful engagement at the New York vaudeville theatres. The music is by Henry E. Pether and the words by Fred. W. Leigh. The song relates the troubles of a young girl who had made all arrangements to be married and was waiting at the church when her lover sent word that he could not marry her, for his wife wouldn't let him. It is excellently sung, as are all of Miss Jones' Records.

No. 9316, "Afloat on a Five Dollar Note," by Collins and Harlan, is a new summer waltz song descriptive of the pleasures of a trip afloat by Dolly and her beau, the expenses of which are covered by a five dollar note. It has all the rhythm essential to the success of a summer waltz song. Collins and Harlan sing it with the abandon required by a song of this kind. They are accompanied by the orchestra. The music is by Fred J. Helf and the words by Arthur Lamb, both of whom have been identified with a number of successful songs.

No. 9317, "St. Louis Tickle," by Vess L. Ossman, is a decidedly gingery banjo solo by Barney and Seymore. We have had repeated requests for this selection. It is full of rag-time, and is played in a masterly manner by Mr. Ossman, a two banjo effect being one of the features, and the player is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9318, "After They Gather the Hay," by Harry MacDonough, is one of the late popular ballads written by S. R. Henry (music) and J. J. Walker (words) and splendidly rendered by Mr. MacDonough. The title suggests the sentimental character of the ballad. The singer lovingly recalls the past to his fair one, declares his devotion and states that he will come to her "After They Gather the Hay." Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9319, "Heaven is My Home," by Anthony and Harrison, is the well-known hymn by Sir Arthur Sullivan (music) and Thomas R. Taylor (words). The popularity of this selection will make the Record sought by all lovers of sacred music. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9320, "Bill Simmons," by Arthur Collins, is one of the biggest hits in the summer show, "The Social Whirl," which has had such a run at the Casino Theatre in New York. In this show the song is rendered by Maude Raymond. The sub-title of the composition is "I've Got to Dance 'till the Band Gits Through." It tells of the troubles of Bill Simmons, who had to dance when he heard a band no matter what happened. He got a job in a ham and egg place and one day was carrying a tray piled four feet high when the band began to play. Bill had to dance, the tray of eatables was thrown to the floor and Bill lost his job because he had to dance until the band got through. That Mr. Collins has made a splendid Record of a composition so well fitted to his style goes without saying. He is accompanied by the orchestra. G. A. Spink wrote the words and music for this song.

No. 9321, "Gen. Mixup, U. S. A.," by Edison Military Band, is a characteristic march, well described in its title and introducing various national and popular airs. At times two or three different airs are being played at one and the same time, each, however, being easily distinguishable and forming as a whole a brilliant, effective and interesting unity. Probably twenty different national airs are played at one time or another on this Record. The composition was written by Thomas J. Allen, composer of "Any Rags" and other song successes.

No. 9322, "Smile On Me," by Irving Gillette, is a sentimental ballad, the music of which was written by Henry O. Sutton and the words by Jean Lenox. Mr. Gillette's splendid voice appears to advantage, as usual, in this song, being accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9323, "Daughter of Vanity Fair," by Harlan and Stanley, is a splendidly sung Record of a pathetic ballad written by Ed. Rogers (music) and Jimmie Burrell (words). Sung with orchestral accompaniment.

No. 9324, "Bell Solo from The Magic Flute," by Albert Benzler, is a fine bell solo from Mozart's favorite opera, "The Magic Flute," and never before produced so accurately on a Record. It is one of the most effective instrumental hits of the opera and one very difficult to perform well. This presentation of the selection was specially arranged for our Record and cannot be had in published form. We think this beyond question the most effective Record by the bells that we have ever made. It is played with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9325, "Bonnie Banks O' Loch Lomond," by Marie Narelle, is a delightful Record of this well-known and ever popular Scotch Melody. Sung with orchestra accompaniment. The song is a great favorite of Miss Narelle's and one she takes unusual interest and delight in singing. Her specially fine rendition of the ballad abundantly bears out this statement.

No. 9326, "The Morning After," by Len Spencer and Steve Porter, is a companion selection to "Flanagan's Night Off," (our Record No. 9244). It is the morning after Flanagan's night off and he has the usual troublesome head. A desire for cracked ice is followed by a call for the doctor, whose suggestions make Flanagan think that he is having delirium tremens. The conversation between Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan and the doctor make up a most amusing Record. Mr. Spencer has become a past master in this character of work.

No. 9327, "Minerva," by Edison Symphony Orchestra, composed by Frederick W. Hager, is very prettily styled by the composer a "South American Romance." It has all the tunefulness and rhythmic characteristics of the music of the peoples to the south. Our Edison Symphony Orchestra gives it the essential dainty interpretation. Mr. Hager has contributed several highly appreciated selections to our Record catalogue. "Minerva" is quite unlike any of his former efforts. It is, however, none the less interesting and by many will be thought superior to anything he has heretofore written.

No. 9328, "With the Robins I'll Return," by Byron G. Harlan, is an effective new descriptive song with march chorus, in which Joe Belmont introduces his inimitable bird imitations. As usual, Mr. Harlan acquits himself most creditably in his rendition of the song and has the assistance of the orchestra. The music of the song is by Jos. S. Witt and the words by J. J. Walker.

No. 9329, "I'm Up in the Air About Mary," by Billy Murray, is a brand new waltz song with a very catchy air that will undoubtedly win for it a great popularity. The verses are replete with the latest slang of the day. Mr. Murray sings every word distinctly heard, a most desirable feature in this class of Records. He is accompanied by the orchestra. Alfred Solman wrote the music and Monroe H. Rosenfield, the words.

No. 9330, "The Baby Parade," by Edison Concert Band, is descriptive of the great baby parade given annually at Asbury Park, N. J., where Arthur Pryor and his band will play this selection (composed by Mr. Pryor) to delighted thousands. It is written as a patrol, giving the effect of the parade approaching from the distance, passing the reviewing stand and receding in the distance. This Record will make as great a hit as the composition itself when played by Pryor's Band.

No. 9331, "Father Old Man," by Bob Roberts, is another of the "Father" series, but unlike "Everybody Works But Father" and "Uncle Quit Work Too," it is a defense of the old man and tells in several amusing verses how he supports the family and does many other things that the ideal parent should do. Mr. Roberts' rendition of the song is perfect and the orchestra accompaniment is an added feature.

No. 9332, "While the Old Mill Wheel is Turning," by Harry Anthony, is a new sentimental ballad by Kerry Mills (music) and Will D. Cobb (words). Mr. Anthony has given this ballad a most artistic presentation as those who hear the Record will testify. It is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9333, "Clancy's Wooden Wedding," by Edward Meeker, is a comic song descriptive of the things that happened when Clancy celebrated his wooden wedding anniversary. Witty references are made to the various presents of wood that are brought by the attending guests, and the singer's description of the row with which the affair terminated cannot fail to provoke laughter. This song was written by Teddy Simons, but has not yet been published.

No. 9334, "Fisher's Hornpipe Medley," by Leopold Moeslin, is another excellent violin solo by this artist, whose "Sailor's Hornpipe Medley" in the July list won instant popularity. The "Fisher's Hornpipe Medley" introduces "The Fisher's Hornpipe", "Little House Under the Hill", "Straight Jig" and "Gypsy Reel". This medley has been specially arranged for our Record and cannot be had in published form.

No. 9335, "Bashful Henry and His Lovin' Lucy," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch descriptive of a darktown courtship and introducing the song, "I have Such a Funny Feeling When I Look at You" with incidental music by the orchestra. The dialogue shows how Lucy overcame the diffidence of her bashful lover and how she brought him to the proposal point. Everything ends happily and the Record closes with one of the typical Jones and Spencer duets.

No. 9336, "Teacher and the Tack," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a sad story of the pupil who placed a tack on a chair and of the things that took place after the teacher had sat upon the tack. The words are very funny and the singing by the quartette unusually well done. The singers are unaccompanied. The music of this song is by N. B. Sprague and the words by Chas. M. Sheldon.

No. 9337, "Stars and Lance March," by the Edison Military Band, is a new march by John Philip Sousa and bears the same title as his new opera "The Free Lance," which had an extended run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, and, which will later in the year be introduced throughout the country. Like all of Mr. Sousa's marches, it is original in its character and includes a number of unusual effects in its melody. The march would win success on its own merits, aside from the fact that Mr. Sousa wrote it.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Co., of Chicago, have removed from 302 Wabash avenue to 266-268 Wabash avenue.

William Emerson, of Utica, has removed to 50 Columbia street.

Robert L. Loud has succeeded P. A. Powers as Edison Jobber at Buffalo. He is located at 613 Main street.

The Western Talking Machine Co., of St. Louis, has removed to 1110-1112 Olive street.

H. Kleber & Bro., of Pittsburg, Pa., are now located at 513 Wood street.

New Edison Jobbers are the Proudfit Sporting Goods Co., Ogden, Utah; Clayton Music Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, and the Cable Company, Wabash avenue and Jackson Boulevard, Chicago.

POINTS FOR DEALERS.

Too much cannot be said by way of cautioning Dealers to see that their demonstrating Phonographs, as well as all machines delivered to customers, are adjusted to a speed of 160 revolutions a minute. Every Dealer should make a special effort to learn how to do this, if he does not already know, for there is nothing more important in the building up of a successful Phonograph business. The Dealer who gives this matter proper attention will soon gain a reputation for selling the "clearest and best" machines in town.

Another point of value to Dealers comes from a reader of the Phonogram, who writes as follows:

"I think the Phonogram could do a little missionary work in the way of informing some of the Phonograph Dealers as to the proper way to handle Records. I have observed that many Dealers when they take a Record out of the box grab it as though it was a piece of iron pipe. This almost always destroys the attractiveness of the Record because of the finger marks and I know that others like myself will not buy Records that have been marked by careless handling. I think the only right way to handle Records is to thrust the first and second fingers of the right hand into the till end of the Record and hold it fast by spreading the fingers apart. By handling them in this way Records will look like new for a long time."

BACIGALUPI THE PHOENIX.

Contrary to expectations, we did not receive from Peter Bacigalupi, Edison Jobber at San Francisco, an account of his experiences in the disaster that wiped out his business and cannot print them for the benefit of our readers. Mr. Bacigalupi is probably too busy looking out for the present and planning for the future to pay much attention to the past. We have, however, received from him a copy of an advertisement he has been running in the daily papers of San Francisco. A perusal of this will show that he is optimistic to a degree concerning the future of "Frisco" and himself.

A STRONG COMMENDATION.

The April issue of the English edition of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, published at London, contained an article by F. Proctor, of Murdock, Murdock & Co., Teddington, S. W., which shows that this country is not the only one in which Edison Phonographs and Records are appreciated at their full worth. After telling how he put off handling Edison goods till his competitors outdistanced his firm, Mr. Proctor says:

"Now why do I handle and give preference to Edison goods? I will tell you frankly, honestly, and briefly.

"They are unapproachable for quality and general excellence.

"There is no cylinder machine or record you can handle to-day that equals the Edison. Once you make a customer, he is yours as long as you treat him right. You find the purchasers of the Edison goods are the monied people. You have far less trouble to sell £10 worth of Edison goods than 30/- worth of other makes. You can always rely on the goods giving perfect satisfaction and creating more customers. Discriminating people buy Edison Machines and Records, because they know they get full value for their money. This means much to the honest Dealer.

"The name Edison alone will almost immediately sell the Machine and Records for you. It acts like magic. It is the hall-mark of perfection, and buyers know it. There is no Record as natural, smooth, and musical as the genuine Edison, and none that gives the satisfaction in wear.

"The profit on all Edison goods is sufficient to encourage any Dealer to make a success of them. Buyers of Edison goods know what they want, and will eventually compel Dealers to stock them. Dealers cannot afford to lose money, and cannot push other people's goods on to Edison buyers, for they simply will not have them.

"These are a few of the reasons why I handle genuine Edison goods, and they are convincing proofs of the popular demand for the genuine thing. The best salesmen in existence to-day cannot convince the British public that other talkers and records are just as good as the genuine Edison. Try it if you like, brother Dealer, but I promise you this beforehand; it will be a failure. On the other hand, it will be a pleasure and delight to hand out the Edison goods, which are half sold before you have bought them. What more do you want?"

A WESTERN IDYLE.

Lately Bruce Carpenter's hens would not lay the requisite number of eggs. A near neighbor has a fine flock of hens that seemed to be working overtime in producing eggs. While hanging on the back fence listening to the merry cackle of his neighbor's hens an idea struck the resourceful Bruce. He went to the store and brought out an Edison Phonograph ($5 down and $1 a week, etc.), inserted a blank Record and got a fine imitation of the cackling of the laying hens. He then installed the Phonograph in his own hen house and started it going. The first day the hens were greatly excited. The next day they got down to business and ground out an egg every time the Phonograph cackled. The hens, however, have themselves stopped cackling and when the Phonograph stops the hens stop laying and poor Bruce has to sit in the coop all day long to keep the Phonograph going, and Grinnell Bros. are thinking maybe they will have to get a new Phonograph manager—Saginaw (Mich.) Courrier.

(Mr. Carpenter was formerly connected with the Chicago office of the National Phonograph Co., and is now manager of Grinnell Bros. Phonograph store at Saginaw, Mich.)

GOOD ADVERTISING.

Babson Bros., of Chicago, who are making a feature of selling Edison Phonographs by mail on the instalment plan, recently issued a sheet as large as a page of an ordinary daily newspaper, printed on both sides in small type, with testimonials from people in all parts of the country to whom they have sold Edison Phonographs. There are over 250 of these testimonials and all speak in the highest terms of praise concerning their machines. These sheets are sent to all prospective buyers and they present an argument of tremendous weight.

DEALER'S LETTERS TO PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS.

FROM BROWN & DURHAM, NEW HAVEN, CONN.

Dear Sir:—We have recently received a complete line of Edison Phonographs, and it affords us pleasure to now solicit your trade. We will also have the twenty-four new Records which are published each month as soon as they appear.

We have fitted up the department, which is on the first floor near the front door, with comfortable chairs, and we cordially invite you to call and hear the machines.

If you have not heard the improved Edison you will be surprised and pleased at the clearness of tone and the absence of the metallic sound so noticeable in the earlier machines.

We have decided to offer, some from those on our books to whom we would like to sell an Edison Phonograph, and we offer you an instrument on exceptional terms at the regular cash prices, $10.00, $20.00 and $30.00.

If you are paying on an account we will add the Phonograph to the additional payment of one dollar per month. If you have not an account we will accept three dollars or five dollars as you please for the first payment, and one dollar a week.

If you already own a Phonograph, we hope you will find our store a pleasant and convenient place to buy Records. We carry a full line, and no matter whether you purchase or not, we are sure that you and your family would be delighted with an Edison, and that it would prove a great source of entertainment and education.

FROM C. F. MILLER, FREMONT, O.

Dear Sir:—Your inquiry to the National Phonograph Co. has been referred to me, as I carry the largest line of Edison goods in northwestern Ohio.

I have just received the new Edison Home Edition and have mounted a sample of each for you to hear. In the 1910 catalogue send you can therefore select just what you want. You have no extreme charges to pay. You can see and hear the different styles, something you cannot do if you order from catalogue.

I will collect on your payments if sure to purchase, which will save you trouble, your machine to repair, free of charge, providing you get it from us. The fact that the National Phonograph Co. has referred your inquiry to us should in itself be enough to convince you that we carry the most complete line of Edison goods in this section of the country.

We will all kinds and makes of talking machines but I am pleased to state that the Edison is the most perfect and best machine on the market.

I shall be delighted to have you call at my store and will gladly demonstrate the machine to you. If you will come with me where I can hear the Edison Phonograph is the best machine on the market.

Trade is bellowing; business will mean buying.

Hoping you will call and thanking you for interest shown in the Edison Phonograph, I remain,

P. S.—If you write kindly drop me a line, stamped envelope inclosed, stating the time when you will call, the writer will make it a point to meet you personally and to explain to you the different styles of Edison Phonographs, and play you the latest Records.

FROM THOMAS H. LEONARD, COLTON, CAL.

Dear Sir:—Your name is on my books as a prospective customer for a genuine Edison Phonograph, and, if you know of the real pleasure to be had from one of these instruments, I feel sure you would not be one of the slothful possible ones. You can have more pleasure with an Edison Phonograph than anything else you could buy with that amount of money.

I have been handling Phonographs for fourteen years, and have handled practically everything that is sold now, and I positively say to you none of them, for there is always something new to be had, and for the small sum of 25 cents. The Edison Phonograph seems to be the favorite, and the one I consider the best value for the money. I would be quite a little for me to come up to see you, but if you would like to see me, drop me a line, and I will name a time suitable for yourself, tell your friends I am coming, and perhaps I could get some of them interested also, for I will certainly make things lively if I come up.

Let me hear from you as soon as convenient; you may rest assured I will do my best to please you.

THE DEALERS' CORNER.

The demand for Edison Phonographs and Records continues good, with "Everybody Happy." There is no talking machine equal to the Edison, and ranchmen and others are enjoying it to the fullest extent, and every day we are having inquiries for new Records.—S. L. Smith, San Angelo, Texas.

In two months after we received our first order of Edison Phonographs and Records, we sold nearly $300 worth of Edison goods. Pretty fair for a small town, isn't it? The sales include seven machines, four Homes, two Standards and one Gem, over 250 Records, besides horns, cranes, etc. With the exception of two Standards and outfits, all of the sales have been made for cash. We are rather proud of the business done in two months on an invested capital of only $80. Dealers who have been skeptical about taking hold of Edison goods should hesitate no longer.—Frank H. Reid & Sons, Suffield, Conn.

Although but a beginner in this line of work, I feel very much interested in it and shall push the Edison Goods ahead of anything else. Of their merit I am convinced, and anyone of good sound judgment, after having examined them in comparison with other makes, would do the same.—G. M. Webster, Monterey, N. Y.

We find the Edison the only machine in this territory and can push it to the limit. We are fitting up a parlor for the exclusive use of these goods.—J. L. Field, Pittsfield, Ill.

We wish to report the sale of Edison goods is exceptionally good with us at present, and we hope to be able to build up a still larger business than we are doing now. We began the handling of your goods last July, and have occupied space in the rear of our jewelry store, only 8 x 18 feet, but the past month our sale of these goods run up to almost $2,000.—Taylor Bros, Houston, Texas.

I have been handling the Edison only forty days and in that time have sold more Edison goods than I have of the other machines and Records in the last six months. I was prejudiced against the cylinder machine for some reason, but was finally induced to try them. As soon as I advertised that I had a line of Edison Machines and Records, the people began to come in so fast that I have been unable to keep them supplied. I am now fully convinced that the Edison is the machine to handle.—C. E. Mudge, Caro, Mich.

Your one price policy, and that price a fair price, should make your line an attractive proposition to piano men. Piano manufacturers would do well to study your policy and adopt it.—Roy B. Heizel, Avoca, Iowa.

This is only a small town, about 800 to 1,000 population and we sold as high as $100 worth of Edison goods in a single day, which I think is good for this sized place. We sell only Edison goods.—C. F. Schroeder, Syracuse, Neb.

I am proud to say that my Phonograph business is increasing every day. The past month has been the best yet. The only thing that troubles me, I cannot get half the Records I order, although I order from three different Jobbers. It is the same everywhere. Herbert F. French, Potsdam, N. Y.

I am proud to count myself among your agents and admirers of Edison's great inventions. The more I see of your great machine the Phonograph, the better I like it and the more wonderful it becomes to me. I believe I shall be able to sell quite a few.—S. B. Gjerde, Hobart, Wash.

Since I have put in the stock of Edison goods I have had a very good trade on them. I find that they are as excellent line of goods, the Records being more natural tone, and the machines run more steady than other makes.—Edwin J. Hoover, Kenton, O.

VIRTUES OF THE PRICE AGREEMENT.

New or ill-informed talking machine dealers, and even jobbers are wont to question the utility of the agreement exacted by the manufacturing companies owning basic inventions and process patents; in fact, a large percentage do not thoroughly understand the price agreement. Many look upon it as being somewhat dictatorial or as a scheme of the manufacturer to coerce the dealer into doing something for the sole gain of the former. This feeling has now almost entirely disappeared, and the reputable dealer now sees the price agreement in an entirely different light and knows by practical demonstration that it is an instrument designed primarily for the good of the dealer, and that he is the greater gainer by its protection. As a matter of fact the manufacturer gets comparatively little benefit, except in so far as it prevents the wholesale cutting of prices which ultimately would destroy the reputation of his product that would otherwise be maintained.

Where is there a person who doubts that a manufacturer now selling his wares under price agreement principles could sell more goods (and get just as much for them wholesale) if he should lay aside the price agreement? And who is the real beneficiary under such a scheme? It must necessarily be the one who sells the article to the retail customer and gets the fair profit that the price agreement guarantees. Where there is no price maintaining agreement covering an article it is most often, if not always, sold by the stores at a reduction in price that the dealer cannot meet. History proves that the price agreement has done more good for the legitimate talking machine dealer than anything else that has ever been discovered since price cutting became popular. Of course the benefit derived from such a measure depends largely, if not wholly, on its rigid maintenance, and it is the wide dealer who sticks to the manufacturer whose agreement affords him the greatest protection.—Talking Machine World.

The advertising being done by this company has never been more attractive than at the present time. It is appearing in all the standard magazines, with a combined circulation of many millions. Then, too, the newspaper advertising being done in the most prominent papers in the large cities is having a great influence in creating business for the trade.

A MODEL LETTER TO PROSPECTIVE DEALERS.

The following excellent letter was recently written by the O. K. Houck Piano Co., Memphis, Tenn., to an individual who wanted to become an Edison Dealer:

We are just informed by the National Phonograph Co. that you contemplate putting in a stock of Edison Phonographs, Records and accessories for same.

We shall be glad to arrange with you to put in a stock of Edison goods, and in order to secure the Dealer's discounts on the Edison line it is only necessary to place an initial order for three (3) machines each of a different type, and one hundred and fifty (150) Records. The Edison Standard, Home and Triumph carry a Dealer's discount of 40 per cent. and the Gem 30 per cent. The Edison Records retail at 35 cents each and cost Dealers 21 cents each. Terms: Two per cent. ten days, thirty days net, f. o. b. Memphis.

On initial Dealer's order for Edison goods is as follows:

		Retail.	Cost.	Profit.
1	Gem	$20.00	$7.00	$13.00
1	Standard	38.00	15.00	23.00
1	Home	75.00	45.00	30.00
150	Records at 35c. each	52.50	31.50	21.00
		$185.50	$98.50	$87.00

We have quoted the three cheapest styles, but if you prefer more, at liberty to select any three of the machines listed above. After placing the initial order you will be added to the full discount on all future orders.

We are confident that you will not make a mistake in putting in the Edison line, as you can see by the above illustration, there is a machine to suit every class of trade and purse. There are many accessories, such as brass and flower horns, Record carrying cases, horn stands, cranes, etc., on which there would be a splendid profit for you. You also have the natural advantage of handling a line (records) protected against price cutting, as Edison goods are sold throughout the United States at strictly one price, thus giving protection to the Dealer and insuring him against the loss of that annoying competition in handling goods that cannot be sold under the one price system. The prices of Records are now firmly and well established and are as well known to the public, that you would rarely ever have a customer ask for a reduction on the price of either a machine or Record.

The talking machine business is unquestionably one of the cleanest and most profitable lines a Dealer can take up. The possibilities of the business are practically unlimited. Moreover a stock of these goods has been put in, and there is no reason why a business like yours has been already successful two months seems to be doing. Many Dealers throughout the United States who have put in talking machine as a side line are now devoting their entire attention to the talking machine business, and are making an unqualified success of it. We furnish our Dealers with plenty of advertising matter free of charge.

We are mailing you to-day, under separate cover, a complete set of catalogues of the Edison product, and trust you will think the matter over carefully, and if you decide to take on the agency, we shall be glad to go over with you in detail all matters pertaining to the line, and give you the benefit of our own personal experience in the talking machine business.

We are pleased to advise you further that we have secured a long lease on a building at 160 South Second street, located one block and a half from our Main street establishment, which is devoted exclusively to our wholesale talking machine business. This department is under the immediate management, and we intend to devote our entire attention to give our Dealers the best possible service.

We have in stock at the present time between thirty and forty thousand (30,000 and 40,000) EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS, and intend to keep on hand at all times from twenty-five to fifty thousand (25,000 to 50,000) Edison Records, according to the season of the year.

We merely mention these details so that you may feel assured that we are in a position to fill your orders promptly and complete.

We hope the matter will have your careful consideration, and that you will decide to go into the business, and if we can serve you in any way, also to go over with you all details pertaining to it.

There are many ways in which we can assist you in getting business, and we want you to feel that you have only to write or call on us at any time. If you decide to enter the line, we assure you that we will do everything in our power to assist you in making the business a success.

Trusting to be favored with a reply as early as convenient, we remain.

A DEALER'S RECORD RACK.

D. Roberts, an Edison Dealer at Hastings, Neb., sends the following description of a handy and cheap rack for carrying a stock of Edison Records:

Go to the lumber yard and select the thickest corn-crib strips, and as free from knots as possible. Get them split with a circular saw so that each strip makes two strips which are four inches wide and a half inch thick. Have one side and one edge planed. Before putting together saw across the strips, making grooves 5 6-8 inches apart on both sides of the strip, and be sure to have the grooves exactly opposite each other. An eighth of an inch is deep enough for the grooves. Five and three-quarters inches will accommodate two records. Cut the strips the length you want your rack and use the same stuff for upright or end pieces. Nail these shelves or strips exactly two and three-quarters inches apart. Go to a tinsmith and get him to cut up tin into pieces the right length and width to shove into the grooves that you sawed. Before shoving in these tin partitions, cut the corners off of the ends you shove in, and they will shove into the grooves more readily. Made in this way each box or pigeon-hole holds two records in a horizontal position, which is safer than standing them on end. I got up this kind of a rack as I was hard up and could not afford to hire it done and pay for first class lumber. My rack occupies a little room 12x13 and ten feet high, and I have now on hand 3,000 Edison Records, and have room for more in this rack, for there are 1,600 pigeon-holes in it, each one of which holds two Records, which are numbered by the Numerical Catalogue from 1 to 9,000, and I never allow any one of them to stay empty any length of time. I order Records every week, and it is no trouble to make up an order. With this rack all you have to do is to memorize the number and look the rack over, and where you find a box empty order two Records; but if there is one Record in the box order one only, for that box. This rack cost me about $5, but if I had bought best lumber and hired it done, it would have cost four times that amount. Of course the strips are not as wide quite as the length of the Record boxes or cartons, but that is easily remedied, as one can nail a piece on each end of the rack which will hold it back from the wall a little; so by pushing the Records clear back against the wall, everything is smooth in front.

What is the Difference Between An Edison and an Edison with I. C. S. Equipment?

Do you know the difference between an ordinary Edison Standard Phonograph and an Edison Standard Phonograph with the I. C. S. Language Equipment?

We use the new type Edison Standard, but each machine is equipped with our own patented Repeating Attachment—with a set of head band Hearing Tubes—with a Recorder, Brush and Horn. And the speed screw is above the bed-plate—ease in regulating the speed of the machine is essential, as Language records are run at ninety revolutions per minute. The machine is designed specially for double service—LANGUAGE STUDY AND AMUSEMENT.

Now about the special equipment. It is all necessary in connection with language study, and, if sold separately, would cost $10.00, in addition to the price of the regular Edison Standard Machine. With the hearing tubes, much greater concentration of mind is possible, the ear is trained to sounds of foreign words as they are spoken by natives and, again, none of the sound is lost. There is a sound modifier in the Hearing Tubes, so that the volume of sound can be regulated to suit the listener.

Absolutely correct pronunciation is acquired by repetition. With the I. C. S. Repeating Attachment the same word can be repeated over and over again without touching the speaker arm—simply operate the Repeating Attachment and listen. YOU CAN GUARANTEE ABSOLUTELY CORRECT PRONUNCIATION.

I.C.S. LANGUAGE SYSTEM WITH Thomas A. Edison PHONOGRAPH

To learn to speak a foreign language, it is necessary to talk, therefore, to the Recorder—make records—hear yourself talk—compare your pronunciation with the pronunciation on the instruction records. This is a strong talking point in selling Language Outfits.

Two blanks are furnished with each Outfit, so that the party making the purchase has everything ready to start with his studies. The I. C. S. Language Outfit is complete and you will never have a dissatisfied purchaser.

NO LET-UP IN MANUFACTURING.

Judging by the reports from the trade in general, and also in measure by the somewhat smaller number of imperative orders for goods, we are aware that the more quiet months of summer are at hand, and that the demands of the trade are going to be less for a few weeks than they have been for the past ten months. This is the natural order of things. When so many persons are bent on summer pleasures and vacations, it is not to be expected that as many of them will want Phonographs or any other device for indoor amusement. Consequently the volume of sales is smaller in summer than at any other time of the year. This decrease is not without its benefits from a manufacturing standpoint. If the demand of months past was to continue unchanged right through the summer it would mean a shortage of machines and Records next fall compared to which the past shortage would be a trifle.

The present demand for Phonographs does not equal the number being made every week, and we are able, therefore, to begin accumulating a surplus stock that we hope will aid in relieving the great demand that will come in the fall. Our factories are being pushed to the limit just as they have been for a long time and the output of machines is as large as when the trade was clamoring for them. The difference between present orders and the weekly output is not large, but it will help some a little later.

Record orders also show a lower tendency, but we are still so far behind on current orders, and the orders for new Records are so heavy that we hardly expect to any more than break even by the time the fall rush comes. This does not matter so much. We shall have Record facilities by that time that will, we believe, meet any demand. Even allowing for an increase of a third more business than the phenomenal demand of last fall and winter, we shall still have ample facilities to meet it.

NEW EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS. ADVANCE LIST FOR SEPTEMBER, 1906.

THE JOBBERS' ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment to be given to Edison Jobbers of the United States and Canada by the National Phonograph Company at New York and Orange on July 17th to 20th, will be unique in the history of the talking machine industry. Few events of similar kind and equal magnitude have ever been given by a manufacturing concern. This entertainment is given for a two-fold purpose: to afford an opportunity for Edison Jobbers to come together for their mutual advantage, and to commemorate the greatest year's business of the National Phonograph Company. The matter of bringing our Jobbers together has been under consideration for more than a year, but it did not take concrete form till the close of the fiscal year on February 28th showed the phenomenal increase that had been made in the business of this company. This was so largely due to the splendid and enthusiastic coöperation of the Edison Jobbers that the coming event became necessary as a means for working off our feeling of good-will.

It is hoped to have representatives present from every Jobbing firm in the country and, as many firms will send more than one, it is expected that about 200 Jobbers will take part. A number of export houses will also be represented. The general management of the affair is in the hands of F. K. Dolbeer, manager of the Credit Department, and he will have the assistance of every official and important employe who can be spared from his duties while the entertainment is in progress. All of the salesmen will also be on hand. J. R. Schermerhorn, Assistant General Manager, who is now in charge of the London and European offices, has returned home to take part in the entertainment.

As has already been announced, the headquarters for our visitors will be the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Fifth avenue and 34th street, New York City. From the time the visitors arrive on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 17th, until they leave on the morning of Saturday, July 21st, they will be the guests of this company. Upon their arrival they will be met by Mr. Dolbeer and a number of his assistants. They will be required to register in the company's own registry book as well as on the hotel register. The Reception Committee will supply them with tickets and such data as may be essential for their comfort while in the city. They will be assigned rooms as rapidly as possible and nothing left undone that will add to their pleasure. Special rooms will be provided where Jobbers may conduct their correspondence with the aid of Edison Business Phonographs and a corps of stenographers. The afternoon and evening of July 17th will, therefore, be taken up in seeing that the arriving guests are comfortably housed.

The formal entertainment will really begin on the morning of July 18th, when the guests will leave the hotel at 9.30 o'clock and be taken in automobiles to the 23rd street ferry of the Erie Railroad. On the Jersey City side of the ferry a special train will be in waiting to carry the party to the Edison laboratory and factories at Orange. Here the party will be met by another section of the Reception Committee and under the escort of men familiar with the factory, a tour of inspection will be made of the laboratory and the various factory buildings. Work on our new office building is being hurried with the idea of serving luncheon to the party on the third floor. It is expected that Mr. Edison and Mr. Gilmore will assist in receiving the visitors at Orange. The party will return in the special train about 4 o'clock, arriving at the hotel in time for dinner. In the evening a visit will be paid to one of the leading theatrical attractions in the city.

The second day's programme will consist of seeing New York by water and paying a visit to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Automobiles will leave the hotel at 9.30 o'clock for the foot of East 21st street, where the Iron Steamboat Cepheus, which has been chartered for the occasion, will be in waiting. Leaving the pier at 10 o'clock the party will be taken up the East River to and around Blackwell's Island; then back and down the East River, through the Narrows to New York Bay, passing many points of interest. At a point opposite Coney Island the boat will turn and sail up the Hudson River to West Point. There the party will spend some time in inspecting the Academy. The daily dress parade will take place about 6.30 o'clock and the guests will be given an opportunity of seeing it. The boat will then return to the city, reaching its destination about 9 o'clock. Luncheon, dinner and other refreshments will be served on the boat and suitable music will be provided by the Edison Concert Band.

It is expected that this boat trip will furnish a splendid opportunity for the entire Edison trade to become better acquainted than would be possible under any other circumstances. The entire day will be informal.

The principal features of the third day will be seeing New York by land in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening. The sight seeing trip will be made in automobiles and the route will cover the most interesting points in New York City, including Fifth avenue, Central Park, Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive, etc. The automobiles will leave the hotel at 2 o'clock and will return in ample time for the evening's banquet. This will be held in the Astor Gallery of the hotel at 7 o'clock. Mr. Edison and Mr. Gilmore will be present. A musical programme will be rendered by the Edison Symphony Orchestra during the banquet, and later a short entertainment will be given by well-known Edison artists.

The more detailed arrangements that Mr. Dolbeer has made for the comfort of our guests seems to leave no question that the affair will be notable and well worth the time that it will take many Jobbers to participate, especially those who come from the far West and South. Many Jobbers will attend a considerable sacrifice of time and personal interest, but we feel sure they will never regret coming. Aside from the opportunity that it gives us to express our good-will toward Jobbers, it cannot fail to be of benefit to the latter from a purely business standpoint.

THINK IT OVER IN JULY.

It is, of course, too early for Jobbers or Dealers to take active measures toward stocking up for the fall and winter. They have only just reached a breathing spell after months of strenuous business endeavor and must naturally rest a little before beginning again. It is not too early, however, to think of the coming season. The month of July can safely be taken to review the past and plan, in a preliminary way at least, for the future. We doubt if a longer time can be taken, for every indication now points to an unusually early beginning of the fall campaign. A number of large Jobbers have already signified their intention of ordering early and in much larger quantities than ever before. They have declared their determination not to be caught "without the goods" as they were last fall, although they then thought they had builded big.

It behooves every progressive Jobber and Dealer to look over the events of the past ten months and set down: 1. The number of Edison Phonographs and Records that he sold. 2. The approximate additional number he might have sold had he had the stock. 3. Wherein he failed to provide in advance for an adequate supply of goods. If he learns the lesson that this exhibit places before him he will in the coming twelve months do the greatest Edison business in his career.

If he is a Jobber he will place his fall orders earlier than usual and for a larger number of machines than ever, determining the number by his review of the past, and arranging for monthly shipments to cover all contingencies. Early orders may seem to give him more machines than he wants, but he should bear in mind that the interest on the cost of a considerable number of machines is small, and it is much better to make the outlay and have the goods ahead of time than not to be prepared when they are wanted. The shrewd Jobber will also decide in advance if his method of ordering Records is the best that can be found. Some Jobbers do not have a good system for keeping track of their Record sales and rely almost entirely upon their racks or bins to tell them when to order a new lot. It is possible to keep a set of cards or books that will tell at a glance how each Record sells, the stock on hand and when to order without the head of the firm ever seeing the racks or bins. There is an art in keeping up a Jobber's stock of Records, and any Jobber who doesn't know how should plan it out this or next month.

Edison Dealers may also learn useful lessons from their exhibit. Theirs is not so large or so complex a task as the Jobber's, but it none the less requires careful consideration and is quite as likely to produce results when so considered. The arguments as to ordering early and planning for improvements apply quite as much to the Dealer as the Jobber. He should not later than next month give his Jobber a stock order, requiring him to deliver so many machines each month for the remainder of the year. The sales of the past will tell how many it is safe to order, allowing for an increase that seems certain to come.

Summed up, our advice is: Plan in July and act in August.

EXIT CHICAGO OFFICE.

The closing of our Chicago office on May 31st was accomplished without much trouble or inconvenience to any of the Dealers buying through that office. Dealers who had before bought only from our Chicago branch, have since signed with Jobbers clore to their cities or towns and are getting goods in a satisfactory manner. F. K. Dolbeer, credit manager, spent several days in Chicago right after June 1st, and accompanied each statement with a specially dictated letter, pointing out the new conditions and stating that accounts due would be payable direct to Orange. He also arranged to have the Jobbers in Chicago take nearly all of the stock carried by our branch office. The remainder was returned to Orange. The closing of this branch office has met the hearty approval of all Western Jobbers, and we look for a largely increased business from this territory because of it. Dealers who have been buying through our branch office are again reminded that all matters pertaining to such business should be addressed to the company at 31 Union Square, New York. Supplies of printed matter must come from their new Jobbers.

WE BUY A NEW YORK OFFICE.

The four-story brown-stone residence building at the north corner of Fifth avenue and 8th street, New York City, has just been purchased by the National Phonograph Company, which will occupy it as its New York headquarters in the near future. The house was recently the New York home of C. H. McCormick, of Chicago, the present American Ambassador to France. It is a beautiful old brown stone mansion, with solid mahogany doors and stairways. The company obtained possession July 1st, and plans are now being made for remodelling the interior to fit its needs. All of the departments now quartered at 31 Union Square will be accommodated at the new location. In addition the Foreign Department will use the basement for repacking and reshipping for export. This is now being done at 251 West Broadway. It is probable that the building will not be occupied till the close of the year. Until then the present offices at 31 Union Square will be retained.

NEW PLAN NOW ON TRIAL.

In accordance with the new plan for shipping, the July Records were placed on sale by Jobbers and reshipped to Dealers on June 27th, this date being the same throughout the entire country. So far as we now know, the Records reached every Jobber in time to permit him to repack them and have them all ready for shipment to Dealers on June 27th. This work was done without the hustle and bustle incident to the former plan. The success of the new method depends entirely upon the trade. If all Jobbers and Dealers give it the co-operation they should it cannot fail to benefit every one.

PRINTED MATTER.

We are mailing a copy of a new Record Catalogue, Form 940. This succeeds No. 840 and contains all Records listed to and including July. The selections cut out in the May issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY have been eliminated from this catalogue. A number of selections have been made over by new talent and appear in this catalogue for the first time. Other selections have been made over by the same talent and, although they are much better Records than before, the catalogue shows no change in the title or talent. Orders for Record Catalogues after this date will be filled with the new issue, but it will not be possible to furnish large quantities to any one Jobber. With nearly 150 Jobbers wanting the new edition, it will be necessary in a measure to limit the shipments of each. This is because of the difficulty in getting catalogues fast enough. Even an average of 2,000 to a Jobber makes 300,000 catalogues, a quantity not easy to produce in a short time.

Copies of a new edition of the Numerical Catalogue, Form No. 930, is being mailed with this issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. It includes all Records to July and those cut out in the May issue of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY have been dropped. Copy of this catalogue is being mailed to every Dealer, who is expected to reserve it for store use. It cannot be supplied in quantities for retail distribution, being intended only for trade purposes. Jobbers will save correspondence by not ordering in quantities.

Because of a slight error in the new Discount Sheet, dated May 1st, a second copy is being mailed to the entire trade. In the first sheet the discount on accessories was given at 25% when it should have been 25⅝%.

With the June issue the New Phonogram completed its second year. From an edition of 90,000 two years ago, this little publication has increased to 210,000 each month and is to-day regarded as one of the most useful forms we have for increasing business. When it is stated that, with the exception of less than 10,000 copies used for our own mailing, this edition is paid for by the trade, it will be realized that the form must be a useful one in getting Edison business. It seems quite probable that the edition of the Phonogram will reach a half million copies within the next year.

"THE PHONOGRAPH"

Shipping instructions have been forwarded to the firm in Chicago who are making frames for the Massani picture, "The Phonograph," and it is now too late to make any changes in these instructions so as to include Dealers' orders sent in by Jobbers since June 10th. After shipment has been made from Chicago, an effort will be made to fill these late orders from Orange. If possible, framed copies will be supplied. Otherwise, we will take the liberty of mailing an unframed copy. Jobbers may continue to send in orders from Dealers and they will be given such attention as circumstances will permit. We really regret that all Dealers did not embrace this opportunity to get a framed copy of this picture, for it frames up in a most attractive manner and will be an interesting feature in the store of every Dealer who will have one.

GRAND OPERA RECORDS.

Dealers who have not given their Jobbers an order for at least one each of the ten Grand Opera Records in Supplement No. 3 should lose no time in doing so. They should, by all means, have at least one of these and the Grand Opera selections previously listed, on hand for the possible demands of their trade. No Dealer can tell at what moment he will be asked for one or more of these selections and not to have them may mean a loss of business that in profit would pay the cost of one each of the entire thirty selections. To carry one represents too small an outlay of money to consider. Dealers who get their greatest business from selling the most popular selections should bear in mind that all do not prefer operatic selections, but that here and there he will find individuals who want the better class of music. The announcement sent to the trade this month gives the titles of the entire thirty, and we trust that Dealers will give the matter of carrying at least one of them the attention it deserves.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

During the past month interesting meetings have been held by the Eastern Talking Machine Jobbers Association and the Central States Talking Machine Jobbers Association. Matters of much importance to the trade in general have been discussed. Owing to the space that would be required to refer to these matters in an adequate way, and the further fact that many of them refer to other companies, it will not be possible to give much space in these columns to the doings of these associations. The meetings are being fully reported by the talking machine and music trade publications, and the general trade who desire to know more about them can get the information from these publications. The function of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY is not to provide information of a general character about the talking machine industry, but simply to exploit the Edison end of it and furnish information for our own trade. As a company, however, we are greatly interested in the organization and progress of these associations and believe that they will be of great benefit to the entire industry if conducted on broad lines. We shall do all that we can to further their growth and will co-operate with them as much as possible.

The Vim Co., Edison Jobbers at Des Moines, Iowa, have moved from 704 West Walnut street to 808 West Walnut street.

NO AGENTS OR TERRITORIAL RIGHTS.

It is becoming quite common for Dealers to designate themselves as Edison Phonograph Agents and generally making use of the word agent in a way to create the belief that they are the direct agents of the National Company. Whenever this has come to our attention, we have requested the Dealer to discontinue such designation; but the cases which come to our attention are probably few compared to the many numbers of Dealers we have, and we fear that a considerable percentage of them make use of that designation.

We want it clearly understood that we employ no agents and grant no territorial rights. Dealers who are designating themselves as agents must discontinue the practice at once. We would also call attention to the last clause of our Dealers' agreement, which reads as follows:

"I also understand that this agreement gives me no exclusive right whatsoever either as to agency or territory."

Anyone continuing the practice of designating himself as agent, violates the agreement and makes himself liable to suspension from the advantages and privileges of our Dealer's agreement.

DEATH OF A. T. E. WANGEMANN.

A. Theodore E. Wangemann, who for many years had been connected with Mr. Edison in experimental work on the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records, was killed while attempting to board a moving train at Bath Beach, Long Island, on June 2d. Mr. Wangemann was born at Berlin, Germany, February 13th, 1865. He had lived in this country many years. He entered Mr. Edison's employ in the early days of the Phonograph and had been identified with nearly every phase of its later evolution. He was connected with the Edison laboratory at the time of his death. He was a skilled pianist, a fine musician and possessed an excellent musical education. He was a member of the committee of Edison officials who meet twice each month to pass upon Records before they are formally listed and his musical ability made him a useful member. He is survived by a wife. He was a member of the Pleiades Club, of New York city, which had charge of his funeral in Brooklyn on June 5th. In accordance with his own wishes his body was cremated at Fresh Pond, Long Island, on June 6th.

FOREIGN SELECTIONS CUT OUT.

We have no more moulds of the foreign selections named below and, when our present stock of these Records is exhausted, we will be unable to fill orders for them:

10321—Der Vogelwald (Intermezzo (German) Gutheil
10322—Girl Wanted There (Ilettish) MacKay

CHANGE IN CONCERT EQUIPMENT.

Hereafter all Edison Concert Phonographs and all other machines on which a twenty-four-inch horn, or larger, is used will be equipped with a new horn crane, the bracket of which will be fastened to the rear of the cabinet. This crane will take the place of the horn stand, now shown as part of the concert equipment in our machine catalogue. This change will be shown in the next edition of the machine catalogue.

PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS IN A WRECK.

A consignment of 400 Edison Phonographs and 30,000 Edison Records, shipped to our Sydney office, was lost on the steamer Oakburn, from New York, which was wrecked near Cape Town on May 21st. The loss was covered by insurance. As soon as our Foreign Department learned of the loss it duplicated the shipment.

AUSTRALIAN BUSINESS GROWING.

A total of 1746 cases of Edison Phonographs and Records were shipped to our Sydney branch in May. This is excellent evidence of the growth of the Edison business in Australia.

A GOOD LETTER.

Following is a letter being sent by the Reading Phonograph Co., of Reading, Pa., to prospective Dealers:

MR. DEALER:—

INCREASE YOU BANK ACCOUNT.

Do you know that Edison machines stand first, " " " records are forever, and " " " dealers are favorited by
" " " goods according to the

Have the complete catalogue of Edison records on your shelves, keep your stock well arranged, have an effective window display, change the display at least once a week, or even better—once a day. Keep posted, acquaint yourself with the records, suggestive talk, a word there, will very often sell a record when least expected.

GET IN LINE.

June 15, 1902, we started a dealer in a near-by-town of 25K population. His first investment was $100.00, two weeks later, feeling that his venture would be a success, he invested another $100.00. In six weeks he had the complete catalogue on his shelves. To August 15, 1902, his investment in Edison goods was $1,000.00, Edison goods of one-half Edison. From August 1, 1902 to January 1, 1903 his success was greater than ever. Keep up you stock—advertise the fact and you are sure to get the business.

The PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY is a great source of knowledge to the Dealers, and I always read it from beginning to end. We have been selling the Edison Phonographs and Records for two months now, and we are very enthusiastic over our steadily increasing business. The company's new plan as to the time new Records are to be placed on sale ought to meet with the approval of every Edison Dealer all over the country, as it gives each one an equal chance, and your strict enforcement of the rules laid down in contracts with Dealers is a good thing. We have now over 600 selections in Edison Records, and before winter we hope to have all the Records made so that we may have a complete line of them.—Henry L. D'Entremont, Peabody, Mass.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING AT ORANGE.

The new concrete office building of the Edison companies at Orange, shown above, is rapidly nearing completion. The time department has already taken possession of its quarters on the ground floor. The departments that are to occupy the first and second floors expect to move in before August 1st. The third and fourth floors will be occupied later.

This building is practically five stories high, for the basement floor is almost entirely out of ground. It is 137 feet along on Lakewood avenue and 50 feet deep. A hallway runs the full length of the structure on each floor, with offices on either side. The building will have a complete elevator service and every modern equipment for business. It is built entirely of re-enforced concrete, and is absolutely fire-proof.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN SEPTEMBER LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our September list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers:

9339 "The Bull-Frog and the Coon," Leo Feist, New York.
9240 "Waltz Me Around Again Willie," F. A. Mills, New York.
9242 "In There Any Room in Heaven for a Little Girl Like Me?" Hall and Hagen, New York.
9243 "I'm Crazy 'Bout It," Shepard N. Edmonds Music Co., New York.
9244 "Where the River Shannon Flows," M. Witmark & Sons, New York.
9245 "Manhattan Beach March." The John Church Co., New York.
9246 "Give My Love to Dixie," Walter Jacobs, Boston, Mass.
9247 "I'd Rather be Outside a-Lookin' In Than on the Inside a-Lookin' Out," F. A. Mills, New York.
9248 "Spoonime," The York Music Co., New York.
9250 "Good-by, U. S. A." F. B. Haviland Pub. Co., New York.
9251 "Jubilee Overture," Standard Music Co., New York.
9252 "The Umpire is a Most Unhappy Man," Chas. K. Harris, New York.
9254 "Old Heidelberg," F. A. Mills, New York.
9255 "When Love is Young," M. Witmark & Sons, New York.
9256 "Shall We Meet Beyond the River," Hymn Book Publishers.
9257 "I Don't Know Where I'm Going, But I'm on My Way," Jos. W. Stern & Co., New York.
9258 "Kiss of Spring Waltz," Walter Jacobs, Boston, Mass.
9260 "One Called Mother and the Other, Home, Sweet Home," F. B. Haviland Pub. Co., New York.

A MISTAKE SOME DEALERS MAKE.

Indications would tend to show that not more than half of the Edison Dealers of the country reach the pages of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY and look over the literature mailed them by this company once or more each month. This is a serious mistake on their part and one that is undoubtedly causing them losses in money and business all the time. Everything we send out to the trade contains information or instruction of unquestioned interest and value to all, and it should be read by every Dealer. It is fair to assume that every individual or firm that has invested enough money in Edison goods to become a Dealer, did so with the idea of making money on the line. He cannot, therefore, be too well informed on the business and cannot afford to slight any opportunity to gain information or ideas that will enable him to become successful. Most of the matter in the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY is dry reading and much of the literature dull from a fiction standpoint, but a careful reading or inspection of every bit of it will pay. Try it, Mr. Dealer, and apply what you learn.

F. K. Dolbeer, Credit Manager of the Edison companies, attended the national convention of Credit Men's Associations at Baltimore, June 12th to 19th, as a delegate from the New York association.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR SEPTEMBER.

Edison Gold Moulded Records have reached such a high standard for excellence that it is difficult to believe that a new month's list can be better than its predecessor, and yet so carefully do our recording experts carry on their work that there is an improvement each month. This fact is recognized at the Edison factories, although the difference from month to month may not be noticed by the public. Edison Records do not stand still. When to high quality is added excellent variety and attractiveness you have a monthly list that cannot fail to suit all Phonograph owners. Such is the Edison list for September—the opening of the fall season.

No. 9338. "Ride of the Valkyries," by the Edison Concert Band, is a selection from Wagner's music drama, "The Valkyrie," that has been made in response to numerous requests from lovers of high-class music. We feel sure that it will meet the approval of all admirers of music of this character, and it will also find favor among those not ordinarily interested in classical music. This selection is very difficult to perform by a band or orchestra, and it is much more difficult than most music to make a Record of. We feel especially proud of the success achieved by our Recording Department, for we doubt if a better piece of recording has ever been done by this or any other company. The clarinet work is especially brilliant.

No. 9339. "The Bull-Frog and the Coon," is a new coon song by Ada Jones. A coon went wooing his Susan, on a night when the moon looked on with envy, and the stars seemed rather friendly. As they wandered by a brook they saw two frogs a-wooing. The chorus cutely sings of the love-making of the frogs. The song has a charming air, and it goes without saying that Miss Jones has given the song a splendid rendition. A feature is the natural frog imitation in the chorus. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment. The music of this song was written by Jos. S. Nathan and the words by Felix F. Feist.

No. 9340. "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," by Billy Murray, was written by Ben Shields (music), and Will D. Cobb (words). Willie was a dry goods clerk, and was required to be on his feet the live long day. He grew spoony on Madeline Mooney, who would rather dance than eat. Madeline tugged him to a dance hall every night, and despite his protests she would grab tired Willie, steer him to the floor and sing, "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie; Round, Round, Round." Mr. Murray makes the Record with his usual clear enunciation. He has the assistance of the orchestra.

No. 9341. "American Cake Walk," by John Kimmble, is an accordion solo, with piano accompaniment, and is the first Record of the kind that we have ever listed. Mr. Kimmble is an especially fine player on this instrument, probably one of the best in the country, and he has chosen for his initial selection a non-published composition by Edward De Veau, that is well adapted to this popular musical instrument.

No. 9342. "Is There Any Room in Heaven for a Little Girl Like Me?" by Harry Anthony, tells a pathetic story about a little girl whose mother was too taken up with social calls and whose father was too worried with business cares to give her any attention. Their daily injunction to "run along, you're in the way," causes the child to sing, "Is There Any Room in Heaven for a Little Girl Like Me?" Mr. Anthony's splendid voice clearly brings out the meaning of the song. The music of this composition was written by J. Fred Helf and the words by C. M. Denison.

No. 9343. "I'm Crazy 'Bout It," is by Collins and Harlan. If Shepherd N. Edmonds, who wrote the music and words of this song, had written it especially for these two favorite Edison singers he could not have produced a selection better adapted to their attractive method of singing coon songs. Unlike the usual run of coon songs, this one is sung by a lady coon, who tells how she is crazy about her man. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9344. "Where the River Shannon Flows," by Harry MacDonough, is a very attractive Irish ballad that tells in tender words and sweet music of the attractions of a pretty spot in Ireland where the river Shannon flows and where lives the singer's little Irish rose. Mr. MacDonough, with the assistance of the orchestra, sings this selection in a manner that will make it one of the most popular numbers on the September list. The words and music are by James I. Russell. The music is similar in character to Harrigan's well-known song, "Where Poverty Years Ebb and Flow."

No. 9345. "Manhattan Beach March," by the Edison Military Band, is a popular march by Sousa, that was listed when our Records were made by the wax process, but it was not made over by the Gold Moulded process. Many Phonograph enthusiasts have told us it was a mistake not to do so and have repeatedly requested that it be re-listed. We now take pleasure in doing so. Many regard "Manhattan Beach March" as better than any of Sousa's recent compositions. The manner in which our Military Band renders the selection for our Record is quite a departure, being played "in Sousa," with all the lights and shades characteristic of the "March King."

No. 9346. "Give My Love to Dixie," by Irving Gillette, is a descriptive tenor ballad, with march refrain, by Lester W. Keith (music) and John Kemble (words). As the title indicates, it is the song of a Southerner longing for a glimpse of his Dixie home. Like all Dixie songs, it cannot fail to be popular. Mr. Gillette has been most successful in his rendition of songs of this character. The orchestra accompaniment is attractive.

No. 9347. "I'd Rather Be Outside a-Lookin' In Than On the Inside a-Lookin' Out," by Bob Roberts, is a coon song that should find a wide sale if for no other reason than to find out how the song writers can produce an attractive selection with such a title. Mr. Roberts renders effective assistance in making a good Record of the selection by making every word unmistakably clear. The music of this song was written by Edward Rose, the words by Ted Snyder, and the Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9348. "Spoontime," by Albert Benzler, is a xylophone solo, with orchestra accompaniment, of a very catchy composition now quite the go throughout the country. Albert Von Tilzer, who wrote it, is a brother of Harry Von Tilzer, and he has contributed a number of successes to our catalogue. "Spoontime" is written in march tempo.

No. 9349. "Two Jolly Irishmen," by Len Spencer and Steve Porter, is another Irish vaudeville sketch. These sketches have become features of our supplements whenever they appear. Their contribution this month presents a witty dialogue between two Irishmen, and closes with a laughing chorus that will become infectious whenever the Record is played.

No. 9350. "Good Old U. S. A.," is a song by Byron G. Harlan, in which a lad asks his father what causes the crowd to cheer. The father replies that it is because the band plays "My Country 'Tis of Thee." He tells the lad that "no matter where he wanders, no matter where he roams, he will not have to stop and ponder for a place to call his home." When asked where he was born, he must be proud to say that his home is the land of Uncle Sam. "The Good Old U. S. A." Theodore Morse wrote the music of this composition and Jack Drislane the words. They also produced "Keep on the Sunny Side," (our Record No. 9272).

No. 9351. "Jubilee Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a remarkably fine and clean-cut rendition of this composition by Chr. Bach. Bound to please admirers of orchestra music.

No. 9352. "The Umpire is a Most Unhappy Man," is a laughable topical song by Edward M. Favor. The baseball public will so universally agree with the title of this song that it seems hardly necessary to attempt to describe it. In the language of Hough and Adams, who wrote the words, "the umpire is a cross between a bullfrog and a goat; he has a mouth that is flannel-lined, with brass tubes in his throat"; "work like his is merely play, he don't even have to ask for all the things that come his way." Jos. E. Howard wrote the music of this song, which is one of the most popular numbers in the musical comedy, "The Umpire."

No. 9353. "I Surrender All," by the Edison Mixed Quartette, is a most attractive sacred selection by W. S. Weeden (music), and J. H. Van De Venter (words). Two stanzas are given. The contralto and tenor sing a duet, the quartette coming in on the refrain. It is not surprising that this selection has been much called for, it being one of unusual attractiveness.

No. 9354. "Old Heidelberg," by the Edison Concert Band, is a characteristic march, introducing xylophone, bells and male chorus, the whole comprising a novel effect never before attempted on a Record. Kerry Mills, who has written a number of other successful compositions in our catalogue, is the writer of "Old Heidelberg."

No. 9355. "When Love is Young," by Frank C. Stanley, is a song with which Harry Woodruff made such a success in "Brown of Harvard." It is already widely popular and fully deserves its popularity. It has a catchy air and Mr. Stanley's fine baritone voice makes a splendid Record of it. He is accompanied by the orchestra. The music of this song was written by M. Melville Ellis and the words by Rida Johnson Young.

No. 9356. "Shall We Meet Beyond the River," by Anthony and Harrison, is a hymn by Elliott S. Rice and Horace L. Hastings, and it is too well known throughout the Christian world to need comment. Messrs. Anthony and Harrison have made the Record up to their usual high standard of excellence. They have the assistance of the orchestra.

No. 9357. "I Don't Know Where I'm Goin', But I'm On My Way," by Arthur Collins, tells how Sam Jackson led a quiet married life until he became unruly. His wife then took him in hand and said that they must separate, making some remarks by ways of explanation, which caused Sam to sing, "I Don't Know Where I'm Goin', But I'm On My Way." Mr. Collins not only sings in good coon style, but he enlivens the Record with a funny talk between the choruses. Joe Bren wrote both the words and music of this song.

No. 9358. "Kiss of Spring Waltz," is a whistling solo by Joe Belmont. It is an excellent addition to his Records already listed in our catalogue. The orchestral accompaniment is quite as attractive a feature of the Record as Mr. Belmont's clever whistling. This composition is the work of Walter Rolfe.

No. 9359. "Peaches and Cream," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch, with orchestral incidental effects, introducing the new waltz song "Peaches and Cream." The scene of the sketch is laid in the Bowery and the dialogue is distinctly of the Bowery. It gives a very hearable talk by Chimmy and his "gal" Maggie, and the song "Peaches and Cream" by the two is as though built for it. These vaudeville sketches are arranged by Mr. Spencer, and the Phonograph public will agree with us that he has made a great success with them.

No. 9360. "One Called Mother and the Other Home, Sweet Home," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a descriptive ballad, the music of which was written by Theodore Morse and the words by William Cahill. It is artistically sung with orchestra accompaniment by our famous quartette. The singer tells of his two best friends, his mother and his home. The words are set to an attractive bit of music and combined they make a most desirable Record.

No. 9361. "Afloat on a Five Dollar Note Medley," by the Edison Military Band, is a medley of waltz songs and introduces the following popular airs: "Afloat on a Five Dollar Note" (our Record No. 9316), "I Like Your Way" (our Record No. 9298), "After They Gather the Hay" (our Record No. 9318) and "I'm Up in the Air About Mary" (our Record No. 9329).

MR. BACIGALUPI'S OWN STORY.

[On the day after the June PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY went to press we received from Peter Bacigalupi, Edison Jobber at San Francisco, the interesting story of his experiences and losses in the great disaster in his city in April. Although somewhat delayed in its publication, we feel sure that the entire Phonograph trade will be interested in it.]

On the morning of the 18th of April I was awakened very rudely from a sound slumber by a terrific trembling, which acted in the same manner as would a bucking broncho. I sat up in bed with a start. My bed was going up and down in all four directions at once, while all about me I heard screams, wails, and crashing of breaking china-ware and nick-nacks. I was very quietly watching the clock on the mantel, which was doing a fancy stunt, while the ornaments in the parlor could be heard crashing to the floor. A great portion of the plaster right over the head of my bed fell all around me, and caused a cloud of dust, which was very hard to breathe through.

I did not get up until the quake was over, then dressed in a hurry, with the thought in my mind that there must have been a great deal of damage done down town. I managed to get a cup of coffee with the gas that remained in the pipes, which was very slow work, indeed. After this I rushed to the street, and looked all round for a car, but there were no cars running that morning.

I started to walk down town, and arriving within about eight blocks of the business section, noticed that there were hardly any panes of glass left in any of the show windows. When I got still further down I began to see still further vagaries of this sleeping giant, which had so disturbed us. Buildings were tumbled over on their sides, others looked as though they had been cut off short with a cleaver, the whole front having fallen through the sidewalk into the basement.

On seeing this my first thought was of the condition of the Records in my store. I hurried as much as possible, but did not make much headway, owing to the fact that the majority of the people were hurrying in the opposite direction to which I was going. They were taking to the hills. Some were dragging trunks; others carrying valises on their shoulders. I saw more talking machines in that one day than I believe I will ever see all together again at one time. It seems that the first thought of the owners of these machines was to save them first in preference to anything else.

There were also a great many comical sights, such as women carrying ironing boards and an iron. One woman carried a parrot's cage in one hand, while in the other was a bundle of clothes, hurriedly gathered together. I noticed that the bottom of the cage was gone, having doubtlessly dropped out on the way, without being missed. It is needless to say anything further regarding this, as the papers were full of it, and they have been read by all.

On reaching 7th street, I noticed that Mission street, one block from Market, the street on which I was walking, was in flames. I again hurried on, and reaching 6th street, still saw a massive wall of flame eating up that section of the town. Seeing this I broke into a run, and continued running over bricks on the sidewalk, and dodging automobiles, which were doing ambulance duty, until I reached my store on 4th and Mission streets.

Immediately across the street from my store was a brand new building, lately finished, and which had never been occupied, six stories in height. This was one sheet of flames, bearing down on my side of the street. I ran down to my store, trying to unfasten the door, but the lock was so hot that in trying to unfasten same I scorched my fingers. I worked for what seemed to be an hour, but which in reality must have been from twenty to thirty seconds. Some of my men who had gotten there before me motioned to the show window. Then I noticed that the plate glass was in splinters on the sidewalk. I climbed through this into the store.

We immediately started to work moving such machines as we had in front of the store towards the back to get them away from the heat of the fire, thinking that perhaps our place might be saved. Later we packed our books in a large basket, such as those used in a dry-goods store, taking them to the back of the store, awaiting the arrival of our express wagon, which we expected every minute. When all of this was ready, I took a trip through the whole store for one last look. You can imagine my feelings on going to the second floor where my Phonograph salesroom was located, and seeing everything intact—even its shelf in perfect order; just as though there had been no earthquake at all. This was the greatest wonder to me of all—for those Pianos had been thrown down on their faces, and Records, which stood by the thousands on our shelves, had not been moved.

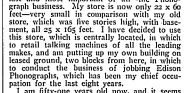
After locking all doors securely to keep out the drought, I went to the third floor, which we had just had plastered and fixed up as a show-room for musical instruments. I was all alone in this trip, and feeling the great heat that came from the front of the store, moved three or four pianos the whole length of the store. I then locked this floor, and went through the fourth and fifth floors in the same manner, locking the doors and windows securely, and then up to the roof. As soon as I got there I saw how hopeless was my chance of saving our building from the fire, which was then burning in front. It was consuming a building on either side of us, and as I stood there I saw the flames break through the roof, and attack our walls. When I looked around to go down the fire escape at the back of the building, I saw that the fire was also coming on the opposite side of the alley, on which the back entrance of our store faced. The fire was consuming a row of frame buildings, which had stood for years and years, and were now burning like so much paper. The fire was then so hot that I decided it was better for us to get away.

The basket containing our books and papers we shouldered from Mission street to Penny Arcade, which was on Market street, and which we did not think for a moment was in any danger of fire. Aside from this all we saved was a small hand basket, also containing books. We placed implicit reliance upon a large safe that we had in our office, and which contained all of our valuable books and papers, and they were left just as they were. On Market street automobiles were going at the rate of forty or fifty miles an hour, carrying the wounded and the dead, so we had quite a task in getting indoors, which we finally succeeded in doing.

Near the Penny Arcade, where we were now quartered, there were great stacks of clothing; in fact, goods of all kinds, which had been taken into the streets by the crazed owners. I was so overcome with my feelings that I sunk into an office chair, from which I could watch my place on Mission street, which seemed to be withstanding the fire at that time. A great many of my employees were around me, trying to say a cheering word. I watched the wholesale house burn; first the roof falling, then floor after floor.

The fire kept on coming, never stopping, reaching Market street, opposite the Arcade, until it got so hot that we had to move, carrying our books with us, which we were bound to save. It took about eight of my men to move this basket to the store of a friend of mine, about four blocks away, where we thought they would be in safety. We could not carry them any further if we wanted to, as we were all tired out. I have discovered a friend, who took a snap at us as we were shoving the basket on Market street, near Taylor street, three blocks away from our store, and an enclosing same. We could not stay to see whether the Arcade burned or not, as we were ordered off Market street by the militia, which had been called out, being put in charge of the city. The next day I learned that the Arcade burned about 17 o'clock that night. I did not hear for about two days later that my third place on Kearny street had also burned.

The same morning of the earthquake, while standing across the street from the fire, I saw a merchant of the city, who was sobbing as though he were in mortal agony. I was feeling pretty bad at the time, but could not help asking him what his troubles were. He said: "Don't you see the fire right next to my store? I have $10,000 that I will lose if my store is burned." I thought that I saw a chance for a store in a good location, and offered him $500 for the lease of his place just as it stood, and, after much thinking and deliberation, he refused me the offer. While we stood there fifteen minutes later his place was burning fiercely.



I then went home to my wife and children, whom I knew were worried about me, and in terror of more earthquakes. I could not stay very long, being restless, and went around town watching the city burn. For two days and two nights the fire ate its way gradually towards my home, but was finally stopped within six blocks of my residence. This was all that was spared me, with the exception of my son's house, which is also standing. For this I am thankful.

The earthquake was on the 18th, and on the 20th, of the same month, and while the fire was still burning close to my store from which I am now writing, I secured this good location at a nominal cost for my Phonograph business. One week later I was offered three times what I am paying for rent, but I refused.

I am now engaged in the real estate business; have opened a market place two blocks from the main street of New 'Frisco, and am also interested in a restaurant, cigar stand, and last and most important of all—the Phonograph business. My store is now only 22 x 60 feet—very small in comparison with my old store, which was five stories high, with basement, all 25 x 165 feet. I have decided to use this store, which is centrally located, in which to retail talking machines of all the leading makes, and am putting up my own building on leased ground, two blocks from here, in which to conduct the business of jobbing Edison Phonographs, which has been my chief occupation for the last eight years.

I am fifty-one years old now, and it seems hard for me to start business anew, just as I did thirty-five years ago, but I am game, and intend to go to it now as I did then. I have taken into the firm my two sons, with the aid of whom I believe I will be able to do a better and larger business in talking machines than has ever been done in the West.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all parties who have written to me sympathizing with me, and especially to those from whom I have received help in a more substantial manner, and to those Dealers who have been so kind as to furnish me with statements of

MR. EDISON AUTOMOBILING IN THE SOUTH

It is undoubtedly true that the average person evinces as great an interest in the private lives and doings of prominent men as in their public labors and successes. For, naturally enough, a knowledge of the more intimate personal characteristics and a closer view of the life at home, at work, or at leisure appears to bring the celebrity closer to us and to make his achievements appeal the more strongly to the individual.

The accompanying photographs of Thomas A. Edison [not reprinted for want of space] show the dean of the inventors of America, if not of the world, in situations that are as interesting as they are unconventional. They were taken during a vacation trip planned some time ago and carried out recently. It is not strictly correct to designate this automobile trip as a vacation, for the word vacation is almost unknown to the great electrician whose working days often last for eighteen or twenty hours. And even in this instance the vacation tour was undertaken with a view to study and investigation, and the causes that gave rise to it were these: For the last few years Edison has been working steadily and enthusiastically at his alkaline storage battery, and while he has succeeded in developing a cell that is decidedly superior to the lead accumulator for many purposes, a great deal still remains to be accomplished before his success can be called complete. In the course of his investigations Edison has employed and tested a great variety of different metals, and among these recently was cobalt. As this metal is comparatively rare, and consequently expensive, the inventor has been on the lookout for possible sources of cobalt-bearing minerals which would make it better available for his purposes.

It was reported that cobalt existed in considerable quantities in the neighborhood of Charlotte, N. C., and thereupon Edison dispatched three prospectors to search through this region for the metal. Favorable reports having been received from these investigators, Edison determined to see for himself whether or not the reports were warranted, and so undertook this trip. For several years past the inventor has been an enthusiastic automobilist, and he decided to make the journey from his home in Orange to Charlotte by means of his two White steam cars with which he last year accomplished the Glidden tour, though in a reverse direction from that taken by the various contestants. He strongly favors the steam machine for long and rough trips, and declares that it is far superior to the gasoline car for such purposes.

The party consisted of Edison, his son Charles, and a Mr. Miller, in one car, and two laboratory assistants in the second car. The machine driven by Edison was in the usual condition for touring with tonneau and Cape cart top. The tonneau of the second machine, however, was removed and replaced by a box-like structure in which was packed a complete camping outfit, baggage, provisions, and a small amount of laboratory apparatus for use in mineralogical investigations. Needless to say, provision was made for the repair of almost all possible injury to mechanism or tires. The tourists, of course, encountered the troubles, but there were practically no difficulties with the engines. That the trip was rather strenuous will be understood by all those familiar with the roads in that section of the South traversed by tourists. The departure from Orange was made on May 16 and from there the route lay through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, through the Shenandoah Valley, over the mountains across Virginia, into North Carolina to Charlotte. The Shenandoah Valley and mountain trip is one that is not often undertaken, for the roads are unusually ungradable. Edison, however, revels in a tour of this kind and thoroughly enjoyed even the most difficult portions of the country. Fortunately the weather was uniformly good, and rain and mud were not added difficulties. Gasoline was easily procurable along the route, and no trouble was encountered in supplying the engines with the water available.

Edison is unquestionably one of the most unassuming and democratic of our great men and he makes a splendid companion for such a trip. He sturdily objects to posing for pictures, however, and the accompanying photograph of the inventor asleep was taken during a noon rest near Leesburg, Va. It is probably the first of Edison taken under such circumstances. The idea appeals to us as rather novel; our conceptions of Edison as usually of the inventor as very "wide awake." Wherever necessary the tourists camped alongside the road and only availed themselves of hotels or inns where such were reached without trouble. It is not the intent of the party to return in the same manner. The machines will be shipped north, and after a stay of several weeks in the region around Charlotte, the party will return by rail.—Scientific American.

The above account was published while Mr. Edison was on his trip South. He has since returned to his laboratory, none the worse for his novel experience.

GOOD MATERIAL.

In a recent railroad case in the Superior Court in Boston a Phonograph Record was accepted as a vital witness and won the suit. The name of Edison is and will be held in the highest esteem by present and future generations. His achievements have so revolutionized the world's work and pleasure that he is rightly termed the wizard. In all the successful efforts of his fertile brain, none have proven more generally useful and entertaining than the Phonograph. Its scope and influence is, although world wide, not yet fully appreciated. It has already entered the lists as an unrivalled instructor of languages. It is a complete storehouse of the expressed thought of the world's deepest thinkers and brightest minds rendered in the actual tones of voice of the author. The possibilities of this wonderful machine are almost limitless. Almost every day brings new importance to the machine. The reproduction of familiar voices and sounds of daily life are not the least important features of the Phonograph. How many white haired hard headed business men would gladly stop, in the whirl of money getting, and listen to the voice of their younger days. There was no Phonograph then, however, and there are but memories faint and fading of their boyhood home. Voices stilled forever live only in the memory that year by year grows more hazy. Had the Phonograph been known, when these men were young, the voices could have been preserved and their tones repeated now as fresh as the first utterances.

In the home of the present day, the prattling of the little ones, or the feeble tones of cherished age, may be preserved in all their natural intonations for the coming generations. This alone is a valuable and important argument in favor of the machine that reaches the heart, instead of looking at the cold silent letters of the pen or type. A Phonograph Record forwarded across ocean or continent, will bring the voices of distant loved ones into the family circle. And would you hear the gifted orator, the noted divine, or the charming minstrel, you may have their voices in your home. Would you enjoy the best of the world's vocal or instrumental music? It is at hand if you possess a Phonograph and without expense and travel from your own fireside. And with all these advantages, this can be accomplished by the man of moderate means as easily as by the millionaire.

The Edison Phonograph stands at the head of the list of these instruments. Its clearness of tone, purity of pronunciation and absence of blurred or scratchy sounds, make it preeminently the machine for either the fireside or the public hall. Its moderate price places it within the reach of all. From $10 up are the quantities. Every machine possesses the qualifications of excellence whether of the lowest or highest price, and the Edison Phonograph represented by Joseph H. Roberts, of Croton Falls, comes direct from the manufactory and are new, tested and perfect. He does not handle imperfect or second machines.—Advertisement of a New York State Dealer.

DEALER'S FOLLOW-UP LETTERS.

From L. R. Porter, Brockton, Mass.

We are in receipt of a communication from the National Phonograph Co. asking us if our quarterly letter regarding the Edison Phonograph and Records pleases us, sending you under separate cover the latest catalogues of Edison Phonographs and Records, together with certain other printed matter relative to same. Should it be convenient, we should very much appreciate a visit from you at our store when in this vicinity. We have pleasure in stating that we stock every Edison Record made, also the following Edison Phonographs, e. g.: Gem, $10; Standard, $20; Home, $30; Triumph, $50, and will give you easy terms of $1.00 down and $1.00 a week on either machine.

We also carry a very large stock of supplies, including all the latest and improved Horns, Stands, Record cases, etc., and can make you up an outfit which we feel sure would please you. If you so desire, it will give us the greatest pleasure to demonstrate this line of goods at your home at any time convenient to you. We are located at Porter's Furniture Rooms, Centre street, and are open every day and evening in the year except Sunday, and would appreciate a call from you at any time, and permit us to show you the finest machines and Records on the market. We feel sure you can make no better investment than in an Edison outfit.

Trusting to be favored with your valued patronage, I remain,

Very truly yours,

From O. A. Reynolds T. M. Co., Springfield, Ill.

The National Phonograph Co. have written us in regard to your inquiry as to the Phonograph. They say they have sent you catalogues which you no doubt have received by this time.

We have in stock all the machines that you find listed in the catalogue—your store being the only one in Central Illinois where you can hear and see all the different size Edison machines. We also have them equipped with the Edison repeating attachment, which is quite a feature. We also carry a full line of Edison Gold Moulded Records from which to make your selections.

As this is a very busy time on the farm, and if you cannot spare the time to call at our store we would be glad to ship you any machine you should select on approval.

We are making largest sales on the $30.00 Home. This machine we can furnish complete with the repeating attachment. We also have the Triumph with repeater at $50.00. This machine you can put a Record on and start it going and have music all during your dinner hour; as it plays over and over about three-quarters of an hour without attention.

We would be pleased to have you consider this matter, and if you, after looking them over, we will allow you an exchange for the larger without any additional expense, except the difference in price.

So confident are we that you would be satisfied with any machine in the above mentioned list that if you once start, we will allow a week's trial and if not perfectly satisfied in every way, we will refund your money. Thanking you for interest shown and asking for an early reply, we are

Yours very respectfully,

I wish to relate a little incident which happened to me, and how it proved successful.

A few days ago one of our customers came over to me and said if I wanted to try to sell a Phonograph he would take me to the place, and if the party would like it they might buy it.

I packed up a few Records, took along a Standard Phonograph and started for the house. Upon my arrival I found my intended customer to be so drunk that she could not stand on her legs. I set up the Phonograph, started to play Harlan's "Keep on the Sunny Side," and she nearly threw me out because the tune was not Irish. I put on the "Wearing of the Green," which I happened to bring along, and that worked fine, but she wanted "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "The Minstrel Boy," and many other Irish tunes, which I told her I would get. I returned to the store and thought it would be a good idea to take along "Paddy's Day." When I came back, the first Record I put on was "Paddy's Day," and it worked fine. She started to jig and sing; she made me participate, which I did to keep on the right side. As a result I made a cash sale. I have had some pretty hard cases, but this one I will never forget.—Jos. Schwetz, Manager Phonograph Department., J. Dawgs, Jr., Third avenue, New York.

What IS the I.C.S. Language Outfit?

The I. C. S. Language Outfit consists of an Edison Standard Phonograph with I. C. S. repeating attachment, recorder, special head-band hearing tubes with patent sound modifier, 14-inch brass horn, brush, 25 conversational gold-moulded records, and four textbooks for the study of French, German, or Spanish. The records and textbooks may be sold separately to those who already have a cylinder phonograph. This Outfit forms the most perfect language teacher in the world, and enables the student to speak the foreign language as the natives speak it, with a pronunciation guaranteed to be absolutely correct. The I. C. S. system is indorsed by the French, German, and Spanish embassies and all the leading educators. For you it is a proposition that will appeal not only to new trade, and to people who would not invest in a phonograph for amusement purposes, but to every phonograph owner in your section as well, who will be only too glad to find a profitable as well as a pleasurable use for their phonograph. Past experience has proven that it will increase your business. For proof, ask the dealer who has tried it. Write today for particulars and prices.

NOW ACT.

The time has come for every Edison Dealer to give his fall business most careful consideration. It will not do to say that there is plenty of time and put off planning until the fall is here. The Jobbers began in July to stock up and also to place orders for future shipments. It is doubtful if there will be a single Jobber on September 1st who has not placed with our sales department his orders for immediate and future deliveries. Jobbers generally have learned by past experience that early orders are necessary if goods are wanted later. Orders now received are for much larger numbers of machines that at any similar time in the past and we are assured that Jobbers yet to be heard from will also order much heavier than ever before.

If Jobbers order from the manufacturer this early in the season so as to get their share of the machines when the fall rush comes, why is it not equally necessary for big Dealers to similarly stock up and place advance orders in anticipation of their own trade? To do so helps the Jobber and enables the Dealer to keep up his stock. It does not involve the outlay of much capital to order in advance, whereas having a stock means the making of many a sale to people who will not wait till your Jobber fills your order.

During the past two months we have been able to make a few more Phonographs than were needed to fill orders and we thus accumulated a stock that seemed large compared to the shortage of the past six months. This stock, however, is now disappearing like dew under a summer sun to fill the orders of Jobbers who are taking time by the forelock. Long before September 1st this surplus will be entirely used up and thereafter the weekly output must take care of all orders. The output of machines has never been so large and we have the added advantage of having every department of the factory in fine running order and turning out the maximum of work every day. The difficulties of past summers in laying off part of our force, cutting down the output, then putting on new men and working up to the capacity again, has this year been entirely obviated by operating the factory to the limit right through the summer.

We shall probably make fifty per cent. more Edison Phonographs between now and January 1st, than ever before in the same period, and yet we are convinced that even this great output will not meet the demand of the public for them. We are going to spend more money than ever before to send the American public to the stores of Edison Dealers and we should regret if Dealers did not have the goods when wanted. We are going to spend more for magazine advertising; will have another and larger newspaper campaign. We are going to post every state in the Union; we are putting up painted bulletins along the principal railroads; the editions of all catalogues and other printed matter will be larger. Our large corps of salesmen will hustle as never before, making it easy for Dealers to get Phonographs and Records quickly, and in such quantities as they need. But more important than all, the quality of the goods will be uniformly maintained, no matter how great the demand may be. We say "more important" advisedly for without the quality no amount of advertising or hustling could long maintain the present prestige of Edison Phonographs and Edison Gold Moulded Records.

Speaking of Records recalls the necessity of saying a word about the Record situation. We never were so well equipped in this department as at present. Several new crews are at work and every crew is working together like a piece of well-oiled machinery. As a result the output grows each day. During July all past totals for a day's output have been broken several times. If Jobbers do not begin to place stock orders too early we shall by September be nearly caught up on back orders. Thereafter it seems as if we could not get far behind. Still the prospects for the fall and winter are so good that even our present Record-making facilities may not meet the demand. The foresighted Jobber and Dealer will take no chances but will keep ahead with orders.

MR. WHITE RESIGNS.

James H. White resigned on June 15th as managing director of the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., London, England. His connection with the company ceased on that date. Mr. White had been managing director of our London office since February, 1903. Mr. White takes with him the best wishes of his former associates both in London and in this country.

JOBBERS ENTERTAINMENT A GREAT SUCCESS.—PRESENTATIONS BY JOBBERS TO MR. EDISON AND MR. GILMORE.

The entertainment of the Edison Jobbers of the United States and Canada by the National Phonograph Company, at New York City and Orange, from July 17th to 20th, has passed into history. And we believe that it is the kind of history that will endure. To a large extent this event was unique in the careers of commercial houses. It was a success beyond the most sanguine expectations of its promoters. Even St. Swithin, upon whose day it rained this year, felt the necessity of departing from his time-honored practice of causing it to rain on each day for forty days thereafter, for on none of the days did it rain enough to mar a moment's pleasure of any of the company's guests. The weather was as near ideal for a gathering of this kind as the middle of July usually produces. That the event will further increase the bond of good feeling that exists between Edison Jobbers and the organization back of the Edison Phonograph cannot be doubted. We believe that the former will be benefited by their graciousness in becoming our guests on this occasion. We know that our own people will be better able to perform their duties because of their three days' intercourse with the men to whose business efforts the Edison interests owe so much. In no other way than a personal visit to Orange could Edison Jobbers have gained such an impression of the magnitude of the business being done in Edison Phonographs and Records. Only by a personal inspection of the varied processes of manufacturing Phonographs and Records could they be convinced of the care and skill necessary to the production of goods to meet the Edison standard. Nothing but a visit of this kind could show our executive, selling and manufacturing forces as a whole how cordial are the feelings of the trade toward the Edison product.

Mr. Edison himself, anxious that nothing should be left undone that would add to the success of the affair, dropped his work and for three days mingled with the company's guests in a most democratic manner. Since Mr. Edison rarely does anything of this kind it may be accepted as indicating the marked regard he feels toward those engaged in furnishing music and amusement for the world by means of the Edison Phonograph.

The entire entertainment was a personal triumph for Frank K. Dolbeer, Manager of our Credit Department, upon whom as chairman of the Committee of Arrangements devolved practically the entire burden of planning the affair. The editor of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY voices the views of his associates in according him all credit for its success. We early found that he knew better than we and that he was willing, so we contented ourselves by offering counsel while he did the work. We are not flattering Mr. Dolbeer when we say that he is the only man in the National Company who could have made such a success of this entertainment.

TUESDAY—REGISTRATION.

The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, 34th street and Fifth avenue, New York City, was selected as the headquarters for the visitors. Room 151 was used for registration purposes and two large rooms on the corner of Fifth avenue and 34th street were used as reception rooms. Mr. Dolbeer and several members of the committee took possession of these rooms on the morning of July 17th and began to get ready for the affair. The registration bureau was in charge of Frank E. Madison, Manager of our Contract Department. The reception rooms were equipped with Edison Business Phonographs and facilities were provided for dictating and writing letters.

E. A. Link, of the Kipp-Link Phonograph Co., Indianapolis, Ind., was the first jobber to register at headquarters. As each visitor registered, he was handed a badge pin, bearing the words "Edison—1906," and containing an Edison Record, done in relief in blue and black enamel on a gold field: tickets for the various entertainments that were to follow, together with a number of souvenirs of the occasion were also provided. By night nearly 200 visitors had arrived and been assigned to rooms. The afternoon and evening were spent in making all hands acquainted.

WEDNESDAY—VISIT TO FACTORY AND PRESENTATIONS.

The sight-seeing began at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning when the party was taken in large touring cars to the 23d street ferry of the Erie railroad. From Jersey City a special train conveyed them to the factory at Orange, reaching there at 10.30 o'clock. Here the visitors were met by President Gilmore. They were at once divided into groups of about twenty and shown through part of the factory buildings, each group being in charge of a guide familiar with the different work carried on. The visitors manifested great interest in what they saw, and all who were visiting the plant for the first time were amazed at its magnitude and at the amount of work being done. They found 3,300 employes at work, requiring $18,000 a week to meet the pay rolls. They saw the plant turning out Phonographs at the rate of 1,000 a day and Records at the rate of 100,000 every twenty-four hours. They found no automatic screw machines at work and were told that fifty more would be installed in a month. Within the past three months orders had been placed for $100,000 worth of machinery, exclusive of special machinery and tools made in our own tool room and not including the new equipment of the power plant, which cost $40,000. Since December, 1900, eight concrete buildings had been started and partially completed at an expenditure of $175,000 to date. All this concrete work is being done by our own force. Some of the other improvements to be begun in the near future were also explained.

The factory inspection was partially completed at noon and the visitors were then taken to the new office building now nearing completion. The first floor had been converted into a dining room and here lunch was served by a New York caterer. Mr. Edison joined the party at this point and held a reception, each visitor being introduced and shaking his hand.

The lunch over, Mr. Edison was led to one corner of the room, where stood a Triumph Phonograph, equipped with a large horn. He was at once surrounded by the expectant visitors, whose faces plainly showed that something was "doing." W. D. Andrews, of Syracuse, N. Y., mounted a small platform alongside of the Phonograph, and addressed Mr. Edison as follows:

We are gathered here together at the invitations of the National Phonograph Co., not as exclusive representatives of these interests, for we represent the trade in all its branches—all companies. But I want to assure you that we consider your company the company. (Applause.) We are familiar with your methods and with your aspirations, and we are working with the same, which is designed to benefit the trade. We have attended several meetings of the Jobbers' associations, and the conclusion arrived at is that your company is our company; your interests are our interests, and we are with you. For a long time we have entertained the idea of a token to you, Mr. Edison—a slight token of our high personal regard and appreciation of your eminent labors in the development and perfection of the Phonograph. I was a member of the committee who had charge of the banquet to Mr. Gilmore, when the directors of the Douglas Phonograph Co. was the first consideration. The privilege of presenting you with this souvenir, if you do not reserve of the gift you must look to Mr. Gilmore, but I feel sure you will accept it in the same spirit in which it is given. Therefore, Mr. Edison, on behalf of the Jobbers of the United States and Canada, I present you with the solid gold record. May it always be a reminder of this momentous occasion for the spirit which fittingly expresses our feelings to you is on the record.

The gold record was then placed upon the Phonograph and Mr. Edison heard the following address:

Mr. Edison: The record of pure gold which addresses these words to you is a gift from the jobbers engaged in the distribution of the Edison Phonograph and Records. They have come from the East, the West, the North and the South of this fair land of ours. They are your loyal and admiring friends, your ambassadors of commerce, whose mission it is to spread the name and fame of your wonderful work the globe. By the touch of your colossal inventive genius you have created industries giving employment to countless thousands the world over. The products of commerce occupied in the production of your inventions, if loaded upon freight cars, would require several kilometers of railway to carry them. Your name is known in every civilized country of the world you added the Phonograph, which is the eighth wonder of the world. It speaks every language uttered by human tongue, and in the field of language study it is the greatest educator the world has ever known. With song and story it will continue till the end of time to entertain the people of all nations. We place the name of Thomas A. Edison at the head of the column of the world's greatest captains of industry.

The record closed with a band rendition of "Auld Lang Syne," in which all present joined most heartily. Mr. Edison responded with his thanks. A replica of the record, moulded in the usual manner, was later given to every visitor.

The stand supporting the gold record presented to Mr. Edison is made in solid sterling silver, ornamented with solid gold inlay and surmounted with three beautifully modelled figures, representing music, art and progress. On the sides of three panels are imbedded a portrait of Mr. Edison and appropriate inscriptions of the event. The style followed throughout was that of the celebrated Louis XV period, the rococo design with its graceful flowers and scrolls artistically intermingled, showing intricate chasing. Above the decorative work was the holder for the record, the entire affair being mounted on an ebony base and being in all about twelve inches high.

When the applause had subsided Geo. Ilsen, of Cincinnati, mounted the platform and said:

We all know that Mr. Edison gave the world the Phonograph, but the man who made the Phonograph possible commercially was the man who has surrounded himself with assistants to aid him, Mr. Edward H. Gilmore. (Tremendous cheering.) He is the commercial man of Mr. Edison, and we honor Mr. Gilmore in presenting him with this magnificent silver loving cup—which is small one, by any manner of means—for (Cheers.) It will take three men to handle it to action. (Renewed cheering.) As you will notice, Mr. Gilmore, each leaf on the cup bears the name of some Jobber, a contestant, and therefore a lasting testimony of his high esteem for you and who honors the distinguished man who is President of the Phonograph Co. We may here know Mr. Gilmore I respect him. He has the biggest heart of any man I know of. He is full of love and esteem of the Jobbers, and it is in this spirit we take the greatest pleasure in presenting you with this elegant cup.

Mr. Gilmore acknowledged the gift in these words:

Gentlemen, you take me off my feet. I did not know that anything like this was contemplated. On behalf of Mr. Edison, who never makes a speech, who is not here, I thank you. As to myself, I thank you. As to myself I thank you most heartily. I can assure you that I shall always endeavor in the future, to treat you just the same as I have in the past. We are going to try to maintain the reputation we have for liberal methods of upholding prices. We will also continue to believe in living and let live. We started with these adages before us. We propose to continue following them.

The solid sterling silver loving cup presented to Mr. Gilmore is of the massive Grecian style, being about twenty inches wide and placed on an ebony base about two feet high. The bowl of the cup is set in foliage of repoussed laurel leaves and berries, with the name of a different firm on each leaf (about 160 in all), representing donors. In center of leaf work, on one side, is a bas-relief of Mr. Gilmore; on the second side is the picture of the old couple listening to a Phonograph, and on the third side, etching of the inscription presentation. The cup is surmounted by three beautifully carved handles. Between the different handles are three panels, each showing a bas-relief of cherubs representing music, progress and art. The cup is a handsome example of the modern silversmith's art. The inscription on the cup is as follows: "Presented to William E. Gilmore, July 18th, 1906, by the Edison Phonograph Jobbers of the United States and Canada as an expression of their personal esteem."

These ceremonies over, the entire party was photographed in a group with Mr. Edison's main laboratory building as a background. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in completing the inspection of the factory, going through Mr. Edison's various laboratory buildings and exchanging business views with each other. A part of the factory that the visitors found very interesting was the building in which Records are moulded. Some of them found it difficult to leave its attractions.

Returning to New York by the special train the party was met at the 23d street ferry by the automobiles and taken back to the Waldorf-Astoria. The entire party sat down in the Fifth avenue dining room to an informal dinner. This was followed by witnessing a performance of "The Governor's Son" at the Aerial Gardens on the roof of the New Amsterdam Theatre.

THURSDAY—WATER TRIP TO WEST POINT.

Thursday was taken up with seeing New York by water and a trip by boat up the Hudson to West Point. The iron steamboat Cephens had been chartered for the occasion, and the start was made from the foot of East 34th street, East River. The large automobiles, which seemed ever to be at the call of the party, carried the guests from the hotel to the dock. They found to their great surprise that Mr. Edison had arrived before them and was to make the trip with them.

While the boat lay at the pier, some one among the excursionists threw a coin into the crowd of children gathered at the dock and immediately several hundred typical street gamins were struggling like teams of college football players as coin after coin was thrown to them. This sport amused the Jobbers till the boat left the pier, a considerable sum being distributed among the struggling boys. Coins were handed to numbers of girls who could not join in the scramble, and some ragged and sickly mothers, giving their equally pale and sickly children an airing, were handed bills by several of the party.

Before proceeding up the Hudson river the boat proceeded down New York bay to a point off Coney Island and turned, giving the excursionists opportunity of seeing the "sky line" and shipping of the great city. The trip up the historic and scenic "Rhine of America" was very enjoyable. The Edison Concert band accompanied the party and its playing was a delightful feature. Luncheon, dinner and other refreshments were served. A landing was made at West Point, and through the courtesy of Capt. H. C. Wilson the party was given an opportunity of inspecting the United States Military Academy and its historic setting. After the dress parade of the cadets, which was witnessed by the excursionists, they reimbarked for the return to New York City, which was reached at 11 o'clock.

The day was marked by many interesting and amusing incidents, and the utmost good feeling prevailed. Mr. Edison was at all times the center of an interested group and apparently no one enjoyed the trip to a greater degree. At midnight, when he left for his home at Orange, he declared that he was not a bit fatigued.

FRIDAY—AUTOMOBILE TRIP AROUND NEW YORK AND BANQUET.

To use a theatrical term, Friday morning was "open." The Jobbers held a meeting at the hotel and discussed the advisability of organizing a national association. Matters of mutual interest and profit were also discussed, informally. In the afternoon a tour of the city was made in the automobiles, a trip that proved quite as interesting to New Yorkers as to the visitors. Grant's Tomb was visited and a stop made at the historic Cleremont Inn.

The closing feature of the entertainment was the banquet, which was served in the famous Astor gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel at 7 o'clock. The banquet hall was decorated with potted flowering plants and flags and the dinner was served on round tables, to the number of twenty-four, each seating eight guests. On the 34th street side was the head table, at which were seated Mr. Edison, Mr. Gilmore and other prominent men in the company and trade. The menu cards were unusually handsome and artistic. They included a phonogravure of Mr. Edison, each one of which had been personally signed by Mr. Edison. Other pages bore the menu, the names of guests, committee and of the artists who were to appear after the dinner. Each guest also found at his plate a bronze bust statuette of Mr. Edison. The menu was as follows:

Caviare
Graves Superieur
Potage a l'Oseille
Amontillado Passado
Radis Olives
Celeri Amandes salees
Filet de Kingfish, Sauce de Hennard
Salade de Concombres

Liqueurs

During the progress of the dinner the Edison Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Conductor Eugene A. Jandas, rendered the following selections, which were interspersed with other numbers of a timely and popular character:

Coronation March from "The Prophet"....Meyerbeer
Overture, "William Tell"....Rossini
Paraphrase, "Merry in Tune"....Rollinson
Selection from "Faust"....Gounod
Selection from "Lucia"....Donizetti
Grand Fantasia American....Tobani

It had been announced that there was to be no speechmaking, but Mr. Bowers, of Lyon & Healy, Chicago, violated this rule by securing the attention of the company, at the close of the dinner, and after a few words of explanation offered a set of resolutions, expressing the appreciation and thanks of the Jobbers, which were adopted by a rising vote:

WHEREAS, The National Phonograph Company has taken occasion to entertain as its guests in New York City the Jobbers of the United States and Canada in its line of manufacture, and

WHEREAS, Such action has been accepted by the attending Jobbers in the trade in this country and Canada to the number of two hundred and fifty or more, and

WHEREAS, While it might reasonably be anticipated that the entertainment offered by the National Phonograph Company to its guests would be of the high order of excellence set by the standing and reputation of the company, and

WHEREAS, The entertainment has far surpassed the warmest anticipation held in regard to it, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Jobbers of the product of the National Phonograph Company in meeting assembled at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City do hereby tender to Messrs. O. Edison, William E. Gilmore, Carl H. Wilson and Frank K. Dodge, and their great corps of assistants, their sincere and heartfelt thanks for the magnificent entertainment and unbounded courtesy extended them by the National Phonograph Company; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, suitably engrossed, be sent to the National Phonograph Company for preservation in its archives as a memento of one of the most agreeable and highly enjoyable occasions in the lives of all its participants.

A. F. Bowers,
Robert T. Lyon,
Wm. H. Lyon,
W. H. Andrews,
Sol. Bloom,
Committee on Resolutions.

Then the visitors were given an opportunity of seeing and hearing several of the Edison talent so well known to them by their Records. As each artist appeared he or she was greeted with rounds of applause, and the efforts of the artists were most cordially rewarded. This part of the entertainment was arranged by W. H. A. Crosskite, Assistant Manager of the Recording Department. The programme was as follows:

EDISON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.
College Life March, Frantzen.

HARRY MACDONOUGH.
I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby.
Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May.

EDISON G. HARLAN.

My Ward.

ANTHONY COLLINS.
Pretty Deadwood.
Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown.

EDISON MALE QUARTETTE.
Beauty's Eyes.
Breeze of the Night.
Teacher and the Tots.

ADA JONES AND LEN SPENCER.
Mandy and Her Man.
Honest.
Peaches and Cream.

COLLINS AND HARLAN.
It's Up to You to Move.
Nigger Loves His Possum.
When Mose with His Nose Leads the Band.

The evening's entertainment concluded with an exhibition of motion pictures by the Edison Kinetoscope, including a motion picture of the party, taken as it was leaving the hotel for the trip to Orange on Wednesday.

Many of the guests did not leave until Saturday, and it was not until Saturday afternoon that the last of the entertained and the entertainers left the hotel and the affair became history. The visitors were lavish in their praise over the success of the entertainment. Without exception, they declared that they had not had a dull moment from beginning to end of the affair. Many said that it was the most enjoyable event of its kind they had ever taken part in.

ENTERTAINING THE LADIES.

A feature of the week was an entertainment arranged at short notice for the ladies accompanying some of the visitors. It was announced that the Jobbers' entertainment was to be a "stag," but when it was learned that a number of the Jobbers had brought their wives with them it was realized that we could hardly take the husbands away and leave the wives to amuse themselves. Consequently a programme of drives, luncheons and dinners at famous New York restaurants and hotels; visits to theatres and Manhattan Beach, was arranged. Nelson C. Durand, Manager of the Commercial Department, consented to see that the ladies were taken care of. For three days he was a most popular man. The ladies voted him the best ever, and the men were no less grateful, because he relieved them of all care in the matter. The party comprised about twenty ladies, the wives of several company officials assisting Mr. Durand in entertaining the visitors. This part of the week was brought to a close about 9 o'clock Friday night, when the party returned to the hotel in time to hear the entertainment part of the banquet. At the close Mr. Edison was introduced by Mr. Gilmore to all of the ladies, an event that gave them much pleasure, for they had hardly expected an opportunity to meet Mr. Edison.

THE GUESTS.

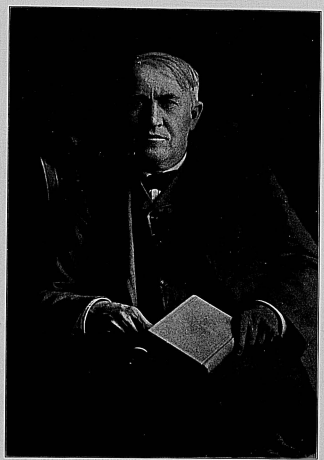
ABOUT THE SUIT OF THE NEW YORK PHONOGRAPH CO.

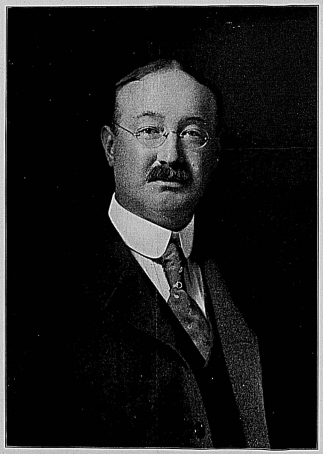
Our readers in the State of New York have, no doubt, from time to time, during the past three or four years, received threatening circulars from the New York Phonograph Company, in which they have been solemnly warned under the pain of suits for injunctions and damages against selling Edison Phonographs and Records in that State. Regarding such threats, we have always assured Jobbers and Dealers to handle our goods that we will protect them fully by defending any suits which may be brought against them for the sale of our goods and by the payment of any costs or damages which may be recovered. It is not necessary to go into the details of the litigation in which this company has been involved ever since early in the year 1901.

Briefly stated, the claims of the New York Phonograph Company are based on a license granted to that concern by the defunct North American Phonograph Company under certain early Edison patents. When the assets of the North American Phonograph Company were sold they were acquired by Mr. Edison and turned over to the National Phonograph Company, and among these assets were the patents that were contemplated in the license of the New York Phonograph Company. This was in 1896, at which time the Phonograph business was in a depressed condition, but it developed slowly until the advent of the moulded Record in 1902, when it reached enormous proportions.



In 1901 the New York Phonograph Company brought suit against the National Phonograph Company, alleging that its territory was invaded. That suit was vigorously fought, and was finally decided last year by Judge Hazel, whose decision was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals last spring. By this decision it was held that the New York Phonograph Company did, in fact, have a license under certain early Edison patents, but by the time the final decision was rendered, all of these patents had expired, except two of them, which were promptly discarded by this company. At the present time, therefore, the National Phonograph Company does not make use of a single patent for which the New York Phonograph Company holds a license, and manifestly, therefore, cannot infringe any rights of the New York Phonograph Company. We are advised by our counsel that so far as Jobbers and Dealers within the State of New York are concerned the New York Phonograph Company has no possible claim against them. In fact, it has been decided by the United States Supreme Court that where patented goods are purchased outside of a restricted territory, as is the case of the sale of our goods at Orange, N. J., they can be taken and sold anywhere in the United States, free of restriction, even within the exclusive territory of a licensee.

It is not necessary for us to call attention to the misleading statements which have been extensively circulated in the trade by the New York Phonograph Company. The cry of "wolf" has been so frequently made that it no longer creates any excitement or interest. After the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals the statement was industriously circulated that the National Phonograph Company had been enjoined from selling Phonographs and Records in the State of New York, when, as a matter of fact, that company was only enjoined from selling Phonographs and Records in violation of certain contracts, the rights to which have expired, as we have before stated. As proof of this fact, it is only necessary for us to say that, although the injunction was issued on March 26, 1906, the company continued to do business, dispensing only with the two patented features, before referred to, without the slightest move being made by the New York Phonograph Company to punish us for contempt, which of course they would have done had there been any invasion of their rights as thus defined by the Federal courts.



Realizing the hopelessness of proceeding against the National Phonograph Company, the New York Phonograph Company started on a campaign of misrepresentation with the apparent purpose of intimidating Jobbers and dealers engaged in the sale of our goods and forcing some sort of a settlement with us. To this end notices were served broadcast throughout the State of New York to the effect that the National Phonograph Company and its dealers had been enjoined from selling Phonographs and supplies therefor in that State, which statements were intentionally and deliberately misleading, since, as we have already stated, no such injunction was ever issued. Like all the notices which the New York Phonograph Company has circulated since its apparent rejuvenation for the purpose of litigation, these notices were received by the Jobbers and Dealers with the contempt they deserved.

The next step in the campaign of the New York Phonograph Company was the bringing of upwards of two hundred and twenty-five suits against Jobbers and Dealers, when it would be apparent to any one that no more than two of such suits were necessary if it were only sought to test the questions presented in a legal way. Undoubtedly these numerous suits were brought with the hope that the business might be embarrassed and some sort of a settlement thereby forced out of this company. The scheme, however, failed of effective consummation, because at the hearing before Justice Keogh at New Rochelle on June 30th, 1906, he refused to consider more than two of the cases and held the others in abeyance until the test cases thus selected were disposed of. The argument before Justice Keogh was on a motion for a preliminary injunction, it evidently being the hope of the New York Phonograph Company to thereby tie up the business of Jobbers and Dealers in such a way that the National Phonograph Company would be compelled to buy them off. At the argument Justice Keogh was plainly impressed with the fact that the rights of the

New York Phonograph Company were, to say the least, of doubtful effect, and hence, his decision "that no injunction should issue before a decision by the court after a trial on the merits of the many serious questions of fact made by the opposing affidavits" was no surprise, but was expected.

The meaning of this decision of Justice Keogh is, of course, that if the New York Phonograph Company proceeds with the two test suits, the questions will have to be threshed over again through the courts of the State of New York, and possibly on appeal to the United States Supreme Court. As a result of a trial of the cases on the merits, we think no Jobber or Dealer in the State of New York need have the slightest fear; first, because, as we have said, so far as modern Phonographs and Records are concerned, the rights of the New York Phonograph Company have expired; and second, because even if those rights had not expired Jobbers and Dealers would, under the decisions of the Supreme Court, be always free to purchase goods at Orange and sell them in New York or anywhere else.

After the decision of Justice Keogh, refusing to grant a preliminary injunction, articles appeared in some of the daily papers to the effect that the court had "signed an order temporarily restraining the National Phonograph Company and 1,500 agents from selling Phonographs and Records of that company in the State of New York." We cannot, of course, say that these false and misleading articles originated with the New York Phonograph Company, although, as we have before pointed out, that concern has not hesitated in the past to circulate statements that have been just as erroneous and as far from the truth. If, however, the articles were circulated by the New York Phonograph Company, the desperate condition of their case must be apparent to Jobbers and Dealers in the State of New York.

Therefore, we say, first, that no injunction has been issued restraining the National Phonograph Company from selling Phonographs and Records as now made; second, that no injunction, provisional or permanent, has been issued against any Jobber or Dealer in the State of New York, restraining him from selling Edison Phonographs and Records; third, that no injunction can issue against a Jobber or Dealer for selling Edison Phonographs or Records until the present test cases have been finally concluded, and as to the result of those cases we have not the slightest uneasiness; fourth, that, according to our confident belief, and to the assurances of the ablest counsel the country affords, the New York Phonograph Company is successful in any suit against a Jobber or Dealer for the sale of our goods, we stand ready to protect him to the full extent of any costs or damages that may be recovered. Under no circumstances do we propose to permit the New York Phonograph Company to force us into any settlement or compromise, by which the business of any Jobber or Dealer within the State of New York will be affected. We say now, as was said more than a century ago, "Millions for defence, but not one cent for tribute."

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN OCTOBER LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our October list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers:

DEALERS' CORNER.

Frost & Goffe, Edison Dealers at Brockport, N. Y., send a clipping from their local paper, showing the picture of a house at Brockport that was completely wrecked in a wind storm. They state that a Standard Phonograph was about the only article in the house not ruined. This was taken with its cabinet broken, but the mechanism was in good condition.

The other day I was playing Record No. 9056, "Here is to Our Absent Brother," when a band of gypsies were going down the street. They heard the music and came back. They asked me to play that Record, and then bought an Edison Phonograph. Record No. 9056 had done the work and I sent them on their way rejoicing.—Samuel Lee, Bunker Hill, Ill.

Long live the Edison Phonograph for it has proven the victor in our city, being tested by competitors of other makes. I wish to push it with energy, for it brings sunshine to homes where darkness prevails. We have had on hand another style machine for at least two months, and we not only fail to dispose of it but our people do not even want to hear it.—J. E. Lescher & Son, Sikeston, Mo.

PRINTED MATTER.

The new Record Catalogue, Form No. 910, shows a change in arrangement of several departments that we think will meet with the approval of the public as well as the trade. The various classifications of band selections have been abolished and all are now included under one heading. The same is true of the orchestra selections. All vocal solos are now arranged under one heading, with notations to show the accompaniment where it varies from the heading. The vocal duets are also grouped together, the sub-classifications being abolished. These changes will make it easier to find any selection by name without interfering with the other good features of the catalogue. A large number of these catalogues have already been supplied to Jobbers and all orders received in the future will be filled as rapidly as possible. This catalogue will be in force until November 1st.

We are about to mail to the trade a new Catalogue of Parts, Form No. 900, in which the various parts of the Gem, Standard, Home and Triumph machines are illustrated with separate drawings. This catalogue is intended only for the use of the trade and a copy is being mailed to every Dealer. It has been gotten out at considerable expense and trouble, and we must ask Dealers to preserve the copy being mailed to them. Nor will we attempt to fill large orders so that Jobbers may duplicate to their Dealers the copy already mailed. We will take the liberty of cutting down any order placed for these catalogues without advising Jobbers of the fact. A number of the prices given in this catalogue are different from those that have prevailed for some time past. The new catalogue, therefore, must be considered as superseding the previous editions. No electros of any parts shown in this catalogue will be furnished without charge. Wherever required they must be made to order and a charge will be made for the full cost.

REWARDED THE PLAYER.

We recently received from A. Macrow & Sons, of Bendigo, Victoria, a letter containing the following little story, which we thought would be of interest to the trade:

"We were playing Record No. 8625 the other day, when an old fellow, close up to the seventies, stood in the doorway, made a right turn, gave us a step, wheeled back again, and threw some coppers into the store. Evidently the Phonograph not only suits the grave and the gay, but revives the old fellows' vitality, makes them bright and happy. So much for bright, crisp and catchy Records; they catch on and sell like green peas."—National Phonograph Co. of Australia, Limited, W. W. Wyer, Manager.

PERSONAL.

J. R. Schermerhorn, Assistant General Manager of this company, and now chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Phonograph Co., Ltd., London, returned to the latter place on July 21st, after a three weeks' business visit here. He took an active part in the Jobbers' entertainment.

Thomas Graff, manager of the Berlin office of the National Phonograph Co., has been making a three weeks' visit to this country, principally on business. He was also an interested participant in the Jobbers' entertainment.

Frank E. Madison, manager of the Contract Department, with an office at 31 Union Square, New York, has been promoted to the management of the Boston branch of our Commercial Department. He will take charge this month. E. E. Davidson of the Sales Department will succeed to his former post.

"THE PHONOGRAPH" PICTURES.

The framed copies of the Massani painting, "The Phonograph," are now being shipped to Jobbers by the firm in Chicago that manufactured them and all shipments should be made within a few days. Those Dealers who took advantage of our offer and sent orders to their Jobbers will receive the framed copies from the latter as fast as they can handle them. Dealers who did not fill in and forward orders may have an unframed picture mailed to them upon request. Believing that this picture will be sought by the public, and not being in a position to supply copies gratuitously, we have decided to furnish them in quantities to the trade on the following basis:

Unframed—1 to 100, 15 cents each; 100 to 250, 12½ cents each; 250 or more, 10 cents each.

Framed copies, specially boxed, $1.50 each, F. O. B. Orange.

FROM NEW ZEALAND.

Contributions from "The Talkeries," Wellington, the only exclusive talking machine Jobbers in New Zealand.

One customer writes: "Please send me the 'Phonogram' for one year, and I'm very pleased with the 'Gem'; it has many admirers here."

Another one writing for Records says "Any other but Edison no use."

And a third country customer says: "It gives me great pleasure to let you know what we all think of the Edison Standard Phonograph I purchased from you last month. We are all delighted with it. It is very clear and seems to be getting better every day. Please find enclosed order for another four dozen Records.

FACTORY CHANGES.

Contrary to expectations, we were not able to get into the new office building at the Orange factory in July. Work on the interior was pushed night and day by Superintendent Weber, and much has been accomplished, but considerable work still remains before the building can be occupied. It looks now as if September 1st would be about the date. The new polishing building has been completed and is now being equipped with machinery. The exterior of the five-story concrete extension to the cabinet and case-making building, No. 18, has been completed. It will be ready for occupancy in another month. The new five-story concrete Record building was fairly started during July. Owing to its great size, it will require five months to finish. Other buildings in contemplation will be begun at once in the hope that they can be enclosed before freezing weather sets in.

During the past month the scenery in our factory yard has undergone considerable changes. Several old frame buildings, relics of the early days of the factory, or buildings formerly used for experimental purposes by Mr. Edison, have been torn down. A vast amount of unused machinery and "junk" has been removed and the grounds graded and generally "tidied" up. Other improvements to follow will make the factory a different looking place than it has been in the past.

AMONG JOBBERS.

G. C. Aschbach, the progressive music dealer, has started operations for the enlargement and rebuilding of his well-known music house and when completed he will have one of the largest and most complete of its kind to be found in Pennsylvania. On account of his largely growing music business Mr. Aschbach has found it necessary to add more room to his already extensive building and the new improvements of three additional floors of 100 feet in depth and 21 feet in width, which will be added, making a total of five floors, each 170 feet in depth will give an idea of the magnitude of his building, all of which will be used for the display of musical wares—Allentown (Pa.) Call.

The new Edison Jobbers during the past month are Koehler & Hinrichs, of 255 East 2d street, St. Paul, Minn.; the Southern California Music Co., 332-334 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal., and the A. J. Pommer Co., 9th and J streets, Sacramento, Cal. All of these firms are among the largest in their respective lines. All expect to do a large jobbing business in Edison goods.

The Reading Phonograph Co., Reading, Pa., has removed to 48 N. 8th street.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR OCTOBER, 1906.

It is doubtful if any previous supplement of Edison Gold Moulded Records has contained a greater number of what are considered popular selections than this October list of twenty-four Records. Every selection has been chosen to fit the special talent of the singer, player or organization making it. The list introduces a new singer in Miss Helen Trix, who possesses an excellent contralto voice and of whom much is expected. There are also new duet combinations in Miss Florence Hinkle and Harry MacDonough, Campbell and Roberts.

No. 9362, "Torch Dance," by the Edison Concert Band, is a classical composition by Meyerbeer, played in the artistic manner characteristic of our Concert Band. Each member of this organization is a picked musician—most of them being soloists on their respective instruments—and their Record work is always of the highest standard.

No. 9363, "The Stars, the Stripes, and You," by Frank C. Stanley, is a new patriotic march song that possesses all the elements essential to a big musical success. Its words were written by George J. Green and Edward P. Moran, and the music is by Justin Wheeler. It tells of a soldier who is about to leave for the front, and in bidding good-bye to his sweetheart he declares his determination of fighting for "The Stars, the Stripes, and You." The chorus has an especially good swing that cannot fail to meet popular approval. Some of Mr. Stanley's most popular Records have been of patriotic songs, his fine baritone voice being peculiarly fitted to the music of these compositions. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9364, "When a Poor Relation Comes to Town," by Arthur Collins, is a song by Kendis and Paley that graphically describes the difference between the greetings accorded the wealthy and the poor relatives when they come on a visit. When the poor one arrives no one meets him at the station and he is left alone with the wintry winds and his hunger. But let some rich uncle come and his greetings are very different. This difference in the reception accorded the poor and the rich is most humorously brought out in the Record. Incidental to the arrival of the poor one there are winds that make you shiver, and cold effects that make you want an overcoat. When the rich uncle comes the band plays and the waiting relatives cheer. The composer of this song also wrote "Sympathy," our Record No. 9162.

No. 9365, "Is Your Mother In, Molly Malone?" by Miss Helen Trix, presents to the army of Phonograph owners a new singer in Miss Trix, whose clear, well modulated contralto voice will, we believe, gain her a firm place in the galaxy of Edison stars. Her first offering is a song in Irish dialect, telling of the Irish lover, who, whenever he went to court Molly Malone, felt it his duty to first inquire if her father and mother were in. The song is one that will be re-demanded wherever heard. It is the work of Mills and Everard. Miss Tyas is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9366, "Simple Confession," is a 'cello solo by Hans Kronold. Modern music contains nothing more charming than this dainty composition by Thomé. It is also well known by the title "Simple Aveu." Mr. Kronold's rendition of it on this delightful solo instrument is quite as graceful as the composition itself. Since an orchestra would detract from the attractiveness of the 'cello as a solo instrument Mr. Kronold plays "Simple Confession" with piano accompaniment.

No. 9367, "Softly and Tenderly," by Miss Hinkle and Mr. MacDonough, is a sacred duet by a new combination of Edison talent. Miss Florence Hinkle was heard last month as one of the Edison Mixed Quartette, although her name was not given. Mr. MacDonough is an Edison veteran. This is the first time they have sung together for an Edison Record. Their voices blend finely, they sing with excellent expression and we are sure that the public will vote them a most desirable addition to the list of Edison duet singers. The words and music of "Softly and Tenderly" are by Will L. Thompson.

No. 9368, "Grandad, I'm Going to be a Soldier," by Byron G. Harlan, is a new march song. A child sitting by his grandfather's side tells proudly that his father died defending the flag of his country and he manfully declares that when he grows up he is going to be a soldier. He is going to place Daddy's gun on his shoulder and fight for liberty. The words and music of this song were written by Ed. Rogers, the composer of many song successes. It is sung with much feeling by Mr. Harlan. He is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9369, "Sieseta's Visit to the North," by Billy Golden, is the first Record that Mr. Golden has made for our catalogue in some time. He comes back with renewed vigor and makes this vaudeville specialty perhaps better than anything he has previously done. This Record is a combination of talking, laughing and singing. Sieseta is so fat that it is hard to tell her from a round-house. She made a trip to the North and the talking part of the Record tells in a laughable manner of what happened. To hear Mr. Golden do the telling is to laugh heartily. The singing is characteristic of Mr. Golden's best style.

No. 9370, "Irish Hearts March," by Edison Military Band, a march by Everett J. Evans, that is decidedly Irish in its favor. Closely woven into the melody are bits of well-known Irish airs—airs that are dear to the hearts of Erin's sons and descendants. Ireland may never know the satisfaction of self-government, but its music will for all time be cherished by its loyal sons. As played by the Edison Military Band our Record does full justice to the selection. Not since "A Bit of Blarney," (our Record No. 8742) has there been written a selection of this character so entertaining and tuneful.

No. 9371, "Love Me, and the World is Mine," by Harry Anthony, is a sentimental song by Ernest R. Ball (music) and Dave Reed, Jr., (words) that is above the average ballad in musical merit. Mr. Anthony's rendition of it is also above the average. Between the song and its rendition the Record is unusually attractive. "I care not for the stars that shine," sings the lover. "I dare not hope to e'er be thine; I only know I love you; love me, and the world is mine."

No. 9372, "If the Man in the Moon were a Coon," by Ada Jones, treats of the things that would happen "if the man in the moon were a coon." He would fade with his shade the silvery moon away. There would be no roaming in the park at night and no spooning in the bright moonlight. It would also be dangerous to henroosts if the man in the moon were black. The words and music of this song were written by Fred Fischer, author of "Every Little Bit Helps," (our Record No. 9016) and other song hits. Miss Jones, as usual, has made a most striking Record of the song.

No. 9373, "Foolishness," by Edward M. Favor, is a song that is quite in keeping with its title. It was sung last winter in the farcical Japanese opera, "The Mayor of Tokio" and was the subject of many encores each night. It is practically impossible to describe the silliness of the words of this song. The Record must be heard to do it justice. We believe that the Record will almost equal in popularity the noted "Fol-de-rol-lol-al" (Record No. 9142), also sung by Mr. Favor. The words of "Foolishness" were written by Arthur Gillespie and Mr. Favor, and Mr. Frederick Peters. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9374, "La Balladora" (Pirouette) by Edison Symphony Orchestra, is a composition by Theodore Moses-Tobani, that may not equal the fame of his latter's "Petals and Flowers," (our Record No. 7742), but it is nevertheless a charming selection. Sweetly delicate is its melody, featuring the clarinets, oboes, and other reed instruments.

No. 9375, "Sweet Julienne," by W. H. Thompson, is a sentimental ballad that was featured in Dockstader's Minstrels, and all who hear it will recognize it as one of great attractiveness, both in words and in music. Mr. Thompson's splendid voice makes it a delightful Record. "Sweet Julienne" was written by Jean C. Havez, composer of "Everybody Works But Father" (our Record No. 9190), and "Uncle's Quit Work Too," (our Record No. 9281). It is entirely unlike either of the latter two songs. Mr. Thompson is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9376, "Why Don't You Write When You Don't Need Money?" by Bob Roberts, tells the old story of the coon girl who never hears from her lover until he wants money. The lover is a minstrel man, and all goes well until the troupe "busts" up on the road and he goes broke. Then he writes a touching appeal to his girl. She replies in these words:

"Why don't you write when you don't need money?
All your notes sound alike too much.
All of 'em starts with I love you, Honey,'
But they ends with the same old touch.
Just for a change try to send a loving letter,
Without a check to make it sweet.
Why don't you write when you don't need money?
Honey, that would certn'y make a hit.',

Those familiar with Mr. Robert's songs will realize how well he can render one like this. The music of this song is by Gus Edwards and the words by Raymond A. Browne. The orchestra accompanies the singer.

No. 9377, "Susan, Kiss Me Good and Hard," by Collins and Harlan, is a new coon song by J. Fred Helf (music) and Robert F. Roden (words). If written especially for Messrs. Collins and Harlan it could not have been better adapted to their peculiar style of making Records of coon songs. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9378, "Champagne Galop," by the Edison Concert Band, is descriptive of the popping of corks, the effervescence of champagne, the clink of glasses and the laughter and merriment of the drinkers. This composition is by H. C. Lumbye. As interpreted by the Edison Concert Band it makes a Record worthy of a place in the most artistic collections.

No. 9379, "Somewhere," by Irving Gillette, is Charles K. Harris' new ballad and it has made rapid strides towards popularity since it first appeared. As usual, in Mr. Harris' songs, the words are sentimental. The music is, in our opinion, better than anything Mr. Harris has produced in some time. It would seem as if this song might equal in popularity "After the Ball" and other of Mr. Harris' successes. Mr. Gillette's voice seems especially adapted to sentimental songs of this kind and his rendition of this one is well nigh perfect.

No. 9380, "Come Down McGinty, Let Me Slide," by Billy Murray, is a song of the roller skating fad, which promises to be as great a craze in the coming winter as it has been at any time in the past. The scene is laid in a skating rink and the song is an invitation to Katie to take a skate with the singer. Between the verses there is a very funny dialogue, introducing the skating ring expert in his specialties, on "two feet," "one feet," "no feet." The words and music of this song are by Browne and Edwards. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9381, "Come Down McGinty," by Campbell and Roberts, is an Irish sketch, with orchestra accompaniment, that introduces a new vaudeville team in Campbell and Roberts, who though well known as makers of solo Records have not before sung together. McGinty was at work on a building on a windy day and, being thin, was carried in the air. On his way up his shoes came down and struck McGuire on the head, causing the latter to exclaim:

"Come down, McGinty, I'll show you where I'm standing.
Come down, McGinty, you came down from that landing
Don't you know I'm not back you,
But I'll break your bones, yis see you.
If you come down, come down here, McGinty."

No. 9382, "Belle of the East," by Albert Benzler, is a belle solo, with orchestra accompaniment, of a composition by A. Liberti and previously listed in the catalogue as a band selection, with cornet solo. It makes a much more entertaining Record in its new dress. The composition is written in schottische tempo, which changes of all movements makes the best bells Records.

No. 9383, "Let Me See You Smile," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is another of Mr. Spencer's clever vaudeville specialties. The dialogue is between a pair of colored lovers. He has worked overtime, because they did not wake him up at quitting time and he slept two hours after six o'clock. He lost his job, consequently the times are out of joint. In his misery he says that he must leave his girl and marks she gets him to cheer up as she sings, "Let Me See You Smile," a song written by Fred Fischer.

No. 9384, "Good Old Songs," by the Edison Male Quartette, is a medley of songs that will meet with a cordial reception if for no other reason than the fact that it has been a long time since this group of artists have made a Record containing more than one song. The Record includes, "Twinkling Stars Are Laughing, Love" (Ordway); "When I Saw Sweet Nellie Home" (Fletcher); "Would I Were a Bee" (Bassetti), and "There's Music in the Air" (Asael). This combination will make a good seller. The singers are unaccompanied.

No. 9385, "Chicken Chowder," by Edison Military Band, is a characteristic march selection by Irene M. Giblin, in which the crowing of roosters and cackling of hens are mingled with music otherwise suggested by its title. Will be popular with all seeking odd effects in Records.

GOOD ADDITION TO ANY BUSINESS.

The following letter was written by R. L. Penick, Edison Jobber at Montgomery, Ala., to a business friend who wanted his advice as to the feasibility of carrying talking machines in connection with sewing machines, Mr. Penick having carried both with marked success:

NEW YORK, June 11, 1906.

MR. R. L. PENICK,

Dear Sir:—I wish to obtain, for publication, the opinion of a few of the representative sewing machine dealers founded on personal experience with talking machines as side lines. Kindly tell me what you think of that branch as a money-maker and of its effect on the machine trade to which it may be added.

Thanking you in advance, I am

Very truly yours,

E. H. CRAIGE.

My Dear Sir:—Yours in regard to sewing machines and talking machines being handled together received to-day. I have been handling sewing machines and musical instruments for the past twenty years. Recently I have taken a great interest in the Edison Phonograph. While my sewing machine men have very little interest, so far as waiting on customers, I think it is a good addition to any business. Understand me, I mean the Edison Phonograph. The others are too loud, and get the sewing machine customers rattled. I know because I have the different makes of talking machines in stock.

Respectfully yours,

R. L. PENICK.

To Whom You Can Sell I.C.S. Language Outfits

Any dealer who gives the matter serious and thoughtful consideration must admit that there is an enormous field for I. C. S. Language Outfits. The average person who purchases a phonograph and records for amusement purposes sooner or later becomes tired of his fad and stops investing in records. If he can put his now unused phonograph to some profitable use by purchasing an I. C. S. Outfit, he will readily do so. Here is one big field for the I. C. S. Language Outfit.

Next, there is a class of people, which consists of the wealthy and highly cultured, whom you can never interest at all in the phonograph for amusement purposes, but who are the easiest to sell I. C. S. Language Outfits to, since nearly all of them are desirous of learning a foreign language either for purposes of travel or culture. Here is the second big field.

The third field consists of all present phonograph owners, including your steady customers, who would only be too glad to find a profitable as well as a pleasurable use for their phonograph.

In addition to this large and ready market, you have an article to sell which is of real worth, and which would naturally appeal to any person. The I. C. S. Language system is indorsed by the best educators in the country. The pronunciation is the purest of native tongues, guaranteed to be absolutely correct, and indorsed by the French, German, and Spanish Embassies. The phonograph is an Edison Standard phonograph with the I. C. S. attachments specially designed for Language study.

Could anything be more conducive to increased business for YOU than such a field, and such a meritorious article? Dealers who have tried them out, heartily indorse the I. C. S. Language Outfits. Have you ever given them a trial? If not, send now for particulars and prices.

THE BUSINESS YEAR OPENS.

September is practically the last call to the enterprising man who would plan to do a prosperous business in the coming fall and winter. The man who does not complete his plans this month may be set down as indifferent to his own best interests. To an unusual extent those engaged in the sale of Edison Phonographs and Records have been hoping goods and laying plans for two months past. They are the ones who will be found doing the business a few months hence. They will have the stock and be taking good care of their trade, while others are clamoring for goods. There are still many others who have put off stocking up or arranging to do so, believing that they will be taken care of somehow if the demand comes, and they continue skeptical as to the demand being as good as it was last fall, winter and spring. To such, this article is especially addressed.

The Sales Department and all others connected with the National Phonograph Company can see nothing in the next nine months but a period of unexampled demand for Edison goods. Every indication points to such a condition. We have kept our factories running to their utmost limit right through the summer, making more Phonographs and Records than at any time in the history of the company. The little surplus gained over the regular demands of the trade has already disappeared into the stores of the Jobbers and we begin September on practically an even basis. From now on the weekly output must take care of the trade. This output is something tremendous and will go a long way toward meeting the demand. Yet we know that it will not fully do so. We shall a little later be getting an increased output by reason of the new buildings being erected and new machinery installed. Still we are confident that the demand will exceed the supply.

Our advice to the trade, therefore, is to order well in advance. If you are a Jobber

9407 Jim Jackson's Last Farewell (Original) Ada Jones and Len Spencer
With orchestra incidental effects, and introducing the Coon song, "I've Said My Last Farewell" (Fisher).

9408 Since Nellie Went Away (Taylor) Edison Male Quartette
Male Quartette, unaccompanied.

9409 Waiting at the Church Medley (Original) Edison Military Band
Introducing "Waiting at the Church," "Souvenirs," "The Stars, the Stripes, and You" and "Bill Simmons."

Edison Gold Moulded Records are made only in Standard Size. Both Standard and Concert Records may be ordered from this list. Order by number, not title If Concert Records are wanted, give the number and letter C.

arrange for periodical shipments covering several months at least. If you are a Dealer get your Jobber to promise you a certain number of machines each month and as many Records as you may need. At the same time put in a stock as large as you can afford. We are quite selfish in offering this advice, and yet the trade will later find that it will benefit them quite as much as it will us.

Don't think, however, Mr. Jobber or Mr. Dealer, that all you have got to do is put in the goods. That's a good start, but it's only part of the game. We are going to do a whole lot ourselves to make selling easy, by extensive advertising to get people to your stores, but you have got to do your share, too. If you are a Jobber you must follow up Dealers. Get them to put in a good stock and show them how to handle and push its sale. If you are a Dealer you must seek to interest the people in your locality by various kinds of advertising. The Dealer who heretofore waited for people to come to him will be surprised to find the business he will do in Edison goods if he goes after it in the right way.

AT THE FACTORY.

The old red one-story frame building which has sheltered the office force at Orange ever since Mr. Edison's companies began to manufacture the Phonograph was abandoned on August 4th. On that date the various executive departments were moved into temporary quarters on the third floor of the new concrete office building. Here they are practically camping out in one large room occupying a full floor. They will eventually occupy the first and second floors, and although the interior work is going rapidly forward it will be two months before they will be ready for occupancy. The old frame office building had scarcely been abandoned before it was dismantled and moved to a neighboring street. Where it stood in the factory grounds another large five-story concrete building is already under way. This building will connect the extensions to buildings Nos. 17 and 18. When completed these buildings will occupy three sides of a parallelogram about 450 feet long and 200 feet wide.

Work on other new buildings has also made fine progress during the month. The new Record moulding building is up to the fourth floor. It will be enclosed in another six weeks. This building is being pushed more rapidly than others because it is hoped to occupy it before January 1st and thus greatly increase our Record making facilities and greatly aid in handling shipments.

THE PHONOGRAM.

There seems to be no limit to the popularity of the little Phonogram among Jobbers and Dealers. Its monthly edition is rapidly nearing the half million mark—a most remarkable showing considering the circumstances under which it is being distributed. For the benefit of new Jobbers and Dealers we print below the schedule of prices at which it is sold to the trade. These prices are alike to Jobber and Dealer. The former handle them without a margin, realizing that the more printed matter of this kind their Dealers use the greater will be the Dealers' business with them. Dealers desiring to get a supply of Phonograms to mail to their customers must order them of Jobbers two months in advance, and we cannot agree to fill Jobber's orders unless placed with us a similar period in advance.

DELIVERED WITH GOODS.

Blank, per 1,000 copies.....$2.50

25 cents additional for imprinting with Dealer's name and address, without regard to quantity. No orders filled for less than 500 copies requiring imprint, and all imprinting orders must be for multiples of 500.

BY MAIL.

Single copies, per year.....$ .20
Five copies to one address, per year..... .80
Twenty-five copies to one address, per year..... 1.60
Fifty copies to one address, per year..... 2.50

Unless they have open accounts on our books, Dealers ordering Phonograms sent by mail are requested to send cash or stamps with their orders. The amounts are too small to handle in any other way.

OUR SEPTEMBER ADVERTISING.

On page 13 of this issue we print a copy of our full page advertisement in September magazines and weeklies. The publications in which it is appearing are the leading ones of the country and they go into many million homes. This advertising cannot fail to arouse a greater and ever growing interest in the Edison product. The public knows that Mr. Edison will not stand behind anything that he does not regard as the best of its kind. When to this fact is added widespread advertising, the trade will realize why the Edison business is growing so tremendously. A Dealer who does not carry the Edison line is only half equipped for doing a successful business.

THE JOBBERS' ENTERTAINMENT.

An aftermath of the Jobbers' entertainment in July was a lot of splendid letters from the company's guests on that occasion, all speaking in the highest terms of the success of the affair and of the delightful time they had as individuals.

ONLY NAME "EDISON" ON CABINETS.

For several years the popular styles of Edison Phonographs have had the cabinets marked in large gold and black letters with the words "Edison Gem Phonograph," "Edison Standard Phonograph," etc. Since most Edison Phonographs now occupy prominent places in homes, objection has often been made to the lettering as being too prominent. Consequently this lettering has been abandoned, and all Phonographs now being shipped from Orange bear on the front of the cabinet only the name "Edison," printed in gold in imitation of Mr. Edison's own signature. This change very much improves the appearance of the cabinet. The new transfer does not in any manner effect the construction of the machines.

DEALERS' LABELS ON CARTONS.

We have had occasion several times to write Dealers on the Pacific coast in reference to making use of small labels on Record boxes, some of which obliterate our restriction notice. In each instance we have taken the position that the company had no objection to the trade making use of a small label to indicate to the purchaser where the Record was bought, so long as the Dealer's label was used in a way not to obliterate any part of our own label, and suggested that such labels be affixed either to the bottom or the cover of the cartons. We have particularly suggested that such a label be used in the form of a narrow strip which could be pasted around the rim of the cover. Dealers desiring to use special labels of their own should comply with the above suggestions.

NET THIRTY DAYS, TWO PER CENT. TEN DAYS.

Our attention has been called to alleged violations of the terms under which goods of our manufacture are sold to Dealers. It is claimed that Jobbers are offering to deliver goods to Dealers on better terms than thirty days net, or 2 per cent. ten days; and in some instances, are making immediate delivery and giving advanced dating on invoices.

The sale of goods of our manufacture under such terms is a positive violation of the Jobber's Agreement, and all Jobbers are hereby warned not to allow Dealers better terms than thirty days net, or 2 per cent. ten days, as specified in the agreement, and they are further warned that upon receipt of positive evidence of violations of these terms, we will immediately take such action against the Jobber as the case may warrant.

AMONG THE JOBBERS.

The Powers & Henry Co., of Pittsburg, have removed from 619 Penn avenue to 101 Sixth street.

W. D. Andrews and the Neal, Clark & Neal Co., have become Jobbers in Edison goods at Buffalo, N. Y., during the past month. Mr. Andrews is also a Jobber at Syracuse, N. Y., but under the new rules of the National Phonograph Co. he was required to sign a new agreement and purchase the initial quantity to become a Jobber at Buffalo. Hereafter Jobbers will not be permitted to do a jobbing business at branch stores in other cities except on the same conditions as a new Jobber. The Early Music House, of Fort Dodge, Ia., also opened a new jobbing branch at Sioux City, Ia., under the new conditions last month.

The Musical Echo Co., of 1217 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, have joined the ranks of Edison Jobbers and plan to make a hustling campaign for business.

Kohler & Chase, Inc., of Oakland, Cal., have just become Edison Jobbers.

The Kipp-Lintz Phonograph Co., Edison Jobbers at Indianapolis, have just added 2,000 feet more to their wholesale department, and have added an extensive quantity of machines, Records and supplies to their stock. All of this is in anticipation of the great increase of business which is coming this fall, and so that they may be in a position to give the Dealers better service.

PHONOGRAPH IN PULPIT.

The Rev. Jay N. Taft, Ph. D., an uncle of Rev. Clinton J. Taft, will preach at the East Side Congregational church to-morrow morning on "Common Sense Religion." The evening meeting will consist of a sacred concert on the Phonograph, to be followed by a lecture by Dr. Taft on "Following Old Glory," illustrated by Phonograph.—Binghamton Republic, August 11th, 1906.

For the use of Dealers at fairs in September we have printed a good sized edition of a little folder in four colors, Form 945, and another large edition of the popular imitation theatre ticket, Form No. 875. Jobbers are being supplied with quantities of both forms and will in a few days be in a position to fill the wants of Dealers. Since all of our shipments to Dealers direct are F. O. B. Orange, Dealers can save transportation charges by getting all printed matter from Jobbers.

SIX NEW HEBREW SELECTIONS.

We beg to advise the trade that we have just made six new Hebrew selections as named below. These Edison Records will be ready for shipment on and after September 1st. Advance orders may be placed at any time and shipment will be made after September 1st, with other goods by freight, unless different shipping instructions are given. A limited number of a special supplement will be printed and where orders for them are given by Jobbers they will be shipped with Records. The selections are as follows:

SOLOS BY SOLOMON SMULEWITZ, TENOR.

18851	Freitag af der Nacht.	Comic song, Orch. accom.
18853	Sommer hut Nacht auf die Aechter (Rooney)	Comic song, Orch. accom.
18854	Dunkl Monkl Blauen (von die Grine Kinder) (Friedzell)	Comic song, Orch. accom.
18855	Oi, oui, schneidnen jüden (Gumbrecht)	Comic song, Orch. accom.
18856	Beseelias (Engelrath)	Comic song, Orch. accom.
18857	Der Pastuehl von Palestine (Smulewitz)	Patriotic song, Orch. accom.

All of these songs have been selected because of special demands, each composition being very popular among Hebrews. Mr. Smulewitz, who sings them for our Records, is very prominent in the musical world. He is the author of about 250 musical compositions, including three successful operettas. Mr. Smulewitz is a very fine tenor and his voice is especially suitable for Record singing.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN NOVEMBER LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our November list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers.

9287	The Moon Has His Eyes on You—York Music Co., New York.
9288	The Bee that Gets the Honey Doesn't Hang Around the Hive—Hirt & Hagen, New York.
9290	Face to Face—Waldo Music Co., Boston, Mass.
9291	The Songs of the Dog Time Boy—Harry Von Tilzer, New York.
9292	The Girl I Love I Ride On—Francis, Day & Hunter, New York.
9294	Won't You Come Over to My House—Jerome H. Remick Co., New York.
9295	Are You Coming Out To-night, Mary Ann?—Harry Von Tilzer Music Publishing Co., New York.
9298	Not Because Your Hair is Curly—Victor Kremer Co., Chicago, Ill.
9299	The Lover and the Bird—Oliver Ditson Co., Boston, Mass.
9401	Dixie Land—Carl Fischer, New York.
9403	Three Little Marys—Cooper, Kendis & Paley Music Publishing Co., New York.
9404	Jingles, Jokes and Rhymes—M. Witmark & Sons, New York.
9405	The Golden Crown Overture—Thompson & Odell, New York.
9406	Everybody Have A Good Old Time—Ed. Rogers Music Publishing Co., New York.
9408	Since Nellie Went Away—New York Publishing House, New York.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison and family are making a five weeks' automobile trip in Canada. They left Orange on August 7th and will make the entire trip both ways in automobiles.

When too late to note the fact in the August PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY, a decision was reached to retain Frank E. Madison as manager of the Agreement Department at the New York office, instead of sending him to Boston to take charge of the branch office of the Commercial Department.

MICA DIAPHRAGMS CANNOT BE FURNISHED.

Now that the copper diaphragm has been adopted as the standard in connection with Edison Reproducers, the trade is hereby advised that we are unable to furnish reproducers equipped with mica diaphragms or to furnish mica diaphragms as extras. Orders for either of the latter will be returned unfilled. The trade will save correspondence by not sending such orders.

FOREIGN SELECTIONS CUT OUT.

We have no more moulds of the foreign selections named below and, when our present stock of these Records is exhausted, we will be unable to fill orders for them:

12129	Ist denn kein Stuhl da für meine Holda (German)	Gottschall
12182	Aria del Trovador (Spanish)	Vargas

HOW HE BECAME A DEALER.

It was along in the infancy of the Phonograph that I and some friends were invited into a store to listen to a church choir make a Record. It was the first Phonograph that I had ever heard. After the choir had made the Record the Dealer, to amuse us, played a familiar hymn on the machine. In the meantime I had noticed a lady who was purchasing some other articles in the store who seemed amazed at the voices as they came from the Phonograph. Presently she broke into a flood of tears and departed from the store. Curious to know of the cause I followed her and persuaded her to return to the store, when we learned that the boy whose voice we heard in the hymn was her son who had been dead for two months. I was so impressed with the usefulness of the Phonograph and how that it would supplant the photograph in keeping the voices of departed ones in place of their faces that I became an Edison Dealer. I have any amount of Records that have been made by those who have gone, and friends call at my store to hear the voices of some loved ones.—Wallace Duncan, 2832 Kensington avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

DEALERS MAY NOW GET PRINTED MATTER AHEAD OF RECORDS.

Realizing the justice of the claim of Dealers, that they should be permitted to have Phonograms, supplements, etc., in advance of Records, so as to get their mailing lists ready, the following letter was, on August 4th, mailed to all Jobbers, and a similar notice was mailed to all Dealers:

DEAR SIR:—Beginning with the September issues, we now supply your Dealers with Phonograms, supplements and other printed matter on the 20th of that month, provided your Dealers will agree not to sell or distribute the same before the 25th. Should any of your Dealers fail to comply with the latter restriction, you will be expected to refuse to let them have assembly printed matter in advance of Records.

We have adopted this plan only because of complaints of Dealers that the new shipping plan placed them at a disadvantage with Jobbers, in that it gave the latter an opportunity to get their mailing lists ready in advance and denied the same privilege to them.

Please advise your Dealers concerning this new arrangement, and caution them against mailing the matter in advance.

We hope that no Dealers will abuse this privilege by sending out Phonograms or other printed matter before they get their Records for the month. Those who do abuse it will be denied the right to get it in advance.

Many Dealers have written their appreciation of this new plan for handling printed matter.

RECORD CARTONS FIVE CENTS EACH.

Owing to the demand for the new style felt lined Record boxes we have placed a list price of five cents each on them, less fifty per cent. discount to the trade, F. O. B. Orange, N. J.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE CONCERNING PHONOGRAPH EQUIPMENTS.

The following letter, which has just been mailed to the entire trade, is self explanatory:

DEAR SIRS:—Referring to the notice issued in the equipment of Edison Phonographs, whereby a speaking-tube or hearing-tube was included in place of the 14-inch horn, please take notice that effective this date this notice is withdrawn, and that hereafter we will supply all machines with the regular equipment, only listed to go with them, that is:

"Standard" with Model C Reproducer, 14-inch horn, wicker carrying cover, camel's-hair chip brush.

"Standard" with Model C Reproducer, 14-inch horn, camel's-hair chip brush, winding crank, antique finish.

"Home" with Model C Reproducer, improved Edison Recorder, 14-inch horn, wicker carrying cover, winding crank, camel's-hair chip brushes and knife.

"Triumph" with Model C Reproducer, improved Edison Recorder, 14-inch horn, sapphire shaving knife, camel's-hair cabinet and oak cover, winding crank, camel's-hair chip brush.

"Rational" with Model C Reproducer, improved Edison Recorder, 14-inch horn, sapphire shaving knife, camel's-hair chip brush.

"Conqueror" with the same equipment as the "Rational."

"Concert" with Model D Reproducer, improved Edison Recorder, sapphire shaving knife, 14-inch horn and cover, 14-inch black and gold horn, and shelf (support), winding crank, camel's-hair chip brush.

"Opera" and "Oratorio" with the same equipment as the "Concert."

Also please take notice that all Phonographs must be delivered with the horn and other parts or accessories furnished by us; and that under no circumstances or conditions can a credit be allowed in any way, shape or manner for the horn or other parts furnished by us as part of the equipments; neither can a Phonograph delivery be made for the horn or other accessories which may be of a different material or style, or for any other article not regularly included by us as a part of the Phonograph outfit. In other words, the outfits must be sold by you as furnished by us, and at the regular scale of prices. In cases where a larger or a different style horn, or any accessories are desired, they must be sold as an add entirely separate from the Phonograph outfit, and at the full price of such horn, accessory or other article.

Any violation of these requirements will be considered a violation of our conditions of sale.

Yours truly,
H. WESSON,
Gen. Mgr. of Sales.

EDISON AND THE ROENTGEN RAYS.

The Roentgen Rays, though not, in the first instance, an American discovery, is responsible to Edison for the state of practical utility to which its operations have been brought. If Edison had never done anything in developing science beyond this, he would have placed the world and humanity under the greatest obligation. Inventors as a class are generally a jealous and reticent company. They keep their discoveries so carefully locked up that the majority of inventors pass on to the next world unheard of, and the few who show any enterprise only succeed so far as to produce something that will merely benefit humanity. Edison is not one of this class. He is the coworker with, not the rival of, others. He is "at home" to all who have a serious object in view. Men who would have gone down to posterity as mediocrities, perhaps as nonentities, owe their position and wealth to his assistance, encouragement, and advice; they have personally prospered and benefited the world by entrusting their confidence to him. Giants are usually modest men, and Edison is a typical example—Irish Weekly Independent.

BETTER THAN A BAND.

If the Edison Phonograph was not in existence the town of Laguna, New Mexico, would not have had half the Fourth of July celebration its people had figured on. After the day's festivities were concluded we had arranged for a grand ball to take place in the large warehouse of the S. Bibo Mercantile Co. Under a misunderstanding the band of music engaged for the occasion failed to arrive, and after much skirmishing an Edison Phonograph owned by Mrs. Gus. Weis was brought into use and from 9 P. M. until 4 A. M. a merry crowd danced to the music of the machine. The music was as good as could have been had if that engaged had arrived and all gave a vote of thanks to Mr. Edison for providing music. During the evening and between dances numerous selections were played for the entertainment of the people. You should have been here to see the faces of some of the audience. This being an Indian village lots of native Indians were in attendance as lookers-on and the way they opened their eyes and enjoyed the music of the machine was a sight to see.—Gus Weis, Manager S. Bibo Mercantile Co.

ADVANCE LIST.

GRAND OPERA SUPPLEMENT No. 4, NOVEMBER, 1906.

The fourth list of Edison Grand Opera Records comprises Nos. B-31 to B-40 and includes selections by ten different artists of high rank in the grand opera world. From every standpoint these are most desirable Records. Each song is one of the most popular airs in the opera from which it is taken. All are rendered just as the artists sing them on the stage. They are recorded in that smooth and natural manner so characteristic of the Edison product.

These Records will be shipped with the regular monthly Records for November and will be placed on sale at the same time, i. e., October 27. In order that shipments may be made so as to reach all Jobbers in ample time, the latter are required to place advance orders for Grand Opera Records on or before September 10. It is equally desirable that Dealers should place advance orders with their Jobbers at the same time.

Compared to the demand for regular Records, there never will be a large sale for Grand Opera Records, but every Dealer striving to build up a business in Edison goods should make it his duty to carry one or more of the entire forty thus far listed. One of each represents an outlay of only $18.00, a sum easily within the means of every live firm. Having them in stock, stamps a Dealer as being progressive and permits him to cater to all classes. Then, too, having them on hand may at any time mean the sale of a machine to a customer who could not be interested in popular music. Special supplements will be shipped to Jobbers with their Records. Get a few and mail them to your good customers. Send an order for Grand Opera Records to your Jobber at once.

COMMENTS ON EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR NOVEMBER, 1906.

No better illustration of the great versatility of the Edison Phonograph could be had than this list of twenty-four Edison Gold Moulded Records for November. Twenty-two different artists or combinations of artists are represented, only the Edison Military Band and the Edison Concert Band having more than one selection. Seven of the selections are instrumental and seventeen vocal. In the latter there are twelve solos, four duets and one quartette. The list runs from classical to ragtime, from sacred to vaudeville, from grave to gay—truly a variety from which all may find something to suit.

No. 9286, "Bohemian Festival" (Fete Boheme), by the Edison Concert Band, is a decidedly characteristic composition from Massenet's celebrated suite "Scenes Pittoresque," that will appeal to those whose tastes run to the higher grade compositions. This particular selection is one of the best known in the suite. It is featured on the programmes of the best musical organizations.

No. 9287, "The Moon Has His Eyes on You," by Ada Jones, is a sentimental ballad by Billy Johnson (words) and Albert Von Tilzer (music), a class of songs in which she is quite as charming as she is in dialect or rag-time compositions. This song tells of the lover wooing in the moonlight. He entwines his arms around his sweetheart's waist, and when he asks her to be his, gets this reply:

The moon has his eyes on you,
So be careful what you say or do,
Every time you go a-courting with your lady love,
Mister moon is watching from above.
He's got his eye on the skies,
Be wise, don't let him surprise,
Don't you dare,
For way up there the moon has his eyes on you.

The words are set to a catchy melody, making a song of unusual merit. It is being featured by its publishers, The York Music Co., of New York, and is already very popular. Miss Jones sings it with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9288, "The Bee That Gets the Honey Doesn't Hang Around the Hive," by Bob Roberts, is sung by Lew Dockstader in Dockstader's Minstrels, and is one of the big hits of the show. The words are by Ed. Rose and the music by Fred Hall. The song is another variation of the oft told tale of the lazy coon who sits around the house while his wife supports the family at the wash-tub. The wife points out his shortcomings in a decidedly personal manner, dwelling upon his purchase of a rocking-chair so that he could sit and dream, when she had sent him to buy a washing machine with her savings of a year, and closing with the statement that "The bee that gets the honey doesn't hang around the hive." Mr. Roberts' rendition of the song is a close imitation of Mr. Dockstader. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9289, "Medley of Reels," is another accordion solo by John Kimmble. Mr. Kimmble's first Record was a great success. That this one will be equally as popular will be admitted by all who hear this selection. It is full of variety and well rendered.

No. 9290, "Face to Face," is a sacred selection by Harry Anthony. Mr. Anthony has sung ballads and sentimental songs and he has been heard numerous times in sacred duets with Mr. Harrison, but this is the first sacred solo that he has made for us. It is one of the most beautiful sacred selections that we have ever listed. The words and music are the kind that appeal to all hearers, and Mr. Anthony's training as a church singer enables him to make a Record of great attractiveness. He sings with orchestra accompaniment. Herbert Johnson wrote both the words and the music.

No. 9291, "Songs of the Rag Time Boy," by Collins and Harlan, is another song hit by Andrew B. Sterling (words), and Henry Van Tilzer (music), writers of some of the most popular songs of the present day. Many of them are listed in our catalogue. The rag time boy is the merriest of souls. He always knows the latest songs and is ever humming and whistling them. The chorus is quite unique, being made up of a line of music from seven different songs. Collins and Harlan sing it in their best style, being accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9292, "The Next Horse I Ride On," by Helen Trix, is a new popular song by Fred Murray and George Everard, which has been chosen by Miss Trix for her second Edison Record. A young girl's father came into some money and he insisted that his daughter should learn to ride horseback. The first time she was on the horse she wrote a note asking backward. Her position was more correct the second time, but the horse went so fast that the girl had a no less unhappy experience. Each time she declared that "The next horse I ride on, I am going to be tied on." The song has a good swing. Miss Trix has made a Record of it that will add to her popularity as an Edison artist. She sings with orchestra accompaniment. This song has been widely sung by Vesta Victoria, who also made a great success with "Waiting at the Church."

No. 9293, "Blue Ribbon March," by the Edison Military Band, is an unpublished composition by Frederick W. Ecke, the new leader of the Edison Military Band. Mr. Ecke is a musician of unusual talent, as all who hear this selection can testify. The air is characteristic of the riding-ring, with its highstepping and stylish horses. It has the full rousing tone so much admired by many lovers of band Records.

No. 9294, "Won't You Come Over to My House," by Irving Gillette, is a new popular song by Egbert Van Alstyne (music), and Harry Williams (words), who became famous as the writers of "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree." This fact will lend more than ordinary interest to this song, which, however, is more pathetic than sentimental. A young mother, who has lost her own little daughter, invites a lonesome little lass over the way to come to her house and play. Much popularity for this song is predicted by its publishers. Mr. Gillette has made a fine Record of it, the orchestra accompaniment being an attractive feature.

No. 9295, "Are You Coming Out To-night, Mary Ann?" by Billy Murray, is an Irish serenade written by Harry Von Tilzer (music) and Andrew B. Sterling (words). The words are an appeal from Mike McGee to his sweetheart and his soft words, or "blarney," are typical of his race. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9296, "Draw Me Nearer," the sacred duet for November by Anthony and Harrison, is a beautiful composition by Fanny J. Crosby, set to music by W. H. Doane. The tone of this hymn makes comment unnecessary. It is also needless to say that our Record of it is artistically made. The orchestra accompanies the singers.

No. 9297, "Happy Lena Polka," by Albert Benzler, is another of Mr. Benzler's excellent xylophone solos and the first polka selection made by this instrument for our catalogue. It has a pleasing melody and is well played by Mr. Benzler, with orchestra accompaniment. The composition was specially arranged for our Record and has not yet been published.

No. 9298, "Not Because Your Hair is Curly," by Harry MacDonough, is a song by Bob Adams that is very popular in the West and its popularity is fast coming East. We have listed it in response to many calls from the West. It is a sentimental love song. He loves her, not because her hair is curly, not because her eyes are blue, but "cause its you, just you." Mr. MacDonough makes the most of the attractive air, and he sings with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9299, "The Rube and the Country Doctor," by Harlan and Stanley, is a Record that will be welcomed by the thousands of admirers of the Rube series made by these two Edison artists. This one gives a witty dialogue between Rube and the country doctor. It has the usual song duet and some realistic features new to these Records. "The Rube and the Country Doctor" must be heard to be appreciated.

No. 9300, "Lover and the Bird," by Florence Hinkle, is the first solo Record that Miss Hinkle has made for us, although she has been heard to advantage in the Edison Mixed Quartette. Miss Hinkle has a fine soprano voice and her Record of this composition by P. D. Guglielmo is most attractive. An incidental feature is some remarkably fine bird imitations. The Record is made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9301, "Frau Louise," by the Edison Concert Band, is a composition written by Arthur Pryor, the well known band master, by whom it is styled a "comedy waltz." The music is characteristic of a German hall where the old style waltz is still popular, and where the modern two-step is unknown. In fact, the music is almost German enough to talk. A few words in German dialect give the Record a unique finish.

No. 9302, "Song of the Nations," by Edward Meeker, is a selection that was not published when our Record was made. Joe Belmont, who is so well known as a whistler, has tried his hand at composition. Those who hear the Record will agree that he has succeeded admirably. The words lead up to the "Wacht am Rhein." "The Wearing of the Green," and the "Red, White and Blue," all of which are played by the orchestra when introduced. This Record is quite different from anything listed in some time and because of its variety cannot fail to be popular. Mr. Meeker sines it with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9303, "Cheer Up, Mary," by Byron G. Harlan, has become one of the popular sentimental ballads of the day. Its music was written by Kendis-Paley and the words are by Alfred Bryan. It is the sort of a song that suits Mr. Harlan's voice and he makes the most of it, being assisted by the orchestra.

No. 9304, "Jingles, Jokes and Rhymes," by Edward M. Favor, is a Record that includes three verses and two choruses of a topical song written by Benjamin Hapgood Burt and sung with orchestra accompaniment. Mr. Favor has made a great success with songs of this character, some of his Records in the past year being among the largest sellers we have had. It is safe to predict that this Record will be near the top of the November list. "Jingles, Jokes and Rhymes" treats of Washington and his hatchet, Dowie and religion on the installment plan, and Jonah and the whale.

No. 9305, "Golden Crown Overture," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is an excellent addition to the high-class orchestra selections already listed in our catalogue. The music is of a light, graceful character. It is one of those compositions that cannot be recorded by any other process than that employed in making our Records. This overture was written by A. Herman.

No. 9306, "Everybody Have a Good Old Time," by Arthur Collins, is a new coon song by Ed. Rogers, composer of "Grand-Pa, I'm Going to be a Soldier" (our Record No. 9268), "Who Don't You Write When You Don't Need Money" (our Record No. 9276). The burden of this song is an invitation of the coon, who has suddenly become very wealthy, to his many friends to have a good old time. He lives in the height of style. He has pajamas for his breese. He feeds him lamb and peas. He has fifty courses for every meal. His carpets and rugs are of finest seal. His money is stacked so high that he has to walk on stilts. He has a blanket made of fifty dollar notes. He uses ten dollar bills to line his coat. He lights his pipe with twenties when the fifties are shy. Consequently he can afford to invite everybody to have a good old time. Mr. Collins renders the song most effectively and he is accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9307, "Jim Jackson's Last Farewell," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is another clever addition to the vaudeville Records made by these two talented artists. It contains the usual funny dialogue between Jim and his Desdemona, and the customary duet singing. The Record must be heard to be appreciated. The singing is done with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9308, "Since Nellie Went Away," by the Edison Male Quartette. is a very popular descriptive song made for the first time on a Record by a quartette. It sends the following message to Nellie in the city, inviting her to return to the farm:

Tell her that the blue bells are growing on the heather,
And that her mother longs for her each day;
Just say at evening pray'r we gently speak her name together,
And say it's very lonely alone Nellie went away.

The song is written by Herbert H. Taylor, and is most effectively sung by our quartette without accompaniment.

No. 9490, "Waiting at the Church Medley," by the Edison Military Band, is written to march time and introduces the following selections: "Waiting at the Church" (our Record No. 9315), "Somewhere" (our Record No. 9379), "The Stars, the Stripes and You" (our Record No. 9363), "Bill Simmons" (our Record No. 9329).

OFFENDING JOBBERS PUNISHED.

Below is printed part of a letter sent to all Jobbers on August 11th by General Manager of Sales C. H. Wilson. It refers to four violations of the agreement under which monthly Records are being shipped to Jobbers with the understanding that they will not be reshipped to Dealers before 8 A. M. on the 27th of each month:

DEAR SIR:—For not complying with our conditions of sale in regard to the 27th (27th of the month), and four (8 A. M.), on which new monthly Records could leave their store or possession, we will be compelled to limit your shipment of October Records to 50 per cent. of your October order. Your shipment of these Records will be delayed to them until September 28th, or one day later than the same Records can be shipped or leave the store or possession of other Jobbers.

Here were given the names of the four offending Jobbers, with the facts about each violation. In no case did the Records reach Dealers until after the prescribed time and in one instance they left the Jobbers' store only a few minutes before time. The letter continued as follows:

In each of these cases our conditions of sale were absolutely and unquestionably violated in reshipping Records before the time mentioned. After having received our letter advising that new monthly Records could not leave their store or possession until 8 o'clock on the morning of the 27th of the month.

Similar action will be taken in all cases where we find that Records have been shipped, or have been allowed to leave their store or possession with the new monthly Records before 8 o'clock on the morning of the 27th of the month preceding the month under which the Records are listed.

Yours very truly,
C. H. WILSON,
Gen'l Mgr. of Sales.

In commenting upon the new plan in the EDISON PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY for May, we said:

* * * At the same time it places the entire trade on its honor, and we trust that no one will be so indifferent to the welfare of the business as to violate the confidence reposed in him. The plan puts every Jobber on his honor not to allow new Records and printed matter referring to same to leave his possession before the specified date. It places every individual in his employ on his honor to see that no surreptitious methods are employed to violate the full intent of the plan. It places every Dealer on his honor to do nothing that will in any wise tempt a Jobber or his employees to send them Records in advance of the selling date.

"We may seem to be laying special stress upon this feature, but to us it is very desirable that we shall not be called upon to impose the penalties for violation of contract. Those who do deliberately infringe are entitled to no sympathy, and yet it will be extremely difficult for us to impose penalties upon firms whose business with us aggregates many thousands of dollars each year. To enforce the plan, however, we shall do it without hesitancy, although we will deeply regret the circumstances that make it necessary. Violations of the conditions imposed will not benefit anyone and will cause much hardship to those taking part in the violation. We, therefore, sincerely trust that we shall have the cooperation of the entire trade to the extent that we shall not have a single violation reported to us."

The above may rest assured that it has given no pleasure to impose the penalty referred to in Mr. Wilson's letter. All of the offending Jobbers are enterprising Edison firms and their purchases of Edison goods each year entitle them to every consideration. Then, too, the personal relations between them and our people are of the most cordial character. If the matter in question was not, in our opinion, of the most vital importance we gladly have passed the violations by with a caution not to do it again. It was realized, however, that others would expect the same clemency and that the only certain way of stopping further violation was to apply the remedy at once.

We trust that we shall not again be called upon to issue a letter like the above. However, an absolute compliance with the conditions of the new shipping plan is necessary to its success, and we shall unhesitatingly impose a similar or more drastic penalty on any Jobbers who do not keep faith.

IT PAYS TO GO AFTER THEM.

ALLENTOWN, PA., Aug. 15, 1906.

About eight months ago you sent us the name and address of a prospective customer for an Edison Phonograph. This customer lived in Sewickley, Pa., which is about fourteen miles below our place. We did not waste time by writing and sending catalogues, etc., but sent one of our agents to see him, taking a Home and twelve Records with him. To cut a long story short, we sold the outfit. This customer tells us that he has been in the notion of purchasing a Phonograph these past two years but could never make up his mind to come to the city to buy one. Now had we written him instead of taking a machine to him, chances are that that sale would still be hanging fire.

SMITH & PITTENS.

BELIEVES IN THE GOODS.

The following is an extract from a letter received from B. Carrington, Blue Ash, Ia., dated August 8th:

"Blue Ash is a town of about 150 souls. In the past two months I have sold 5 Homes, 2 Standards, 1 Triumph, 2 Gems, and have a sale for a Balmoral as soon as I find out exactly what it will cost per hour to operate it.

* * * * * * *

"I have often wondered why you do not establish an agency for your machines in every town of the United States. I believe a hustler could open an agency in every town in the country if he thoroughly realized how much your machines are superior to all others and could convince the best man in each locality that it is very little trouble to sell your goods. I am sure that you have an agency in all the larger cities, but am afraid you neglect the cities from 1,000 to 10,000 population. I will sell more machines in twenty-five places of 1,000 population than I could in Chicago with its 2,500,000 people. People in the smaller cities buy Phonographs quicker than they do in the large cities. There are less poor people probably than in the small towns. In the large cities there are many other products."

This letter is printed to show the faith that Dealers have in the Edison Phonograph as being a desirable line in small places. Mr. Carrington is assured that we do not neglect cities of from 1,000 to 10,000 population. As a matter of fact there are few cities of 1,000 or more population that do not have at least one Edison Dealer.

NOTICE TO DEALERS CONCERNING EDISON MODEL D REPEATING ATTACHMENTS.

The following letter was mailed to all Dealers in August, accompanied by copies of instruction sheets:

Enclosed we send you direction sheets for attaching the Edison Model D Repeating Attachment to the various types of Edison Phonographs. We would suggest that you file these sheets away so that they may be readily found when needed.

In this connection we would call your attention to the fact that every Edison Phonograph Jobber in Europe and America will have his exhibition machine equipped with them. There is something fascinating about the almost human manner in which they cause a Phonograph to play the same Record over and over, and few Phonograph owners can resist the desire to own one. Besides being useful as a Demonstrator, it can perform other duties while the machine runs itself and sells Records.

You are making a mistake if you do not have one of your machines equipped with an Edison Repeating Attachment and make an effort to sell them to your customers. The price is only $10.00 each, and we attach to every Phonograph, and the trade discounts enable you to make an excellent profit on each sale. We are selling thousands of these devices each year. Your Jobber will tell you more about them.

A BUSINESS MARVEL.

As the year grows apace the development of the talking machine business is causing manufacturers to marvel The principal Jobbers throughout the country are enlarging their stocks in a manner quite unexpected, and it is to meet this demand for Records and machines that factories have not only increased their output and facilities, but are being operated continuously, night and day. Traveling salesmen are turning in orders from entirely new sources, not to mention duplicates from regular customers. Jobbers in turn are arranging their business on a larger scale than ever before, securing more commodious quarters so as to store and handle stock of the general line to better advantage. In brief, the entire trade only since the opening of the year seems to have broadened out in obedience to current selling conditions and is occupying a new high level. Dealers are imbued with the same spirit and especially is this apparent in the music trade. Recognizing the peculiar fitness of this having a talking machine department, they are now going ahead with commendable enterprise in order to make up for lost time and to regain what they have missed by an opportunity too long neglected.—Music Trade Review.

"FOL-THE-ROL-LOL" AGAIN A WINNER

Believing that it might interest some of the readers of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY to learn how Record No. 9142 sold a Phonograph, I submit the following:

I carry a line of Edison Machines and Records and also a few disc records and needles to accommodate the wants of the people here who own disc "squeaking" machines, which were given away as premiums here last summer. A customer who owns one of these wind-squeaking machines came in several weeks ago to get some supplies when I was playing "Fol-the-rol-lol," your Record No. 9142, on an Edison Triumph Phonograph. "Why!" he said, "that piece is made up of some pieces I used to speak at school." He wanted to know if I could get the piece in a disc record. I told him that I could not, and he went away, but came in again several times and asked me to play it for him.

Last week he came in again and wanted to know the prices of the different outfits. He wanted to know if I would send him out a Home machine, cranz, 30-in. horn, and a dozen Records on approval. As I knew him to be responsible, I did so. The next day he came in and wanted 18 more Records to take out and try. I let him take them, and the day following he came in again and picked out nine more Records, and said he guessed he would keep the outfit and all the Records, giving me his check for $40.65 in payment. He also gave me an order for seven Records I was out of at the time.

I credit that one Record with making the sale, as I had tried several times to show him that it was very poor policy to pay a high price for disc records to play on such "horn" machines as those premium machines are, but he thought as he already had that machine, that he would keep it, until he heard No. 9142.—E. T. Gossett, Cerro Gordo, Ill.

HIS LAUGH IS ECHOING OVER THE WORLD.

"Vs—sl, a, ha, ha, ha, ha—a, ha, ha, ha, ha—I am old but I'm awfully tough!"

To sing this and other laughing songs, the selling agent for talking machines hunted high and low, over the whole United States. And where do you think he found the man? Right here in Albany. There may have been another man capable of singing these songs, but after a search of months and after trying some of the most talented performers on the vaudeville stage, the right man was found here in the Capital city of the Empire State, in the person of Andrew Keefe, once a junk dealer, and now conducting a retail stove store.

Possessing a hearty laugh that is infectious; a voice that is musical and versatile, capable of imitating the female voice, from contralto to soprano range, or the male from baritone to tenor, Mr. Keefe also tells "Rube" stories into the Phonograph, one of his best, but which has not yet made its appearance on the market, being held for the summer months, is "The Visit of Uncle Josh to a Department Store." The story recites a number of funny little incidents that happen in a large drygoods store, and after each incident Keefe sets you laughing so he makes the point of the story reach you by emphasizing it with his inimitable laugh.

The discovery of Keefe by the talking machine men was quite an accident. While a Phonograph traveling man—Mr. Hedden—was visiting W. J. Killen's store here, about three months ago, Keefe came strolling in.

"Say, I want to make a Phonograph Record for you," said Keefe. At the time a Record was being played, sung by Miss Ada Jones. The recording of a woman's voice is one of the hardest tasks for the Phonograph men, but Miss Jones's voice is perfect for the machine.

"Say," said Keefe, "I can sing like that."

Now, to anybody acquainted with the Phonograph business this sounded like a boast, for be it known that Miss Jones is simply in a class by herself. However, Keefe sprung a surprise. Twisting his mouth into a peculiar shape, he started in on "Just Plain Folks." It was Miss Jones's voice almost perfect.

However, it was in his own natural laughing songs that Keefe made his hit. He was instructed to sing in his own way a song, being accompanied by a piano. The experts agreed that they had found a star performer. Keefe was told to return to the laboratory three days later, when they would start making some of his Records, with the band accompaniment.

He did not know what was in store for him when he arrived at the laboratory at the time specified to begin making his Records for the largest audience a singer can ever have—the Phonograph audience. Andy Keefe's songs, which he sung then and there in the Phonograph are now being sung through that instrument in over a million homes—throughout America, from ocean to ocean. His delightful laughter is cheering our soldiers in the Philippines, is making happy the people of England, and in fact every civilized country on the globe.

Keefe was ushered into the record-making room, which is a sound-proof apartment, but constructed in such a way as to avoid all echo. He was instructed to take his position in front of a horn, about 30 inches long, with a bell opening of about six inches. The various players of the band took their places, but not the same as a regular band. All the instruments but the basses were placed behind the horn and all were pointing directly at Keefe's ears. It was here that Keefe showed his aptitude for record making.

The band started the introductory bars and there was a terrific din in the room. He started to sing, but his voice was lost down in the long narrow horn, and all he could hear was the tremendous sound from the band. Of course the first attempt was a failure—it always is.

As Keefe put it: "If I could only have heard myself sing the first word, so I could get started, I would have been all right."

The reason for this arrangement is in the fact that the human voice is many times weaker than a brass band. Every Record is now made with band accompaniment. As the singer is directly in front of the horn it cuts off a great deal of the sound and the music from the band must be very loud.

For a day and a half Keefe, the Phonograph band, and the experts persevered until they obtained a perfect master-record of the laughing song, from which millions of other Records can be duplicated by the gold mould process. Thus an Albany laugh is sent echoing all over the world.—Albany, N. Y., Exchange.

THE PHONOGRAPH AS A BAND TEACHER.

Nearly everything that is good comes from the country. Even the men who make the cities great originated in the rural districts. The latest musical novelty from the outlying section is the use of the Phonograph as a teacher for bands and orchestras. It makes rehearsals delights rather than tortures. It helps the musician who is not as clever as the others by giving him the correct time and expression at once. What would take half a dozen rehearsals to properly learn, can be accomplished in a few with the aid of the Phonograph.

A good feature about the automatic instrument is that the selection can be repeated until the musicians are sure that they have the right swing and emphasis. It is possible to secure Records of all compositions that possess merit, and as they reproduce the playing of skilled musicians they can always be relied upon. Thus the country band has simplified a labor that used to be onerous. In the Phonograph it has found a device that will save time, toil, wear and tear.

It will not be long before bands and orchestras throughout the entire country will be using the Phonograph as a sort of critic at rehearsals. Its use in this connection should be encouraged. Its value can easily be recognized.

Hats off to the new leader, the Phonograph! —Musical Advertiser.

WHAT you want is your kind of music. It may be classical or it may be "rag-time." It may be the "hit" of the latest musical comedy or it may be a selection from "Faust." With the

you can have your kind of music and your friends can have their kind. This wonderful music-maker has no single specialty. It is a versatile entertainer. It produces, with fidelity, the songs of all singers; the music of the masters; the old tunes as well as the popular airs of the day.

To Whom You Can Sell I.C.S. Language Outfits

Any dealer who gives the matter serious and thoughtful consideration must admit that there is an enormous field for I. C. S. Language Outfits. The average person who purchases a phonograph and records for amusement purposes sooner or later becomes tired of his fad and stops investing in records. If he can put his now unused phonograph to some profitable use by purchasing an I. C. S. Outfit, he will readily do so. Here is one big field for the I. C. S. Language Outfit.

Next, there is a class of people, which consists of the wealthy and highly cultured, whom you can never interest at all in the phonograph for amusement purposes, but who are the easiest to sell I. C. S. Language Outfits to, since nearly all of them are desirous of learning a foreign language either for purposes of travel or culture. Here is the second big field.

The third field consists of all present phonograph owners, including your steady customers, who would only be too glad to find a profitable as well as a pleasurable use for their phonograph.

In addition to this large and ready market, you have an article to sell which is of real worth, and which would naturally appeal to any person. The I. C. S. Language system is indorsed by the best educators in the country. The pronunciation is the purest of native tongues, guaranteed to be absolutely correct, and indorsed by the French, German, and Spanish Embassies. The phonograph is an Edison Standard phonograph with the I. C. S. attachments specially designed for Language study.

I.C.S. LANGUAGE SYSTEM with Thomas A. Edison PHONOGRAPH

Could anything be more conducive to increased business for YOU than such a field, and such a meritorious article? Dealers who have tried them out, heartily indorse the I. C. S. Language Outfits. Have you ever given them a trial? If not, send now for particulars and prices.

RETAIL SEASON OPENING STRONG.

October may be set down as the opening month for retail trade in Edison Phonographs and Records, and judging by reports from Jobbers and Dealers generally, the season is beginning fully up to the expectations of the most sanguine. It also promises to be all that has been predicted for it, namely, the greatest season in the history of the business. With the retail season fairly opened, greater activity may be looked for in the entire trade. Orders thus far placed with us for Edison goods have been largely from Jobbers with plenty of capital and ample room to store a large stock of machines and Records. These Jobbers have exhausted our surplus stock of machines and kept our Record making plant on the jump to fill their orders. Now will come the Jobbers, whose facilities will not enable them to carry a heavy stock. The demands of the retail trade will cause the stock of these Jobbers to move quickly and then will follow the usual fall demand for goods.

We never have been in such good condition as at present to meet the requirements of the trade, and the demand must be great indeed that we cannot handle reasonably quickly. Both the machine and Record making departments are in splendid shape. They have been working up to their capacity right through the summer and consequently are turning out the maximum number of Phonographs and Records, avoiding the delays of previous years incident to putting on and breaking in new men and gradually working up the weekly output. The trade will recall the delay of a year ago, due to the working up process. The output is now and for months has been considerably greater than the best months of last year. For months we have averaged over a thousand Phonographs a day. The present output is still greater. This will be maintained and probably increased through the fall and winter. Stock orders now on file from Jobbers will take about three-quarters of the output till January at the present rate of manufacture. The orders yet to come from Jobbers must be filled out of the remaining quarter and the additional machines and Records gained by an increased output as we get possession of our new buildings. It will, therefore, be seen that in spite of the greatly improved manufacturing situation it is going to be a struggle to keep up with the demand of the next six months or more. It is not too late to urge Jobbers still hanging back to arrange with our Sales Department for periodical shipments of Phonographs and for sufficient Records to make their stock complete. To defer it much longer will be to take chances that may later cause much regret. The Record exchange proposition referred to on other pages is also going to complicate the Record situation for some time and make it even more desirable to arrange for future shipments.

ADVERTISING—PRESENT AND FUTURE.

The advertising that the National Phonograph Co. is now doing and will do during the fall and winter is going to be an important factor in creating a demand for Edison goods. We shall not only advertise as much as ever in the general magazines and periodicals of large circulation, but we shall also spend an equal sum in one of the largest and most thorough newspaper campaigns in the history of the trade. This takes no account of the many million pieces of printed matter that will be placed in the hands of Dealers for the purpose of getting business. All of this advertising is going to be so distributed that it will benefit the entire trade. Remote indeed will be the Dealer whose business will not be improved by it. Dealers generally will benefit by it according to their preparedness. If they are carrying a stock sufficient in size and variety to meet ordinary demands it will do them much good. If the public cannot find what it wants in Dealers' stores the latter will get little out of the advertising. The moral of this is: Stock up. This does not mean that the small Dealer must carry every Record in the catalogue, but he can put in a stock that will supply most of the requirements of his trade.

On page 13 is printed a copy of our advertisement in the October magazines and weeklies, copies of which probably go into half the homes of the United States and Canada. Mr. Dealer, are you doing all you can to get the good of this advertising?

PRINTED MATTER.

Dealers in the large cities, where many Hebrews live, should make an effort to push the sale of the six new Hebrew Records listed September 1st. Copies of the Hebrew supplement may be had from Jobbers. These should be mailed to special lists and especially to Hebrews who own Edison Phonographs.

Copies of a very pretty card printed in four colors and gold are being mailed to the trade with this copy of the PHONOGRAPH MONTHLY. It is a reproduction of the now famous Massini painting "The Phonograph," showing the old couple listening in amazed delight to an Edison Phonograph. It is Form No. 935. Orders from Jobbers are now being filled and most of them will be in a position to supply Dealers by October 15th. This card is so nicely printed that it should be used for a better grade of distribution than throwing them around the street. We believe that Dealers would get the best results from them by mailing copies to prospective customers.

Between August 1st and September 15th nearly four million pieces of printed matter were shipped by our Advertising Department to Jobbers for use by Dealers at county fairs. The demand by Dealers has been enormous. It had exhausted our entire stock of forms printed for fair use by September 15th. We could readily have disposed of much greater quantity had it been available.

No more orders from Jobbers can be filled for Forms Nos. 635, 690, 746, 825, 875, 898 and 945. The editions are exhausted and will not be reprinted.

In ordering Record catalogues, Jobbers should remember that a new issue will appear in November and not order a stock to last longer than November 15th. The new issue will contain all Records to and including the November supplement. None of the new issue will be shipped till November 1st. The new edition will be in use till March.

PERSONAL.

B. R. Barklow, former manager of the Bettini Phonograph Co., New York City, is now attached to the Sales Department of the National Phonograph Co., with headquarters in New York. Mr. Barklow, while comparatively new in the talking machine trade, has had a wide and varied business experience.

An Edison Phonograph and a selection of 100 Records have been purchased for six-year-old B. Forney Wiley, Jr., a musical prodigy of Atlanta, Ga. The youngster has created a mild sensation among those who know him by playing difficult piano accompaniments to the music of his Phonograph.

AMONG JOBBERS.

E. F. Droop & Sons have secured larger accommodations in Washington, where they are going to devote an entire floor to exclusive wholesale trade. They are also negotiating for larger quarters in Baltimore, so that they may be in a better position to cater to the wholesale trade this season than ever before.

Koehler & Hinrichs, of St. Paul, Minn., among the most recent of Edison Jobbers, wrote under date of September 5th as follows:

"We are having a very fine trade on Edison machines and Records, and it is surprising to see how quickly they sell. We received a letter from one of our customers this morning which read as follows: 'We are glad you have had such luck with the Records. Is it luck though or good business?' We congratulate you on your being able to fill such a large percentage of the order, which is the best we have ever had since we started in the business.' This would indicate that we ought to get some business from these parties."

C. B. Haynes, who for several years has represented the National Phonograph Co. as a salesman in New York and later in the South, has become a Jobber in Edison Phonographs and Records at 602 East Main street, Richmond, Va. Mr. Haynes has been in the Phonograph business for eight years, in which time he has become one of the best informed men in his line. He has a store exclusively in one of the most prominent parts of Richmond and is now hard at work getting his stock in shape. He will sell Edison goods only, his experience having shown that they meet every ordinary requirement. He will carry every Edison Record, making a special feature of being able to fill every order of his Dealers out of stock. Mr. Haynes's knowledge of the mechanical side of the business will also be useful to his trade.

The Early Music House, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, have moved their Phonograph department into a separate building, and have increased their capacity about four times as large as it has been. They now have a building that they are using exclusively for their wholesale Phonograph business, and have one of the best arranged stocks to be found anywhere.

George M. Nisbett, formerly at the head of the Chicago office of the National Phonograph Co., which position he held when this company decided to abolish the Chicago office, has been secured by Babson Bros., of Chicago, to manage the wholesale department of their business. Mr. Nisbett's knowledge of the Phonograph business is second to none. This, combined with excellent executive ability, should enable him to make a success of his new position. Babson Bros. have secured the third floor of 304 Wabash avenue, formerly the Chicago office of the National Phonograph Co., for their wholesale business and are now putting in a very large stock of Edison goods, which will be handled exclusively.

NOT EARLIER THAN THE 27th.

Although Jobbers are now permitted to let Dealers have Record supplements and Phonograms as early as the 20th of each month, it is important that neither Jobbers or Dealers shall distribute them to the public before the 27th. This stipulation is made for the good of the trade itself and not because of any damage that might be done by sending them out earlier. If some Dealers are permitted to mail or distribute them on the night of the 26th, their competitors will next month send theirs out at noon on the 26th. This policy of trying to best one another would eventually cause much confusion and trouble. Whenever we learn of any Jobbers or Dealers sending out this printing matter ahead of the 27th we shall endeavor to persuade them not to do so again. The best results from supplements and Phonograms will be secured by creating mailing lists of Phonograph owners; putting up the printed matter in advance and mailing it at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 27th. It will reach most customers the same day and when the Dealer has the new Records on his shelves.

DEALERS SHOULD ADVERTISE.

Among the plans that Dealers should consider for the fall is that of advertising. This includes newspapers and circularizing. Where the expense of advertising in newspapers is greater than a Dealer feels that he can afford, much may be accomplished by mailing printed matter to carefully prepared lists of people. Efforts should be made to get the names of all owners of cylinder machines and a copy of the Edison Record supplement or a copy of the Phonogram mailed to each every month. An excellent Record business may be secured in this way. An occasional letter will also prove profitable. Another list should be made up of people who are in a position to buy Phonographs and a letter, a circular or other piece of printed matter mailed to them at intervals. Advertising of this kind costs little but yields excellent return. Whenever a Dealer can afford it he should by all means advertise in the local papers. This directs to Dealers' stores the people who have become interested in the Edison Phonograph because of our national advertising.

JOBBERS AND PHONOGRAMS.

A Jobber recently asked the Advertising Department if the giving away of Phonograms to Dealers by a Jobber constituted a violation of agreement. We replied that, although it was not technically a violation, the practice was to be deplored, because if continued it would sooner or later make Jobbers stand the entire expense of furnishing Phonograms, or possibly compel its eventual discontinuation. This reply was made without giving the matter much thought. A more careful consideration shows that giving away Phonograms in quantities to dealers does constitute a violation of that paragraph in the conditions of sale which forbids the giving away of premiums of any kind to induce the sale of goods. When a Jobber gives a Dealer a quantity of Phonograms without cost he certainly does so as an inducement to that Dealer to buy of him. If any Jobbers are sending Phonograms to Dealers in quantities without making the usual charge for them we hope that they will stop doing so.

GO AFTER NEW DEALERS.

E. F. Droop & Sons, Edison Jobbers at Washington, D. C., and Baltimore, used a one-quarter page in the Washington duplex of August 25th for the purpose of interesting firms in becoming Dealers in Phonographs and talking machines. The effort to get new Dealers, and assist them in establishing and building new a business in this line is worth more attention than given it by many Jobbers. The most successful Jobbers are those who find good territory unoccupied and bend their efforts toward establishing a Dealer in it. Every Jobber should make a careful canvass of the live towns in his territory and make it his duty to sign a Dealer in each.

NO MORE FRAMED PICTURES.

In order that a large amount of correspondence might be avoided concerning supplying framed copies of the Massani painting "The Phonograph," a letter was, on September 5th, mailed to all Jobbers, asking them to send in requests from all Dealers whom they knew had not received a framed copy. This letter has brought in requests that will exhaust our supply of these frames and with their shipment the subject will be closed. Because of the lack of interest on the part of Dealers we shall not attempt to get another supply of these frames, but will mail an unframed copy of the picture to all Dealers who have not had one.

RETURN RECORD PROPOSITION.

The return Record proposition, which goes into effect October 1st and lasts for six days, gives every Jobber and Dealer a great chance to get rid of his entire stock of surplus, cut-out and defective Records and to begin the season with a stock of live, good selling, perfect Records. The Dealer who carries over any unsalable stock has only himself to blame. Dealers have but to order two new Records for every one they return and they are given two months in which to place orders. A more generous return proposition has never before been made. All Jobbers and Dealers should carefully read the literature on the subject mailed to them. The letters are also printed in another column.

AUSTRALIAN JOBBERS IN NEW YORK.

Our Foreign Department was recently favored with a call from M. Francois Albert, of Albert & Son, Sydney, N. S. W., Australia. Albert & Son are important Jobbers of our apparatus in Sydney, and are veterans in the trade. Mr. Albert has since sailed for Europe and will spend about a month on the continent, expecting to reach home on or about January 1st, returning by way of the States. He is accompanied by Mrs. Albert and his two sons. W. J. Dean, of Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, also called on the Foreign Department last month. Mr. Dean is also a Jobber, and is spending his time in looking after his business interests in New York. During his stay he visited the Edison Laboratory at Orange and our Recording Department. Messrs. Albert and Dean being splendid reports of the business being done in Australia, and are very optimistic about the business prospects in that territory.

AN INDIANA DEALER'S CIRCULAR.

If you have a Phonograph in your home you can listen to the best of music without owning a piano or organ and paying out fifty cents per week for lessons for ten years when have your daughter go and get married and leave you without any music. Get a Phonograph and enjoy songs, both sacred and secular, funny pieces, band, orchestra, flute solos, banjo, etc. Think what it would cost you to learn all these things and then think of getting them all in one investment.

I sell Phonographs cash or payment plan. Small cash deposit and so little per week that you do not miss it. Anyone who can afford it cannot afford to be without it. And anyone can afford it with our payment system. Visit my store and rest your weary bones while we play the sweetest music you ever listened to. Everything from "Nearer My God to Thee" to rag-time selections.—Routh's Music House, Richmond, Indiana.

A copy of the letter below was mailed to every Jobber on September 25th. Jobbers desiring to return Surplus, Cutout or Defective Records should read it carefully and comply with its provisions. It covers every detail. The exchange time is too short for needless correspondence or misunderstandings.

JOBBERS' EXCHANGE PROPOSITION.

Beginning October 1st, and until October 6th, inclusive, authorized EDISON Jobbers may return, for exchange, Surplus, Cutout and Defective EDISON Standard (not Grand Opera or Concert) Records, under the following conditions:

1st. Surplus, Cutout or Defective Records must be packed in separate cases, barrels or boxes, and each package must be plainly marked, on the outside, with the shipper's name and address, number of Records contained therein, and whether they are surplus, cutout or defective. Where there is more than one package in a shipment, they must be numbered consecutively from number 1 up, and on each individual package must also be marked the total number of packages in the complete shipment. The wording of the enclosed form must be followed in marking cases.

2d. Inside of each case must be placed a packing slip containing shipper's name and address, number of Records contained therein, and whether they are surplus, cutout or defective.

3d. All shipments must be plainly addressed and made to the National Phonograph Company, Exchange Dept., Orange, N. J., and TRANSPORTATION CHARGES MUST BE PREPAID.

4th. Immediately shipment is made, a letter must be sent us addressed to "National Phonograph Co., Exchange Dept., Orange, N. J.," advising the total number of each kind (surplus, cutout and defective) Records returned, stipulating the number of cases in the complete shipment, and what each particular case, in numerical order, contains.

A prepaid Bill-of-Lading covering shipment must also be enclosed with this letter.

5th. Within 60 days from October 1st, twice the quantity of Records returned, either by a Jobber direct, or by a Dealer to be exchanged through a Jobber (see copy of letter to Dealers enclosed), must be purchased by the Jobber, or credit for those returned by the Jobber will not be allowed.

6th. CREDIT will be given the Jobbers for Records returned to us direct by Dealers, immediately an Exchange Certificate is sent the Dealer (copy of which will also be sent the Jobber), but credit will not be given the Jobber for such Records as he returns direct, until we have shipped and invoiced to him double the quantity returned by both Jobber and Dealer.

7th. All shipments made from October 1st to November 30th, inclusive, whether on orders received prior to or from October 1st to November 30th, inclusive, will apply against Records returned, but Jobbers must send us sufficient orders to enable us to make shipment of double the quantity during that time.

8th. Only genuine EDISON Standard (not Grand Opera or Concert) Records can be returned and they MUST be in EDISON cartons. Broken, cracked, worn or other make Records will NOT be accepted under any conditions.

9th. GRAND OPERA or CONCERT Records are not included in this proposition.

10th. This proposition does not include Records taken in exchange from Consumers, Slot Machine Operators or Exhibitors, and any Records of this nature, or second-hand Records, returned to us, will be absolutely refused.

11th. No deduction for Records returned can be made from any invoice or statement rendered, until Credit Bill covering the returned Records has been rendered by us.

12th. All Records returned will be given a careful examination by our inspectors, and should any be discovered that are not subject to credit under conditions outlined, or should there be any shortage in count, OUR DECISION AS TO QUANTITY TO BE CREDITED MUST BE FINAL.

13th. Any Records returned after October 6th, WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED BUT RETURNED AT YOUR EXPENSE.

IMPORTANT. If all the Terms, Conditions and Stipulations contained in this proposition are not fully agreed to and carried out by the Jobber, we reserve the right to reject any and all Records he may return and to hold them subject to his order, or return them to him at our option.

C. H. WILSON,
General Manager of Sales.

September 25, 1906.

A copy of the letter below was mailed to every Dealer on September 25th. Dealers desiring to return Surplus, Cutout or Defective Records should read it carefully and comply with its provisions. It covers every detail. The exchange time is too short for needless correspondence or misunderstandings.

DEALERS' EXCHANGE PROPOSITION.

Beginning October 1st, and until October 6th, inclusive, authorized EDISON Dealers may return direct to the National Phonograph Co., Exchange Department, Orange, N. J., for exchange through a Jobber, Surplus, Cutout and Defective EDISON Standard (not Grand Opera or Concert) Records, under the following conditions:

1st. All Records must be returned to the National Phonograph Company, Exchange Department, Orange, N. J.

2d. Transportation charges MUST be PREPAID.

3d. Records must be carefully packed in cases, barrels or boxes, and each package must be plainly marked on outside with name and address of shipper, and the quantity of surplus, cutout or defective Records contained therein. Where there is more than one package in shipment, they must be numbered consecutively from number 1 up, and on each individual package must also be marked the total number of packages in complete shipment. The wording of the enclosed form must be followed in marking cases.

4th. Inside of each case must be placed a packing slip containing shipper's name and address, the number of Records contained therein, and whether they are surplus, cutout or defective.

5th. Immediately shipment is made, a letter must be sent us, addressed to the National Phonograph Company, Exchange Department, Orange, N. J., advising the total number of each kind (surplus, cutout and defective) Records returned, stipulating the number of cases in complete shipment, and what each particular case, in numerical order, contained. A prepaid Bill-of-Lading must also be enclosed with this letter.

You must also fill in on triplicate Exchange Certificate, furnished herewith, the name and address of the Jobber through whom you want this exchange transaction handled.

6th. As soon as possible after your returned Records are received, they will be carefully counted and inspected and on the Exchange Certificates we will fill in the quantity of Records for which you are entitled to credit on the exchange basis, and return one of these certificates to you, send one to the Jobber whose name you have written thereon, and retain one for our own files.

7th. Upon receipt of Exchange Certificate, properly filled in and endorsed by us, you must immediately forward it to the Jobber, whose name you have indicated thereon, and with it enclose an order for at least double the quantity of Records specified in the certificate.

8th. The Jobber in whose favor your Exchange Certificate is made out, will allow you credit for the number of Records specified therein, when he makes shipment of your order.

9th. Only genuine EDISON Standard (not Grand Opera or Concert) Records can be returned, and they MUST be in EDISON cartons. Broken, cracked, wornout, or other make Records will not be accepted under any conditions.

10th. GRAND OPERA or CONCERT Records are not included in this proposition.

11th. This proposition does not include Records taken in exchange from Consumers, Slot Machine Operators or Exhibitors, and any Records of this nature, or second-hand Records, returned to us, will be absolutely refused.

12th. No Records can be returned through JOBBERS; they must ALL be shipped to the National Phonograph Company, Orange, N. J.

13th. No deduction for Records returned can be made from any invoice or statement rendered prior to or during this exchange, nor until CREDIT has been allowed by the Jobber.

14th. All Records returned will be given careful examination by our inspectors and should any be discovered that are not subject to credit under conditions outlined, or should there be any shortage in count, OUR DECISION AS TO THE QUANTITY TO BE CREDITED MUST BE FINAL.

15th. Any Records returned after October 6th, WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED, BUT RETURNED AT YOUR EXPENSE.

16th. In cases where a Dealer has signed AGREEMENT and purchased Records through us only, this Exchange Proposition will be handled by us direct along the same lines and under same Terms, Conditions, Stipulations, etc., as where they are handled through Jobbers; that is, Records must be returned to us direct, and on the Exchange Certificate our name must be filled in instead of the Jobber's. All other instructions remain the same.

IMPORTANT. If all the Terms, Conditions and Stipulations contained in this proposition are not fully agreed to and carried out by the Dealer, we reserve the right to reject any and all Records he may return and to hold them subject to his order, or return them to him at our option.

General Manager of Sales.

EDISON GOLD MOULDED RECORDS FOR DECEMBER, 1906.

While this list of Edison Gold Moulded Records includes but two selections bearing upon the Christmas season, it abounds in music of a character quite as much in keeping with the holiday spirit. The entire twenty-four numbers will make an excellent present to the owner of a Phonograph, or will provide an evening's entertainment of unusual variety and attractiveness. All of the favorite Edison artists are represented in the list, each in a selection best adapted to his or her talent.

No. 9170, "Joy to the World," by the Edison Concert Band, is our principal Christmas number. Handel's old hymn is particularly appropriate for the season, and the special arrangement by Frederick W. Ecke, director of our Concert Band, introducing the chimes, makes an effective Record. The sacred numbers by band in our catalogue are not very numerous and we predict that this one will be gladly welcomed at this Christmas time.

No. 9411, "O Leave Me Not, Dear Heart," by Harry Anthony, is a song of exceptional merit by Tito Mattei and is sung by Mr. Anthony in a thoroughly artistic manner. This selection is well known among lovers of the best in music. It is also very popular among artists of the first class. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9412, "He's a Cousin of Mine," is a coon song by Bob Roberts. When Julie Brown's lover came to call on her Sunday night he found her spooning with another man. He was offended, but she explained, "He's a cousin of mine, just a cousin of mine." When he said that the cousin didn't look like the one he met the week before she said she would send him away. As she joined her cousin the latter was heard to say, "Who is that freak?" At which Julie said, "Why he's a cousin of mine, just a cousin of mine." The song is one of the two hits being sung by Marie Cahill in "Marrying Mary." The music is by Cleis Smith and the words by A. McPherson. Mr. Roberts's voice makes every word distinctly heard, and he sings with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9413, "The Swan," by Hans Kronold, is one of Mr. Kronold's most popular 'cello solos. In his concert tours it is called for perhaps more than any other number in his extensive repertoire. The celebrated composer, Saint-Saëns, is new to our catalogue. "The Swan" is an extract from one of his famous works, entitled "Carnival of Animals," or as it is generally programmed, "Extrait du Carnaval des Animaux." Played with piano accompaniment.

No. 9414, "I'll Do Anything in the World for You," is sung by Harry MacDonough.

"Said Jill to Jack, 'If I were you,
Some brave thing you must do.'
Said Jack, 'That's true, then I'll marry you.'
That's the bravest thing a man can do."

Thus runs the new waltz song by Cobb and Edwards, writers of "If a Girl Like You Loved a Boy Like Me," and other song successes. It is a strikingly attractive air and makes an excellent Record. Mr. MacDonough sings it with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9415, "Camp Meeting Time," by Collins and Harlan, is a coon song descriptive of an old time colored camp meeting written by Egbert Van Alstyne and Harry Williams. One can almost see the tents in the woods surrounding an improvised pulpit, from which the parson is exhorting his flock to mend their ways. Mr. Collins adds a bit of clever humor in his imitation of the colored brother who wants the special prayers of the meeting in his hour of great trial. Being asked to give the cause of his trial he replied that he is about to repair a chicken-coop and build a fence around a watermelon patch for a white brother. It is real fun to hear Mr. Collins tell this incident. The singers are accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9416, "Meister's Musical Masterpiece," by Len Spencer, is an original humorous vaudeville specialty in which Herr Meister performs with his band his great masterpiece, entitled "A Crazy Man's Big Brass Band." The professor is about overcome with musical enthusiasm over the work of some of his principal soloists and incidentally his own composition. The following are some of his great instrumentalists in the order in which they appear in the Record: Schnitzer, piccolo; Meyerhof, trombone; Hoffenstein, clarinet; Herr Lochhoehler, cornet; Yungermann, tuba, and Murph, drum. Mr. Spencer impersonates Herr Meister and members of our orchestra perform on the different instruments mentioned.

No. 9417, "Iola," by the Edison Military Band, is an intermezzo on the order of "Ifiawatha." The publishers are the same that popularized that most widely known instrumental piece of recent years. Charles L. Johnson is the composer and our Edison Military Band makes a splendid Record of it.

No. 9418, "Hottentot Love Song," by Ada Jones, is one of the principal songs being sung by Marie Cahill, the star in "Marrying Mary," one of the most successful musical comedies of the season. It has "caught on" in New York and vicinity and will soon be sung and whistled all over the country. The song tells of the courtship of a Hottentot and a Zulu maid in a dime museum. It has a catchy air, with a character all its own. Miss Jones sings it in her customary delightful manner, being accompanied by the orchestra. Silvio Hein wrote the music and Benjamin Hapgood Burt wrote the words.

No. 9419, "Norma Darling," by Irving Gillette, is a new sentimental ballad that may be styled of the semi-popular kind. It is not so high class as to be uninteresting when first heard, yet not of that popular character that is short-lived. It tells a pretty little old but always new love story with a musical setting that lingers with you and that you find yourself humming unconsciously. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9420, "Two Little Sailor Boys," is sung by Harlan and Stanley. A pretty story of the devotion of two lads to each other is told in this song by Dolly Jardon (music) and Edward Madden (words). When boys at play one fell into the water and was saved by his comrade. In later years they become captains of ships, and the rescuer of his boyhood days is rescued from his sinking ship by his comrade. The voices of Mr. Harlan and Mr. Stanley blend nicely in all their duet Records and this is no exception. Made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9421, "Danube Waves Waltz," by the Edison Symphony Orchestra, is an old favorite for which there have been many calls. It was formerly listed in the old style Records, and was extremely popular for its swingy waltz rhythm and delightful tunefulness. Those who admired it in the old days will be more than pleased with it in its new dress, as well as those to whom it is new.

No. 9422, "Annie Laurie," by Marie Narelle, is another of Miss Narelle's beautifully rendered selections, made before she returned to her home in Australia. Miss Narelle's Records have been among the most successful ever made for the Phonograph. Her charming voice has endeared her to many thousand lovers of the Phonograph throughout the civilized world. Those who have heard her previous Records will appreciate how artistic this one is of that old Scotch song, "Annie Laurie."

No. 9423, "Alabama Jubilee," by Billy Washington Lee," by Arthur Collins, is a new coon song. Only a member of one race could have a name like this. This particular member is fond of the girls in spite of the fact that he has a hard working, loving wife. Her plaint against the shortcomings of her spouse is the burden of this song. The music of which was written by Harry Von Tilzer and the words by Andrew B. Sterling. In spite of the enumerations of his attentions to other girls she declares that "you ain't goin' to pick no fuss out of me." Clearly sung by Mr. Collins with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9424, "Eternity," is a beautiful sacred number by Anthony and Harrison, who know so well how to sing this kind of music. The selection is much in vogue in some New York churches for year-end services. The music is by P. P. Bliss and the words by Ellen M. H. Gates. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9425, "Persia," by the Edison Concert Band, an intermezzo by Robert Darnell, has a true oriental flavor and has already made its mark throughout the middle West. It is spreading in popularity rapidly. It is of a very tuneful and interesting character. The composer's meaning is well brought out in the rendition. The Record will doubtless be universally admired.

No. 9426, "A Chip of the Block," by Helen Trix, is a clever song about the father who raised a family of six of the good old-fashioned stock and they were all chips of the block. The two verses and chorus tell in a funny manner in what way each followed Dad's peculiarities. A feature of the Record is Miss Trix's clever whistling. She is an expert in the art and few members of the opposite sex are her equal. Made with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9427, "Your Eyes So Dear," by W. H. Thompson, is a new high-class sentimental ballad, just becoming known to those who discriminate in favor of the so-called better class of music. It has been published only a short time but is already attracting marked attention. It has doubtless come to stay as one of the standard ballads. In making the Record Mr. Thompson was accompanied by the orchestra.

No. 9428, "In the Evening by the Moonlight, Dear Louise," by Byron G. Harlan, is another well-written contribution to the numerous sentimentsl songs by Harry Von Tilzer (music) and Andrew B. Sterling (words). The old love story is here presented to the accompaniment of a delightful bit of melody. It is one of those songs so well suited to Mr. Harlan's voice and in which he has been so successful. Sung with orchestra accompaniment.

No. 9429, "Dearie," by Albert Benzler, is a bells solo with orchestra accompaniment of the widely popular and dainty sentimental ballad, entitled "Dearie." Mr. Benzler introduces a new style of bells solo in this number and one that will doubtless be much appreciated.

No. 9430, "My Mariuccia Take a Steamboat," by Billy Murray, is a comic song in Italian dialect. It is becoming very popular wherever heard. It is built on new lines, or one might call it an Italian rag-time song. Mr. Murray's words of the Record refer to "S. S. C." meaning Department Street Cleaning. It is distinctly sung by Mr. Murray with orchestra accompaniment. The music is by Al. Piantadosi and the words by George Ronklyn.

No. 9431, "Down on the Farm," by Ada Jones and Len Spencer, is a vaudeville sketch depicting a scene on the old farm at Christmas time. Numerous incidental effects which add realism to the scene are introduced, such as the sleighing and winding of the old clock, sleighbells, children's voices, Christmas horns, etc. Miss Jones also sings very appropriately, "I've Grown so Used to You," accompanied by the orchestra. Joy, sadness, pathos and mirth are intermingled, climaxing with the return of the old people's son Zeke in time to save the old farm by talking up old Skinner's mortgage—Dad's Christmas present from Zeke.

No. 9432, "Stop That Knocking at the Door," by the Edison Male Quartette, was especially arranged for our quartette. This old, old minstrel song was originally sung by the "Christy Minstrels" many years ago. It is probably new to many of the present generation. Mr. E. Winnemore wrote the words and music. We have had many requests for this selection. It was a song of great popularity in its day, and there is still in the melody that something that will make it just as popular with those who will perhaps now hear it for the first time. Sung without accompaniment.

No. 9433, "Bombasto March," by the Edison Military Band, is a stirring march to whose character its title is suggestive. The composer, O. R. Farrar, has not until now been represented in our catalogue. We are sure that he will be regarded as a welcome addition. The bass passages are easily followed and the reed embellishments give a brilliant effect to a melody which the more you hear the better you like it.

AN INTERESTING SUGGESTION.

A Western Dealer recently made the following interesting suggestion:

"Now that the fun and frolic for the Jobbers is over I make a motion that you give your talent a trip on the road some time in the near future; let them give one or two nights' entertainment in the principal cities of the country; let the Jobbers be supplied with tickets, the Dealers to buy same and sell to all wishing to buy. Get them out early enough and in this way you could almost tell what a crowd you could expect before reaching any city. Understand me, have no complimentary tickets. Let the Jobber pay as well as the retail Dealer and the customers. I have talked this matter up time and again and found it approved by all. In this way the Edison people would supersede all others in the venture and it would help the trade in many ways by gaining new customers."

If the Edison talent was under our exclusive control, like the members of a theatrical company, and could be secured from this work long enough, there is no doubt that performances such as suggested by this Dealer would be a tremendous advertising and financial success. Unfortunately most of our artists are busy with other professional work which they could not leave long enough to make such a trip.

SOMETHING DOING IN MAINE.

A double half-column advertisement of the O. L. Crosby Co., Bangor, Me., in the Bangor News on September 17th, contained the following copy of a letter written by C. H. Wilson, Manager of Sales of this company:

NATIONAL PHONOGRAPH CO.
Orange, N. J.
Edison Phonographs and Records.
31 Union Square, New York.
New York, Sept. 11, 1906.

The O. L. Crosby Company, Bangor, Maine.

Dear Sirs—We acknowledge with thanks receipt of your valued orders, through Mr. Hall, amounting in a total of 1,113 Records and 1,000 Phonographs, as follows: 85 Gems, 560 Standards, 325 Homes, 30 Triumphs.

We will endeavor to ship these orders promptly and appreciate your courteous treatment. Our business has so much increased during our increased factory facilities, the demand for both Edison Records and Phonographs has grown to such an extent that we fear we will be unable to meet it.

From a small retail Dealer in our line, you have certainly grown to be one of our largest and most important Jobbers. Your business methods, we think, are certainly good evidence, and we believe the end is not yet.

Thanking you most kindly for past patronage, and soliciting a continuance of your valued favors, we beg to remain, yours very truly,

C. H. WILSON,
Manager of Sales.

The advertisement was headed: "Thomas A. Edison wants an Edison Phonograph in Every Home in the State of Maine."

MR. SOUSA'S ATTACK.

John Philip Sousa, the well-known bandmaster, attracted much attention by an article written by him that appeared in the September issue of Appleton's Magazine, in which he bitterly attacked all mechanical music playing devices, including the Phonograph. His article provoked numerous replies from those who took issue with his views. One of the most pithy of these appeared in the musical department of the New York Evening Post of September 8th, as follows:

"Canned music" is the epithet applied by Mr. Sousa to the music made by phonographs and "piano-players." He strongly objects to it on the ground that it tends to blunt our national music sense. But it is a little difficult to see what there is to blunt in the musical sense of a nation which makes a hero of a Sousa, paying him $50,000 for a mediocre march not worth $50. The phonographs help to make life more worth living to farmers and villagers. They are not on a high aesthetic level, but neither are the Sousa pieces, which are the favorites of the phonograph audiences.

FAR SUPERIOR.

The sale of Edison Records has been fine and the demand for the coming season is promising. A mercantile house has been giving away plate machines made in Chicago with every thirty dollar purchase, and the sound of these scratchers can be heard all over town. The Edison machines are recognized by everybody as far superior in make and sound, and purchasers of other makes realize that they have made a bad investment. Every one of our customers are more than satisfied with their machines and voluntarily say they would not part with them for three times as much as they paid for them.—S. L. S. Smith, San Angelo, Texas.

PUBLISHERS OF MUSIC IN DECEMBER LIST.

The publishers of the compositions made for our December list of Records, so far as we can obtain them, are given below. Where the numbers are omitted they are either not published or we are unable to give the names of the publishers.

9411 O Lassie Me Not, Dear Heart—Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.
9412 He's a Cousin of Mine—Gotham-Attucks Music Co., New York.

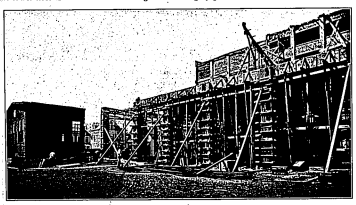
9430 My Mariuccia Take-a Steamboat—Barron & Thompson Co., New York.
9432 Bonbons March—Carl Fischer, New York.

FACTORY BUILDINGS.

We are very proud of the new concrete buildings being put up at our factory in Orange, by which the capacity of the plant will be largely increased, and we think that the Record making plant, taken about eight weeks after ground was broken. This addition is fully three times as large as the present building. It is 70 feet wide by 240 feet long and will be five stories high when completed. When

No 1. View of New Record Building, About Half Completed.



Phonograph trade generally cannot help feeling interested in the progress being made with these improvements. Accordingly, we are printing herewith some views recently taken. No. 1 is a view of the new extension to the this photograph was taken the main work on three stories was nearly done and the fourth floor had been fairly begun. This view was taken outside of the yard, from the Alden street side. In the background at the left may be seen a little of the new office building, while at the right stands the four-story frame building known as No. 20. The first floor of this building was originally occupied as a Record making plant. Part of the top floor was once the quarters of our Recording Department. Most of No. 20 is now used for storage purposes.

Cut No. 2 is a view of the addition to No. 18, or the cabinet and woodworking building. The one-story frame building at the left is part of the old office building, which was cut off at one end to make room for the concrete addition to No. 18. This new building is 120 feet long, 50 feet wide and five stories high. The building showing through the openings on the lower floor is the new office building. The men in the foreground are breaking ground for a concrete addition to No. 17, which stands alongside of No. 18. The addition to No. 17 is now well under way. It will be the same size as that to No. 18, namely 50x120 feet, and five stories high.

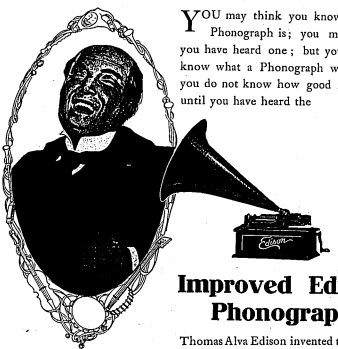
No. 3 shows a close view of the addition to No. 17, with the first story partly completed. This gives an excellent idea of the methods employed in erecting these concrete structures. The five uprights are really long boxes, made of heavy timber and strongly braced on all sides to prevent spreading. A mixture of Portland cement, cracked stone and sand is poured into these boxes from the top, forming, when set, pillars of remarkable solidity and strength. On the ground may be seen a pile of twisted steel rods. These are inserted in the moulds before the concrete is poured in.

Above the first story of this building may be seen the top story of No. 18 addition. At the left is the last section left standing of the old office building. This has since been torn down.

In some later issue of the Phonograph Monthly, when the last of the proposed new buildings and additions have been begun, we intend printing a ground plan of our factory buildings, giving our readers an adequate idea of the magnitude of the Edison factories.



A little later work will be started on addition to No. 1, another building standing parallel to Nos. 17 and 18. The three additions will stand fifty feet apart and be joined at the Lakeside avenue side by connecting buildings 50x60 feet in size. These three additions will form a letter E, the upright stem representing a length of 250 feet and the arms 120 feet long by 50 feet in thickness.

WHAT A FURNITURE DEALER THINKS.

We began handling your goods last January, placing an order for three machines and 150 Records and the business has proven a great success from the start. At this writing we have just completed a Record cabinet to accommodate 7,500 Records, this being necessary to carry on the business at its present proportion. We have sold as much as $2,000 worth of your goods in one month. I consider it a fine line to carry with the furniture business.—E. Dulitz, Galveston, Texas.

WELL SATISFIED.

I am well satisfied with handling Edison goods. They are receiving praise from all who hear them. A number of people who have disk machines, after hearing the Edison, are selling theirs to buy Edisons. I wish I had capital enough to go into the business exclusively.—Frank Schultz, North Oakland, Pa.

YOU may think you know what a Phonograph is; you may think you have heard one; but you do not know what a Phonograph will do—you do not know how good it can be until you have heard the

Improved Edison Phonograph

Thomas Alva Edison invented the Phonograph idea. The Edison is his own best development of the Phonograph idea. It possesses the marvelous quality of giving you "your kind of music" better—that is clearer, more entertainingly, more musically—than any other talking, singing or playing machine. "Your kind;" that is the keynote of the Edison Phonograph. You don't have to learn to like it. It plays what you like.
